person suing, the other half to the use of the township aforesaid. When two or more persons shall be concerned in the same trespass, they shall be jointly and severally liable for the penalty herein imposed. Every trespasser upon common school lands shall be liable to indictment, and upon conviction, fined in three times the amount of the injury occasioned by said trespass, and shall stand committed as in other cases of misdemeanor. All penalties and fines collected under the provisions of this section, shall be paid to the township treasurer, and be added to the principal of the township fund; and all other fines, penalties and forfeitures imposed or incurred in any of the circuit courts of this State, or collected by justices of the peace or other county officers, except fines collected in incorporated towns or cities, for the violation of the by-laws or ordinances of said towns or cities, shall be paid to the school commissioner of the county where such fines, penalties and forfeitures have been collected, and the same shall be distributed by said commissioner in the same manner as the common school funds of the State are distributed; and if any county officer or justice of the peace aforesaid shall fail or refuse to pay as aforesaid, after collection, such officer or justice of the peace so failing or refusing to pay as aforesaid, shall forfeit and pay double the amount of such fine, penalty or forfeiture as aforesaid, collected by him, to be recovered before any court having jurisdiction, in a civil action, at the suit of the school commissioner.

SEC. LXXXVI. When the inhabitants of any township or fractional township shall desire the sale of any of the common school lands of the township or fractional township, they shall present a petition to the school commissioner of the county in which the school lands of the township or the greater part thereof, lie, for the sale thereof; which petition shall be signed by at least two-thirds of the white male inhabitants of the township or fractional township, of and over twenty-one years of age. The signing of the petition must be in the presence of two citizens of the township, after the true meaning thereof shall have been explained; and when signed, an affidavit shall be affixed thereto, by the two citizens, proving the signing in the manner aforesaid, and stating the number of white male inhabitants in the township or fractional township, of and over twenty-one years of age; and said petition, so proved, shall be delivered to the school commissioner for his action thereon: Provided, That no whole section shall be sold in any township containing less than fifty inhabitants; and common school lands in fractional townships may be sold when the number of inhabitants and number of acres are in the ratio of fifty to six hundred and forty, but not before.

SEC. LXXXVII. When the petition and affidavits are delivered to the school commissioner as aforesaid, he shall notify the trustees of said township thereof, and said trustees shall immediately proceed to divide the land into tracts or lots of such form and quantity as will produce the largest amount of money; and after making such division, a correct plan of the same shall be made, representing all divisions, with each lot numbered and defined, so that its boundaries may be forever ascertained. Said trustees shall then fix a value on each lot, having regard to the terms of sale, certify to the correctness of the plat, stating the value of each lot per acre, or per lot, if less than one acre, and referring to and describing the lot in the certificate, so as fully and clearly to distinguish and identify each lot; which plats and certificate shall be delivered to the school commissioner, and shall govern him in advertising and selling said lands.

SEC. LXXXVIII. In subdividing common school lands for sale, no lot shall contain more than eighty acres, and the division may be made into town or village lots, with roads, streets or alleys between them and through the same; and all such divisions, with all similar divisions hereafter made, are hereby declared legal; and all such roads, streets and alleys, public highways.

SEC. LXXXIX. The terms of selling common school lands shall be to the highest bidder, for cash, with the privilege to each purchaser of borrowing from the school commissioner the amount of his bid, for any period not less than one nor more than five years, upon his paying interest and giving security, as in case of money loaned by township treasurer, as provided in this act.

SEC. XC. The place of selling common school lands shall be at the court-house of the county in which the lands are situated; or the trustees of schools may direct the sale to be made on the premises; and upon the reception by the school commissioner of the plat and certificate of valuation from the trustees, he shall proceed to advertise the said land for sale, in lots as divided and laid off by said trustees, by posting notices thereof in at least six public places in the county, forty days next anterior to the day of sale, describing the land, and stating the time, terms and place of sale; and if any newspaper is published in said county, said advertisement shall be printed therein for four weeks before the day of sale; if none, then it shall be sold under the notice aforesaid.

SEC. XCI. Upon the day appointed, the school commissioner shall proceed to make sales, as follows, viz.: he shall begin at the lowest number of lots, and proceed regularly to the highest, till all are sold or offered. No lot shall be sold for less than its valuation by the trustees. Sales shall be made between the hours of ten o'clock A. M., and six o'clock P. M., and may continue from day to day. The lots shall be cried separately, and each lot cried long enough to enable any one present to bid who desires it.

SEC. XCII. Upon closing the sales each day, the purchasers shall each pay or secure the payment of the purchase money, according to the terms of sale; or in case of his failure to do so by ten o'clock the succeeding day, the lot purchased shall be again offered at public sale, on the same terms as before, and if the valuation or more shall be bid, shall be stricken off; but if the valuation be not bid, the lot shall be set down as not sold. If the sale is or is not made, the former purchaser shall be required to pay the difference between his bid and the valuation of the lot; and in case of his failing to make such payment, the school commissioner may forthwith institute an action of debt or assumpsit, in his name, as commissioner, for the use of the inhabitants of the township where the land lies, for the required sum; and upon making proof, shall be entitled to judgment, with costs of suit; which, when collected, shall be added to the principal of the township fund. And if the amount claimed does not exceed one hundred dollars, the suit may be instituted before a justice of the peace; but if more than that sum, then in the circuit court of any county wherein the party may be found.

SEC. XCIII. All lands not sold at public sale, as herein provided for, shall be subject to sale at any time thereafter, at the valuation; and school commissioners are authorized and required, when in their power, to sell all such lands at private sale, upon the terms at which they are offered at public sale.

SEC. XCIV. In all cases where common school lands have been heretofore valued, and have remained unsold for two years after having been offered for sale, or shall hereafter remain unsold that length of time, after being valued and offered for sale in conformity to this act, the trustees of schools where such lands are situated may vacate the valuation thereof, by an order to be entered on book A, of the school commissioner, and cause a new valuation to be made, if, in their opinion, the interests of the township will be promoted thereby. They shall make said second valuation in the same manner as the first was made, and shall deliver to the school commissioner a plat of such second valuation, with the order of vacation to be entered as aforesaid; whereupon said school commissioner shall proceed in selling said lands in all respects as if no former valuation had been made: Provided, That the second valuation may be made by the trustees of schools without petition, as provided in this act.

SEC. XCV. Upon the completion of every sale by the purchaser, the school commissioner shall enter the same on book B, and shall deliver to the purchaser a certificate of purchase, stating therein the name and residence of the purchaser, describing the land and the price paid therefor; which certificate shall be evidence of the facts therein stated.

SEC. XCVI. At the first regular term of the county court in each year, the school commissioner shall present to the court of his county, first, a statement showing the sales of school lands made subsequent to the first regular term of the previous year, which shall be a true copy of the sale book, (book B); second, statements of the amount of money received, paid, loaned out, and on hand, belonging to each township or fund under his control, the statement of each fund to be separate; third, statements copied from his loan book, (book C,) showing all the facts in regard to loans which are required to be stated upon the loan book; all of which the county court shall thereupon examine and compare with the vouchers, and the county court, or so many of them as may be present at the term of the court, shall be liable individually to the fund injured, and to the securities of said school commissioner, in case judgment be recovered of said securities, for all damages occasioned by a neglect of the duties, or any of them, required of them by this section: Provided, Nothing herein contained shall be construed to exempt the securities of said school commissioner from any liability as such securities, but they shall still be liable to the fund injured, the same as if the county commissioners were not liable.

SEC. XCVII. The school commissioner shall also, at the time aforesaid, transmit to the auditor of public accounts, a full and exact transcript from book B, of all the sales made subsequent to each report. The statement in section ninety-six (96) hereof, required to be presented to the county court, shall be preserved and copied by the clerk of said court into a well-bound book, kept for that purpose, and the list transmitted to the auditor shall be filed, copied and preserved in like manner.

SEC. XCVIII. Every purchaser of common school land shall be entitled to a patent from the State, conveying and assuring the title. Patents shall be made out by the auditor from returns made to him by the school commissioner. They shall contain a description of the land granted; and shall be in the name of and signed by the governor, countersigned by the auditor, with the great seal of the State affixed thereto by the secretary of State, and shall operate to vest in the purchaser a perfect title in fee simple. When patents are executed as herein required, the auditor shall note on the list of sales the date of each patent, in such manner as to perpetuate the evidence of its date and delivery, and thereupon transmit the same to the school commissioner of the proper county, to be by him delivered to the patentee, his heirs or assigns, upon the return of the original certificate of purchase; which certificate, when returned, shall be filed and preserved by the school commissioner.

SEC. XCIX. Purchasers of common school lands, and their heirs and assigns, may obtain duplicate copies of their certificates of purchase, and of patents, upon filing affidavit with the school commissioner in respect to certificates, and with the auditor in respect to patents, proving the loss or destruction of the originals; and such copies shall have all the force and effect of the originals.

SEC. C. An act entitled "An act to establish and maintain common schools," approved February 12, 1849; an act to amend said act, approved February 12, 1851; an act entitled "An act to increase the school fund," approved February 10, 1853; and all other acts and parts of acts coming in conflict with the provisions of this act, are hereby repealed. This act to be in force from and after its passage.

SEC. CI. The public printer is hereby required to print thirty thousand copies of this act, under the direction of the secretary of State, who shall first make a perfect index hereto, to be distributed by him according to population among the several counties of the State, and deposited with school commissioners, to be distributed by them to the directors of the boards of education and township treasurers, for the use of the different officers under this law.

DECISIONS. Judgment for prospective interest cannot be rendered, under the statute regulating the amount of interest to be paid by a delinquent borrower of school funds. Pearsons v. Hamilton, 1 S. 415.

The 20 per cent. interest, which delinquent borrowers of school funds are required to pay, under the statute of 1835, is in the nature of a penalty, and should be claimed in the declaration. Hamilton v. Wright, 1 S. 582; Russell et al. v. Hamilton, 2 S. 56.

In an action by the commissioner of school lands, for the use of the inhabitants of a township, the inhabitants of that township cannot be jurors. Russell et al. v. Hamilton, 2 S. 56.

"A." may maintain an action in his individual name, on a note payable to "A.," school commissioner, &c., and he may bring suit by petition and summons, and recover interest, without specially claiming in the declaration the rate of interest specified in the note.

Under the school laws, the school commissioner is the legal agent to receive patents both for the State and the purchaser; and when patents are delivered to him, under the law, the State is divested of the title and it is vested in the purchaser. When lands were sold by the school commissioner for one-fourth cash, and the balance on a credit of one, two and three years, and a certificate given, stipulating that patents should issue to the purchasers, on full payment, it was held, that the certificate did not affect the provisions of the act of 1829, requiring the auditor to forward the patents on receiving the returns of the school commissioner, nor restrain him from issuing them before the expiration of the term of credit. The assignee of a certificate of purchase of school land, assigned after the issue of the patent to the original purchaser, is not entitled, under the act of 1837, to receive the patent in his own name. The People v. The Auditor, 2 S. 567.

In an action on the bond of a school commissioner, for the benefit of a township, the breach alleged that the commissioner had not paid a certain amount to the trustees of that township; it was held, that the treasurer, and not the trustees of the township, is entitled to receive the money. When a township has been incorporated, the money received for the sale of its school lands must be paid to the treasurer. County Commissioners of Greene County v. Smith et al., 3 S. 227.

The General Assembly has power to authorize a sale of school sections, and a note given to a school commissioner, therefore, is for a good and valuable consideration. If the consent of the inhabitants of a township is necessary to a sale of its school lands, that consent is provided for in the statute, requiring a petition for its sale to be signed by three-fourths of the white male adults. Bradley v. Case, 3 S. 585.

Commissioners of school lands may sell school lands in town lots or other subdivisions, and a note given therefor is founded on a good and valuable consideration. The act of 1833, allowing a credit on the sale of school lands, is only permissive, and a purchaser cannot object that the terms, of sale were cash or credit, at the option of the buyer. Barger et al. v. Jones, 3 S. 613.

A note made to a school commissioner, may be sued in the name of his successor in office, under the act of Feb. 26, 1841. Mandove v. McHatten et al., 4 S. 95.

Under the laws of this State, a township incorporated for common school purposes, is quasi a public corporation, and the General Assembly may change, enlarge, restrain or abolish it, and exercise control over its money and property for the use of those to whom it belongs; may direct how school funds shall be loaned, upon what security, at what rate of interest, in what currency they may be received, and by whom applied. A tender of bills of the State Bank, for a debt due the school fund of a township, made before the issuing of the proclamation of the governor, &c., forbidding their reception, is good, and may be pleaded in bar of an action for recovery. Bush v. Shipman et al., 4 S. 186. See also, Keyes v. Jasper, 4 S. 305.

Money in the hands of a school commissioner, on retiring from office, should be delivered over specifically, or in funds of equivalent value, to his successor. Hamilton et al. v. Cook County, 4 S. 519.

The inhabitants of a township are not answerable for false representations made by a school commissioner, at a sale of school lands, when he exceeds his legal authority in making such representations. Cook et al. v. School Commissioner, 1 G. 537.

A school commissioner was appointed in 1834, and gave bond with sureties. He continued in office from 1834 to 1839, giving bond each year with different sureties. When he went out of office he had not disbursed any of the fund, nor did he pay over to his successor. In a suit on the bond of 1837, it was held, that the commissioner was not re-appointed each year, but had a continuing term of office, and that the sureties of the bond of 1837, were liable for the money in his hands during that year. Miller et al. v. Macopin County, 2 G. 50.

Under the act of Jan. 12, 1833, the inhabitants of a township may determine whether their school lands shall be sold on credit, but the terms of the credit are left to the commissioner, and he may contract with the buyer for the payment of interest. Kidder v. Trustees, &c., 5 G. 191.

A debtor to the school fund paid the amount due to a school commissioner, after his removal from office, and knowing such removal: Held, that the successor of the commissioner could recover of the debtor. Jameson v. Conway, 5 G. 227.

A school commissioner who loans school money on real estate security, and who, not using due caution by examining the public records, takes as security property to which the borrower has no title, is liable, on his bond, for the full amount of the loan, with interest in arrear. The People v. Haines et al., 5 G. 528.

If a commissioner sell school land without mortgage security, as the law requires, the lien on the land is not lost, and may within a reasonable time be enforced, against subsequent purchasers with notice. School Trustees v. Wright et al., 12 Ill. 432.

A school commissioner, who is required by law to take real security of treble the value of the sum loaned, performs his duty when he takes the best means of learning the value of the security, and therefore believes it sufficient. He would be liable if he did not believe the security adequate, or was guilty of negligence in informing himself. Greene County v. Bledsoe, 12 Ill. 267.

The ordinance of 1818, granting section 16 in each township for the use of schools, does not secure to the inhabitants a ferry franchise. Trustees of schools are public corporations, controllable by the General Assembly, and a ferry or other franchise to such a corporation, may be changed or destroyed, as public good requires, so that their property is not diverted from its uses and objects. The sale and title of school lots to one having a ferry franchise thereon, would not be affected by a forfeiture of the franchise. Trustees of Schools, &c. v. Tatman, 13 Ill. 27.

Under the school law of 1849, a teacher is entitled to no portion of the school fund, unless before the commencement of the school, he obtain the certificate of qualification, and present it to the school directors. Casey v. Baldridge et al., 15 Ill. 65.

Under the act of Feb. 12, 1849, it is essential to the legality of a school tax, that it be certified to the clerk of the county, on the day required by law. The General Assembly may remedy defects in such tax law, while the tax is yet uncollected. Cougill et al. v. Long, 15 Ill. 202.

The penalty of 20 per cent. imposed by the school laws, is imposed only on the borrower, must be specially declared for, is no part of the contract of loan, and is not assignable. Bradley v. Snyder et al., 14 Ill. 263.

The school law of Feb. 12, 1849, includes two classes of cases; one where interest is due and unpaid, and one where principal is due and unpaid. In the first case, the amount of unpaid interest bears interest at the rate of 12 per cent. per annum, and may be sued for and recovered in a separate action. In the other case, the principal bears interest at the rate of 12 per cent. per annum from the time it becomes due. Trustees of Schools v. Bibb, 14 Ill. 371.

SECTION I. Whenever any sheriff or coroner shall be elected for any county in this State, and return of the votes made to the secretary of State, the governor shall commission such sheriff or coroner to continue in office for two years, which commission shall be transmitted by the secretary of State, to the clerk of the circuit court of the proper county, whose duty it shall be to give immediate notice to such sheriff or coroner of the receipt of his commission.

If any sheriff or coroner, elected as aforesaid, shall neglect or refuse to enter into bond and take the oaths above required, within the time above specified, or if any bond, approved by the clerk as aforesaid, shall be disapproved by the judge of the circuit court, and such sheriff or coroner shall not, during the term of the court, procure such security as the judge shall approve, in all such cases, the office should be deemed vacant; and the clerk shall immediately notify the governor of such vacancy; and it shall be the duty of the governor to issue a writ of election, and direct the time of holding the same; which election shall be proceeded in, as in other cases of election.

SEC. V. It shall be the duty of every sheriff and coroner, when qualified as aforesaid, to execute and return all writs, warrants, process, orders and decrees of every description, that shall or may be legally directed and delivered to him, within the limits of his county, under pain of contempt of the court from which such writ, warrant, process, order or decree may have issued; and for the service of such process, and for keeping the peace, such sheriff or coroner may call to his aid the power of the county when necessary.

SEC. VI. The several sheriffs and coroners shall be conservators of the peace in their respective counties, and keep the same, by causing all offenders, on view, to be committed to prison, and to enter into recognizance to keep the peace, and appear at the next circuit court, and shall return all such recognizances to the next circuit court; and it shall also be the duty of all sheriffs and coroners to suppress all riots, routs, affrays, fightings, and all crimes and breaches of the peace, and to do and perform all such other duties as are or may be required of them by law.

SEC. VII. It shall be the duty of the sheriff of each county, to attend all circuit courts and courts of county commissioners, in his county, at the terms and sessions of such courts; and he shall have the custody and care of the court-house and jail.

SEC. VIII. Whenever the office of any sheriff or coroner shall have expired by the constitutional term of two years, it shall be lawful for the same person, whether re-elected or not, and his deputy or deputies, to continue to perform all the duties of sheriff, until his successor shall be commissioned and qualified, as is hereinbefore required. And whenever any sheriff shall go out of office, and his successor in office shall be qualified as aforesaid, the clerk of the circuit court shall issue a notice in writing, stating that the sheriff elect has been commissioned and qualified according to law; which notice shall be served by the new sheriff, and the former sheriff shall thereupon transfer and deliver to the new sheriff, all the writs process and papers belonging to his office, except as is hereinafter excepted; and also the possession of the court-house and jail of his county; and shall take from the new sheriff a receipt, specifying the papers so delivered over, and the prisoners in custody, if any; which receipt shall be sufficient indemnity to the person taking the same.

SEC. IX. Every sheriff going out of office, at the expiration of his term, and having any writ of feri facias or fee bill, which he may have levied, but not collected, or any tax list uncollected, shall be and is hereby authorized to proceed on and collect such execution, fee bill or tax list, in the same manner, as if his term of office had not expired; and any sheriff who has heretofore, or who may hereafter pay and advance the taxes assessed against any person, may proceed to collect the amount of money so paid and advanced, in the same manner, to his own use, as if no payment had been made.

SEC. X. It shall be lawful for any sheriff to appoint a deputy or deputies; which appointment shall be in writing, filed in the office of the clerk of the circuit court, and entered of record; and any deputy when so appointed, and having taken and subscribed the several oaths required to be taken by the sheriff, shall be and is hereby authorized to perform any and all of the duties required of the sheriff in the name of the sheriff; and the sheriff shall be liable for any neglect or omission of the duties of his office, when occasioned by any such deputy, in the same manner as for his own personal neglect or omission. And any bond or security taken by any sheriff from his deputy, to indemnify such sheriff, shall be good and available in law.

SEC. XI. No sheriff, deputy sheriff or coroner, shall become the purchaser, nor procure any other person to become the purchaser for him, of any property, real or personal, by him exposed to sale by virtue of any execution or other process; and all such purchases made by any sheriff or coroner, or by any other person in his behalf, shall be absolutely null and void.

SEC. XII. No sheriff or deputy sheriff shall be eligible to the office of county treasurer; nor shall any county treasurer be permitted to act as deputy sheriff or collector.

SEC. XIII. The clerk of the circuit court in any county in this State, on the application of the plaintiff in any judgment on which an execution can properly be issued, and an affidavit being filed by such plaintiff, his agent or attorney, that the sheriff has failed to pay over money collected by him on any previous execution in favor of the same plaintiff, or any other person, on demand made therefor by the plaintiff in such previous execution, his agent or attorney, shall issue execution on such judgment, directed to the coroner of the county, who shall be authorized and required to perform all duties in relation to said execution, which the sheriff is authorized and required to perform, where the execution is directed to him.

SEC. XIV. It shall be the duty of each and every sheriff in this State, to make a settlement with the county commissioners' court of his county, for the taxes and moneys by him collected, or due the county, at the June term of such court, annually; and he shall settle and account with the auditor of public accounts, for all taxes and public moneys due the State, as required by law. And if any person shall hereafter be elected sheriff of any county in this State, who has been sheriff of any county of this State, and who shall, at the time of his election, be in arrear to the State or county for taxes, or other public money, such person shall not be commissioned; and where any such former sheriff shall be elected, and shall not, within thirty days after his election, produce to the governor a quietus from the proper officer of his county, and from the auditor of public accounts, for all moneys or revenue with which he shall be, at the time, chargeable, or a certificate of his having tendered the amount, the governor shall order a new election. as in case of neglect to qualify, or refusal to serve.

SEC. XV. If any sheriff or coroner shall neglect or refuse to pay over any money collected by virtue of any execution, process or fee bill, to any person entitled to receive the same, or shall willfully neglect the duty of his office, to the prejudice or injury of any person or persons, such person or persons may prosecute the bond of such sheriff or coroner; and the same proceedings shall be had thereon as in other cases of bonds for the performance of covenants; and after judgment had, any person injured, and who would be entitled to sue on said bond, on application as aforesaid, may obtain a writ of inquiry of damages on such judgment; and in every case when damages shall be assessed, execution shall be issued for the amount of such damages and costs, and collected for the use of the injured party; or upon the failure of any sheriff or coroner, after demand made, to pay over any money by him collected by virtue of any execution, process or fee bill, to any person entitled to receive the same, such person may proceed against such sheriff or coroner, in a summary way, before the circuit court, by motion, upon giving to such officer ten days' notice of the application, and recover the amount so neglected to be paid, with ten per cent. damages thereon, for such detention, and shall have execution therefor: Provided. That in all such cases, if the sheriff shall pay or satisfy the amount claimed by the party prosecuting, with costs, under the direction of the court, before final judgment, or in any subsequent prosecution before inquest found, all further proceedings on such bond or judgment, shall be stayed by the court.

SEC. XVI. If any sheriff shall fail to settle with and pay over to the county commissioners' court according to law, any money which he may have collected or received, belonging to such county, it shall be lawful for the county commissioners of such county to proceed against such sheriff, in a summary way, before the circuit court, by motion, upon giving such sheriff ten days' notice of such application, and recover the amount due such county, with ten per cent. damages thereon, for such neglect, and shall have execution therefor; or may proceed against such sheriff and his securities for such delinquency, upon his bond of office.

SEC. XVII. If any sheriff shall fail or neglect to settle with the auditor of public accounts, according to law, and pay over all money due to the State from such sheriff, it shall be the duty of the auditor to proceed against such sheriff, by motion, either in the supreme court or in the circuit court of the county where such sheriff shall reside, upon giving to such sheriff, if the motion be made in the supreme court, twenty days' notice of the application, or ten days' notice, if made in the circuit court; and recover judgment against such sheriff for the amount he may owe the State, with ten per cent. damages thereon, and have execution therefor; or may proceed in either court aforesaid, against such sheriff and his securities, upon his bond of office.

SEC. XVIII. In cases of a vacancy in the office of sheriff, by death, resignation, removal or otherwise, the coroner shall do and perform all the duties pertaining to the office of sheriff, receive the proper fees and emoluments, and be liable to the same penalties and proceedings, as if he were sheriff, until such vacancy shall be filled, by the election and qualification of a new sheriff; and it shall be the duty of the several coroners in this State, to execute all process within their respective counties in all cases where just exception can be taken to the sheriff or his deputy or deputies, or where there is no sheriff; and in all cases, upon affidavit made and filed with the clerk of any court of record in this State, of the partiality, prejudice, consanguinity or interest of the sheriff, or of the deputy of the sheriff, of any county where suit is about to be brought, or shall have been commenced, it shall be the duty of the clerk to issue and direct original or other process in the suit, to the coroner, who shall execute the same and attend to the suit throughout, in the same manner as the sheriff would or ought to have done. And hereafter, the partiality, prejudice, consanguinity or interest of any sheriff, or of any deputy sheriff, shall not be cause for a change of venue, but the coroner shall perform the duties as above prescribed; or if there shall be no coroner, an elisor, to be appointed by the clerk, shall supply the place of the sheriff, in like manner as the coroner is hereby required to do.

SEC. XIX. Every coroner, as soon as and whenever he shall be informed or know of the body of any person being found dead, (supposed to have come to his or her death by violence, casualty or any undue means,) shall forthwith proceed to summon a jury of twelve good and lawful men, of the neighborhood wherein said dead body shall be found lying or being, to repair at such time as he shall direct, to the place as aforesaid and to inquire (upon a view of said body,) how and in what manner, and by whom or what he or she came by his or her death; and in case any juror or jurors, so summoned, shall fail, neglect or refuse to attend, the said coroner shall summon another or others, from among the by-standers, to serve in his or their place. And every person so summoned as a juror, and failing, neglecting or refusing to appear at the time and place required, without having a reasonable excuse for such failure, &c., shall forfeit the sum of two dollars to the county, to be recovered before any justice of the peace of said county, on the certificate of the coroner, that he failed, &c., without a reasonable excuse to him made therefor.

SEC. XX. As soon as the said jurors shall have assembled at the place where the said dead body may be lying or being, the coroner shall designate one of the number as foreman, and administer to him an oath in the following form, to wit:

"You, as foreman to this inquest, do solemnly swear (or affirm, as the case may require,) that you will diligently inquire, and true presentment make, how, in what manner, and by whom or what, the body which here lies dead, came to its death; and that you will deliver to me, the coroner of this county, a true inquest thereof, according to such evidence as shall be given you, and according to the best of your knowledge and belief: so help you God."

And to the other jurors, one as follows, to wit:

"The same oath which A. B., your foreman, has just now taken on his part, you and each of you do solemnly swear (or affirm, as the case may require,) to keep, on your respective parts: so help you God."

And it shall be the duty of the jurors, as sworn as aforesaid, to inquire how, in what manner, and by whom or what, the same body came to its death, and of all other facts of and concerning the same, together with all material circumstances in anywise related to or connected with the said death, and make up and sign a verdict, and deliver the same to the coroner.

SEC. XXI. The said coroner shall have power to summon, or cause to be summoned, and compel the attendance of all such witnesses whose testimony may probably be requisite to the proving of any fact or circumstance relating to the object of such his inquest, and to administer to such witnesses the proper oath. And if the evidence of any witness shall implicate any person or persons, as the unlawful slayer of the person over whom the said inquisition shall be held, the said coroner shall reduce said evidence to writing, and cause the same to be subscribed by the witness so giving it; and shall further recognize any such witness in such sum as he may think proper, to be and appear at the next term of the circuit court for the said county, there to give evidence of the matter in question, and not depart without leave. And if any witness shall refuse to enter into such recognizance, it shall be the duty of said coroner to commit the witness so refusing to the common jail of the county, there to remain until the next term of the circuit court; and the coroner shall carefully seal up and return to the clerk of the circuit court for the county, the verdict of the jury, the evidence so taken and subscribed, and the recognizances, &c.; and it shall be the duty of the clerk to carefully file and preserve the same.

SEC. XXII. If, at any inquisition held under the authority of this chapter, any person or persons shall be implicated with the unlawful slaying, or with the aiding and assisting in the unlawful slaying of the body in question, it shall be the duty of the coroner to apprehend and commit, or cause to be apprehended and committed, him, her or them, to the common jail of the county, there to remain until discharged by due course of law.

SEC. XXIII. The coroner, as soon as the verdict of the jury shall have been rendered, shall take immediate measures to bury the body which may have been the object of the inquest; the expense attending the burial to be paid out of the deceased person's estate, if sufficient there be, if not, by the county. And if there shall be found on or about the said body, any money, papers, goods or other valuable thing or things, the said coroner shall, giving ten days' notice of the time and place, proceed to sell the same, if goods, and deposit the proceeds of such sale, together with all papers and money so found, in the county treasury, (taking the treasurer's receipt therefor,) there to remain, subject to the order of the legal representatives of the said deceased, if claimed any time within five years thereafter; and should such money or other thing, not be claimed within the time aforesaid, then the same to vest in the county: Provided, That nothing herein contained, shall prevent the whole or any part of said moneys being liable to the payment of the coroner's fees or funeral expenses: Provided, however, This section shall not extend to any person, except he shall have been a stranger or a non-resident.

SEC. XXIV. In the case of the absence of the coroner, any magistrate, being certified of any dead body, as before mentioned, shall be authorized to perform the duties of the coroner, as pointed out by this chapter.

SEC. XXV. When the sheriff or other officer shall execute a deed for lands or tenements, which he may have sold by virtue of any execution, it shall be his duty to acknowledge the same before the clerk of the court whence it issued, or in open court, unless it issued from the supreme court, in which case the acknowledgment may be made before the clerk of any county commissioners' or circuit court; and the clerk's certificate of such acknowledgment shall be deemed prima facie evidence of the execution thereof.

SEC. XXVI. When any sheriff or other officer shall go out of office, not having made a deed for any lands or tenements, which he may have sold, by virtue of any execution, it shall be lawful for him, his successors in office, or if he be dead, for his successor, his executor or administrator, to make and acknowledge a deed for the same; and in no case shall the death of a sheriff take away or suspend the powers of the deputy sheriff of such sheriff; but such deputy may do all acts and things which he could have done, had the sheriff remained in full life, until his powers be superseded by the appointment of a principal sheriff.

SEC. XXVII. If any sheriff, coroner or other officer, shall fail, on demand made by the complainant, his executors, administrators or lawful attorney, to pay over any money collected by virtue of any execution, process or fee bill, not exceeding one hundred dollars, it shall be lawful for the party so aggrieved, or by his lawful attorney, to commence an action against such sheriff, coroner or other officer, and his securities, by summons, before any justice of the peace; and if, upon hearing the case, it shall appear to such justice of the peace, that money has been collected upon such execution, process or fee bill, and not paid over to the party entitled to the same, on demand made as aforesaid; and if it shall appear further, that the defendant or defendants sued with the sheriff or other officer, are his securities, by the production of the original bond or a certified copy thereof, of the sheriff, coroner or other officer, under the hand and seal of the clerk of the county commissioners' court, the said justice shall proceed to render judgment against said defendants for the amount so received by said sheriff or other officer, belonging to the plaintiff, with ten per cent. interest thereon.

SEC. XXVIII. And upon rendition of such judgment, execution, when application is made by the plaintiff, or his or her agent or attorney, shall issue forthwith against such sheriff or other officer and his securities, as in other cases; subject, however, to be appealed by either party, under the same rules and regulations as is provided for in other cases of judgments of justices of the peace.

DECISIONS. The ten per cent. damages given by the 14th section of the act of 1827, respecting sheriffs and coroners, is a different remedy from that given by the 30th section of the practice act of 1827; and the plaintiff in execution may avail himself of either. Beard v. Foreman, 1 S. 40.

Under the act of Feb. 12, 1827, the clerk of a circuit court acts under the law, and ministerially, in receiving and filing the bond of a sheriff, and administering to him the oaths of office; and these acts may be done in or out of court. By the same statute, the thirty days allowed the sheriff to give bond and take the oath, are to be computed from the time of the notice given him by the clerk; and this, whether a term of court intervene or not. The People v. Fletcher, 2 S. 482.

By the statute of 1827, concerning sheriffs and coroners, the sheriff's bond is valid, until disapproved by the court; and such disapproval would vacate the office, but not make void the bond. Davis v. Haydon et al., 3 S. 35.

