For discharging such prisoner, thirty-five cents.

In addition to the above fees, there shall be allowed to the several sheriffs in this State, a commission of three per centum on all sales of real and personal estate, which shall be made by virtue of any execution issued in pursuance of law, or any decree of a court of chancery, where the money arising from such sales shall not exceed the sum of two hundred dollars; but in all cases where the amount of any such sale shall exceed that sum, a commission of one and a half per cent. on the excess only shall be allowed: Provided, That in all cases where the execution shall be settled by the parties, replevied, stopped by injunction, or paid, or where the property levied upon shall not actually be sold, the sheriff shall be allowed fifty cents for levying, and five cents per mile for going to and returning from the place of execution and sale, together with half the commission on all money collected by him which he would be entitled to if the same was made by sale on execution. And no other fees or compensation whatever shall be allowed on any execution, except the necessary expenses for keeping perishable property, to be ascertained and allowed by the court out of which the same shall have issued. In all cases where any of the sheriffs of this State shall be required by law to execute any sentence of punishment other than imprisonment, for which no fee is allowed by this act, it shall be the duty of the county court of the proper county to allow a reasonable compensation for the same, to be paid out of the county treasury. It shall be the duty of each sheriff entitled to mileage under this act, to indorse on each writ, summons, subpoena, or other process that he may execute, the distance he may travel to execute the same, ascertaining the distance and the charge properly allowable therefor, in conformity with the foregoing regulations. In all criminal cases, where the defendant shall be acquitted, or otherwise legally discharged without payment of costs, the sheriff shall not be allowed any fees; but the county shall annually allow the sheriff such compensation for ex officio services, not exceeding thirty dollars, as said court shall deem right.

WITNESS'S FEES.

(58.) SEC. XII. Every witness attending in his own county on trial, per day, fifty cents.

For attending in a foreign county, going and returning, per day, accounting twenty miles for each day's travel, fifty cents.

Every witness, when attending for the purpose of having his deposition taken, per day, fifty cents.

Provided, That no allowance or charge shall be made for the attendance of witnesses aforesaid, unless the witness shall make affidavit of the number of days he or she actually attended, and that such attendance was at the instance of one or both of the parties, or his, her or their attorney.

(59.) SEC. XIII. In all criminal causes, the venue of which shall be changed from the circuit court of the county in which indictment is found, the witnesses subpoenaed, or attending court, having been recognized at the instance of the people, who shall attend the circuit court to which the venue of said cause may be changed, shall be entitled to the same fees now allowed by law to witnesses attending from foreign counties in civil causes.

(60.) SEC. XIV. Every witness so attending, may make affidavit before the court to which said venue may have been changed, of the number of days he or she may have attended such court as a witness on said trial, and the number of miles he or she may have and will have to travel in going to and returning from the place of holding said court; and the said clerk shall thereupon tax the fees of such witnesses, and grant him or her a certificate thereof. And upon the presentation of said certificate, by the said witness, to the clerk of the county court of the county from whence the venue of said cause may have been changed, the said clerk shall draw an order upon the treasurer of said county, in favor of the said witness, for such sum of money as he may be entitled to by virtue of said certificate; which said order shall be paid by the treasurer, out of any money in the county treasury not otherwise appropriated by law: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to repeal the law now in force, authorizing witnesses' fees, in criminal cases, to be collected out of the estate of the defendant, in case he or she be convicted; but when collected, the same shall be paid into the treasury of the county last named.

(61.) SEC. XV. Sections from one to fourteen, inclusive, and also sections twenty and twenty-three of the act to which this is an amendment, from and after the first Monday of December next, are hereby repealed; and from and after the said day, this act shall take effect and be in force; and every power conferred and duty imposed by the act to which this is an amendment, on the probate judges, probate justices, county commissioners, county commissioners' courts, or clerks of said courts, shall be applicable to the county courts, and the clerks of said courts, from and after said day.

An Act to amend an Act in relation to the Duties and Fees of the Secretary of State, and to diminish the Public Expenditures.

[Approved Feb. 2, 1849. Laws, 1849, (1st Sess.) p. 133]

(63.) SEC. II. This act to take effect from and after its passage.

An Act to amend an Act entitled "An Act to amend the Act entitled 'Fees and Salaries,'" Chapter XLI, Revised Statutes.

[Approved Feb. 14, 1855. Laws, 1855, p. 32.]

(65.) SEC. II. That no county shall be liable in any case for the fees provided in the ninth section of the act to which this is an amendment.

(66.) SEC. III. Section ten of the act to which this is an amendment, is hereby repealed.

(67.) SEC. IV. This act to be in force and take effect from and after its passage.

An Act to amend an Act entitled "Fees and Salaries," approved March 3rd, 1845, and an Act amendatory thereto, approved Feb. 12, 1849.

[Approved Feb. 13, 1855. Laws, 1855, p. 179.]

(69.) SEC. II. This act shall be in force and take effect from and after its passage.

An act relating to docket fees; approved March 4, 1843. Laws, 1843, p. 142.

DECISIONS. Fee bills have the force and effect of executions, and are to be returned in the same way, and are governed by the same rules; and, after ninety days from its date, a fee bill is functus officio. Haygrave v. Penrod, Appendix to Breese, 15.

When a sheriff, in his return, makes no charge for his commission, the clerk cannot supply the omission by inserting a charge therefor in a fee bill. Bryan v. Buckmaster, Appendix to Breese, 22.

The taking illegal fees by an officer is not a criminal act, nor the subject of inquiry or indictment by a grand jury; the penalty for such act is to be enforced by a civil proceeding. Penkey v. The People, 1 S. 80.

The statute remedy for collecting fees by fee bill is cumulative, the common law remedy is not taken away. Morton v. Bailey et al., 1 S. 213.

The legislature may repeal a law creating an office, at any time, and after such repeal, the incumbent is entitled to no further compensation for his services. The People v. The Auditor, 1 S. 537.

The clerks of the circuit courts are not bound to perform services for the State, in civil causes, without compensation, but are entitled to the same fees that they may demand from private persons; they are not bound to deliver an exemplification of any of their records till their fees are paid. The People v. Rockwell, 2 S. 3.

Witnesses summoned in a cause, although not sworn, are entitled to their fees. Leigh v. Hodges, 3 S. 11.

An officer, serving a writ of attachment which issued out of the supreme court, is only entitled to mileage, and the regular fees for service of the writ. The People v. Pearson, 3 S. 270.

When the defendant in a prosecution on behalf of the people is not convicted, neither the State nor county is liable for the fees of officers; in case of the conviction of the defendant, the officers must rely upon his ability for their fees. Kitchell et al. v. Madison County, 4 S. 163.

The act of Feb. 19, 1827, regulating fees and salaries, authorizes the replevying of a fee bill, upon giving bond, &c. The party giving such bond cannot avoid it because its condition may not be literally in accordance with the statute. Ballingall v. Carpenter, 4 S. 306.

The holder of a certificate of purchase of several lots at a tax sale, may elect whether he will take separate deeds for each lot or one deed for all, and the sheriff can only claim fees for such deed or deeds as the holder of the certificate may desire upon its presentation. Silliman v. Frye, 1 G. 664.

A fee bill, like an execution, should run in the name of "The People of the State of Illinois," and should direct the sheriff to levy the amount thereof, of the estate of the person against whom it issues. If a levy be made in the life time of a fee bill, the officer may sell the property after the return day. The officers interested in a fee bill have a right to control it. Reddick v. Cloud's Administrators, 2 G. 670. See also, Ferris v. Crow, 5 G. 96.

When a record is filed in the supreme court, the clerk may issue a scire facias, and file the writ of error unless directed not to do so by the parties. Under the 20th rule of the supreme court, the defendant cannot charge the making of his abstract and brief to the plaintiff, unless the plaintiff's abstract and brief be insufficient, and his counsel fail to file a satisfactory one. Longwith v. Butler, 3 G. 74.

A county is not liable to a clerk of the circuit court for his fees on a scire facias on a recognizance. A suit on a recognizance is a civil proceeding, and the penalty recovered is not a fine, under the 171st section of the criminal code. Edgar County v. Mayo, 3 G. 82.

A jury fee is taxable only in cases which are actually tried by jury. Hoard v. Bulkeley, 3 G. 154.

A judgment against the surety in a recognizance was reversed by the supreme court, but not remanded; the clerk of the supreme court issued a fee bill for his fees, charging for a copy of the judgment and his seal and certificate: Held, that the surety was not bound to pay for those items unless he required them to be made. Sans v. The People, 3 G. 338.

The legal presumption is that a docket fee, when taxed, is legally due. If it be not so, it is matter of defense. Governor of Illinois v. Ridgway et al., 12 Ill. 14.

The term fees, as used in the township organization law, refers to the costs allowed the collector for preparing the delinquent list, for selling the land, and for making conveyances of the land sold. These fees are paid either by the owners of the property or the purchasers at the tax sale. The collector is reimbursed for the printer's fees by the sale of the land. The People v. Long, 13 Ill. 629.

The party prevailing in a suit in the circuit court can recover the fees of only four witnesses, unless the court certify that a greater number was necessary. Peoria & Bureau Valley R. R. Co. v. Bryant, 15 Ill. 438.

10. Ferries and toll-bridges heretofore established and continued, declared further established.
11. Penalty for running boat without license.

SECTION

12. Keepers of ferries, toll-bridges and turnpike gates exempt from military duty, road labor and serving on jury.
13. Proprietor of ferry, toll-bridge or turnpike road, to show cause why same shall not be discontinued for neglect of duty.
14. Annual tax, amount of, and how assessed.
15. County may purchase.
16. Keeping without license, penalty for.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 251.]

SECTION I. Whenever it shall be considered necessary to establish a ferry or toll bridge across any lake, river, creek, or any other water course within the limits or upon the borders of this State, or to turnpike or causeway any public road or highway, it shall be the duty of the county commissioners' court of the proper county, on due application being made by any qualified person or persons, to establish and confirm the same by a special order, to be made for that purpose, under such regulations, restrictions and forfeitures as are hereinafter directed and pointed out: Provided, That no such application shall avail any such person or persons as aforesaid, unless his, her or their intention in relation thereto, shall have been previously published in some public newspaper printed in this State, or advertised on the door of the court-house, and in three other of the most public places in the county, in which such ferry, toll-bridge or turnpike road is proposed to be established, for at least four weeks successively, next preceding the sitting of the court at which the same shall be made: And provided, further, That the proprietor or proprietors of the lands adjoining to, or embracing such water course as aforesaid, over which any such ferry or toll-bridge shall be proposed to be established as aforesaid, or where any such turnpike road shall pass as aforesaid, shall, at all times, have the preference in establishing or erecting the same, in all cases where application shall be made for that purpose, before such privilege shall have been granted to any other person or persons as aforesaid.

SEC. II. When any ferry, toll-bridge or turnpike road shall be established as aforesaid, it shall be the duty of the court establishing the same, to direct their clerk to issue to the proprietors thereof, a license under the seal of such court, to keep the same according to law: Provided, That such proprietor or proprietors as aforesaid, to whom any such license may be directed to be issued as aforesaid, shall, before the issuing thereof, pay into the county treasury, or to such person or persons as shall be authorized to receive the same, the amount of the first year's tax, which may be assessed upon such ferry, toll-bridge or turnpike road, by said court, and specified in the order establishing the same, and enter into a bond with one or more sufficient securities, to be approved by the court, in a sum not less than one hundred, nor more than five hundred dollars, payable to the county commissioners of the proper county, and their successors in office, for the use of such county, with a condition therein contained, that he, she or they will keep such ferry, toll-bridge or turnpike road according to law; and if default shall at any time be made in the condition of said bond, damages, not exceeding the penalties therein mentioned, may be sued for and recovered in the name of the county commissioners for the use of the county wherein such ferry, toll-bridge or turnpike road shall have been established, in any court having competent jurisdiction.

SEC. 3. Each ferry-keeper shall be furnished and provided with a good tight boat or boats, if more than one be necessary, and other small craft of sufficient number, dimensions, strength and steadiness, for the safe and speedy transportation of all passengers, their teams, horses, cattle and other animals, as well as their goods, chattels and effects; and the said boat or boats, and other small craft, shall, at all times, be well furnished with suitable oars, setting poles, rigging and other implements necessary for the service thereof; and also with men of sufficient number, strength, discretion and skill to manage the same; and such ferry-keeper shall, at all times, keep the place of embarking and landing in good repair, by cutting away the banks and erecting wharves and causeways when necessary, so that passengers, their teams, horses, cattle and other property, may be embarked and landed without danger or unnecessary delay.

SEC. IV. Every keeper of a toll-bridge or turnpike road shall, in like manner, be required to keep the same, at all times, in good repair, so as to afford a safe and speedy passage to all persons, their teams, horses, cattle and other animals, who may have occasion to use the same.

SEC. V. Every keeper of a ferry, toll-bridge or turnpike road as aforesaid, shall give constant and diligent attention to the same, from daylight in the morning until dark in the evening of each day, and shall give passage to all public messengers and expresses, to all grand and petit jurors, when going to and returning from court, without any fee or reward whatever: Provided, That no messenger or express shall be considered as being sent on public service, within the meaning of this chapter, unless he shall have been dispatched by a commander-in-chief, major or brigadier general, colonel, lieutenant-colonel, major or commandant of some military post or establishment, to the governor or commander-in-chief of the militia of this State, or vice versa; and the dispatch carried by such messenger or express be indorsed "on public service," and signed by the officer sending the same. And all such keepers of ferries, toll-bridges and turnpike roads as aforesaid, shall also be obliged, at any hour of the night, if required, except in cases of evident danger, to give passage to all public messengers and expresses as aforesaid; and also to all other persons requiring the same, on their paying or tendering double the rate of ferriage or toll allowed to be taken during the day time. And if any such keeper of a ferry, toll-bridge or turnpike road as aforesaid, shall, at any time, neglect or refuse to give passage to such person or persons, or their property as aforesaid, he or she so offending, shall forfeit and pay five dollars for every such offense to the party aggrieved, before any justice of the peace of the county wherein such offense shall be committed, and shall also be liable to an action on the case, for any special damage which any such person may sustain in consequence of such neglect or refusal. But no ferry-man shall be required to put off from shore, or to attempt to pass any such water course as aforesaid, when it manifestly appears to be hazardous so to do, by reason of any flood, storm, tempest or ice; nor shall any keeper of a ferry, toll-bridge or turnpike road as aforesaid, be compellable, (except as is hereinbefore excepted,) to give passage to any person or persons, or to his, her or their property as aforesaid, until the fare or toll properly chargeable by such keeper shall have been fully paid or tendered; and every jurymen, to entitle him to the benefit of this section, shall produce to the ferry-keeper, &c., the certificate of the sheriff of his county, that he has been duly summoned to serve on the grand or petit jury at the term of the court to or from which he is going.

SEC. VI. The county commissioners' courts, in their respective counties, are authorized and required to fix, from time to time, the rates, fare or toll which each keeper of any ferry, toll-bridge or turnpike road, shall hereafter demand for the passage of all persons, wagons, carts, carriages, horses, cattle, sheep, hogs and other property, having due regard to the breadth and situation of the stream or water course over which such ferry or bridge shall be established, the dangers and difficulties incident thereto, the length, breadth and quality of the road, and the publicity of the place at which the same shall have been established. And every such keeper of a ferry, toll-bridge or turnpike road as aforesaid, who shall, at any time, demand and take more than the fare or toll so stated and allowed as aforesaid, shall forfeit and pay to the party aggrieved, for every such offense, the sum of five dollars, over and above the amount which shall be thus illegally demanded and taken, to be recovered before any justice of the peace of the county wherein such offense shall be committed.

SEC. VII. Each keeper of a ferry, toll-bridge or turnpike road, which now is or shall hereafter be established in this State, shall be required to set or post up, in some conspicuous place, immediately adjoining his or her ferry landing, toll-bridge or turnpike gate, a painted, printed or written list of the several rates or fares, which shall be chargeable at such ferry, toll-bridge or turnpike gate, so that the same shall not exceed those which shall, from time to time, be allowed by law; which said lists of fares or rates as aforesaid, shall, at all times, be painted, printed or written, in a plain, legible manner, and posted up so near the place or places where persons shall pass across such ferry, toll-bridge or turnpike road as aforesaid, that the same shall be open and legible to all such passengers; and if, at any time, any such keeper as aforesaid, shall refuse or neglect to put up such list of rates or fares as aforesaid, it shall not be lawful to charge any ferriage or toll, or to take any compensation whatever, at any such ferry, toll-bridge or turnpike gate, during such delinquency.

SEC. VIII. All persons shall be received into such ferry-boats or other vessels as aforesaid, and conveyed across the water course over which the same shall be established, according to their arrival or first coming to the said ferry; and if any ferry-keeper shall act contrary to this regulation, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of three dollars for every such offense, to the party aggrieved, recoverable before any justice of the peace of the county wherein such offense shall have been committed: Provided, That all public officers, or such as go on public or urgent occasions, as post riders, couriers, physicians, surgeons and midwives, shall, in all cases, be the first carried over, where all cannot go at the same time.

SEC. IX. The owner or owners, keeper or keepers, at all ferries and toll-bridges, which now are, or hereafter shall be established by law, and kept agreeably to this chapter, shall have the exclusive privilege of the transportation or passage of all persons, their teams, horses, cattle and other property over or across the same, and be entitled to all the fare by law arising therefrom: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent any person or persons from crossing any stream or water course, over which any such ferry or toll-bridge shall be established as aforesaid, in his or her own boat or other craft, on his or her own business; and also to take in and cross his neighbors, where the same is done without fee, and not with intention to injure any ferryman near.

SEC. X. All ferries heretofore established and confirmed over the river Ohio, to the proprietor or proprietors of land on the western shore of said river, by the county commissioners' courts of any of the counties bounded by or situate upon said river, as well as all other ferries and toll-bridges which have, at any time, been established over any other of the lakes, rivers, creeks or other water courses, within the limits or upon the borders of this State, and where the same have been kept in operation or repair, from time to time, according to law, and have not, at any time since their establishment, been discontinued or abandoned, shall be and they are hereby declared to be established ferries and toll-bridges, within the meaning of this chapter.

SEC. XI. If any person or persons, except those whose ferries or toll-bridges are established and confirmed by this chapter, or shall hereafter be established and licensed by some county commissioners' court under the provisions of this chapter, shall, at any time, run any boats or other craft, for the purpose of conveying passengers or their property across any such water course as aforesaid, within three miles of any ferry or toll-bridge which now is, or hereafter shall be established as aforesaid, except as is hereinbefore allowed, he, she or they so offending, shall forfeit every such boat or boats, or other craft, to the owner or proprietor of the ferry or toll-bridge within three miles of which the same shall be run as aforesaid; and the owner or proprietor of such ferry or toll-bridge may, at any time after such forfeiture shall have accrued, enter upon and take possession of such boat or boats, or other craft, to his or her own use; and such offender shall, moreover, pay to the proprietor of such ferry or toll-bridge as aforesaid, who may be aggrieved as aforesaid, the sum of fifteen dollars for each person who may be thus unlawfully carried or conveyed across any such water course as aforesaid, to be recovered by motion before any justice of the peace of the proper county, upon giving to such offender five days' notice of the time and place of making such motion; which notice may be served on such person or persons, either in or out of the State, by delivering or tendering a copy thereof.

SEC. XII. For the encouragement of ferry-keepers, and the keepers of the gates of toll-bridges and turnpike roads, and in consideration of their giving a free passage to public messengers and others exempted by this chapter, all men necessarily attending on ferries, toll-bridges or turnpike gates in this State, shall be free from military duty, of opening and repairing highways, so far as personal service is required, and from serving on juries.

SEC. XIII. If any ferry or ferries which now are or hereafter may be established as aforesaid, shall not be furnished with sufficient boat or boats, or other craft, with the necessary oars, setting poles, rigging, and other implements for the service thereof, and also with a sufficient number of able-bodied and skillful ferry-men, as is provided in the third section of this chapter, within three months from the establishment thereof; or if any toll-bridge or turnpike road, which now is or hereafter shall be established as aforesaid, shall not be erected and completed agreeably to the terms and conditions imposed by the county commissioners' court, within twelve months after the establishment thereof; or if any such ferry, toll-bridge or turnpike road shall not, at any time hereafter, be kept in good condition and repair, agreeably to the provisions of this chapter; or if the same shall, at any time be abandoned, disused or unfrequented for the space of six weeks; it shall and may be lawful for the county commissioners' court of the proper county, on complaint being made, to summon the proprietor or proprietors of such ferry, toll-bridge or turnpike road, to show cause why the same should not be discontinued, and their license revoked; and decide thereon according to the testimony adduced, and as shall be agreeable to equity and justice; which decision, when made, shall be valid in law to all intents and purposes, but subject to appeal to the circuit court, as in other cases.

SEC. XIV. All ferries, toll-bridges and turnpike roads, which now are or hereafter may be established as aforesaid, shall be subject to an annual tax of not less than two nor more than one hundred dollars, in the discretion of the county commissioners' court of the county in which the same shall be located; which tax, when assessed, shall be collected and paid over as the other taxes are, and shall constitute a part of the county revenue.

SEC. XV. If the county in which any toll-bridge or turnpike road shall be established and erected as aforesaid, shall, at any time, pay or cause to be paid to the proprietor or proprietors thereof, the original cost of such toll-bridge or turnpike road as aforesaid, with ten per cent. interest thereon, then the said bridge or road shall cease to be private property, and shall become a public bridge or highway.

SEC. XVI. No person shall establish, keep or use any ferry, toll-bridge or turnpike road as aforesaid, for the conveyance or passage of persons and their property as aforesaid, for profit or hire, unless he or she shall be licensed as directed by this chapter, under the penalty of five dollars for each offense, recoverable before any justice of the peace of the county wherein such offense shall be committed; the one-half thereof shall go to the person suing for the same, and the other half to the county. And if any person or persons not licensed as aforesaid shall, at any time, pass any person or persons, or their property as aforesaid, except as is provided in the ninth section hereof, over any lake, river, creek or any other water course, where any ferry or toll-bridge shall, at the time, be established and kept as aforesaid, or within three miles thereof, either with or without compensation, with intent to injure the keeper or proprietor of such ferry or toll-bridge, he, she or they shall incur the same forfeitures, and may be proceeded against in the same manner as is provided in the eleventh section: Provided, That it shall not be considered illegal for any person or persons to pass any person or his property without compensation, in cases where it shall be made to appear that such established ferry or toll-bridge was not, at the time, in actual operation, or in sufficient repair to have afforded to such person or his property a safe and speedy passage.

An act to provide for the establishment of ferries, toll bridges and turnpike roads; approved Feb. 12, 1827. Rev. Laws, 1827, p. 220; Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 302.

An act supplemental to an act entitled "An act to establish and regulate ferries," approved Feb. 20, 1819; approved Feb. 12, 1827. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 309.

An act to amend the several acts therein named, relating to the several acts concerning the establishing and regulating ferries in this State; approved Jan. 19, 1833. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 310.

An act establishing ferries on school lands for the use of inhabitants of townships; approved Feb. 16, 1839. Laws, 1839, p. 120.

An act to amend "An act to provide for the establishment of ferries, toll-bridges and turnpike roads," approved Feb. 12, 1827; approved Feb. 1, 1843. Laws, 1843, p. 143.

DECISIONS. Under the act of Feb. 12, 1827, the county commissioners' court could not grant a license to a corporation to keep a ferry. The trustees of an incorporated town, unless expressly authorized by their act of incorporation, are not such a body as are entitled to hold and exercise a ferry franchise under the act. Betts v. Meard, Appendix to Brees-e, 10.

The ferry law of Feb. 12, 1827, gives to owners of land adjoining or embracing a water course, over which a ferry is proposed to be established, a preference, unless the ferry privilege has been before granted to another. This act implies a power in the legislature to make such grants to others than the owners of the land; and that riparian possessors are not by such possession entitled to the franchise. Mills et al. v. County Commissioners of St. Clair County, 3 S. 53. See also, Trustees of Schools v. Tutman, 13 Ill. 27.

The grant of a ferry franchise by the legislature is exclusive to the extent of the privilege conferred, unless it be limited by the terms of the grant, or by some general law. And such privilege cannot be taken away till the public interests require it, nor then, without adequate compensation. Mills et al. v. County of St. Clair, 2 G. 197.

If a license to keep a ferry issue before payment of the whole amount therefor required by law, it is a nullity; neither can the payment by a former holder of a ferry franchise, enure to the benefit of the assignee of his unexpired term of license. The license alone does not confer the right to seize boats, &c., run near such ferry; that right accrues only after putting the ferry in operation, and doing every act in relation thereto according to law. Lombard v. Cheever, 3 G. 469.

Under the ferry law of Feb. 12, 1827, the county commissioners, after deciding that the public interests would be promoted by establishing a ferry, had only to determine to whom the license should issue, and what should be the amount of the annual assessment on it; they have no right to require a bonus, or put the ferry privilege up at auction, or make any restrictions or conditions not prescribed by the statute. County of La Salle v. Simmons, 5 G. 513.

Ferry-men are common carriers, as to all property which they transport in their boats. Fisher v. Clisbee, 12 Ill. 344.

A ferry franchise is not an incident to the ownership of land, nor can the owner exercise ferry privileges without the consent of the State. The sale of school lands to a person who had had a ferry franchise thereon, is not rescinded or affected by a forfeiture of the franchise. Trustees of Schools v. Tutman, 13 Ill. 27.

A license to keep a ferry between certain points, extending three miles up and down a stream, is not exclusive to that extent. The power to grant other ferries, within such limits, exists in the county commissioners' court, whenever the public good may require them, so that they do not interfere with the ferry ways or landings first established. Gales et al. v. Anderson et al., 13 Ill. 413.

The township organization law does not authorize the board of supervisors to appropriate county funds in aid of the construction of toll or free bridges. Colton et al. v. Hanchett et al., 13 Ill. 615.

CHAPTER XLIII.

FORCIBLE ENTRY AND DETAINER.

SECTION

1. What deemed forcible entry and detainer.
2. Actions to be brought before justices of the peace; proceedings in such cases; how jury summoned.
3. Duty of sheriff; if defendant do not appear, ex parte trial may be had.
4. No indictment requisite; complaint to be under oath; justices shall keep record of proceedings; effect of judgment.

SECTION

5. Appeal to circuit court allowed; how taken and tried.
6. Appeal bond to provide for payment of rents; effect of judgment in circuit court.
7. Constables may serve process in cases of forcible entry, &c.; their fees.
8. Duty of justice of the peace to direct all process to be issued to sheriff or constable.
9. When act to take effect.

(1.) SECTION I. If any person shall make any entry into any lands, tenements or other possessions, except in cases where entry is given by law, or shall make any such entry by force, or if any person shall willfully and without force hold over any lands, tenements or other possessions, after the determination of the time for which such lands, tenements or possessions were let to him, or to the person under whom he claims, after demand made in writing for possession thereof, by the person entitled to such possession, such person shall be adjudged guilty of a forcible entry and detainer, or a forcible detainer, as the case may be, within the intent and meaning of this chapter.

(2.) SEC. II. Any justice of the peace of any county in this State shall have jurisdiction of any case arising under this chapter, and on complaint upon oath of the party aggrieved, or his authorized agent, shall issue his summons directed to the sheriff, (or coroner, if the sheriff be interested,) of his county, commanding him to summon the person against whom the complaint is made, to appear before such justice at a time and place to be stated in such summons, not more than twelve, nor less than six days from the time of issuing such summons, and which shall be served at least five days before the return day thereof, by reading the same to the defendant, or leaving a copy at his place of abode; and the said justice shall also, at the same time, issue a precept to the sheriff or coroner, commanding him to summon a jury of twelve good and lawful men of the county, to appear before him at the return of such summons, to hear and try the said complaint. And if any part of the jurors shall fail to attend, or be challenged, the said justice may order the sheriff or coroner to complete the number, by summoning and returning others forthwith.

(3.) SEC. III. The sheriff or coroner shall return to the said justice the summons and precept as aforesaid, on the day assigned for trial, and shall state on the back of said summons how the same was served, and on the back of said precept, a list of the names of the jurors. And if the defendant does not appear, the justice shall proceed to try the said cause, ex parte, or may, in his discretion, postpone the trial for a time not exceeding ten days; and the said justice shall also issue subpoenas for witnesses, and proceed in the trial of said cause, as in other cases of trial by jury.

(4.) SEC. IV. No indictment or inquisition shall be necessary in any case arising under this chapter; but the justice shall set down in writing, the complaint, under oath, particularly describing the lands, tenements or possessions in question, and shall keep a record of the proceedings had before him; and if the jury shall find the defendant guilty, he shall give judgment thereon, for the plaintiff to have restitution of the premises and his costs; and shall award his writ of restitution; and if a verdict be given for the defendant, judgment shall be given against the plaintiff for costs, and execution issued therefor.

(5.) SEC. V. If either party shall feel aggrieved by the verdict of the jury or the decision of the justice on any trial had under this chapter, he or she may have an appeal to the circuit court, to be obtained in the same manner and tried in the same way as appeals from justices of the peace in other cases.

(6.) SEC. VI. If the defendant or defendants appeal, he or they shall also insert in the appeal bond a clause conditioned for the payment of all rents becoming due, if any, from the commencement of the suit, until the final determination thereof. If the appeal be taken within five days after the trial had before the justice, no writ of restitution or execution shall be issued by him; and the circuit court, on giving judgment for the plaintiff, shall award a writ of restitution, and execution for costs, including the costs before the justice; and if judgment be for the defendant, he shall recover costs in like manner, and have execution for the same.

An Act to extend the Jurisdiction of Justices of the Peace and Constables in Actions of Forcible Entry and Detainer, or Forcible Detainer only.

(8.) SEC. II. That when any such action shall be hereafter brought, the justice of the peace before whom such suit shall be commenced, shall direct all process to be issued therein to the sheriff or any constable of his county to execute; and when such process shall be issued and directed, it shall be at the option of the plaintiff and defendant to give their respective process to the sheriff of the county, or to any constable of the justice's district to execute and return the same, any law now in force in this State to the contrary notwithstanding.

(9.) SEC. III. This act to take effect from and after the first of April next.

PRIOR LAWS. An act against forcible entry and detainer; in force Feb. 24, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 61.

An act concerning forcible entry and detainer; in force June 1, 1827. Rev. Laws, 1827, p. 228.

An act to define the extent of possession in cases of settlement on the public lands; in force Feb. 27, 1837. Laws, 1837, p. 154.

An act supplemental to the act entitled "An act to define the extent of possession in cases of settlement on the public lands," approved Feb. 27, 1837; in force Feb. 16, 1839. Laws, 1839, p. 124.

DECISIONS. Under the act of 1819, actual force was necessary to constitute forcible entry and detainer. Bloom v. Goodner, Breese, 35.

A complaint which shows only that the party is entitled to the possession of property, without any averment that the relation of landlord and tenant exists, is insufficient. Wells v. Hogan, Breese, 264.

The law of this State in relation to forcible entry and detainer, provides for three classes of cases: 1st, a wrongful or illegal entry; 2nd, a forcible or violent one; 3rd, a wrongful holding over of a tenant. Atkinson v. Lester et al., 1 S. 407.

The premises must be described with reasonable certainty. Idem.

A joint tenant or tenant in common, may maintain forcible entry and detainer against his co-tenant. Mason v. Finch, 1 S. 495.

In an action of forcible entry and detainer, the circuit court, on an appeal, dismissed the suit and awarded a writ of restitution, for want of a sufficient appeal bond. In this there was no error. It was in the discretion of the court whether the bond should be amended. Harlan v. Scott, 2 S. 65; Ballance v. Curtenius et al., 3 G. 449.

A tenant cannot attorn to a third person and thereby defeat the title of his landlord; such attempted attornment puts an end to his lease, and authorizes the landlord to maintain a suit against him for a forcible detainer. Ballance v. Fortier, 3 G. 291; Fortier v. Ballance, 5 G. 41; Fusselman v. Worthington, 14 Ill. 135.

An action of forcible entry lies in this State in the four following cases: 1st, where there has been a wrongful or illegal entry upon the possession of another; 2nd, where there has been a forcible entry upon such possession; 3rd, where a person shall be settled upon the unsold lands of the United States; 4th, in case of a wrongful holding over by a tenant. In the three first cases, there must be an illegal or forcible entry upon the actual, and in the last case, upon the constructive, possession of another, before the action can be maintained. In either case the complaint ought clearly to show the foundation of the right sought to be enforced. Whitaker et al. v. Gautier, 3 G. 443.

Justices of the peace have original jurisdiction in cases of forcible entry and detainer. County courts and circuit courts can only acquire jurisdiction by way of appeal, as provided in the statute. Ginn v. Rodgers, 4 G. 131.

To maintain the action of forcible entry under our statute, the possession must be illegally or forcibly taken, and withheld. Robinson v. Crummer, 5 G. 218.

There is no precise form for a complaint in an action of forcible entry and detainer. It will be sufficient if it shows that the relation of landlord and tenant existed, that the time for which the premises were let has expired, and that the tenant holds over after demand made in writing for possession. Smith v. Killeck, 5 G. 293.

In a suit for forcible entry and detainer, a general verdict of "guilty," is a sufficient finding. Idem. See also, Buel v. Pierce, 11 Ill. 92.

CHAPTER XLIV.

FRAUDS AND PERJURIES.

SECTION

1. When action brought, promise or agreement to be in writing and signed by the party charged, or other authorized person.
2. Conveyances of real and personal estate, in what cases shall be deemed fraudulent.
3. Bona fide conveyances, when good consideration, not deemed fraudulent.
4. Trusts in relation to real estate, not in writing, void; exceptions as to resulting trusts.
5. Fraudulent devices in real estate declared void.
6. Person making fraudulent devise, his heirs, &c., subject to same action, as he might be, if living.
7. Guardian ad litem, when may be appointed.

SECTION

8. When personal estate of ancestor insufficient to pay debts, real estate in hands of heirs or devisees may be taken in execution.
9. In action against heir or devisee, he may plead riens per descensum; reply of plaintiff thereto; how issue tried and damages assessed.
10. If, on judgment against executor, sufficient property of deceased be not found, suit may be brought against heir or devisee.
11. If estate be not administered upon within one year after death, separate suit may be maintained against heir or devisee.
12. Facts shall be distinctly set forth in declaration.

SECTION I. No action shall be brought, whereby to charge any executor or administrator upon any special promise to answer any debt or damages out of his own estate, or whereby to charge the defendant upon any special promise to answer for the debt, default or miscarriage of another person; or to charge any person upon any agreement made upon consideration of marriage, or upon any contract for the sale of lands, tenements or hereditaments, or any interest in or concerning them, for a longer term than one year; or upon any agreement that is not to be performed within the space of one year from the making thereof, unless the promise or agreement upon which such action shall be brought, or some memorandum or note thereof, shall be in writing, and signed by the party to be charged therewith, or some other person thereunto by him lawfully authorized.

SEC. II. Every gift, grant or conveyance of lands, tenements, hereditaments, goods or chattels, or of any rent, common or profit of the same, by writing or otherwise; and every bond, suit, judgment or execution had and made, or contrived of malice, fraud, covin, collusion or guile, to the intent or purpose to delay, hinder or defraud creditors of their just and lawful actions, suits, debts, accounts, damages, penalties or forfeitures, or to defraud or deceive those who shall purchase the same lands, tenements or hereditaments, or any rent, profit or commodity out of them, shall be from thenceforth deemed and taken only as against the person or persons, his, her or their heirs, successors, executors, administrators or assigns, and every of them, whose debts, suits, demands, estates and interests by such guileful and covinous devices and practices as aforesaid shall, or might be, in anywise disturbed, hindered, delayed or defrauded, to be clearly and utterly void; any pretense, color, feigned consideration, expressing of use, or any other matter or thing, to the contrary notwithstanding; and moreover, if a conveyance be of goods and chattels, and be not, on consideration, deemed valuable in law, it shall be taken to be fraudulent, unless the same be by will, duly proved and recorded, or by deed in writing, acknowledged or proved, if the same deed includes land, also, in such manner as conveyances of land are by law directed to be acknowledged or proved; or if it be goods and chattels only, then acknowledged or proved by two witnesses, before any court of record in the county wherein one of the parties lives, within eight months after the execution thereof, or unless possession shall really and bona fide remain with the donee; and in like manner where any loan of goods and chattels shall be pretended to have been made to any person, with whom or those claiming under him, possession shall have remained for the space of five years, without demand made and pursued by due process at law, on the part of the pretended lender, or where any reservation or limitation shall be pretended to have been made of an use, or property by way of condition, reservation remainder or otherwise, in goods or chattels, the possession whereof shall have remained in another as aforesaid, the same shall be taken as to creditors and purchasers of the person aforesaid, so remaining in possession, to be fraudulent, and that the absolute property is with the possession, unless such loan, reservation, or limitation of use or property were declared, by will or deed in writing, proved and recorded as aforesaid.

SEC. III. This chapter shall not extend to any estate or interest in any lands, goods or chattels, or any rents common or profit, out of the same, which shall be upon good consideration, and bona fide lawfully conveyed or assured to any person or persons, bodies politic or corporate.

SEC. IV. All declarations or creations of trusts or confidences of any lands, tenements or hereditaments, shall be manifested and proved by some writing signed by the party who is by law enabled to declare such trust, or by his last will in writing; or else they shall be utterly void and of no effect: Provided, That resulting trust or trusts created by construction, implication or operation of law, need not be in writing, and the same may be proved by parol.

SEC. V. All wills and testaments, limitations, dispositions or appointments of or concerning any lands and tenements, or of any rent, profit, term or charge, out of the same, whereof any person or persons, at the time of his, her or their decease, shall be siezed in fee simple, in possession, in reversion, or remainder, or have power to dispose of the same by his, her or their last will and testament, shall be deemed and taken (only as against the person or persons, his, her or their heirs, successors, executors, administrators or assigns, and every of them whose debts, suits, demands, estates and interests, by such will, testament, limitation, disposition or appointment as aforesaid, shall or might be in anywise disturbed, hindered, delayed or defrauded,) to be fraudulent, void and of none effect, any pretense, color, feigned or presumed consideration, or any other matter or thing, to the contrary notwithstanding.

SEC. VI. Any person or persons, his, her or their heirs, devisees, executors, administrators, successors or assigns, and every of them, who shall or may have any debts, suits or demands against any person or persons who shall make any fraudulent devise as aforesaid, or who have any debts, suits or demands against any person or persons who shall die intestate, and leave real estate to his, her or their heirs, to descend according to the laws of this State, shall and may have and maintain the same action or actions, which lie against executors and administrators upon his, her or their bonds, specialties, contracts, agreements and undertakings, against the executors or administrators, and the heir or heirs, or against the executors or administrators, and the devisee and devisees, or may join the executors or administrators, the heir or heirs, and the devisee or devisees of such obligor or obligors, undertaker or undertakers as aforesaid, and shall not be delayed for the non-age of any of the parties.

SEC. VII. When any suit or action in law or equity, shall be brought against any heir or heirs, devisee or devisees, who shall be of non-age, it shall be lawful for the court to appoint a guardian, ad litem, for such infant heir or heirs, devisee or devisees, and may compel the person so appointed to act: Provided, That by such appointment, such person shall not be rendered liable to pay any costs of suit.

SEC. VIII. When any lands, tenements or hereditaments, or any rents or profits out of the same, shall descend to any heir or heirs, or be devised to any devisee or devisees, and the personal estate of the ancestor of such heir or heirs, or devisor of such devisee or devisees, shall be insufficient to discharge the just demands against such ancestor, or devisor's estate, such heir or heirs, devisee or devisees, shall be liable to the creditor of their ancestor or devisor, to the full amount of the lands, tenements or hereditaments, or rents and profits out of the same, as may descend or be devised to the said heir or heirs, devisee or devisees; and in all cases where any heir or heirs, devisee or devisees, shall be liable to pay the debt or debts of his executor or devisor, in regard to any lands, tenements or hereditaments, or any rent or profit arising out of the same, descending or being devised to him, her or them, and shall sell, alien or make over the same before any action brought, or process sued out against him, her or them, such heir or heirs at law, devisee or devisees, shall be answerable for such debt or debts to the value of the said lands, tenements and hereditaments, rents or profits, so by him, her or them sold, aliened or made over; and executions may be taken out upon any judgment so obtained against such heir or heirs, devisee or devisees, to the value of the said lands, tenements and hereditaments, rents and profits, out of the same, as if the same were his, her or their own proper debt or debts, saving and excepting that the lands and tenements, rents and profits, by him, her or them bona fide aliened, before the action brought, shall not be liable to such execution.

SEC. IX. When any action or suit is brought against any heir or heirs, devisee or devisees, he, she or they may plead riens per descent, at the time of the commencement of the action or suit, and the plaintiff in such action may reply, that he, she or they had lands, tenements or hereditaments, or rents or profits out of the same, from his, her or their ancestor, or deviser, before the commencement of the action or suit, and if upon issue joined thereupon, it be found for the plaintiff, the jury shall inquire of the value of the lands, tenements, hereditaments, or rents and profits out of the same, so descended or devised, and thereupon judgment shall be given and execution awarded as aforesaid; but if judgment be given against such heir or heirs, devisee or devisees, by confessing of the action without confessing the assets descended or devised, or upon demurrer or nihil dicit, or default, said judgment shall be given for the plaintiff, without any writ to inquire of the lands, tenements or hereditaments, or rents and profits out of the same, so descended or devised.

SEC. X. In all cases where a judgment has been obtained against the executor or executors, administrator or administrators, of a deceased person, on a contract or undertaking, on which a joint action might have been maintained against the executor or executors, administrator or administrators, and the heir or heirs, devisee or devisees of the deceased person, if it shall appear by a judgment of record, or the return of a proper officer, that there is not property of the deceased person in the hands of the executor or executors, administrator or administrators, to satisfy such judgment, it shall be lawful to bring a separate suit or action against the heir or heirs, devisee or devisees on such contract or undertaking; and the judgment against the executor or executors, administrator or administrators, if not satisfied, shall be no bar to the suit or action against the heir or heirs, devisee or devisees.

SEC. XI. If no person shall administer on the goods and chattels of a deceased person, for the space of one year after his or her death, a separate suit or action may be maintained against the heir or heirs, devisee or devisees, on all the contracts and undertakings of such deceased person.

SEC. XII. In all actions or suits commenced under the provisions of the preceding sections, the facts authorizing the suit to be brought separately against the heir or heirs, devisee or devisees, shall be distinctly set forth in the declaration.

DECISIONS. A collateral undertaking by parol to pay the debt of another, is within the statute of frauds and perjuries, and not binding. Everett v. Morrison, Breese, 49. See also, Scott v. Thomas, 1 S. 58.

A parol contract for the purchase of land is not absolutely void, but only voidable under the statute of frauds. Whitney v. Cochran et al., 1 S. 209.

A deed made upon valuable consideration does not come within the statute of frauds and perjuries. Thornton v. Davenport et al., 1 S. 296.

The statute of frauds applies to deeds for personal property made upon good consideration only, as distinguished from valuable. Unless possession accompany and follow the deed, the conveyance is, in legal presumption, fraudulent and void as to creditors. Kitchell v. Bratton, 1 S. 300.

A parol promise to pay interest upon notes executed in fulfillment of a parol agreement to convey land, is not within the statute of frauds. Prevo v. Lathrop, 1 S. 305.

A parol promise, collateral to a written agreement, is binding. Smith v. Finch, 2 S. 321.

A parol contract for the purchase of land is not within the statute of frauds, where possession is given, and part of the contract, such as payment of the purchase money and improvements on the land, is fulfilled. To avail himself of the statute of frauds, a party must plead it or rely on it in some form. Thornton v. Heirs of Henry, 2 S. 218; Shirley v. Spencer, 4 G. 583. See also, Kinzie

The statute of frauds applies to auction sales of land, as well as other sales, and a memorandum in writing is necessary to make the purchaser chargeable. Burke v. Haley, 2 G. 614.

A defendant cannot, by a demurrer to a bill, rely on the statute of frauds, unless it appear on the face of the bill that the agreement is within the statute. Switzer et al. v. Skiles et al., 3 G. 529.

R. P. being indebted to V., placed notes in the hands of D. P. for the benefit of V., and D. P. promised V. to collect the notes and pay over to him, V.: Held, that the promise of D. P. was not such an undertaking to pay the debt of another as brought it within the statute of frauds. Prather v. Vineyard, 4 G. 40.

The statute of frauds does not apply to the dedication of land to public uses. Godfrey v. City of Alton, 12 Ill. 29.

A parol agreement to purchase lands for another, is void by the statute of frauds, and cannot be enforced against a bona fide purchaser, who has paid for the lands, and taken a conveyance. Stephenson v. Thompson, 13 Ill. 186.

A parol agreement for a sale of lands, or an interest in lands, for a longer term than one year, is within the statute of frauds, and not valid. Perry v. McHenry, 13 Ill. 227.

An auctioneer, in selling, acts as the agent both of the owner and purchaser of the property, and an entry in his sale book, made at the time of sale, by a person authorized by both owner and purchaser, containing a description of the property, the name of the parties to the sale, and the price and terms, is a memorandum in writing within the statute of frauds, and binds both parties. The memorandum should show, on its face, or in connection with some other writing, the whole contract between the parties. Such entry by the clerk of the auctioneer will be held the act of the auctioneer. Parol authority may empower another to make a contract concerning land, which will be binding. Doty v. Wilder, 14 Ill. 407.

- writing, and returns thereof made to circuit court of the proper county; further proceedings defined.
5. When party admitted to bail, and no demand made, how court may proceed.
6. Forfeiture of recognizance, benefit of, to enure to State.
7. When complaint made against fugitive, security to be given for costs; further proceedings defined.
8. When prisoner escapes, governor may offer reward for apprehension.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 261.]

SECTION I. Whenever the executive of any other State, or of any territory of the United States, shall demand of the executive of this State, any person as a fugitive from justice, and shall have complied with the requisitions of the act of Congress in that case made and provided, it shall be the duty of the executive of this State to issue his warrant, under the seal of the State, to apprehend the said fugitive, directed to any sheriff, coroner or constable of any county of this State, or other person whom the said executive may think fit to entrust with the execution of said process. Any of the said persons may execute such warrant anywhere within the limits of this State, and convey such fugitive to any place within this State which the executive in his warrant shall direct.

SEC. II. Whenever the executive of this State shall demand a fugitive from justice from the executive of any other State, he shall issue his warrant, under the seal of the State, to some messenger, commanding him to receive the said fugitive and convey him to the sheriff of the proper county where the offense was committed.

SEC. III. The expenses which may accrue under the two foregoing sections, being first ascertained to the satisfaction of the executive, shall, on his certificate, be allowed and paid out of the State treasury, on the warrant of the auditor.

SEC. IV. Whenever any person within this State shall be charged, upon the oath or affirmation of any credible witness, before any judge or justice of the peace, with the commission of any murder, rape, robbery, burglary, arson, larceny, forgery or counterfeiting, in any other State or territory of the United States, and that the said person hath fled from justice, it shall be lawful for the said judge or justice to issue his warrant for the apprehension of said person. If, upon examination, it shall appear to the satisfaction of such judge or justice, that the said person is guilty of the offense alleged against him, it shall be the duty of the said judge or justice to commit him to the jail of the county; or, if the offense is bailable according to the laws of this State, to take bail for his appearance at the next circuit court to be holden in that county. It shall be the duty of the said judge or justice to reduce the examination of the prisoner, and those who bring him, to writing, and to return the same to the next circuit court of the county where such examination is had, as in other cases; and shall also send a copy of the examination and proceedings to the executive of this State, so soon thereafter as may be. If, in the opinion of the executive of this State, the examination so furnished contains sufficient evidence to warrant the finding of an indictment against such person, he shall forthwith notify the executive of the State or territory, where the crime is alleged to have been committed, of the proceedings which have been had against such person, and that he will deliver such person on demand, without requiring a copy of an indictment to accompany such demand; when such demand shall be made, the executive of this State shall forthwith issue his warrant, under the seal of the State, to the sheriff of the county where the said person is committed or bailed, commanding him to surrender him to such messenger as shall be therein named, to be conveyed out of this State. If the said person shall be out on bail, it shall be lawful for the sheriff to arrest him forthwith, anywhere within the State, and to surrender him agreeably to said warrant.

SEC. V. In cases where the parties shall have been admitted to bail, and shall appear at the circuit court according to the condition of his recognizance, and no demand shall have been made of him, it shall be in the power of the said court to discharge the said recognizance, or continue it, according to the circumstances of the case, such as the distance of the place where the offense is alleged to have been committed, the time that hath intervened since the arrest of the party, and the strength of the evidence against him. In no case shall such person be held in prison or to bail, longer than till the end of the second term of the circuit court after his caption. If no demand be made upon the sheriff for him within that time, he shall be discharged from prison, or exonerated from his recognizance, as the case may be.

SEC. VI. If the recognizance shall be forfeited, it shall enure to the benefit of the State.

SEC. VII. In all cases where complaint shall be made as aforesaid against any fugitive from justice, it shall be the duty of the judge or justice to take good and sufficient security for the payment of all costs which may accrue from the arrest and detention of such fugitive; which security shall be by bond, to the clerk of the circuit court, conditioned for the payment of costs as above; which bond, together with a statement of the costs which may have accrued on the examination, shall be returned to the office of the clerk of the circuit court; and upon the determination of the proceedings against such fugitive within that county, the clerk shall issue a fee bill as in other cases, to be served on the persons named in the bond, or any of them; which fee bill shall be served and returned by the sheriff, for which he shall be allowed the same fees as are given him for serving notices. If the fees be not paid, on or before the first day of the next circuit court to be holden in and for that county, nor any cause then shown why they should not be paid, the clerk may issue an execution for the same, against those parties on whom the fee bill has been served; and when the said fees are collected, shall pay over the same to the persons respectively entitled thereto. The clerk shall be entitled to fifty cents for his trouble in each case, besides the usual taxed fees which are allowed in other cases for like services. Nothing herein contained shall prevent the clerk from instituting suits on said bonds, in the ordinary mode of judicial proceedings, if he shall deem it proper.

SEC. VIII. If any person charged with or convicted of treason, murder, rape, robbery, burglary, arson, larceny, forgery or counterfeiting, shall break prison, escape or flee from justice, or abscond and secrete himself, in such cases it shall be lawful for the governor, if he shall judge it necessary, to offer any reward not exceeding two hundred dollars, for apprehending and delivering such person into the custody of such sheriff or other officer, as he may direct. The person or persons so apprehending and delivering any such person as aforesaid, and producing to the governor, the sheriff's or justice's receipt for the body, it shall be lawful for the governor to certify the amount of such claim to the auditor, who shall issue his warrant on the treasury for the same.

See note, p. 289, under title of "COUNTIES, COUNTY COMMISSIONERS' COURTS AND COUNTY COURTS," "An act to provide for the apprehension of fugitives from justice."

GAMING.

SECTION

1. Gaming contracts and loans void.
2. Money lost by gaming may be recovered back, or sued for by another; what actions may be brought.
3. Judgments, conveyances, &c., given in violation hereof, void.

SECTION

4. Assignment of obligation, &c., not to defeat remedy.
5. Discovery may be enforced by bill; defendant discovering and restoring money, discharged.

SECTION I. All promises, notes, bills, bonds, covenants, contracts, agreements, judgments, mortgages or other securities or conveyances, made, given, granted, drawn or entered into, or executed by any person or persons whatsoever, where the whole, or any part of the consideration thereof, shall be for any money, property or other valuable thing, won by any gaming, or playing at cards, dice, or any other game or games, or by betting on the side or hands of any person gaming, or for the reimbursing or paying any money or property, knowingly lent or advanced, at the time and place of such play, to any person or persons so gaming or betting, or that shall, during such play, so play or bet, shall be void and of no effect.

SEC. II. Any person who shall, at any time or sitting, by playing at cards, dice or any other game or games, or by betting on the side or hands of such as do game, lose to any one or more persons, so playing or betting, any sum or sums of money, or other valuable thing, amounting in the whole to the sum of ten dollars, and shall pay or deliver the same or any part thereof, the person or persons so losing and paying or delivering the same, shall be at liberty to sue for and recover the money, goods or other valuable thing, so lost and paid or delivered, or any part thereof, or the full value of the same, by action of debt, detinue, assumpsit or trover, from the respective winner or winners thereof, with costs, in any court of competent jurisdiction; in which action it shall be sufficient for the plaintiff to declare generally, as in actions of debt or assumpsit, for money had and received by the defendant to the plaintiff's use, or, as in actions of detinue or trover, upon a supposed finding, and the detaining or converting the property of the plaintiff to the use of the defendant, whereby an action hath accrued to the plaintiff, according to the form of this chapter, without setting forth the special matter. In case the person or persons who shall lose such money or other thing as aforesaid, shall not, within six months, really and bona fide, and without covin or collusion, sue and with effect prosecute, for such money or other thing by him lost, and paid or delivered as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for any other person to sue for and recover treble the value of the money, goods, chattels and other things, with costs of suit, by special action on the case, against such winner or winners aforesaid; one-half to the use of the county, and the other to the person suing.

SEC. III. All judgments, mortgages, assurances, bonds, notes, bills, specialties, promises, covenants, agreements and other acts, deeds, securities or conveyances, given, granted, drawn or executed, contrary to the provisions of this chapter, may be set aside and vacated by any court of equity, upon bill filed for that purpose, by the person so granting, giving, entering into or executing the same, or by his executors or administrators; or by any creditor, heir, devisee, purchaser or other person interested therein; or if a judgment, the same may be set aside on motion of any person aforesaid, on due notice thereof given.

SEC. IV. No assignment of any bill, note, bond, covenant, agreement, judgment, mortgage, or other security or conveyance as aforesaid, shall, in any manner, affect the defense of the person giving, granting, drawing, entering into or executing the same, or the remedies of any person interested therein.

SEC. V. In all actions or other proceedings commenced or prosecuted under the provisions of this chapter, the party shall be entitled to discovery as in other actions, and all persons shall be obliged and compelled to answer upon oath, such bill or bills as shall be preferred against them for discovering the sum or sums of money or other thing so won as aforesaid. Upon the discovery and repayment of the money or other thing, so to be discovered and repaid, the person or persons who shall discover and repay the same, as aforesaid, shall be acquitted, indemnified and discharged from any other or further punishment, forfeiture or penalty, which he or they might have incurred, by the playing for or winning such money or other thing, so discovered or repaid as aforesaid.

PRIOR LAWS. An act for the prevention of vice and immorality; approved March 5, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 123. Repealed June 16, 1821.

An act for the prevention of vice and immorality; approved Jan. 31, 1821. Laws, 1821, p. 48. An act supplementary to the act entitled "An act for the prevention of vice and immorality," approved Jan. 31, 1821; approved Jan. 10, 1825. Laws, 1825, p. 61.

An act to restrain gaming; approved Jan. 16, 1827. Rev. Laws, 1827, p. 235; Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 320.

DECISIONS. A and B. bought cloth of C. on credit. Whether A. or B. should pay for it, depended upon a bet between them as to the election of a member of Congress: Held, that the contract of sale was valid, and not tainted by the bet of A. and B. Lurton v. Gilliam et al., 1 S. 577.

Under the gaming act of Jan. 16, 1827, a note given for money won at play, is void, in the hands of payee or assignee. Abrams v. Camp, 3 S. 290.

Notes given for money won at gaming, are, by the statute, absolutely void. Williams v. Judy, 3 G. 282.

(1.) SECTION I. Courts of probate in their respective counties, shall admit orphan minors, above the age of fourteen years, the father being dead, to make choice of guardians, and appoint guardians for such as are under the age of fourteen years.

(2.) SEC. II. Whenever it shall be represented to said court, that any orphan minor, above the age of fourteen years, has not a guardian, it shall be the duty of said court to issue a notification to such minor, to appear before the said court, at a time therein specified, and choose a guardian; and if such minor shall neglect or refuse to appear, or, on appearing, shall neglect to choose a guardian, the said court shall appoint one for such minor, as if said minor were under the age of fourteen years.

(3.) SEC. III. When a minor, having a father living, shall be entitled to, or possessed of any estate, real or personal, not derived from his or her father, the said court of probate shall notify the father to appear and show cause why a guardian for such minor should not be appointed; and if sufficient reason be not shown, may appoint the father, if he be a proper person; if not, then such other person as the minor, if of the age of fourteen years, may choose; if such minor shall refuse or neglect, or be not of sufficient age to choose a guardian, the court shall appoint some fit person to be guardian for such minor. And when any person is appointed guardian, other than the father, he shall have the charge and management of the estate, but no control over the person of the minor.

(5.) SEC. V. The court of probate shall take of each guardian appointed under this chapter, bond with good security, in a sum double the amount of the minor's estate, real and personal, conditioned as follows:

"The condition of this obligation is such, that if the above bounden A. B., who has been appointed guardian for C. D., shall faithfully discharge the office and trust of such guardian according to law, and shall render a fair and just account of his said guardianship, to the court of probate for the county of _____, from time to time, as he shall be thereto required by said court, and comply with all the orders of said court lawfully made, relative to the goods, chattels and moneys of such minor, and render and pay to such minor, all moneys, goods and chattels, title papers and effects, which may come to the hands or possession of such guardian, belonging to such minor, when such minor shall be thereto entitled, or to any subsequent guardian, should such court so direct, then this obligation shall be void; otherwise to remain in full force and virtue."

Which bond shall be taken to the people of the State of Illinois, for the use of such minor, and shall not become void upon the first recovery, but may be put in suit from time to time, against all or any one or more of the obligors, in the name, and to the use and benefit of any person entitled, by a breach thereof, until the whole penalty shall be recovered thereon.

(6.) SEC. VI. Courts of probate shall have power, in their respective counties, with or without previous complaint, by an order duly made and served, to oblige all guardians of minors, from time to time, to render their respective accounts upon oath, touching their guardianship, to said courts for adjustment, and shall have power to compel such guardians to give supplementary security whenever it shall judge proper, and, in default thereof, to remove such guardians.

(7.) SEC. VII. The court of probate, in all cases, shall have power to remove guardians for good and sufficient reasons, which shall be entered on record, and to appoint others in their place, or in the place of those who may die, who shall give bond and security for the faithful discharge of their duties as heretofore prescribed in this chapter; and when any guardian shall be removed or die, and a successor be appointed, the court shall have power to compel such guardian, so removed, or the executors or administrators of a deceased guardian, to deliver up to such successor, all goods, chattels, moneys, title papers or other effects, belonging to such minor, which may be in the possession of such guardian, so removed, or of the executors or administrators of a deceased guardian, or of any other person or persons who may have the same, and upon failure, to commit the party offending to prison, until he, she or they comply with the order of the court.

(8.) SEC. VIII. Guardians shall have power to demand, sue for and receive, all moneys belonging to their wards, from executors and administrators, as soon as the same may be collected, or of any other person or persons in whose hands or possession the same may be; and it shall moreover be their duty to put to interest the moneys of their wards upon mortgage security, to be approved by the court, which letting shall always be for one year, and at the end of each year, the interest shall be added to, and made part of, the principal; and said guardians shall also have power to lease the real estate of the ward, upon such terms and for such length of time as the court of probate shall direct: Provided, Such leasing shall never be for a longer time than during the minority of the ward; and the minority of females shall cease at the age of eighteen years.

(9.) SEC. IX. The guardian shall have power, under the direction of the court of probate, to superintend the education and nurture of the ward; and for that purpose, may pay out such portions of the ward's money as the court of probate shall from time to time, by order, direct: Provided, That the rents and profits arising from his estate, and next the interest on the ward's money, shall always be first resorted to, for the education and nurture of the wards.

(10.) SEC. X. The circuit court may, for just and reasonable cause, being satisfied that the guardian has faithfully applied all the personal estate, order the sale of the real estate of the ward, on the application of the guardian, by petition in writing, stating the facts; and having given notice to all persons concerned, of such intended application, in some public newspaper printed in this State, or by setting up written notices in three of the most public places in the county, at least three weeks before the sitting of the court, such order may enable the guardian to sell and convey the real estate for the support and education of the ward, or to invest the proceeds in other real estate. The court, in such order, shall direct the time and place of sale, the notice thereof to be given, and may direct the sale to be made on reasonable credit, and require such security of the guardian and purchaser, as the interest of the ward may require. It shall be the duty of the guardian making such sale, as soon as may be, to make return of such proceedings to the court granting the order, which, if approved by the court, shall be recorded, and shall vest in the purchaser or purchasers, all the interest the ward had in the estate so sold. Application for the sale of such real estate shall be made in the county where the ward shall reside, although the estate may lie in a different county; but if the ward do not reside in this State, such application shall be made to the court of the county where the whole or a part of the estate shall be situated.

(11.) SEC. XI. An account of all moneys received by any guardian for the sale of real estate of any minor, as aforesaid, shall be returned on oath by such guardian, to the court of probate of the county where letters of guardianship were obtained; and such moneys shall be accounted for, and shall be subject to the order of the court of probate, in like manner as other moneys belonging to such minor.

(12.) SEC. XII. Appeals shall be allowed in all cases, from the order or judgment of the court of probate to the circuit court, the same in manner as is provided by law relative to wills and testaments, executors and administrators, and the settlement of intestates' estates.

(13.) SEC. XIII. Minors may bring suits in all cases whatever, by any person that they may select as their next friend; and the person so selected shall file bond with the clerk of the circuit court, or justice of the peace before whom the suit may be brought, acknowledging himself bound for all the costs that may accrue and legally devolve upon such minor. And after bond shall have been so filed, said suit shall progress to final judgment and execution, as in other cases.

(14.) SEC. XIV. Guardians shall educate their wards; and it is hereby made the duty of all civil county officers, to give information to the court of probate, of the neglect or omission of any guardian to educate his or her ward: Provided, When there are not moneys sufficient to teach the ward to read and write, and the ground rules of arithmetic, and the guardian refuses and neglects to have him so educated, the court shall have power to put out to any other person the ward, for the purpose of having the same so educated. The judge of probate shall, in all cases, when information is made of the neglect of any guardian to educate his or her ward, and on the facts being established, remove such guardian, and appoint a suitable person to act as guardian and superintend the education of such minor orphan.

(15.) SEC. XV. Guardians shall have power to loan out the moneys of their wards at interest, in sums not exceeding one hundred dollars, on personal security, to be approved by the judge of probate: Provided, It shall not be let for a longer time than twelve months without a renewal, and an approval of the security by the court; and if neglected longer, it shall be at the responsibility of the guardian. In all cases of any person being appointed guardian for more than one ward at one time, the judge of probate shall include all in one bond.

(16.) SEC. XVI. Guardians, on final settlement, shall be allowed such fees and compensation for their services as shall seem reasonable and just to the judge of probate, not exceeding what are or shall be allowed by law, to administrators.

(17.) SEC. XVII. Every father of sound mind and memory, of a child likely to be born, or of any living child, under the age of twenty-one years and unmarried, may, by his deed or last will, duly executed, dispose of the custody and tuition of such child during its minority, or for any less time, to any person or persons in possession or remainder; and every mother of sound mind and memory, being sole, may, in like manner, dispose of the custody and tuition of a child living, if a father has made no such disposition, or in any other manner restrained the right of the mother.

(18.) SEC. XVIII. Every such disposition, from the time it shall take effect, shall invest in the person or persons to whom it shall be made, all the rights and powers, and subject him or them to all duties and obligations of a guardian of such minor, and shall be valid and effectual against every other person claiming the custody or tuition of such minor: Provided, That the rights, powers, duties and obligations of such person or persons may be restrained and regulated by the person making such deed or last will as aforesaid.

(19.) SEC. XIX. Any person to whom the custody of any minor is so disposed of, may take the custody and tuition of such minor, and may maintain all proper actions for the wrongful taking or detention of the minor; he shall also take the custody and management of the real and personal estate of such minor, unless restrained by the deed or will as aforesaid, during the time for which such disposition shall have been made, and bring such actions in relation thereto, as a guardian appointed under the provisions of the laws of the State.

(20.) SEC. XX. Guardians appointed under the provisions of this chapter, shall be subject to removal upon complaint of any person in behalf of the minor, to the circuit court of the county in which such guardian may reside, and proof made of mal-conduct or misbehavior in the performance of his duties, or of a failure to perform his duties; and upon the removal of a guardian, the said court is hereby vested with the power to appoint another guardian, and to make all such orders as may be necessary to compel the guardian removed to deliver over to the successor the custody of the minor, and to account for the estate, and pay over all moneys belonging to the ward, and to compel such successor to execute a bond with good security, in such penalty, and with such conditions as the court may deem necessary for the security of the rights of the minor; and the said court shall also have power, upon application of any person in behalf of the minor, to require all guardians appointed under the provisions of this chapter, by the father or mother, or by the court, to give bond and security in such penalty, and with such conditions as the court may deem necessary for the security and protection of the minors, and of his or her estate.

An Act to protect the Interests of Orphans and Minors, and for other Purposes.

"I, A. B., do solemnly swear, (or affirm, as the case may be,) that the account I have this day rendered, contains a just and true account of the moneys which I have expended for C. D., a minor, for whom I am guardian, and also all claims which I have against said minor."

Which said oath or affirmation shall be reduced to writing, and filed in the office of the probate justice of the peace. Said account shall also contain and set forth specifically, in separate items, on what account expenditures were made by such guardian; and no account shall be received by any probate justice of the peace, unless the provisions of this act have been substantially complied with.

(22.) SEC. II. This act, and all the provisions of the same, shall apply as well to guardians who may have been heretofore appointed, as to those who may hereafter be appointed by law.

(23.) SEC. III. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

(25.) SEC. II. Every guardian applying for an order of sale under the foregoing section, shall be required to give notice of his or her petition in the same manner as is now required by law in cases of application for sales of lands belonging to minors, by resident guardians; and in every order for the sale of real estate under this act, it shall be the duty of the court to prescribe the terms of said sale, and the notice which shall be given thereof, and the place where such sale shall be made.

(26.) SEC. III. All sales of real estate under the provisions of this act shall be and the same are hereby declared to be good and valid; and all deeds executed by such guardian to the purchaser or purchasers under such sales, shall convey to and vest in such purchaser or purchasers all the estate, right, title and interest, in law or equity, of said infant or others in and to the land so sold.

(27.) SEC. IV. Every non-resident guardian as aforesaid shall be and hereby is authorized [and] empowered to prosecute suits in the courts in this State, for the recovery of any moneys, demands or other property due or belonging to their wards, and to receive and collect the same in the same manner as resident guardians: Provided, That such guardian shall, at the time of the commencement of any suits under this section, file in said court an authenticated copy of his or her letters of guardianship.

(28.) SEC. V. In all suits instituted under this act, said guardian shall give a bond for costs as in case of other non-residents.

An Act to legalize the Appointment of Guardians.

(30.) SEC. II. This act shall take effect from and after its passage.

An Act in relation to Non-Resident Guardians.

(32.) SEC. II. That when such non-resident guardian shall produce an exemplification from under the seal of the office (if there be a seal,) of the proper court in the State of his residence, containing all the entries on record in relation to his appointment, giving bond, &c., and authenticated as required by act of Congress as aforesaid, the county court of the proper county in this State may cause suitable orders to be made, discharging any resident guardian, executor or administrator, and authorizing the delivering and passing over of such property, and also requiring receipts to be passed and filed, if deemed advisable: Provided, The benefits of this act shall not be extended to the citizens of any State in which a similar act does not exist, or may not hereafter be passed: And provided, also, That, in all cases, thirty days' notice shall be given to the resident guardian, executor or administrator, of the intended application for the order of removal, and the court may reject the application and refuse such order whenever it is satisfied it is for the interest of the ward that such removal shall not take place.

(33.) SEC. III. This act shall take effect from and after its passage.

An Act to amend Chapter XLVII of the Revised Statutes, entitled "Guardians and Wards."

(35.) SEC. II. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act respecting Executors, Administrators, Guardians, and their Securities.

their successor or successors in office all moneys, effects and choses in action of every kind and nature whatsoever, found to be due and owing by him or them as such executor, administrator or guardian, to the successor or successors in office of such executor, administrator or guardian, then to be appointed, the court to which said application shall be made, shall order that such executor, administrator or guardian, be discharged and removed from such office of executor, administrator or guardian. And the court shall thereupon appoint some fit person or persons to hold such office as administrator with the will annexed, administrator de bonis non, or guardian, as the case may be, making such appointment in accordance with all the terms and provisions of the existing laws of this State as to the appointment of administrators and guardians; and the person so appointed shall then and there give bond and be subject to all such duties and liabilities of administrator or guardian as are or hereafter shall be imposed upon such officers by the laws of this State.