The law of 1827, which provides that in case of the death of the sheriff, the coroner shall act as sheriff, does not repeal the law of 1825, which provides that the power of the deputy sheriff to act shall not be taken away by the death of the sheriff, but shall continue till the appointment of a new sheriff. McCluskey v. McNeely, 3 G. 578.

By section 18, chapter 99, Rev. Stat. 1845, a coroner may go on and finish the execution of process directed to a sheriff, as a new sheriff might who succeeds the old one by election. Greenup v. State, 12 Ill. 25.

CHAPTER C.

SHOWS AND JUGGLERS.

SECTION

1. No shows to be exhibited, or tricks, &c., performed, unless free of charge, until county commissioners' court grant license; forfeiture for neglecting.

SECTION

2. Justices of the peace to issue capias for offender, on the complaint, or oath, of county commissioner, treasurer, or any citizen of a county.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 520.]

SECTION I. No person or persons shall be permitted to exhibit any shows, wax figures, or perform any feats, such as circus riding or exhibitions, or any thing of the like nature, or perform any tricks, such as are played by persons generally known by the name of thimble players, rope and wire dancers, sleight of hand, with cards or cups and balls, unless the same be shown and performed by such person or persons without fee, charge or compensation therefor; either directly or indirectly; and if any person or persons shall wish to show, exhibit or perform, as above stated, and charge therefor, he or they shall, previous thereto, apply to the treasurer of the county, who shall direct what sum shall be paid therefor, not less than five nor more than one hundred dollars for the term of time agreed on, which shall not exceed two weeks in the county; and on payment of the sum required, the treasurer shall give a receipt therefor, which shall be presented to the clerk of the commissioners' court of the county; and on payment of fifty cents fee to said clerk, he shall give a permit to such person, to show, exhibit and perform as aforesaid, for the time agreed on by the treasurer, and the said clerk shall file said receipt and charge the treasurer with the sum received into the county treasury; and if any person or persons shall exhibit any shows, wax figures, circus riding performances, or any such thing, or perform and play any such tricks as above described, and shall charge and exact, or in any manner receive compensation therefor, and shall not have obtained a permit so to do, such person or persons shall forfeit and pay, for each and every such offense, any sum not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars, to be recovered by action of debt before any justice of the peace of the county, in the name of the county commissioners or county treasurer, for the use of the county, with costs of prosecution.

SEC. II. If complaint be made on oath, in writing, by a county commissioner, treasurer or any citizen of the county, that any person or persons (naming them) are in the county, and to the best of his belief, violating the law, in the particulars above stated, it shall be the duty of the justice to issue a captas or warrant, and if affidavit be not made, a summons shall be issued.

PRIOR LAWS. An act to prohibit shows of wax figures, tricks of jugglers, &c. in force May 1, 1829. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 582.

CHAPTER CL.

SLANDER.

SECTION	SECTION
1. What words charging another with commission of crime, deemed slanderous and actionable.	2. Charging person with swearing falsely, whether in judicial proceeding or not, actionable.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat 1845, p. 521.]

SECTION I. If any person shall falsely use, utter or publish words, which in their common acceptation shall amount to charge any person with having been guilty of fornication or adultery, such words so spoken shall be deemed actionable, and he, she or they, so falsely publishing, speaking or uttering the same shall be deemed guilty of slander.

SEC. II. It shall be deemed slander, and shall be actionable, to charge any person with swearing falsely, or with having sworn falsely, or for using, uttering or publishing words of, to or concerning any person, which in their common acceptation, amount to such charge, whether the words be spoken in conversation of and concerning a judicial proceeding, or not.

PRIOR LAWS. An act respecting crimes and punishments. Section 9; approved Feb. 12, 1821. Laws, 1821, p. 126.

An act declaring certain words actionable; approved Dec. 27, 1822. Laws, 1823, p. 82; Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 583.

DECISIONS. Where the defendant pleads justification to an action of slander for charging the plaintiff with perjury, he will be held to the same strictness of proof, as in a prosecution for perjury. Crandall v. Dawson, 1 G. 556.

In an action of slander for charging the plaintiff with fornication, where the defendant does not justify, he may mitigate damages, by showing the general character of the plaintiff, and by showing facts tending to disprove malice, but which do not tend to prove the truth of the charge; and the same rule of evidence as to general reputation governs as when the character of a witness is sought to be impeached. Regnier v. Cabot, 2 G. 34.

Under the statute respecting slander, the words, "Mrs. Edwards has raised a family of children by a negro," do not, in their plain and popular sense, or in common acceptation, amount to a charge of fornication, unconnected with other circumstances. Patterson et al. v. Edwards et al., 2 G. 720.

In an action of slander for charging the plaintiff with fornication, it is immaterial whether the defendant designed or expected to be believed, or not. Malice is inferred from speaking the slanderous words, and if they were used in an unqualified manner, whether in jest or earnest, no legal distinction can be drawn in favor of the speaker. Hatch v. Potter et ux.

Repetition of the slander at any time within the statute of limitations, or even after the commencement of the suit, may be proved in aggravation of damages. Idem.

The 3rd section, 66th chapter, Rev. Stat. 1845, is confined exclusively to actions for verbal slander, and does not include libel. Hazel v. Shelby, 11 Ill. 9.

The act, declaring what words are actionable, is a public law of which the courts will take notice without special reference thereto in the declaration. Words which, in their common acceptation, amount to a charge of having sworn falsely, are actionable, whether spoken of and concerning a judicial proceeding, or not; and are none the less actionable, because the declaration avers that they were spoken in a conversation concerning a judicial proceeding. It is not necessary that the words spoken in a conversation concerning a judicial proceeding, should be spoken under such circumstances as to charge the crime of perjury. Where the declaration is general, that the defendant "swore falsely," a plea of justification will be good, which refers to the time, place and occasion of the false swearing, and alleges the truth of the words spoken. If the declaration allege swearing falsely in a judicial proceeding, without the averments which will make the charge amount to perjury, the defendant may justify by alleging that the plaintiff did swear falsely in the specified proceeding. If the declaration allege that the defendant by his words intended to impute perjury, then the justification must show that the plaintiff did commit perjury. And generally, the justification must be co-extensive with the slander charged. Sanford v. Gaddis, 13 Ill. 329. See also, Darling v. Banks, 14 Ill. 46.

If the slanderous charge of perjury is with reference to a particular portion of the testimony of a witness only, then if that testimony were immaterial, the words are not actionable. Idem.

Proof that slanderous words were used in reference to a bill in chancery, which the defendant, at the time of speaking, supposed and believed the plaintiff had sworn to, when in truth it was sworn to by another, and that the allegations of the bill were false, will not be admitted even in mitigation of damages. Retraction of a slander, if a part of the res gesta, and for reparation of the injury, is admissible in evidence to mitigate damages. The venue in slander is transitory. Owen v. McKean, 14 Ill. 459.

In slander, the words alleged must be proved; other words of like meaning, or equivalent words or expressions, are not sufficient. The charge "you swore falsely," is not sustained by proof that the words spoken were, "you have sworn false." All the words need not be proved unless all be necessary to make the slander; and proof of additional words will not vitiate, unless they qualify the whole so as to destroy the slander. Words charged as spoken affirmatively, or of a person, will not be sustained by proof of words spoken interrogatively, or to a person. Sanford v. Gaddis, 15 Ill. 228.

In slander, the plea of justification, if made in good faith, in the belief that it will be sustained, should not aggravate the damages. Sloan v. Petrie, 15 Ill. 425.

STEAM BOATS.

SECTION

1. How boats on rivers of this State shall be officered and furnished; regulations in ascending and descending navigation.
2. When boats meet in a narrow place, what to be done; in night time, descending boat to keep main channel.
3. Duty of masters and officers; rules and regulations for safety of boat.
4. Responsibility of master and owners; causing death carelessly, deemed manslaughter.

SECTION

5. Racing forbidden; liability of owners and officers to punishment, and for damages.
6. Landing passengers, regulations respecting.
7. Carrying gunpowder, under what restrictions and regulations; penalty.
8. Punishment for putting gunpowder on boats without informing officers.
9. Copies of this chapter to be posted up on boats; penalty for omitting.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 521.]

SECTION I. It shall be duty of the owners of steamboats navigating the Mississippi, Ohio, Wabash, Illinois, and other rivers and lakes within the jurisdiction of this State, to have a competent master, officers and crew on board, and to have a substantial and sufficient engine, boilers or boiler, and to have the same at all times in good and safe order and condition, and have the vessel supplied with all necessary boats, tackle and furniture, and in every respect seaworthy. In ascending and descending navigation, said boats shall conform to the following regulations: The descending boat shall keep the shore or bar she may be on until the ascending boat passes; and when both boats are running, the ascending boat shall keep the middle of the channel, or in the deepest water, and in all cases where it is practicable, leave room for the descending boat to pass on either side.

SEC. II. When two boats shall meet in a contracted part of the river, or in any narrow or intricate channel, both boats shall stop their engines, or work them very slow, until they pass each other; and in the night time the descending boat shall not take any of the small chutes, but shall keep the main channel in order to avoid the ascending boats.

SEC. III. It shall be the duty of the masters and officers of all steamboats, to keep their vessels at all times well and steady trimmed, and particularly in coming to and departing from shore; and for that purpose, the passengers, and all others on board the boat, shall strictly obey the directions of the master or officers on watch, and keep the place and position they may direct, and under such pecuniary penalties as the rules and regulations of the boat in that behalf shall impose; which rules and regulations shall be constantly kept up in at least five conspicuous and different parts of the boat.

SEC. IV. The master and owners shall be severally and jointly responsible for damages which any person may sustain by any neglect or refusal to comply with the requisitions of the foregoing sections. And moreover, if any loss of life shall ensue from any such neglect and refusal, the officers on watch, and conducting the boat for the time being, shall be deemed guilty of the crime of manslaughter, and upon conviction thereof, shall be punished accordingly.

SEC. V. It shall not be lawful for steamboats to run races, the one against the other; and the owners and officers severally and jointly shall be liable and responsible for all damages which any one may sustain from any accident or casualty which may happen during the said race. And moreover, in case of loss of life or lives in consequence of said racing, the master of the boat, or person or persons having the command thereof for the time being, shall be deemed guilty of a high crime and misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be liable to imprisonment in the penitentiary of the State, for any term not exceeding ten years.

SEC. VI. In landing passengers from steamboats, the master shall cause the vessel to be brought to shore whenever practicable and convenient, and especially in cases where females or children are to be landed; and whenever it is impracticable or decidedly inconvenient to bring the boat to the shore, they may land the passengers in good, sufficient and comfortable boats, which shall be at all times kept for that purpose, and managed by a sufficient number of civil, competent and careful men; and during the time of disembarking from the steamboat into the small craft, and of leaving the vessel, the engine shall be stopped, and the speed of the vessel checked. And any neglect or refusal to comply with any of the requirements of this section, shall subject the owners and master of the boat to the payment of all damages that may result to any person or persons, from such neglect or refusal; and in the event of loss of life thereby, the master or other officer in command of the boat for the time being, shall be deemed to be guilty of a high misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof, shall be punished as provided for in the foregoing section.

SEC. VII. It shall be the duty of the master and officers of any steamboat carrying gunpowder as freight, to store the same in the safest part of the vessel, and separate and apart from articles liable to spontaneous combustion; and where, in discharging the cargo, it will not be necessary to carry any lighted candle, lamp or flambeau; and all boats carrying gunpowder as freight, shall have printed cards, stating the fact, placed in the cabin and in other conspicuous parts of the boat, so as to give notice to the passengers. And the master and officers, failing to comply with the provisions of this section, shall forfeit one hundred dollars for every time the same shall be so neglected, which may be recovered by action of debt, by and for the use of any person who may sue for the same, before any justice of the peace in this State; and shall moreover be liable for all damages which may happen to any person by reason of the failure.

SEC. VIII. It shall not be lawful for any person or persons to put or keep any gunpowder on any steamboat without first giving the master or officers notice thereof; and any person or persons so offending, shall be liable to pay a sum of one hundred dollars to and for the use of any person who may sue for the same, in an action of debt before any justice of the peace in this State; and moreover, the person or persons so offending, shall be liable for all damages which may happen to any person thereby.

SEC. IX. Copies of this chapter shall be printed and put in frames, and kept publicly placed in the cabin and steerage of each steamboat navigating the Mississippi, Ohio, Wabash, Illinois and other rivers and lakes within the jurisdiction of this State; and a failure to comply with these provisions shall subject the master and owners to a penalty of one hundred dollars for each day the same shall be omitted, to be recovered in an action of debt before any justice of the peace by and for the use of any person who may sue for the same.

PRIOR LAWS. An act to prevent disasters on steamboats navigating the waters within the jurisdiction of Illinois; in force July 21, 1837. Laws, 1837, (2nd Sess.) p. 89.

DECISIONS. The statute of 1845, respecting steamboats, is in some respects in conflict with the act of July 21, 1837, on the same subject, and in those respects the latter law prevails. In case of collision between steamboats, in this State, the one which is out of her proper place, as prescribed by the statute, is prima facie wrong, and liable for the damages. A boat, ascending a river, should take the middle of the channel, so that one descending can take either side. In the night, the ascending boat may pass up the small chutes of the river, and the boat descending must keep the main channel, on either side the center thereof. But a boat may not run upon another boat, because the latter may be out of her proper course, and in the proper course of the former; proper and ordinary diligence must be used to avoid a collision, and he who does not use such diligence, will be answerable for the consequences. Moore v. Moss, 14 Ill. 106.

Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 523.]

(1.) SECTION I. County surveyors shall be elected in the several counties in this State on the first Monday in August, on the expiration of the terms of those now in office, and every fourth year thereafter. When so elected, they shall continue in office for the term of four years, and until their successors are elected and qualified.

(2.) SEC. II. The election of county surveyors shall in all things be conducted, and returns thereof made to the office of the secretary of State, as provided by the chapter regulating elections; and upon such election being made, the governor shall commission such county surveyor, to continue in office for four years; which commission shall be transmitted by the secretary of State to the clerk of the circuit court of the proper county; and it shall be the duty of said clerk to give immediate notice to such surveyor of the receipt of his commission.

(3.) SEC. III. Each and every surveyor shall, previous to his entering upon the duties of his office, take an oath that he will in all things, as county surveyor, perform the duties of his office to the best of his skill and judgment, without favor or affection; which oath may be administered by any judge, or justice of the peace, in the county to which such surveyor is appointed, and shall be indorsed on his commission.

(4.) SEC. IV. It shall be the duty of the said county surveyor to make all surveys within the bounds of his county, that he may be called upon to make, either by himself or deputy, properly authorized by him, and competent to perform the duty, within a reasonable time after application is made to him.

(5.) SEC. V. Each and every surveyor may appoint one or more deputies to assist him in the performance of the duties of his office; each deputy shall take an oath similar to that previously taken by the surveyor himself, and the surveyor shall be responsible for the official acts of his deputy.

(6.) SEC. VI. All chainmen necessary, shall be employed by the person wanting surveying done. They shall be good and disinterested persons, to be approved by the surveyor, and they shall be sworn by the surveyor to measure justly and exactly, to the best of their knowledge.

(7.) SEC. VII. It shall be the duty of all county surveyors, previous to their making any survey, under the authority of this chapter, to furnish themselves with the field notes of the original survey of the lands which they may be called on to survey; and all surveys made by county surveyors shall be made agreeably to the original survey of the land. For the purpose of perpetuating every survey, the surveyor shall be required to establish his corners by taking bearing trees, and noting particularly their course and distance; and where there are no trees within a reasonable distance, the surveyor shall perpetuate his corners by erecting mounds: Provided, That in all cases where it shall appear practicable, the surveyor shall require the person having the survey made, to furnish suitable stones; and at each and every corner made and established, a stone shall be permanently placed in the ground, and in such cases it shall not be necessary to erect mounds; and shall moreover furnish the proprietor of every tract of land, with a copy of the original field notes, of every tract of land he may survey. It shall also be the duty of each county surveyor to provide himself with a well-bound book, in which he shall carefully and legibly record and note down every survey made by him, giving therein the name of the person, the survey of whose land is so recorded, and describing, as near as practicable, the metes and bounds of the land, and noting the date on which the survey was made; and such record shall be subject to the inspection of every person who may think himself interested; and a certified copy thereof, under the hand of the surveyor, shall be admitted as prima facie evidence in any court of record in this State.

(8.) SEC. VIII. It shall be the duty of every county surveyor, or other person having the official record of such surveyor in his possession, to deliver up the said record to his successor, whenever he may be applied to for that purpose; and every person who, having possession thereof, shall refuse to deliver the same to such successor, when demanded, shall forfeit and pay one dollar and fifty cents for every day he may detain it after demand, to be recovered by any person who will sue for the same, before any justice of the peace of the proper county, one-half to the use of the person suing, and the other half to the use of the county. No act or record by any surveyor or his deputy, as aforesaid, shall be conclusive, but may be reviewed by any competent tribunal, in any case where the correctness thereof may be disputed.

An Act authorizing the Survey of certain Lands therein named.

[Approved Dec. 31, 1844. App. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 606.]

(9.) SEC. I. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly, That in any case, when two or more persons shall own or be in possession of separate parcels of land, situate in the same claim and survey, or legal subdivision of land, they may have the same surveyed by the county surveyor of the county in which the land is situated. The said surveyor, when required thereto, shall survey the lot of each proprietor in said claim and survey, or other legal subdivision of land, and make a plat thereof, designating the respective shares of each proprietor, by figures appropriately fixed therein, and specifying the number of acres in each lot, and certifying that the same was surveyed by him in conformity to law.

(10.) SEC. II. The proprietors of said lots of land may have the said survey and certificate recorded in the recorder's office of their respective counties; for which service of recording, the said officers shall receive for each lot, ten cents in full compensation.

(11.) SEC. III. It shall be the duty of the assessor in each county to enter for taxation in his books, all lands liable to taxation in each claim and survey so platted and recorded, by the numbers of the respective lots, designating the claim and survey, and the number of acres in each lot, and their value, in separate columns, the taxes on which shall be paid and received by their respective numbers.

PRIOR LAWS. An act for the appointment of surveyors for the several counties of this State; in force Jan. 31, 1821. Laws, 1821, p. 62. Repealed June 1, 1829.

An act supplemental to an act entitled "An act for the appointment of surveyors for the several counties of this State;" in force Feb. 9, 1821. Laws, 1821, p. 117. Repealed June 1, 1829.

An act regulating the appointment and duties of county surveyors; in force June 1, 1829. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 591.

DECISIONS. The provision of the 5th section of the act in force June 1, 1829, respecting surveyors, that "all chainmen necessary shall be employed by the person wanting surveying done," does not apply to surveyors of town plats, but to the establishing of lines and corners of sections of public lands, and the subdivisions thereof, as surveyed by the United States. *Pearsons et al. v. An Act to provide for Township Organization.

[Approved Feb. 17, 1851. Laws, 1851, p. 35.]

ARTICLE FIRST.

(1.) SEC. I. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly, That at any general election that may be holden in the several counties in this State, the qualified voters in any county may vote for or against township organization in any county in this State.

(2.) SEC. II. The county court, on petition of fifty legal voters of said county, shall cause to be submitted to the voters of the county, the question of township organization under this act, by ballot, to be written or printed, or partly written or partly printed, "For township organization," or "Against township organization," to be canvassed and returned in like manner as votes for State and county officers.

(3.) SEC. III. The clerks of the county court shall enter an abstract of the returns of said election, to be made out and certified as in elections for State and county officers, record the same at length upon the record of the county court of the county, and shall certify the same to the auditor of public accounts.

(4.) SEC. IV. If it shall appear by the returns of said election that a majority of the legal voters of said county are for township organization, then the county so voting in favor of its adoption shall be governed by and subject to the provisions of this act on and after the first Tuesday of April next succeeding: Provided, That a majority of the voters voting at such election shall be taken and deemed a majority of the voters of said county.

(5.) SEC. V. The county court shall, at its next session, appoint three commissioners, residents of the county, to divide the county into towns or townships, and the said commissioners' services shall be audited by the first board of supervisors, and paid by the county.

(6.) SEC. VI. The commissioners shall proceed to divide such county into towns, by making as many towns as there are townships, according to government surveys. Where fractions of townships are caused by the county lines not being in accordance with the surveyed townships, then the commissioners may attach such fractions to adjoining towns, where the number of inhabitants or the amount of territory shall not be sufficient for a separate town. Where a surveyed township shall have too few inhabitants for a separate organization, then such township may be added to some adjoining town, or such township may be divided between two or more towns for the time being. And when creeks or rivers may so divide such townships as to be inconvenient for transacting town business, then such creek or river may be made the town boundary, and the town fractions so formed may be disposed of as fractions caused by county lines.

8th. To apply such penalties, when collected, in such manner as they may deem most conducive to the interest of such town.

(20.) SEC. V. Special town meetings shall be held to supply vacancies in the several cases hereinafter provided for. They shall be held when the supervisors, town clerk and justices of the peace, or any two of them, together with at least twelve other freeholders of the town, shall, in writing, file in the office of town clerk a statement, that a special meeting is necessary to the interest of the town; and the town clerk, or, in case of his absence, the supervisor, shall post up notices in five of the most public places in the town, giving at least ten days' notice of such special town meeting, and such meeting shall act on no subject that shall not be specified in the notice calling such meeting.

If, on opening the ballots, two or more ballots shall be found to be so folded that it shall be apparent that the same person voted them, the presiding officer shall destroy such votes immediately.

(36.) SEC. VIII. The canvass being completed, a statement of the result shall be entered at length, by the clerk of the meeting, in the minutes of its proceedings, to be kept by him as before required, which shall be publicly read by him to the meeting, and such reading shall be deemed notice of the result of the election, to every person whose name shall have been entered on the poll list as a voter.

ARTICLE NINETEENTH.

(135.) SEC. I. It shall be the duty of the clerk of the county court, in each and every county where they have organized into townships, to procure or prepare, in conformity with the instructions with which he may from time to time be furnished by the auditor of public accounts, blanks or books, properly ruled and with suitable heading, for the use of the assessors of the several towns or districts in his county, a suitable number of which shall always be ready for the assessors throughout the county, and each assessor shall call for the same on or before the first day of May in each and every year. The expense of procuring the same shall be audited by the board of supervisors, and paid out of the county treasury. He shall also furnish each assessor with a list of all taxable lands within their respective towns or districts as have not been heretofore furnished.

(136.) SEC. II. Between the first days of May and July in each year, the assessor shall proceed to ascertain, by diligent inquiry, the names of all the taxable inhabitants in their respective towns or districts, and also the taxable property, real or personal, within the same.

(141.) SEC. VII. The assessor, town clerk and supervisor shall attend at the time and place specified in the notice, and on the application of any person conceiving himself aggrieved, they shall review the assessment, and when the person objecting thereto shall make an affidavit that the value of his personal estate does not exceed a certain sum specified in such affidavit, the assessor shall reduce the assessment to the sum specified in such affidavit, and if he or any other one objects to the valuation put upon any of their real estate, the board shall hear the objections, and may reduce the same, if a majority of the board think it advisable, and in such case the assessor shall correct his list.

(142.) SEC. VIII. The oath required by the preceding section may be administered by the assessor, town clerk or supervisor.

(143.) SEC. IX. After the assessment is corrected according to the provisions of section seven of this article, the assessor shall sign the assessment roll, and shall sign and attach thereto a certificate in the following form:

"I do hereby certify that I have set down in the above assessment roll, as corrected, all the real estate situated in the town (or district, as the case may be,) according to my best information, and that I have estimated the value of the real estate at the sum which I have deemed to be the true value thereof; and also that the said assessment rolls contain, as corrected, a true statement of the aggregate amount of taxable personal estate of each and every person named in the said roll, excluding such stocks as are otherwise taxable; and that, with the exception of those cases in which the value of such personal estate has been sworn to by the owner or possessor, I have estimated the same according to my best information and belief."

(144.) SEC. X. The assessors, in the execution of their duties, shall use the forms and pursue the instructions which shall from time to time be transmitted to them by the auditor of public accounts, or furnished them by the county clerks.

(145.) SEC. XI. In assessing the lands and town lots in any town or district, the assessor shall list the same in numerical order, placing each separate section, and, as far as practicable, each government subdivision of a section, by itself, and shall return the assessment roll, certified, to the clerk of the county court, on or before the first day of September in each year.

(146.) SEC. XII. The clerk, upon the receipt of the several assessment rolls, shall carefully compare the same with the list of taxable land on file in his office, correcting all errors which he may discover, and add to the roll of the proper town the name of the purchaser, and the description of all such lands as have been omitted by the assessor which are liable to taxation. He shall then make a fair copy of the several assessment rolls; which copy, together with the original, shall be laid before the board of supervisors, at their annual meeting in each year; for which service said clerk shall be allowed a sum not exceeding two cents for each tract of land, and one cent on each town lot contained in said rolls, and where the real estate and personal property are separate, one half cent for each person's name and valuation of personal property contained in said rolls.

(147.) SEC. XIII. If any assessor shall willfully refuse or neglect to perform any of the duties required of him by this act, he shall forfeit to the people of this State the sum of fifty dollars, and be liable for all damages sustained by any such refusal or neglect.

ARTICLE TWENTIETH.

(148.) SEC. I. The board of supervisors of each county in this State, at their annual meeting, shall examine the assessment rolls of the several towns in their county, for the purpose of ascertaining whether the valuations in one town or district bear just relation to all the towns and districts in the county, and they may increase or diminish the aggregate valuation of real estate in any town or district, by adding or deducting such sum upon the hundred as may, in their opinion, be necessary to produce a just relation between all the valuations of real estate in the county, but they shall, in no instance, reduce the aggregate valuations of all the towns and districts below the aggregate valuation thereof as made by the assessor. They may make such alterations in the descriptions of the lands of non-residents as they shall deem necessary, and they shall assess the value of all such lands as have been omitted by the assessor and listed by the clerk, and cause the same to be placed opposite the description of said lands in a column prepared for that purpose.

(149.) SEC. II. They shall, at their annual meeting, fix upon a certain rate upon the hundred dollars to be levied upon the taxable property, both real and personal, in their respective counties, for county purposes, which they shall cause to be entered upon their record, and they shall, at the same time, also enter upon their record the amount to be collected in each town in their respective counties for town purposes. They shall carefully compare the copy made by the county clerk with the original assessment roll, and when so compared and corrected, they shall cause the taxes to be extended on the copy. They shall also cause to be indorsed on the original assessment roll, the amount per cent. levied on each one hundred dollars' worth of valuation, as taxes thereon, under the hand of their chairman, attested, by the clerk and seal of the county court; which roll shall remain in the county clerk's office until the month of March next thereafter. The town clerks shall call on the county clerk during the month of March in each year, for the original assessment rolls of the previous year of their respective towns; which rolls they shall file in their respective offices for the use of the town.

(150.) SEC. III. They shall cause to be estimated and set down, in a separate column to be prepared for that purpose in the copied assessment roll, opposite the several sums set down as the valuations of real and personal estate, the respective sums in dollars and cents, rejecting the fractions of a cent, to be paid as a tax thereon.

(151.) SEC. IV. They shall also cause to be added up and set down the aggregate valuation of the real and personal estate in the several towns and districts, as corrected by them, and the county clerk shall transmit to the auditor of public accounts, by mail, a certificate of such aggregate valuation, showing separately the aggregate valuation of real and personal estate, and the amount of State and county tax.

(152.) SEC. V. The board of supervisors shall cause the copied and corrected assessment roll of each town or district in their respective counties, with the taxes extended thereon, to be delivered to the collector of such town or district, on or before the fifteenth day of November in each year.

(153.) SEC. VI. To each assessment roll so delivered to a collector, a warrant, under the hand and seal of the chairman of the board of supervisors, attested by the county clerk and seal of the county court, shall be annexed, commanding such collector to collect from the several persons named in the assessment roll, the several sums mentioned in the last column of such roll, opposite their respective names. The warrant directed to the collector of a town shall direct the collector, out of the moneys to be collected, after deducting the compensation to which he may legally be entitled, to pay over to the commissioners of highways the amount of tax collected for the support of highways and bridges, and to the supervisor of the town all other moneys which shall have been collected therein, to defray any other town expenses; to the township treasurers the school fund tax, and to the county treasurer the State and county tax collected by them. The county treasurer shall pay over to the proper officers the amount of tax collected by them on the delinquent real estate.

(154.) SEC. VII. In all cases the warrant shall authorize the collector, in case any person named in such assessment roll shall neglect or refuse to pay his tax, to levy the same by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of such person, and it shall require all payment therein specified to be made by such collector on or before the fifteenth day of February next ensuing.

(155.) SEC. VIII. The chairman of the board of supervisors and county clerk, as soon as the assessment rolls have been delivered to the several collectors, with such warrants annexed, shall transmit, under their hands and seals of the county court, to the treasurer of the county, an account thereof, stating the names of the several collectors, the amount of money they are respectively to collect, the purposes for which the same are to be collected, and the persons to whom and the time when the same are to be paid; and the county treasurer, on receiving such accounts, shall charge to each collector the sums to be collected by him.

ARTICLE TWENTY-FIRST.

(156.) SEC. I. Every collector, upon receiving the tax list and warrant, shall proceed to collect the taxes therein mentioned, and for that purpose shall call at least once on the person taxed, or at his or her place of residence, if in the town or district for which such collector has been chosen, and shall demand payment of the taxes charged to him on his property.

(157.) SEC. II. In case any person shall refuse or neglect to pay the tax imposed on him, the collector shall levy the same by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the person who ought to pay the same.

(158.) SEC. III. The collector shall give public notice of the time and place of sale, and of the property to be sold, at least six days previous to the sale, by advertisement, to be posted up in at least three public places in the town where such sale is to be made. The sale shall be by public auction.

(159.) SEC. IV. If the property distrained shall be sold for more than the amount of the taxes, the surplus shall be returned to the person in whose possession such property was when the distress was made, if no claim be made to such surplus by any other person. If any other person shall claim such surplus, on the ground that the property sold belonged to him, and such claim be admitted by the person for whose tax the same was distrained, the surplus shall be paid to such owner.

(160.) SEC. V. In case any person upon whom any tax shall be assessed, under the provisions of this act, in any city or town of this State, shall have removed out of such city or town after such assessment, and before such tax, which now is or hereafter may be assessed, in any district of any city or in any town, upon the estate of such person situated out of the city or town in which he shall reside, and within the county, it shall be lawful, in either of those cases, for the collector of said city or town to levy and collect such tax of the goods and chattels of the person assessed, in any district within said cities, or in any town within the said county to which such person shall have removed, or in which he shall reside.

(161.) SEC. VI. Every collector shall pay over, within one week after the time mentioned in his warrant for paying the moneys directed to be paid to the town officers of his town and to the county treasurer, the sums required in such warrant to be paid to them respectively, first retaining the compensation to which he may be legally entitled. The town officers to whom any such moneys shall be paid, shall deliver to the collector duplicate receipts therefor, one of which shall be filed by the collector with the county treasurer, for the amount therein stated to have been received, and no other evidence of such payment shall be received by the county treasurer.

(162.) SEC. VII. Whenever any greater amount of taxes shall be assessed in any town than the town charges thereof, and its proportion of the tax and county charges, the surplus shall be paid by the collector to the supervisor of the town, who shall hold the same until wanted by the town to pay any town expenses.

(163.) SEC. VIII. The collectors shall receive the tax on the part of any lot, piece or parcel of land charged with taxes: Provided, The persons paying such tax shall furnish a particular specification of the part; and if the tax on the remainder of such lot or parcel of land shall remain unpaid, the collector shall enter such specification in his return to the county treasurer, to the end that the part on which the tax remains unpaid may be clearly known.

(164.) SEC. IX. If any part on which the tax shall be so paid be an undivided share, then the person paying the same shall state to the collector who is the owner of such share, that it may be excepted in case of a sale for the tax on the remainder, and the collector shall enter the name of such owner on his account of arrears of taxes.

(165.) SEC. X. If any of the taxes entered in his tax bill annexed in his warrant shall remain unpaid, and the collector shall not be able to collect the same in the time required by his warrant, he shall then deliver to the county treasurer his tax book, and a list containing a description of such taxes due and unpaid; and on making oath before the county treasurer, or, in case of his absence, before any justice of the peace, that the sums mentioned in said list remain unpaid, and that he has not, upon diligent inquiry, been able to discover any goods or chattels belonging to or in the possession of the person so charged with or liable to pay such sums whereon he could levy the same, he shall be credited by the county treasurer the amount thereof, and the county treasurer shall give the collector a receipt for the same.