(37.) SEC. II. In all cases when there shall be more than one executor, administrator or guardian appointed by any of the courts of this State, and when any one or more of such executors, administrators or guardians shall desire to resign such trust, it shall be lawful for such co-executor, administrator or guardian, on producing and filing [with] the court by which such letters testamentary or of administration or guardianship were granted, the assent in writing, under the hand and seal of his or their co-executors, administrators or guardians and securities to such application, and comply with all the requisitions of the first section of this act, to be discharged and removed from such office of executor, administrator or guardian; and his or their said co-executors, administrators or guardians, shall proceed to administer their said trust in the same manner as if they were surviving executors, administrators or guardians.

(38.) SEC. III. That whenever any security or securities on the official bond of any executor, administrator or guardian, desire to be released from further liability upon any such official bond, it shall and may be lawful for such security on any such executor's, administrator's or guardian's bond, on giving ten days' notice to any such executor, administrator or guardian, for whom he or they may be security, after publication, as required by the first section of this act, to apply at any term of the court in which said official bond may be filed, for an order of said court to compel such executor, administrator or guardian, within some reasonable time, to be fixed by said court, to settle and adjust his or their accounts, or his or their actings and doings with reference to such office, and pay over whatever balance may be found in his or their hands, and to file, in such court, bond in such penalty as may be prescribed by the court, with good and sufficient security, to be approved by the court, conditioned as is or shall be hereinafter prescribed by law in case of executor's, administrator's or guardian's bonds; and in case such executor, administrator or guardian, within the time fixed by the order of said court, shall fail to comply therewith, then the court shall order that said executor, administrator or guardian be removed from his said office, and shall appoint some other fit person as administrator with the will annexed, administrator de bonis non, or guardian, who shall give bond as now or hereafter shall be required by law. And in case of the failure of the former executor, administrator or guardian to settle his or their accounts with reference to their said office, and to pay over to the person so appointed all moneys, effects or choses in action found to be due by him or them, by reason of their said office, then such successor shall proceed to collect the amount so due, by suit against such executor, administrator or guardian, or by suit upon his or their official bonds; and upon the payment of the amount found to be due upon said trust, and the filing and approval of the bond, as required by order of the court, such security or securities shall be discharged.

(39.) SEC. IV. In all cases where applications shall be made to any court in this State, under the provisions of this law, the court to whom such application shall be made, shall appoint some discreet person, not interested in such application, or related to the applicants, to appear and attend to the proper settlement of accounts and the giving a proper bond in the premises.

(40.) SEC. V. The applicant or applicants, in all cases provided for by this law, shall pay all costs incurred thereby, including a reasonable allowance to the person appointed by said court to defend the interest of the estate or minors, which shall be fixed by the court. And the court shall render a judgment against the applicants, in all cases arising under this law, for all such costs; which may be collected by execution, as in case of other judgments.

(41.) SEC. VI. Nothing in this act contained shall be so construed as to release any executor, administrator or guardian, or their securities, from any previous liability, or from any breach of their bonds, or of their official duties accruing before the filing of the new bonds required by this law, and a full compliance with the orders of said courts in the premises.

(42.) SEC. VII. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

PRIOR LAWS. An act for the sale of the real estate of minors in certain cases; in force Feb. 2, 1821. Laws, 1821, p. 72.

An act concerning minors, orphans and guardians; in force June 1, 1827. Rev. Laws, 1827, p. 301; Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 453.

An act to amend "An act concerning minors, orphans and guardians," in force Feb. 4, 1827; approved Feb. 7, 1831. Laws, 1831, p. 100.

DECISIONS. A court of chancery has power to remove guardians in all cases. It is matter of discretion with the court to do so in all cases where the court believes that the interests of the ward require it, or that the guardian is abusing his trust. Cowles v. Cowles, 3 G. 435.

A proceeding by a guardian to sell the real estate of his ward, under the statute, is not a proceeding adverse to the interest of the ward. Mason v. Wait et al., 4 S. 133.

The authority of a guardian to sell the land of the ward under a decree or order of court, is a naked power, and must be strictly pursued. Idem.

A guardian is authorized by the legislature to sell the land of the ward under the direction of the probate court; without such direction the sale is void. Idem.

A purchaser at a guardian's sale takes the property at his own risk, unless at the time of the sale, the guardian makes fraudulent representations.

When an administrator, who has married the widow of his intestate, receives money belonging to the heirs of such intestate, he will be held accountable in the same manner as a guardian. Davis v. Harkness, 1 G. 173.

An executor, administrator or guardian may dispose of the personal estate of his testator, intestate or ward, to a bona fide purchaser; such purchaser is not required to look to the application of the money; but they cannot make such sale in payment of their own debt. McConnell v. Hodyson, 2 G. 640.

An order of a probate court, directing a guardian to pay over money to his successor, for the benefit of the ward, is conclusive, unless it can be impeached for fraud or collusion. 11 Ill. 6.

Wards cannot file a bill in chancery in their own names; they must sue in the name of their guardians or next friends. Hoare v. Harris, 11 Ill. 24.

Under the 7th section, Chap. XLVII, of the Revised Statutes, courts of probate had power to remove guardians; and where a guardian resigned, and his resignation was accepted and his successor appointed, the order and judgment of the probate court was considered conclusive in a collateral proceeding. Young v. Lorain et al., 11 Ill. 624.

A minor may choose his own guardian at any time after arriving at the age of fourteen years. An appointment made by the probate court, before that time, to continue until the minor arrives at the age of eighteen years, is binding and valid until such minor, after arriving at the age of fourteen, chooses another guardian. Idem.

It is not necessary that the personal estate of a minor or ward should be exhausted, to give the court jurisdiction to order a sale of real estate for purposes of re-investment. Idem.

No title passes by a guardian's sale, unless the guardian makes report to the court and the court enters an order confirming the sale and proceedings. Young v. Keogh, 11 Ill. 642; Rawlings v. Bailey et al., 15 Ill. 173; Ayres v. Bumgarten, 15 Ill. 444; Young et al. v. Dowling, 15 Ill. 481.

A testator appointed his wife guardian of his daughter, "so long as she remained his widow." She took out letters of guardianship. Subsequently she was married, retaining possession of a note belonging to her ward, which was paid to her husband in her presence: Held, that upon her marriage her guardianship ceased, and that the payment was no satisfaction of the note; that the appointment by the court gave the mother no additional authority, and that an appointment by the father, by will, is superior in point of authority to that of the courts of probate. Holmes v. Fields, 12 Ill. 424.

A guardian who collects his ward's money and converts it to his own use, is liable to pay compound interest on the same. Rowan v. Kirkpatrick, 14 Ill. 1.

It is the duty of a guardian to institute proceedings for the assignment of the widow's dower, so that his wards may obtain their share of the rents and profits of the estate. Clark et al. v. Burnside, 15 Ill. 62.

SECTION I. If any person shall be committed or detained for any criminal or supposed criminal matter, it shall and may be lawful for him to apply to the supreme or circuit courts in term time, or any judge thereof in vacation, for a writ of habeas corpus, which application shall be in writing, and signed by the prisoner, or some person on his or her behalf, setting forth the facts concerning his imprisonment, and in whose custody he is detained; and shall be accompanied by a copy of the warrant or warrants of commitment, or an affidavit that the said copy had been demanded of the person in whose custody the prisoner is detained, and by him refused or neglected to be given. The said court or judge to whom the said application shall be made, shall forthwith award the said writ of habeas corpus, unless it shall appear from the petition itself, or from the documents annexed, that the party can neither be discharged nor admitted to bail, nor in any other manner relieved; which said writ, if issued by the court, shall be under the seal of the court; if by a judge, under the hand of a judge; and shall be directed to the person in whose custody the prisoner is detained, and made returnable forthwith. To the intent that no officer, sheriff, jailer, keeper or other person, to whom such writ shall be directed, may pretend ignorance thereof, every such writ shall be indorsed with these words, "by the habeas corpus act;" and whenever the said writ shall by any person be served upon the sheriff, jailer, keeper or other person whatsoever, to whom the same shall be directed, or being brought to him, or being left with any of his under officers or deputies at the jail, or place where the prisoner is detained, he, or some of his under officers or deputies shall, upon payment or tender of the charges of bringing the said prisoner, to be ascertained by the court or judge awarding the said writ, and indorsed thereon, not exceeding ten cents per mile, and upon sufficient security given to pay the charges of carrying him back, if he shall be remanded, make return of such writ, and bring, or cause to be brought, the body of the prisoner before the court or judge who granted the said writ; or in case of the adjournment of the said court, or absence of the judge, then before any other of the judges aforesaid, and certify the true cause of his imprisonment within three days thereafter, unless the commitment of such person be in a place beyond the distance of twenty miles from the place where the writ is returnable; if beyond the distance of twenty miles, and not above one hundred miles, then within ten days; and if beyond the distance of one hundred miles, then within twenty days after the delivery of the writ as aforesaid, and not longer.

SEC. II. Where any person not being committed or detained for any criminal or supposed criminal matter, shall be confined or restrained of his or her liberty, under any color or pretense whatever, he or she may apply for a writ of habeas corpus as aforesaid; which application shall be in writing, signed by the party, or some person on his or her behalf, setting forth the facts concerning his or her imprisonment, and wherein the illegality of such imprisonment consists, and in whose custody he or she is detained; which application or petition shall be verified by the oath or affirmation of the party applying, or some other person on his or her behalf; if the confinement or restraint is by virtue of any judicial writ or process, or order, a copy thereof shall be annexed thereto, or an affidavit made that the same had been demanded and refused; the same proceedings shall thereupon be had in all respects as are directed in the preceding section.

SEC. III. Upon the return of the writ of habeas corpus, a day shall be set for the hearing of the cause of imprisonment or detainer, not exceeding five days thereafter, unless the prisoner shall request a longer time. The said prisoner may deny any of the material facts set forth in the return, or may allege any fact to show, either that the imprisonment or detention is unlawful, or that he is then entitled to his discharge; which allegations or denials shall be made on oath. The said return may be amended, by leave of the court or judge, before or after the same is filed, as also may all suggestions made against it, that thereby material facts may be ascertained. The said court or judge shall proceed in a summary way to settle the said facts, by hearing the testimony and arguments, as well of all parties interested civilly, if any there be, as of the prisoner, and the person who holds him in custody, and shall dispose of the prisoner as the case may require. If it appear that the prisoner is in custody by virtue of process from any court, legally constituted, he can be discharged only for some of the following causes: 1st, where the court has exceeded the limits of its jurisdiction, either as to the matter, place, sum or person; 2nd, where, though the original imprisonment was lawful, yet by some act, omission or event, which has subsequently taken place, the party has become entitled to his discharge; 3rd, where the process is defective in some substantial form required by law; 4th, where the process, though in proper form, has been issued in a case, or under circumstances, where the law does not allow process, or orders for imprisonment or arrest to issue; 5th, where, although in proper form, the process has been issued or executed by a person either unauthorized to issue or execute the same, or where the person having the custody of the prisoner under such process, is not the person empowered by law to detain him; 6th, where the process appears to have been obtained by false pretense or bribery; 7th, where there is no general law, nor any judgment, order or decree of a court to authorize the process, if in a civil suit, nor any conviction, if in a criminal proceeding. No court or judge, on the return of a habeas corpus, shall, in any other manner, inquire into the legality or justice of a judgment or decree of a court legally constituted. In all cases where the imprisonment is for a criminal, or supposed criminal matter, if it shall appear to the said court or judge that there is sufficient legal cause for the commitment of the prisoner, although such commitment may have been informally made, or without due authority, or the process may have been executed by a person not duly authorized, the court or judge shall make a new commitment in proper form, and directed to the proper officer, or admit the party to bail, if the case be bailable.

SEC. IV. When any person shall be admitted to bail, on habeas corpus, he shall enter into recognizance with one or more securities, in such sum as the court or judge shall direct, having regard to the circumstances of the prisoner and the nature of the offense, conditioned for his or her appearance at the next circuit court, to be holden in and for the county where the offense was committed, or where the same is to be tried. Where any court or judge shall admit to bail, or remand any prisoner brought before him or them, on any writ of habeas corpus, it shall be the duty of the said court or judge, to bind all such persons as do declare anything material to prove the offense with which the prisoner is charged, by recognizance, to appear at the proper court having cognizance of the offense, on the first day of the next term thereof, to give evidence touching the said offense, and not to depart the said court without leave; which recognizance, so taken, together with the recognizance entered into by the prisoner when he is admitted to bail, shall be certified and returned to the proper court on the first day of the next succeeding term thereof. If any such witness shall neglect or refuse to enter into a recognizance as aforesaid, when thereunto required, it shall be lawful for the court or judge to commit him to jail until he shall enter into such recognizance, or be otherwise discharged by due course of law. If any judge shall neglect or refuse to bind any such witness or prisoner, by recognizance as aforesaid, or to return any such recognizance, when taken as aforesaid, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor in office, and be proceeded against accordingly.

SEC. V. When any prisoner, brought up on a habeas corpus, shall be remanded to prison, it shall be the duty of the court or judge remanding him, to make out and deliver to the sheriff or other person, to whose custody he shall be remanded, an order in writing, stating the cause or causes of remanding him. If such prisoner shall obtain a second writ of habeas corpus, it shall be the duty of such sheriff or other person to whom the same shall be directed, to return therewith the order aforesaid; and if it shall appear that the said prisoner was remanded for an offense adjudged not bailable, it shall be taken and received as conclusive, and the prisoner shall be remanded without further proceedings.

SEC. VI. It shall not be lawful for any court or judge, on a second writ of habeas corpus, obtained by such prisoner, to discharge the said prisoner, if he is clearly and specifically charged in the warrant of commitment with a criminal offense; but the said court or judge shall, on the return of such second writ, have power only to admit such prisoner to bail, where the offense is bailable by law, or remand him to prison where the offense is not bailable; or being bailable, where such prisoner shall fail to give the bail required.

SEC. VII. No person who has been discharged by order of a court or judge, on a habeas corpus, shall be again imprisoned, restrained or kept in custody for the same cause, unless he be afterwards indicted for the same offense, nor unless by the legal order or process of the court wherein he is bound by recognizance to appear. The following shall not be deemed to be the same cause: 1st, If, after a discharge for a defect of proof, or any material defect in the commitment in a criminal case, the prisoner should be again arrested on sufficient proof, and committed by legal process for the same offense; 2nd, If, in a civil suit, the party has been discharged for any illegality in the judgment or process, and is afterwards imprisoned by legal process for the same cause of action; 3rd, Generally, whenever the discharge has been ordered on account of the non-observance of any of the forms required by law, the party may be a second time imprisoned, if the cause be legal and the forms required by law, observed.

SEC. VIII. No person shall be discharged under the provisions of this chapter, who is in custody under a commitment, for any offense exclusively cognizable by the courts of the United States, or by order, execution or process issuing out of such courts, in cases where they have jurisdiction; or who is held by virtue of any legal engagement or enlistment in the army; or who, being subject to the rules and articles of war, is confined by any one legally acting under the authority thereof; or who is held as prisoner of war under the authority of the United States; or who is in custody for any treason, felony or other high misdemeanor, committed in any other State or territory of the United States, and who, by the constitution and laws of the United States, ought to be delivered up to the executive power of such State or territory; nor shall any negro or mulatto, held as a slave within this State, try his right to freedom, or be discharged from slavery under the provisions of this chapter, but for that purpose shall be put to his suit for freedom.

SEC. IX. If any person shall be committed for a criminal or supposed criminal matter, and not admitted to bail, and shall not be tried on or before the second term of the court having jurisdiction of the offense, the prisoner shall be set at liberty by the court, unless the delay shall happen on the application of the prisoner. If such court at the second term, shall be satisfied that due exertions have been made to procure the evidence for and on behalf of the people, and that there are reasonable grounds to believe that such evidence may be procured at the third term, they shall have power to continue such case till the third term. If any such prisoner shall have been admitted to bail for a crime other than a capital offense, the court may continue the trial of said cause to a third term, if it shall appear by oath or affirmation that the witnesses for the people of the State are absent, such witnesses being mentioned by name, and the court shown wherein their testimony is material.

SEC. X. To prevent any person from avoiding or delaying his trial, it shall not be lawful to remove any prisoner on habeas corpus under this chapter, out of the county in which he or she is confined, within fifteen days next preceding the term of the court at which such person ought to be tried, except it be to convey him or her into the county where the offense with which he or she stands charged, is properly cognizable.

SEC. XI. Any person being committed to any prison, or in the custody of any officer, sheriff, jailer, keeper or other person, or his under officer or deputy, for any criminal or supposed criminal matter, shall not be removed from the said prison or custody into any other prison or custody, unless it be by habeas corpus, or some other legal writ; or where the prisoner shall be delivered to the constable or other inferior officer, to be carried to some common jail, or shall be removed from one place to another, within the county, in order to his discharge or trial in due course of law, or in case of sudden fire, infection or other necessity; or where the sheriff shall commit such prisoner to the jail of an adjoining county, for the want of a sufficient jail in his own county, as is provided in the chapter concerning jails and jailers; or where the prisoner, in pursuance of a law of the United States, may be claimed or demanded by the executive of any of the United States or territories. If any person or persons shall, after such commitment as aforesaid, make out, sign or countersign, any warrant or warrants for such removal, except as before excepted, then he or they shall forfeit to the prisoner or party aggrieved, a sum not exceeding three hundred dollars, to be recovered by the prisoner or party aggrieved, in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

SEC. XII. Any judge empowered by this chapter, to issue writs of habeas corpus, who shall corruptly refuse to issue such writ, when legally applied to, in a case where such writ may lawfully issue, or who shall, for the purpose of oppression, unreasonably delay the issuing of such writ, shall, for every such offense, forfeit to the prisoner or party aggrieved, a sum not exceeding five hundred dollars.

SEC. XIII. If any officer, sheriff, jailer, keeper or other person, to whom any such writ shall be directed, shall neglect or refuse to make the returns as aforesaid, or to bring the body of the prisoner according to the command of the said writ, within the time required by this chapter, all and every such officer, sheriff, jailer, keeper or other person, shall be deemed guilty of contempt of the court or judge who issued said writ: whereupon, the said court or judge may and shall issue an attachment against such officer, sheriff, jailer, keeper or other person, and cause him or them to be committed to the jail of the county, there to remain without bail or mainprize, until he or they shall obey the said writ; such officer, sheriff, jailer, keeper or other person, shall also forfeit to the prisoner or party aggrieved, a sum not exceeding five hundred dollars, and shall be incapable of holding or executing his said office.

SEC. XIV. Any one having a person in his custody, or under his restraint, power or control, for whose relief a writ of habeas corpus is issued, who, with intent to avoid the effect of such writ, shall transfer such person to the custody, or place him or her under the control of another, or shall conceal him or her, or change the place of his or her confinement, with intent to avoid the operation of such writ, or with intent to remove him or her out of the State, shall forfeit for every such offense, one thousand dollars, and may be imprisoned not less than one year, nor more than five years. In any prosecution for the penalty incurred under this section, it shall not be necessary to show that the writ of habeas corpus had issued at the time of the removal, transfer or concealment therein mentioned, if it be proven that the acts therein forbidden were done with the intent to avoid the operation of such writ.

SEC. XV. Any sheriff or his deputy, any jailer or coroner, having custody of any prisoner, committed on a civil or criminal process of any court or magistrate, who shall neglect to give such prisoner a copy of the process, order or commitment, by virtue of which he is imprisoned, within six hours after the demand made by said prisoner, or any one on his behalf, shall forfeit five hundred dollars.

SEC. XVI. Any person who, knowing that another has been discharged by order of a competent judge or tribunal, on a habeas corpus, shall, contrary to the provisions of this chapter, arrest or detain him again for the same cause, which was shown on the return of such writ, shall forfeit five hundred dollars for the first offense, and one thousand dollars for every subsequent offense.

SEC. XVII. All the pecuniary forfeitures incurred under this chapter, shall enure to the use of the party for whose benefit the writ of habeas corpus issued, and shall be sued for and recovered, with costs by the attorney general or circuit attorney, in the name of the State, by information; and the amount, when recovered, shall, without any deduction, be paid to the party entitled thereto.

SEC. XVIII. In any action or suit for any offense against the provisions of this chapter, the defendant or defendants may plead the general issue, and give the special matter in evidence.

SEC. XIX. The recovery of the said penalties shall be no bar to a civil suit for damages.

SEC. XX. The supreme and circuit courts within this State, or the judges thereof, in vacation, shall have power to issue writs of habeas corpus, for the purpose of bringing the body of any person confined in any jail within the same, before them, to testify or be surrendered in discharge of bail. When a writ of habeas corpus shall be issued for the purpose of bringing into court any person to testify, or the principal to be surrendered in discharge of bail, and such principal or witness shall be confined in any jail in this State, out of the county in which such principal or witness is required to be surrendered or to testify, the writ may run into any county in this State, and there be executed and returned by any officer to whom it shall be directed; and the principal, after being surrendered, or his bail discharged, or a person testifying as aforesaid, shall, by the officer executing such writ, be returned to the jail from whence he was taken by virtue of an order of the court, for the purposes aforesaid; an attested copy of which, lodged with the jailer, shall exonerate such jailer from being liable for an escape. The party praying out such writ of habeas corpus, shall pay to the officer executing the same, such reasonable sum for his services, as shall be adjudged by the courts respectively.

PRIOR LAWS. An act regulating the proceedings on writs of habeas corpus; in force June 1, 1827. Rev. Laws, 1827, p. 236; Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 322.

DECISIONS. The supreme court has no original jurisdiction to allow writs of habeas corpus. As an appellate court, it may do so, in reviewing legal proceedings. The People v. Taylor, 1 S. 202.

Either of the judges of the supreme court, or of the circuit courts, may allow the writ. Idem. Masters in chancery cannot issue a writ of habeas corpus, but, by indorsement on the petition for the writ, may direct the clerk of the circuit court of the proper county to issue it; and the clerk is thereupon bound to issue the writ, under the seal of the court. Such writ is not returnable before the master in chancery, but to the circuit or supreme court, if in session, or before some judge thereof, if in vacation. The People v. Town, 3 S. 19.

CHAPTER XLIX.

HORSES.

SECTION	SECTION
1. Horses under one year old found running at large, to be taken up: how disposed of.	4. Diseased horse, &c., running at large, how disposed of; owner, how punished.
2. Horses over that age found running at large, how disposed of.	5. Offenses against public decency, &c., how punishable.
3. If owner do not take away horse, how disposed of.	6. Penalties, how recovered.

SECTION I. It shall be lawful for any person to take up any stoned horse that may be found running at large out of the inclosure of the owner or keeper, more than one year old, and shall give notice thereof to the owner or keeper; and if such owner or keeper shall not take away or secure the same, allowing him one day for every fifteen miles he may reside from such taker up, the taker up shall take or show the same to a justice of the peace within the county, and if it shall appear to such justice, that said horse is more than one year old, he shall issue his warrant to some person skilled in the business, to geld such stoned horse; or the same may be shown by the taker up to any horse farrier, or other person of the county, well skilled in the age of horses; and if, upon view and examination, the horse shall be considered of the age of one year old, the person so examining, if he be skilled in the business, may geld and alter the same; if not, he shall give a certificate relative to the age thereof, and the taker up may then take said horse to some person skilled as aforesaid, and have the same gelded, and in performing the operation, reasonable care shall be taken to preserve the life of the animal; but should the owner not be known to the taker up, he shall advertise the same in three of the most public places in the county for ten days, giving a true description thereof; and if no owner or person on his behalf shall, by that time, appear and take charge of said horse, such taker up may proceed as above directed, and have the same gelded; and the owner shall pay to the taker up the sum of two dollars, together with reasonable charges for advertising and keeping the same, if the same be advertised, and the person altering shall be paid by the person applying to have the same done.

SEC. II. It shall not be lawful for any person to alter any horse that is known to be kept for covering mares, which may accidentally break out of or from the possession of the owner or keeper, and be found running at large. In that case the same shall be taken to the owner or keeper, without unnecessary delay, and the owner or keeper shall thereupon pay such person so taking up and delivering the said horse, the sum of two dollars; and should the trouble and expense of taking up, keeping and delivering, be extraordinary and great, a further and liberal sum shall be paid by the owner or keeper of such horse to the person so taking up and delivering. But if the owner or keeper of any stoned horse, whether he be kept for covering mares or not, shall negligently or willfully suffer the same to run at large, out of his inclosure, any person may take up such horse, and forthwith have the same gelded by some person skilled in the business, which shall be done carefully, and the owner or keeper shall pay to such taker up the sum of five dollars; the taker up paying the fee or charge for gelding; and the owner or keeper shall, moreover, be liable for and pay all damages which any person may sustain in consequence of such horse running at large; and if any horse shall die or be injured in consequence of such gelding, the same being carefully done by a person skilled in the business, as above contemplated, the owner or keeper thereof shall have no recourse whatever for damages upon such taker up, or person who shall have gelded the same.

SEC. III. If the owner or keeper of any horse, or other person in his behalf, shall not appear and take charge of the same, after being altered as aforesaid, the taker up shall take care of, feed and nourish the same, until said horse shall have recovered, and shall then turn the same out, and the owner shall pay to such person a reasonable sum in money therefor.

SEC. IV. If any person shall suffer to run at large, or keep in any place where other creatures can have access to, and become infected, any horse, mare, gelding, mule or ass, that is known to the owner or the person having the same in his care and possession, to be afflicted with glanders, distempers or any other infectious disease, he shall be fined in the sum of twenty dollars, and shall be liable to pay all the damage that may result from such running at large, of such afflicted horse, mare, gelding, mule or ass, to be recovered before any justice of the peace in the county, if the sum of damages be under one hundred dollars, otherwise in the circuit court.

SEC. V. Any person letting any stallion to any mare, within any town or village in this State, the same not being incorporated, or immediately in the vicinity thereof, that may expose such conduct to public view, shall be liable to pay a fine not exceeding five dollars, at the discretion of any justice of the peace, to whom complaint shall be made, with costs of prosecution.

SEC. VI. All sums or penalties incurred under the provisions of this chapter, provided the same do not exceed one hundred dollars, shall be recovered before any justice of the peace; if above that, in the circuit court; and appeals shall be allowed as in other cases, to said court.

PRIOR LAWS. An act for improving the breed of horses; approved Feb. 20, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 25.

An act for improving the breed of horses; in force June 1, 1829. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 330.

CHAPTER L.

IDIOTS AND LUNATICS.

SECTION

1. If jury summoned to inquire, find person to be idiot, &c., court may appoint guardian.
2. Person appointed to give bond.
3. His powers and duties; may be removed for cause.
4. Shall collect and pay out money: may sell estate to pay debts, and support idiot and family.
5. Guardian may sue and be sued; property may be sold on execution as in ordinary cases.
6. Powers and duties of overseers of the poor and county commissioners, as to support of insane poor.
7. Disposition of property in case of recovery of reason, or death.

SECTION

8. Contracts, &c., of lunatics, void as to lunatics, but good as to other party.
9. Persons taking advantage of lunatics, &c., deemed swindlers, and punished.
10. When necessary to sell real estate of idiot, &c., duty of conservator.
11. What petition shall contain, &c.
12. On filing of petition, summons to issue to parties.
13. Guardians to be appointed by court.
14. Court to determine, on hearing.
15. Orders of sale.
16. Conservators appointed in other States, how to act.
17. When act shall take effect.

(1.) SECTION I. Whenever any idiot, lunatic or distracted person has any estate, real or personal, the judge of the circuit court of the county in which such idiot, lunatic or distracted person lives, shall, on the application of any creditor or relation, or if there be neither creditor nor relation, then any person living in such county, order a jury to be summoned, to ascertain whether such person be lunatic, insane or distracted; and if the said jury return, in their verdict, that such person is lunatic, insane or distracted, it shall be the duty of the judge aforesaid, to appoint some fit person to be the conservator of such idiot, lunatic or distracted person.

(2.) SEC. II. The conservator of such estate, so appointed, shall enter into bond with sufficient security, to be approved by the said judge, to the treasurer of the county in which such idiot, lunatic or distracted person resides, in double the amount of such estate, for the faithful discharge of his duty.

(3.) SEC. III. Such conservator shall have the entire care of the estate of such idiot, lunatic or distracted person, both real and personal; and such conservator shall forthwith make a true and perfect inventory of said estate, and return the same into the office of the clerk of the circuit court of said county, where it shall be kept on file; and shall render his account to the judge of said court, of the management of such trust, when thereto required; and shall be allowed by such judge reasonable compensation for his services. And said court shall have power to remove such conservator for neglect of duty or mismanagement of his trust, and appoint another in his place.

(4.) SEC. IV. It shall be the duty of such conservator, to apply the annual income and the profits thereof, to the support of such idiot, lunatic or distracted person, his or her family. He shall have power to collect all debts due to such person, and to institute suits for that purpose, and to adjust and settle all accounts and debts due from him or her; he may sell or dispose of the personal estate to pay his or her debts, or to support him or her, or his or her family, and to educate the children of the same.

(5.) SEC. V. The said conservator may sue and be sued, in every instance, as the representative of the person so insane, lunatic or distracted, and execution may issue in the name of and against the said conservator, as representative as aforesaid; and all the property of such person may be sold to pay his or her just debts, that might or could be sold in other cases.

(6.) SEC. VI. The overseers of the poor in every county, shall take charge of the body of any person so insane, lunatic or distracted, and shall have power to confine him or her, and shall comfortably support such person, and make out an account thereof, and return the same to the county commissioners' court, whose duty it shall be to make an order, requiring the treasurer of said county to pay the same out of any money in the treasury of said county not otherwise appropriated.

(7.) SEC. VII. If such person, as aforesaid, shall be restored to his or her reason, then what remains of his or her property and estate, shall be returned to him or her; or in case of his or her death, to his or her heirs, executors or administrators, after a reasonable allowance to said conservator for his services, to be ascertained by the judge of said court.

(8.) SEC. VIII. All contracts, agreements or credits with idiots, lunatics or distracted persons, either by note, bond, bill or otherwise, shall be void, as against said idiot, lunatic or distracted person; but persons making such contracts or agreements, with such idiot, lunatic or distracted person, shall be bound thereby.

(9.) SEC. IX. If any person or persons shall, by trading with, bartering, gaming or any other device, possess himself or herself, or themselves, of any property or valuable thing, belonging to any idiot, lunatic or notoriously distracted person, he, she or they shall be deemed guilty of swindling, and upon conviction thereof, shall be liable to all the penalties as in other cases of swindling, and any person may appear and prosecute with effect.

An Act to provide for the Sale of the Estates of Insane Persons.

county in which he was appointed, or in which the parties to the proceeding, or a part of them, reside, asking that an order or orders be made, authorizing such sale.

(11.) SEC. II. The petition aforesaid shall set forth and state the reasons why, and the purposes for which, a sale of real estate is deemed necessary or proper, and shall be accompanied by an inventory or descriptive list of all the real estate owned or possessed by such idiot, lunatic or distracted person, together with a statement of the accounts of the conservator, showing the disposition of the money, property or effects which may have come to his hands, setting forth also the names of all persons who would be interested in the estate, in case of the death and intestacy of the owner thereof, all of whom shall be made parties to the proceeding.

(12.) SEC. III. Upon the filing of the petition aforesaid, a summons shall be issued against the persons made parties as aforesaid, and which shall be served as in cases in chancery. And in case any of said parties cannot be found, or reside out of the State, they shall be notified of the proceeding by publication, as in proceedings in chancery against non-residents.

(13.) SEC. IV. The court shall appoint guardians ad litem for infant parties, when no guardians shall appear, and also make any and all orders necessary to bring parties before it, and to a proper and speedy disposition of the petition in a manner consistent with the facts and the rights of all parties interested, directly or indirectly, in the estate to be affected.

(14.) SEC. V. When all parties as aforesaid shall have been notified of the proceeding, the court, upon the hearing of the petition, the objections thereto, if any are interposed, and all facts with respect to the matter thereof, shall, in the exercise of a sound discretion, make such order or orders as may appear necessary and proper to execute the provisions of this act, and to supply conservators and families of idiots, lunatics and distracted persons with means to be used for the purposes herein expressed.

(15.) SEC. VI. Orders of sale made by court shall describe the property to be sold, and specify the terms of sale, and direct the application or use of the money; and power is hereby vested in said courts to make any and all orders necessary to the security and proper application of the moneys in the hands of conservators.

(16.) SEC. VII. Conservators appointed in foreign States may avail themselves of the provisions of this act, by filing a copy of their appointment with the clerk of the circuit court, and giving security for costs, and by furnishing satisfactory evidence that they have given adequate and sufficient security for the faithful and proper application of the funds arising from the sale.

(17.) SEC. VIII. This act shall take effect and be in force from its passage.

PRIOR LAWS. An act regulating the estates of idiots, lunatics and persons distracted, and for other purposes; approved Feb. 12, 1823. Laws, 1823, p. 133; Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 332.
An act further to secure the property of idiots, lunatics and distracted persons; in force Jan. 19, 1831. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 334.

DECISIONS. In a proceeding, under the statute, to procure the appointment of a conservator to a lunatic, the lunatic must have reasonable notice, or the inquisition will be set aside. Eddy v. The People, 15 Ill. 386.

(1.) SECTION I. Those who are or shall be proprietors or owners of land, in any field that is now occupied, used and declared, or that shall hereafter be occupied, used or declared to be a common field, may meet together, by themselves or agents, annually, on the first Monday in March, or such other days as they shall appoint, at some convenient place by them appointed, for the purpose of making such rules and regulations as to them shall seem meet for the well ordering of the affairs of such field, with respect to fencing and cultivation, and all other things necessary for the well managing the same, for the common interest of such proprietors; in which meeting, the proprietors of such field shall have full power, by their major vote, to be computed by interest, to order all such affairs and make such regulations as they shall deem proper and expedient for the purpose aforesaid: Provided, always, That any person who is a proprietor in any common field, may, at any time hereafter, separate his, her or their land from such common fields, by fencing the same, subject only to making and keeping in repair fences in like manner as persons having inclosures adjoining to the common fields, as by this law directed.

(2.) SEC. II. The better to enable them to carry on and manage the affairs of such field, they are hereby authorized and empowered to elect a chairman, clerk and treasurer, who shall be sworn to the faithful discharge of their duties, respectively; and the clerk shall enter and record all the acts, votes and resolutions of the said proprietors, relating to the management of the said common fields; and shall continue in his office until another shall be chosen and qualified to serve in his room; and the election of chairman, clerk and treasurer, shall be annually or otherwise, as shall be determined by the said proprietors or a majority of them, in their lawful meetings assembled.