(166.) SEC. XI. If any person, chosen or appointed to the office of collector of any town, district or city in this State, shall refuse to serve, or shall die, resign, or remove out of the town, district or city, or the office becomes vacated in any other way, before he shall have entered upon or completed the duties of his office, or shall in any way be disabled from completing the same, the supervisor and justices of such town or district, or any two of them, shall forthwith appoint a collector for the remainder of the year, who shall give the like security, and be subject to the like penalties, and have the same powers and compensation as the collector in whose place he was appointed, and the supervisor or town clerk shall forthwith give notice of such appointment to the county treasurer. But such appointment shall not exonerate the former collector or his sureties from any liability incurred by him or them.

(167.) SEC. XII. If a warrant shall have been issued as by law provided, prior to any appointment under the last section, the original warrant, if the same can be obtained, shall be delivered to the collector so appointed, and shall be considered as giving him the same powers as if originally issued to him. But if such warrant cannot be obtained, a new one shall be made out by the clerk of the board of supervisors of the county, and shall be signed by the chairman of the board of supervisors, in the same way and manner as the original was, which shall be directed to the collector so appointed; and upon every such appointment the supervisor of the town or district, if he shall think it necessary, may extend the time limited for the collection of the taxes, for a period not exceeding thirty days, of which extension he shall forthwith give notice to the county treasurer. The collector so appointed shall keep an account of all collections made by the former collector, so far as he can ascertain the same, and when any one shall present a receipt for taxes paid to the former collector, he shall mark against the amount of taxes so paid, to whom paid, and the time when paid.

(168.) SEC. XIII. If any collector shall refuse or neglect to pay to the general town officers of his town, or to the county treasurer, the sums required by his warrant to be paid to them respectively, or either of them, or to account for the same as unpaid, the county treasurer shall, within twenty days after the time when such payments ought to have been made, issue a warrant, under his hand and seal, directed to the sheriff of the county, commanding him to levy such sums as shall remain unpaid and unaccounted for by such collector, of the goods and chattels, lands and tenements of such collector, and to pay the same to the county treasurer, and to return such warrant within forty days after the date thereof; which warrant the county treasurer shall immediately deliver to the sheriff of the county. But no such warrant shall be issued by the county treasurer, for the collection of moneys payable to town officers, without proof, by the oath of such town officers, of the refusal or neglect of the collector to pay the same, or account therefor as above provided.

(169.) SEC. XIV. The sheriff to whom such warrant is directed shall immediately cause the same to be executed, and shall make return thereof to the county treasurer, within the time specified, and shall pay to him the money received by virtue thereof, deducting from his fees the same compensation that the collector would have been entitled to retain. Such part of the moneys, if any, as ought to have been paid by the collector to the town officers, shall be paid by the county treasurer to the officers to whom the collector was directed to pay the same; but if the whole amount of moneys due from the collector shall not be collected in such warrant, the county treasurer shall first retain the amount which ought to have been paid him, before making any payment to the town officers.

(170.) SEC. XV. If the whole sum due from the said collector shall be collected, the sheriff shall so state in his return; but if part only, or if no part of such sum shall be collected, the sheriff shall note in his return the amount levied, if any, exclusive of his fees, and shall also certify that such collector has no goods or chattels, land or tenements in his county, from which the moneys or the residue thereof, as the case may be, could be levied, and in either case the county treasurer shall forthwith give notice to the supervisor of the town or district of the amount due from such collector.

(171.) SEC. XVI. The supervisor shall forthwith cause the bond of such collector to be put in suit, and shall be entitled to recover thereon the sum due from such collector, with costs of suit, and the moneys recovered shall be applied and paid to the supervisor, in the same manner in which it was the duty of the collector to have applied and paid the same.

(172.) SEC. XVII. If any sheriff shall neglect to return any such warrant, or to pay the money levied thereon, within the time limited for the return of said warrant, or shall make any other return than such as is above mentioned, the county treasurer shall forthwith proceed to collect the whole sum directed to be levied by such warrant, by a proper suit hereof, [therefor,] and he may proceed in the first instance by a writ of attachment against the goods and chattels, lands and tenements, rights and credits, of such sheriff, and the same proceeding may be had thereon, in the proper court, as is now provided by law in ordinary cases of attachment.

(173.) SEC. XVIII. In case the county treasurer shall fail to collect such moneys by attachment or suit, as is provided for in the next preceding section hereof, he shall certify to the auditor of public accounts that he has issued such warrant, stating its contents, that the sheriff has neglected to return the same in the manner required by law, or to pay the money levied thereon, as the case may be, and that he has pursued the remedy, by attachment or suit, without effect.

(174.) SEC. XIX. The auditor of public accounts shall give notice thereof to the attorney general, or any one acting as such, who shall immediately prosecute such sheriff and his sureties for the sum due on such warrant; which sum, when collected, shall be paid to the treasurer of this State, and by him, on the warrant of the auditor of public accounts, to the county treasurer, the county part thereof: Provided, That any such proceeding may be had under the general laws of this State.

(175.) SEC. XX. Upon the settlement of the amount of taxes directed to be collected by any collector, in any of the towns or cities in this State, the county treasurer shall, if requested, give to such collector, or any of his sureties, a satisfaction piece in writing, and shall acknowledge the same before some person authorized to take acknowledgments of deeds.

(176.) SEC. XXI. Upon the production of such satisfaction piece, acknowledged as aforesaid, the recorder of the county shall enter satisfaction of record of the collector's bond, which shall be discharged.

(177.) SEC. XXII. The officer taking and returning such acknowledgment, shall be entitled to the same fees as for taking and entering acknowledgments of satisfaction of a deed or mortgage.

(178.) SEC. XXIII. The collector of any town shall be entitled to three per cent. on all moneys collected by him, as his compensation.

ARTICLE TWENTY-SECOND.

(179.) SEC. I. The commissioners of highways in the several towns in this State, shall have the care and superintendence of highways and bridges therein; and it shall be their duty:

1st. To give directions for the repairing of the roads and bridges in their respective towns;

2nd. To regulate the roads already laid out, and to alter such of them as they or a majority of them shall deem proper, as hereinafter provided;

4th. To cause the highways and bridges, which are or may be erected over streams intersecting highways, to be kept in repair;

5th. To divide their respective towns into so many road districts as they shall deem convenient, by writing, under their hands, to be lodged with the town clerk, and by him to be entered in the town book; such division to be made annually, if they shall think it necessary, and in all cases to be made at least ten days before the annual town meeting;

6th. To assign to each of the said road districts, such of the inhabitants liable to work on highways as they shall think proper, having regard to proximity of residence as much as may be; and

7th. To require the overseers of highways, from time to time, and as often as they shall deem necessary, to warn all persons to work on highways, to come and work thereon, with such implements, carriages, sleds, cattle or teams as the said commissioners or any one of them, shall direct.

(180.) SEC. II. The commissioners of highways of each town shall render to the board of town auditors, at their annual meeting for auditing the accounts of town officers, an account in writing, stating,

1st. The labor assessed and performed in such town;

2nd. The sums received by such commissioners for fines and commutations, and all other moneys received under this act;

3rd. A statement of the improvements necessary to be made on such roads and bridges, and an estimate of the probable expense of making such improvements, beyond what the labor to be assessed in that year and the road tax will accomplish;

4th. Also, a statement in writing of all expenses and damages in consequence of laying out, altering or discontinuing roads.

(181.) SEC. III. It shall be the duty of the commissioners of highways of each town to cause suitable guide-boards to be put up at such places as they may deem necessary.

(182.) SEC. IV. It shall be the duty of the overseers of highways in each town,

1st. To repair and keep in order the highways within their several districts for which they shall have been elected;

2nd. To warn all persons from whom road labor is due, to work on the highways, at such times and places, within their several districts, as they may think proper;

3rd. To collect all fines and commutation money, and to execute all lawful orders of the commissioners of highways; and

4th. To deliver to the clerk of the town, within sixteen days after their election or appointment, a list subscribed by such overseer, of the names of all the inhabitants in his road district who are liable to work on the highways.

(183.) SEC. V. The commissioners of highways, whenever they shall think it necessary, may direct and empower any overseer of highways in their respective towns, to procure a good and sufficient iron or steel shod scraper and plow, or either of them, for the uses of his road district, to be paid for by moneys arising from commutation and fine within the district.

(184.) SEC. VI. If any person, chosen or appointed to the office of overseer of highways, shall refuse to serve, or if his office shall become vacant, the commissioners of highways of the town shall, by warrant under their hands, appoint some other person in his stead, and the overseer so appointed shall have the same powers, be subject to the same orders, and liable to the same penalties, as overseers chosen at the town meeting.

(185.) SEC. VII. The commissioners making the appointment shall cause such warrant to be forthwith filed in the office of the town clerk, who shall give notice to the person appointed, as in other cases.

(186.) SEC. VIII. Every overseer of highways who shall refuse or neglect to perform any of the duties of this act, or which may be lawfully enjoined on him by the commissioners of highways of his town, and for the omission of which a penalty is hereinafter provided, shall, for every such refusal or neglect, forfeit the sum of ten dollars, to be sued for by the commissioners of highways of the town, and when recovered, to be applied by them in making and improving the roads and bridges therein.

(187.) SEC. IX. The commissioners of highways of each town shall meet within eighteen days after they shall be chosen, at the town clerk's office, on such day as they shall agree upon, and afterwards at such other times and places as they shall think proper.

(188.) SEC. X. The town clerk shall deliver the lists filed by the overseers to the commissioners of highways of the town, who shall proceed to ascertain, estimate and assess the highway labor and road tax to be performed and paid in their town the next ensuing year.

(189.) SEC. XI. 1st. Every male inhabitant, being above the age of twenty-one years and under the age of fifty, (excepting paupers, idiots, lunatics, and such others as are exempt by law,) shall be assessed at least two days in each and every year.

2nd. The commissioners of highways shall assess a road tax on all real estate liable to taxation of the town, to any amount they may deem necessary, not exceeding twenty cents on each one hundred dollars' worth, as valued on the assessment roll of the previous year.

3rd. They shall affix to the name of each person named in the lists so furnished by the overseers, the number of days assessed to each person for highway labor, and also a description of each tract of land and the name of the owner, if known, with the valuation thereof, as taken from the assessment roll of the previous year, and the amount of road tax assessed thereon, in a separate column. The lists so prepared shall be subscribed by the commissioners, and deposited with the town clerk, to be filed in his office.

(190.) SEC. XII. The commissioners shall direct the clerk of the town to make a copy of each list, and shall subscribe such copies; after which they shall cause the several copies to be delivered to the respective overseers of highways of the several districts in which the highway labor is assessed. One copy for each overseer shall contain the name and number of days assessed to each person, the other the land road tax.

(191.) SEC. XIII. The names of persons left out of any such list, and of new inhabitants, shall from time to time be added to the several lists, and they shall be rated by the overseers in the same proportion, to work on the highways, as others rated by the commissioners on such list, subject to an appeal to the commissioners.

(192.) SEC. XIV. It shall be the duty of the commissioners of highways of each town, to credit such persons as live on private roads and work the same, so much on account of their assessment as such commissioners shall deem necessary to work such private road, or to annex such private road to some of the highway districts.

(193.) SEC. XV. The town clerk shall, within ten days after the commissioners of highways have filed in his office the amount of road tax assessed on the real estate of the town, post a notice on the outer door of the house where the town meeting was last held, stating the amount of road tax assessed on each one hundred dollars' worth of the real estate of the town, and that all persons interested can pay the same in labor on the highways, under the direction of the overseers of highways in the districts where the land is situated.

ARTICLE TWENTY-THIRD.

(194.) SEC. I. It shall be the duty of overseers of highways to give at least three days' notice to all persons assessed to work on the highways, and residing within the limits of their respective districts, of the time and place when and where they are to appear for that purpose, and with what implements; but no person being a resident of the town shall be required to work on any highway other than in the district in which he resides, except he resides in a district on a town line, which district belongs to an opposite town, and unless he shall elect to work in some district where he has any land; and in such case he may, with the approbation of the commissioners of highways, apply the work assessed in respect to such land in the district in which the same is situated.

(195.) SEC. II. Every person liable to work on the highways shall work the whole number of days for which he shall have been assessed, but every such person, other than an overseer of highways, may elect to commute for the same, or for some part thereof, at the rate of seventy-five cents per day; in which case such commutation money shall be paid to the overseer of highways of the district in which the person commuting shall reside, to be applied and expended by such overseer in the improvement of the roads and bridges in the same district.

(196.) SEC. III. Every person intending to commute for his assessment, or any part thereof, shall, within twenty-four hours after he shall be notified to appear and work on the highways, pay the commutation money for the work required of him by such notice, and the commutation shall not be considered as complete until such money be paid.

(197.) SEC. IV. Every overseer of highways shall have power to require a team or a cart, wagon or plow, with a pair of horses or oxen, and a man to manage them, from any person having the same within his district, who shall have been assessed two days or more and who shall not have commuted for his assessment, and the person furnishing the same upon such requisition shall be entitled to a credit of two days for each day's service therewith.

(198.) SEC. V. Every person assessed to work on the highways and warned to work, may appear in person or by an able-bodied man as a substitute, and the person or substitute so appearing shall actually work eight hours in each day, under a penalty of twelve and a half cents for every hour such person or substitute shall be in default, to be imposed as a fine on the person assessed.

(199.) SEC. VI. If any such person or his substitute shall, after appearing, remain idle or not work faithfully, or hinder others from working, such offender shall, for every offense, forfeit the sum of one dollar.

(200.) SEC. VII. Every person so assessed and duly notified, who shall not commute, and who shall refuse or neglect to appear as above provided, shall forfeit for every day's refusal or neglect, the sum of one dollar. If he was required to furnish a team, carriage, man or implements, and shall refuse or neglect to comply, he shall be fined as follows:

1st. For wholly omitting to comply with such requisition, three dollars for each day.

2nd. For omitting to furnish a cart, wagon or plow, one dollar for each day.

3rd. For omitting to furnish a pair of horses or oxen, one dollar for each day.

4th. For omitting to furnish a man to manage the team, one dollar each day.

(201.) SEC. VIII. It shall be the duty of every overseer of highways, within six days after any person so assessed and notified shall be guilty of any refusal or neglect, for which a penalty or fine is prescribed in this act, unless a satisfactory excuse shall be rendered to him for such refusal or neglect, to make complaint, on oath, to one of the justices of the peace of the town.

(202.) SEC. IX. The justice to whom such complaint shall be made, shall forthwith issue a summons, directed to any constable of the town, requiring him to summon such delinquent to appear forthwith before such justice, at some place, to be specified in the summons, to show cause why he should not be fined according to law, for such refusal or neglect, which summons shall be served personally, or by leaving a copy at his personal abode.

(203.) SEC. X. If, upon the return of such summons, no sufficient cause shall be shown to the contrary, the justice shall impose a fine as is provided in this act for the offense complained of, and shall forthwith issue a warrant, under his hand and seal, directed to any constable of the town where such delinquent shall reside, commanding him to levy such fine, with the costs of proceedings, of the goods and chattels of such delinquent.

(204.) SEC. XI. The constable to whom such warrant shall be directed, shall forthwith collect the moneys therein mentioned. He shall pay the fine, when collected, to the justice of the peace who issued the warrant, who is hereby required to pay the same to the overseer who entered the complaint, to be by him expended in improving the roads and bridges in the district of which he is overseer.

(205.) SEC. XII. Every penalty collected for refusal or neglect to appear and work on the highways, shall be set off against his assessment upon which it was founded, estimating every dollar collected as a satisfaction for one day's work.

(206.) SEC. XIII. The acceptance by an overseer of any excuse for refusal or neglect, shall not, in any case, exempt the person excused from commuting for or working the whole number of days for which he shall have been assessed during the year.

(207.) SEC. XIV. Each and every overseer of highways shall be entitled to one dollar per day, to be paid out of fines and commutation money, for every day he is necessarily employed in the execution of his duties as overseer, beyond the amount of his own highway labor and road tax—the number of days to be accounted to and audited by the commissioners of highways: Provided, That when there are no funds from fines and commutations, the commissioners may pay the overseers out of other funds in their hands, if they think proper.

(208.) SEC. XV. It shall be the duty of the overseer of highways to warn all residents of his district, against whom a land road tax is assessed, giving them three days' notice to work out the same upon the highways, and he shall receive such tax in labor from every able-bodied man, or his substitute, at the rate of seventy-five cents per day, and any person or his agent may pay such tax in road labor at the rate of seventy-five cents per day, or in that proportion, for a less amount: Provided, That any person may elect to pay such tax to the overseer in money.

(209.) SEC. XVI. It shall be the duty of the overseer of highways, when such land tax has been paid, either in money or labor, to write the word "paid," distinctly, against each name or tract on his list on which the same has been paid.

(210.) SEC. XVII. Every overseer of highways shall deliver to the supervisor of his town, at least five days previous to the annual meeting of the board of supervisors, the list furnished by the commissioners of highways, containing the land road tax, with an affidavit thereon, sworn to before some justice of the peace of said town, that on all tracts of land on such list, opposite which the word "paid" is not written, such tax is due and remains unpaid, according to the best of his belief and knowledge.

(211.) SEC. XVIII. If any overseer shall refuse or neglect to deliver such list to the supervisor, as is provided in the last preceding section, or shall neglect or refuse to make the affidavit as therein directed, he shall, for every such offense, forfeit the sum of five dollars, and also the amount of tax or taxes remaining unpaid, to be recovered by the commissioners of highways of the town, and to be applied by them in improving the roads and bridges of such town.

(212.) SEC. XIX. It shall be the duty of the supervisors of the several towns to receive the list of the overseers of highways when delivered pursuant to the preceding section, and to lay the same before the supervisors of the county.

(213.) SEC. XX. It shall be the duty of the board of supervisors to cause the amount of such arrearages of road tax to be levied on the lands so returned, and to be collected in the same manner that the contingent charges of the county are levied and collected, and to order the same when collected to be paid over to the commissioners of highways of the towns, to be by them applied to the construction of roads and bridges.

(214.) SEC. XXI. It shall be the duty of every overseer of highways, to have at least three-fourths of the road labor assessed in his district worked out or actually expended on the highways previous to the first day of October in every year.

(215.) SEC. XXII. Every overseer of highways shall, on the second Tuesday next preceding the time of holding the annual town meeting in his town, within the year for which he is elected and appointed, render to one of the commissioners of highways of the town an account in writing, containing,

1st. The names of all persons assessed to work on the highways in the district of which he is overseer;

2nd. The names of all those who have actually worked on the highways, with the number of days they have actually worked;

3rd. The names of all those who have been fined, and the sums in which they have been fined;

4th. The names of all those who have commuted, and the manner in which the moneys arising from fines and commutations have been expended by him; and,

5th. The amount of uncollected road tax which he has returned to the supervisor of the town, as required in section seventeen of this article.

(216.) SEC. XXIII. Every such overseer shall also then and there pay to the commissioners all moneys remaining in his hands unexpended, to be applied by the commissioners in making and improving the roads and bridges in the town, in such manner as they shall direct.

(217.) SEC. XXIV. If any overseer shall refuse or neglect to render such account, or if having rendered the same, he refuse or neglect to pay any balance which may then be due from him, he shall, for every such offense, forfeit the sum of five dollars, to be recovered with the balance of the moneys remaining in his hands, by the commissioners of highways of the town, and to be applied in making and improving the roads and bridges. It shall be the duty of the commissioners to prosecute for such penalty, in every instance in which no return is made.

ARTICLE TWENTY-FOURTH.

(218.) SEC. I. The commissioners of highways may alter or discontinue any road, or lay out any new road, when petitioned by any number of legal voters, not less than twelve, residing within three miles of the road so to be altered, discontinued or laid out. Said petition shall set forth in writing a description of the road, and what part thereof is to be altered or discontinued; and if for a new road, the names of the owners of lands, if known, over which the road is to pass, the point at which it is to commence, its general course, and the place at or near where it is to terminate.

(219.) SEC. II. Whenever any number of legal voters determine to petition the commissioners of highways for the alteration or discontinuance of any road, or laying out of any new road, they shall cause a copy of their petition to be posted up in three of the most public places in the town, twenty days before any action shall be had in reference to said petition.

(220.) SEC. III. Whenever the commissioners of highways shall receive a petition in compliance with the two preceding sections, they shall, or a majority of them, within ten days after the expiration of the twenty days required in section two of this article, personally examine the proposed alteration, discontinuance, or route for the new road proposed to be laid out, and shall hear any reasons that may be offered for or against altering, discontinuing or laying out the same. If they shall be of opinion that such alteration, discontinuance or laying out shall be necessary and proper, and that the public interest will be promoted thereby, they shall grant the prayer of the petitioners as hereinafter provided.

(221.) SEC. IV. Whenever the commissioners of highways shall determine to lay out any new road, or alter any old one, they shall cause a survey to be made by a competent surveyor, who shall make a report to them of such survey, accompanied with a plat, particularly describing the route by metes and bounds, courses and distances, and also the lands over which such road passes. They shall incorporate such report and survey, accompanied with the plat, in an order, to be signed by them, declaring such road so altered or laid out to be a public highway; which order, together with the petition, shall be deposited with the town clerk, who shall note the time of filing the same. In case the commissioners shall determine not to alter, discontinue or lay out any roads in accordance with any petition to them presented, they shall note the fact on the back of said petition, and deposit it with the town clerk, who shall note the time of filing the same.

(222.) SEC. V. It shall be the duty of the town clerk, whenever any order of the commissioners for laying out, altering or discontinuing a road shall be received by him, to carefully file the same, and the time hereinafter limited for appealing from such order shall be computed from the time of filing the same, but the town clerk shall not record such order until a final decision is made, and not then unless such order is confirmed.

(223.) SEC. VI. The damages sustained by reason of the laying out, or opening, or altering any road may be ascertained by the agreement of the owners and the commissioners of highways, and unless such agreement be made or the owners of the land shall, in writing, release all claims to damages, the same shall be assessed in the manner hereinafter prescribed, before such road shall be opened, or worked, or used. Every agreement and release shall be filed in the town clerk's office, and shall forever preclude such owners of such lands from all further claim for such damages. In case the commissioners and owners of land claiming damages cannot agree, it shall be the duty of the commissioners to assess the damages at what they may deem just and right to each individual claimant with which they cannot agree, and deposit a statement of the amount of damages so assessed to each individual with the town clerk, who shall note the time of filing the same. It shall be the duty of commissioners, in all cases of assessing damages, to estimate the advantages and benefits the new road or alteration of an old one will confer on complainants for the same, as well as the disadvantages.

(224.) SEC. VII. No damages shall be allowed by reason of the alteration of any old road, unless such alteration or new road passes through enclosed, cultivated or improved lands: Provided, That commissioners of highways may allow damages, when in their opinion it is absolutely necessary so to lay out a new road, either diagonally across a lot of land, or in any way so as materially to injure the same.

(225.) SEC. VIII. Any person or persons, being owners of or agents for any tract of land over which any highway, altered, discontinued or laid out, shall run, feeling themselves aggrieved by any order made by the commissioners of highways, may appeal from the same at any time within thirty days after the filing of such order in the town clerk's office. Such appeal shall note the time that such order was filed, and shall be made to three supervisors of the county, neither of which shall be a resident of the town in which said highway is situated. All persons who desire to make an appeal from such order, shall act in concert, and make their appeal to the same three supervisors.

(226.) SEC. IX. Every such appeal shall be in writing, addressed to the supervisors, and signed by the party or parties appealing. It shall briefly state the ground upon which it is made, and whether it is brought in relation to damages assessed by the commissioners of highways, or in relation to the alteration, discontinuance or laying out of the road, or whether it is brought to reverse entirely the determination of the commissioners, or only to reverse a part thereof; and in the latter case, it shall specify what part. The appeal shall be left with one of the three supervisors, by the person or persons appealing, and such person or persons shall also leave a notice of such appeal with each of the other supervisors to whom the appeal is made.

(227.) SEC. X. It shall be the duty of the supervisors to whom the appeal is made, as soon as may be convenient after the expiration of thirty days from the filing of the order in the town clerk's office from which the appeal is made, to agree upon a time when and where they will meet to consider the same; which shall be at some place deemed convenient at or near the road to be examined.

(228.) SEC. XI. The person or persons making the appeal shall cause a notice in writing, of the time and place agreed on by the three supervisors when and where they will meet, to be served on each of the commissioners of highways from whose order they appealed, and also on at least three of the petitioners who petitioned in relation to such road; which notices shall be served at least eight days before the time mentioned therein, by delivering one to each commissioner, or leaving one at each of their dwelling-houses, and in like manner shall the notices be served on each of the three petitioners.

(229.) SEC. XII. It shall be the duty of the supervisors to convene at the time and place mentioned in the notice, and to hear the proofs and allegations of the parties. They shall have power to issue process, to compel the attendance of witnesses, and may adjourn from time to time, as may be necessary. Their decision, or that of any two of them, shall embrace the whole matter in controversy. They shall first consider the propriety and expediency of locating, altering or discontinuing the road; secondly, the subject of damages, if such subject was embraced in the appeal under which they are acting, and they shall fix upon the amount of damages, which, in their judgment, is right and just to be paid to each person claiming, but no person shall be entitled to a re-assessment of damages unless his or her name appears in the appeal in reference to that subject. The supervisors shall be governed by the same, unless in assessing damages as is provided in section sixth of this article, for the government of commissioners of highways in such case.

(230.) SEC. XIII. Every such supervisor shall be entitled to receive one dollar and fifty cents for every day employed in hearing and deciding such appeal, to be paid by the party appealing, where the determination of the commissioners shall be affirmed; but where it is reversed, to be charged against the town.

(231.) SEC. XIV. Upon the refusal of the commissioners to alter, discontinue or lay out any new road petitioned for as provided in section one of this article, any one of the petitioners may appeal from such determination, in the same manner, and subject to the same provisions and restrictions, as relates to persons who feel themselves aggrieved by a determination of the commissioners to alter, discontinue or lay out a new road.

(232.) SEC. XV. Where an appeal shall have been made from a determination of the commissioners refusing to lay out, alter or discontinue a road, and the supervisors shall reverse such determination, such supervisors shall alter, discontinue or lay out the road applied for, as the case may be, and in doing so shall proceed in the same manner in which commissioners of highways are directed to proceed in the like cases. Such roads shall be opened by the commissioners of the town, in the same manner as if laid out by themselves.

(233.) SEC. XVI. In case any one of the supervisors to whom such application shall have been made, shall become unable to attend before the determination of such appeal, it shall be the duty of the remaining supervisors named therein to associate with themselves another of the supervisors of the same county, who shall act with them in all subsequent proceedings, in the same manner as if he had been originally named in such appeal. In case the term of office of any supervisor shall expire before the determination of such appeal, he shall continue to act in the premises the same as if he had been re-elected.

(234.) SEC. XVII. The amount of damages as finally settled by the three supervisors, or as agreed on by the commissioners of highways, together with all charges of officers and other persons employed in laying out, altering or discontinuing any road, shall be rendered by the commissioners of highways to the board of town auditors, with the amount of damages and charges due each individual; which accounts shall be audited by said board, certified to and deposited with the town clerk. The town clerk shall make out the aggregate amount of such damages and charges, with his certificate thereto attached, and deliver the same to the supervisor of the town, previous to the annual meeting of the board of supervisors.

(235.) SEC. XVIII. After a final decision by any three supervisors to whom any road difficulty has been appealed, if in the opinion of the supervisor, town clerk, the justices of the peace, and the commissioners of highways, or any five of them, the damages are manifestly too high, and that in providing for the payment thereof, an oppressive tax will have to be levied on the property of said town, they may petition the board of supervisors, at any meeting of said board held within six months after such decision, for relief, either from the whole or part of the damages. The board shall hear the reasons for and against granting such relief, and if a majority of them shall be of opinion that the town should be relieved from the whole amount of damages, then and in that case the opening of said road shall be postponed until the damages, or a major part thereof, are in some other way provided for than by levying a tax upon the property of the town.

(236.) SEC. XIX. When the commissioners of highways of any town shall disagree with the commissioners of any other town of the same county, relating to the laying out of a new road, or the alteration of an old road, extending into both towns, or when the commissioners of a town in one county shall disagree with the commissioners of a town in another county, relative to the laying out of a new road, or altering an old road, which shall extend into both counties, the commissioners of both towns shall meet together, at the request of either disagreeing commissioner, and make their determination upon such subject of disagreement.

(237.) SEC. XX. Whenever the commissioners of highways of any town receive a petition, praying the location of a new road, alteration or discontinuance of an old one, upon the line between two towns, such road shall be laid out, altered or discontinued by two or more of the commissioners of highways of each of said towns, either upon such line or as near thereto as the convenience of the ground will admit, and they may so vary the same, either to the one or the other side of such line, as they may think proper.

(238.) SEC. XXI. It shall be the duty of the said commissioners, when there may be such highway, to divide it into two or more road districts, in such manner, that the labor and expense of opening, working and keeping in repair such highway, through each of the said districts, may be equal, as near as may be, and to allot an equal number of the said districts to each of the said towns.

(239.) SEC. XXII. Each district shall be considered as wholly belonging to the town to which it shall be allotted for the purpose of opening and improving the road, and keeping it in repair, and the commissioners shall cause such highway, and the partition and allotment thereof, to be recorded in the office of town clerk, in each of their respective towns.

(240.) SEC. XXIII. All highways heretofore laid out upon the line between any two towns, shall be divided, allotted, recorded and kept in repair in the manner above directed.

(241.) SEC. XXIV. Whenever the commissioners of highways shall have laid out any public highway through any inclosed, cultivated or improved lands, in conformity with the provisions of this act, and their determination shall not have been appealed from, they shall give the owner or occupant of the land through which such road shall have been laid, sixty days' notice, in writing, to remove his fences. If such owner does not remove his fences within sixty days, the commissioners shall cause such fences to be removed, and shall direct the road to be opened and worked.

(242.) SEC. XXV. If the determination of the commissioners shall have been appealed from, then the sixty days' notice shall be given after the decision of the supervisors upon such appeal shall have been filed in the office of the town clerk of the town.

(243.) SEC. XXVI. The public roads now existing by law are declared the public highways of the town in which they shall lie.

(244.) SEC. XXVII. Any person liable to be assessed for road labor, may apply to the commissioners of highways to lay out a private road, and the commissioners shall proceed to examine into the merits of such application, and be governed in their proceedings by the rules and regulations prescribed in this act, in relation to public roads. The damages assessed, in consequence of the laying out of such private road, shall be paid by the person applying for the same.

(245.) SEC. XXVIII. Whenever the commissioners of highways shall have laid out any public highway through any inclosed, cultivated or improved lands, in conformity to the provisions of this act, and their determination shall not have been appealed from, they shall give the owner or occupant of the lands through which such road shall have been laid, sixty days' notice, in writing, to remove his fences. If such owner shall not remove his fences within sixty days, the commissioner shall cause such fences to be removed, and shall direct the road to be opened and worked.

(246.) SEC. XXIX. All public roads to be laid out by the commissioners of highways of any town shall not be less than four rods wide, and all private roads shall not be more than three rods wide.

(247.) SEC. XXX. Every private road, when laid out, shall be for the use of the applicant applying for the same, his heirs and assigns, but not to be converted to any other use or purpose than that of a road.

(248.) SEC. XXXI. The public roads now existing by law, are declared the public highways of the town in which such roads shall lie, and this act shall not be construed as conferring any power on commissioners of highways to alter State roads now or hereafter existing by law.

ARTICLE TWENTY-FIFTH.

(249.) SEC. I. Each town acting under township organization shall constitute an election precinct, and the supervisor, assessor and collector shall be ex officio judges of elections. The supervisor, or, in case of his absence, the town clerk, shall post up notices of general elections, in like manner as is now required of sheriffs and county clerks, under the general laws of this State.

(250.) SEC. II. The county judge, sitting as a county court, without associates, in counties acting under township organization, shall have the same jurisdiction of suits brought by collectors for taxes on delinquent lands and town lots, as the county courts have under existing laws, and all acts of county courts, heretofore done in suits for taxes on delinquent lands and town lots, are hereby legalized.

(251.) SEC. III. The several wards in the city of Chicago shall be entitled to elect one supervisor in each ward, in addition to the township supervisors, and the several supervisors so elected shall be members of the board of supervisors of Cook county, and shall have, possess and enjoy all the rights, powers and privileges that are now or hereafter shall be possessed and enjoyed by the several township supervisors, when voting as a county court. The election for such supervisors to be held at the same time and in the same manner as the election for township supervisors.

(252.) SEC. IV. Upon the petition of fifty legal voters of any county acting under township organization, it shall be the duty of the county clerk, upon the filing of such petition with him, to cause notices to be posted up in three of the most public places in each town of such county, at least twenty days previous to the next annual town meeting, that the question of township organization, under this act, will be voted upon. At such meeting said vote shall be taken by ballot, to be written or printed, or partly written and partly printed, "For township organization," or "Against township organization," and shall be canvassed and returned in like manner as votes for State and county officers.

(253.) SEC. V. If it shall appear by the returns of said election, that a majority of all voters voting at such election have voted against township organization, then the county so voting shall cease to act under such organization, from and after the election and qualification of such county officers, as are provided for in such counties as have never adopted township organization.

(254.) SEC. VI. At the next general election after the voters of any such county have determined against township organization, there shall be an election for all the officers required by law in counties that have never adopted township organization, except such officers as may have been previously elected, and are entitled to hold over; and notice of such election shall be given as is now provided by law.

(255.) SEC. VII. It shall be the duty of the secretary of State to cause to be printed, immediately on the adjournment of the General Assembly, three thousand copies of this act, and shall cause the same to be forwarded to the county clerks of the several counties acting under township organization, to be by them distributed amongst the several towns in said counties.

(256.) SEC. VIII. An act entitled "An act to provide for township and county organization, under which any county may organize whenever a majority of voters of such county, at any general election, shall so determine," is hereby repealed, but no rights accrued or liabilities incurred under said act shall be affected hereby.

(257.) SEC. IX. This act shall be applicable to counties or townships heretofore organized, as fully as to those that may be organized hereafter, and take effect on the first day of April next.

An Act supplemental to "An Act to provide for Township Organization."

[Approved Feb. 17, 1851. Laws, 1851, p. 135.]

(258.) SEC. (265.) SEC. IV. All considerations of money, or other things paid or allowed by the master, upon any contract of service or apprenticeship, made in pursuance of this act, shall be paid or secured to the sole use of the minor hereby bound.

(266.) SEC. V. The overseers of the poor shall inquire into the treatment of all children bound by them, and of all who shall have been bound by their predecessors in office, and defend them from all cruelty, neglect and breach of contract on the part of their masters.

(268.) SEC. VII. After a free hearing of the parties, or of the complaint alone, if the master shall neglect to appear, the court may render a judgment, or decree, that the minor be discharged from his apprenticeship or service, and for the costs of the suit against the master, and may issue execution for the same.

(269.) SEC. VIII. If the complaint shall not be maintained, and it shall appear to the satisfaction of the said court that the complaint was made without any just or reasonable cause, the court shall render judgment for the costs against the complainant.

(273.) SEC. III. The supervisors of the several towns shall lay before the board of supervisors, at their first meeting after the annual town election, their several certificates of election, which shall be examined by the board of supervisors, and if found regular, shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the county court.

The board of supervisors shall have full and complete power and jurisdiction to alter the boundaries of towns, to change town lines, and to divide or enlarge towns in their respective counties, to suit the convenience of the inhabitants residing therein; but no new town shall be created under the provisions of this act, unless there shall be at least thirty legal voters residing in such new town, nor unless at least twenty of such legal voters of such town shall petition for such alteration.

Any person appointed and qualified as provided for in this section, shall have full power and authority to collect the taxes charged in the tax list, and for that purpose he may levy on and make sale of goods and chattels, and do all and everything necessary to be done in the premises, in like manner as town collectors are authorized to do by the general laws relative to the collection of the revenue.

(280.) SEC. X. The board of supervisors shall fix the time at which such collector shall make return and settlement for the taxes collected by him: Provided, That such time shall in no case exceed sixty days from the time the tax list is delivered to said collector, and the county collector is hereby authorized and required to collect the taxes due on any assessment made under the provisions of this act on non-resident property, by sale or otherwise, in like manner as he is authorized to do in cases of regular assessments: Provided, That in cases where the return and settlement of the town collector, as contemplated in this section, is made after the first day of July, the abstract or list of the delinquent lands required to be furnished to the auditor's office, shall not be so furnished. The fifty per cent. required by section twenty-four of the "Act regulating the collection of the revenue," to be charged on the delinquent lands, shall not be charged in cases where the return is not made until after the first day of July as aforesaid, until after the thirtieth day of October next thereafter, but on all taxes remaining due on the first day of November, in that year, on any such delinquent lands, the clerk shall add the fifty per cent., according to section twenty-four aforesaid, to such delinquent taxes, and add the aggregate thereof to the tax of the subsequent year, and the amount so charged shall be collected in like manner as other taxes on delinquent lands are required to be collected.

(281.) SEC. XI. In all cases when the collector of any town shall not have paid over to the county collector the State revenue, prior to the time such county collector is required to pay said revenue into the State treasury, the county collector shall pay over the State revenue collected in said town within thirty days after the time of settlement with the town collectors.

(282.) SEC. XII. At the first meeting of the commissioners of highways after they shall have been duly elected and qualified, they shall proceed to choose one of their number treasurer. The treasurer so chosen shall receive and have charge of all moneys raised in the town for the support and maintenance of roads and bridges. He shall hold such moneys at all times subject to the order of the commissioners of highways, and shall pay them over upon their order, or a majority of said commissioners, and not otherwise. He shall execute bond with good and sufficient security, in such sum as the supervisor and town clerk shall determine, conditioned for the faithful discharge of his duties as such treasurer, and that he will honestly and faithfully account for and pay over, upon the order of the commissioners of highways, all moneys that shall come to his hands by virtue of his said office, which bond shall be payable to the supervisor, approved by the supervisor and town clerk, and filed in the town clerk's office.

(283.) SEC. XIII. Said award shall be final and conclusive of the amount of damages sustained by such person, and the amount so awarded shall be audited, levied and collected in the same manner provided in the next preceding section of this act, and the overseer of highways shall be authorized and warranted, and is hereby fully empowered, to take such materials as aforesaid, for the purposes contemplated in this section, as soon as such award shall be made.

Said justices of the peace and constables shall be elected in the same manner and shall hold their offices for the same term of time, as other justices of the peace and constables. (288.) SEC. XVIII. The third section of the twenty-fifth article of the act to which this is an amendment, is hereby declared to be applicable to the city of Peoria, and the several wards in said city of Peoria shall be entitled to elect one supervisor in each ward, in addition to the town supervisor, who shall have the same powers, and perform the same duties as the additional supervisors provided for in said section third of article twenty-fifth are authorized to exercise and perform as members of the board of supervisors.

(289.) SEC. XIX. The additional supervisor provided for in the second section of third article of the act to which this is an amendment, shall be called an assistant supervisor, and shall be elected as such, and shall have no power or authority except as a member of the board of supervisors.

(290.) SEC. XX. The affidavit required to be sworn to by overseers of highways in section seventeen of the twenty-third article of the act to which this is an amendment, may be made and sworn to, and the oath therein required may be administered by the supervisor of the town, or by any justice of the peace.

An Act in relation to the Compilation and Distribution of the General Laws of the State of Illinois relative to Township Organization.

[Approved Feb. 9, 1855. Laws, 1855, p. 188.]

(303.) SEC. I. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly, That upon delivery to the secretary of State of a number of copies sufficient to supply each township in the State, in the counties adopting township organization, with ten copies for each township, of a work entitled "A compilation of all the general laws of the State of Illinois relative to township organization, to which are added numerous practical forms and notes, with references to decisions of the older States on questions upon like statutes, with a copious index, by Elijah M. Haines, counselor at law," the said secretary of State shall give to the said Elijah M. Haines, the compiler of said work, or to his order, a certificate of the delivery thereof, stating therein the number of copies so delivered; the number required, as contemplated by this act, to be ascertained from the records of the office of the auditor of public accounts.

(304.) SEC. II. That on presentation of the said certificate to the auditor of public accounts, he shall draw his warrant on the treasurer for such sum as the number of copies so delivered as aforesaid shall amount to, at the price for which the same shall be sold to individuals, provided the same shall not exceed twenty-five cents per copy.

which shall be transmitted by the secretary of State to the several county clerks of said counties, to be distributed among the several town officers as the board of supervisors shall order.

(306.) SEC. IV. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

PRIOR LAWS. An act to provide for township and county organization, under which any county may organize, whenever a majority of voters of such county, at any general election, shall so determine; approved Feb. 12, 1849. Laws, 1849, p. 190. Repealed April 1, 1851.

An act to extend the time for collectors, in counties which have adopted township organization, to complete their duties; approved Jan. 24, 1850. Laws, 1851, p. 7.

DECISIONS. The General Assembly can provide no system of township organization, except under and by virtue of the 6th section, 7th article of the constitution of 1848; and, thereupon, the right of a county to adopt such organization, depends on the affirmative vote of a majority of all the legal voters of the county; and the power of the county court over the business of the county, continues till organization is adopted by such vote. The township organization law of Feb. 12, 1849, is in force in such counties as have adopted it by a majority of all their voters. That portion of the 4th section of that law, which is inconsistent with the constitution, may be disregarded without invalidating the whole law. The People v. Brown et al., 11 Ill. 478.

Under the township law of 1849, the annual meeting of the board of supervisors is in November, and the board may elect a temporary chairman, whether there be a regular chairman or not. Any meeting of the board, at which a quorum is present, is valid. That part of the township law, which gives jurisdiction over county affairs to the board of supervisors, took effect on the 1st Tuesday of April, 1850. The township law does not abolish county corporations, but changes the name. Suits instituted in the old name are not abated by the change. Town of Ottawa v. La Salle County, 11 Ill. 654.

Under the township law of Feb. 17, 1851, the county treasurer is allowed a commission of two per cent. on all money received and paid into the state treasury, by whoever paid him; and this commission is in full compensation, from the State, for his services for the State. The word "fees," in the law, refers only to the costs allowed the collector for preparing the delinquent list for publication, for selling the lands, and for conveying to purchasers, which "fees" are paid by the owners or the purchasers. The collectors are repaid the printer's fees, by the sale of the lands, and he has no claim for any of them, except what is charged on lands forfeited to the State. The People v. Long, 13 Ill. 629.

Though the constitution makes no provision for the abandonment of the township organization system, yet the legislature may provide for its abrogation by pursuing the same course, and adopting the same guarantees to protect the rights of all, which the constitution requires in the adoption of the system; that is, it should be done at a general election, and by a majority of all the voters. The People ex rel. v. Couchman, 15 Ill. 142.

DECISIONS. Under the act of Feb. 27, 1819, to prevent trespassing by cutting timber, the act of the defendant must be proved to have been his own personal act, or the act of his servants or agents, done by his express or implied authority. Cushing v. Dill, 2 S. 460.

In the act of Feb. 1819, the word "owner," means one who has an estate in fee simple, and such ownership must be proved by the plaintiff in order to recover. Wright v. Bennett, 3 S. 258.

Under the act to prevent trespassing by cutting timber, proof of actual possession of the premises by the plaintiff, claiming title in fee simple, is presumptive evidence of title in him to that extent, and throws the burden of rebutting such presumption on the defendant. In the absence of such proof on the part of the plaintiff, he must produce the best evidence the case will admit of, such as his deeds and documentary evidence of title. Mason v. Park, 3 S. 532.

In an action of debt, under the statute for cutting timber, the plaintiff must prove title in himself to the land on which the trespass was committed; and the absence of such proof cannot be supplied by proof of possession. Whiteside et ux. v. Divers, 4 S. 336. See also, Clay v. Boyer, 5 G. 506.

When the wife is joined with the husband in such action, proof of an estate in the wife will sustain the action. Idem.

Under the 1st section of chapter CIV, Rev. Stat. 1845, the declaration must allege that the trees were felled without first having permission of the owner; and all the facts upon which the statute finds the penalty must be averred, and the different classes of trees enumerated. The acts of the defendant must be proved to have been committed knowingly and willfully; but the declaration need not aver them to have been done contrary to the form of the statute, if it clearly appears to be framed on the statute. Whitcraft et al. v. Vanderver, 12 Ill. 235.

To sustain the action for cutting timber, under the statute of 1845, it is enough that the defendant cut the trees on the plaintiff's land, and that he knew at the time, or had good reason to know, that the land was not his own. But he would not be liable if he really believed he was cutting on his own land, and was not culpably ignorant of its true boundaries. Watkins v. Gale, 13 Ill. 152.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 527.]

(1.) SECTION I. If either party, in any civil cause, in law or equity, which may be depending in any circuit court, shall fear that he will not receive a fair trial in the court in which the action is pending, on account that the judge is interested or prejudiced, or is related to, or shall have been of counsel for either party; or, that the adverse party has an undue influence over the minds of the inhabitants of the county wherein the action is pending; or, that the inhabitants of such county are prejudiced against the applicant, so that he cannot expect a fair trial, such party may apply to the court, in term time, or the judge thereof in vacation, by petition, setting forth the cause of the application, and praying a change of venue, accompanied by an affidavit, verifying the facts in the petition stated; and such court or judge, reasonable notice of the application having been given to the other party or his attorney, shall award a change of venue to some county where the causes complained of do not exist; and in all such cases where the judge is interested or is related to, or shall have been counsel for either party, the court in term time, may award a change of venue, as aforesaid, in its discretion, without any application from either party: Provided, That neither party shall have more than one change of venue.

(2.) SEC. II. Whenever any appeal shall be depending in any of the circuit courts of State, from any assessment of damages for land or other property taken under the authority of any law of this State, for the use of any railroad, canal, turnpike or any other highway, or for any purpose whatever, it shall and may be lawful for the people, or county, or other corporation, or person for whose use such land or other property is to be taken, or the person conducting the appeal in their behalf, or for the claimant or claimants, or his, her or their agents, or attorney at law, or attorney in fact, to file his, her or their affidavit in writing, stating that he, she or they verily believe that a fair and impartial trial of said appeal cannot be had in the court where the said appeal is depending, on account that either the judge of the court, or the people of the county, are interested or prejudiced against the cause of the party on whose behalf said application is made, or in favor of the cause of the other party, or for or against the parties as aforesaid.

(3.) SEC. III. On filing such affidavit, it shall be the duty of the court to change the venue of said cause to some convenient county, to which objections shall not be made by similar affidavit. And said appeal shall be docketed and tried in the court to which the venue thereof is changed, in the same manner as if it had been originally instituted there.

(4.) SEC. IV. If any objection shall be taken to any such appeal on account of any defect in the appeal bond, such objection shall not be sustained: Provided, The appellant, his, her or their agent or attorney, shall enter into and acknowledge such bond, with sufficient security as may be approved by said court.

(5.) SEC. V. When any defendant in any indictment or information in any court in this State shall fear that he will not receive a fair and impartial trial in the court in which the trial is pending, on account that the judge is prejudiced, or that the minds of the inhabitants of the county, wherein the trial is pending, are prejudiced against him, such party may apply to the court in term time, or the judge thereof in vacation, for a change of venue by petition, setting forth the cause of such application, verified by affidavit, reasonable previous notice being given to the attorney general, or circuit attorney, prosecuting for the district, and the court or judge shall award a change of venue to the next nearest county where the causes complained of do not exist; and in case the applicant be in custody, or confined in jail, the court or judge shall make an order to the sheriff to remove the body of such applicant to the common jail of the county to which the venue is changed, and there deliver him to the keeper of said jail, together with the warrant by virtue of which he is confined, or held in custody, not more than three days next before the first day of the term of said court; and the sheriff shall obey such order accordingly, and shall indorse on such warrant of commitment, the reason of change of custody, and shall deliver such warrant, with the body of the prisoner, to the keeper of the jail of the proper county, who shall receive the same, and give to the sheriff a receipt therefor, and shall take charge of, and keep the prisoner, in the same manner as if he had originally been committed to his custody: Provided, There shall be but one change of venue in any criminal case.

(6.) SEC. VI. Changes of venue shall not be granted after the first term of the court at which the party applying might have been heard, unless the party so applying shall show that the causes for which the change is asked have arisen, or come to his, her or their knowledge, subsequent to the term at which the application might have been made; and shall also have given to the opposite party ten days' previous notice of his or their intention to make such application, except in cases where the causes have arisen or come to the knowledge of the party making the application, within less than ten days of making the same.

(7.) SEC. VII. In civil causes, wherein there are two or more plaintiffs or defendants, a change of venue shall not be granted, unless the application is made by or with the consent of all the parties, plaintiffs or defendants, as the case may be; and in criminal cases, where this application is made by a part of the defendants, and is granted, a copy of the indictment, and not the original, shall be transmitted to the court to which the change of venue is ordered; and the copy, certified by the clerk to be correctly made, shall stand as the original.

(8.) SEC. VIII. In all cases wherein a change of venue may be awarded, for any cause whatever, the same may be awarded to the next adjoining circuit, if it may suit the convenience of the parties, as well as to any county in the circuit in which the suit was instituted.

(9.) SEC. IX. When any judge shall award a change of venue in vacation, in any cause, civil or criminal, he shall immediately transmit to the clerk of the court wherein the cause is pending, the petition and affidavit, together with an order in writing, ordering and directing the change of venue; and such clerk shall file the same in his office, and shall make out a copy thereof, and a full transcript of the record and proceedings in such cause, and shall certify and transmit the same to the proper court, together with all papers filed in the cause, and appertaining or forming part of the record, including in criminal cases, the indictment and recognizance of the party, and all witnesses; and the clerk of the court to which such cause is certified, shall file the same; and the cause shall be docketed by such clerk, and shall be proceeded in and determined by the court, in all things as well before and after judgment as if it had originated therein.

(10.) SEC. X. When any change of venue shall be granted in term time, the like proceedings shall be had, and duties performed by the clerks and sheriffs respectively, as in the preceding section: Provided, No change of venue shall be granted, in any criminal case, until after indictment found.

(11.) SEC. XI. The expenses attending a change of venue, in a civil case, shall be taxed by the clerk of the court from which the cause is certified, according to the rates established by law, for like services, and shall be paid by the petitioner, and not taken as part of the costs in the suit; and if the petitioner shall neglect or refuse to pay the same to such clerk within fifteen days after the change of venue is awarded, such clerk may make out a fee bill against such petitioner and his security for costs, (if any,) and deliver the same to any sheriff of any county in this State, who shall levy and collect the amount of such fee bill, and twenty per cent. thereon, for the use and benefit of such clerk, in the same manner as on executions, and such sheriff shall be entitled to like fees as on execution; Provided, That where the venue is changed without application from either party, the costs of such change shall abide the event of the suit.

(12.) SEC. XII. When the venue shall be changed in any criminal case, the parties, witnesses and all others who may have entered into recognizances, to attend the trial of such cause, having notice of the change of venue, shall be and are hereby required to attend, at the time and place the trial is to be had, according to such change, and a failure to do so shall work a forfeiture of the recognizance.

(13.) SEC. XIII. When the venue is changed in term time, in a criminal case, the attorney general or circuit attorney shall have all witnesses on the part of the prosecution, recognized to appear at the court, on the first day thereof when the trial is to be had.

(14.) SEC. XIV. In all cases where a change of venue shall be ordered in a criminal case, if the defendant shall be convicted, and imprisonment shall be a part of the judgment, the sheriff of the county where such conviction shall be had, shall immediately take such prisoner and convey him to the county where the crime shall have been committed, and deliver him to the sheriff thereof, and take his receipt therefor, who shall retain him in custody, according to the judgment of said court; and all costs and charges incurred in removing any prisoner as aforesaid, shall be allowed and paid out of the county treasury, where the crime shall have been committed, if the defendant be unable to pay the same.

(15.) SEC. XV. All questions concerning the regularity of proceeding in obtaining changes of venue, and the right of the court to which the change is made, to try the cause and execute the judgment, shall be considered as waived after trial and verdict.

An Act allowing Persons arrested on Criminal Charges to remove the place of Examination, as therein provided.

[Approved Feb. 11, 1847. Laws, 1847, p. 46.]

(16.) SEC. I. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly, That when any person is arrested on any criminal charge, and taken before any justice of the peace for examination, he or she shall have the privilege of removing said examination from before said justice, upon filing an affidavit that said justice is so prejudiced against him or her that he or she believes they cannot have a fair and impartial investigation before said justice; and upon the filing of said affidavit, it shall be the duty of said justice to transmit all the papers connected with or growing out of said examination, to the next nearest acting justice of the peace, or, in case of his absence or sickness, before any other justice of the peace of the next adjoining precinct in the county, who shall proceed to hear and determine the matter as though the same had been originally commenced before him: Provided, The constable having the defendant in charge shall hold him in his custody until the complaint shall be heard and disposed of by the justice to whom the papers shall be sent as aforesaid.

An act to amend the law in relation to change of venue; in force Feb. 1, 1840. Laws, 1840, p. 36. Repealed Feb. 23, 1841.

DECISIONS. When a petition for change of venue is made, and verified by an affidavit according to the statute, the obligation of the court to allow it is imperative. Clark v. The People, 1 S. 117.

Reasonable notice of a motion for a change of venue should be given to the adverse party; and what constitutes reasonable notice is left to the discretion of the court. Berry v. Wilkinson et al., 1 S. 164.

Four persons were indicted, and one obtained a change of venue without the consent of the others, and was tried, the indictment was returned to the county where it was found, and the three tried in that county; the proceedings were held to be right, and the court of the county to which the venue was changed, should have returned the indictment to the county where it was found, and retained a copy on its records. Hunter et al. v. The People, 1 S. 453.

A change of venue may be granted by consent, in a criminal case, without petition or affidavit; and the court to which the cause is sent, cannot inquire into the regularity of the order granting the change. The People v. Scates, 3 S. 351.

After trial and verdict, a prisoner cannot object to the jurisdiction of the court to which the cause was sent by change of venue. When a motion for change of venue is made, by reason of the prejudice of the inhabitants, it is a proper practice to require the plea first to be entered. Gardner v. The People, 3 S. 83.

Under the statute, when a change of venue is ordered, the clerk should certify and transmit a transcript of the previous proceedings in the case as they appear of record, and also all the original papers filed in the case, certifying to their genuineness. The court to which the venue is changed must have such transcript and original papers before them in order to hear and determine the case; and when such transcript and papers are not transmitted by the clerk, the court to which the venue has been changed, may grant a rule on the clerk to transmit them, and continue the case for that purpose. Where the requisite certificate is not attached to the transcript and papers, the cause may be dismissed on motion, unless a cross-motion be interposed for a rule on the clerk for a proper transcript. Wight v. Kirkpatrick, 4 S. 339.

An affidavit that the party entertained serious and well-grounded fears, that he would not receive a fair and impartial trial, on account of the prejudices that he believed existed in the mind of the judge, and that he believed these prejudices so great against him, that he would be unsafe in submitting to a trial before him, is sufficient for a change of venue, under the statute. McGoon v. Little et al., 2 G. 42.

Only the parties to the record, and not third persons, can apply for a change of venue. Crowell v. Maughis, 2 G. 419.

A prisoner, indicted for murder, moved a change of venue by reason of the prejudice of the inhabitants of the county; the court ordered a change to a county not the nearest. To this the prisoner objected, and moved a change out of the circuit, alleging prejudice in the judge: Held, that the court erred in the change to a county not the nearest, and that all the subsequent proceedings were erroneous. Baxter v. The People, 2 G. 578.

A change of venue, out of the circuit, was ordered, on condition that the party should pay the costs thereof, and cause the transcript and papers to be filed in the court to which the change was ordered, within fifteen days before the next term thereof. It was held that such conditions could not be imposed, that the party was at liberty to disregard them, and that the change was consummated by the order of the court, independent of the conditions. Bellingall v. Duncan et al., 2 G. 591.

A party who had obtained a change of venue, taken several steps in the cause, consented to a continuance, and at a subsequent term submitted the cause for trial, without objecting that the original papers had not been transmitted, is too late to apply for an order of dismissal for that cause; application for a rule on the clerk to transmit the papers should have been made at the first term after the change. Granger v. Warrington, 3 G. 299.

The omission of a clerk to append a certificate to the transcript, that a paper transmitted therewith was an original indictment, should not vitiate the proceedings; especially as the objection was not made in the circuit court. Holliday v. The People, 4 G. 111.

If, on application for a change of venue, the party swear that information of the facts sworn came to his knowledge on the day the petition was drawn, and the notice given of the motion, it is equivalent to stating that he then received the information for the first time. It is error to refuse a change of venue when a clear right to it is shown; and in such case all subsequent proceedings will be set aside. Barrows v. The People, 11 Ill. 121.

The party obtaining a change of venue cannot object to a trial in the court to which the same is removed, if enough appear to give jurisdiction to that court. McBain v. Enloe, 13 Ill. 76.

When a quo warranto is re-ordered to for the enforcement of the private rights of the relator, a change of venue may be granted, under the statute. The People ex rel. v. Shaw, 13 Ill. 581.

All objections to jurisdiction by reason of an insufficient certificate of the proceedings in a change of venue, are waived, if the parties go to trial without taking exception for that cause. Only the parties who have a trial pending, are required to join in the application for a change of venue; defendants in default need not join. A defendant who has tendered an issue, and waived his right to object to a change of venue, cannot object that the change was irregular as to a co-defendant in default. Hitt v. Allen, 13 Ill. 592.

By the statute, a prisoner is entitled to a change of venue, as a matter of right, upon making the requisite application, and the change may be granted without petition and affidavit, if assented to by the prosecuting officer. Objection to a change should be made in the circuit court. Brennan et al. v. The People, 15 Ill. 511.

On application for change of venue in the recorder's court of Chicago, the recorder is vested with a discretion in the matter, and error cannot be assigned upon his decision. Maton et al. v. The People, 15 Ill. 536.

(17.) SEC. XVII. If any testator or testatrix shall have a mansion house or known place of residence, his or her will shall be proved in the court of probate of the county wherein such mansion house or place of residence shall be. If he or she has no place of residence, and lands be devised in his or her will, it shall be proved in the court of probate of the county wherein the lands lie, or in one of them, where there shall be land in several different counties; and if he or she have no such known place of residence, and there be no lands devised in such will, the same may be proved either in the county where the testator or testatrix shall have died, or that wherein his or her estate, or the greater part thereof, shall lie.

(18.) SEC. XVIII. Any person or persons who may have in his or her possession, any last will testament of another for safe-keeping or otherwise, shall, immediately upon the death of the testator or testatrix, deliver up the said will to the court of probate of the proper county; and upon a failure or refusal so to do, the court of probate may issue attachment, and compel the production of the same; and the person or persons thus withholding any such will, testament or codicil, as aforesaid, shall forfeit and pay twenty dollars per month, from the time the same shall be thus wrongfully withheld, to be recovered by action of debt for the use of the estate, by any person who will sue for the same, in any court having jurisdiction thereof; and if any person to whom a will, testament or codicil hath been, or shall be delivered by the party making it, for safe custody as aforesaid, shall alter or destroy the same without the direction of the said party, or shall willfully secrete it for the space of six months after the death of the testator or testatrix shall be known to him or her, the person so offending shall, on conviction thereof, be sentenced to such punishment as is or shall be inflicted by law in cases of larceny.

(19.) SEC. XIX. All persons named as executors in any will, testament or codicil as aforesaid, shall, after the same shall be proved and admitted to record, as before directed, be entitled to letters testamentary thereon; and where there shall be no executors named in such will, testament or codicil, or the executor named therein shall die, refuse to act or be otherwise disqualified, letters of administration, with the will annexed, shall be granted to such person or persons as may be entitled thereto; in all which cases, copies of such wills, testaments or codicils shall go out with the letters.

(20.) SEC. XX. It shall be the duty of the executor or executors of the last will and testament of any person deceased, knowing of his, her or their being so named and appointed, within thirty days next after the decease of the testator or testatrix, to cause such will to be proved and recorded in the proper county as aforesaid, or to present said will and declare his or her refusal to accept of the executorship; and every such executor or executrix, so neglecting his trust and duty as aforesaid, without just excuse for such delay, to the satisfaction of the judge of probate, shall forfeit the sum of twenty dollars per month, from and after the expiration of the said term of thirty days, until he shall cause probate of said will to be made, or present the same as aforesaid, to be recovered by action of debt, for the use of the estate, by any person who will sue for the same in any court having jurisdiction thereof.

(21.) SEC. XXI. Upon the refusal of the executor or executors to administer the estate, or upon qualification as aforesaid, the court of probate shall commit the administration of the estate of the deceased, with a copy of the will annexed, unto the widow or next of kin to the deceased; and upon their refusal, neglect or incapacity to act, may grant such administration to one or more of the principal creditors; and on their refusal, to such other person or persons as the court shall think fit.

(22.) SEC. XXII. The executor of an executor shall not, in consequence thereof, be executor of the first testator.

(23.) SEC. XXIII. Persons of the age of seventeen years, of sound mind and memory, may be appointed executors; but should any person under the age of twenty-one years, be appointed executor or executrix, the court of probate shall appoint some competent person to manage and control the estate, under the direction of the court, until such executor or executrix appointed by the will, shall attain the full age of twenty-one years; and all such persons appointed to take charge of the estate during the minority of any such executor or executrix, shall, for the time being, give bond with security as in other cases.

(24.) SEC. XXIV. The power of the executor or executors over the testator's estate, before probate of the will and obtaining letters testamentary, shall extend to the burial of the deceased, the payment of necessary funeral charges, and the taking care of the estate; but in all such cases, if the will shall be rejected when presented for probate, and such executor thereby never qualify, he shall in nowise be liable as an executor, of his own wrong, unless upon refusal to deliver up the estate to the person or persons authorized to receive the same: Provided, That this section shall not be construed to exempt any such person claiming to be executor as aforesaid, for any waste or misapplication of such estate.

(25.) SEC. XXV. Where two or more executors are appointed in and by the same will, and one or more of the persons named as such, shall die, refuse to take upon himself or herself such executorship, or be otherwise disqualified, letters testamentary shall be granted thereon to the other person or persons so named, not renouncing as aforesaid, and not disqualified.

(26.) SEC. XXVI. Every executor or administrator with the will annexed, at the time of proving the will and granting letters testamentary, or of administration as aforesaid, shall take and subscribe before the court of probate, the following oath, to wit:

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm,) that this writing contains the true last will and testament of the within named A. B., deceased, so far as I know or believe; and that I will well and truly execute the same, by paying first the debts and then the legacies mentioned therein, as far as his goods and chattels will thereunto extend, and the law charge me; and that I will make a true and perfect inventory of all such goods and chattels, rights and credits, as may come to my hands or knowledge, belonging to the estate of the said deceased, and render a fair and just account of my executorship, when thereunto required by law, to the best of my knowledge and abilities: so help me God."

Which said oath shall be administered by the probate justice, and be attached to and form a part of the probate of said will.

(27.) SEC. XXVII. All executors hereafter to be appointed, unless the testator or testatrix shall otherwise direct in the will, and all administrators with the will annexed, shall, before entering upon the duties of their executorship and administrations, respectively, enter into bond with good and sufficient security, to be approved by the court of probate, in a sum double the value of the estate, and payable to the people of the State of Illinois, for the use of the parties interested, in the following form, to wit:

"KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, That we, A. B., C. D. and E. F., of the county of _____, and State of Illinois, are held and firmly bound unto the people of the State of Illinois, in the penal sum of _____ dollars, current money of the United States, which payment well and truly to be made and performed, we, and each of us, bind ourselves, our heirs, executors and administrators, jointly, severally and firmly by these presents. Witness our hands and seals, this _____ day of _____, A. D. 18—.

The condition of the above obligation is such, that if the above bounden A. B., executor of the last will and testament of G. H., deceased, (or administrator with the will annexed, of G. H., deceased, as the case may be,) do make, or cause to be made, a true and perfect inventory of all and singular the goods and chattels, rights and credits, lands, tenements and hereditaments, and the rents and profits issuing out of the same, of the said deceased, which have or shall come to the hands, possession or knowledge of the said A. B., or into the possession of any other person for him, and the same so made do exhibit in the court of probate for the said county of _____, as required by law; and also make and render a fair and just account of his actings and doings as such executor, (or administrator) to said court, when thereunto lawfully required; and to well and truly fulfill the duties enjoined on him in and by the said will; and shall, moreover, pay and deliver to the persons entitled thereto, all the legacies and bequests contained in said will, so far as the estate of the said testator will thereunto extend, according to the value thereof, and as the law shall charge him; and shall, in general, do all other acts which may, from time to time, be required of him by law, then this obligation to be void; otherwise to remain in full force and virtue."