(3.) SEC. III. For the better management of their common fields, they shall choose a committee of three persons, which shall be styled "the field committee," who shall be sworn to a faithful discharge of their duties; the said committee may call a meeting of the proprietors of such field when they shall judge it needful, by giving warning to such of them as live in the town or village, verbally, where such fields lie, and to the agents, if any, of non-resident proprietors, ten days previous to the time of such meeting, or by warning such proprietors in such other manner as they shall, in their lawful meetings, agree upon.

(4.) SEC. IV. The proprietors of common fields are hereby authorized and empowered, at their lawful meetings, to grant and levy taxes on themselves, when they shall judge it needful, according to their several interests in such fields, for defraying the charges that may arise in setting out and designating the proportion of, or altering the fence of such fields, in making gates and bridges, or for any other public or common charge relating to such fields; and to appoint assessors and collectors for the making, apportioning and collecting such taxes; which collectors shall have the same power and authority, in every respect, as the collectors of county taxes, which taxes, when collected, shall be paid into the hands of the treasurer, and shall be appropriated by a majority of the proprietors for the common benefit.

(5.) SEC. V. The field committee shall point out and designate the place where, and the proportion which, each proprietor shall erect of such common fence, and every proprietor in such common field shall duly erect and maintain his, her or their proportion in such common fence, according to the directions of such committee: Provided, Such committee shall attend all orders and comply with all regulations of the major part of the proprietors of such common field, for the improvement thereof for the common benefit, under the penalties of such fines and forfeitures as shall be lawfully annexed to the breach or neglect of such orders or regulations.

(6.) SEC. VI. Any person or persons having his, her or their part or proportion of common fence designated by the said field committee, shall have liberty, in order to make or repair the same, of passing over any person's lot or land whatsoever, whenever it shall be necessary for the purpose aforesaid; and when it shall so happen that the line of fence ordered as aforesaid, for the inclosing or securing any common field, shall run in upon or intersect the fence of any person making a particular inclosure adjoining the common field, one-half of the division fence between such particular inclosure and the common field as aforesaid, shall be made and maintained by the proprietors of such common field, and the other half by the owner of such particular inclosure; and if any person or persons, whose land shall adjoin any such common field, shall neglect to keep in repair, and maintain his, her or their part of such fence, after being requested thereto by the field committee, in writing, under their hands, for the space of ten days, it shall be lawful for the said committee to repair the said fence at the proper charges of the delinquent; which expense, after being estimated by two reputable freeholders of the town or village wherein such fields are situated, may be recovered by action of debt, before any court having competent jurisdiction, together with costs.

(7.) SEC. VII. If any person or persons, whose land shall adjoin such common field, shall lay open the same, without giving two months' notice thereof in writing, lodged with the clerk of such common field, such person or persons shall be liable to pay all damages that may accrue to the proprietors, or to any of them, of such common fields, to be recovered in any action of damages, before any court having competent jurisdiction.

(8.) SEC. VIII. All accounts for any services rendered any person acting under the appointment or by the direction of the major part of the proprietors of common fields, shall be paid out of the common treasury of such proprietors, after being audited by the field committee, except the accounts of such field committee, which last mentioned accounts shall be audited by a special committee; and all orders on the treasurer shall be signed by the chairman, and attested by the clerk; and the collectors shall, for all or any moneys by them paid to the treasurer, demand duplicate receipts, one of which shall be held by the said collectors, and the other lodged with the clerk; the treasurer shall also demand duplicate receipts for all moneys paid by him, on orders on the treasury, one of which receipts shall be holden by the treasurer, and the other lodged with the clerk.

(9.) SEC. IX. The proprietors of common fields shall have power, by their major votes, in lawful meetings assembled, to order all such fines and forfeitures, on either or any of themselves, as to them shall seem reasonable, for carrying into effect any of their rules and regulations, for the common benefit of the said proprietors: Provided, nevertheless, That the penalty does not exceed the sum of five dollars, and that the person or persons thinking himself or themselves to be unreasonably or oppressively fined, shall have the right to appeal from the judgment of said proprietors to the next circuit court holden for said county: Provided, That notice of such appeal shall be given within ten days after the judgment be given by the said proprietors.

(10.) SEC. X. The said common field shall be inclosed with a good and sufficient fence, according to law, on or before the first day of May in each and every year, or such other day as the said proprietors may appoint; and no cattle, horses or other animals, shall be suffered to be put into such fields, for the purpose of depasturing therein, between the first day of May and the fifteenth day of November, in each and every year, or on such other day and time as the proprietors may agree upon, under the penalty of paying such fines as shall be ordered by the said proprietors, in lawful meeting assembled.

(11.) SEC. XI. For the better ascertaining and regulating of partition fences, it is hereby directed, that when any neighbors shall improve lands adjacent to each other, or when any person shall inclose any land adjoining to another's land already fenced, so that any part of the first person's fence becomes the partition fence between them, in both these cases the charge of such division fence, (so far as is enclosed on both sides,) shall be equally borne and maintained by both parties; to which, and other ends in this chapter mentioned, the county commissioners, yearly, and every year in the term next after the month of January, shall nominate and are hereby required to nominate and appoint three honest, able men, for each township, who being duly sworn to the faithful discharge of the duties of their appointment, shall proceed, at the request of any person or persons feeling himself or themselves aggrieved, to view all such fence and fences, about which any difference may happen or arise; and the aforesaid persons, or any two of them, in each township respectively, shall be the sole judges of the charge to be borne by the delinquent, or by both or either party, and of the sufficiency of all fences, whether partition fences or others.

(12.) SEC. XII. When they shall judge any fence to be insufficient, they shall give notice thereof to the owners or possessors, and if any one of the owners or possessors, upon request of the other, and due notice given by the said viewers, shall refuse or neglect to make or repair the said fence or fences, or to pay the moiety of the charges of any fence before made, being the division or common fence, within twenty days after notice given, then, upon proof thereof before two justices of the peace of the respective county, it shall be lawful for the said justices to order the person aggrieved and suffering thereby, to make or repair the said fence or fences, who shall be reimbursed his costs and charges from the person so refusing or neglecting to make or repair the partition fence or fences aforesaid, or to order the delinquent to pay the moiety of the charge of the fence before made, being a division or common fence, as the case may be.

(13.) SEC. XIII. If the delinquent shall neglect or refuse to pay the party injured the moiety of the charge of any fence before made, or to reimburse the costs and charges of making or repairing the said fence or fences, under the order aforesaid, then the same shall be levied upon the delinquent's goods and chattels, under warrant from a justice of the peace, by distress and sale thereof; the overplus, if any, to be returned to the said delinquent.

(14.) SEC. XIV. But nothing herein contained shall be intended to prevent or debar any person or persons from inclosing his or their grounds, in any manner they please, with sufficient walls or fences of timber, other than those heretofore mentioned, or by dikes, hedges and ditches, all such walls and fences to be in height at least five feet from the ground; and all dikes to be at least three feet in height from the bottom of the ditch, and planted and set with thorn and other quickset, so that such inclosures shall fully answer and secure the several purposes meant to be answered and secured by this law: Provided, That such walls or fences of timber, other than those heretofore mentioned, and dikes, hedges and ditches, shall be subject to all provisions, inspections and restrictions to which, by this chapter, any other inclosure or fence is made liable, according to the true intent and meaning hereof.

(15.) SEC. XV. If any horse, mare, gelding, colt, mule or ass, sheep, lamb, goat, kid, bull, cow, heifer, steer or calf, or any hog, shoat or pig, shall break into any person's inclosure, the fence being good and sufficient, the owner of such animal or animals, shall be liable in action of trespass, to make good all damages to the owner or occupier of the inclosure, for the first offense single damages only, and ever afterwards double the damages sustained.

(16.) SEC. XVI. The condition of the fence at the time the trespass was committed, may be proven on trial; and on complaint made by the party injured before any justice of the peace of the county wherein such trespass shall be made, such justice is hereby authorized and required to issue a summons without delay, to three respectable householders of the neighborhood, noways related to either of the parties, nor interested concerning the trespass, reciting the complaint and requiring them to view the fence where the trespass is complained of, and their testimony in such case shall be good evidence touching the sufficiency of the fence.

(17.) SEC. XVII. If any person, injured for want of such sufficient fence, shall hurt, wound, kill, lame or destroy, or shall cause to be hurt, wounded, killed, lamed or destroyed, by shooting, hunting with dogs or otherwise, any of the aforesaid animals, he or she so offending shall satisfy or pay the owner of the same, the damages with costs, recoverable as aforesaid: Provided, That if the party liable to damages as aforesaid, in either case, will abide and pay what may be deemed reasonable by three neighbors, indifferently chosen to assess the same, it shall be a bar against such suit.

(18.) SEC. XVIII. All animals trespassing, the owners of the same (if known) shall be notified thereof, and if they shall refuse to secure the said animals and prevent their trespassing, the persons on whom the trespass was committed, shall be authorized to secure the same, supplying the aforesaid animals with provender and water, for which they shall receive a compensation from said owner: Provided, That if said animals shall receive any abuse or damage from said persons, they shall be barred from any compensation for the aforesaid services.

(19.) SEC. XIX. When any person or persons may, by mistake, erect and make a fence or inclosure on the land of another person, then, and in that case, when the line or lines are legally run by the proper authority, and the fence and inclosures are known to be on the land of such other person, the person or persons making such fence or fences as aforesaid, through mistake, shall be empowered and authorized by this chapter to enter into the said land of another, doing as little damage as possible, and take away the rails, posts, wood and stones of which said fence or fences are made and erected, within one year from the time said line or lines may be legally run.

(20.) SEC. XX. The owner or owners of any land whereon a fence or fences may have been made by mistake, shall not throw down, nor in any manner disturb the said fence or fences for one year from the time such mistake is found out.

(21.) SEC. XXI. When either the owner of the rails, or the owner of the land, is desirous of having the line or lines run, dividing such land, then, in that case, the person wishing such survey, shall give the other person notice in writing, ten days before such survey is made, of the time and place of making such survey.

An Act to authorize the Setting and Protecting Live Fences on the Sides of Public Highways.

[Approved Feb. 12, 1849. Laws, 1849, (1st Sess.) p. 84.]

(22.) SEC. I. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly, That whenever any owner or owners, occupant or occupants, of any land or lands bordering upon any public road or highway, except a street or alley in a town or village through which any public road or highway may pass, may wish to plant any live fence along the margin of his, her or their lands, it shall be lawful for any such person or persons to set or plant any such hedge or live fences precisely on the line of the public road or highway, and also to set or plant on the margin of said road a protection fence, not to occupy more than six feet of the margin of said road, and such protection fence, when planted opposite any fence or hedge actually set or planted, shall be permitted by supervisors and all other persons to remain for the term of five years: Provided, That the county court of any county may give permission to the owner or owners of any hedge or live fence to continue any such protection for any time they may deem necessary.

(23.) SEC. II. This act to be in force from and after its passage.

PRIOR LAWS. An act regulating inclosures; approved Feb. 20, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 23; Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 261.

An act to regulate the inclosing and cultivating of common fields; approved Feb. 23, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 37; Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 258.

An act to enable persons to remove fences made by mistake on the lands of other persons; approved Feb. 23, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 44; Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 419.

An act to amend "An act regulating inclosures;" approved Jan. 27, 1835. Laws, 1835, p. 144.

DECISIONS. The act of Feb. 23, 1819, authorizing the removal of fences made by mistake on the land of other persons, refers only to natural persons, not the United States or this State. Blair v. Worley, 1 S. 178.

In proceedings under the act of Feb. 19, 1819, the justices before whom the proceedings are had, should notify the defendant. Under the same act, an appeal lies from the judgment of the justices. Holliday v. Swales, 1 S. 515.

There is no law in this State prohibiting cattle, &c., from running at large; and to maintain trespass for the intrusion of cattle into one's close, the occupant must surround it by a good and sufficient fence. Seeley v. Peters, 5 G. 130; Misner v. Lighthall, 13 Ill. 609.

Several persons raised crops in a common field, surrounded by a defective fence. One erected an inside fence, sufficient to protect the crops. The defendant removed a part of the inner fence, by means of which, stock entered and destroyed the crop: Held, that the defendant was liable in trespass for removing the inner fence, and that he could not justify on the ground that the plaintiff was bound to keep the outer fence in repair. Buckmaster v. Cool, 12 Ill. 74.

(1.) SECTION I. Whenever any debtor shall refuse to surrender his or her estate, lands, tenements, goods or chattels, for the satisfaction of any execution which may be issued against the property of any such debtor, it shall and may be lawful for the plaintiff in such execution, or his or her attorney or agent, to make affidavit of such fact before any justice of the peace of the county; and upon filing such affidavit with the clerk of the court from which the execution issued, or with the justice of the peace who issued such execution, it shall be lawful for such clerk or justice of the peace, as the case may be, to issue a ca. sa. against the body of such defendant in execution.

(2.) SEC. II. The courts of probate, in the several counties in this State, shall have the sole power, in the first instance, to hear and determine all applications for discharge from imprisonment for debt under this chapter.

(3.) SEC. III. When any person shall be arrested for debt on execution, or on original process, for the purpose of being held to bail, and shall be desirous of releasing his or her body from such arrest or imprisonment, by delivering up his or her property, it shall be the duty of the sheriff, or other officer having the custody of such debtor, to convey him or her before the judge of probate of the county in which such arrest is made.

(4.) SEC. IV. It shall be the duty of the probate justice of the peace before whom any such debtor shall be brought as aforesaid, to require of such debtor a full, fair and complete schedule of all his or her estate, real or personal, including money, notes, bonds, bills, obligations and contracts for money or property of any and every description or kind, name or nature whatsoever, together with a true and perfect account of all the debts which he or she shall or may be owing at the time; which schedule shall be subscribed by the debtor, who shall also take the following oath or affirmation, to wit:

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm, as the case may be,) that the schedule now delivered, and by me subscribed, contains, to the best of my knowledge and belief, a full, true and perfect account and discovery of all the estate, lands, tenements, hereditaments, goods, chattels and effects unto me in anywise belonging, and such debts as are unto me owing, or unto any person or persons for me, or in trust for me, and of all securities and contracts whereby any money may become due or payable, or any advantage or benefit accrue to me or to my use, or to any person or persons for me or in trust for me; that I have not lands, money or other estate, real or personal, in possession, reversion or remainder, which is not set forth in this schedule; nor have I, at any day or time, directly or indirectly, sold, lessened in value or otherwise disposed of, all or any part of my lands, money, goods, stock, debts, securities, contracts or estate, whereby to secure the same, or to receive, or expect to receive, any profit or advantage therefrom, to defraud any creditor or creditors, to whom I am indebted in anywise whatsoever; and also that this schedule contains a true and perfect account of all the debts which I owe to any and every person whatsoever."

Which oath or affirmation shall be subscribed by the debtor, and certified by the probate justice of the peace, as may all oaths or affirmations which it may be necessary for him to administer in the discharge of the duties assigned him by this chapter.

(5.) SEC. V. Any creditor of such debtor shall have the right to appear before the probate justice of the peace, and contest the truth of such schedule, and may, for that purpose, call such witnesses as he or she shall deem necessary; and the court shall issue subpoenas, and compel the attendance of witnesses, in the same manner as the judges of the circuit courts do in term time.

(6.) SEC. VI. The probate justice of the peace shall have power to adjourn or continue the examination of any such debtor to any convenient time, not exceeding thirty days, upon the said debtor giving security for his appearance, and also for the surrender of all the goods, chattels and estate mentioned in his schedule, at the day or time to which such examination may stand continued or adjourned.

(7.) SEC. VII. If, after full investigation and fair examination of the debtor and the witnesses, if any, it shall appear to the probate justice of the peace that the proceedings on the part of said debtor are fair, just and honest, it shall be the duty of the court to name some fit person to act as assignee of the said debtor; and such debtor shall immediately, by indorsement on the back of said schedule, assign all or so much of his property therein mentioned, as will, in the opinion of the court, be sufficient to pay all the debts, interest, costs and charges, in such schedule mentioned, to the person so named as assignee; and such assignment, so made, shall absolutely vest in such assignee, all the interest of such debtor in and to the said estate so assigned for the use of the creditor or creditors of such debtor.

(8.) SEC. VIII. Whenever the said debtor shall produce to the court a receipt of the assignee of such debtor, certifying that he has received all the estate, property, goods, chattels and effects so assigned to him, then it shall be the duty of the court to give to such debtor a discharge, in writing, from imprisonment; and the officer having the custody of the said debtor, shall, on the production of such discharge, forthwith liberate such debtor from arrest or imprisonment; and such discharge from arrest or imprisonment, shall exempt the said debtor from arrest on account of any debt mentioned in said schedule, until the same shall be vacated by due course of law.

(9.) SEC. IX. Any creditor thinking himself or herself aggrieved by any such discharge, shall and may be allowed an appeal to the next circuit court to be held in the county, upon his or her giving bond, with security, to prosecute the said appeal at the next circuit court, and to pay all costs and damages which may accrue to the party seeking such discharge; which bond shall be made payable to the probate justice or his successor in office, as shall all other bonds which may be given by authority of this chapter; and the said bond shall be filed with the probate justice.

(10.) SEC. X. Upon application of any debtor for a discharge from imprisonment under this chapter, and refusal of the court to make an assignee, or to grant a discharge from imprisonment, the said applicant shall be allowed to appeal to the next circuit court to be held in said county, upon said applicant entering into bond with security, in such sum as the court shall require, to appear on the first day of the next term of the circuit court and abide the decision thereof; and also, that he or she will not sell or dispose of, or remove or lessen in value, any or all of the estate or property mentioned in the schedule of such applicant, but that the same shall be forthcoming, and subject to the order of the said court; and upon such debtor entering into such bond, it shall be the duty of the said probate justice to certify the whole of the proceedings which have been had before him, to the said circuit court, on the first day of the term thereof. All appeals shall be prayed before the probate justice of the peace at the time of trial, or within ten days thereafter.

(11.) SEC. XI. No assignee shall sell any property assigned to him by any debtor as aforesaid, during the pendency of any appeal to the circuit court, unless the same be of a perishable nature, and such as will be materially injured in its value by delay.

(12.) SEC. XII. The circuit court, at the term to which the proceedings shall be returned, shall (unless for good cause) proceed to hear and determine the matter, and shall impanel a jury to find the facts, at the request of either party, admitting all necessary evidence; and shall make such order therein as justice and equity may require, affirming or reversing the whole or any part of the proceedings of the probate justice, and doing all things that may be necessary to effect the objects of this chapter.

(13.) SEC. XIII. In every case where a debtor is arrested on affidavit, charging such debtor with fraud, and being desirous of releasing his or her body from arrest or imprisonment, it shall be the duty of the sheriff, or other officer having the custody of such debtor, forthwith to convey him or her before the probate justice of the peace of the county, whose duty it shall be to issue a venire to the sheriff or other officer having custody of such debtor, commanding him forthwith to summon seven reputable householders of the neighborhood, to assemble before the said court as a jury, who shall be sworn to try the fact of fraud with which such debtor shall stand charged.

(14.) SEC. XIV. If, after full hearing of the parties, the jury shall find a verdict of "guilty of fraud," against such debtor, he or she shall be imprisoned until he or she shall comply with the requisitions of the fourth section of this chapter; but if the jury find such debtor "not guilty of fraud," then the maker of such affidavit as aforesaid, shall pay all such costs as may have accrued in consequence of such arrest or imprisonment, and the debtor shall be discharged from such arrest or imprisonment: Provided, always. That either party shall have the right to an appeal upon the same conditions as in other cases under this chapter.

(15.) SEC. XV. Every debtor arrested on any civil suit or process, shall, upon going before the probate justice of the peace, if he shall desire the same, be allowed a jury of seven householders of the neighborhood, who shall be sworn to try the fact of refusal to surrender the property of such debtor for the benefit of his or her creditor; and if the jury return or find a verdict of "guilty of such refusal," then such debtor shall be compelled to surrender his or her property, or schedule his or her property as provided in the fourth section of this chapter; but if the jury find such debtor "not guilty" of refusing to surrender, then such debtor shall be forthwith discharged.

(16.) SEC. XVI. Every assignee appointed by authority of this chapter, shall, within the space of thirty days after the assignment of the property mentioned in the schedule or inventory of any insolvent debtor, advertise all the personal property, goods or chattels, mentioned in such schedule, at the door of the court-house, and in three other public places in the county, giving twenty days' notice of the time and place of such sale; at which time and place such assignee shall proceed to sell all such personal property, goods and chattels, for the highest price which can be obtained, on a credit of nine months, for which he shall take bond, with sufficient security; and the said assignee shall also advertise, at the same places as above required for personal property, the lands and tenements contained in such schedule, which shall be sold at the door of the court-house on the first day of the circuit court next to be holden in the said county, between the hours of eleven in the morning, and sunset of the said day; but if the said circuit court should not sit on such day so appointed for its sitting, then such lands and tenements shall be sold in the same manner as if said court had been held at the time appointed, to the highest bidder, on a credit of twelve months, the said assignee taking bond, with sufficient security, for the payment of the same.

(17.) SEC. XVII. It shall be the duty of every assignee, who shall sell any lands or tenements, by or under authority of this chapter, upon payment of the purchase money being made by the purchaser, to make and execute to such purchaser, his heirs, executors, administrators or assigns, a deed of conveyance for the same, which shall be acknowledged in the same manner as deeds are acknowledged by sheriffs, and such deed shall vest in the purchaser, all the rights of the assignor to such lands and tenements.

(18.) SEC. XVIII. It shall be the duty of every assignee of any insolvent debtor, within eighteen months after such assignment, to make a settlement of the estate of such insolvent debtor before the court of probate, giving thirty days' public notice of the time of making such settlement; and the probate justice shall make such order concerning the distribution thereof, as is made in cases of insolvency of deceased persons; and such assignee shall pay the creditors of such insolvent debtor, the amount of their several dividends, within thirty days after such settlement; and if the whole amount of debts shall not have been collected at the time of making such settlement, then such assignee shall continue to collect such outstanding debts, and, from time to time, make dividends of such sums as shall come to his possession, until the whole is collected and paid, first deducting such charges and fees as are by law allowed; and if any thing shall remain in the hands of any such assignee, after paying all such debts as are mentioned in such schedule, together with the cost thereon, then such assignee shall pay over the same to the said debtor, his or her heirs, executors, administrators or assigns.

(19.) SEC. XIX. Any person, being the head of a family and residing with the same, who shall apply to a court of probate for a discharge from his debts, under the provisions of this chapter, shall be allowed the same amount of property as is exempt from execution, which shall be assigned and set apart to him by the probate justice.

(20.) SEC. XX. The probate justice of the peace is hereby authorized to allow every assignee, who shall be appointed under the provisions of this chapter, such compensation as shall be reasonable and just for the services which he shall be necessarily called upon to perform, in the discharge of his duties as assignee.

(21.) SEC. XXI. The probate justice of the peace shall be allowed the same fees for services rendered by authority of this chapter, as is allowed for similar services in the court of probate, in addition to the sum of two dollars for the examination of each applicant for a discharge under this chapter, and one dollar for each discharge by him granted to such debtor as aforesaid.

(22.) SEC. XXII. In case of the insolvency of any probate justice of the peace within this State, the same proceedings shall be had against him, before any county commissioner of the county, as are prescribed for other debtors by this chapter.

(23.) SEC. XXIII. Any debtor who shall be convicted of taking a false oath, under any of the provisions of this chapter, shall be deemed guilty of willful perjury, and shall suffer the pains and penalties imposed by law therefor.

(24.) SEC. XXIV. Any debtor, who shall obtain a discharge under this chapter, and who shall have acted honestly and without fraud, shall forever after be discharged from imprisonment on account of any debt or debts that he may owe at the time of obtaining such discharge, and that may be contained in the schedule required to be made by this chapter; and the certificate of the probate justice, of such discharge, shall protect such debtor from imprisonment, in all cases where any action may be brought against him for any such debt or debts as aforesaid.

An Act for the further Restriction of Imprisonment for Debt.

(26.) SEC. II. If, at any time, the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, shall fail to advance the jail fees as herein provided, it shall be the duty of the officer or jailer, as the case may be, forthwith to discharge the prisoner; and it shall not be lawful to arrest or imprison the said defendant a second time, upon an execution issued upon the same judgment; but nothing herein contained shall operate to discharge the said defendant from the payment of such judgment and costs, if property can be found to satisfy the same.

(27.) SEC. III. If the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, shall make the advances of the jail fees as herein provided, the said defendant may be imprisoned, at one dollar and fifty cents per day, until the judgment and costs shall be satisfied; and the officer making the arrest, shall, in that event, indorse the execution, "satisfied in full by imprisonment."

(28.) SEC. IV. This act to be in force from and after its passage.

PRIOR LAWS. An act for the benefit of insolvent debtors; approved March 27, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 301. Repealed Feb. 10, 1821.

An act establishing courts of probate; approved Feb. 10, 1821. Laws, 1821, p. 119. Repealed in part, June 1, 1829.

SECTION I. Public warehouses may be kept at the several places which may be pointed out by the commissioners in each county, for an inspection of beef, pork, hemp, flour, tobacco, and all other articles of exportation necessary to be inspected.

SEC. II. There shall be kept at the several warehouses that may be established, a good and sufficient pair of scales, sufficient to weigh eighteen hundred, at least, and a set of small weights, such as ought to be, according to the standard weight of the county, and that the proprietors of each warehouse provide the same.

SEC. III. All beef, tobacco, hemp and flour, brought to any of the public warehouses, shall be viewed, inspected and examined, by two persons thereunto appointed by the county commissioners in each county; and it shall be the duty of the commissioners aforesaid, to appoint such inspectors, when in their opinion it may be thought necessary; and it shall be the duty of the aforesaid county commissioners to nominate three fit persons for inspectors at each of the several warehouses within their respective counties; the two first in the nomination shall be considered as the acting inspectors for the ensuing year; or in case of sickness, death or inability of either of the two first inspectors, the third shall be called in to decide on such articles subject to inspection; and the said commissioners shall have power, on complaint in writing being lodged in the office of the clerk of the county, at their first term after such notice to them given, to summon the inspector or inspectors before them, as the case may be, and as the county commissioners shall judge just; and said commissioners shall fill all vacancies which may happen at any time during the remainder of the year. Every such inspector, so appointed by virtue of this chapter, before he enters into the execution of his office, shall give bond with approved security, in the penal sum of two hundred dollars, payable to the governor or his successors in office, conditioned for the true and faithful performance of his duty according to the conditions of this chapter; which said sum shall be recovered by action of debt before the circuit court, for any willful or flagrant breach of duty; which bond shall be given and entered into before the county commissioners' court, and lodged in the clerk's office of the county.

SEC. IV. All inspectors to be appointed by virtue of this chapter, shall attend at the different warehouses for which they are appointed, on the application of any person who wishes to have his beef, pork, flour, hemp or tobacco inspected, Sundays excepted; and every inspector neglecting to attend as aforesaid, shall forfeit and pay to the person aggrieved, five dollars, to be recovered before any justice of the peace in the proper county. And the said inspectors shall inspect every article that comes within the purview of this chapter, in such a manner that they may be fully satisfied that each article so inspected shall completely answer in quality to the mark or brand by them made, which shall be marked on the barrel or hogshead, if flour, the letters S. F., for superfine, and the letter F., for fine, with the gross weight and net weight marked in figures on the said barrel; if tobacco, or pork or beef, the weight in gross and net, marked on the head of said hogshead or barrel.

SEC. V. The rate of inspection and storage of the several articles so inspected, shall be fixed by the several county commissioners, at their first or second courts in every year.

SEC. VI. Each hogshead of tobacco shall weigh not less than nine hundred and fifty pounds, or exceed eighteen hundred, net; and the barrel of flour shall weigh one hundred and ninety-six pounds, net weight; each barrel of pork and beef shall weigh not less than two hundred pounds net weight each.

SEC. VII. It shall be the duty of the several inspectors to enter in a book by them kept for that purpose, the mark, number and weight of the several hogsheads and barrels by them inspected, together with the name of the inspector, and warehouse where each inspection was had.

SEC. VIII. Each and every inspector appointed by virtue of this chapter, before they enter on the duties of their respective offices, shall be sworn before the clerk of the commissioners' court by which they were appointed, that they will faithfully discharge the duties of their office, without favor, partiality or affection.

SEC. IX. It shall be the duty of the several inspectors to furnish the owner or proprietor of any of the above mentioned articles, with a certificate of the mark, number and weight of the several articles by them inspected.

SEC. X. It shall be the duty of the county commissioners' courts in the several counties within this State, from time to time, to authorize the erection of warehouses for the reception and inspection of tobacco, at such places within their respective counties as they may deem necessary and proper. And they shall, moreover, require the person or persons who shall apply for permission to erect the same, to give bond, with sufficient security, in a reasonable penalty, payable to the county commissioners of said county, or their successors in office, for the benefit of the county, with condition to erect such strong and substantial house or houses as will contain, at least, one hundred hogsheads of tobacco, and as many more as the said county commissioners may think necessary, and also keep the same in repair as long as it shall continue a public warehouse.

SEC. XI. All tobacco which shall be brought into any of the warehouses, established as hereinbefore directed, shall be received, inspected and examined by one person, to be thereunto appointed, who shall be called Inspector, and who shall be appointed in the following manner, to wit: The county commissioners of the several counties wherein any warehouse or warehouses shall be established according to the provisions of this chapter, shall, and they are hereby authorized and required, once in every year, at the first term of their courts, or at the next succeeding term, to appoint a person of honest character, and reputed to be skillful in tobacco, as inspector for each and every warehouse within their respective counties; and in case of death, resignation or removal of any person so appointed, the said county commissioners shall, at the next succeeding term, upon notice of such death, resignation or removal, appoint a person, qualified as aforesaid, to act as inspector for that inspection where the vacancy shall have occurred, until the next regular appointment of inspectors, and every inspector shall continue in office until a successor is appointed: Provided, That the county commissioners' court may, if they deem it necessary, appoint one additional inspector to each and every public warehouse within the county.

SEC. XII. Every person who shall be appointed inspector by virtue of this chapter, shall, before he enters upon the duties of his office, give bond, with sufficient security, in the penalty of not less than one thousand dollars, at the discretion of the county commissioners' court, payable to the said county commissioners, or to their successors in office, for the benefit of the county, with condition for the true and faithful performance of his duty while he continues inspector, according to the provisions of this chapter; which bond shall be filed in the clerk's office of the county commissioners' court, and the county treasurer shall commence suit for the recovery of the above penalty, against every inspector failing to discharge the duties of his office, agreeably to the provisions of this chapter, before any tribunal having jurisdiction thereof, within two months after notice of such failure, under the penalty of five hundred dollars. And every inspector shall also take the following oath or affirmation, in open court, at the time he executes his bond, to wit:

"You do solemnly swear, (or affirm, as the case may be,) that you will diligently and carefully view and examine all tobacco brought to the warehouse whereof you are appointed inspector, and that you will not receive or pass any tobacco which is not in your opinion sound, well conditioned, merchantable and free from trash; and that in classing the same, you will, according to your best skill and judgment, make a true and correct discrimination between the first and second qualities; and that you will not receive, pass or stamp any hogshead or cask of tobacco, contrary to the true intent and meaning of the laws in such case made and provided, nor refuse any tobacco that in your judgment is sound, well conditioned and merchantable, and free from trash; and that you will not change, alter or give out any tobacco, other than such hogsheads or casks for which the receipt to be taken was given, but that you will in all things well and faithfully discharge your duty in the office of inspector according to the best of your skill and judgment, and according to law, without fear, favor or affection, malice or partiality: So help you God."

And if any person shall presume to exercise his office of inspector, before he shall have given such bond and taken such oath aforesaid, he shall forfeit and pay five hundred dollars for the use of the county.

SEC. XIII. The inspectors of tobacco shall attend at their respective warehouses, whenever called on (Sundays and sickness excepted,) by any shipper or raiser of tobacco, to deliver out for exportation such tobacco as remains in the warehouse, and to inspect any tobacco brought to said warehouse; and every inspector neglecting to attend when requested, as aforesaid, shall forfeit and pay to the party aggrieved, fifty dollars for every neglect, or be liable to an action on the case, at the suit of the party aggrieved, to recover all such damages as he or they shall have sustained by any such neglect.

SEC. XIV. That all persons having tobacco at a public warehouse, may have equal justice, the inspectors shall enter in a book, to be kept for that purpose, the marks and owners' names of all tobacco brought to their respective warehouses for inspection, in the order in which the same shall be brought in; and such inspectors shall view and inspect the same, in due time, as it shall be entered in such book, without favor or partiality, and shall uncase and break, in not less than two places, every hogshead or cask of tobacco brought in to be inspected as aforesaid; and if they shall find the same to be good, well conditioned, merchantable and free from trash, they shall then determine whether such tobacco is of the first or second quality, shall weigh the same in scales, with weights of the lawful standard, and shall stamp or mark with a scoring iron, the hogshead or cask, with the name of the owner and of the person by whom raised, (if known,) the name of the warehouse at which inspected, and also the tare of the hogshead or cask, the quantity of net tobacco therein contained, and whether the same is of first or second quality; they shall also issue a receipt for each hogshead of tobacco they shall pass, if requested by the owner, which receipt shall be in the following form, to wit:

"At _____ warehouse, county of _____, this _____ day of _____, _____ hogsheads of leaf or stemmed (as the case may be) tobacco of the first or second quality, (as the case may be,) number, mark and weight, as follows:

NUMBER.	MARKS.	GROSS.	TARE.	NET.

to be delivered to the said _____ or order for exportation, when demanded.
Witness my hand: _____"

And no inspector shall presume to issue, under any pretense whatsoever, a receipt for tobacco, other than such as shall be printed or written in a plain hand, and according to the above form, under the penalty of one hundred dollars, recoverable by any person who will sue for the same.

SEC. XV. When any tobacco shall be refused by the inspector, the proprietor thereof shall be at liberty to separate the good from the bad for re-inspection, but if he refuse so to do, then it shall be the duty of the said inspector to weigh, prize and cooper up the same, and mark the gross weight on each cask, and take care of and deliver the same to the owner, for which the inspector shall receive one dollar for every hogshead so delivered, in addition to the inspection fees hereinafter mentioned; and for the prevention of fraud, the inspector shall grant a manifest or certificate for each hogshead of tobacco so refused, coopered and delivered, specifying the weight of the same, and that the same had been inspected and refused; and if any person shall sell refused tobacco, or manufacture the same without such manifest, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of fifty dollars for every hogshead so sold or manufactured, one-half to the person suing for the same, and the residue for the benefit of the county in which the offense shall be committed; but it shall be lawful for any person having a hogshead of tobacco refused, to carry the same, with the manifest, to any other warehouse, and the inspector thereat, upon viewing the tobacco, if he esteem it of good quality, first destroying the manifest, he may grant a receipt, as is hereinbefore directed, or shall grant another manifest, (for which one dollar shall be paid,) expressing the review, and that it was the second time refused; after which second refusal, the owner shall not be permitted to carry the tobacco to any other warehouse for re-inspection, but may either have the same picked, or sell the same as refused tobacco, accompanying it with the manifest.

SEC. XVI. For every hogshead of tobacco inspected at any of the warehouses established by virtue of this chapter, the planter or owner of the same shall pay to the inspector fifty cents, whether the same shall be passed or refused; and for every hogshead shipped from any of the warehouses aforesaid, the shipper, or exporter, when he demands the same for exportation, shall pay the inspector the further sum of one dollar, in full for cooperating and storage for the first three months, and for each and every month thereafter the same remains in the warehouse, he shall be entitled to twenty-five cents, to be paid when the tobacco is taken away; and the said inspector, out of the money arising from inspection and shipment of tobacco, shall, in the first instance, pay to the owner or proprietor of the warehouse, seventy-five cents for every hogshead received thereat, as rent for said warehouse, and shall retain the residue for his own compensation: Provided, Such compensation shall in no case exceed two hundred dollars per annum; and whenever the net profits of any warehouse shall exceed the sum necessary for paying the sums aforesaid, the surplus shall be paid into the county treasury by the said inspector, for the benefit of the county. And every inspector shall, once a year, at the March term of the county commissioners' court of his county, return to the said county commissioners' court a statement of the number of hogsheads of tobacco received at his warehouse during the year, the number passed, and the number refused, and the number delivered for exportation; and shall account to said county commissioners' court for all moneys received by virtue of his office, and all disbursements made; and if any inspector or keeper of a warehouse, shall make a false return, he shall be liable to indictment, and on conviction, shall pay a fine, double the amount so kept back and not accounted for, to go to the use of the county.

SEC. XVII. Every inspector shall store away and secure every hogshead of tobacco which he shall have inspected during the day; and shall, in case of negligence, be liable to the action of the proprietor of such tobacco, for all damages accruing thereto, by reason of such negligence.

SEC. XVIII. When any new inspector shall be appointed at any warehouse, such inspector shall, and he is hereby required to give to the person whom he shall succeed in office, a receipt under his hand, containing the numbers, marks, gross, tare and net weight of all and every hogshead or cask of tobacco, which shall be then remaining at the warehouse at which he is appointed inspector; with the delivery of which hogsheads or casks of tobacco so remaining, he shall thenceforth be chargeable and liable, but he shall in nowise be accountable for the loss of weight or quality of tobacco, contained in any hogshead or cask, for which receipt was given by him as aforsaid; and if any hogshead or cask of tobacco be hereafter received by any person whomsoever, and delivered out of any warehouse for exportation by the inspector attending the same, such inspector, from the time of such delivery, shall be forever discharged and acquitted from all actions, costs and charges for or by reason of the tobacco contained in any such hogshead or cask being unsound and unmerchable, or of less quantity, or of different quality from that specified in the receipt given for the same, anything herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

SEC. XIX. Inspectors of tobacco at the several warehouses in this State, shall, immediately on the delivery of every hogshead or cask of tobacco, at the warehouse whereof they are respectively inspectors, give a receipt for such tobacco, if required by the proprietor, or the person bringing the same to the said warehouse, expressing therein that the same is for uninspected tobacco. Every inspector refusing so to do, shall forfeit and pay to the owner of said tobacco, five dollars: Provided, Such delivery is made during the time inspectors are compelled to attend their warehouses.

SEC. XX. If any inspector's receipt shall be casually lost, mislaid or destroyed, the person or persons entitled to receive the tobacco, by virtue of any such receipt, shall make oath before some justice of the peace of the county where the same is payable, to the number and date of such receipt, to whom and where payable, and for what quality of tobacco the same was given, and that such receipt is lost, mislaid or destroyed, and that he, she or they, at the time such receipt was lost, mislaid or destroyed, was lawfully entitled to receive the tobacco therein mentioned; and shall take a certificate thereof from such justice, and shall advertise the loss of such receipt at the court-house of the county in which such inspection may be, on the court day, and at the inspection where the tobacco was brought, for four weeks successively, and shall moreover give bond, with sufficient security to indemnify the inspector from loss by the claim of the person who may thereafter produce the original receipt, within twelve months after the notice given of the loss thereof; whereupon the inspector shall grant a duplicate of the same receipt to the person or persons entitled to receive the tobacco by virtue of the original receipt, and not otherwise; which receipt shall be signed as duplicate. The bond so taken shall be assignable by the inspector taking the same to the person producing the original receipt, who may maintain an action of debt thereupon, and such assignment shall exonerate the inspector from any claim or demand against him, by virtue of the original receipt: Provided, nevertheless, That if the principal and security should, at the time of taking such bond, be insufficient, then in that case the inspector shall be responsible for the value of the tobacco to the person producing such original receipt; and if any person shall be convicted of making a false oath or procuring a false certificate, in the case aforesaid, such person shall suffer as in cases of willful and corrupt perjury.

SEC. XXI. Every inspector shall carefully enter in a book to be kept for that purpose, the marks, numbers, gross, tare and net weight of all tobacco, viewed and stamped by him as hereinbefore directed, and on what vessel or boat the same shall have been shipped; and shall also, with every vessel or boat load of tobacco, send a list of the numbers, marks, gross, tare and net weight of every hogshead or cask of tobacco then delivered, to be given to the master of the boat or vessel in which the same shall be shipped.

SEC. XXII. All stemmed tobacco not laid straight, whether the same shall be packed loose or in bundles, shall be accounted unlawful tobacco; and no tobacco packed in hogsheads, which exceed fifty-four inches in the length of the stave, or thirty-six inches at the head, within the crow, making reasonable allowance for prizing (which allowance shall not exceed two inches above the gauge,) in the prizing head, and which shall be bound with eight hoops, shall be passed or received; but the owner of such tobacco, packed in hogsheads or casks of greater dimensions than above expressed, shall be obliged to repack the same in sizable casks, before the same shall be passed or stamped by the inspector; nor shall any hogshead be so passed or stamped, unless the net weight thereof shall be at least eight hundred pounds.

SEC. XXIII. Any inspector who shall alter, change or deliver out any hogshead of tobacco, other than the one for which the receipt to be taken in was given, shall forfeit and pay one hundred dollars for every hogshead so altered, changed or delivered out; and if any inspector shall fail or refuse to deliver any hogshead of tobacco, when the same shall be demanded for exportation, or shall deliver such tobacco without an order from the owner thereof, he shall, in either case, forfeit to the owner double the value of the tobacco which he shall so refuse to deliver, or deliver wrongfully.

SEC. XXIV. Any inspector who shall take, accept or receive, directly or indirectly, any gratuity, fee or reward, for anything so done, in pursuance of this chapter, other than the payments and allowances hereinbefore mentioned and expressed, upon being convicted thereof, shall forfeit and pay the sum of one hundred dollars, to be recovered with costs, to the use of the county wherein the offense shall have been committed, and shall, moreover, be removed from office; and if any person shall offer any bribe to any inspector, for anything by him to be done in pursuance of this chapter, other than the payments and allowances hereinbefore mentioned and expressed, such person so offending, upon being thereof convicted, shall forfeit and pay one hundred dollars, for the use of the county wherein the offense shall have been committed.

SEC. XXV. Any person who shall alter or change the face of a note for passed or refused tobacco, or who shall alter or cause to be altered, the stamps or marks on any hogshead of inspected tobacco, whether passed or refused, shall be deemed guilty of forgery, and punished as in other cases of forgery.

SEC. XXVI. Any person who shall erect a warehouse in pursuance of this chapter, shall, in addition to the requisitions hereinbefore mentioned, be required to erect a strong and sufficient prize within the same, and also to provide a pair of strong scales, or patent balances, and correct weights, to weigh at least fifteen hundred pounds.

SEC. XXVII. The county commissioners' courts of counties wherein one or more warehouses shall be erected, shall, at the term whereat the appointment of inspector is made, appoint a discreet householder, of ability and integrity, to act as commissioner of warehouses for one year, whose duty it shall be to see that the warehouses in his county are kept in good repair, that proper scales and weights are provided, kept in repair, examined and compared with the standard weights of the county; once in six months, at least, to visit every warehouse in his county, and see that the tobacco therein is properly stowed away and secured, and that the inspectors diligently discharge their duties; and if he shall discover in any inspector, any negligence or breach of his duty, he shall report the same to the county commissioners' court at the next term thereof; whereupon said inspector shall be proceeded against according to law; and the commissioner so appointed shall be allowed two dollars for every day he shall be necessarily employed in performing the duties prescribed by this chapter, to be paid out of the county treasury: Provided, That such compensation shall not exceed thirty dollars in one year.

Sec. XXVIII. The inspectors of tobacco shall be, and they are hereby, exempted from militia duty, except in case of actual invasion and insurrection, and also from serving on juries.

Sec. XXIX. All penalties and forfeitures in this chapter contained, the mode of recovery and application of which are not specially set forth, shall be recovered by action of debt at the suit of the county treasurer, and shall be applied to lessening the county tax.

Sec. XXX. If before the erection of a public warehouse in any county, the quantity of tobacco raised or brought therein shall, in the opinion of the county commissioners' court, require the appointment of one or more inspectors, the same shall be appointed, and when appointed, may proceed to examine and inspect any tobacco which may be lodged in any private warehouse, and shall pass or refuse the same, and do all other acts that are required by this chapter, in case of inspection in public warehouses; and such inspection shall be, to all intents and purposes, legal. The owner of such private warehouse shall not suffer any tobacco to be removed after inspection, unless by order of the inspector, who shall have as complete control over the same as if it were stored in a public warehouse, and shall be responsible in the same manner to the owner thereof; and any proprietor or owner of a private warehouse in which tobacco has been inspected and stored, who shall deliver or suffer the same to be removed without an order from the inspector, as aforesaid, shall forfeit double the value of the tobacco so delivered or suffered to be removed, to be recovered by the inspector for the benefit of the owner of such tobacco: Provided, That there shall be no tobacco inspected in a private warehouse, where there is a public one erected in the same county, and prepared for the reception and inspection of tobacco: Provided, also, That it shall be lawful for any citizen of this State, who wishes to export tobacco without inspection, to do so, any law to the contrary notwithstanding.

Sec. XXXI. If the owner of any tobacco deposited in any warehouse, shall suffer the same to remain there for a longer time than two years, without paying the fees for storage and keeping the same, it shall and may be lawful for the inspector or keeper of the warehouse to advertise the same, either in some newspaper, the nearest printed in the State, or by setting up six advertisements in writing, in the most public places in the county, for six weeks previous, fairly to expose and sell the same for the best price that can be had in cash, and the overplus, if any, after paying all fees and costs, to be returned to the owner, if called for within five years from the day of sale; if not called for, the same to go to the county. And if any person shall suffer any property other than tobacco to remain in any warehouse established under this chapter, or any public or private warehouse now established, or which may hereafter be established, for a longer term of time than fifteen months from the time of depositing the same, without paying the fees for storage, the keeper or inspector may, in like manner advertise and sell the same, for what the same will bring in cash; and the surplus, if any, to be paid over to the owner or county as above stated.

CHAPTER LIV.

INTEREST.

SECTION

1. Interest fixed at six per cent.
2. Interest to be six per cent. on judgments; on balances due on settlement of accounts, and on money withheld.
3. General restriction.
4. When pleadings disclose fact that excess has been taken, defendant may recover costs, and plaintiff shall forfeit three-fold the illegal interest taken; penalty, how disposed of.
5. Further provisions and penalties.
6. Persons paying usury, may recover three-fold, if suit be brought within two years.

SECTION

7. Parties may be witnesses in certain cases.
8. Townships, at their annual election for trustees, may vote to take interest on school moneys loaned at a rate of interest from eight to twelve per cent.
9. Interest allowed.
10. On trial on promissory note, reserving illegal interest, what defendant may plead, &c.
11. Corporation not to interpose defense of usury.
12. Definition of the term "corporation."
13. When act to take effect.

(Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 234. In force May 1, 1845. See Laws, 1845, p. 40, Sec. 3.)

(1.) SECTION I. The rate of interest upon the loan or forbearance of any money, goods, or things in action, shall continue to be six dollars upon one hundred dollars for one year, and after that rate for a greater or less sum, or for a longer or a shorter time.

(2.) SEC. II. Creditors shall be allowed to receive at the rate of six per centum per annum, for all moneys after they become due on any bond, bill, promissory note or other instrument of writing; on any judgment recovered before any court or magistrate authorized to enter up the same within this State, from the day of signing judgment until the effects be sold, or satisfaction of such judgment be made; likewise, on money lent, on money due on the settlement of accounts from the day of liquidating accounts between the parties, and ascertaining the balance; on money received to the use of another, and retained without the owner's knowledge, and on money withheld by an unreasonable and vexatious delay of payment.

(3.) SEC. III. No person or corporation shall, directly or indirectly, accept or receive in money, goods, discounts or things in action, or in any other way, any greater sum or greater value, for the loan, forbearance or discount of any money, goods or things in action, than as above described.

(4.) SEC. IV. Whenever, in any action brought on any contract or assurance, for the payment of money, or any other thing, it shall appear to the court before which such action shall be tried, by the pleading on the case, and on application of the defendant, that a greater rate of interest shall have been directly or indirectly reserved, discounted or taken, than is allowed by this chapter, the defendant shall recover his full costs, and the plaintiff shall forfeit three-fold the amount of the whole interest reserved, discounted or taken, and shall have judgment and execution for the balance only, which may remain due upon said contract or assurance, after deducting three-fold the amount of said interest, one-third part of which shall be paid to the defendant, and the remaining two-thirds shall be paid into the county treasury of the county in which such suit shall have been instituted.

(5.) SEC. V. If any person or corporation shall, directly or indirectly, contract to accept or receive in money, goods, discounts or things in action, any greater sum or greater value, for the loan, forbearance or discount of any money, goods or things in action, than is prescribed by this chapter, he, she or they shall forfeit and pay to the person suing for the same, three-fold the amount of the whole interest so contracted to be reserved, discounted or taken: Provided, Said suit be not commenced by either of the contracting parties; and if so, then the amount so recovered shall be paid into the county treasury of the county where such suit shall have been instituted.

(6.) SEC. VI. Every person who, for any such loan, discount or forbearance, shall pay or deliver any greater sum or value than is above allowed to be received, and his personal representatives, may recover in an action against the person who shall have taken or received the same, and his personal representatives, three-fold the amount of the money so paid, or value delivered above the rate aforesaid, either by an action of debt in any court having jurisdiction thereof, or by bill in chancery in the circuit court, which court is hereby authorized to try the same: Provided, Said action shall be brought, or bill filed within two years from the time when the right thereto accrued.

(7.) SEC. VII. In the trial of any action wherein it shall appear by the pleadings, that the fact of usury shall be put in issue, it shall be lawful for the debtor, the creditor being alive, to become a witness, and his testimony shall be received as evidence, and the creditor, if he shall offer his testimony, shall be received as a witness, together with any other legal evidence that may be introduced by either party.

(8.) SEC. VIII. Any township in this State, having school, college or seminary funds to loan, may hereafter loan the same, at any rate of interest not less than eight per cent. nor more than twelve per cent. per annum; the rate to be fixed by a majority of the legal voters of said townships respectively, who shall, at every election for township trustees, vote the rate of interest at which said fund shall be loaned, until their next election for trustees, any law to the contrary notwithstanding.

An Act to amend the Interest Laws of this State.

[Approved Jan. 30, 1849. Laws, 1849, (1st Sess.) p. 98.]

(10.) SEC. II. In the trial of any action brought upon a promissory note or writing obligatory in any of the courts of this State, wherein is reserved a higher rate of interest than six per cent. per annum, it shall be lawful for the defendant to set up and plead, as a defense in any such suit, that the consideration of said note or writing obligatory, upon which such suit is brought, was not "money loaned," upon which issue it shall be lawful for the debtor, the creditor being alive, to become a witness, and his testimony shall be received as evidence; and the creditor, if he shall offer his testimony, shall be received as a witness, together with any other legal evidence that may be introduced by either party; and if, upon the trial of the said issue, it shall be found that the said note or writing obligatory, upon which such suit is brought, was not given for money loaned, then the said court shall render judgment for the principal sum in the said promissory note or writing obligatory, and six per cent. interest thereon.

An Act to prohibit Corporations from interposing the Defense of Usury in any Action.

(12.) SEC. II. The term corporation, as used in this act, shall be construed to include all associations and joint stock companies, having any of the powers and privileges of corporations not possessed by individuals or partnerships.

(13.) SEC. III. This act shall take effect from and after its passage.

PRIOR LAWS. An act regulating the interest of money; approved March 2, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 106.

An act to regulate the interest of money; in force April 2, 1833. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 348.

DECISIONS. The interest, payable on a contract, is merged in the judgment upon such contract; and the rate of interest upon the judgment is controlled by the statute and not by the contract. Mason et al. v. Eakle, Breese, 52.

A party suing here, on a judgment rendered in another State, need not allege in his declaration, that by the laws of the foreign State, interest was recoverable on judgments, in order to recover interest here. Prince v. Lamb, Breese, 298.

Statute interest may be defined to be the legal damage or penalty for the unjust detention of money due. A county is not bound to pay interest on county orders, without an express contract to that effect. Madison County et al. v. Bartlett, 1 S. 67.

Upon an appeal to the circuit court, from the judgment of a justice, rendered on a note bearing interest, interest should be calculated on the note to the time of the judgment in the circuit court, and not on the judgment of the justice. Interest may be calculated at any rate the parties may agree on. Tindall v. Meeker, 1 S. 137.

The words "with three dollars per month interest after due till paid," mean, three dollars per month, and not thirty-six per cent. per annum. Latham v. Darling, 1 S. 203.

When no specific agreement is made as to the rate of interest, the legal rate is intended. Prevo v. Lathrop, 1 S. 305.

Interest is recoverable upon an account for goods sold, from the time the amount is ascertained and liquidated by the parties. On an appeal from a justice, the circuit court may give judgment for more than the amount claimed before the justice, if the excess is interest. Lorton v. Gilliam et al., 1 S. 577.

A defendant cannot avail himself of the statute against usury, without pleading the same, and upon application to the court. Murray v. Crocker, 1 S. 213.

On a note made in another State, interest should be allowed according to our laws, where the laws of the foreign State are not averred, or where it is not alleged that interest is allowed in the foreign State. Forsyth et al. v. Baxter et al., 2 S. 9.

Interest is legally incident to a debt on a note over due, and is given in a judgment, in the form of damages, without being claimed specifically by the pleadings. McConnel v. Thomas, 2 S. 213.

The bona fide purchase of a note, in the usual course of business, at whatever rate of discount, is not usurious, where the original consideration was not usurious. Raplee v. Morgan, 2 S. 561.

To constitute usury, there must be a corrupt agreement, in some way, to take or reserve a greater amount of interest than that allowed by law. If the contract be fair on its face, proof aliunde is admissible, to show the usury, and it is a question of fact for a jury. Under the statute of this State, interest may be reserved in advance without usury. Our statute does not make an usurious contract void. McGill et al. v. Ware, 4 S. 21.

Interest cannot be recovered against a drayman for failing to deliver goods which he undertook to deliver. Douling v. Stewart, 3 S. 193.

The defense of usury is in the nature of a penal action, and the plea should state specifically the amount forborne, the time of forbearance, and how much was paid or agreed to be paid, by way of interest, for the forbearance; and to constitute usury, there must be a borrowing and lending of money, or the forbearance of a pre-existing debt. It is not usury to take money in consideration of postponing a sale decreed in chancery, when the money is applied in part payment of the debt. Hancock v. Hodyson, 3 S. 329.

D., wanting money, conveyed to R. a lot of land, worth $250 or $300, and together with H., at the same time, gave R. a bond with the condition, that if in two years thereafter, R. should re-convey the land to D., then D. and H. should pay R. $1000. Upon the execution of the deed by D. and the bond by D. and H., R. paid D. $500. The whole was one transaction, and held to be usurious. The deed and bond together were merely a mortgage, to secure the money advanced, with illegal interest. Delano et al. v. Rood, 1 G. 690.

If an usurious transaction is attempted to be covered up by a pretended sale, it is indirectly within the statute; and where the purchaser, at the time of sale, reserves the right to return the thing purchased, and then to compel the vendor to repay the consideration, with more than lawful interest, the transaction is usurious. Idem.

The defense of usury cannot be made on the trial of an appeal from a justice, if not made before the justice. Bates v. Bulkley, 2 G. 389.

Upon an assessment of unliquidated damages arising ex contractu, interest is not allowed. Where, under a common agreement of several, to advance or expend money in equal proportions, one advances more than his share, he will be entitled to interest for the excess. Buckmaster v. Grundy et al., 3 G. 626.

In equity, the form of the contract will not prevent the introduction of evidence to sustain the defense of usury, and such evidence may be by parol. Ferguson v. Sutphen, 3 G. 547.

One who has collected money for another, and neglected to pay it over in a reasonable time, is liable for interest. Bedell v. Janney et al., 4 G. 193.

Where a contract, made in another State, and usurious by the laws of that State, is sought to be enforced here, the lex fori will govern, and not the lex loci. Sherman et al. v. Gassett et al., 4 G. 521.

Money extracted by compulsion, or by taking unfair advantage, can be recovered back, with interest. La Salle County v. Simmons, 5 G. 513.

Countries are not liable to pay interest on their contracts, except upon express agreement. Pike County v. Hosford, 11 Ill. 170.

Interest in this State is recoverable only in actions ex contractu, in the cases specified in the statute, where there is an express promise to pay interest, or such promise can be inferred from the circumstances, the particular mode of dealing adopted by the parties, or the usage of their trade. Stennis v. Clark, 13 Ill. 545; Hitt v. Allen, 13 Ill. 592. See also, Clement v. McConnell, 14 Ill. 154.

Interest does not run upon money due on a parol contract, unless there be unreasonable and vexatious delay of payment. Interest is allowed upon money due by written contract, or due on settlement of accounts. Hitt v. Allen, 13 Ill. 592.

Where by the terms of a contract, a party can fulfill it by paying the real, legal amount due, the contract is not usurious. Lawrence v. Coates, 13 Ill. 577.

A note payable "in Baltimore bank notes, with twelve and one half per cent. interest," is not an usurious contract. The risk and hazard of loss in such a case takes the transaction out of the statute; but the risk of death or insolvency would not. A promissory note not originally tainted with usury, may be sold at any discount, without usury. Stevenson v. Unkefer, 14 Ill. 103.

A forwarding and commission merchant is not entitled to interest upon his commission charges for freight money advanced, unless there be an unreasonable and vexatious delay of payment. Kennedy et al. v. Gibbs et al., 15 Ill. 406.

At a public land sale, one agreed with the occupier of the land to bid off his claims as occupant, take the title in his own name, and advance the money necessary, at twenty per cent. per annum: Held, to be a loan, and usurious. Davis et al. v. Hopkins, 15 Ill. 519.

17. Commissioners' court to make allowance for payment of above articles.
18. Penalty for violation of above provisions.
19. Repealing clause; compensation to jailer.
20. Prisoner being unable to pay board and jail fees, and the law making no provision, county to pay. When act shall be in force.

(1.) SECTION I. There shall be kept and maintained, in good and sufficient condition and repair, a common jail in each county within this State, at the permanent seat of justice for such county.

(2.) SEC. II. The sheriff of each county in this State shall have the custody, rule, keeping and charge of the jail within the county, and of all prisoners in such jail, and may appoint a jailer under him, and remove him at pleasure, for whose conduct he shall be responsible.

(3.) SEC. III. It shall be the duty of the sheriff and jailer to receive from constables and other officers, and confine in such jail, all persons who shall be apprehended by such constables, or other officers, for offenses against this State, or who shall be committed to such jail by any competent authority, until discharged by due course of law.

(4.) SEC. IV. It shall not be lawful for any sheriff or jailer, to confine or keep debtors and persons committed for crimes in the same room, but they shall be confined and kept separate and apart from each other.

(5.) SEC. V. Every person who shall be committed to the common jail within any county of this State, by lawful authority, for any crime or misdemeanor, if he or she shall be convicted thereof, shall pay the expenses of arresting and conveying him or her to the said jail, and also of his or her support while in jail, before he or she shall be discharged, and the property of such person shall be subjected to the payment of such expenses from the time of his or her arrest; and all such expenses up to the time of conviction shall be included in the judgment for costs. All expenses incurred for the support of such convicted person after conviction, may be collected by order of the circuit court, from time to time, as occasion may require: Provided, however, That said court may, in their discretion, refuse to make such order, upon being satisfied on the oath of such convicted person, or otherwise, that such convicted person has no property or means of satisfying such expenses for his or her support.

(6.) SEC. VI. Whenever any person committed to jail upon any criminal process, under any law of this State, shall declare on oath or affirmation, in writing, that he or she is unable to buy or procure necessary food, the sheriff or jailer shall provide such prisoner with necessary food, for which he shall be allowed a reasonable compensation, to be ascertained by the county commissioners' court, and paid as other county charges. And if, from the inclemency of the season, the sickness of the prisoner or other cause, the sheriff shall be of opinion that additional clothes or bedding are necessary for such prisoner, and such prisoner shall be unable to obtain or procure the same, the said sheriff shall furnish the same, for the use of such prisoner during his confinement; for which he shall be allowed a just compensation, and paid as aforesaid.

(7.) SEC. VII. Every sheriff and jailer, and other person or persons, whatsoever, to whose custody or keeping any person or persons shall be committed, by virtue of any writ or process, or for any criminal offense, except on conviction of any felonious offense, shall permit and suffer him, her or them so committed, at his, her or their will and pleasure, to send for and have any cider, ale, beer, victuals or other necessary drink or food, from what place and whom they please, and also to have and use such bedding, linen and other things, as he, she or they shall think fit, without detaining the same, or any part thereof, or enforcing or requiring him, her or them to pay for the having or using thereof, or putting any manner of restraint or difficulty upon him, her or them in using thereof, or relating thereto. And it shall be the duty of the grand jury, at each term, or a committee, to consist of at least three members thereof, to visit the jail of their county, and examine the condition thereof, and inquire into the treatment of the prisoners, and make report thereof to the court. And it is hereby made the especial duty of the circuit court, at each term, to inquire and see that all prisoners, civil and criminal, are humanely treated.

(8.) SEC. VIII. All persons convicted of any felonious or other high crime, and sentenced to imprisonment for six months or upwards, shall, for the whole term of their imprisonment, be kept upon inferior, but wholesome food. All spirituous liquors are prohibited to such prisoners unless by the direction of some respectable physician.

(9.) SEC. IX. It shall be the duty of the keeper of the jail, in every county within this State, to receive into his custody any prisoner or prisoners who may be, from time to time, committed to his charge under the authority of the United States, and to keep safely every such prisoner or prisoners, according to the warrant or precept of such commitment, until he or they shall be discharged by due course of the laws of the United States.

(10.) SEC. X. The keeper of every jail aforesaid, shall be subject to the same pains and penalties, for any neglect or failure of duty herein, as he would be subject to, by the laws of this State, for the like neglect or failure in the case of a prisoner committed under the authority of the said laws: Provided, always, That the United States do pay, or cause to be paid, for the use and keeping of such jails, at the rate of fifty cents per month, for each person that shall, under their authority, be committed thereto, and also to the jailer such fees as he would be entitled to for like services rendered, in virtue of the existing laws of this State, during the time such prisoner shall be therein confined; and moreover, do support such of the said prisoners as shall be committed for offenses.

(11.) SEC. XI. Whenever the sheriff of any county in this State shall be of opinion that the jail of his county is insufficient to secure the prisoners that shall be confined therein, it shall be his duty to give notice thereof to the county commissioners' court of such county; and also, whenever any sheriff shall have in his custody any person or persons charged with any capital offense or other high crime against the laws of this State, and the jail of the county shall be insufficient, or if there shall be no jail in his county, he may, by and with the advice and direction of any of the judges of the circuit or supreme court, or of any two justices of the peace of his county, employ a guard sufficient for the guarding and the safe-keeping of such prisoner or prisoners in his own county, the said guard not to exceed, however, in any instance, more than three persons. The expenses of said guard to be audited and paid as other county expenses.

(12.) SEC. XII. It shall be lawful for the sheriff of any county in this State, when there shall happen to be no jail, or when the jail of such county shall be insufficient, to commit any person or persons in his custody, either on civil or criminal process, to the nearest jail of some other county, in the same circuit; and it is hereby made the duty of the sheriff or keeper of the jail of said county, to receive such person or persons so committed as aforesaid, and him, her or them safely keep, subject to the order or orders of the circuit judge for the said circuit.

(13.) SEC. XIII. It shall be the duty of the sheriff so committing any person or persons as aforesaid, for any criminal offense, forthwith to notify the circuit judge for the circuit where such person or persons so committed is or are to be tried, of the committing of such person or persons to the jail of such other county; and transmit at the same time to such circuit judge a copy of the cause of the caption and detention of such person or persons. Whereupon, it shall be the duty of such circuit judge, within fifteen days next preceding the first day of the circuit court of the county, where such person or persons is or are to be tried, to issue a writ or writs of habeas corpus, directed to the sheriff or keeper of the jail of the county where such person or persons is or are committed, commanding him or them to have the body or bodies of such person or persons thus committed, together with the day and cause of his or their caption and detention, before the circuit court of the said county for the trial of such offenses, on the first day of their next term of the said court; and it shall be the duty of the said sheriff or keeper of the jail to bring, or cause to be brought, the said person or persons, thus committed as aforesaid, on the day and at the place mentioned in the said writ. And any sheriff or keeper of the jail as aforesaid, failing or neglecting to make return as aforesaid, and to bring the body or bodies of said person or persons according to the command of the said writ, shall be deemed guilty of a contempt of the said court, and shall be liable to be attached and committed to the jail of the said county, there to remain without bail or mainprize until he shall obey such writ; and shall, moreover, forfeit to the prisoner or party aggrieved, a sum not exceeding five hundred dollars, to be apportioned according to the nature, aggravations and circumstances of the case, and the injury which the party aggrieved may sustain thereby, to be recovered by the prisoner or party aggrieved, in an action on the case founded upon this statute; and the said sheriff or keeper of the jail may also, in the discretion of the said court, be removed from office, and rendered incapable of holding or executing the same thereafter.

The sheriff, for committing any prisoner as aforesaid, or for executing any writ of habeas corpus under this chapter, shall be entitled to the like fees as are provided by law for similar services.

(14.) Sec. XIV. In all cases where a person is committed from another county, for a criminal offense under this chapter, such county or the prisoner shall pay the expenses, in the same manner as if the commitment had been in the county where the offense was committed. And in civil suits, the plaintiff or defendant shall pay the expenses in the same manner as if the imprisonment had taken place in the same county where the suit was commenced.

(15.) Sec. XV. The sheriff may be imprisoned in the jail in his own county; and for the time that he shall be confined within the walls of the prison, the coroner shall have the custody, rule, keeping and charge of the said jail, and shall, by himself and his securities, be answerable for the faithful discharge of his duties in that office.

An Act to amend the Law in relation to Jails and Jailers.

(17.) Sec. II. It shall be the duty of the county commissioners' courts of the several counties in this State, to make such an allowance, from time to time, out of the county treasury, as shall be just and right, for the articles required to be furnished, as is provided for in the first section of this act.

(18.) Sec. III. Any sheriff or jailer who shall fail or refuse to comply with the provisions of the first section of this act, shall be liable to indictment, and, upon conviction thereof, be fined in any sum not exceeding fifty dollars, before any court having jurisdiction of the same.

(19.) Sec. IV. So much of the existing laws as allow sheriffs or jailers thirty-seven and a half cents per day for dieting prisoners, be and the same is hereby repealed; and hereafter the county commissioners' courts, of the several counties in this State, shall make such an allowance therefor, not to exceed thirty-seven cents per day, as they shall deem just and proper.

An Act for the Relief of Certain Officers therein named.

[Approved Feb. 10, 1849. Laws, 1849, (1st Sess.) p. 119.]

provision for such payment, the county where the cause of such imprisonment accrued, shall pay the sheriff of such county his proper fees and charges, including board, accruing by virtue of such imprisonment. This act shall be in force from and after its passage.

See, ante, p. 112, under title "ATTORNEYS AND COUNSELORS AT LAW," "An act for the security of personal liberty."

PRIOR LAWS. An act for the safe-keeping of prisoners; approved March 22, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 160.

An act authorizing and requiring the county commissioners to cause jails to be erected in each and every county within this State; approved March 24, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 237.

An act authorizing the commitment of persons to the jail of another county, arrested in a county where there is not a sufficient jail; approved March 22, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 165.

An act for the safe-keeping of prisoners committed to any jail in this State, under the authority of the United States. Laws, 1821, p. 30.

CHAPTER LVI.

JOINT RIGHTS AND OBLIGATIONS.

SECTION

1. Estate of joint tenants, how to pass: who to be tenants in common, in case of death of any party.

SECTION

2. Penalty for injuring property held in joint tenancy.

3. Joint obligations, how construed.

SECTION I. If partition be not made between joint tenants, the parts of those who die first shall not accrue to the survivor or survivors, but descend or pass by devise, and shall be subject to debts, dower, charges, &c.; or transmissible to executors or administrators, and be considered, to every intent and purpose, in the same view as if such deceased joint tenants had been tenants in common.

SEC. II. If any person shall assume and exercise exclusive ownership over, or take away, destroy, lessen in value, or otherwise injure or abuse any property held in joint tenancy, tenancy in common or co-parcenary, the party aggrieved shall have his action of trespass or trover, for the injury, in the same manner as he would have if such joint tenancy, tenancy in common, or co-parcenary, did not exist.

SEC. III. All joint obligations and covenants shall hereafter be taken and held to be joint and several obligations and covenants.

PRIOR LAWS. An act concerning partitions, and joint rights and obligations; in force Jan. 13 1821. Laws, 1821, p. 14; Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 473.