Which said bond shall be signed and sealed by the said executor, (or administrator,) and his securities, and attested by the probate justice, and filed in his office.

(28.) SEC. XXVIII. Where any testator or testatrix shall leave visible estate, more than sufficient to pay all his or her debts, and by will shall direct that his or her executors shall not be obliged to give security, in that case, no security shall be required; but if the court of probate shall see cause, from its own knowledge, or the suggestions of creditors or legatees, to suspect the executors of fraud, or that the personal estate will not be sufficient to discharge all the debts, such court may require security, and the same shall be given before letters testamentary shall be granted, notwithstanding any directions to the contrary in said will.

(29.) SEC. XXIX. If any person named as an executor or executrix in any last will and testament, shall be, at the time when administration ought to be granted, under the age of seventeen years, or of unsound mind, or convicted of any crime rendering him or her infamous, or shall be a married woman, letters of administration, or testamentary, (as the case may require,) may be granted, in the same manner as if such person had not been named as such in such will, unless, in the case of a married woman, her husband shall give bond with her as aforesaid, with two or more sufficient securities, to be filed as aforesaid, for her faithful performance as such executrix; and on all questions touching such disqualification, the court of probate shall receive the like testimony as would be admissible in any court of law or equity, in similar cases.

(30.) SEC. XXX. In all cases in which, by the division of any county in this State, the administrator or administratrix, to whom letters of administration may have been granted by the probate court of such county, shall, by such division, be placed beyond the limits of the county in which such letters may have been granted, then and in all such cases, the probate court of such county shall be authorized to proceed and settle the estate upon which letters of administration may have been so granted, in the same manner as if no such division had occurred.

(31.) SEC. XXXI. Courts of probate shall have power, and they are hereby required, to revoke letters of administration, in all cases where the same have been or hereafter may be granted to any person, upon the false and fraudulent pretense of being a creditor of the estate upon which administration has been or may be granted, or upon any other false pretense whatever.

(32.) SEC. XXXII. In all controversies arising under this chapter, the court of probate shall proceed to hear and determine the same; and if it shall appear that such letters were fraudulently obtained by such administrator, the court shall revoke the same, and give judgment against the administrator for all costs of suit, and issue execution therefor, as in other cases.

(33.) SEC. XXXIII. In all cases where any court of probate shall hereafter revoke any letters of administration, it shall proceed to grant the same to such person or persons as may be entitled thereto.

(34.) SEC. XXXIV. When any administrator shall resign his office in writing, and such resignation shall be accepted, the probate justice shall have power to appoint another administrator; but the acceptance of such resignation shall not be construed to exonerate any such administrator or his securities, from liabilities incurred previous to such acceptance.

(35.) SEC. XXXV. During any contest, in relation to the probate of any will, testament or codicil, before the same shall be recorded, or until a will, which may have once existed, but shall be destroyed or concealed, shall be established, and the substance thereof committed to record, with the proof thereupon taken; or during any contest in regard to the right of executorship, or to administer the estate of any person dying, either testate or intestate; or whenever any other contingency may happen, which shall be productive of great delay, before letters testamentary or of administration can be issued upon the estate of such testator or intestate, to the person or persons having legal preference to the same, the court of probate may appoint any person or persons as administrators, to collect and preserve the estate of any such decedent, until probate of his will, or until administration of his estate be granted, taking bond and security for collecting the estate, making an inventory thereof, and safe keeping and delivering up the same when thereunto required by the said court of probate, to the proper executors or administrators, whenever they shall be admitted and qualified as such.

(36.) SEC. XXXVI. The form of the letters to be granted to the person or persons so appointed to collect and preserve the estate of the decedent as aforesaid, shall be as follows, viz.:

"The People of the State of Illinois to all to whom these Presents shall come, GREETING:

Know YE, that whereas A. B., late of the county of _____, and State of Illinois, deceased, as it is said, had, at his (or her) decease, personal property within this State, the administration whereof cannot be immediately granted to the persons by law entitled thereto, but which, if speedy care be not taken, may be lost, destroyed or diminished; to the end, therefore, that the same may be preserved for those who shall appear to have a legal right or interest therein, we do hereby request and authorize C. D., (and E. F., if two shall be appointed,) of the county of _____, and State aforesaid, to collect and secure the said property, wheresoever the same may be, in this State, whether it be goods, chattels, debts or credits, and to make, or cause to be made, a true and perfect inventory thereof, and to exhibit the same, with all convenient speed, to the court of probate of the said county of _____, together with a reasonable account of his collection, acts and doings in the premises aforesaid. Witness, G. H., probate justice, in and for the said county of _____, at his office in _____, this _____ day of _____, A. D. 18____.

G. H., Probate Justice. [SEAL.]"

(37.) SEC. XXXVII. Before letters of administration to collect shall be granted as aforesaid, the person or persons so appointed as aforesaid, shall give bond, with good and sufficient security, to be approved by the court of probate, in the following form, to wit:

"KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, that we, C. D., E. F. and J. K., of the county of _____, and State of Illinois, are held and firmly bound unto the people of the State of Illinois, in the penal sum of _____ dollars, current money of the United States, for the payment of which, well and truly to be made and performed, we bind ourselves, our heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, jointly, severally and firmly by these presents. Witness our hands and seals, this _____ day of _____, 18____.

The condition of the above obligation is such, that if the above bounden C. D. shall well and honestly discharge the duties appertaining to his appointment as administrator to collect of the estate of A. B., late of the county of _____, deceased; and shall make, or cause to be made, a true and perfect inventory of all such goods, chattels, debts and credits of the said deceased, as shall come to his or her possession or knowledge, and the same in due time return to the office of the probate justice of the proper county; and shall also deliver to the person or persons authorized by the said court of probate, as executors or administrators to receive the same, all such goods, chattels and personal estate, as shall come to his or her possession as aforesaid, and shall in the general, perform such other duties as shall be required of him (or her) by law, then the above obligation to be void; otherwise to remain in full force and virtue."

Which said bond shall be signed and sealed by such administrator, and his (or her) securities, attested by the probate justice and filed in his office.

(38.) SEC. XXXVIII. Before any administrator to collect, shall enter upon the duties of his appointment as aforesaid, he or she shall take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation, before the court of probate, to wit:

"I do solemnly swear, (or affirm,) that I will well and honestly discharge the trust reposed in me as collector, or administrator to collect, of the estate of A. B., deceased, according to the tenor and effect of the letters granted to me by the court of probate of the said county of _____, to the best of my knowledge and ability: so help me God."

Which said oath shall be reduced to writing, subscribed by the party making it, and filed in the office of the probate justice before whom the same shall be taken.

(39.) SEC. XXXIX. Every collector so appointed as aforesaid, shall have power to collect the goods, chattels and debts of the said deceased, according to the tenor of the said letters, and to secure the same at such reasonable and necessary expense as shall be allowed by the court of probate; and the said court may authorize him or her, immediately after the inventory and appraisalment of such estate, to sell such as shall be perishable or may be injured by delay, and to account for the same; and for the whole trouble incurred by such collector, the court of probate may allow such commission on the amount of the said personal estate as shall be actually collected and delivered to the proper executor or administrator, as aforesaid, as said court may deem just and reasonable, provided the same shall not exceed six per cent. on the amount stated in such inventory or bill of appraisalment as aforesaid.

(40.) SEC. XL. Every collector appointed as aforesaid shall have power to commence suits for debts due to the decedent, and to release the same on payment thereof; and no such suit shall abate by the revocation of the letters of such administrator to collect, or collector, but the same may be prosecuted to a final decision by the executor or executors, administrator or administrators, to whom letters testamentary or of administration may be granted as aforesaid.

(41.) SEC. XLI. On the granting of letters testamentary or of administration as aforesaid, the power of any such collector as may have been so appointed, shall cease, and it shall be his duty to deliver, on demand, all the property and money of the deceased, which shall have come to his hands or possession, (saving such commission as may be allowed by the court of probate, as aforesaid,) to the person or persons obtaining such letters; and in case any such collector or administrator shall refuse or neglect to deliver over such property and money to his successor, when legal application shall be made therefor, such person or persons, so neglecting or refusing, shall be liable to pay twenty per cent. over and above the amount of all such property or money as shall come to his hands by virtue of his said administration; and shall, moreover, forfeit all claim to any commission for collecting and preserving the estate; which said twenty per cent., together with all damages which may be sustained by reason of the breach of any bond, which may at any time be given by any such collector, may be sued for and recovered by the person or persons to whom letters testamentary or of administration may be granted as aforesaid, for the use of the estate of such decedent.

(42.) SEC. XLII. All such estate, both real and personal, as is not devised or bequeathed in the last will and testament of any person, shall be distributed in the same manner as the estate of an intestate; but in all such cases, the executor or executors, administrator or administrators, with the will annexed, shall have the preference in administering on the same.

(43.) SEC. XLIII. If any lands, tenements or hereditaments, shall be charged with any debt or debts, by any will, testament or codicil, and the creditor whose debt is so secured, shall attest the execution of the same, such creditor shall, notwithstanding, be admitted as a witness to the execution thereof.

(44.) SEC. XLIV. In all cases where a widow shall renounce all benefit under the will, and the legacies and bequests therein contained to other persons shall, in consequence thereof, become diminished or increased in amount, quantity or value, it shall be the duty of the court of probate, upon the settlement of such estate, to abate from or add to such legacies and bequests in such manner as to equalize the loss sustained, or advantage derived thereby, in a corresponding ratio to the several amounts of such legacies and bequests, according to the intrinsic value of each.

(45.) SEC. XLV. If the widow commit waste in the lands and tenements, or the personal estate of the deceased, she shall be liable to an action by the heir or devisee, or his or her guardian, if of real estate; or by the executor or administrator, if of personal estate; and if she marry a second husband, he shall be answerable with her in damages, for any waste committed by her as aforesaid, before such second marriage, or by the husband himself after such marriage.

(46.) SEC. XLVI. Estates, both real and personal, of resident or non-resident proprietors in this State, dying intestate, or whose estates, or any part thereof, shall be deemed and taken as intestate estate, and after all just debts and claims against such estates shall be paid as aforesaid, shall descend to and be distributed to his or her children and their descendants, in equal parts; the descendants of a deceased child or grandchild taking the share of their deceased parent in equal parts among them: and when there shall be no children of the intestate, nor descendants of such children, and no widow, then to the parents, brothers and sisters of the deceased person and their descendants, in equal parts among them; allowing to each of the parents, if living, a child's part, or to the survivor of them, if one be dead, a double portion; and if there be no parent living, then to the brothers and sisters of the intestate and their descendants. When there shall be a widow and no child or children, or descendants of a child or children of the intestate, then the one-half of the real estate, and the whole of the personal estate shall go to such widow, as her exclusive estate forever; subject to her absolute disposition and control, to be governed in all respects by the same rules and regulations as are or may be provided in cases of estates of femes sole: if there be no children of the intestate, or descendants of such children, and no parents, brothers or sisters, or descendants of brothers and sisters, and no widow, then such estate shall descend in equal parts to the next of kin to the intestate, in equal degree, computing by the rules of the civil law; and there shall be no representation among collaterals, except with the descendants of the brothers and sisters of the intestate; and in no case shall there be a distinction between the kindred of the whole and the half blood, saving to the widow in all cases her dower, as provided by law.

(47.) SEC. XLVII. When any feme covert shall die intestate, leaving no child or children, or descendants of a child or children, then the one-half of the real estate of the decedent shall descend and go to her husband, as his exclusive estate forever.

(48.) SEC. XLVIII. The widow, in all cases, shall be allowed to have and retain, as her sole and separate property, one bed and bedding, the wearing apparel of herself and family, one milch cow and calf, her saddle and bridle, one horse of the value of forty dollars, household and kitchen furniture sufficient for herself and family, and provisions for the same for one year; and also, the same amount and species of property as is or may be by law exempt from execution; said property shall be retained by the widow, and set apart to her by the executor or administrator, and shall in no case be subject to the payment of the debts of the deceased.

(49.) SEC. XLIX. When an inventory shall have been made of the personal estate of any testator or intestate, the widow may relinquish her right to any or all of the specific articles of property allowed to her by the preceding section; or in case the intestate shall not leave any or all of the articles specified, she shall be entitled to other property, or the value of the same in money; and it shall be the duty of the administrator or court of probate, to allow the value of the articles specified by law to be set apart to the widow of any intestate, to be allowed her in money or other personal property at her election.

(50.) SEC. L. The right of a widow to her separate property, shall in no case be affected by her renouncing, or failing to renounce, the benefit of the provisions made for her in the will of her husband or otherwise, as provided in chapter thirty-four of the Revised Statutes.

(51.) SEC. LI. Where any of the children of a person dying intestate, or their issue, shall have received from such intestate, in his or her lifetime, any real or personal estate, by way of advancement, and shall desire to come into the partition or distribution of such estate with the other parceners or distributees, such advancement, both of real and personal estate, shall be brought into hotchpot with the whole estate, real and personal, of such intestate; and every person so returning such advancement as aforesaid, shall, thereupon, be entitled to his or her just proportion of said estate.

(52.) SEC. LII. If any man shall have one or more children by any woman whom he shall afterwards marry, such child or children, if acknowledged by the man, shall, in virtue of such marriage and acknowledgment, be thereby legitimated, and capable in law to inherit and transmit inheritance, as if born in wedlock.

(53.) SEC. LIII. If any single or unmarried woman, having estate either real or personal, in her own right, shall hereafter die, leaving one or more children, deemed in law illegitimate, such child or children shall not, on that account, be disinherited; but they and each of them, and their descendants, shall be deemed able and capable in law to take and inherit the estate of their deceased mother, in equal parts among them, to the exclusion of all other persons: Provided, That if there shall be no such child or children or their descendants, then and in such case the estate of the intestate shall be governed by the rules of descent, as in other cases where illegitimates are excluded.

(54.) SEC. LIV. In all cases where any person shall die intestate, leaving real or personal estate in this State, and a child or children, commonly called posthumous children, shall be born unto him after his decease, within the usual time prescribed by law, such child or children shall come in for their just proportion of said estate, in all respects as though he, she or they had been born in the lifetime of the intestate.

(55.) SEC. LV. Administration shall be granted to the husband, upon the goods and chattels of his wife, and to the widow or next of kin to the intestate, or some of them, if they will accept the same, and are not disqualified; but in all cases, the widow shall have the preference; but if no widow or other relative of the intestate, shall apply within sixty days from the death of such intestate, the court of probate may grant administration to any creditor or creditors who shall apply for the same; and in case no such application be made by any creditor or creditors, within fifteen days next ensuing the lapse of the said term of sixty days as aforesaid, administration may be granted to any person or persons whom the judge of probate may think will best manage the estate; and in all cases where such intestate shall have been a non-resident, or without a widow, next of kin, or creditors in this State, but having property within the State, administration shall be granted to the public administrator of the proper county, and to no other person: Provided, That no administration shall in any case be granted, until satisfactory proof be made before the court of probate, to whom application for that purpose shall be made, that the person on whose estate letters of administration are requested, is dead, and died intestate, so far as they have knowledge and belief.

(56.) SEC. LVI. The governor of this State shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, appoint in each county in this State, where such appointments have not already been made, or as often as any vacancies may occur in the appointments which have heretofore been made under the existing laws, a suitable person, to be known by the name of the public administrator, for such counties respectively, whose office, power and duties shall be prescribed by law.

(57.) SEC. LVII. Whenever any person shall die intestate, in any county in this State, or when any non-resident shall die intestate, leaving goods and chattels, rights and credits, or either in this State, and no widow or next of kin, or creditor or creditors, shall be living within this State, administration of the goods and chattels, rights and credits of such intestate, shall be granted to the public administrator of the county in which such intestate died, or in which the goods and chattels, rights, credits and effects shall be found, in case such intestate shall have been a non-resident, and his successors in office.

(58.) SEC. LVIII. In all cases where any person shall die seized or possessed of any real estate within this State, or having any right or interest therein, and shall have no relative or creditor within this State, or if there be any who will not administer upon such deceased person's estate, it shall be the duty of the judge of probate, upon the application of any person interested therein, to commit the administration of such estate to the public administrator of the proper county; and such public administrator may be made a party to any suit or proceeding in law or equity, and shall, to all intents and purposes, be liable as the personal representative of such deceased person.

(59.) SEC. LIX. Each and every public administrator, who may at any time be appointed as aforesaid, shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, take and subscribe the following oath, to wit:

"I, A. B., public administrator in and for the county of _____, and State of Illinois, do solemnly swear (or affirm,) that I will well and truly perform all such duties as may be required of me by law, to the best of my knowledge and abilities: so help me God."

Which said oath shall be taken before the probate justice of the proper county, reduced to writing and subscribed by the public administrator, and filed in the office of the said justice.

(60.) SEC. LX. It shall be the duty of the probate justice, upon granting letters of administration to public administrators, to take bond in the same manner as other administrators. And if any public administrator shall neglect or refuse to take out letters of administration, and give bond as aforesaid, within sixty days after it becomes his duty to do so, his office shall be deemed vacant, and upon the certificate of the probate justice of such fact, the governor shall fill such vacancy.

(61.) SEC. LXI. In all cases, where administration shall have been granted to any public administrator as aforesaid, and it shall afterwards appear that there is or are a widow or next of kin, or creditor or creditors of the deceased, entitled to the preference of administration by this chapter, it shall be the duty of the court of probate to revoke the letters granted to such public administrator, and to grant the same to such widow, next of kin, creditor or creditors, as shall or may be entitled thereto: Provided, That application shall be made to the court of probate of the proper county, by such person or persons, within six months after letters shall have been granted to the public administrator as aforesaid; saving to such administrator, in all cases, all such sum or sums of money as may be due to him from such estate on account of commission and expenses, due to and incurred by him, in the management of said estate.

(62.) SEC. LXII. If any balance of any such intestate's estate as may, at any time, be committed to any public administrator as aforesaid, shall remain in the hands of such administrator, after all just debts and charges against such estate shall have been fully paid, which shall have come to the knowledge of such public administrator, for two years after the administration of such estate shall have been committed to him as aforesaid, such administrator shall cause the amount thereof, with the name of the intestate, the time and place of his or her decease, to be published in some one of the public newspapers printed in this State, for eight weeks successively, notifying all persons having claims or demands against such estate, to exhibit the same, together with the evidence in support thereof, before the court of probate of the proper county, within six months after the date of such notice, or that the same will be forever barred; and if no such claim be presented for payment or distribution within the said time of six months as aforesaid, such balance shall be paid into the public treasury of said county; and the county shall be answerable for the same, without interest, to such person or persons as shall thereafter appear to be legally entitled to the same, if any such shall ever appear.

(63.) SEC. LXIII. Upon the death of any person intestate, not leaving a widow or next of kin, or creditor or creditors, within any county in this State, it shall and may be lawful for the public administrator of the county wherein such person may have died as aforesaid, or wherein the goods and chattels, rights and credits of such decedent shall be, in case such person shall have been a non-resident, to take such measures as he may deem proper for the protecting and securing the property and effects of such intestate from waste or embezzlement, until administration thereon shall be granted to the person entitled thereto as aforesaid; the expenses whereof shall be paid to such public administrator, upon the allowance of the court of probate, in preference to all other demands against such estate, funeral expenses excepted.

(64.) SEC. LXIV. Upon every application for letters of administration upon the goods and chattels, rights and credits of any person dying intestate, by any person not entitled to the same, as husband, widow, next of kin, creditor or creditors, or public administrator, the court of probate to which such application shall be made, shall, before the granting of administration to any such applicant or applicants, cause such applicant or applicants to produce satisfactory evidence that the person or persons having the preference, have relinquished their prior right thereto: Provided, Such application shall be made within the space of seventy-five days next ensuing the death of any such intestate as last aforesaid; but if such application be made after the expiration of seventy-five days, it shall not be necessary to make such proof; and the probate justice may proceed to grant letters to such applicant or applicants, or any other person or persons, as he may think fit.

(65.) SEC. LXV. All letters testamentary, to be hereafter issued to executors under this law, shall be in the following form, to wit:

"STATE OF ILLINOIS, }

Witness, E. F., probate justice in and for the said county of —, at his office in —, this — day of —, A. D. 18—. E. F., Probate Justice. [SEAL.]"

And in all cases where letters of administration with the will annexed, letters of administration de bonis non, or letters of administration to any public administrator, shall hereafter be issued by any court of probate in this State, the same shall be issued in conformity with the foregoing forms, as nearly as may be, taking care to make the necessary variations, additions or omissions, to suit each particular case.

(67.) SEC. LXVII. The court of probate shall, in all cases, upon granting administration of the goods and chattels, rights and credits of any person dying intestate, require the administrator or administrators, (public administrators excepted,) to take and subscribe the following oath, to wit:

"I do solemnly swear, (or affirm,) that I will well and truly administer all and singular the goods and chattels, rights, credits and effects of A. B., deceased, and pay all just claims and charges against his estate, so far as his goods, chattels and effects shall extend, and the law charge me; and that I will do all other acts required of me by law, to the best of my knowledge and abilities."

Which said oath shall be reduced to writing, subscribed by the person taking the same before the said probate justice, and filed in his office.

(68.) SEC. LXVIII. Each and every administrator, except as is herein-before provided for, shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, enter into bond, with good and sufficient security, to be approved by the court of probate, in a sum double the value of the estate, and payable to the people of the State of Illinois, for the use of parties interested, in the following form, to wit:

"KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, That we, A. B., C. D. and E. F., of the county of —, and State of Illinois, are held and firmly bound unto the people of the State of Illinois, in the penal sum of — dollars, current money of the United States, which payment, well and truly to be made and performed, we, and each of us, bind ourselves, our heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, jointly, severally and firmly by these presents.

Witness our hands and seals, this — day of —, A. D. 18—. The condition of the above obligation is such, that if the said A. B., administrator of all and singular the goods and chattels, rights and credits of J. K., deceased, do make, or cause to be made, a true and perfect inventory of all and singular the goods and chattels, rights and credits of the said deceased, which shall come to the hands, possession or knowledge of him the said A. B., as such administrator, or to the hands of any person or persons for him; and the same so made, do exhibit, or cause to be exhibited, in the court of probate for the said county of —, agreeably to law; and such goods and chattels, rights and credits, do well and truly administer according to law, and all the rest of the said goods and chattels, rights and credits, which shall be found remaining upon the account of the said administrator, the same being first examined and allowed by the court of probate, shall deliver and pay unto such person or persons, respectively, as may be legally entitled thereto; and further, do make a just and true account of all his actings and doings therein, when thereunto required by the said court; and if it shall hereafter appear that any last will and testament was made by the deceased, and the same be proved in court, and letters testamentary or of administration be obtained thereon, and the said A. B. do, in such case, on being required thereto, render and deliver up the letters of administration, granted to him as aforesaid, and shall in general do and perform all other acts which may at any time be required of him by law, then this obligation to be void; otherwise, to remain in full force and virtue."

Which said bond shall be signed and sealed by the said administrator and his securities, attested by the probate justice, and filed in his office. And in all cases where bonds shall be taken from any administrator de bonis non, or in any other case where a form shall not be prescribed in this chapter, the same shall be made, as nearly as may be, in conformity with the form above prescribed, with corresponding variations, to suit each particular case.

(69.) SEC. LXIX. All bonds which may at any time be given by any executor or executors, administrator or administrators, either with or without the will annexed, or de bonis non, to collect, or public administrator, may be put in suit and prosecuted against all or any one or more of the obligors named therein, in the name of the people of the State of Illinois, for the use of any person or persons who may have been injured, by reason of the neglect or improper conduct of any such executor or administrator as aforesaid; and such bonds shall not become void on the first recovery thereon, but may be sued upon from time to time, until the whole penalty shall be recovered: Provided, That the person or persons for whose use the same may at any time be prosecuted, shall be liable for all costs which may accrue in the prosecution of the same; and certified copies of all such bonds, under the seal of the court of probate, shall be received as evidence, to authorize such recovery in any court of law or equity having jurisdiction thereof in this State.

(70.) SEC. LXX. The administrator of an executor, or of an administrator, shall enter into a sufficient bond, with approved security, to cover the damages that might accrue by a forfeiture of the same, and shall have power, and he is hereby required, to make final settlement of the unsettled estate, under all the liabilities, and with all the privileges of an administrator de bonis non.

(71.) SEC. LXXI. If, at any time after letters of administration have been granted, a will of the deceased shall be produced, and probate thereof granted according to law, such letters of administration shall be revoked and repealed; and letters testamentary, or of administration, with the will annexed, shall be granted in the same manner as if the former letters had not been obtained.

(72.) SEC. LXXII. In all cases where a will, testament or codicil shall have been proved and letters granted thereon as aforesaid, and such will shall thereafter be set aside or annulled by due course of law, the letters granted thereon shall be revoked and repealed, and administration de bonis non granted of the goods and chattels unadministered.

(73.) SEC. LXXIII. The court of probate shall have power to revoke and repeal all letters testamentary or of administration, granted to persons who shall become insane, lunatic or of unsound mind, habitual drunkards, who may be convicted of any infamous crime, who waste or mismanage the estate, or who conduct themselves in such a manner as to endanger their co-executors, co-administrators or securities; in all which cases, the court shall summon the person or persons charged to be in default or disqualified as aforesaid, to show cause why such revocation should not be made; and when made, the reasons therefor shall be stated at large upon the record, and other letters granted to the next person or persons who shall, according to law, be entitled to the same.

(74.) SEC. LXXIV. If any executor of any last will or testament, or administrator of an intestate estate, residing out of this State, at the time of taking upon himself the execution of such trust, or after having done so, shall remove beyond the limits of this State, and shall refuse or neglect, after due notice from the court of probate, to render his accounts and make settlement of such estate, with creditors, legatees or heirs, or their legal representatives, the said court may, in like manner, revoke such letters, and grant other letters thereon to such person or persons as may be entitled to the same, and as to the said court shall seem meet.

(75.) SEC. LXXV. Where the letters of one of several executors or administrators are revoked, or one or more of the executors or administrators shall die or become disqualified, the court of probate may, in its discretion, join others in their stead or place, and require additional bonds from such new administrator or administrators; or the survivor or survivors, or such as shall not have their powers revoked, shall proceed to manage the estate; and in case the letters of all of them shall be revoked, or all of said executors or administrators shall depart this life before final settlement and distribution of the estate shall have been made, administration, with the will annexed, or as the case may require, shall be granted to the persons next entitled thereto; and in all cases where any such executor or administrator shall have his letters revoked as aforesaid, he shall, nevertheless, be liable on his bond, to such subsequent administrator or administrators, or to any other person or persons aggrieved, for any mismanagement of the estate thus committed to his care as aforesaid; and such subsequent administrator or administrators may have and maintain actions of trover, debt, detinue, account, and on the case, against such former executor or administrator, for all such goods, chattels, debts and credits as shall have come to the possession of him or her, and which shall be withheld, or may have been wasted, embezzled or misapplied, and no satisfaction made for the same.

(76.) SEC. LXXVI. All the provisions in this chapter, relative to an executor or administrator, shall apply and extend to an executrix or administratrix, or executors or administrators, and vice versa, unless otherwise expressly provided for; and whenever any party in the singular number, or a male party is mentioned, the rule shall apply to a female, or two or more having a joint interest, so far as the rule can be with propriety applied, and so far as it is not otherwise directed.

(77.) SEC. LXXVII. No executor or administrator, or security for an executor or administrator, shall be chargeable beyond the assets of the testator or intestate, by reason of any omission or mistake in pleading, or false pleading of such executor or administrator.

(78.) SEC. LXXVIII. If any court of probate shall hereafter grant letters testamentary or of administration, of the estate of any person deceased, without taking good security for the same as aforesaid, or if the security so taken shall afterwards become insufficient, and in all cases where such security has been heretofore taken, and now has, or shall hereafter become insufficient as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the said court, on the application of any person entitled to distribution, a creditor, or otherwise interested in such estate, to require such executor or administrator to give other or sufficient security; and in default thereof, the letters testamentary or of administration shall be revoked, and administration granted to the person entitled to the same, according to the rules hereinbefore prescribed in the case of an administrator de bonis non; and all acts done and performed according to law, by the executor or administrator, whose letters testamentary or of administration may be revoked as aforesaid, prior to such revocation, shall be valid and effectual.

(79.) SEC. LXXIX. When securities for executors or administrators, or their representatives, may conceive themselves in danger of suffering by the mismanagement of such executors or administrators, and petition the court of probate for relief, in writing, setting forth the cause of such apprehension, the said court shall examine such petition, and if the court shall deem the causes therein stated and set forth, sufficient to entitle such petitioner or petitioners to relief, if true, he shall summon such executor or administrator to show cause against such petition; and may thereupon dismiss the same, or direct such executor or administrator, in his discretion, either to give good counter security to save such petitioner or petitioners harmless, or to give a new bond in the like penalty as the first; and such new bond shall have relation back to the time of granting letters testamentary or of administration, and shall be as effectual in every respect, as if the same had been executed before such letters had been granted; and upon refusal or neglect to give bond de novo, or counter security as aforesaid, the letters granted to such executor or administrator may be revoked, and letters of administration with the will annexed, or de bonis non, granted thereon as aforesaid.

(80.) SEC. LXXX. In all cases, where a new bond shall be required to be given by an executor or administrator as aforesaid, the formal part of the bond shall be as heretofore prescribed, with a condition thereto, in the following form, to wit:

"The condition of the above obligation is such, that whereas the above bounden A. B., executor of the last will and testament of J. K., deceased, (or administrator of the goods and chattels, rights and credits of J. K., deceased,) has heretofore executed a bond, payable to the people of the State of Illinois, and conditioned for the discharge of his duties as executor, (or administrator,) as aforesaid, which said bond bears date on the — day of —, A. D. 18—; and whereas, by an order of the court of probate, made on the — day of —, A. D. 18—, or other bond and security has been required of the said executor (or administrator:) Now, therefore, if the said executor, (or administrator,) shall well and truly have kept and performed, and shall well and truly keep and perform, the condition of the bond first given as aforesaid, in all respects according to law, and shall in all respects have performed, and shall continue to perform, the duties of his office aforesaid, then this obligation to be void; otherwise to remain in full force and virtue."

Which bond shall be signed, sealed, attested and filed, in all other respects as aforesaid.

(81.) SEC. LXXXI. In every case, wherein letters testamentary, of administration, or of collection, are granted, it shall be the duty of the executor or administrator to make out a full and perfect inventory of all such real and personal estate, or the proceeds thereof, as shall be committed to his superintendence and management, and as shall come to his hands, possession or knowledge, whether the same shall consist in lands, tenements, hereditaments, annuities or rents, or in goods and chattels, and rights and credits, particularly specifying the nature and amount of each, or both, as the case may require, and noting distinctly the amount in money on hand, the nature of each debt due to the deceased, and whether the same be sperate, doubtful or desperate; which said inventory shall be returned to the office of the probate justice within three months from the date of the said letters testamentary or of administration as aforesaid.

(82.) SEC. LXXXII. On granting any letters testamentary or of administration as aforesaid, a warrant or warrants shall issue, under the seal of the court of probate, authorizing three persons of discretion, not related to the deceased, nor interested in the administration of the estate, to appraise the goods, chattels and personal estate of the deceased, known to them, or to be shown by the executor or administrator; which warrant shall be in the following form, to wit:

"The People of the State of Illinois to A. B., C. D. and E. F., of the county of —, and State of Illinois, GREETING:

This is to authorize you, jointly, to appraise the goods, chattels and personal estate of J. K., late of the county of —, and State of Illinois, deceased, so far as the same shall come to your sight and knowledge; each of you having first taken the oath (or affirmation) hereto annexed; a certificate whereof you are to return, annexed to an appraisement bill of said goods, chattels and personal estate, by you appraised, in dollars and cents; and in the said bill of appraisement you are to set down in a column or columns, opposite to each article appraised, the value thereof.

Witness, L. M., probate justice for the said county of —, at his office in —, this — day of —, A. D. 18—.