(1.) SECTION I. All and singular the goods and chattels, lands, tenements and real estate of every person against whom any judgment has been or hereafter shall be obtained, in any court of record, either at law or in equity, for any debt, damages, costs or any other sum of money, shall be liable to be sold upon execution to be issued upon such judgment, and the said judgment shall be a lien on such lands, tenements and real estate, from the last day of the term of the court in which the same may be rendered, for the period of seven years: Provided, That execution be issued at any time within one year on such judgment, and from and after the said seven years, the same shall cease to be a lien on any real estate, as against bona fide purchasers, or subsequent incumbrances by mortgage, judgment or otherwise: Provided, That in case the party in whose favor any such judgment shall have been entered, shall be restrained by injunction out of chancery, or order of any judge or court, either from issuing execution or selling thereon, the time which he shall be so restrained shall not be deemed or considered as any part of the said seven years. The term "real estate" in this section shall be construed to include all interest of the defendant, or any person to his use, held or claimed by virtue of any deed, bond, covenant or otherwise, for a conveyance, or as mortgagee or mortgagor of lands in fee, for life or for years.

(2.) SEC. II. When any judgment shall have become a lien as aforesaid, and the defendant happen to die before execution shall have been issued thereon, the remedy of the person in whose favor the said judgment shall have been rendered, shall not be delayed or suspended by reason of the non-age of any heir or heirs of such defendant; but no execution shall issue upon such judgment, until the expiration of one year after the death of such defendant; nor shall any previous law of this State, which gives no preference to the claims of a creditor of a deceased debtor, be so construed as to impair or affect the lien of any judgment as aforesaid.

(3.) SEC. III. The legal holder or holders by record of any certificate of purchase of lands from the United States, shall be deemed to be within the true intent and meaning of this chapter.

(4.) SEC. IV. In all executions to be issued upon judgments hereafter to be recovered upon contracts, either express or implied, it shall be lawful to direct the collection of interest on the said judgment from the time of recovering the same until paid, at the rate of six per centum per annum.

(5.) SEC. V. It shall be lawful for the party in whose favor any judgment as aforesaid may be obtained, to have execution in the usual form, directed to any county in this State, against the goods, chattels, lands and tenements of such party defendant, or upon his body, when the same is authorized by law, provided that no execution shall issue against the body of such debtor, except as is provided in chapter fifty-two of the Revised Statutes.

(6.) SEC. VI. Nothing herein shall restrain or prevent any execution from being issued against the body of any defendant, where the judgment shall have been obtained for a tort or trespass committed by such defendant.

(7.) SEC. VII. No execution shall be issued against the body, or against the goods, chattels, lands and tenements of any heir, executor or administrator, unless such person shall have made his estate liable to the same debt by false pleading or otherwise.

(8.) SEC. VIII. All executions shall be made returnable ninety days after date, and no writ of execution shall bind the property of the goods and chattels of any person against whom such writ shall be issued, until such writ shall be delivered to the sheriff or other officer, to be executed; and for the better manifestation of the said time, the sheriff or other officer shall, on the receipt of every such writ, indorse upon the back thereof, the hour, day of the month and year, when he received the same.

(9.) SEC. IX. The plaintiff in execution may elect on what property he will have the same levied, except the land on which the defendant resides, and his personal property, which shall be last taken in execution, excepting and reserving, however, to the defendant in execution, such property as is or may be by law exempt from execution.

(10.) SEC. X. When any property, real or personal, shall be taken in execution, if such property is susceptible of division, it shall be sold in such quantities as may be necessary to satisfy such execution and costs.

(11.) SEC. XI. No lands or tenements shall be sold by virtue of any execution aforesaid, unless such sale be at public vendue, and between the hours of nine in the morning and the setting of the sun of the same day, nor unless the time and place of holding such sale shall have been previously advertised, for the space of twenty days, by putting up written or printed notices thereof, in at least three of the most public places in the county where the lands may be situated, specifying the name of the plaintiff and defendant in the execution, and in all which notices the lands or tenements to be sold shall be described with reasonable certainty, by setting forth their number, or by some other appropriate description; and if any sheriff or other officer shall sell any lands or tenements by virtue of any such execution, otherwise than in the manner aforesaid, or without such previous notice, the sheriff or other officer so offending, shall, for every such offense, forfeit and pay the sum of fifty dollars, to be recovered with costs of suit, in any court of record in this State, by the person whose lands may have been advertised for sale: Provided, however, That no such offense, nor any irregularity on the part of the sheriff or other officer having the execution, shall be deemed to affect the validity of any sale made under it, unless it shall be made to appear that the purchaser had notice of such irregularity.

(12.) SEC. XII. Whenever any lands or tenements shall be sold by virtue of any execution, it shall be the duty of the sheriff or other officer, instead of executing a deed for the premises sold, to give to the purchaser or purchasers of such lands or tenements, a certificate in writing, describing the lands or tenements purchased, and the sum paid therefor; or, if purchased by the plaintiff in the execution, the amount of his bid, and the time when the purchaser will be entitled to a deed for such lands or tenements, unless the same shall be redeemed, as is provided in this chapter; and such sheriff or other officer shall, within ten days from such sale, file in the office of the recorder of the county a duplicate of such certificate, signed by him; and such certificate, or a certified copy thereof, shall be taken and deemed evidence of the facts therein contained.

(13.) SEC. XIII. It shall be lawful for any defendant, his heirs, executors, administrators or grantees, whose lands or tenements shall be sold by virtue of any execution, within twelve months from such sale, to redeem such lands or tenements, by paying to the purchaser thereof, his executors, administrators or assigns, or to the sheriff or other officer who sold the same, for the benefit of such purchaser, the sum of money which may have been paid on the purchase thereof, or the amount given or bid, if purchased by the plaintiff in the execution, together with interest thereon at the rate of ten per centum from the time of such sale; and on such sum being paid as aforesaid, the said sale and the certificate thereupon granted shall be null and void.

(14.) SEC. XIV. After the expiration of twelve months, and at any time before the expiration of fifteen months, from the sale of any lands or tenements under the provisions of the preceding sections hereof, it shall be lawful for any judgment creditor to redeem the same in the manner following: Such judgment creditor shall sue out an execution upon his judgment, and place the same in the hands of the proper officer to execute the same, and thereupon said officer shall indorse upon the back of said execution a levy upon the land or tenements which said judgment creditor may wish to redeem; and said judgment creditor shall pay to said officer in whose hands he shall have placed his execution as aforesaid, the amount of money for which said premises shall have been sold, with ten per centum per annum interest thereon, from the date of such sale, for the use of the purchaser thereof, his executors, administrators or assigns, upon payment of which, said officer shall file, in the recorder's office of the county in which said lands are situated, a certificate of the redemption thereof by said judgment creditor under said execution, and shall advertise and offer the same for sale under and by virtue of said execution, in the same manner that other lands are required to be advertised and exposed to sale on execution in other cases.

(15.) SEC. XV. Any judgment creditor, having so redeemed such lands, shall be considered as having bid at such sale the amount of said redemption money so paid by him, and interest thereon from the date of such redemption to the day of sale; and if no bid greater than said amount shall be offered, the lands shall be struck off and sold to such judgment creditor or creditors, and a deed thereof shall forthwith be executed by such officer to such creditor or creditors, and no other redemption shall be allowed; but if another and higher bid shall be made therefor, and the said lands sold for more than the amount of said redemption money and interest as last aforesaid, the excess over and above the amount of the same, shall be applied as a credit on the execution under which the redemption shall have been made, and a certificate of purchase shall be executed to the new purchaser in the manner hereinbefore prescribed, for a deed of said land so sold within sixty days from the date of such sale, unless the same shall be redeemed in the meantime in the manner herein prescribed by some other judgment creditor; and if said lands shall be redeemed from said second purchaser, the same shall be done in the same manner and upon the same terms, and the officer shall proceed in the same mode to offer the said lands for sale as is hereinbefore required in the case of the first redemption; and such lands may be successively redeemed within every period of sixty days, so long as there shall be a judgment creditor disposed to redeem the same, on the terms and in the manner aforesaid; and after the lapse of any period of sixty days without redemption, it shall be the duty of the officer who last sold such lands on the execution under which the same shall have been last redeemed, or his successor in office, to execute a deed for the lands so sold to the last purchaser, in like manner as other deeds for lands sold on execution are made.

(16.) SEC. XVI. Any judgment creditor or creditors may redeem the whole or any part or portion of the lands or tenements previously sold upon execution: Provided, Such redemption shall be made in the like distinct quantities or parcels in which the same were sold.

(17.) SEC. XVII. No commission upon the amount of the redemption money paid in any case shall be allowed to the officer receiving the same, but the usual commission shall be allowed the officer selling said premises on the excess made over and above the amount of said redemption money and interest. The duplicate copy of the certificate of purchase required in the twelfth section hereof, shall be filed in the office of the recorder of the county in which the lands so sold under execution shall be situated.

(18.) SEC. XVIII. Every certificate which shall be given by any officer to any purchaser under the provisions of this chapter, shall be assignable by indorsement thereon, under the hand of such purchaser or purchasers, his, her or their heirs, executors, administrators or assigns; and every person to whom the same shall be so assigned, shall be entitled to the same benefits therefrom in every respect that the person therein named would have been, if the same had not been assigned, and, in case the lands mentioned in such certificate shall not be redeemed in pursuance of law, shall be entitled to a deed therefor.

(19.) SEC. XIX. The deed to be executed by the officer to the purchaser under the provisions of this chapter, shall contain a statement of the judgment upon which the lands therein described were sold, and of the date of the execution, and may be in the following form:

"Whereas, A. B. did, at the term of the circuit court for the county of _____, (as the case may be,) recover a judgment against C. D., for the sum of _____, and costs of suit, upon which judgment an execution was issued, dated on the _____ day of _____, A. D. 18____, directed to _____ to execute, and by virtue of said execution the said _____ levied upon the lands hereinafter described, and the same were struck off and sold to _____, he being the highest and best bidder therefor, and the time and place of the sale thereof having been duly advertised according to law:

Now, therefore, know all by this deed, that I, _____, of said county of _____, in consideration of the premises, have granted, bargained and sold, and do hereby convey to the said _____, his (her or their) heirs and assigns, the following described tract or tracts of land: (here describe the lands,) to have and to hold the said described premises, with all the appurtenances thereto belonging, to the said _____, his heirs and assigns forever.

Witness my hand and seal this _____ day of _____, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and _____.

(20.) SEC. XX. If the purchaser shall have assigned his certificate of purchase, then there may be inserted after the word "law" in the foregoing form, in substance as follows: "And the said _____, having duly assigned his certificate of purchase to," (as the case may be.)

(21.) SEC. XXI. Any deed so executed shall be evidence that the provisions of the law in relation to sales of lands upon execution were complied with until the contrary shall be shown, and such deed shall be considered as conveying to the grantee therein named, all the title, estate and interest of the defendant or defendants in the execution therein named, in and to the lands thereby conveyed, of whatsoever nature the same may be; but such deed shall not be construed to contain any covenant upon the part of the officer executing the same.

(22.) SEC. XXII. If such lands or tenements so sold, shall not be redeemed as aforesaid, either by the defendant or by such creditor as aforesaid, within fifteen months from the time of such sale, it shall be the duty of the sheriff or other officer, who sold the same, or his successor in office, or his executors or administrators, to complete such sale by executing a deed to the purchaser; and if any creditor shall redeem such lands or tenements as aforesaid, it shall be the duty of the sheriff, or other officer, on the expiration of fifteen months from the time of such sale, to execute a deed to such creditor as the original purchaser; and such deeds shall be as valid and effectual in law, as if such creditor had been the original purchaser.

(23.) SEC. XXIII. If default be made in the payment of any sum of money, secured by mortgage on lands and tenements, duly executed and recorded, and if the payment be by installments, and the last shall have become due, it shall be lawful for the mortgagee, his executors or administrators, to sue out a writ of scire facias from the clerk's office of the circuit court of the county in which the said mortgaged premises may be situated, or any part thereof, directed to the sheriff or other proper officer of such county, requiring him to make known to the mortgagor, or if he be dead, to his heirs, executors or administrators, to show cause, if any they have, why judgment should not be rendered for such sum of money as may be due by virtue of said mortgage; and upon the appearance of the party named as a defendant in said writ of scire facias, the court may proceed to judgment, as in other cases; but if said scire facias be returned nihil, or that the defendant is not found, an alias scire facias may be issued; and if it be returned as aforesaid, or if the defendant appear and plead, or make default, the court may proceed to give judgment with costs, for such sum as may be due by said mortgagee, or appear to be due by the pleadings, or after the defense, if any be made; and also, that said mortgaged premises be sold to satisfy such judgment, and may award or direct a special writ of feri facias, for that purpose, to the county or counties in which said mortgaged premises may be situate, and on which the like proceedings may be had, as in other cases of execution levied upon real estate: Provided, however, That the judgment aforesaid shall create no lien on any other lands or tenements than the mortgaged premises, nor shall any other real or personal property of the mortgagor be liable to satisfy the same; but nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to affect any collateral security given by the mortgagor, for the payment of the same sum of money or any part thereof, secured by the mortgage deed.

(24.) SEC. XXIV. In all cases hereafter, where lands shall be sold under and by virtue of any decree of a court of equity, for the sale of mortgaged lands, it shall be lawful for the mortgagor of such lands, his heirs, executors, administrators or grantors, to redeem the same in the manner prescribed in this chapter, for the redemption of lands sold by virtue of executions issued upon judgments at common law, and judgment creditors may redeem lands sold under any such decree in the same manner as is prescribed for the redemption of lands in like manner sold upon executions issued upon judgments at common law.

(25.) SEC. XXV. When a writ of attachment or a writ of execution is issued from the circuit court of one county, to any sheriff or other officer of another county, and levied upon any real estate in such county, it shall be the duty of the officer making such levy, to make a certificate thereof, and file the same in the recorder's office of the county where such real estate is situated; and until the filing of such certificate, such levy shall not take effect as to creditors or bona fide purchasers without notice.

(26.) SEC. XXVI. When a writ of attachment is levied upon any real estate, in any case, it shall be the duty of the officer making the levy, to file a certificate of such fact with the recorder of the county where such land is situated; and from and after the filing of the same, such levy shall take effect as to creditors and bona fide purchasers without notice, and not before.

(27.) SEC. XXVII. It shall be the duty of the recorder of the proper county, to file and record the certificates mentioned in the foregoing sections, in a book to be kept for that purpose; for which he shall be entitled to receive the same fees as for recording other papers, to be paid by the plaintiff in such execution or attachment, and be taxed and collected by the sheriff as other costs.

(28.) SEC. XXVIII. Such certificate may be in substance in the following form:

"STATE OF ILLINOIS, }
County, } ss. I do hereby certify that by virtue of a certain writ of _____ to me directed, from the circuit court of _____ county, in favor of _____, against _____, dated _____ day of _____, 18—, I did, on this _____ day of _____, 18—, levy upon the following real estate: (here describe it.)

A. B.,
Sheriff (or coroner, as the case may be,) of _____ county."

(29.) SEC. XXIX. No goods or chattels shall be sold by virtue of any execution aforesaid, unless previous notice of such sale shall have been given, for at least ten days successively, by putting up written or printed notices thereof, in three of the most public places in the county where such sale is to be, specifying the time and place where such goods and chattels are to be sold.

(30.) SEC. XXX. Whenever a sheriff or other officer shall have levied an execution, issued out of any court of record, upon the personal property of a defendant, or shall be about to make such levy, and the defendant be desirous of retaining the same in his possession, such sheriff shall take a bond from such defendant, with security that the property shall be forthcoming or delivered, at such time and place as shall be named in the condition, and that the same shall not be disposed of nor injured, and a bond so taken shall not be considered void, as taken by color of office.

(31.) SEC. XXXI. Where bonds shall be taken by a sheriff, for the forthcoming and delivery of property, and the defendant or his security shall not return the property named in the said bond conformably to the condition thereof, the officer having such execution, may proceed to execute the same in the same manner as if no levy had been made; and in case the defendant's property, or a sufficiency thereof, cannot be found, the officer may proceed to levy on so much of the property of the security in the delivery bond as will make the amount called for in such bond, and the property which may be so taken, may be sold by giving notice thereof, as prescribed in section twenty-nine of this chapter, and no future delivery bond shall be allowed.

(32.) SEC. XXXII. The necessary wearing apparel of every person shall be exempt from execution, writ of attachment and distress for rent.

(33.) SEC. XXXIII. The following property, when owned by any person being the head of a family and residing with the same, shall be exempt from levy and sale on any execution, writ of attachment, or distress for rent; and such articles of property shall continue so exempt while the family of such person, or any of them, are removing from one place of residence to another in this State, viz.: 1st, necessary beds, bedsteads and bedding; the necessary utensils for cooking; necessary household furniture, not exceeding in value fifteen dollars; one pair of cards, two spinning wheels, one weaving loom and appendage; one stove and the necessary pipe therefor, being in use, or put up for ready use, in any house occupied by such family; 2nd, one milch cow and calf, two sheep for each member of the family, and the fleeces taken from the same, or the fleeces of two sheep for each member of a family which may have been purchased by any debtor not owning sheep, and the yarn and cloth that may be manufactured from the same, and sixty dollars' worth of property, suited to his or her condition or occupation in life, to be selected by the debtor; 3rd, necessary provisions and fuel for the use of the family for three months, and necessary food for the stock hereinbefore exempted from sale, or that may be held under the provisions of this chapter.

(34.) SEC. XXXIV. Whenever, in any case, the head of a family shall die, desert, or cease to reside with the same, the said family shall be entitled to, and receive all the benefits and privileges which are in this chapter conferred upon the head of a family residing with the same.

(35.) SEC. XXXV. If any officer, by virtue of any execution or other process, or any other person, by any right of distress, shall take or seize any of the articles of property hereinbefore exempted from levy and sale, such officer or person shall be liable to the party injured for three times the value of the property illegally taken or seized, to be recovered by action of trespass, with costs of suit.

(36.) SEC. XXXVI. Nothing contained in this chapter shall apply to judgments rendered and executions issued by justices of the peace, excepting such as relate to executions levied upon personal property.

(37.) SEC. XXXVII. Whenever a judgment has been or may hereafter be obtained in any court of record of this State, against any person or persons, who has or shall after the rendition of said judgment, die, it shall be lawful for execution to issue against the lands and tenements of said deceased person or persons, without first reviving the judgment against their heirs or legal representatives: Provided, however, The plaintiff or plaintiffs in execution, or his or their attorney, shall give to the executor or administrator, if there be any, of said deceased person or persons, at least three months' notice in writing, of the existence of said judgment before the issuing of execution: And provided, further, That no execution shall issue until after the expiration of twelve months from the death of such deceased person or persons.

(38.) SEC. XXXVIII. Whenever a judgment shall be rendered by any court of record, or any justice of the peace, in this State, and an execution against the defendant or defendants in said judgment shall be returned by the proper officer, "no property found," on the affidavit of the plaintiff, or other credible person, being made before the clerk of said court, or justice of the peace, that said defendant or defendants have no property within the knowledge of said affiant, in his or their possession, liable to execution; and that such affiant hath just reason to believe that another person or persons is or are indebted to such defendant or defendants, or hath or have any effects or estate of such defendant or defendants in his or their hands, it shall be lawful for said court or justice of the peace, to cause the person or persons supposed to be indebted to, or supposed to have any of the effects or estate of the said defendant or defendants, to be summoned forthwith to appear before said court or justice, as a garnishee or garnishees; and said court or justice of the peace shall examine and proceed against such garnishee or garnishees, in the same manner as is required by law against garnishees in original attachments.

(39.) SEC. XXXIX. No proceedings against a garnishee or garnishees shall be quashed or set aside, or said garnishee or garnishees discharged on account of any insufficiency of the original affidavit or summons, if the plaintiff or plaintiffs, or other credible person for him, shall cause a legal and sufficient affidavit to be filed, or the summons to be amended in such time and manner as the courts or justices of the peace shall, respectively, in their discretion direct; and in that event, the cause shall proceed as if such proceedings had originally been sufficient.

(40.) SEC. XL. The collection of the judgments of courts of record shall not be delayed or hindered by the death of the plaintiff or person in whose name the judgment shall exist; but the executor or administrator, as the case may be, may cause the letters testamentary or of administration to be recorded in the court in which the judgment exists; after which, execution may issue and proceedings be had thereon in the name of the executor or administrator, as such, in the same manner that could or might be done or had, if the judgment exists and remains in the name and in favor of the executors or administrators, in his, her or their capacity as such executor or administrator.

(41.) SEC. XLI. The lien created by law on property shall not abate or cease by reason of the death of any plaintiff or plaintiffs; but the same shall survive in favor of the executor or administrator of the testator or intestate, whose duty it shall be to have the judgment enforced in manner aforesaid.

(42.) SEC. XLII. When it shall be necessary in order to secure the collection of any judgment in favor of any executor or administrator, it shall be the duty of such executor or administrator to bid for and become the purchaser of real estate at sheriff's sale; which real estate so purchased shall be assets in his hands, and may be again sold by him upon the order of the court of probate, and the moneys arising from such sale paid over and accounted for as other moneys in his hands.

(43.) SEC. XLIII. Nothing contained in this chapter shall be construed so as to repeal or affect in anywise the operation of an act entitled "An act regulating the sale of property on judgments and executions," approved January 6, 1843.

An Act to exempt Homesteads from Sale on Execution.

(45.) SEC. II. But no property shall, by virtue of this act, be exempt from sale for non-payment of taxes on assessments, or for a debt or liability incurred for the purchase or improvement thereof.

(46.) SEC. III. If, in the opinion of the creditors or officer holding an execution against such householder, the premises claimed by him or her as exempt are worth more than one thousand dollars, such officer shall summon six qualified jurors of his county, who shall, upon oath, to be administered to them by the officer, appraise said premises, and if, in their opinion, the property may be divided without injury to the interest of the parties, they shall set off so much of said premises, including the dwelling-house, as in their opinion shall be worth one thousand dollars, and the residue of said premises may be advertised and sold by such officer.

(47.) SEC. IV. In case the value of the premises shall, in the opinion of the jury, be more than one thousand dollars, and cannot be divided as is provided for in this act, they shall make and sign an appraisal of the value thereof, and deliver the same to the officer, who shall deliver a copy thereof to the execution debtor, or to some one of the family of suitable age to understand the nature thereof, with a notice thereto attached, that unless the execution debtor shall pay to said officer the surplus over and above the one thousand dollars, on the amount due on said execution, within sixty days thereafter, that such premises will be sold.

(48.) SEC. V. In case such surplus, or the amount due on said execution, shall not be paid within the said sixty days, it shall be lawful for the officer to advertise and sell the said premises, and out of the proceeds of such sale to pay to such execution debtor the said sum of one thousand dollars, which shall be exempt from execution for one year thereafter, and apply the balance on such execution: Provided, That no sale shall be made unless a greater sum than one thousand dollars shall be bid therefor; in which case the officer may return the execution for the want of property.

(49.) SEC. VI. The costs and expenses of setting off such homestead, as provided herein, shall be charged and included in the officer's bill of costs upon such execution.

(50.) SEC. VII. This act shall take effect on the fourth day of July, A. D. 1851.

An Act to amend Chapter LVII, of the Revised Statutes, entitled "Judgments and Executions."

(52.) SEC. II. In all cases of redemption of land from sale had under any attachment, judgment, order or decree, or proceeding thereunder, it shall be the duty of the purchaser, sheriff, master in chancery, or other officer or person from whom said redemption takes place, to make out an instrument in writing, under his hand and seal, evidencing said redemption, which shall be recorded in the recorder's office of the proper county, in manner as other writings affecting the title to real estate are filed and recorded, and which recording shall be paid for by the party redeeming.

An act regulating the sale of property; in force Feb. 27, 1841. R. E. S., p. 343. Repealed Jan. 6, 1843.

An act entitled "An act regulating the sale of property on judgments and executions;" in force Jan. 6, 1843. R. E. S., p. 344.

An act in relation to judgments and executions; in force Feb. 25, 1843. R. E. S., p. 349.

DECISIONS. A motion to quash an execution should not be entertained by the circuit court without notice to the opposite party. Dazey v. Orr, 1 S. 535.

A scire facias on a mortgage is a proceeding in rem., and the judgment should be for the sale of the mortgaged premises. Marshall v. Maury, 1 S. 231.

A judgment is a lien upon real estate in the county in which it is rendered, from the time of its rendition for seven years; such judgment is no lien beyond the limits of the county in which it is rendered. Robinson v. Harlan, 1 S. 237.

A judgment by default is irregular unless it appears, by the return of the process, when and on whom it was served. Garrett v. Phelps, 1 S. 331.

On the trial of the right of property, where there is a judgment, the execution may be directed to any constable. Harrison v. Singleton, 2 S. 21.

A variance between a first writ of execution and an alias or pluries is not material, the additional costs on each writ being properly added to each subsequent one. Bryon et al. v. Smith et al., 2 S. 49.

A motion to quash an execution issued from the Madison circuit court, on a judgment rendered in the municipal court of the city of Alton, at January term, 1839; Overruled. Mason v. Finch, 2 S. 223.

An execution may be issued at any time, after several years have elapsed, provided the first execution was issued within a year and a day from the rendition of the judgment. Lampsett v. Whitney, 2 S. 442.

Neither lands, nor other property of deceased persons, can be reached by execution. Greenwood v. Spiller, 2 S. 504.

No judgment can be rendered against a defendant, not served with process, and who does not appear. Merriwether v. Smith, 2 S. 31; Ogden v. Bowen et al., 2 S. 34; Hacey v. McCoupin County, 2 S. 36; Rider v. Alleyne, 2 S. 475; Rutton et al. v. Stone et al., 3 S. 541; Smith v. Byrd, 2 G. 412.

The judgments and proceedings of a court, held at a time unauthorized by law, are wholly void. Galusha v. Butterfield et al., 2 S. 227.

Where more than a year and a day has elapsed since the rendition of a judgment in the circuit court, and no execution has been issued, the clerk of the court will be justified in refusing to issue an execution. People v. Peck, 3 S. 118.

A sale on an execution, after a judge's order staying proceedings, is not a nullity, nor can such sale be questioned in a collateral proceeding. Sveigart et al. v. Harber et al., 4 S. 371.

A circuit court cannot, in a suit against an administrator, render judgment against the lands of the intestate. Turney v. Yates, 12 Ill. 141; McDowell v. Wright, 4 S. 403.

Where an execution is issued, directed to the sheriff of one county, and delivered to and served by the sheriff of another county, the proceedings by the sheriff of such latter county are void. Bybee v. Ashby, 2 G. 151.

A debtor desiring to reserve property exempt from execution, should select the same before a levy is made, if duly notified; if not, he may make the selection at any time before sale. The notice to the officer need not be in writing. McClusky v. McNeely, 3 G. 578.

The debtor is entitled to notice although he may reside in a different county from that where the levy is made. Idem.

Where such debtor has less property than the law allows him, he is entitled to all that he has. Idem.

When a party proceeds by scire facias to foreclose a mortgage, he cannot afterwards resort to chancery for the same purpose; the remedies are concurrent. State Bank v. Wilson, 4 G. 57.

Upon a sci. fa. to foreclose a mortgage, the judgment is in rem., and binds the mortgaged premises only; a purchaser under such judgment acquires all the right that the mortgagor had at the time of the mortgage. Idem. Woodbury v. Manlove et al., 14 Ill. 213.

A judgment in the circuit court is a lien on land owned by the defendant, claiming under a certificate of entry and purchase from the United States; and such lien will not be divested by an assignment of the certificate. Rodgers v. Brent, 5 G. 573.

If a plaintiff fails to sue out his execution within a year and a day, his lien will be lost where the defendant has died since the judgment. Turney v. Gates, 12 Ill. 141.

An execution becomes a lien on personal property from the time of its delivery to a constable; a subsequent sale will not affect the rights of the plaintiff. Marshall v. Cunningham et al., 13 Ill. 20.

If a creditor who has two judgments, sells on one, and the same year sells again on the second judgment, a judgment creditor who redeems from the first sale, will hold the property. Merry v. Bestwick, 13 Ill. 398.

One who obtains a judgment at any time within fifteen months after the sale of real estate on execution, is entitled to redeem from such sale. Phillips v. Demoss et al., 14 Ill. 410.

On a scire facias to foreclose a mortgage, the defendant cannot plead a failure, or want of consideration, or set-off. Woodbury v. Manlove et al., 14 Ill. 213.

The only defenses that can be interposed, are such as show that the mortgage was invalid as a lien, or that it has been discharged or released. Idem.

The owner of an equity of redemption may redeem from a sale of mortgaged premises made under a decree in chancery, where such owner was not made a party to the suit. Bradley v. Snyder et al., 14 Ill. 263.

To affect this redemption he must pay the whole principal and interest due on the mortgage, and not the sum for which the premises were sold. Idem.

An execution cannot be levied upon a hope or probability that money may, upon the happening of some future event, become due and payable to the defendant. Baker v. Copenbarger et al., 15 Ill. 103.

Where it is practicable, a sheriff, before he levies an execution, should give notice to the defendant: if he claims that his land or personal estate is exempt from execution, he should give notice of this fact to the sheriff, and furnish the officer with a description of his property liable to sale; if he neglects to do this, he will have waived his rights. Bingham v. Maxcy, 15 Ill. 290.

If a plaintiff dies after judgment, his personal representatives, upon recording in court letters testamentary, or of administration, may sue out an execution in his name. Brown v. Parker, 15 Ill. 307.

If an execution is issued after the death of the plaintiff, without reviving the judgment, or recording the letters testamentary or of administration, all proceedings under it will be void. Idem.

(1.) SECTION I. All free white male taxable inhabitants in any of the counties in this State, being natural born citizens of the United States, or naturalized according to the constitution and laws of the United States, and of this State, between the ages of twenty-one and sixty years, not being judges of the supreme or circuit court, county commissioners, judges of probate, clerks of the circuit or county commissioners' court, sheriffs, coroners, postmasters, licensed attorneys, overseers of the highway, or occupiers of mills, ferries, toll-bridges or turnpike roads, being of sound mind and discretion, and not subject to any bodily infirmity, amounting to a disability, shall be considered and deemed as competent persons, (except in cases where legal disabilities may be imposed for the commission of some criminal offense,) to serve on all grand and petit juries, in and for the bodies of their counties respectively.

(2.) SEC. II. It shall be the duty of the county commissioners' court in each of the counties in this State, wherein a circuit court is directed to be holden, at least twenty days before the sitting of such court, to select twenty-three persons, possessing the qualifications aforesaid, and as nearly as may be a proportionate number from each township in their respective counties, and to cause their clerk, within five days thereafter, to issue and deliver to the sheriff, or if there be no sheriff, or he be disqualified, then to the coroner of the county wherein the court is to be held, a summons, commanding him to summon the persons so selected as aforesaid, to appear before the said court, at or before the hour of eleven o'clock, A. M., on the first day of the term thereof, to serve as grand jurors, any sixteen of whom shall be sufficient to constitute a grand jury; which said summons shall be served at least five days before the sitting of the court, either by reading it to the person to be summoned, or by leaving an attested copy thereof at his last usual place of abode.

(3.) SEC. III. After the grand jury is impaneled, it shall be the duty of the court to appoint a foreman, who shall have power to swear or affirm witnesses to testify before them; and whose duty it shall be, when the grand jury, or any twelve of them, find a bill of indictment to be supported by good and sufficient evidence, to indorse thereon "a true bill;" and when they do not find a bill to be supported by sufficient evidence, to indorse thereon "not a true bill;" and shall, in either case, sign his name as foreman, at the foot of said indorsement; and shall also, in each case in which a true bill shall be returned into court as aforesaid, note thereon the name or names of the witness or witnesses upon whose evidence the same shall have been found.

(4.) SEC. IV. Before the grand jury shall enter upon the discharge of their duties, the following oath shall be administered to the foreman, to wit:

"You, as foreman of this inquest, do solemnly swear, (or affirm, as the case may be,) that you will diligently inquire into, and true presentment make, of all such matters and things as shall be given you in charge, or shall otherwise come to your knowledge touching the present service; you shall present no person through malice, hatred or ill will; nor shall you leave any unpresented through fear, favor or affection, or for any fee or reward, or for any hope or promise thereof; but in all your presentments, you shall present the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, according to the best of your skill and understanding: So help you God."

And the following oath or affirmation shall be administered to the other jurors, to wit:

"The same oath that A. B., your foreman, has just taken before you on his part, you and each of you shall well and truly keep and observe on your respective parts: So help you God."

(5.) SEC. V. No grand jury shall make presentments of their own knowledge, upon the information of a less number than two of their own body, unless the juror giving the information is previously sworn as a witness, in which case, if the evidence shall be deemed sufficient, an indictment may be found thereon, in like manner as upon the evidence of any other witness who may not be of the jury.

(6.) SEC. VI. It shall also be the duty of the county commissioners' court in each of the counties of this State, wherein a circuit court is directed to be held as aforesaid, at least twenty days before the sitting of such court as aforesaid, to select twenty-four persons possessing the qualifications aforesaid, who shall compose and constitute two full petit juries, to serve as such at the next succeeding term of the circuit court, in each county respectively, to be summoned in like manner as is hereinbefore directed in the case of grand juries.

(7.) SEC. VII. The county commissioners' courts of the several counties in which the circuit courts are allowed to sit two weeks, are authorized to select forty-eight qualified jurymen, to serve as petit jurors during the term of the circuit court, twenty-four of whom shall be selected to serve during the first week of the court, and summoned to attend on the first day of the term; and twenty-four shall be selected to serve during the second week of the term, and summoned to attend on the second Monday of the term.

(8.) SEC. VIII. It shall be the duty of the clerk of the circuit court at the commencement of each term, to write the name of each petit juror on a separate ticket, and put the whole into a box or other place for safe-keeping; and as often as it shall be necessary to impanel a jury, the clerk, sheriff or coroner shall, in the presence of the court, draw by chance, twelve names out of such box or other place, which shall designate the twelve to be sworn on the jury, and in the same manner for the second jury, in their turn, as the court may, from time to time, order and direct.

(9.) SEC. IX. In all cases where any sheriff or other officer shall be commanded to execute any summons as aforesaid, he shall be required to make return thereof on or before the return day to the clerk who may have issued the same, with an indorsement thereon, certifying on whom it has been executed, and the time when; and in default of so doing, such sheriff or other officer shall be considered as guilty of a contempt, and may be fined for the use of the proper county, in any sum not less than ten, nor more than fifty dollars, unless such sheriff or other officer shall seasonably make his excuse, to the satisfaction and acceptance of the court.

(10.) SEC. X. If a sufficient number of grand or petit jurors, when selected and summoned as aforesaid, shall not appear, or if by reason of challenges, or any other cause, there shall not be a sufficient number of qualified persons to make up the panel, the court may order the sheriff to return, without delay, such number of good and lawful men of the county as may be necessary for that purpose; and when the sheriff is interested, or related to either of the parties, the court may direct the coroner to make such return; and if any circuit court should, at any time, sit before the county commissioners' court shall have made a selection of grand or petit jurors as aforesaid, or if, on any account, the whole panel in either case shall fail to attend, the court may order the sheriff or other officer to summon from the bystanders, being qualified persons as aforesaid, a sufficient number to supply such deficiency, who shall continue to serve for the remainder of the term, unless they shall be sooner discharged by the court.

(11.) SEC. XI. Every person who shall fail to attend, when lawfully summoned to appear as a grand or petit juror as aforesaid, without having a reasonable excuse, shall be considered as guilty of a contempt, and shall be fined by the courts respectively, in any sum not less than five nor more than twenty dollars, for the use of the proper county, unless good cause be shown for such default, at or before the next term of such court; and it shall be the duty of the clerk to issue a summons against all such delinquents (where such persons shall not come in without process,) to show cause at the next succeeding term of such court, why he or they should not be fined for such contempt; at which, or any subsequent term, the court shall proceed to assess said fine, unless the person or persons so summoned and failing to attend as aforesaid, shall appear and show good cause for such delinquency: Provided, That the oath or affirmation of any such delinquent shall, at all times, be received as competent evidence in his favor.

(12.) SEC. XII. In case of the death, sickness or non-attendance of any grand or petit juror after he shall have been sworn upon the jury, or where any such juror as aforesaid, after being sworn as aforesaid, shall, for any reasonable cause, be dismissed or discharged, it shall be lawful for the court to cause others, if necessary, to be summoned and sworn in his or their stead.

(13.) SEC. XIII. Whenever a failure takes place to hold a regular term of any of the circuit courts of this State, and a special term of said court is called, it shall be the duty of the sheriff to summon, for said special term, the list of grand and petit jurors furnished for the regular term preceding.

(14.) SEC. XIV. The county commissioners' courts of this State are hereby authorized, at any special term of their courts, to select lists of grand and petit jurors in the manner herein provided, for any special term of the circuit courts in their respective counties.

(15.) SEC. XV. It shall be the duty of the county commissioners' court to arrange and select the grand and petit jurors as aforesaid, so that no one person shall serve on the jury a second time, before all fit persons of the county shall have respectively served in rotation, according to the best information that can be obtained.

(16.) SEC. XVI. There shall be allowed and paid to grand and petit jurors for their services in attending circuit courts of the several counties in this State, the sum of seventy-five cents per day, for every day necessary in attending courts as aforesaid, as such jurors, and for every mile of necessary travel, to be computed from the place of holding courts, to the residence of the juror, five cents per mile, to be paid out of the county treasury, as now provided by law, for the payment of grand and petit jurors.

(17.) SEC. XVII. Whenever any person shall be summoned as talesman, to attend any circuit court as a petit juror and shall be detained, as such, longer than one day, such person so summoned shall be allowed mileage from the place of holding courts to the residence of such juror, in the same manner as though such person had been originally selected and summoned. Mileage only to be computed one way.

(18.) SEC. XVIII. The clerk of the circuit court shall furnish to each of the jurors aforesaid, (and without fee,) whenever he shall be discharged from further service by the court at any term thereof, a certificate of the number of days he may have attended at such term, and upon the presentment thereof to the county treasurer, he shall pay to such person the sum above provided for his services.

(19.) SEC. XIX. A jury fee of three dollars shall be taxed with the costs of each suit, which, with the docket fee provided by law, shall be collected by the clerk of the court, and paid into the county treasury, there to remain and be held as a special fund for the payment of juror's fees.

(20.) SEC. XX. There shall be allowed to each juror in a civil case before a judge of probate, justice of the peace, or other than in a circuit court, the sum of twenty-five cents.

(21.) SEC. XXI. The fee of each juror attending an inquest held over a dead body, shall be twenty-five cents, payable out of the county treasury.

An Act to increase the Compensation of Grand and Petit Jurors.

[Approved Feb. 12, 1853. Laws, 1853, p. 259.]

(23.) SEC. II. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and all laws in conflict with this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

PRIOR LAWS. An act prescribing the mode of summoning grand jurors; approved March 23, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 201.

An act concerning petit jurors; approved March 25, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 255.

An act prescribing the mode of summoning grand and petit jurors, and defining their qualifications and duties; in force June 1, 1827. Rev. Laws, 1827, p. 251; Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 373.

An act to amend "An act prescribing the mode of summoning grand and petit jurors, and defining their qualifications and duties;" approved Feb. 13, 1835. Laws, 1835, p. 37.

An act regulating the manner of selecting juries in certain cases; approved Feb. 1, 1843. Laws, 1843, p. 169.

An act to allow grand and petit jurors mileage; approved March 4, 1843. Laws, 1843, p. 169.

DECISIONS. An opinion formed, but not expressed, does not disqualify a juror. Noble v. The People, Breese, 29.

The statements of jurors should not be received to impeach their verdict. Forrester et al. v. Guard et al., Breese, 44. Contra, Sawyer v. Stephenson, Breese, 6.

An alien is not qualified to act as juror in any case. The statute prescribing certain qualifications as necessary for a juror, all who do not possess them are necessarily disqualified. The affidavit of a juror in support of his verdict, on a point disconnected with his acts, or the motives for his conduct, is admissible on a motion for a new trial. Guykowski v. The People, 1 S. 476.

A juror who had formed and expressed an opinion from hearing the testimony against the wife, in her trial for adultery, not then knowing that a civil suit was pending by the husband against an individual for crim. con. with the wife, was held a competent juror in the civil suit. King v. Dale, 1 S. 513.

Weight of testimony is a question to be decided alone by a jury; consequently, such decision cannot be assigned for error. Johanson v. Moulton, 1 S. 532.

In a trial for larceny, the jury should find the value of the property stolen; without such finding, the court cannot pass sentence. Highland v. The People, 1 S. 392.

A grand jury cannot inquire whether an officer has taken illegal fees for the service of process. Pankey v. The People, 1 S. 80.

In an action by a school commissioner on a note made to him for the use of the inhabitants of a township, the inhabitants of that township cannot be jurors. Russell et al. v. Hamilton, 2 S. 57.

The court being about to adjourn for the day, directed the jury, if they should agree, to seal up and deliver the verdict to the clerk, and then disperse. After the adjournment, the jury sealed up a paper, upon which was written that they could not agree, and dispersed: Held, that such conduct was a gross violation of their duty. The next morning the same jury were directed by the court to retire, and they returned a verdict: Held, that such proceeding was irregular, and the judgment must be reversed. White et al. v. Martin, 2 S. 69.

In a trial for murder, after a part of the witnesses had been examined, the prosecuting attorney discovered that an alien was upon the jury, and his motion that such juror be withdrawn, and a new one sworn in his place, was allowed: Held, that the proceeding was regular, and that the overruling of the defendant's motion to discharge the other eleven jurors, was not erroneous. Stone v. The People, 2 S. 326.

A juror who has expressed a decided opinion, is disqualified. Not so, if his opinion be hypothetical, or of a light and transient character. Gardner v. The People, 3 S. 83; Smith v. Eames, 3 S. 76.

Affidavits of jurors to impeach their verdict, cannot be received, except where part of the jury swear that they never consented to the verdict; but their affidavits in support of their verdict may be received. Smith v. Eames, 3 S. 76.

Where a juror, before the trial of a prisoner for murder, expressed a strong opinion of his guilt, but told the prisoner himself that he ought not to be hung, and should not be, if he were on the jury; and, upon examination, swore that he had formed and expressed no opinion, and no objection being made, was sworn on the jury, and the prisoner was convicted; a new trial was properly granted, on account of the incompetency of the juror. If a juror prejudge a case, and the fact be unknown to the failing party in time to challenge, it is good cause for a new trial. Sellers v. The People, 3 S. 412.

When a juror has inadvertently been sworn, who cannot render a legal verdict, it is in the discretion of the court to discharge him. Thomas v. Leonard, 4 S. 556.

The 177th section of the Criminal Code, (Gale's Stat., p. 232,) which provides that the grand jury may find an indictment on the oath of one witness only, except in cases of treason and perjury, applies only to the finding of the indictment; the common law rules of evidence will govern on the trial, except so far as is provided by the 178th section of the Criminal Code. Crandal v. Dawson, 1 G. 556.

One of the jurors who tried a case was security for costs therein, and, on motion for a new trial, that objection was made: Held, that the law presumed the party had knowledge of that fact and could not allege it as surprise, but should have availed himself of it by way of challenge. Bradshaw v. Hubbard et al., 1 G. 390.

A juror had formed and expressed a decided opinion in a case, adversely to the defendant, but the fact was not known to the defendant or his counsel, after using proper diligence to ascertain it: Held, that the defendant was entitled to a new trial. Venum v. Harwood, 1 G. 659.

Where a verdict depends on the credibility of witnesses, it is the peculiar province of a jury to judge of that credibility. Lovry v. Orr et al., 1 G. 70.

The decision of the court in the case of Guykowski v. The People, 1 S. 476, in regard to the disqualification of aliens to sit as jurors, is limited to capital cases. Greenup v. Stoker, 3 G. 202.

If, to the question, "Is the prisoner guilty or innocent?" a juror can respond so as to satisfy his conscience, he is incompetent. In a trial for murder, while one of the counsel was addressing the jury, a juror, who had heard all the evidence, was ill, and a short time asleep, and this was known to the prisoner: Held to be no ground for setting aside the verdict. Baxter v. The People, 3 G. 368.

In capital cases the verdict must be received in open court, in presence of the prisoner; but the rule does not apply in cases of misdemeanor. On the receipt of a verdict and before the jury is discharged, each party has a right to have the jury polled. If the jury seal up their verdict and separate, they must still attend in court when the verdict is opened, and if any dissent, the verdict cannot be received. After the verdict is received and the jury discharged, they cannot be recalled to alter or amend it. Rigg v. Cook, 4 G. 336.

If a juror has formed a decided opinion respecting the merits of a case, either from a personal knowledge of the facts, from the statements of witnesses, from the relations of the parties, or from rumor, he is disqualified if challenged for cause. Neely v. The People, 13 Ill. 685.

A juror stated, on oath, that no degree of circumstantial evidence would induce him to render a verdict of guilty in a capital case: Held, that his challenge was properly allowed. The same was held of a juror, who swore that he should be very reluctant to render a verdict of guilty, even if he were convinced of the prisoner's guilt, but that he did not know but he might be starved to render it. Gates v. The People, 14 Ill. 433.

they deem it necessary, cause an election to be held in the precinct in which the county seat is located, for the election of one additional justice of the peace and two constables, who shall hold their offices until the next quadrennial election of justices of the peace and constables, and until others are elected and qualified. At such quadrennial election, the whole number of justices of the peace and constables to which each precinct is herein entitled, shall be elected.

(6.) SEC. VI. When a new county shall hereafter be created, it shall be the duty of the court of county commissioners thereof, at their first term, to divide the same into precincts as aforesaid, and appoint judges of election, and a time and place for holding elections therein as aforesaid, and to cause the same to be entered of record; and if, from any cause, the said court shall fail or neglect the duty aforesaid, at their said first term, it shall be their duty to hold a special term for that purpose; and the clerk shall make out copies of such record, and the sheriff shall post up the same, at the places appointed for holding such elections, in each of said precincts; and elections shall be held therein, for justices of the peace, returns thereof made, examined and transmitted, in all respects as provided in this chapter; and justices of the peace so elected, shall continue in office until the next quadrennial election of justices of the peace, and until their successors shall be elected and qualified.

(7.) SEC. VII. Justices of the peace and constables, when elected and qualified under this chapter, shall have jurisdiction within their respective counties.

(8.) SEC. VIII. Justices of the peace shall be commissioned by the governor, before entering upon their official duties. Constables may act upon their certificates of election, to be granted by the clerk of the county commissioners' court.

(9.) SEC. IX. Justices of the peace and constables shall, before entering upon the duties of their respective offices, be sworn, faithfully to perform the duties of their respective offices according to law and to the best of their understanding.

(10.) SEC. X. Every justice of the peace, before entering upon the duties of his office, shall execute and deliver to the clerk of the county commissioners' court of his county, and within twenty days after his said election, a bond, to be approved by said clerk, with one or more good and sufficient securities, in the sum of not less than five hundred nor more than one thousand dollars, conditioned that he will justly and fairly account for and pay over all moneys that may come to his hands under any judgment or otherwise, by virtue of his said office, and that he will well and truly perform all and every act and duty enjoined on him by the laws of this State, to the best of his skill and abilities. Said bond shall be made payable to the county commissioners of the county in which such justice of the peace shall be elected, and their successors in office, for the use of the people of the State of Illinois, and shall be held for the security and benefit of all suitors and others, who may be injured or aggrieved by the official acts or misconduct of such justice of the peace.

(11.) SEC. XI. Every constable, before he shall enter upon the duties of his office, shall execute and deliver to the clerk of the county commissioners' court of the proper county, a bond to be approved by said clerk, with one or more good and sufficient freeholders as his securities, in the sum of one thousand dollars, conditioned that he will faithfully discharge the duties of his office of constable; and that he will justly and fairly account for, and pay over all moneys that may come to his hands, under any process or otherwise, by virtue of his office. The said bond shall be made payable to the county commissioners of the county in which such constable shall be appointed, and their successors, for the use of the people of the State of Illinois, and shall be held for the security and benefit of all suitors and other persons who may be interested in, or become injured by the official conduct of such constable.

(12.) SEC. XII. If any justice of the peace or constable shall not, within twenty days after his election or appointment, take the oath and give bond as aforesaid, the said justice or constable shall not be permitted after that time to be so qualified, or to take his said office; but the said office shall be considered as vacant, and shall be filled accordingly.

(13.) SEC. XIII. It shall be the duty of the clerks of the county commissioners' courts of the several counties in this State, upon the execution and filing bond as aforesaid, by any justice of the peace, to make out a certificate of the execution and filing thereof, under the seal of his office, and transmit the same to the governor of this State, who shall thereupon issue a commission to said justice of the peace.

(14.) SEC. XIV. The oath of office required to be taken by justices of the peace and constables, shall be administered by the clerk of the county commissioners' court of the proper county, who shall certify the same upon the commissions of such justices, and the certificates of election of such constables respectively. The clerk shall keep a book, in which he shall enter the name of every justice of the peace and constable sworn into office, together with the date of his commission or certificate, and the time of his being sworn into office.

(15.) SEC. XV. Resignations of the office of justice of the peace and constable shall be made to the clerk of the commissioners' court of the proper county, who shall immediately enter the date of every such resignation in the book above provided for; which book, or a certified copy of an entry in the same, shall be received as evidence in all courts within this State.

(16.) SEC. XVI. Whenever there shall be no constable in any precinct, any justice of the peace in such precinct may appoint one, who shall be qualified as in other cases, and hold his office until superseded by an election.

(17.) SEC. XVII. Justices of the peace shall have jurisdiction in their respective counties, to hear and determine all complaints, suits and prosecutions of the following description:

1st. In actions of debt on bonds, contracts, agreements, promissory notes, or other instruments in writing, in which the amount claimed to be due does not exceed one hundred dollars.

2nd. In actions of assumpsit upon any contract or promise, verbal or written, express or implied, for a valuable consideration, in which the amount claimed to be due does not exceed one hundred dollars.

3rd. In suits brought for goods, wares or merchandize, sold and delivered; for work and labor done, or services rendered; for money had and received; for money lent; for money received by the defendant, for the use of the plaintiff; or for money paid by the plaintiff for the defendant, at his request; in which the amount claimed to be due does not exceed one hundred dollars.

4th. In suits for money claimed to be due upon unsettled accounts, in which the balance claimed to be due does not exceed one hundred dollars.

5th. In suits for money claimed to be due upon settled accounts between individuals, in which the balance ascertained to be unpaid, shall not exceed one hundred dollars.

6th. In all suits upon contracts or promises for rent, and in cases of distress for rent, upon landlords' warrants, in which the amount claimed to be due does not exceed one hundred dollars.

7th. In actions of debt for trespass, by cutting timber, in which the amount claimed does not exceed one hundred dollars.

8th. In actions for money claimed to be due for specific articles of property, whether claimed to be due by bond, note, or other instrument in writing, or upon a promise, express or implied, in which the value of the property claimed does not exceed one hundred dollars.

9th. For all debts or demands claimed to be due, not exceeding one hundred dollars, in which the action of debt or assumpsit will lie.

10th. In all actions in which an executor or administrator is plaintiff, or for property purchased at an executor's or administrator's sale, where the amount claimed does not exceed one hundred dollars.

11th. In all actions in which an executor or administrator is defendant, where the amount claimed does not exceed twenty dollars.

12th. In all actions of trespass on personal property, and of trover and conversion, in which the damages claimed do not exceed one hundred dollars.

13th. In all cases of assault, assault and battery, and affrays, in which the people are plaintiffs, in which they shall have exclusive original jurisdiction, unless in case of cities or incorporated towns, in which jurisdiction is otherwise conferred by law.

14th. In all actions against sheriffs, coroners and constables; for malfeasance, misfeasance or nonfeasance in office, wherein the amount claimed does not exceed one hundred dollars.

The provisions of this section shall apply as well to proceedings commenced by attachment, as to other cases.

(18.) SEC. XVIII. In all suits provided for in the preceding section, the jurisdiction of the justice shall be deemed to extend to cases in which the original claim, debt, demand or damages may have originally exceeded the sums of one hundred dollars and twenty dollars respectively, but which shall have been reduced by fair credits below those sums.

(19.) SEC. XIX. Justices of the peace, who shall have given bond and received commissions under the provisions of this chapter, are authorized and empowered, and it is hereby made their duty to receive money on all notes and demands which may have been placed in their hands for suit or collection, and also upon all judgments rendered by them prior to the issuing execution thereon.

(20.) SEC. XX. It shall be the duty of every justice, whenever a suit shall be commenced before him, to record, in a book kept for that purpose, the names of the parties, the amount and nature of the debt sued for, the date and description of the process issued, and the name of the officer to whom such process shall be delivered, and throughout the whole of the proceedings in any suit, it shall be his duty, whenever any process shall be issued or returned, or any order made or judgment rendered, to make a written memorandum of the same, in the same book, and to file and safely keep all papers given him in charge.

(21.) SEC. XXI. Every suit before a justice, except such as are hereinafter provided for in a different manner, shall be commenced by summons, which shall be in the following form, as nearly as the case will admit, viz.:

"STATE OF ILLINOIS, } The People of the State of Illinois, to any Constable of said County,
                   County. } GREETING:
 You are hereby commanded to summon A. B. to appear before me, at _____, on the _____ day of _____, at _____ o'clock, _____, to answer the complaint of C. D. for a failure to pay him a certain demand, not exceeding one hundred dollars; and thereof make due return as the law directs.
 Given under my hand and seal, this _____ day of _____, 18—. JOHN DOE, J. P."

In which summons the justice shall specify a certain place, day and hour for the trial, not less than five nor more than fifteen days from the date of such summons, at which time and place the defendant is to appear; which process shall be served at least three days before the time of trial mentioned therein, by reading the same to the defendant or defendants.

(22.) SEC. XXII. If, previous to the commencement of a suit, the plaintiff shall make oath that there is danger that the debt or claim of such plaintiff will be lost, unless the defendant be held to bail, and shall state, under oath, the cause of such danger, so as to satisfy the justice that there is reason to apprehend such loss, the justice shall issue a warrant, which shall be in the following form, as nearly as the case will admit, viz.:

"STATE OF ILLINOIS, } The People of the State of Illinois, to any Constable of said County,
                   County. } GREETING:
 You are hereby commanded to take the body of _____ and bring him forthwith before me, unless special bail be entered; and if such bail be entered, you will then command him to appear before me, at _____, on the _____ day of _____, at _____ o'clock, _____, to answer the complaint of A. B. for a failure to pay him a certain demand, not exceeding one hundred dollars; and hereof make due return as the law directs.
 Given under my hand and seal, this _____ day of _____, 18—. JOHN DOE, J. P."

And in all cases the defendant shall have a right to release his or her body arrested by virtue of such process, by giving special bail to the constable executing the same, which shall be indorsed on the back of the warrant, in the following form, as nearly as the case will admit, viz.:

"I, G. F., acknowledge myself special bail for the within named C. D. Witness my hand, this _____ day of _____, 18—. G. F."

Which indorsement shall be signed by one or more securities, to be approved by the constable taking the same, and shall have the force and effect of a recognizance of bail, the condition of which is, that the defendant, if judgment shall be given against him or her, will pay the same with costs, or surrender his or her body in execution; and in default of such payment or surrender, the goods and chattels of the bail shall be liable for the payment of the judgment and costs: Provided, That if the body of the defendant shall be rendered in execution by himself or his bail, within thirty days after the issuing of such execution, or if a sufficiency of the defendant's property shall be found to satisfy the judgment and costs, the bail shall be exonerated; but if neither the body of the defendant shall be surrendered, nor a sufficiency of his or her property can be found within the time aforesaid, to pay the judgment and costs, then the justice shall issue execution against the bail, who shall be dealt with in the same manner as if he were defendant.

(23.) SEC. XXIII. If the defendant shall not appear at the time of trial, after giving bail as aforesaid, or after being served with a summons, as described in the twenty-first section of this chapter, and no sufficient reason be assigned to the justice why he or she does not appear, then the justice shall proceed to hear and determine the cause in the absence of said defendant, but shall not give judgment in favor of the plaintiff, unless the said plaintiff shall fully prove his demand in the same manner as if the defendant had been present and denied the same.

(24.) SEC. XXIV. If the plaintiff or his agent shall not appear at the time appointed for the trial aforesaid, and no sufficient reason shall be assigned to the justice why such plaintiff or his agent does not appear, the justice shall dismiss the suit, and the plaintiff shall pay the costs, unless the defendant shall consent that such suit shall be continued to another day, in which case the same proceedings shall take place at the second day so fixed for the trial, as above provided; but this section shall not require the dismissal of a suit on a note placed in the hands of a justice for collection.

(25.) SEC. XXV. If two or more persons shall be sued jointly before any justice of the peace, and all of such defendants shall have had notice as aforesaid, by warrant or summons, the appearance of any one of the said defendants, at the time of trial, shall be sufficient to justify the said justice in proceeding as if all were present; and if none of said defendants shall appear after such notice, the justice shall, if the plaintiff's demand be established as aforesaid, proceed as in other cases of default; and in either of the aforesaid cases, the justice shall not divide the amount of the debt proved among the defendants, but shall give one entire judgment for the whole amount proved to be due against so many of the defendants jointly, as shall be proved to be jointly indebted to the plaintiff. But if it shall appear to the justice that any two or more of the defendants are severally indebted to the plaintiff, upon separate and different debts, or causes of action, or upon several or different promises or contracts, such plaintiff shall not be allowed to bring in such separate claims; nor shall the plaintiff be barred by the determination of his suit against such joint defendants, from prosecuting his suit against the respective defendants, for the recovery of such separate demands.

(26.) SEC. XXVI. Where there are several joint debtors, and all cannot be served with process, the justice may render judgment against such as are served with process.

(27.) SEC. XXVII. Previous to the commencement of any trial before a justice of the peace, either party may move to have such trial put off for a time, not exceeding ten days, upon making proof, either upon his own oath or that of a credible witness, that the said party cannot safely proceed to trial; on account of the absence of a material witness, or on account of any other cause or disability which would prevent him from obtaining justice at such trial; and if the justice be satisfied that the party so applying cannot safely proceed to trial, and also that the party so applying has used due diligence to be ready at the time of trial first appointed, and that his not being ready is not the effect of such party's own neglect or inattention, then the said justice shall order the trial of said cause to be deferred to another day and hour, within ten days, to be by him appointed; and the party praying such continuance shall pay all the costs occasioned thereby: Provided, The justice may at any time continue any case without oath, if the parties consent, or if but one party be present and shall consent, or if he shall deem it essential to justice so to do, for any good cause shown.

(28.) SEC. XXVIII. When the parties shall appear and be ready for trial, the justice shall proceed to hear and examine their respective allegations and proofs, and shall thereon give judgment against the party who shall be proved to be indebted to the other, for so much money in dollars and cents as shall appear to be due, with costs of suit; but if neither party shall appear to be indebted to the other, then the judgment shall be against the plaintiff for the costs of suit only; and if such judgment be rendered upon any note or bond, or for a balance due upon a settled account, the justice shall allow interest from the time when the same became due, and include the same in the said judgment; and in all cases the judgment shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum until paid.

(29.) SEC. XXIX. The justice shall indorse on the back of every summons or warrant the sum demanded by the plaintiff, with the costs due thereon, and the defendant may pay the same to the constable in whose hands such process may be, who shall give a receipt therefor, which shall exonerate the defendant from debt and costs.

(30.) SEC. XXX. All evidence before a justice of the peace shall be under oath, and by parol, except when it shall be necessary to exhibit the signature or hand-writing of a party against him, and except such evidence as shall be taken by deposition, as hereinafter mentioned.

(31.) SEC. XXXI. No party to any suit before a justice shall be permitted to deny his or her signature to any written instrument upon which such suit shall be founded, or which shall be offered as a set-off or acquittance for the debt demanded in such suit, unless the said denial be under the oath of the party so denying the signature purporting to be his or her own.

(32.) SEC. XXXII. If any witness, residing within the county wherein a suit shall be pending before a justice, shall be unable to attend on account of age, sickness or other cause, it shall be lawful for the justice before whom such suit shall be pending, or some other justice of the county, to take the deposition of such witness in writing; and the justice before whom the suit shall be pending shall adjourn the trial, not more than six days, for that purpose, and shall give both parties notice of the time and place of taking such deposition.

(33.) SEC. XXXIII. If any witness, whose testimony shall be material in a suit pending before a justice, shall reside out of the county wherein such suit shall be pending, the party desiring it may take his, her or their deposition or depositions, before any justice of the peace in the county in which such witness or witnesses reside; and the depositions taken in conformity thereto may be given in evidence in said suit, if it shall be made to appear that the opposite party had reasonable notice of the time and place of taking such depositions.

(34.) SEC. XXXIV. No party shall be permitted to introduce at the trial, any note, bond, debt or other claim against his adversary, which he shall have acquired after the commencement of the suit.

(35.) SEC. XXXV. In all suits which shall be commenced before a justice of the peace, each party shall bring forward all his or her demands against the other, existing at the time of the commencement of the suit, which are of such a nature as to be consolidated, and which do not exceed one hundred dollars when consolidated into one action or defense; and on refusing or neglecting to do the same, shall forever be debarred from the privilege of suing for any such debt or demand.

(36.) SEC. XXXI. When either party shall require the attendance of a witness, in any suit pending before a justice, it shall be the duty of the justice to issue a subpoena in the following form, as nearly as the case will admit, viz:

"STATE OF ILLINOIS, }
County. } The People of the State of Illinois to A. B.:

You are hereby commanded to appear before me at _____, on the _____ day of _____, at _____ o'clock, _____, then and there to testify the truth, in a matter in suit, wherein C. D. is plaintiff and E. F. defendant; and this you are not to omit, under the penalty of the law.
Given under my hand and seal, this _____ day of _____, 18—. JOHN DOE, J. P."

Which subpoena may be served by a constable, or any other person, by reading the same to the witness; but no mileage shall be allowed to the person serving the same.

(37.) SEC. XXXVII. In all cases where a justice of the peace is required to issue a subpoena at the instance of either party to a suit, it shall be his duty to insert the names of four witnesses in each subpoena, if the party demanding the same shall require the attendance of that number; and in no case shall a justice of the peace be permitted to charge and receive pay for any subpoena commanding the citation of a less number, where as many as four shall be required by the same party, at the same time, to be used in the same suit.

(38.) SEC. XXXVIII. Each witness so summoned, shall be entitled to fifty cents for attending on each trial, to be taxed with the other costs of suit, and paid when the debt and costs are collected; but if more than two witnesses shall be sworn in any case, to testify to one fact on the same side, the party requiring such extra witness shall be at the whole expense of procuring the same; but no such fee shall be taxed by the justice, unless claimed by the witness attending.

(39.) SEC. XXXIX. In all trials before justices of the peace, when either party may not have a witness or other legal testimony, to establish his or her demand, discount or set-off, the party claiming such demand, discount or set-off, may be permitted to prove the same by the testimony of the adverse party; and if such adverse party shall not appear at the time of trial, or shall refuse to be sworn, or to testify, then the party claiming the same shall be permitted to prove his or her demand, discount or set-off, by his or her own oath: Provided, That such party claiming the benefit of his own oath, or that of the adverse party, shall first make oath that he has a demand, discount or set-off, in said cause, and that he knows of no witness by whom he can prove the same, except by his own oath, or that of the adverse party: Provided, further, That no person shall be allowed to prove his demand, discount or set-off, unless the adverse party be present, or shall have been notified thereof, and for which purpose, the justice may continue the cause for such time as may be necessary.

(40.) SEC. XL. When any plaintiff, at the time of commencing his suit, shall signify his desire to prove his debt or demand as provided in the preceding section, and shall file the necessary affidavit, the justice may issue his summons in the following form :

"STATE OF ILLINOIS, } The People of the State of Illinois, to any Constable of said County,
County, } GREETING :

You are hereby commanded to summon C. D. to appear before me, at my office in _____, in said county, on the _____ day of _____, 18—, at the hour of _____ o'clock, — M., to answer the complaint of A. B. for the failure to pay him a certain demand not exceeding one hundred dollars, and hereof make due return as the law directs. The said defendant is hereby also notified that the said plaintiff says that he has no witness by whom to prove his demand, except it be by his own oath, or the oath of said defendant; and unless the said defendant appear at the trial of said complaint, the plaintiff will be permitted to prove his demand by his own oath, as by law is directed in such cases.

Given under my hand and seal, at my office in _____, in said county, this _____ day of _____, A. D. 18—.

E. F., J. P. [L. s.]"

(41.) SEC. XLII. If the defendant or defendants shall not appear at the time of trial, after being served with such summons according to law, and no sufficient reason be assigned to the justice why he or she does not appear, then the plaintiff shall be permitted to prove his or her demand by his or her own oath, without giving any other or further notice to the defendant or defendants.

(42.) SEC. XLIII. If both parties agree to have a difference decided by a justice of the peace, without process, he shall enter the same on his docket, noting particularly such consent, and proceed as in other cases.

(43.) SEC. XLIII. In all cases the parties to a suit before a justice shall have the privilege of referring the difference between them to arbitrators, mutually chosen by them, who shall examine the matter in controversy, and make out their award thereon in writing, and deliver the same to the justice, who shall enter the said award on his docket, and give judgment according thereto.

(44.) SEC. XLIV. At any time before judgment is given in any suit before a justice, either party may demand to have the cause tried by a jury, provided the matter in controversy exceed twenty dollars; whereupon, it shall be the duty of the justice to issue his writ, directed to any constable, commanding him to summon a jury of six men, or twelve, if a less number be objected to; and the said jury shall be impaneled as soon as may be, the justice adjourning the cause, if necessary, to any time, not exceeding three days, for that purpose. The jury, when impaneled, shall be sworn by the justice to try the case according to the evidence, and the justice shall enter judgment upon their verdict, according to the finding thereof.

(45.) SEC. XLV. The following shall be the form of the writ for summoning the jurors, viz. :

"STATE OF ILLINOIS, } The People of the State of Illinois, to any Constable of said County,
County, } GREETING :

We command you to summon _____ lawful men of your county to appear before me at _____, on the _____ day of _____, 18—, who are not of kin to _____, plaintiff, or to _____, defendant, to make a jury between said parties, in a plea of _____, because as well the said plaintiff as the said defendant have put themselves upon the country for trial; and have you then and there the names of the jury and this writ.

Witness my hand and seal, this _____ day of _____, 18—.

JOHN DOE, J. P."

(46.) SEC. XLVI. In trials of the right of property taken on execution, attachment or other process, by constables, the number of jurors shall be six instead of twelve, unless all the parties to the trial shall agree upon a larger number, not exceeding twelve, in which case the number agreed on shall constitute the jury: Provided, That either party shall have the right to require twelve jurors, upon advancing the additional costs and fees accruing in consequence of increasing the number over six, such additional costs and fees not being in any event chargeable against the other party.

(47.) SEC. XLVII. No justice of the peace shall order a trial by jury without the consent of all parties, unless such jury be demanded before the hearing of any evidence in the case, nor unless the party demanding such jury shall first pay the fees to which such jury are by law entitled.

(48.) SEC. XLVIII. In all cases where a witness shall be duly served with a subpoena, and shall fail to attend at the trial, conformably thereto, and in all cases where a person shall be summoned as a juror, to try any cause before a justice of the peace, and shall fail to attend at the time and place appointed in such summons, the justice shall have power to issue an attachment, directed to any constable of the county, commanding him forthwith to bring before such justice, the body of such juror or witness so failing to attend as aforesaid, to show cause why he should not be fined for such contempt; and on the appearance of such juror or witness on such attachment, it shall be lawful for the justice of the peace to fine him, in any sum not less than one dollar nor more than ten dollars, or wholly discharge him, if satisfactory excuse be made.

(49.) SEC. XLIX. If any juror, summoned as aforesaid, shall be interested in the event of the suit, or of kin to either party, or shall have expressed his opinion on the matter about to be tried, or shall, for any other cause, to be judged of by the justice, be considered as a partial or improper juror, in that case the justice shall discharge such juror; and when, by such discharge, or the failure of any juror to attend, the jury shall not be complete, the justice shall direct the constable to summon as many persons as shall be required to complete such jury instantly, from among the bystanders or other persons in his bailiwick, which summons shall be verbal; and the persons so summoned shall be bound to serve on such jury, and on refusal or failure to do so, may be attached and fined for contempt as aforesaid.

(50.) SEC. L. Every person who shall appear before a justice of the peace, when acting as such, or who shall be present at any legal proceeding before a justice, shall demean himself in a decent, orderly and respectful manner; and for failure to do so, such person shall be fined by the said justice for contempt, in any sum not more than five dollars.