L. M., Probate Justice. [SEAL.]"

For which said warrant the probate justice shall receive the sum of twenty-five cents, and no more. And on the death, refusal to act, or neglect of any such appraiser, another warrant, in form as aforesaid, may forthwith issue in its stead.

(83.) SEC. LXXXIII. The appraisers, before they proceed to the appraisement of the estate, shall take the following oath, (or affirmation,) to be annexed to or indorsed on the warrant of appointment as aforesaid, before any person authorized to administer an oath, viz.:

"You, and each of you, do solemnly swear, (or affirm,) that you will well and truly, without partiality or prejudice, value and appraise the goods, chattels and personal estate of J. K., deceased, so far as the same shall come to your sight and knowledge; and that you will in all respects perform your duty as appraisers to the best of your skill and judgment."

After which, the said appraisers shall proceed as conveniently as may be, to the discharge of their duty, and shall set down each article, with the value thereof, in dollars and cents as aforesaid. All the valuations shall be set down on the right hand side of the paper in one or more columns, in figures, opposite to their respective articles of property, and the contents of each column shall be cast up, and set at the foot of each column respectively.

(84.) SEC. LXXXIV. When the bill of appraisement shall be completed, the appraisers shall certify the same under their hands and seals, with a certificate of the oath (or affirmation) to be taken by them, thereto annexed; and shall deliver the same into the hands of the executor or administrator, to be by him returned into the office of the probate justice, within three months from the date of his letters testamentary or of administration.

(85.) SEC. LXXXV. Inventories and bills of appraisement, and authenticated copies thereof, may be given in evidence in any suit, by or against the executor or administrator, but shall not be conclusive for or against him, if any other testimony be given, that the estate was really worth, or was, bona fide, sold for more or less than the appraised value thereof.

(86.) SEC. LXXXVI. Whenever personal property of any kind, or assets, shall come to the possession or knowledge of any executor or administrator, which shall not have been mentioned and included in the inventory and bill of appraisement as aforesaid, an account or inventory of the same shall be returned to the office of the probate justice, appraised by three disinterested sworn appraisers as aforesaid, within three months after discovery shall be made of the same.

(87.) SEC. LXXXVII. Each and every appraiser appointed under this chapter, shall be entitled to the sum of seventy-five cents per day for each day's necessary attendance in making all such appraisements and bills thereof as aforesaid, to be allowed by the court of probate, and paid upon its order by the executor or administrator, and charged to the account of the estate.

(88.) SEC. LXXXVIII. When the estate of any testator or intestate shall have been appraised, and the same shall be ascertained to be entirely solvent, and free from debt or incumbrance, or where there shall be a sufficiency of money or assets in the hands of the executor to pay such debts, independent of the property mentioned in such inventory and bill of appraisement, it shall be lawful for the widow to make her election, whether she will take that part of the personal estate to which she may be entitled by right of dower or otherwise, out of the articles mentioned in such bill of appraisement, according to the appraised value thereof, or the amount thereof in money, whenever the same shall be sold and the money collected therefor; or she may take a part in property and a part in money, as she may prefer. And, in all such cases, it shall be the duty of the executor or administrator, to notify the widow as soon as such appraisement shall be made, and to set apart for her such article or articles of property, not exceeding the amount to which she may be entitled, and as she may prefer or select within thirty days after written application shall be made for that purpose by such widow; and if any such executor or administrator shall neglect or refuse to comply with the foregoing requisition, when application shall be made for that purpose, he shall forfeit and pay for the use of such widow the sum of twenty dollars per month, for each month's delay to set apart said property so selected, after the said term of thirty days shall have elapsed, to be recovered in the name of the people of the State of Illinois, for the use of such widow, in any court having jurisdiction of the same.

(89.) SEC. LXXXIX. Executors and administrators shall, in addition to the inventory and bill of appraisement required to be made as aforesaid, make a further inventory from time to time, of all moneys, judgments, bonds, promissory notes, open accounts or other evidences of debt; also, of his titles to estates, both real and personal, as well equitable as legal, specifying the kind, quantity, quality, situation and value of such real estate, by what title held, and from whom purchased, if known; the debts appearing to be due, or to become due to such testator or intestate, the names of the person by whom owing, date of the contracts, and amount of interest accruing on the same, with such other and further description of the said estate, the books, papers and evidences of title, so as to make the same as full and perfect as possible; which said inventory, when made, shall be filed in the office of the probate justice, as is required in other cases by this chapter.

(90.) SEC. XC. If any executor or administrator, or other person interested in any estate, shall state upon oath to any court of probate, that he believes that any person has in possession, or has concealed or embezzled any goods, chattels, moneys or effects, books of account, papers, or any evidences of debt whatever, or titles to land, belonging to any deceased person, the court shall require such person to appear before it by citation, and may examine him on oath, touching the same; and if such person shall refuse to answer such proper interrogatories as may be propounded by the court, or person interested as aforesaid, or shall refuse to deliver up such property or effects as aforesaid, upon requisition being made for that purpose by an order of the said court of probate, such court may commit such person to jail, until he shall comply with the order of the court therein.

(91.) SEC. XCI. The books of account of any deceased person shall be subject to the inspection of all persons interested therein.

(92.) SEC. XCII. Executors and administrators shall be chargeable with so much of the estate, whether real, personal or mixed, or the proceeds thereof, of their testator or intestate, as they, after due and proper diligence, shall recover and receive.

(93.) SEC. XCIII. In all cases, where power is or may be given in any will, to sell and dispose of any real estate, or interest therein, and the same be sold and disposed of in the manner and by the persons appointed in such will, the sales shall be good and valid; and when one or more executors shall depart this life before such sales be made, the survivor or survivors shall have the same power, and their sales shall be good and valid, as though they all joined in such sale.

(94.) SEC. XCIV. No executor or administrator shall, under any pretense whatever, remove any property whatsoever, wherewith such administrator or executor may be charged by virtue of his letters, beyond the limits of this State; and in case any such executor or administrator shall remove such property, it shall be the duty of the court of probate, forthwith to revoke his letters, and to cause a suit to be instituted on his bond, against him and his securities, for the use of the person interested in said estate; and the jury trying such cause shall, on satisfactory evidence of the removal of the property as aforesaid, render a verdict against the offender and his securities, for the full value thereof, and such other damages as the parties interested may have sustained by reason thereof; and letters of administration on said estate shall issue to the next person or persons entitled, as in other cases.

(95.) SEC. XCV. It shall be the duty of each and every administrator or executor, to fix on a certain term of the court of probate, within nine months from the time of his or her being qualified as such administrator or executor, for the settling and adjusting all claims against said decedent, and give notice thereof in some public newspaper within this State, as required by law; and also, by putting up a written or printed notice on the door of the court-house, and in five other of the most public places in the county, notifying and requesting all persons having claims against said estate, to attend at the said term of the probate court, for the purpose of having the same adjusted; said notice to be given at least six weeks previous to said day, when and where such claimant shall produce his or her claim in writing; and if no objection be made to said claim, by the administrator, widow, guardian, heirs or others, interested in said estate, the claimant shall be permitted to swear that such claim is just and unpaid, or that the same is correct, after allowing all just credits; and if objections be made to said claim, previous to said claim being sworn to, the account shall be adjudicated as is now required by law. All persons who do not avail themselves of the opportunity of having their claims adjudicated at the said term of the court, shall have power to proceed against the executor or administrator, as is now prescribed by law: Provided, That estates shall be answerable for the costs on the claims filed at or before said term, but not after: And Provided further, That no execution shall be issued against any executor or administrator, for the term of one year from the date of his or her letters testamentary or of administration.

(96.) SEC. XCVI. The executor or administrator shall, as soon as convenient, after making the inventory or appraisement, as hereinbefore directed, sell at public sale, all the personal property, goods and chattels of the testator or intestate, not reserved to the widow as aforesaid; and also, excepting specific legacies and bequests, where the estate is sufficient to discharge the debts, over and above such specific legacies and bequests; upon giving three weeks' notice of the time and place of such sale, by at least four advertisements, set up in the most public places in the county where the sale is to be made, or by inserting an advertisement in the nearest and most public newspaper printed in this State, to the place of such sale, at least four weeks successively, previous thereto, upon a credit of not less than six nor more than twelve months, by taking bond with good security of the purchasers at such sale: Provided, That such executor or administrator may make it a part of the condition of such sale, that purchases under the sum of five dollars, shall be paid in hand: And Provided, further, That if any testator shall direct that his estate shall not be sold, the same shall be preserved in kind, and distributed accordingly, unless such sale should become absolutely necessary, for the payment of the debts and charges against the estate of such testator.

(97.) SEC. XCVII. If any executor or administrator shall be of opinion that it would be of advantage to the estate of the testator or intestate, to dispose of the crop growing at the time of his or her decease, the same shall be inventoried, appraised and sold, at the same time and in the same manner as is directed in the preceding section; but if such executor or administrator shall believe that it would be of more advantage to the estate, to go on and finish the same previous to such sale, he shall be authorized so to do; and the proceeds of such crop, after deducting all necessary expenses for cultivating, gathering and making sale of the same, shall be assets in the hands of such executor or administrator, and subject to the payment of debts and legacies, and to distribution as aforesaid.

(98.) SEC. XCVIII. In all public sales of property, made in pursuance of this chapter as aforesaid, the executor or executors, administrator or administrators, may employ the necessary clerks and a crier, who shall be allowed such compensation, not exceeding two dollars per day, as the court of probate may judge reasonable, to be paid by such executor or administrators, and charged to the estate. All such sales shall be made between the hours of ten o'clock in the forenoon, and five o'clock in the afternoon of each day; and any such as shall be made before or after the time herein limited, shall be void.

(99.) SEC. XCIX. All executors and administrators shall, immediately after making such sales as aforesaid, make, or cause to be made, a bill of the sales of said estate, describing particularly each article of property sold, to whom sold, and at what price; which sale bill, when thus made and certified by the clerk of such sale and the crier thereof, as true and correct, shall be returned into the office of the probate justice in the like time as is required in cases of inventories and appraisements.

(100.) SEC. C. Any creditor whose debt or claim against the estate is not due, may, nevertheless, present the same for allowance and settlement, and shall, thereupon, be considered as a creditor under this chapter, and shall receive a dividend of the said testator's estate, after deducting a rebate of interest for what he shall receive on such debt, to be computed from the time of the actual payment thereof to the time such debt would have become due, according to the tenor and effect of the contract.

(101.) SEC. CI. No action shall be maintainable against any executor or administrator for any debt due from the testator or intestate, until the expiration of one year after the taking out of letters testamentary or of administration, except as is herein excepted; nor shall any person, suing after that time, recover costs against such executor or administrator, unless a demand be proved before the commencement of such suit; but in all other cases, both executors and administrators shall be liable to pay costs as other persons.

(102.) SEC. CII. No suit shall be brought against any executor or administrator, for or on account of any claim or demand against the testator or intestate, unless such suit be brought within one year next after such executor or administrator shall have settled his accounts with the court of probate.

(103.) SEC. CIII. When any executor or administrator, whose testator or intestate shall have died seized of any real estate in this State, shall discover that the personal estate of such testator or intestate is insufficient to pay the just claims against his or her estate, such executor or administrator shall, as soon as conveniently may be, make a just and true account of the said personal estate and debts, as far as he or she can discover the same, and shall make out a petition to the circuit court of the county in which administration shall have been granted, stating therein what real estate the said testator or intestate died seized of, or so much thereof as will be necessary to pay his or her debts as aforesaid, and request the aid of the said court in the premises; and it shall also be the duty of such administrator or executor, to give at least thirty days' notice of the time and place of presenting such petition, by serving a written notice of the same, together with a copy of said account and petition, on each of the heirs or their guardians, or devisees of said testator or intestate, or by publishing a notice in the nearest newspaper for three weeks successively, commencing at least six weeks before the presenting of said petition, of the intention of presenting the same to the circuit court, for the sale of the whole or so much of the real estate of the said testator or intestate, as will be sufficient to pay his or her debts, and requesting all persons interested in said real estate, to show cause why it should not be sold for the purposes aforesaid.

(104.) SEC. CIV. It shall be the duty of the said circuit court, at the time and place specified in the notice aforesaid, or at such other time as the said court shall appoint, to hear and examine the allegations and proofs of such executor or administrator, and of all such other persons interested in said estate, as may think proper to resist such sale; and if, upon due examination, the said circuit court shall ascertain that the said personal estate of such testator or intestate is not sufficient for the payment of his or her debts, the said court shall order and direct the whole, if necessary, but if not, then so much of the said estate, from time to time, as will be sufficient to pay such debts, to be sold as is hereinafter directed; and when a part only of such estate is ordered to be sold, such order shall specify as particularly as may be, the part so ordered to be sold: Provided, always, That where any houses and lots or other real estate are so situated that a part thereof cannot be sold without manifest prejudice to the heirs or devisees, such court may, in its discretion, order the sale of the whole or such part thereof as shall be necessary for the payment of debts; and the overplus arising from such sale shall be distributed among the heirs and devisees, or such other person or persons as may be entitled thereto.

(105.) SEC. CV. All sales of any such real estate, directed to be made as aforesaid, shall be made, and conveyances executed for the same, by the executor or administrator applying for such order; which said conveyances shall set forth such order at large, and shall be valid and effectual against the heirs and devisees of such testator or intestate, and all other persons claiming by, through or under him, her or them.

(106.) SEC. CVI. No lands or tenements shall be sold by virtue of any such order of the circuit court as aforesaid, unless such sale be at public vendue, and between the hours of ten o'clock in the forenoon, and five o'clock of the afternoon of the same day; nor unless the time and place of holding such sale shall have been previously published for the space of six weeks successively, by putting up notices thereof in at least four of the most public places in the county where such real estate shall be sold, and also by causing a similar notice thereof to be published in the nearest newspaper in this State; nor unless such real estate shall be described with common certainty in the said advertisements. And if any executor or administrator, so ordered to make sale of any real estate as aforesaid, shall sell the same contrary to the provisions of this chapter, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of five hundred dollars, to be recovered by action of debt, in the name of the people of the State of Illinois, for the use of any person interested, who may prosecute for the same: Provided, That no such offense shall be deemed to affect the validity of such sale: And Provided, further, That it shall be lawful for such executor or administrator to sell the same on a credit of not less than six nor more than twelve months, by taking bond with good security, for the payment of the purchase money, and by taking a mortgage on said land.

(107.) SEC. CVII. In all cases where a petition shall be presented for the sale of any real estate, and one or more of the devisees or heirs of the testator or intestate shall be infants, and without a guardian resident in the county in which such petition shall be preferred, the circuit court to which the same shall be presented, shall appoint some discreet person as guardian ad litem, for the purpose of appearing for and defending the interest of such infant or infants in the proceedings therein.

(108.) SEC. CVIII. No part of the real estate of any testator or intestate, shall be ordered to be sold, unless the executor or administrator applying for such order, shall have made and filed an inventory, appraisal bill, and sale bill, in the office of the probate justice; nor unless such executor or administrator shall have first applied the personal estate, or proceeds thereof, or such part thereof as shall have come to his possession, towards the payment of the debts of the said testator or intestate.

(109.) SEC. CIX. Any person or persons claiming to be aggrieved by any judgment, decree or order, for the sale of any such real estate as aforesaid, may appeal from the same to the supreme court of this State: Provided, Such appeal be entered during the term in which such judgment, decree or order shall be made.

(110.) SEC. CX. When any real estate shall, at any time, be ordered to be sold, the moneys arising from such sale shall be received by the executor or administrator applying for such order, and shall be considered as assets in his or her hands for the payment of debts; and shall be applied in the same manner as assets arising from the sale of personal property.

(111.) SEC. CXI. In all cases where any testator or intestate now deceased, or shall hereafter die seized of any lands, the payment whereof has not been completed to the United States, and the estate of such decedent is or shall be unable to make complete payment therefor, with advantage to such estate, it shall be lawful for the administrator, executor or other legal representatives of such deceased, to sell or dispose of the certificate or certificates of entry, or further credit of the same, in such manner as they may deem most advisable for the interest of such estate; and the money arising from such sales, shall be assets in the hands of such executor or administrator, as in other cases.

(112.) SEC. CXII. But in all cases where the estate of any such testator or intestate shall be solvent, and such lands as aforesaid may be patented without prejudice to the estate, it shall be the duty of the executor or administrator to complete the payment for the same, by relinquishment or out of the proceeds of the personal property, as the case may require, in the name of the heirs or legal representatives of the decedent entitled thereto; and he shall be allowed a credit for the amount of such payments, and all reasonable expenses incurred in making the same, upon final settlement of such estate: Provided, That the provisions of this and the preceding section shall in nowise interfere with the provisions of any last will or testament as aforesaid.

(113.) SEC. CXIII. In all cases where the lands, or certificate of entry or purchase, of any testator or intestate, on which partial payments shall have been made as aforesaid, have, or shall hereafter, become forfeited to the United States for the non-payment thereof; or where any deposit or deposits, or payments of money, by way of entry or purchase of any such lands, or securing the preference of purchase thereof, shall have been made by such testator or intestate, at any of the land offices in this State, and the same have, or shall at any time hereafter, become forfeited to the United States, for the non-payment of the residue due or to become due on said lands; and where the Congress of the United States has made or shall hereafter make provision for a further extension of credit, or for the repayment of the sums thus forfeited, to the payors thereof, or to their legal representatives, either by the issuing of scrip, granting of lands, or by the actual return of the money thus paid as aforesaid; or shall, in any other manner, provide for the relief of such purchaser or purchasers, it shall be lawful for the executor or administrator, or the legal representatives of such testator or intestate, to avail themselves of such provision or relief, for the use of the estate, in like manner as such testator or intestate might or could do, if living at the time; and all such sums of money as may be produced by the sale of any such forfeited certificate or deposits, or such scrip as may be received in lieu thereof, and all such sums as shall be repaid in money as aforesaid, on account of any such forfeitures, shall be considered as assets in the hands of such executor or administrator, and shall be accounted for accordingly.

(114.) SEC. CXIV. Whenever any estate is found to be insolvent, it shall be so entered of record by the probate justice, and after such order so made, no action shall be maintained against the executors or administrators, except at the costs of the party suing; but persons entitled, shall receive their proportions of said estate, in the manner herein provided for; and whenever the real estate shall be required to be sold for the payment of debts, no suit shall be maintained, until the money is received for such real estate, and an order made by said court, directing the executor or administrator to pay out the same, as required in this chapter. And the court of probate may make all necessary orders to coerce the executor or administrator to make immediate application to the circuit court for the sale of such real estate.

(115.) SEC. CXV. All demands against the estate of any testator or intestate shall be divided into classes, in manner following, to wit: 1st. All funeral and other expenses attending the last sickness, shall compose the first class. 2nd. All expenses of proving the will, and taking out letters testamentary or of administration, and settlement of the estate, and the physician's bill in the last illness of the deceased, shall compose the second class. 3rd. Where any executor, administrator or guardian has received money as such, his executor or administrator shall pay out of his estate, the amount thus received and not accounted for, which shall compose the third class. 4th. All other debts and demands of whatsoever kind, without regard to quality or dignity, which shall be exhibited within two years from the granting of letters as aforesaid, shall compose the fourth and last class. And all demands not exhibited within two years as aforesaid, shall be forever barred, unless such creditor shall find other estate of the deceased, not inventoried or accounted for by the executor or administrator; in which case, his claim shall be paid, pro rata, out of such subsequently discovered estate; saving, however, to femes covert, infants, persons of unsound mind, or imprisoned, or beyond the seas, the term of two years after their respective disabilities be removed, to exhibit their claims.

(116.) SEC. CXVI. The manner of exhibiting claims against the estate of any testator or intestate, may be by serving a notice of such claim on the executors or administrators, or presenting them the account, or filing the account, or a copy thereof, with the court of probate.

(117.) SEC. CXVII. When a claim shall be filed, or suit brought, against any such executor or administrator, and it shall appear on trial, that such claimant or plaintiff is indebted to such executor or administrator, it shall be lawful for such court of probate to give judgment therefor, and issue an execution, or any other final process, which a justice of the peace might issue in like cases.

(118.) SEC. CXVIII. Persons having claims against estates, upon giving the executor or administrator ten days' notice of the time they intend to present the same to said court, the court, upon examination, shall allow or reject such claims: Provided, The court may allow further time for either party to produce other or further evidence in his favor: Provided, also, That judgments regularly obtained, and a copy thereof duly certified and filed with the court of probate, shall be taken as duly proven; and all instruments in writing, signed by the testator or intestate, if the hand-writing be proven, and nothing be shown to the contrary, shall be deemed duly proved.

(119.) SEC. CXIX. No person making a claim against the estate of any testator or intestate, shall be permitted to prove the same by his or her own oath, except in cases specified in section ninety-five hereof; but said court may, in its discretion, before giving judgment against any executor or administrator, require the claimant to make oath that such claim is just and unpaid: Provided, That the amount of such judgment shall not be increased upon the testimony of the claimant.

(120.) SEC. CXX. All claims and demands against estates, when allowed by the court of probate as aforesaid, shall be classed and paid by the executor or administrator, in the manner provided in this chapter, commencing with the first class; and when the estate is insufficient to pay the whole of the demands, such demands in any one class shall be paid, pro rata, whether the same shall be due by judgment, writing obligatory or otherwise, except in such cases as shall be herein excepted.

(121.) SEC. CXXI. When any executor or administrator shall have any demand against his testator or intestate's estate, he shall be required to file his demand with the court of probate, as other persons; and the court shall appoint some discreet person to appear and manage the defense for the estate; and upon a final hearing, said court shall allow said demand, or such part thereof as shall be legally established, or reject the same, as to said court shall appear just. Should an executor or administrator appeal in such case, the court of probate shall appoint some person to defend as aforesaid.

(122.) SEC. CXXII. The court of probate shall make an entry of all demands allowed against estates, and file and preserve the papers belonging to the same, and shall also class said demands, as is required by this chapter; and when any executor or administrator shall pay any claim before the same is allowed as aforesaid, said court shall require such executor or administrator to establish the validity of such claim by the like evidence as is required in other cases, before the same is classed and he credited therewith.

(123.) SEC. CXXIII. All executors and administrators shall exhibit accounts of their administration, for settlement, to the court of probate from which the letters testamentary or of administration were obtained, at the first term thereof which shall happen after the expiration of one year after the date of their letters as aforesaid; and in like manner every twelve months thereafter, or sooner, if required, until the duties of their administration be fully completed.

(124.) SEC. CXXIV. Upon each and every settlement of the accounts of any executor or administrator, as provided by this chapter, it shall be the duty of the court, to ascertain the whole amount of moneys which shall have come into the hands of such executor or administrator, belonging to the estate of the deceased, and the whole amount of debts established against such estate; and if there be not sufficient to pay the whole of the debts, the moneys aforesaid shall be appropriated among the several creditors, pro rata, according to their several rights, as established by this chapter; and thereupon the court shall make an order, directing such executor or administrator to pay the claims which have been allowed by the court, according to such apportionments; and the court, upon each and every settlement, shall proceed in like manner, until the whole debts be paid or the assets exhausted.

(125.) SEC. CXXV. Whenever it shall appear that the personal estate of any person deceased, is insufficient to discharge the debts of such estate, and there is real estate belonging to the same, the court of probate shall make out such an abstract from its records, of the debts and credits of such estate, and of the lands owned by such testator or intestate, from the inventory of such estate, whether the title be complete or not; which abstract shall be presented to the circuit court, by the executor or administrator, who may then obtain an order to sell the same in the manner hereinbefore directed; and the proceeds of such sales shall be assets in the hands of such executor or administrator, for the payment of debts, and be subject to the same order, by the court of probate, in the payment of debts, as other assets.

(126.) SEC. CXXXVI. If any executor or administrator shall fail or refuse to pay over any moneys or dividend to any person entitled thereto, in pursuance of the order of the court of probate, lawfully made, within thirty days after demand made for such moneys or dividend, the court of probate, upon application made, shall attach such delinquent executor or administrator, and may cause him to be imprisoned until he shall comply with the order aforesaid, or until such delinquent is discharged by due course of law; and moreover, such failure or refusal on the part of such executor or administrator, shall be deemed and taken in law to amount to a devastavit, and an action upon such executor's or administrator's bond, and against his or their securities, may be forthwith instituted and maintained; and the failure aforesaid to pay such moneys or dividend, shall be a sufficient breach to authorize a recovery thereon.

(127.) SEC. CXXVII. Whenever it shall appear that there are sufficient assets to satisfy all demands against the estate, the court of probate shall order the payment of all legacies mentioned in the will of the testator, the specific legacies being first satisfied.

(128.) SEC. CXXVIII. Where any heir of any intestate has received money, goods, chattels or real estate, from such intestate, if the amount so received shall be charged to such heir by said intestate, the same shall be taken into computation in making distribution of the estate upon being brought into hotchpot, as aforesaid: Provided, That an heir who has received from the intestate more than his share, shall in no case be required to refund.

(129.) SEC. CXXIX. Executors and administrators shall not be compelled to pay legatees or distributees, until bond and security be given by such legatees or distributees, to refund the due proportion of any debt which may afterwards appear against the estate, and the costs attending the recovery thereof. Such bond shall be made payable to such executor or administrator, and shall be for his indemnity, and filed in the court of probate.

(130.) SEC. CXXX. When, at any time after the payment of legacies or distributive shares, it shall become necessary that the same or any part thereof be refunded for the payment of debts, it shall be the duty of the court of probate, on application made, to apportion the same among the several legatees or distributees, according to the amount received by them, except the specific legacies, which shall in no case be required to be refunded, unless the residue be insufficient to satisfy such debts; and if any distributee or legatee shall refuse to refund, according to the order of the court of probate, made as aforesaid, within sixty days thereafter, and upon demand made, such refusal shall be deemed a breach of his bond given to the executor or administrator as aforesaid, and an action may be instituted thereon to the use of such party entitled; and in all cases where there may be no bond, an action of debt may be maintained against such distributee or legatee, and the order of the court of probate shall be evidence of the demand.

(131.) SEC. CXXXI. Where there are two or more executors or administrators of an estate, and any one of them takes all or a greater part of such estate, and refuses to pay the debts of the testator or intestate, or refuses to account with the other executors or administrators, in such case the executor or administrator so aggrieved, may have his action of account, or suit in equity, against such delinquent executor or administrator, and recover such proportionate share of said estate as shall belong to him; and every executor, being a residuary legatee, may have an action of account, or suit in equity, against his co-executor or co-executors, and recover his part of the estate in his or their hands; and any other legatee may have the like remedy against the executors: Provided, That before any action shall be commenced for legacies as aforesaid, the court of probate shall make an order directing them to be paid.

(132.) SEC. CXXXII. Actions of trover, detinue or replevin, shall survive for and against executors and administrators, and may be maintained in the same manner and with like effect as such actions could be for or against their testator or intestate, if living.

(133.) SEC. CXXXIII. When the mortgagee of any lands or tenements shall die, leaving minor heirs, the executors or administrators of such mortgagee shall be and they are hereby authorized, on receiving the amount due the estate of such deceased mortgagee, to release to the mortgagor the legal title of the said mortgaged premises; and such deed of release shall be valid.

(134.) SEC. CXXXIV. Real estate may be mortgaged or leased by executors or guardians: Provided, Such mortgage or lease shall not be for a longer term than until the heir entitled to such estate shall attain the age of twenty-one years, if a male, or eighteen years, if a female.

(135.) SEC. CXXXV. Before any mortgage or lease shall be made as aforesaid, the executors or guardians shall petition the court of probate for an order authorizing such mortgage or lease to be made, and which the court may grant, if the interests of the estate may require it: Provided, That the executor or guardian making application as aforesaid, upon obtaining such order, shall enter into bond with good security, faithfully to apply the moneys to be raised upon such mortgage or lease, to the payment of the debts of the testator, or for the benefit of the ward or wards of such guardian; and all moneys so raised, shall be assets in the hands of such executor for the payment of debts, and shall be subject to the order of the court of probate, in the same manner as other assets, or shall be applied to the use of such ward or wards, where the same shall be received by a guardian as aforesaid.

(136.) SEC. CXXXVI. Executors and administrators shall be allowed, as a compensation for their trouble, a sum not exceeding six per centum on the whole amount of personal estate, and not exceeding three per cent. on the money arising from the sales or letting of land, with such additional allowances for costs and charges in collecting and defending the claims of the estate, and disposing of the same, as shall be reasonable.

(137.) SEC. CXXXVII. If any executor or administrator shall fail to comply with the provisions of this chapter, or shall fail to comply with any or all of the covenants in his bond, an action may be forthwith instituted upon such bond, against the principal or securities, or both; and the failure aforesaid shall be a sufficient breach to authorize a recovery, in the same manner as though a devastavit had been previously established against such executor or administrator.

(138.) SEC. CXXXVIII. Appeals shall be allowed from all judgments, orders or decrees of the court of probate, to the circuit court, in favor of any person who may consider himself or herself aggrieved by any judgment, order or decree of the court of probate as aforesaid, and from the circuit court to the supreme court, as in other cases.

(139.) CXXXIX. The courts of probate, respectively, shall have power to enforce due observance of all orders, decisions, judgments and decrees which shall, at any time, be made in the discharge of their official duties, and may issue attachments for any contempt offered such court, or any process, by any executor, administrator, witness or other person or persons; and may fine and imprison, or either, all such offenders, in the same manner as the circuit courts may or can do, in all similar cases, except in such cases as have been hereinbefore provided for: Provided, That the fine inflicted in such cases shall in no instance exceed the sum of fifty dollars, nor shall any such imprisonment be extended beyond the term of twenty days.

(140.) SEC. CXL. For the purpose of enabling the courts of probate respectively, to execute the powers vested in them by this chapter, it shall be the duty of the sheriff of each county in which such courts shall be held, when required by the court of probate, to attend all regular and special sittings of said court, either by himself or deputy, and to keep and preserve good order in the same; and also, to serve and execute all writs of attachment, summonses, subpoenas, citations, notices and other processes, which may, at any time, be legally issued by such court of probate, and to make due return thereof. remoteness of their residence, or such executor's or administrator's ignorance of the same, the said court may order such claim, debt or demand, to be compounded or sold, or to be filed in the said court for the benefit of such of the heirs, devisees or creditors of such decedent, as will sue for or recover the same, giving the creditors the preference, if they or any of them apply for the same before the final settlement of such estate: Provided, That no order for the sale or compounding of any such debts, claims or demands, or any of them, shall be made until four weeks' public notice shall have been given to all whom it may concern, of the time and place, when the said order will be applied for; which notice shall be given by the administrator or executor, in some public newspaper, printed in the county where such application shall be made, if any there be, and if no such newspaper shall be printed in said county, then by posting up such notices in some public places in said county, not less than three, of which one shall be the door of the office of the said probate justice of the peace; which said notices shall be for four weeks, as aforesaid, previous to the time of said application: And Provided, further, That the said executor or administrator, as the case may be, shall report to the said probate justice of the peace, the terms upon which he has settled or disposed of any such claim, debt or demand, for his approval.

(160.) SEC. V. The forty-eighth section of the law concerning wills, approved March third, one thousand eight hundred and forty-five, and the first section of the act numbered thirty-seven in the appendix to the revised laws of one thousand eight hundred and forty-five, approved twenty-first February, one thousand eight hundred and forty-five, are hereby repealed, and the remaining sections of said act, numbered thirty-seven, shall relate to the provisions of this act.

(161.) SEC. VI. The word "dower," as used in the forty-sixth section of the one hundred and ninth chapter of the Revised Statutes, entitled "WILLS," shall be construed to include a saving to the widows of persons dying intestate, of one-third of the personal estate forever, after the payment of debts.

[Approved Feb. 19, 1847. Laws, 1847, p. 53.]

thereupon proceed in all respects, as courts of probate are required to proceed in regard to executors and administrators, by the seventy-ninth section of the chapter of the Revised Statutes in regard to wills, approved March the third, one thousand eight hundred and forty-five; and revoke such guardian's letters of guardianship, or release such security or securities, and require others to be given, or to dismiss such petition and application, as to said court may seem right: Provided, The party aggrieved may have an appeal as in other cases.

An Act authorizing the Resignation of certain Officers.

An Act to amend the Laws in relation to the Settlement of Estates.

[Approved Feb. 17, 1851. Laws, 1851, p. 183.]

(164.) SEC. I. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly, That in addition to the powers conferred upon courts of probate by the act entitled "An act to facilitate the collection of debts by executors and administrators in desperate cases," approved on the first day of March, one thousand eight hundred and forty-five, courts having probate jurisdiction are hereby vested with power to order claims, debts and demands due at so remote a period as to prevent their collection within the time required for the final settlement of estates, and the collection or disposition of which is necessary to the payment of the debts against the estate, to be compounded or sold, in the same manner and upon the same conditions as though such claims, debts or demands were desperate or doubtful: Provided, That no claim, debt or demand shall be sold or compounded for less than ten per cent. below the par value thereof.

(165.) SEC. II. This act shall take effect from and after its passage.

An Act in relation to Conveyances of Real Estate by Non-resident Executors.

[Approved Feb. 8, 1853. Laws, 1853, p. 239.]

(166.) SEC. I. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly, That when any non-resident executor or executors shall have proved the last will and testament of any deceased person, and taken on him or them the execution of such will in any State, district or territory of the United States, such non-resident executor or executors shall be authorized to execute such will in this State in the same manner as though such executor or executors had qualified in this State: Provided, That before such executor or executors shall sell, dispose of or convey any real estate in this State, he or they shall produce such will or a copy thereof, and of the letters testamentary, or other authority to execute the same, under the seal of the court or proper officer where such will was proved or admitted to probate, and of such letters or authority granted, accompanied by a certificate of the judge or clerk of said court or other proper officer, that such letters or authority had been granted in pursuance of and agreeably to the laws of the State, district or territory in which such letters testamentary or authority were granted and filed, and have the same recorded in the probate or county court of the county in which the property, or some part thereof, of which the testator died seized may be situated, and the county judge or judge of probate of such county shall certify that such will was duly authenticated under the provisions of this act: Provided, further, That said county judge or judge of probate shall require bond from such non-resident executor or executors, or some responsible persons in their behalf, to the people of the State of Illinois, in such penalty as such judge shall deem necessary, for the faithful appropriation of the effects of such testator in this State, and for the application of the proceeds thereof, in the first instance, to the payment of all such debts, (if any) as may be allowed by such court against the estate of such testator, within two years from the filing of such bond; and this provision shall be incorporated in the condition of the bond herein provided for. And such bond shall be signed by some responsible person in this State, either as principal or surety, to be approved by said court.

(167.) SEC. II. The acts of non-resident executors heretofore had in selling or conveying any real estate in this State, may be approved and confirmed by the probate or county court of any county where such real estate may be situated, upon petition by any person interested therein, sixty days' notice being given by publication in a newspaper published in such county, (and if no paper be published in such county, then in some newspaper published in the nearest county to that where such real estate may be situated,) of the intention to present such petition, and the time and place of such presentation; and upon such approval and confirmation, such sales and conveyances heretofore made shall be as valid and effectual as if made under the provisions of this act. But before such court shall make such approval or confirmation, it shall require and receive satisfactory evidence that such sales or conveyances were made in good faith, and that the interests of creditors of the testator in this State will not be prejudiced by such approval and confirmation.

(168.) SEC. III. Appeals shall be allowed from the order of said court approving and confirming such sales and conveyances as in other cases, by any person who may claim an interest in the premises thus sold or conveyed.

(169.) SEC. IV. The provisions of this act shall not apply to any case where letters of administration shall have been granted upon the estate of such testator in this State, unless such letters shall first be revoked, or the administrator shall die or resign.

An Act concerning the Descent of Property in this State.

[Approved Feb. 12, 1853. Laws, 1853, p. 255.]

(170.) SEC. I. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly, That the rule of descent of all property, of whatsoever kind or nature, real and personal, of any bastard or illegitimate person dying intestate in this State, or leaving property and effects therein, shall be as follows, to wit: On the death of any such person intestate, his or her property, estate and effects shall descend to and vest in the widow, or surviving husband and children, as the property and effects of other persons in like cases. In case of the death of any such illegitimate person, leaving no children or descendant of a child or children, then the whole property and estate, rights, credits and effects shall descend to and vest in the widow or surviving husband. In case of the death of any such illegitimate person, leaving no widow, surviving husband or descendants, then the property and estate of such person shall descend to and vest in the mother and her children and their descendants; to the mother one-half, and the other half to be equally divided between her children and their descendants; the descendants of a child, taking the share of their deceased parent or ancestor. In case of the death of any such illegitimate person, leaving no heirs as above provided, then the property and effects, of whatsoever kind or nature, shall pass to and vest in the next of kin to the mother of such illegitimate person, in the same manner as the estate of a legitimate person would by the laws now in force pass to the next of kin.

(171.) SEC. II. No property of any illegitimate person hereafter dying intestate in this State shall escheat to the State, except in default of heirs as in this act provided.

An Act to regulate Appeals in certain Cases.

[Approved Feb. 8, 1853. Laws, 1853, p. 257.]

(172.) SEC. I. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly, That in all cases where administrators or executors may hereafter desire to prosecute an appeal from the judgment, decree or order of any court or justice of the peace to the circuit or supreme court, or where they [may] prosecute writs of error or certiorari, the appeal, certiorari, or supersedeas bond, shall be conditioned to pay the judgment or decree, with costs, in due course of administration; in all other respects said bonds shall be in the form prescribed by law in other cases.

(173.) SEC. II. This act to be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to amend Chapter CIX, of the Revised Statutes, entitled "Wills."

[Approved Feb. 14, 1855. Laws, 1855, p. 44.]

(174.) SEC. I. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly, That all wills, testaments and codicils, which heretofore have been or shall hereafter be made, executed and published out of this State, may be admitted to probate in any county in this State in which the testator may have been seized of lands, or other real estate, at the time of his death, in the same manner and upon like proof as if the same had been made, executed and published in this State, whether such will, testament or codicil, has first been probated in the State, territory or county in which it was made and declared, or not.

(175.) SEC. II. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act conferring additional Power upon Administrators de bonis non, and for other Purposes.

[Approved Feb. 14, 1855. Private Laws, 1855, p. 731.]

(176.) SEC. I. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly, That when the administrator of any intestate or the executor of any testator having obtained a judgment in his own name as such administrator or executor, in any court of this State, shall die before execution of such judgment, it shall and may be lawful for the administrator de bonis non or cum testamento annexo to revive such judgment in his own name, by a writ of scire facias in the same manner as an executor or administrator may revive the judgments of his testator or intestate. And it shall further be lawful for such administrator de bonis non or cum testamento annexo, to avail himself of all such remedies, both legal or equitable, for the collection of such judgments, as the original administrator or executor might or could have done if still living.

(177.) SEC. II. The provisions of the foregoing section shall apply as well to judgments already obtained by executors or administrators, as to those which may be hereafter obtained. And in no case shall it be necessary for the administrator de bonis non or cum testamento annexo, where a judgment has been already obtained against a debtor of his testator or intestate, to obtain a new judgment in his own name upon the original indebtedness, before he can entitle himself to all or any of the legal or equitable remedies against such debtor, but such second administrator shall have full power and authority by virtue of said office as such second administrator, to enforce such judgment already obtained, in any court of law or equity in this State, in the same manner and to the same extent that the original administrator or executor might or could do, if living.

(178.) SEC. III. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

PRIOR LAWS. An act to regulate administrations, and the descent of intestates' estates, and for other purposes; approved March 23, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 223.

An act to authorize executors and administrators to sell real estate in certain cases; approved Jan. 28, 1823. Laws, 1823, p. 90.

An act to amend an act entitled "An act regulating administrations, and the descent of intestates' estates, and for other purposes;" approved Feb. 12, 1823. Laws, 1823, p. 127.

An act to authorize executors and administrators to sell real estate in certain cases; in force June 1, 1827. Laws, 1827, p. 200.

An act relative to wills and testaments, executors and administrators, and the settlement of estates; in force July 1, 1829. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 611.

An act supplemental to an act relative to wills and testaments; in force June 1, 1835. Laws, 1835, p. 35.

An act to provide for the probate of wills, in certain cases; approved March 2, 1839. Laws, 1839, p. 259.

An act authorizing administrators to settle estates in particular cases; approved Feb. 17, 1841. Laws, 1841, p. 22.

An act to amend "An act relative to wills and testaments, executors and administrators, and the settlement of estates," approved Jan. 23, 1829; approved March 6, 1843. Laws, 1843, p. 319.

DECISIONS. The act of Feb. 12, 1823, regulating administrations, &c., does not apply to the estates of those who died before its passage. By that act, judgments obtained against the deceased in his lifetime, are to be first paid. Jones' Administrators v. Bond, Breese, 223; Woodworth v. Paine's Administrators, Breese, 294.

Under the act of Jan. 23, 1829, relative to wills, &c., courts of probate have power to revoke letters of administration fraudulently obtained, as an incident to their power to "hear and determine the rights of administration." Marston v. Wilcox, 1 S. 60.

Under the statute of wills, of July, 1829, an action may be maintained for a breach in the condition of an executor's bond, against any one or more of the obligors; and a devastavit need not be first established. The statute also gives the action, in cases of neglect or refusal to comply with either of the provisions of law which regulate the conduct of executors, as well as in cases of a violation of one or more of the covenants in the bond. The People v. Miller et al., 1 S. 83.

The statute of wills, of 1829, does not empower a court of probate to render a judgment, or issue execution, in favor of heirs or devisees, against an executor or administrator, for failing or refusing to pay over to such heirs or devisees their portions of the estate of the deceased. The remedy for failing to pay over, after order of the court to do so, is by attachment for contempt. Piggott v. Rainey et al., 1 S. 145.

Under the statute of wills, an administrator is not bound to set off a debt or demand belonging to an estate, against a claim of a creditor of the estate; and such debt or demand is not barred by his failing to do so. Morton v. Bailey et al., 1 S. 213.

The act of 1827, unlike the act of 1829, on the subject of wills, does not require the application for the sale of real estate of a deceased person to be made to the circuit court of the county where administration is granted. Under the former act, it may be made to the circuit court of the county where the land lies. The act of 1827 requires that when an order of sale is made, the conveyance shall set forth such order at large, and a recital of the substance of the order is not sufficient. A court cannot direct a sale of such estate to be made for any other funds than the legal currency of the State. Smith et al. v. Hieman, 1 S. 223.

The statute of wills, &c., of Jan. 1829, does not delay the suing out of a scire facias to foreclose a mortgage on a decedent's estate for one year after the taking out of letters of administration. Menard v. Marks, 1 S. 25.

Under the statute of wills, of 1829, the appeal bond in appeals from the probate to the circuit court, must be made payable to the people of the State of Illinois; the statute does not provide for amending such bond, or filing a new one, and a motion to do so is addressed to the discretion of the court. Crain v. Bailey et al., 1 S. 321.

By the statute of wills, of 1829, the trial in the circuit court, on appeal from the probate court, is de novo; and on appeal from a decision in relation to the probate of a will, the trial may be had before a jury, and no testimony as to the sanity of the testator can be introduced, except that of the subscribing witnesses to the will, who must concur in the opinion that the testator was of sound mind, in order to admit the will to probate. Walker v. Walker, 2 S. 291.

Judgment against an executor can only be rendered against the "goods and chattels" of the testator, in the hands of the executor to be administered, against the "rights and credits, lands and tenements" of the testator. Greenwood v. Spiller, 2 S. 502. See also, McCowell v. Wight, 4 S. 403.

Under the act of March 4, 1837, respecting probate justices of the peace, appeals from their judgments should be taken in the same manner as appeals from justices of the peace. Gibbons v. Johnson, 3 S. 61.

Under the act to facilitate the collection of judgments by executors, &c., of Feb. 19, 1841, only administrators appointed in this State are included; foreign administrators cannot sue in our courts. The People v. Peck, 3 S. 118.

By the statute of wills, of Jan. 1829, an executor or administrator may relinquish part, and patent the residue of any lands of his testator or intestate upon which full payment has not been made, when it can be done under the acts of Congress; and may sell or assign a certificate of purchase of lands partly paid for, when necessary to pay the debts of the deceased. Prevo v. Walters et al., 4 S. 35.

The statute of wills, of 1829, empowers a party to devise real estate, acquired after the making the devise. Willis et al. v. Watson et al., 4 S. 64.

Appeals may be taken from the decisions of probate justices of the peace, in all cases, except those included in sections 3 and 4 of the act of March 4, 1837, in the manner provided in the statute of wills for appeals from the old probate court; that is, by tendering a bill of exceptions, and giving bond within ninety days. The proceedings of the probate justice in allowing claims against an estate, must be reported to the circuit court at its first term thereafter; but this is only directory as to time, and the report may be made at a subsequent term. When made, the circuit court is only to examine it, determine whether it be in due form, and shows decisions properly made upon the class of cases required to be reported, and then approve or reject it. The effect of approval is to make it matter of record, when as such it may be certified, but the court cannot refuse to examine it. Scott v. Crow et al., 4 S. 183.

No application of an administrator to sell the real estate of his intestate, to pay debts still due, will be sustained, after the expiration of one year from the final settlement of the accounts of the estate in the probate court, except under peculiar circumstances. Dorman et ux. v. Lane, Administrator, 1 G. 143.

Under the statute of wills, of 1829, a widow is entitled to one-third of the real estate of her deceased husband, for life, and to one-third, forever, of his personal estate which may remain after the payment of just debts. Sisk v. Smith, Administrator, 1 G. 503.

The granting letters testamentary, and of administration, and the taking bonds from executors and administrators, by probate courts, are ministerial and not judicial acts. Pritchett et al. v. The People, 1 G. 525.

Under a will, directing how the real estate of the testator should be disposed of by the executor, but not naming any executor, an administrator, with the will annexed, was appointed by the probate court: Held, that such administrator, under the statute of wills, of 1829, had no authority to sell the land of the testator, and execute a deed therefor, without the aid of the court. Hall v. Irwin et al., 2 G. 176.

Under the act of March, 1819, regulating administrators, &c., the probate of a will is a ministerial act; and in order to make a will valid for the purpose of passing the title to land, it should be proven by two subscribing witnesses, signed by the testator in their presence, and signed by them in each other's presence, and his. Ferguson et al. v. Hunter, 2 G. 657.

An administrator may give a general notice of his intention to apply for leave to sell lands, without naming particular persons as defendants. In such a notice, where certain heirs are unknown, the words "State of Illinois," were omitted in connection with the county; the appearance of the only known heir cured that defect. A decree for the sale of the whole land, or so much as would pay the debts, is sufficient, and it need not state the particular interest of the deceased in the land. The provisions of the statute of wills, of March 1, 1833, are not restricted to resident decedents, but embrace all persons. The proper county, of a non-resident decedent, who leaves land in this State, is the county where such lands or a part of them lie; and there administration should be granted. Bowles' Heirs v. Rouse, Administrator, 3 G. 409.

The 95th section of the statute of wills, of March 3, 1845, requires administrators to fix on a term of the probate court, for the settlement of claims against estates, and provides that such estate shall be liable for costs on all claims presented at or before such time, but not on claims presented afterwards. On appeal from the probate court, the circuit court may enter a judgment against the estate of a decedent, but cannot award execution. Welch, Administrator, v. Wallace, 3 G. 490.

The law in force at the time of the death of a testator or intestate, controls the distribution of his estate; and in such distribution, judgments and simple contracts stand on the same footing. Paschall v. Hailman, 4 G. 285.

The probate court may allow a claim against an estate, filed more than two years after the granting of letters of administration, to be paid out of assets subsequently discovered. There is no conflict between the 102nd and 115th sections of statute of wills, of 1845. Thorn v. Watson, Administrator, 5 G. 26.

A public administrator can have no control over an estate until he has given bonds and taken out letters of administration. Thomas, Administrator, v. Adams, 5 G. 319.

An administrator can assign a promissory note, payable to his intestate, so as to vest the legal title thereto in the assignee. Makepeace v. Moore, 5 G. 474.

If a demand against an estate is not exhibited within the two years limited by the statute, it will only be satisfied out of subsequently discovered estate. Judy et al. v. Kelley, 11 Ill. 211.

When a court of probate of any county has obtained full jurisdiction of an estate, it retains it till the estate is fully administered. Creditors of an estate, not included under the saving clause of the 115th section, Rev. Stat. 1845, respecting wills, and who do not present their claims within two years after the granting letters of administration, can only collect them out of assets thereafter discovered; and it is a sufficient presentation of a claim to file it, or a copy thereof, in the probate court. The People v. White et al., 11 Ill. 341.

An order for the sale of the real estate of a decedent will not be made, unless it be shown that debts exist against the estate. Dorman et ux. v. Tost et al., 13 Ill. 127.

Under the statute of wills, of 1845, claims against estates of decedents should be presented, either on the notice of the executor or administrator, or on that of the claimant, and if not decided on at the time fixed for hearing, should either be withdrawn or continued to a day certain, that the executor or administrator may appear and contest them. If such claims be allowed, without notice to the executors or administrators, it will not bind the estate. Probst v. Meadows, 13 Ill. 157.

By the statute of wills, of 1845, the lands of an intestate are held subject to the payment of his debts. Where the personal estate is exhausted, the administrator should obtain an order to sell real estate sufficient to pay the debts, and the proceeds of such sale are assets in his hands. Creditors are not bound to pursue lands into the hands of the heir, but only to establish their claims against the administrator. In effect, the statute reserves a lien on the lands of intestates, for the payment of such indebtedness as the personal estate will not satisfy. The real estate descends to the heirs with this charge upon it, and the heir cannot encumber or alien it to the prejudice of creditors. Vansyckle et al. v. Richardson et al., 13 Ill. 171.

The act of March 3, 1845, Appendix to Rev. Stat. p. 596, authorizes foreign administrators to maintain suits in our courts, and regulates the character of the proof of such administrative authority, when questioned by the pleadings. Collins v. Ayers, 13 Ill. 358.

The statute of wills of 1845, does not change the law, that rent falling due after the death of a testator or intestate, descends to the heir as a chattel real. Green v. Massie, 13 Ill. 263.

The statute regulating dower does not repeal that part of the statute of wills, of 1845, which declares that the widow of an intestate, leaving no descendants, inherits, as heir of the intestate, one-half the real and all the personal estate of which the intestate died seized, which remains after the payment of his debts; and that she is also entitled to dower. Tyson et ux. v. Postlethwaite et al., 13 Ill. 727.

Claims against the estate of a decedent, except where the claimant comes within the saving clause of the statute of wills, must be presented within two years after granting letters of administration, or they can receive no share of the estate before that time inventoried or accounted for. An administrator de bonis non has control only over that portion of the estate unadministered, and cannot call on the first administrator, or his personal representative, for an account of assets already administered on. Rowan v. Kirkpatrick et al., 14 Ill. 1. See also, Newhall v. Turney, 14 Ill. 338.

By the statute of wills, of 1845, and the act amendatory thereof, of Feb. 21, 1845, the widow of an intestate is entitled to certain articles of the estate, or their value, as her sole and separate property; and the children of such, dying intestate, a housekeeper and the head of a family, take the same property as if the intestate were a widower. Lesher v. Wirth, 14 Ill. 39.

Under our laws, the presumption is that a person dying intestate, has left heirs capable of succeeding to his estate, and such presumption must be rebutted by proof. Harvey v. Thornton, 14 Ill. 217.

In a suit to recover a demand accruing to an administrator, after the death of the intestate, the defendant cannot set off a debt from the intestate in his lifetime. Newhall v. Turney, 14 Ill. 338.

Demands against an estate must be presented within two years from the grant of administration, and a creditor, free from the statute exception, who does not present his claim within that time, will receive no part of the personal estate previously inventoried or accounted for. An executor or administrator may insist on this limitation of two years, but not heirs or devisees. Judgment against heirs or devisees should not be enforced till the assets in the hands of the administrator or executor are found insufficient, and then for the deficiency only. Ryan v. Jones, 15 Ill. 1.

Where an administrator did not, within two years from the grant of administration, inventory the real estate of the intestate, a creditor, claiming after the two years, is entitled equally with other creditors, to the proceeds of such real estate. Sloo v. Pool, 15 Ill. 47.

An order of the probate court, directing an administrator to pay money in his hands, to an heir, is conclusive, and if complied with, entitles the heir to recover on the administrator's bond, both against principal and security. If the security on such bond, think the order of such probate court unjust, his remedy is by appeal therefrom to the circuit court; but in the action on the bond, the propriety of the order of the probate court cannot be inquired into, except for fraud. Ralston v. Wood, 15 Ill. 159.

An administrator de bonis non, who succeeds an administrator whose letters are revoked, can require such removed administrator to account fully for his administration, and make him answerable in damages for mal-administration. It is otherwise, when a former administrator dies. The acceptance of the resignation of an administrator, is equivalent to a revocation of his letters; and if there are other administrators, the duty of administration devolves on them; and each administrator is liable for the acts of each of the others, while all are in office. The refusal of an administrator to fulfil the duties of his trust, is good cause for revoking his authority. Marsh et al. v. The People, 15 Ill. 234.

An administrator or executor must conform strictly to the order of court directing the manner of sale of the real estate of a decedent, or the sale will be invalid. Reynolds v. Wilson et al., 15 Ill. 394.

An Act to authorize the Refunding of the State Debt.

[Approved Feb. 23, 1847. Laws, 1847, p. 161.]

WHEREAS the State of Illinois has at various times issued a large number of internal improvement bonds of different classes, yet bearing the same numbers, and having interest coupons attached thereto, similar in number and description, thereby causing great confusion, opening a wider door for fraud, and rendering it extremely difficult to pay the interest to those justly entitled thereto; AND WHEREAS also, from the want of a full and perfect record of the classes, numbers and description of the bonds so issued, it is impossible at the present time to determine the precise amount of the indebtedness of the State, its character, and when payable; AND WHEREAS it is of the highest importance that the actual amount and character of the present State debt should be actually ascertained at the earliest possible period, preparatory to a more united and vigorous exertion for its payment, and to enable the convention for altering the constitution, about to assemble, to make some adequate constitutional provision for the payment of the principal when due, the accruing interest, and interest in arrear; therefore,

(187.) SEC. I. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly, That the governor be authorized and directed to receive from the holders willing to surrender the same, the internal improvement bonds, scrip, and all other evidences of State indebtedness heretofore issued, and now outstanding against the State, (not including the McAlister and Stebbins bonds, nor any canal bonds, scrip or other indebtedness incurred in behalf of the Illinois and Michigan canal,) and shall thereupon, in exchange for, and in lieu of such bonds, scrip or other evidences of indebtedness so surrendered, issue to said holders other certificates of indebtedness, equal in amount with the amount surrendered; which said new certificates shall, from the date thereof, bear like interest, and be made payable at the same time, with the evidences of indebtedness so surrendered, and shall be denominated "new internal improvement stock of the State of Illinois." No certificate shall be issued of a less denomination than one thousand dollars, except interest certificates, as hereinafter mentioned: Provided, That all bonds, scrip, &c., which shall not be surrendered up, in conformity with the provisions of this act, within eighteen months after notice given of a readiness on the part of the State to exchange as aforesaid, shall thereafter not be entitled to the benefit of any law which may be passed to pay interest on the State debt.

(188.) SEC. II. For the interest now in arrear, certificates shall be issued at the time of making the exchange provided in the foregoing section, which said certificates shall not be of a less denomination than five hundred dollars, shall bear interest at the rate of six per centum per annum, from and after the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-seven, and shall be redeemable, at the pleasure of the State, at any time after the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven.

(189.) SEC. III. All the certificates hereby authorized to be issued shall be signed by the governor and countersigned by the treasurer, and shall be made payable in dollars and cents in the city of New York. The interest to be paid semi-annually. No interest coupons shall be attached to the new certificates, but the rate of interest and the time of payment thereof, shall be expressly set forth in the body of the certificate.

(190.) SEC. IV. Before the delivery of any certificates authorized to be issued by the foregoing sections of this act, the governor shall cause to be prepared two sets of books, in one of which he shall cause, at the time of making the exchange hereinbefore provided, to be carefully entered a brief and accurate description of each and all of the bonds, scrip and other evidences of indebtedness, to be surrendered as hereinbefore provided; and in the other set there shall be in like manner carefully entered, a precise and accurate description of the number, date and amount of each certificate, the persons to whom, and the purpose for which, the same are issued, and whatever else may be necessary to preserve a full and true account of the same.

The exchange authorized by this act to be made, may be effected in Springfield, Illinois, or in the city of New York, as the governor shall judge best; and for the purpose of accomplishing the object of this act, a sum not exceeding two thousand five hundred dollars is hereby appropriated out of any money in the treasury not otherwise previously appropriated.

(192.) SEC. VI. Whenever any bond, scrip or other evidences of indebtedness shall be surrendered to the governor, and a description thereof duly entered as hereinbefore provided, it shall be the duty of the governor to cause the same to be canceled, and to file the same in the office of the treasurer of the State, to be preserved as vouchers, and be subject to the future order of the General Assembly. The governor shall receive from Lyon and Howard, the internal improvement commissioners' drafts now held by them, and issue to them new certificates of stock as hereinbefore provided, instead of the internal improvement scrip which he is now directed by law to issue to them.

(193.) SEC. VII. The governor is hereby authorized and empowered to call to his aid such agent or agents as may in his judgment be necessary for carrying into effect the provisions of this act; and the faith of the State is hereby pledged for the payment of the certificates, both principal and interest, authorized to be issued by the foregoing sections of this act. All certificates issued under and by virtue of this act shall be transferable, and books of transfer shall be kept in the cities of Springfield and New York, respectively, by such persons as the governor may appoint.

(194.) SEC. VIII. And all costs or expenses, incurred in the apprehending, securing, and transmitting such fugitive to the State or territory making such demand, shall be paid by such State or territory.

(2.) SEC. II. That any agent appointed as aforesaid, who shall receive the fugitive into his custody, shall be empowered to transport him or her to the State or territory from which he or she shall have fled. And if any person or persons shall, by force, set at liberty, or rescue the fugitive from such agent while transporting as aforesaid, the person or persons so offending shall, on conviction, be fined not exceeding five hundred dollars, and be imprisoned not exceeding one year.

(4.) SEC. IV. That any person who shall knowingly and willingly obstruct or hinder such claimant, his agent or attorney, in so seizing or arresting such fugitive from labor; or shall rescue such fugitive from such claimant, his agent or attorney, when so arrested, pursuant to the authority herein given or declared; or shall harbor or conceal such person, after notice

An Act to amend, and supplementary to, the Act entitled "An Act respecting Fugitives from Justice, and Persons escaping from the Service of their Masters," approved Feb. 12, 1793.

[Approved Sept. 18, 1850.]

(5.) SEC. I. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the persons who have been or may hereafter be appointed commissioners, in virtue of any act of Congress, by the circuit courts of the United States, and who, in consequence of such appointment, are authorized to exercise the powers that any justice of the peace, or other magistrate of any of the United States may exercise in respect to offenders for any crime or offense against the United States, by arresting, imprisoning, or bailing the same under and by virtue of the thirty-third section of the act of the twenty-fourth of September, seventeen hundred and eighty-nine, entitled "An act to establish the judicial courts of the United States," shall be and are hereby authorized and required to exercise and discharge all the powers and duties conferred by this act.

(6.) SEC. II. And be it further enacted, That the superior court of each organized territory of the United States shall have the same power to appoint commissioners to take acknowledgments of bail and affidavits, and to take depositions of witnesses in civil causes, which is now possessed by the circuit court of the United States; and all commissioners who shall hereafter be appointed for such purposes by the superior court of any organized territory of the United States, shall possess all the powers and exercise all the duties conferred by law upon the commissioners appointed by the circuit courts of the United States for similar purposes, and shall moreover exercise and discharge all the powers and duties conferred by this act.

(7.) SEC. III. And be it further enacted, That the circuit courts of the United States, and the superior courts of each organized territory of the United States, shall from time to time enlarge the number of commissioners, with a view to afford reasonable facilities to reclaim fugitives from labor, and to the prompt discharge of the duties imposed by this act.

(8.) SEC. IV. And be it further enacted, That the commissioners above named shall have concurrent jurisdiction with the judges of the circuit courts of the United States, in their respective circuits and districts within the several States, and the judges of the superior courts of the territories, severally and collectively, in term time and vacation; and shall grant certificates to such claimants, upon satisfactory proof being made, with authority to take and remove such fugitives from service or labor, under the restrictions herein contained, to the State or territory from which such persons may have escaped or fled.

(9.) SEC. V. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of all marshals and deputy marshals to obey and execute all warrants and precepts issued under the provisions of this act, when to them directed; and should any marshal or deputy marshal refuse to receive such warrant or other process when tendered, or to use all proper means diligently to execute the same, he shall on conviction thereof be fined in the sum of one thousand dollars to the use of such claimant, on the motion of such claimant, by the circuit or district court for the district of such marshal; and after arrest of such fugitive by such marshal or his deputy or whilst at anytime in his custody under the provisions under this act, should such fugitive escape, whether with or without the assent of such marshal or his deputy, such marshal shall be liable on his official bond to be prosecuted for the benefit of such claimant, for the full value of the service or labor of said fugitive in the State, territory or district whence he escaped. And the better to enable the said commissioners, when thus appointed, to execute their duties faithfully and efficiently, in conformity with the requirements of the constitution of the United States and of this act, they are hereby authorized and empowered, within their counties respectively, to appoint, in writing under their hands, any one or more suitable persons, from time to time, to execute all such warrants and other process as may be issued by them in the lawful performance of their respective duties; with authority to such commissioners, or the persons to be appointed by them, to execute process as aforesaid, to summon and call to their aid the bystanders, or posse comitatus of the proper county, when necessary to insure a faithful observance of the clause of the constitution referred to, in conformity with the provisions of this act; and all good citizens are hereby commanded to aid and assist in the prompt and efficient execution of this law, whenever their services may be required, as aforesaid for that purpose, and said warrants shall run, and be executed by said officers anywhere in the State, within which they are issued.

(10.) SEC. VI. And be it further enacted, That when a person held to service or labor in any State or territory of the United States, has heretofore or shall hereafter escape into another State or territory of the United States, the person or persons to whom such service or labor may be due, or his, her, or their agent or attorney, duly authorized, by power of attorney, in writing, acknowledged and certified under the seal of some legal officer or court of the State or territory in which the same may be executed, may pursue and reclaim such fugitive person, either by procuring a warrant from some one of the courts, judges, or commissioners aforesaid, of the proper circuit, district or county, for the apprehension of such fugitive from service or labor, or by seizing and arresting such fugitive, where the same can be done without process, and by taking, or causing such person to be taken, forthwith before such court, judge or commissioner, whose duty it shall be to hear and determine the case of such claimant in a summary manner; and upon satisfactory proof being made, by deposition or affidavit in writing, to be taken and certified by such court, judge or commissioner, or by other satisfactory testimony, duly taken and certified by some court, magistrate, justice of the peace, or other legal officer authorized to administer an oath and take depositions under the laws of the State or territory from which such person owing service or labor may have escaped, with a certificate of such magistracy or other authority, as aforesaid, with the seal of the proper court or officer thereto attached, which seal shall be sufficient to establish the competency of the proof, and with proof, also by affidavit, of the identity of the person whose service or labor is claimed to be due as aforesaid, that the person so arrested does in fact owe service or labor to the person or persons claiming him or her, in the State or territory from which such fugitive may have escaped as aforesaid, and that said person escaped, to make out and deliver to such claimant, his or her agent or attorney, a certificate setting forth the substantial facts as to the service or labor due from such fugitive to the claimant, and of his or her escape from the State or territory in which such service or labor was due, to the State or territory in which he or she was arrested, with authority to such claimant, or his or her agent or attorney, to use such reasonable force and restraint as may be necessary, under the circumstances of the case, to take and remove such fugitive person back to the State or territory whence he or she may have escaped as aforesaid. In no trial or hearing under this act shall the testimony of such alleged fugitive be admitted in evidence; and the certificates in this and the first section mentioned, shall be conclusive of the right of the person or persons in whose favor granted, to remove such fugitive to the State or territory from which he escaped, and shall prevent all molestation of such persons by any process issued by any court, judge, magistrate or other person whomsoever.

(11.) SEC. VII. And be it further enacted, That any person who shall knowingly and willingly obstruct, hinder or prevent such claimant, his agent or attorney, or any person or persons lawfully assisting him, her or them, from arresting such a fugitive from service or labor, either with or without process as aforesaid; or shall rescue, or attempt to rescue, such fugitive from service or labor, from the custody of such claimant, his or her agent or attorney, or other person or persons lawfully assisting as aforesaid, when so arrested, pursuant to the authority herein given and declared; or shall aid, abet or assist such person so owing service or labor as aforesaid, directly or indirectly, to escape from such claimant, his agent or attorney, or other person or persons legally authorized as aforesaid; or shall harbor or conceal such fugitive, so as to prevent the discovery and arrest of such person, after notice or knowledge of the fact that such person was a fugitive from service or labor as aforesaid, shall for either of said offenses, be subject to a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, and imprisonment not exceeding six months, by indictment and conviction before the district court of the United States for the district in which such offense may have been committed, or before the proper court of criminal jurisdiction, if committed within any one of the organized territories of the United States; and shall, moreover forfeit and pay, by way of civil damages, to the party injured by such illegal conduct, the sum of one thousand dollars, for each fugitive so lost as aforesaid, to be recovered by action of debt, in any of the district or territorial courts aforesaid, within whose jurisdiction the said offense may have been committed.

(12.) SEC. VIII. And be it further enacted, That the marshals, their deputies, and the clerks of the said district and territorial courts shall be paid for their services the like fees as may be allowed to them for similar services as in other cases; and where such services are rendered exclusively in the arrest, custody and delivery of the fugitive to the claimant, his or her agent or attorney, or where such supposed fugitive may be discharged out of custody for the want of sufficient proof as aforesaid, then such fees are to be paid in the whole by such claimant, his agent or attorney; and in all cases where the proceedings are before a commissioner, he shall be entitled to a fee of ten dollars in full for his services in each case, upon the delivery of the said certificate to the claimant, his or her agent or attorney; or a fee of five dollars in cases where the proof shall not, in the opinion of such commissioner, warrant such certificate and delivery, inclusive of all services incident to such arrest and examination, to be paid, in either case, by the claimant, his or her agent or attorney. The person or persons authorized to execute the process to be issued by such commissioners for the arrest and detention of fugitives from service or labor as aforesaid, shall also be entitled to a fee of five dollars each for each person he or they may arrest and take before any such commissioner as aforesaid, at the instance and request of such claimant, with such other fees as may be deemed reasonable by such commissioner for such other additional services as may be necessarily performed by him or them, such as attending at the examination, keeping the fugitive in custody, and providing him with food and lodging during his detention, and until the final determination of such commissioner; and in general for performing such other duties as may be required by such claimant, his or her attorney or agent, or commissioner in the premises; such fees to be made up in conformity with the fees usually charged by the officers of the courts of justice within the proper district or county, as near as may be practicable, and paid by such claimants, their agents or attorneys, whether such supposed fugitives from service or labor be ordered to be delivered to such claimants by the final determination of such commissioners, or not.

(13.) SEC. IX. And be it further enacted, That upon affidavit made by the claimant of such fugitive, his agent or attorney, after such certificate has been issued, that he has reason to apprehend that such fugitive will be rescued by force from his or their possession before he can be taken beyond the limits of the State in which the arrest is made, it shall be the duty of the officer making the arrest to retain such fugitive in his custody, and to remove him to the State whence he fled, and there to deliver him to said claimant, his agent or attorney. And to this end, the officer aforesaid is hereby authorized and required to employ so many persons as he may deem necessary to overcome such force, and to retain them in his service so long as circumstances may require; the said officer and his assistants, while so employed, to receive the same compensation, and to be allowed the same expenses, as are now allowed by law for the transportation of criminals, to be certified by the judge of the district within which the arrest is made, and paid out of the treasury of the United States.

(14.) SEC. X. And be it further enacted, That when any person held to service or labor in any State or territory, or in the District of Columbia, shall escape therefrom, the party to whom such service or labor shall be due, his, her or their agent or attorney, may apply to any court of record therein, or judge thereof in vacation, and make satisfactory proof to such court, or judge in vacation, of the escape aforesaid, and that the person escaping owed service or labor to such party. Whereupon the court shall cause a record to be made of the matters so proved, and also a general description of the person so escaping, with such convenient certainty as may be; and a transcript of such record, authenticated by the attestation of the clerk and of the seal of the said court, being produced in any other State, territory or district in which the person so escaping may be found, and being exhibited to any judge, commissioner, or other officer authorized by the law of the United States to cause persons escaping from service or labor to be delivered up, shall be held and taken to be full and conclusive evidence of the fact of escape, and that the service or labor of the person escaping is due to the party in such record mentioned. And upon the production by the said party of other and further evidence, if necessary, either oral or by affidavit, in addition to what is contained in the said record of the identity of the person escaping, he or she shall be delivered up to the claimant. And the said court, commissioner, judge or other person authorized by this act to grant certificates to claimants of fugitives, shall, upon the production of the record and other evidences aforesaid, grant to such claimant a certificate of his right to take any such person identified and proved, to be owing service or labor as aforesaid, which certificate shall authorize such claimant to seize or arrest and transport such person to the State or territory from which he escaped: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed as requiring the production of a transcript of such record as evidence as aforesaid. But in its absence the claim shall be heard and determined upon other satisfactory proofs, competent in law.

[Approved Sept. 4, 1841.]

(59.) SEC. I. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That from and after the thirty-first day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-one, there be allowed and paid to each of the States of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Alabama, Missouri, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Michigan, over and above what each of the said States is entitled to by the terms of the compacts entered into between them and the United States, upon their admission into the Union, the sum of ten per centum upon the net proceeds of the sales of the public lands, which, subsequent to the day aforesaid, shall be made within the limits of each of said States respectively: Provided, That the sum so allowed to the said States, respectively, shall be in nowise affected or diminished on account of any sums which have been heretofore, or shall be hereafter, applied to the construction or continuance of the Cumberland road, but that the disbursements for the said road shall remain, as heretofore, chargeable on the two per centum fund provided for by compacts with several of the said States.

(60.) SEC. II. And be it further enacted, That after deducting the said ten per centum, and what, by the compacts aforesaid, has heretofore been allowed to the States aforesaid, the residue of the net proceeds,—which net proceeds shall be ascertained by deducting from the gross proceeds all the expenditures of the year for the following objects: Salaries and expenses on account of the general land office; expenses for surveying public lands; salaries and expenses in the surveyor general's offices; salaries, commissions and allowances to the registers and receivers; the five per centum to new States, of all the public lands of the United States, wherever situated, which shall be sold subsequent to the said thirty-first day of December,—shall be divided among the twenty-six States of the Union and the District of Columbia, and the territories of Wisconsin, Iowa and Florida, according to their respective federal representative population as ascertained by the last census, to be applied by the legislatures of the said States to such purposes as the said legislature may direct: Provided, That the distributive share to which the District of Columbia shall be entitled, shall be applied to free school, or education in some other form, as Congress may direct: And Provided, also, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to the prejudice of future applications for a reduction of the price of the public lands, or to the prejudice of applications for a transfer of the public lands, on reasonable terms, to the States within which they lie, or to make such future disposition of the public lands, or any part thereof, as Congress may deem expedient.

(61.) SEC. III. And be it further enacted, That the several sums of money received in the treasury as the net proceeds of the sales of the public lands shall be paid at the treasury, half-yearly, on the first days of January and July in each year, during the operation of this act, to such person or persons as the respective legislatures of the said States and territories, or the governors thereof, in case the legislatures shall have made no such appointment, shall authorize and direct to receive the same.

(62.) SEC. IV. And be it further enacted, That any sum of money, which at any time may become due and payable to any State of the Union, or to the District of Columbia, by virtue of this act, as the portion of the said State or district, of the proceeds of the sales of the public lands, shall be first applied to the payment of any debt, due and payable from the said State or district to the United States: Provided, That this shall not be construed to extend to the sums deposited with the States under the act of Congress of twenty-third of June, eighteen hundred and thirty-six, entitled "An act to regulate the deposits of the public money," nor to any sums apparently due to the United States as balances of debts growing out of the transactions of the Revolutionary war.

(63.) SEC. V. And be it further enacted, That this act shall continue and be in force until otherwise provided by law, unless the United States shall become involved in war with any foreign power, in which event, from the commencement of hostilities, this act shall be suspended during the continuance of such war: Provided, nevertheless, That if, prior to the expiration of this act, any new State or States shall be admitted into the Union, there be assigned to such new State or States, the proportion of the proceeds accruing after their admission into the Union, to which such State or States may be entitled, upon the principles of this act, together with what such State or States may be entitled to by virtue of compacts to be made on their admission into the Union.

(64.) SEC. VI. And be it further enacted, That there shall be annually appropriated for completing the surveys of said lands, a sum not less than one hundred and fifty thousand dollars; and the minimum price at which the public lands are now sold at private sale shall not be increased, unless Congress shall think proper to grant alternate sections along the line of any canal or other internal improvement, and at the same time to increase the minimum price of the sections reserved; and in case the same shall be increased by law, except as aforesaid, at any time during the operation of this act, then so much of this act as provides that the net proceeds of the public lands shall be distributed among the several States, shall, from and after the increase of the minimum price thereof, cease and become utterly null and of no effect, anything in this act to the contrary notwithstanding: Provided, That if, at any time during the existence of this act, there shall be an imposition of duties on imports inconsistent with the provisions of the act of March second, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-three, entitled "An act to modify the act of the fourteenth of July, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-two, and all other acts imposing duties on imports," and beyond the rate of duty fixed by that act, to wit: Twenty per cent. on the value of such imports, or any of them, then the distribution provided in this act shall be suspended and shall so continue until this cause of its suspension shall be removed, and when removed, if not prevented by other provisions of this act, such distribution shall be resumed.

(65.) SEC. VII. And be it further enacted, That the secretary of the treasury may continue any land district in which is situated the seat of government of any one of the States, and may continue the land office in such district, notwithstanding the quantity of land unsold in such district may not amount to one hundred thousand acres, when, in his opinion, such continuance may be required by public convenience, or in order to close the land system in such State at a convenient point, under the provisions of the act on that subject, approved twelfth June, one thousand eight hundred and forty.

(66.) SEC. VIII. And be it further enacted, That there shall be granted to each State specified in the first section of this act, five hundred thousand acres of land for the purposes of internal improvement: Provided, That to each of the said States which has already received grants for said purposes, there is hereby granted no more than a quantity of land which shall, together with the amount such State has already received as aforesaid, make five hundred thousand acres, the selections in all of the said States, to be made within their limits respectively in such manner as the legislatures thereof shall direct; and located in parcels conformably to sectional divisions and subdivisions, of not less than three hundred and twenty acres in any one location, on any public land except such as is or may be reserved from sale by any law of Congress or proclamation of the President of the United States, which said locations may be made at any time after the lands of the United States in said States respectively, shall have been surveyed according to existing laws. And there shall be and hereby is granted to each new State that shall be hereafter admitted into the Union, upon such admission, so much land as, including such quantity as may have been granted to such State before its admission, and while under territorial government, for purposes of internal improvement as aforesaid, as shall make five hundred thousand acres of land, to be selected and located as aforesaid.

(67.) SEC. IX. And be it further enacted, That the lands herein granted to the States above named, shall not be disposed of at a price less than one dollar and twenty-five cents per acre, until otherwise authorized by a law of the United States; and the net proceeds of the sales of said lands shall be faithfully applied to objects of internal improvement within the States aforesaid, respectively, namely: Roads, railways, bridges, canals and improvement of water-courses, and draining of swamps; and such roads, railways, canals, bridges and water-courses, when made or improved, shall be free for the transportation of the United States mail, and munitions of war, and for the passage of their troops, without the payment of any toll whatever.

(68.) SEC. X. And be it further enacted, That from and after the passage of this act, every person being the head of a family, or widow, or single man, over the age of twenty-one years, and being a citizen of the United States, or having filed his declaration of intention to become a citizen, as required by the naturalization laws, who since the first day of June, A. D. eighteen hundred and forty, has made or shall hereafter make a settlement in person on the public lands to which the Indian title had been at the time of such settlement extinguished, and which has been, or shall have been, surveyed prior thereto, and who shall inhabit and improve the same, and who has or shall erect a dwelling thereon, shall be and is hereby authorized to enter with the register of the land office for the district in which such land may lie, by legal subdivisions, any number of acres not exceeding one hundred and sixty, or a quarter section of land, to include the residence of such claimant, upon paying to the United States the minimum price for such land, subject, however, to the following limitations and exceptions: No person shall be entitled to more than one pre-emptive right by virtue of this act, no person who is the proprietor of three hundred and twenty acres of land in any State or territory of the United States, and no person who shall quit or abandon his residence or his own land to reside on the public land in the same State or territory, shall acquire any right of pre-emption under this act; no lands included in any reservation, by any treaty, law or proclamation of the President of the United States, or reserved for salines, or for other purposes; no land reserved for the support of schools, nor the lands acquired by either of the two last treaties with the Miami tribe of Indians in the State of Indiana, or which may be acquired of the Wyandot tribe of Indians in the State of Ohio, or other Indian reservation to which the title has been or may be extinguished by the United States at any time during the operation of this act; no sections of land reserved to the United States alternate to other sections granted to any of the States for the construction of any canal, railroad, or other public improvement; no sections or fractions of sections included within the limits of any incorporated town; no portions of the public lands which have been selected as the site for any city or town: no parcel or lot of land actually settled and occu-pled for the purposes of trade and not agriculture; and no lands on which are situated any known salines or mines, shall be liable to entry under and by virtue of the provisions of this act. And so much of the proviso of the act of twenty-second of June, eighteen hundred and thirty-eight, or any order of the President of the United States, as directs certain reservations to be made in favor of certain claims under the treaty of Dancing Rabbit creek, be and the same is hereby repealed: Provided, That such repeal shall not affect any title to any tract of land secured in virtue of said treaty.

(69.) SEC. XI. And be it further enacted, That when two or more persons shall have settled on the same quarter section of land, the right of pre-emption shall be in him or her who made the first settlement, provided such persons shall conform to the other provisions of this act; and all questions as to the right of pre-emption arising between different settlers, shall be settled by the register and receiver of the district within which the land is situated, subject to an appeal to and a revision by the secretary of the treasury of the United States.

(70.) SEC. XII. And be it further enacted, That prior to any entries made under and by virtue of the provisions of this act, proof of the settlement and improvement thereby required, shall be made to the satisfaction of the register and receiver of the land district in which such lands may lie, agreeably to such rules as shall be prescribed by the secretary of the treasury, who shall each be entitled to receive fifty cents from each applicant for his services, to be rendered as aforesaid; and all assignments and transfers of the right hereby secured, prior to the issuing of the patent, shall be null and void.

And it shall be the duty of the officer administering such oath, to file a certificate thereof in the public land office of such district, and to transmit a duplicate copy to the general land office, either of which shall be good and sufficient evidence that such oath was administered according to law.

(72.) SEC. XIV. And be it further enacted, That this act shall not delay the sale of any of the public lands of the United States beyond the (15.) SEC. XV. For the purpose of securing the construction of said road and branches, the right of way, and all the lands which may be selected along the lines of said road and branches within this State, under the grant made by the government of the United States to the State of Illinois, by virtue of "An act granting the right of way, and making a grant of land to the State of Illinois, Mississippi and Alabama, in aid of the construction of a railroad from Chicago to Mobile," passed September twentieth, (20,) eighteen hundred and fifty (1850;) and also the right of way which the State of Illinois has heretofore obtained along and on the line of said railroad and branches, as heretofore located and surveyed, for the uses of the same, as well as the lot of ground obtained by the State within the city of Cairo, for a depot, and all the grading, embankments, excavations, surveys, work, materials, personal property, profiles, plats and papers, constructed, procured, furnished, and done by or in behalf of the State of Illinois, for or on account of said road and branches, also the right of way over and through lands owned by the State, are hereby ceded and granted to said corporation, for the only and sole purpose of surveying, locating, constructing, completing, altering, maintaining and operating said road and branches, as in this act provided, and in the manner following, that is to say: Immediately upon the organization of said company, and the presentation to the governor of the State of Illinois of a certificate, signed by the corporators hereinbefore named, and duly acknowledged, accepting of this act of incorporation, and certifying to the due organization of said corporation; to the subscription to the capital stock thereof by the corporators hereinbefore named and their associates, of the sum of one million of dollars, and the bona fide payment of twenty per cent. thereon to the treasurer of said company, verified by the affidavits of the president and treasurer of said company, (which said certificate shall be filed in the office of the secretary of State); and after three hundred thousand dollars of registered canal bonds or funded internal improvement bonds of the State of Illinois, or two hundred thousand dollars in specie, or two hundred thousand dollars of six per cent. United States stock, shall have been by the said corporation deposited with the treasurer of the State of Illinois, which shall be safely preserved and kept in the treasury of said State, upon the faith of the same, to be returned to or paid over to the said corporation, upon the full completion and operation of fifty miles of said railroad, by the said corporation, according to the provisions of their said charter; the said governor of the State of Illinois shall, in his official capacity, and in behalf of the State of Illinois, and under the great seal thereof, execute and deliver to the said company a deed, in fee simple, of all said lands granted by the government of the United States, under the act of Congress aforesaid, said depot lot at Cairo, right of way, grading, embankment, excavation, surveys, work, materials, profiles, plats and papers, hereinafter described and set forth, or in any way appertaining to said road and branches: Provided, That said company shall, simultaneously with the execution of said deed by said governor, execute a deed of trust to the persons and for the purposes hereinafter named and expressed: And Provided, further, that the deed in fee simple to be executed by the governor, as aforesaid, shall recite, at full length, the act of Congress aforesaid, this act, and the deed of trust aforesaid. Said deed of trust shall be executed to Morris Ketchum, John Moore and Samuel D. Lockwood, as trustees, and shall include and convey to said trustees and their successors, every thing included and conveyed in and by said deed in fee simple, and in addition thereto the railroad or railroads which may be built upon or along said track or tracks, line or lines, and materials for the construction thereof, with all and singular the buildings, shops, engine houses, turn-outs, stations and real estate, of every nature and description, belonging or to belong to or in anywise appertaining or to appertain to said road and branches, for the uses, trusts and purposes following, that is to say:

1st. To secure and guarantee to the State of Illinois the first and prior lien on everything conveyed by said deed of trust, of every name, character and description, for security, as follows: First, The constructing, completing and furnishing said road and branches, in the manner and time, and upon conditions in this act provided. Second, For the faithful application of all money or property arising from the sale of lands, or obtained upon the faith of the same, as hereafter authorized, to the constructing, completing, equipping and furnishing said road and branches, in accordance with the terms of this act and said act of Congress. Third, The indemnification of the State of Illinois against all and every claim of the United States government, for proceeds of sale of lands made by said company under the provisions of this act, in the event said road and branches shall not be completed, as required by the act of Congress above referred to. Fourth, The lien hereby created shall take and have precedence of all demands, encumbrances, mortgages, bonds, judgments and decrees against said corporation or said property, except so far as the absolute power of selling said lands, or any portion thereof, is herein provided for: Provided, That in case fifty miles of said road shall not be constructed according to the provisions of this act, within two years from and after the date of the organization of the company, under the same, the bonds or money herein provided to be deposited with the treasurer of the State of Illinois, shall become forfeited to and become the property of the said State, subject to the disposition of the legislature thereof.

2nd. That on its organization, said company may enter upon, take and receive possession of the said tracks or lines, for the purpose of surveying, locating, working and constructing said road and branches, with the right of way, land, grading, embankments, excavations, surveys, work, materials, property, profiles, plats and papers aforesaid, to be occupied, used and employed for the purposes contemplated by this act, under whosoever control the same may be.

3rd. That said company shall proceed to locate, survey and lay out, construct and complete said road and branches, through the entire length thereof; the main trunk thereof, or central line, to run from the city of Cairo to the southern termination of the Illinois and Michigan canal, passing not more than five miles from the north-east corner of township twenty-one north, range two east of the third principal meridian, and nowhere departing more than seventeen miles from a straight line between said city of Cairo and said southern termination of said canal, with a branch running from the last mentioned point, upon the most eligible route, to the city of Galena; thence to a point on the Mississippi river opposite the city of Dubuque, in the State of Iowa; with a branch also diverging from the main track at a point not north of the parallel of thirty-nine and a half degrees north latitude, and running on the most eligible route into the city of Chicago, on lake Michigan. That the central road or main track shall be completed, with at least one line of rails, or single track, with the necessary turn-outs, stations, equipments and furnishings, within four years from the date of the execution of said deed of trust, and the branches within six years from said date. Said roads to be made equal in all respects to the road leading from Boston to Albany, usually known as the Great Western railway, with such improvements as experience shall have shown to be expedient; the central or main line to be first commenced, and be continued to completion.

4th. A portion of said lands so conveyed to said trustees, not exceeding one-fourth part thereof in value, to be designated by said company, shall be held by said trustees, free from all encumbrances, for purposes of sale, from time to time, on the requisition of said company, for the purpose of raising funds for the payment of interest on loans, in case of deficiency from other sources, and for such expenditures as the exigencies of the business of the company may require: Provided, That no portion of said fourth part of said lands shall be sold until said road and branches shall have been surveyed and located, and the work actually commenced on the main road: Provided, further, That no portion of said lands so held by said trustees, free from all encumbrance, for said purposes, shall be sold or offered for sale until the said trustees shall be satisfied that a sum of money has been actually expended upon the construction of a section of at least fifty miles of said road, adjacent to said lands, equal in amount to the sum of money to be raised from the sale of such portion of said lands, or until a section of at least fifty miles of said road, adjacent to said lands, shall have been completed, when the lands on said section will be sold, and so on till the said road and branches shall be completed.

5th. For the purpose of raising funds from time to time, for the construction and completion of said road and branches, and the purchase of iron and other materials to be used thereon, said company may issue its bonds, countersigned by the said trustees, in sums of not less than five hundred nor more than one thousand dollars each, at rates of interest not higher than seven per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually; the principal of said bonds payable in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five, or sooner, at the pleasure of the company, at such place as it shall designate. The payment of said bonds shall be secured by the deed of trust aforesaid, of said lands, roads and materials as hereinbefore provided; subject, nevertheless, to the prior lien of the State upon said lands and property, hereinbefore provided for; which said prior lien shall be referred to and recited in said bonds, so to be issued by said company: Provided, That the faith of the State is in nowise pledged for the redemption of said bonds to any extent.

(16.) SEC. XVI. When the said company shall have completed and put in running order fifty miles of said road, the said trustees, on the requisition of said company, may proceed to sell the lands lying along and adjacent to such section so completed, (and not reserved free from all encumbrances as aforesaid,) in such manner as the company may direct. Said lands shall be sold for cash in hand, or the bonds of said company at par. All bonds received on such sales shall be canceled by said trustees, and delivered to said company. The trustees shall invest all money received on such sales in the bonds of the company, which shall be in like manner canceled and returned. On canceling said bonds, and before returning them to the company, said trustees shall make a brief memorandum on each bond, specifying for or on what particular tract or tracts of land the same was received. On making such sales, and receiving the price of such lands in money or bonds as aforesaid, said trustees shall convey such tracts, by an absolute title in fee simple, to the purchasers; which conveyance shall operate as a release or an acquittance of the particular tract or tracts so sold, from all liability or encumbrance on account of said bonds, so specified in the preceding section, so as to vest in the purchasers a complete and indefeasible title. Before any sales shall be made of any of said lands, the said trustees shall make a complete record, describing each and every tract of land selected under said act of Congress, a copy of which record shall be filed in the office of the auditor of this State; and as sales of lands are made, as provided herein, from time to time, the said trustees shall make and keep a record as aforesaid of every and each tract of land so sold, together with the name of the person to whom, and the price for which, the same was sold; a copy of which record of sales shall be filed in said auditor's office semi-annually.

(17.) SEC. XVII. The trustees shall not at any time during the construction of said road and branches, sell or dispose of lands to an amount exceeding the sum which shall then have actually been expended upon the said work; but may, at the request of the company, sell as the work progresses, so as to meet expenditures actually made on the sections of the road completed, as far as the receipts from said sales may go towards their liquidation. And all lands remaining unsold at the expiration of ten years after the completion of said road and branches, shall be offered at public sale annually until the whole is disposed of, and the avails applied to the payment of the outstanding bonds of the company as aforesaid; or, if no such bonds be outstanding, said avails shall be paid to said company.

(18.) SEC. XVIII. In consideration of the grants, privileges and franchises herein conferred upon said company for the purposes aforesaid, the said company shall, on the first Mondays of December and June, in each year, pay into the treasury of the State of Illinois five per centum on the gross or total proceeds, receipts or income derived from said road and branches, for the six months then next preceding. The first payment of such per centage on the main trunk of said road to commence four years from the date of said deed of trust, and on the branches, six years from the date aforesaid, unless said road and branches are sooner completed, then from the date of completion. And for the purpose of ascertaining the proceeds, receipts or income aforesaid, an accurate account shall be kept by said company, a copy whereof shall be furnished to the governor of the State of Illinois; the truth of which account shall be verified by the affidavits of the treasurer and secretary of such company. And for the purpose of verifying and ascertaining the accuracy of such account, full power is hereby vested in the governor of the State of Illinois, or any other person by law appointed, to examine the books and papers of said corporation, and to examine, under oath, the officers, agents and employees of said company, and other persons. And if any person, so examined by the governor or other authority, shall, knowingly and willfully, swear falsely, or if the other officers making such affidavits shall, knowingly and willfully, swear falsely, every such person shall be subject to the pains and penalties of perjury.

(19.) SEC. XIX. The selection of lands provided for in the act of Congress making the grant hereinbefore specified, shall be made by said company, or such agents as it may designate, under the appointment of the governor of this State, subject to the approval in said act specified. Said selection, as well as the survey, location and completion of said road and branches, and the compensation of such trustees, shall be at the cost and charge of said company, without charge of any kind upon the treasury of the State of Illinois. Said road and branches to be free for the use of the United States, and to be employed by the post office department as provided in said act of Congress.

(20.) SEC. XX. In case of the death, resignation, removal, or inability to act, of either or all of said trustees, the vacancy or vacancies shall be filled by the governor of the State of Illinois and said company, alternately; the governor filling the first vacancy that may occur.

(21.) SEC. XXI. The corporate authorities of any city or cities on the line of said road or branches, or at either terminus thereof, or any owner or owners of property in any such city, or any association of citizens duly authorized by any such corporation, shall have power to lay down or construct a track or railroad along any of the streets of any such cities, for the purpose of conveying property to and from said railroad, which may be consigned to any of the warehousemen, in any of said cities, that said track or railroad (under the direction of said company,) may intersect the track of said railroad company at or near the main depot in said cities, respectively; and said company shall, at all times, permit the owners or consignees of property in such cities to take the cars containing the property to them consigned, to their respective warehouses upon said track: Provided, That any car so taken shall be returned without any unnecessary delay: And Provided, further, That whenever it shall be necessary, for the convenience of the public, or persons receiving or sending property by said railroad, the said company shall permit side tracks to intersect their main road at any depot on or along the line of said road; and that such persons shall be entitled to have any property taken from such side tracks, under the directions and regulations of said company, without unreasonable delay; and for the non-performance by said company of any act by this proviso required to be done, said company shall forfeit and pay the party aggrieved the sum of fifty dollars, in each case, to be recovered in an action of debt, before any justice of the peace, or any court having jurisdiction thereof.

(22.) SEC. XXII. The lands selected under said act of Congress, and hereby authorized to be conveyed, shall be exempt from all taxation under the laws of this State, until sold and conveyed by said corporation or trustees, and the other stock, property and effects of said company shall be in like manner exempt from taxation for the term of six years from the passage of this act. After the expiration of six years, the stock, property and assets belonging to said company shall be listed by the president, secretary, or other officer, with the auditor of State, and an annual tax for State purposes shall be assessed by the auditor upon all the property and assets of every name, kind and description belonging to said corporation. Whenever the taxes levied for State purposes shall exceed three-fourths of one per centum per annum, such excess shall be deducted from the gross proceeds or income herein required to be paid by said corporation to the State, and the said corporation is hereby exempted from all taxation of every kind, except as herein provided for. The revenue arising from said taxation, and the said five per cent. of gross or total proceeds, receipts or income aforesaid, shall be paid into the State treasury in money, and applied to the payment of interest-paying State indebtedness, until the extinction thereof: Provided, In case the five per cent. provided to be paid into the State treasury, and the State taxes to be paid by the corporation, do not amount to seven per cent. of the gross or total proceeds, receipts or income, then the said company shall pay into the State treasury the difference, so as to make the whole amount paid equal at least to seven per cent. of the gross receipts of said corporation.

(23.) SEC. XXIII. This act and all grants herein contained, shall cease and be void, unless accepted by said company within sixty days after the passage of this act; and immediately on such acceptance, made in manner above provided, the deed in fee simple, and the deed of trust aforesaid, shall be made as above provided. All the grants herein contained shall cease and be void unless said road and branches be surveyed and located, and work on the main trunk actually begun, before the first day of January, 1852.

(24.) SEC. XXIV. The State shall have a prior lien upon said road and branches, and all the appurtenances and stock thereof, for all penalties, taxes and dues, which may accrue to the State from said corporation, as herein provided; which lien of the State shall take precedence of all demands, judgments or decrees against said corporation.

(25.) SEC. XXV. That each and every person, who, on the twentieth day of September, one thousand eight hundred and fifty, was the owner of any improvements made previous to that date, on any lot of land conveyed to the said company, and who became such owner with a view to a residence on, or occupation of such lot of land for agricultural purposes, shall have the right to purchase, at not exceeding two dollars and fifty cents per acre, a quantity of the lot so owned, to be bounded by the legal subdivisions, not exceeding one quarter section, to consist of the quarter-quarter, half-quarter or quarter section, which will include the improvement aforesaid: Provided, That any person claiming the right to purchase under the provisions of this act, shall, within three months from the date of selecting the lands, file in the clerk's office of the circuit court of the county in which the land claimed is situated, a notice to the said trustees and corporation, of his, her or their claims, describing the land by its numbers, accompanied with an affidavit, stating the date and object of the improvement, the time and manner when and how he, she or they became the owner thereof, and also the affidavits of at least two residents of the county, proving the facts in relation to such claim: And Provided, further, That the right of way upon and across any lot of land sold under the provisions of this section, not exceeding two hundred feet in width, shall be reserved and retained for the passage of the road, as the same may be located and constructed, and any person claiming the right to purchase as aforesaid, shall, within twelve months from the date of commencing work on the road within the county in which the land is situated, pay the said trustees or the corporation the consideration money for the land claimed; which payment shall entitle him, her or them, to a deed conveying an estate in fee; but in case of failure to make such payment, the right to make the purchase shall cease. When two or more persons claim the right to purchase the same lot of land, and file the proof of ownership as herein required, the person proving the first residence by himself, or those under whom he claims the improvement, shall have the right to make the purchase, but no sale or conveyance of any lot of land under the provisions of this section shall affect the rights or equities of parties claiming the same, as between each other.

(26.) SEC. XXVI. In case the persons incorporated by this act shall fail or neglect to accept the provisions of the same, and comply with its conditions, within the time and in the manner herein prescribed, then the same may be accepted by any other company which shall be approved of by the governor, auditor and treasurer of this State; who, upon complying with the terms and conditions of this act, shall be vested with all the rights, powers and immunities conferred upon the corporators herein named, and shall be subject to all the liabilities in the said act set forth, in as full, ample and complete a manner as if their names were inserted as corporators in this act.

(27.) SEC. XXVII. This act shall be deemed a public act, and shall be favorably construed for all purposes therein expressed, and declared in all courts and places whatsoever, and shall be in force from and after its passage.

(30.) SEC. II. said road is in process of construction shall be deemed and taken to be the line authorized by its charter, and all the acts and contracts of said company touching the same, and all payments made for the right of way, shall be as valid and effectual as if the said road had been originally located in every respect upon the present line of construction.

(34.) SEC. III. In case it shall so happen, from any causes not now foreseen, that the said company should be unable and fail to complete its main line within the period fixed by its charter, it shall not be taken and deemed to be any cause of forfeiture of the franchises and charter of said company, but it shall have the right to complete the said road within six months after the expiration of said time, and thereupon all its corporate rights shall be and remain as if the said road had been completed within the period originally fixed by its charter.

(35.) SEC. IV. The capital stock of said company shall be fixed and limited at seventeen millions of dollars, and the certificates therefor may be issued as shall be deemed expedient by the board of directors.