(51.) SEC. LI. Previous to the commencement of any trial before a justice of the peace, the defendant, or his or her agent, may make oath, that it is the belief of such deponent that the defendant cannot have an impartial trial before such justice; whereupon, it shall be the duty of the justice, immediately to transmit all the papers and documents belonging to the suit to the nearest justice of the peace, who shall proceed as if the said suit had been instituted before him.

(52.) SEC. LII. In all cases before justices of the peace, either party may have the case continued any reasonable time, not exceeding one month, for the purpose of taking the deposition of any non-resident witness; which deposition shall be taken in conformity to the manner of taking and returning depositions of non-resident witnesses in the circuit courts in this State.

(53.) SEC. LIII. No execution shall be issued by a justice of the peace, until after the expiration of twenty days from the date of the judgment on which such execution is to be issued, unless the party applying for the same, or the agent of such party, shall make oath that he believes that the debt will be lost unless execution be issued forthwith. If such oath be made, then the execution shall be issued immediately and levied; but no sale of any property under such execution shall take place within twenty days from the date of the judgment; nor shall the issuing of such execution deprive either party of the right to appeal.

(54.) SEC. LIV. All executions issued by a justice of the peace, shall be directed to any constable of the proper county, and made returnable to the justice issuing the same, within seventy days from the date. Such executions shall be levied only on personal property, and shall be in the following form, as nearly as may be, viz.:

"STATE OF ILLINOIS, } The People of the State of Illinois, to any Constable of said County,
County. } GREETING:

We command you, that of the goods and chattels of A. B., in your county, you make the sum of _____ dollars and _____ cents, debt, and _____ dollars and _____ cents, cost, which C. D. lately recovered before me in a certain plea, against the said A. B.; and hereof make return to me within seventy days from this date.

Given under my hand and seal, this _____ day of _____, 18—.

JOHN DOE, J. P."

(55.) SEC. LV. When it shall appear by the return of any execution issued as aforesaid, that the defendant has not personal property within the county, sufficient to satisfy the debt, and it is desired by the plaintiff to have execution issued to some other county in which it is alleged that the defendant has personal property, the justice shall issue execution directed to any constable of the county where such property shall be said to be; to which execution shall be attached an official certificate of the clerk of the county commissioners' court of the county in which the same shall be issued, setting forth, under the seal of said court, that such justice so issuing, was, at the time of issuing of said execution, a justice of the peace in and for said county; and no constable shall be bound to execute any such process unless so authenticated.

(56.) SEC. LVI. When an execution shall be issued to another county, as provided in the preceding section, it shall be the duty of the constable receiving the same, to proceed to the collection of the same, and make return as in other cases.

(57.) SEC. LVII. When it shall appear by the return of the execution first issued as aforesaid, that the defendant has not personal property sufficient to satisfy the debt and costs within the county in which judgment was rendered, and it is desired by the plaintiff to have the same levied on real property, in that or any other county, it shall be lawful for the justice to certify to the clerk of the circuit court of the county in which such judgment was rendered, a transcript, which shall be filed by said clerk, and the judgment shall thenceforward have all the effect of a judgment of the said circuit court, and execution shall issue thereon out of that court as in other cases.

(58.) SEC. LVIII. Appeals from judgments of justices of the peace to the circuit court, shall be granted in all cases except on judgment confessed: Provided, The party praying for an appeal shall, within twenty days from the rendering of the judgment from which he desires to take an appeal, enter into bond with security to be approved and conditioned as hereinafter provided.

(59.) SEC. LIX. The bond required to be given, shall be in substance as follows:

"KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, That we, A. B. and C. D., are held and firmly bound unto E. F., in the penal sum of (here insert double the amount of judgment and costs,) dollars, lawful money of the United States, for the payment of which well and truly to be made, we bind ourselves, our heirs and administrators, jointly, severally and firmly by these presents. Witness our hands and seals, this _____ day of _____, 18—.

The condition of the above obligation is such that, whereas, the said E. F. did, on the _____ day of _____ A. D. 18—, before _____, a justice of the peace for the county of _____, recover a judgment against the above bounden A. B., for the sum of _____ dollars; from which judgment the said E. F. has taken an appeal to the circuit court of the county of _____ aforesaid, and State of Illinois: Now, if the said A. B. shall prosecute his appeal with effect, and shall pay whatever judgment may be rendered by the court upon dismissal or trial of said appeal, then the above obligation to be void, otherwise to remain in full force and effect.

Approved by me, at my office, this _____ day of _____, 18—.

(60.) SEC. LX. The party desiring such appeal, may file his bond in the office of the justice who shall have rendered the judgment, such bond to be approved by such justice, whose duty it shall be to suspend all proceedings in the case, and if execution shall have been issued, he shall recall the same; and who shall, within twenty days after receiving and approving of the appeal bond, file the same in the office of the clerk of the circuit court, together with all the papers and transcript of the judgment he had given, with a certificate under his hand, that the said transcript and papers contain a full and perfect statement of all the proceedings before him.

(61.) SEC. LXI. Or, the appealing party may file his bond in the office of the clerk of the circuit court of the proper county, within the time aforesaid, which bond shall be approved by the clerk; upon the filing and approval of which bond, the clerk shall issue a supersedeas, enjoining the justice and constable from proceeding any further in said suit, and suspending all proceedings in relation thereto, and shall issue a summons to the appellee to appear at the term of the court to which the appeal is returnable, which summons shall be served and returned as in other cases.

(62.) SEC. LXII. So soon as the clerk shall issue a supersedeas as aforesaid, the justice who gave the judgment, and any constable in whose hands an execution or other process may be, in relation thereto, shall suspend all further proceedings thereon; and the said justice shall return all the papers and a transcript of the judgment he had given, to the clerk of said court, with a certificate, under his hand, that the said transcript and papers contain a full and perfect statement of all the proceedings before him.

(63.) SEC. LXIII. One or more plaintiffs or defendants, in causes decided by justices of the peace, shall be allowed the right of appeal to the circuit court, without the consent of the others; and when one of several appeals, the supersedeas shall issue directing a suspension of all further proceedings upon the judgment, as though all had joined in the appeal.

(64.) SEC. LXIV. When an appeal bond shall be executed by one of several parties, from the judgment of a justice of the peace, the clerk of the circuit court shall issue a summons against the other parties, notifying them of the appeal in the said circuit court, and requiring them to appear and abide by and perform the judgment of the court in the premises, which summons shall be served as other process issued in appeal cases; and in case such summons shall be returned that parties are not found, the cause shall, at the first term of the court, be continued, but at the second term shall be tried; and the court shall have power to give the same judgment in appeals taken under the provisions of this chapter, as though all the parties to the judgment had joined in the appeal.

(65.) SEC. LXV. If upon the trial of any appeal, the bond required to be given shall be adjudged informal or otherwise insufficient, the party who shall have executed such bond, shall in nowise be prejudiced by reason of such informality or insufficiency: Provided, He will, in a reasonable time, to be fixed by the court, execute and file a good and sufficient bond.

(66.) SEC. LXVI. Upon the trial of all appeals before the circuit court, no exception shall be taken to the form or service of the summons issued by the justice of the peace, nor to any proceedings before him; but the court shall hear and determine the same in a summary way, according to the justice of the case, without pleading in writing.

(67.) SEC. LXVII. If it shall appear, however, that the justice had no jurisdiction of the subject matter of the suit, the same shall be dismissed at the cost of the plaintiff.

(68.) SEC. LXVIII. The plaintiff in the justice's court shall be plaintiff in the circuit court on the trial of the appeal, and the rights of the parties shall be the same as in original actions.

(69.) SEC. LXIX. Parties on the trials of appeals in the circuit court shall have the benefit of the provisions of the thirty-ninth, fortieth and forty-first sections of this chapter, as fully as in trials before justices of the peace.

(70.) SEC. LXX. The security in any appeal bond shall be liable thereon for the amount of the original judgment and all costs thereon, in case the said appeal be dismissed, and shall be liable also on said bond for whatever judgment may be rendered by the circuit court, in case the original judgment be affirmed by said circuit court, either in whole or in part.

(71.) SEC. LXXI. Execution may issue out of the circuit court on all judgments rendered in cases appealed, as in other cases originating in the circuit court.

(72.) SEC. LXXII. The judges of the circuit and probate courts shall have power within their respective jurisdictions, and it shall be their duty, upon application, made as hereinafter mentioned, to grant writs of certiorari, to remove causes from before justices of the peace into the circuit court, who shall indorse an order for the same, upon the petition of the party praying such writ, and on producing the same to the clerk of the circuit court, he shall issue said writ in conformity to the provisions of this chapter.

(73.) SEC. LXXIII. No writ of certiorari shall issue after the expiration of six months from the time of the rendition of judgment.

(74.) SEC. LXXIV. Before any writ of certiorari shall issue, the party applying therefor shall give bond, with security, in the same manner and with the same conditions, and when the same shall be defective, may be perfected as bonds in cases of appeals from justices of the peace. The writ of certiorari shall require the justice to certify to the circuit court a transcript of the judgment and other proceedings had before him; and in no case shall the justice be required to send up a minute or memorandum of the evidence given before him; but upon the return of said writ, such proceedings shall be had thereon, as in cases of appeals.

(75.) SEC. LXXV. The petition, on application for writs of certiorari, shall set forth and show, upon the oath of the applicant, that the judgment before the justice of the peace was not the result of negligence in the party praying such writ, that the judgment in his opinion is unjust and erroneous, setting forth wherein the injustice and error consist, and that it was not in the power of the party to take an appeal in the ordinary way, setting forth the particular circumstances which prevented him from so doing.

(76.) SEC. LXXVI. The justice of the peace, constable, and other persons concerned, shall, as soon as the writ of certiorari shall be served, stay all further proceedings in that case, until the further order of the circuit court.

(77.) SEC. LXXVII. If the judgment of the justice shall be reversed by the circuit court, in whole or in part, such reversal shall not vitiate any sale on execution which shall have been effected before the issuing of the writ of certiorari; but in such case the circuit court shall have power to assess the damages which shall have accrued in consequence of such sale, and to cause judgment to be entered or a deduction made therefor; and in all cases of a partial reversal of judgment, either in case of appeals or certiorari, the court shall have power to apportion the costs between the parties, according to justice.

(79.) SEC. LXXIX. Every constable to whom an execution shall be delivered, shall indorse on the back of the same, an exact memorandum of the day and hour when the same shall have come to his hands, and shall immediately proceed to levy the same; indorsing also on the back of the execution, the date of such levy, and making an exact inventory of the property on which the same shall have been levied; and shall appoint a day and hour for the sale of such property, giving ten days' previous notice of such sale by advertisement in writing, to be posted up at three of the most public places in the county; and on the day so appointed, the said constable shall sell the property so levied on, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the debt, interest and costs, to the highest bidder.

(80.) SEC. LXXX. Any constable shall be authorized to remove property levied on by him, when it shall be necessary for the safe-keeping of the same: Provided, That if the defendant shall desire to retain the property so levied on, until the day of sale, it shall be lawful for the said constable to allow the defendant so to keep the same, if said defendant shall give bond to said constable, in double the amount of the execution, with good security, conditioned for the delivery of said property, to the same constable, at the time and place of sale to be named in said bond; and if the said property shall not be delivered as aforesaid, at the time and place of sale, the constable having the execution, may proceed to levy the same, upon the same or any other property of the defendant, or upon the property of the security in such bond, and shall sell the same, giving two days' public notice of such sale by advertisement, to be posted at one public place.

(81.) SEC. LXXXI. When the defendant, upon whom any summons or warrant issuing from a justice of the peace, shall be served, shall pay, or tender to the constable, the amount actually due, with all costs then accrued, and shall prove the same upon trial, and bring the money forward and deposit it with the justice of the peace, no costs which shall thereafter accrue, shall be adjudged against him, but the plaintiff shall pay the same.

(82.) SEC. LXXXII. On the return of all executions, the constable shall pay over to the justice of the peace who issued the same, all money not previously paid over to the plaintiff; and also, all witness' fees which remain unpaid to any witness; and it shall be the duty of the justice of the peace to post up in his office, at least once in three months, a list of all witness' fees in his hands, and the names of the persons to whom they belong; and for a failure to comply with this provision, a justice of the peace shall be liable to a fine of fifty dollars, to be recovered by action of debt in the name and behalf of the county commissioners' court.

(83.) SEC. LXXXIII. No person who is not a resident of this State, shall commence any action before a justice of the peace, until such non-resident shall file with the justice before whom such action may be brought, a bond, with sufficient security, for the payment of all costs which may be awarded against the plaintiff, should he fail in his suit; which bond shall be in the following form, as near as may be, inserting the names of the parties, the county and State:

"STATE OF ILLINOIS, } A. B. }
 County of ——— } ES. } Demand, $———
 } C. D. }

I, E. F., do enter myself security for all costs that may accrue in the above case, this — day of —, 18—."

(84.) SEC. LXXXIV. Such bond shall be signed by the security; and if the said plaintiff shall be cast in his suit, discontinue, or make default, and shall not, within ten days thereafter, pay to the justice all the costs that may have been occasioned to the defendant, to the justice and constable, jurors or witnesses, the justice shall issue his execution against the security for the amount thereof, accompanied with a bill of costs, in which shall be set down every particular charged. And if any suit shall be commenced by a non-resident as aforesaid, without filing a bond for costs as aforesaid, the suit shall be dismissed on the motion of the defendant, and the plaintiff shall be liable to pay all costs occasioned thereby, which may be recovered before any justice of the county, in the name of the party injured.

(85.) SEC. LXXXV. When any defendant shall evade the service of process, and not listen to the same, or secrete himself, then the officer shall serve the same by leaving a copy at his place of residence with some white person of the age of ten years or upwards; and in all such cases, the constable shall make a special return when and how served, and the circumstances attending the same; and if the justice shall be satisfied that the defendant evaded the service by reading, and that the party is sufficiently notified and summoned, he shall proceed to hear and determine the case.

(86.) SEC. LXXXVI. Any justice of the peace may appoint a suitable person to act as constable in a criminal or other case, where there is a probability that a person charged with any indictable offense will escape, or that goods and chattels will be removed, before application can be made to a qualified constable; and the person so appointed shall act as constable in that particular case, and no other; and any temporary appointment so made as aforesaid, shall be made by a written indorsement, under the seal of the justice deputing, on the back of the process, which the person receiving the same shall be deputed to execute.

(87.) SEC. LXXXVII. When any person shall be appointed and qualified to act as a constable, it shall be the duty of the clerk of the county commissioners' court to notify the sheriff of the county of such appointment; and the said sheriff shall keep a list of the constables within his county; and it shall be the duty of each sheriff to summon four constables (if necessary) of his county, to attend at each term of the circuit court, giving them ten days' notice, and taking them in rotation; which constables, when so summoned, shall attend, and act under the sheriff as his deputies, during the sitting of such court; and any constable failing to attend as aforesaid, or refusing to act as such deputy, may be fined by said court for contempt thereof.

(88.) SEC. LXXXVIII. It shall be the duty of every constable, when any felony or breach of the peace shall be committed in his presence, forthwith to apprehend the person committing the same, and bring him before some justice of the peace, to be dealt with according to law; to suppress all riots and unlawful assemblies, and to keep the peace, and also to serve and execute all warrants, writs, precepts and other process, to him lawfully directed; and, generally, to do and perform all things appertaining to the office of constable within this State.

(89.) SEC. LXXXIX. When any person shall be about to commence an action of trespass or trover before a justice of the peace, and he shall make oath before such justice that he verily believes that the benefit of whatever judgment may be recovered in such action will be in danger of being lost, unless the defendant or defendants be held to bail; upon such oath being made, the justice shall issue a warrant, as in cases for debt, varying the same to suit the action, and the defendant may release his body by giving special bail, as in actions of debt.

(90.) SEC. XC. Upon all judgments in actions of trespass or trover, the justice may issue an execution against the goods and chattels or body of the defendant, at the election of the plaintiff.

(91.) SEC. XCI. In cases of judgment for debt, whenever the plaintiff or his authorized agent shall make oath before the justice, in whose office such judgment may be, that he or she verily believes the defendant or defendants to be able to pay such judgment, and withholds the money, or secretes his, her or their property from the officer, so that the debt cannot be levied, it shall be lawful for the plaintiff to demand, and for the justice to issue, execution against the body of such defendant or defendants.

(92.) SEC. XCII. In all cases in which a defendant shall give special bail under the provisions of this chapter, and shall not be surrendered on or before the return day of the feri facias upon the judgment, nor a sufficiency of property be found to pay the judgment and costs, within the time aforesaid, it shall be the duty of the justice of the peace, upon the application of the plaintiff, or his agent, to issue a summons against the special bail, in the following form, as nearly as may be, to wit:

"STATE OF ILLINOIS, )
County. ) The People of the State of Illinois, to any Constable of said County.
GREETING:

You are hereby commanded to summon _____ to appear before me, at _____, on the _____ day of _____, at _____ o'clock, to show cause, if any he have, why judgment should not be rendered against him, as the special bail of _____ upon a capias issued by me against him, in favor of _____, for the sum of _____ dollars and _____ cents, the amount of the judgment rendered against the said _____ in favor of the said _____; and hereof make due return, as the law directs.

Given under my hand and seal, this _____ day of _____, 18—. JOHN DOE, J. P. [L. s.]"

In which summons the justice shall specify a certain day, place and hour for the trial, not less than ten nor more than fifteen days from the date thereof, at which time and place the defendant is to appear; which process shall be served and return made as in other cases.

(93.) SEC. XCIII. If the defendant does not appear, the justice shall hear the case, enter judgment and award execution, as in other cases.

(94.) SEC. XCIV. If the defendant shall appear at the time and place appointed for trial, he shall be permitted to show cause for his failure to comply with the condition of his undertaking, or to show that he hath complied with the same; and if it shall appear that the defendant was prevented from surrendering the body of the original defendant, by the act of the plaintiff, or that the said original defendant had departed this life previous to the time required for making such surrender, or that his health was such as to endanger his life by such surrender, or that he had delivered the body in execution, according to the condition of the recognizance, then the bail shall be released and discharged from all liability.

(95.) SEC. XCV. In all cases of assault, assault and battery and frays, any justice of the peace may, upon his own knowledge, or upon the oath of any competent person, issue his warrant to any constable of his county for the arrest of every person charged with either of said offenses; and upon the arrest of such person, shall cause a jury to be summoned, (unless the party accused shall dispense with a jury,) who shall hear the cause, and if they find the accused guilty, shall assess such fine as they shall deem just; not, however, to be less than three nor more than one hundred dollars.

(96.) SEC. XCVI. Upon the jury returning their verdict of guilty, and the assessment of the fine, the justice shall record the same in his docket or record book, and proceed to render judgment thereon for the amount of the said fine and costs; but if the jury return a verdict of not guilty, the justice shall record the same, and discharge the defendant or defendants without costs.

(97.) SEC. XCVII. Upon the rendition of such judgment, the justice shall issue execution for the fine and costs, which may be levied upon any personal property of the defendant or defendants, which shall be sold for whatever it will bring in cash, after giving notice, as in other cases: Provided, however, That if the party so convicted have a family, then the constable shall reserve from execution one bed and bedding, one cow and ten dollars' worth of household and kitchen furniture.

(98.) SEC. XCVIII. If the constable shall return upon such execution, that the defendant or defendants have no goods and chattels whereof to make the money, the justice shall issue a capias against the body of the defendant or defendants, and the constable shall arrest such person or persons, and commit him or them to the jail of the county, there to remain forty-eight hours; and if the fine exceed ten dollars, then to remain in said jail twenty-four hours for every five dollars over and above the said ten dollars, and so on in proportion to the amount of said fine.

(99.) SEC. XCIX. If any person so convicted shall wish to appeal to the circuit court, he shall signify the same to the justice of the peace who gave the judgment, and the justice shall give him a statement of the amount of the fine and costs, and upon producing the same to the clerk of the circuit court of the proper county, the clerk shall write a bond to the people of the State of Illinois, in a penalty double the amount of the fine, and a sufficiency to cover all costs, conditioned for the payment of the amount of whatever judgment the court may render against said defendant, which the said party appealing shall execute, with sufficient security to be approved by the said clerk; and when such bond shall be executed, the clerk shall notify the justice who tried the cause thereof, and the said justice shall stay all further proceedings, and return the papers to the next succeeding circuit court, when the same shall be tried: Provided, All such appeals shall be prayed for, and the bond executed within five days after judgment rendered.

(100.) SEC. C. If the defendant shall be found guilty in the circuit court, judgment shall be rendered against both principal and security in the appeal bond, for the amount of the fine assessed by the jury in said court, and all costs that may have accrued.

(101.) SEC. CI. If any person shall be dissatisfied with the verdict given in such cases, before any justice of the peace, because of the fine being too low, or because the defendant may have been acquitted, he shall be permitted to remove the said case into the circuit court, upon his executing bond to the people of the State of Illinois, before the clerk, in a penalty sufficient to cover all costs that have or may accrue, conditioned for the payment of all costs, in case the defendant shall be acquitted, or the fine not increased; which bond shall be executed in ten days after the judgment of the justice shall have been given; and when said bond is executed, the clerk shall notify the justice thereof, and said justice shall return all proceedings to the said court; and if the defendant shall be acquitted in the circuit court, or the fine not increased by the jury, the court shall render judgment against the party who removed the said case into the circuit court, and his security in the appeal bond, for all costs occasioned by the appeal: Provided, The party removing a case into the circuit court shall not be a witness against the defendant in the appeal in said court, upon the trial of such appeal.

(102.) SEC. CII. When any defendant convicted of either of the said offenses, or any person dissatisfied with the verdict as aforesaid, appeals to the circuit court, it shall be the duty of the justice to return to the clerk, when he returns the papers in the case, the names of all material witnesses who shall have testified on the trial, and the clerk shall issue subpoenas for them.

(103.) SEC. CIII. When the case is removed into the circuit court, as provided by the one hundred and first section, the party removing it shall cause a summons to be issued and served upon the defendant, notifying him of the appeal; and if the defendant cannot be found in the county, to serve said process upon, the case shall not be continued; but the court shall cause his appearance to be entered, and proceed to trial, as though the defendant were present, and had filed the plea of not guilty.

shall confess himself guilty, the jury, or the justice, if he shall not require a jury, shall hear the evidence and assess the fine; and the justice shall enter judgment and issue execution, subject to appeal as in other cases.

(105.) SEC. CV. No person shall be proceeded against for the commission of any of the offenses herein enumerated, after the expiration of twelve months from the time the offense was committed, unless such offender shall withdraw himself from the county for the purpose of avoiding trial, in which case he shall be tried at any time within twelve months after his return or apprehension.

(106.) SEC. CVI. It shall be the duty of each of the justices of the several counties to return to the county commissioners' court, at each regular term thereof, a list of all fines before them assessed, stating the name or names of the defendant or defendants, and of the constable or constables charged with the collection of said fine or fines, to enable the said court to settle with the said constables; and a failure of any such justice, before whom any fine shall have been assessed under the provisions of this chapter, to make such return, shall work a forfeiture of double the amount of the fines assessed before him, to be recovered as prescribed in the succeeding section.

(107.) SEC. CVII. The constable charged with the collection of any such fine, shall account for and pay over to the county commissioners' court, at every regular term thereof, all moneys which he may have so collected; and upon a failure to do so, he shall forfeit and pay double the amount of money so received, to be recovered in the name of the county commissioners of the proper county for the use of the county, in any court having jurisdiction thereof. The constable shall also be authorized to receive all fines before execution issued, and shall account therefor and pay over the same, in the same manner and under the same penalties as before provided.

(108.) SEC. CVIII. The county commissioners' courts shall pay over to the county treasurers, respectively, all moneys by them received as aforesaid, and take their receipts therefor, which receipts shall be deposited with the clerks of said courts, and by them preserved; and the county treasurers shall account for said moneys in the same manner that they account for other public money by them received.

(109.) SEC. CIX. In all criminal prosecutions before a justice of the peace, where the party accused shall be found not guilty, and it shall appear to the justice before whom such case shall be tried, that there was no reasonable ground for said prosecution, and that it was maliciously entered, in such case, the justice of the peace is hereby authorized to give judgment against the complainant for the costs of said suit, and issue execution thereon.

(110.) SEC. CX. When the docket and papers of any justice of the peace shall be transferred to any other justice of the peace, as provided in section one hundred and twelve of this chapter, such justice receiving the same may proceed to the completion of all unfinished business, the issuing of execution upon judgments remaining unsatisfied upon such docket, and collect the same, and have the same power in respect of such docket and papers as if the same pertained to proceedings originally instituted before him.

(111.) SEC. CXI. The same articles of personal property shall be exempt from executions issued under the provisions of this chapter, and subject to the same restrictions as is provided in chapter fifty-seven of the Revised Statutes; except as specified in the ninety-seventh section of this chapter.

(112.) SEC. CXII. When any justice of the peace shall resign his office, or remove from the county or district in which he was elected, it shall be his duty to deliver over his docket and papers relating to the business transacted before him, to the nearest justice of the peace of his county, and to return to the office of the clerk of the county commissioners' court, all copies of the statutes which he may have received from that office; and in case of the death of any justice of the peace, it shall be the duty of the person having possession of said docket, papers and statutes, to deliver them over as aforesaid.

(113.) SEC. CXIII. Any constable to whom an execution shall have been delivered, and whose term of office shall expire before the expiration of the time within which the return of such execution is required by law, shall be authorized to proceed in all matters relating to said execution, and in the same manner to collect the same, that he might have done, had the term of office of such constable not have expired; and the constable and sureties shall be liable for any neglect of duty, and for all moneys collected upon such executions in the same manner, and to the same extent they would have been if the term of office of such constable had not expired.

(114.) SEC. CXIV. All bonds given by justices of the peace and constables, shall remain in force five years after the expiration of their respective terms of office, and when such bonds are renewed, or new bonds are given, such renewal or giving of a new bond shall not satisfy or vacate any such previous bond, but each bond shall stand good in relation to all matters and things done or omitted to be done, within the term of office for which such bond shall have been given: Provided, That where by law, any justice or constable shall be authorized or required to complete any business, or perform any duties growing out of business commenced, and in their hands previous to going out of office, the bond shall apply to such cases until such business is concluded by such justice or constable.

(115.) SEC. CXV. Any justice of the peace, failing or refusing to deliver any statutes, books, dockets or papers as required by this chapter, for the space of ten days after the same are demanded, shall forfeit and pay the sum of ten dollars, to be recovered by an action of debt in the name of the county commissioners' court, for the benefit of the county; besides being, together with his securities in his official bond, liable to the county and to all persons interested, for all damages and losses which may be sustained by reason of such failure or refusal.

(116.) SEC. CXVI. Upon the failure of a justice of the peace or constable to pay over any money by him collected or received, as herein provided, to any person entitled to receive the same, his or her agent or attorney such person may proceed against such justice or constable in a summary way, either before a circuit court or some justice of the peace of the proper county, by motion, upon giving to such justice or constable five days' notice of the application, and recover the amount so neglected or refused to be paid, with twenty per cent. damages thereon, for such detention, and shall have execution therefor.

(117.) SEC. CXVII. If any justice or constable against whom proceedings shall have been commenced, as provided in the preceding section, shall pay or satisfy the amount claimed by the party prosecuting, with the costs, the proceedings shall be dismissed, and without judgment for the damages specified in the preceding section.

(118.) SEC. CXVIII. If any constable shall neglect or fail to return an execution within ten days after its proper return day, or if the demand, debt or claim be wholly or in part lost, or if any special damage shall arise to any party by reason of the neglect or refusal to act, or the misfeasance or nonfeasance of any constable in the discharge of any official duty, the party aggrieved may have his action in the circuit court; or, when the amount claimed does not exceed one hundred dollars, before any justice of the peace of the proper county, against such constable and his sureties on the official bond of such constable, and shall recover thereon the amount of said execution, with interest from the date of the judgment upon which the original execution issued.

(119.) SEC. CXIX. In suits on the official bonds of justices of the peace and constables, a copy of such bond, authenticated under the official signature and seal of the county commissioners' clerk with whom it is filed, may be read in evidence.

(120.) SEC. CXX. When judgment shall have been rendered against any justice of the peace or constable and his securities on his official bond, execution may issue against all of them, but the officer executing the same shall not levy upon the property of the securities until he shall fail to find sufficient property of the justice of the peace or constable to satisfy such execution: Provided, however, The execution shall be a lien upon the property of the securities as in other cases.

(121.) SEC. CXXI. In all cases of suits on the official bonds of justices of the peace and constables, judgment shall be entered for the full penalty of the bond, in favor of the county commissioners' court, but execution shall only issue for the amount found to be due, with interest and costs.

(122.) SEC. CXXII. After such judgment is obtained, the court may from time to time award execution against the defendant or defendants, for any breach of the conditions of their bond, or for the violation of any of the provisions of this chapter. No such subsequent execution shall, however, be issued until the defendants shall be summoned by a writ of scire facias, in the usual form, to appear and show cause why such execution shall not be awarded.

(123.) SEC. CXXIII. Securities shall not be liable in execution beyond the amount of the penalty of their bond, but the liability of the principal shall continue after the penalty of the bond is exhausted, and the court may continue to award execution as occasion shall require.

(124.) SEC. CXXIV. Justices and constables, and their securities, may have the benefit of appeal, certiorari, and writ of error, from all decisions and judgments rendered in suits against them as is provided in other cases.

An Act to authorize Justices of the Peace to take Recognizances in certain Cases.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Laws, 1845, p. 273.]

whom any person is brought, on a complaint for any crime, misdemeanor or other offense, bailable by the laws of this State, may take the recognizance of such persons with surety or sureties, in a reasonable sum, for his appearance before said justice, for further examination, at a future time, not exceeding ten days; at which time and place, all subpoenas in the case shall be made returnable.

(126.) SEC. II. That if the person thus recognized shall not appear before said justice, at the time appointed for further examination, as set forth in the recognizance, it shall be the duty of said justice to note his default upon the record, and certify the same recognizance with the record of the default in the performance of the condition thereof, to the circuit court of his county, that a scire facias may issue thereon, or an action of debt be brought for the recovery of the penalty.

An Act to provide for recording Transcripts of Judgments of Justices of the Peace.

(128.) SEC. II. Transcripts of judgments of justices of the peace, heretofore filed with clerks of the circuit court, for the purposes mentioned in the foregoing section, shall be recorded in said book, at the request and cost of any party or person intrusted [interested] either in the judgment or proceedings had under the same. The fee for recording transcripts hereafter filed, shall be changed [charged] against the plaintiff or person filing the same, and taxed in the bill of costs against the defendant.

(129.) SEC. III. Transcripts hereafter filed shall contain a copy of the original and each subsequent summons or process issued by the justice of the peace, the return of the officer or officers thereon, the judgment and the execution or executions issued thereon, with the return of the officer or officers upon the same; and no execution shall hereafter be issued upon a transcript, unless the same be made conformable to this act.

(130.) SEC. IV. Every transcript desired to be used for the purposes mentioned in this act, shall be certified by the justice of the peace making the same, to be truly copied from the files and books of his office. This act to take effect from the first day of June next.

See ante, p. 290, under title "COUNTIES, COUNTY COMMISSIONERS' COURTS, AND COUNTY COURTS," "An act establishing county courts, and providing for the election of justices of the peace and constables, and for other purposes."

An Act to amend Chapter LIX, of the Revised Statutes of 1845.

[Approved Feb. 8, 1849. Laws, 1849, (1st Sess.) p. 131.]

jury, without regard to the amount in controversy, on the same terms and in the same manner as is now provided in cases where the amount in controversy exceeds twenty dollars.

(132.) SEC. II. The manner of summoning jurors, referred to in the first section of this act, shall be the same as provided by law in trials now before justices of the peace; and said justices of the peace shall issue the same kind of precept to compel the attendance of jurors, and in all things the service of said process, and the proceedings before said justices, shall be the same as in cases now provided for by law, when the amount in controversy exceeds twenty dollars.

(133.) SEC. III. This act shall be in force from and after its passage.

See post, under title "TOWNSHIP ORGANIZATION."

An Act extending the Jurisdiction of Justices of the Peace.

[Approved June 22, 1852. Laws, 1852, p. 121.]

(135.) SEC. II. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to extend the Jurisdiction of Justices of the Peace.

DECISIONS. Under the act of March 23, 1819, a magistrate may appoint a constable in criminal cases, where there is a probability that the criminal will escape. Flack et al. v. Ankemy, Breese, 144.

Under the act of March 23, 1819, a justice has no power to investigate an account exceeding $100, though reduced by credits to a less sum. Clark v. Cornelius, Breese, 21. See also, Ellis v. Snyder, Breese, 263; Blue v. Weir et al., Breese, 293.

When a justice acts without jurisdiction, he is a trespasser; when he has jurisdiction and acts erroneously, he is not. Flack et al. v. Ankemy, Breese, 144.

Though the accounts of a plaintiff originally amounted to more than $100, yet if the defendant admit a balance of less than $100 to be due, and promise to pay it, the justice has jurisdiction. Maurer v. Derrick, Breese, 153.

The plaintiff's amount of claim before a justice, regulates as to jurisdiction. Ellis v. Snyder, Breese, 263.

If a justice, in punishing for a contempt, act maliciously or oppressively, he may be indicted or impeached, but no appeal lies from his judgment. Clark v. The People, Breese, 266.

In an action against a constable for an escape upon a ca. sa., or for neglecting to execute it, the defendant will not be permitted to prove that the writ issued upon the oath of the agent of the plaintiff. If the magistrate had jurisdiction of the subject matter, and the process was regular on its face, the officer could not inquire into the accuracy of the proceedings, but must obey the mandate of the writ, and in so doing the officer could not be a trespasser. Brother et al. v. Canon, 1 S. 200.

A constable is liable who willfully neglects or refuses to execute lawful process. Robinson v. Harlan, 1 S. 237.

A justices' court is of limited jurisdiction, and whenever it assumes jurisdiction not conferred by the statute, its acts are null and void, and the officer executing its process, in such case, would be liable. Idem.

Under the 51st section of the "Act concerning justices of the peace and constables," (Rev. Laws, 1833,) the appointment of a constable pro tem. must be by indorsement on the back of the process. There are only two cases in which a justice may appoint a constable pro tem.: one is to execute criminal process, when the accused may probably escape; the other, to execute civil process, where goods and chattels are about to be removed, before recourse can be had to a regular constable. It must be shown in the latter case, that the goods and chattels are about to be removed, before the justice can appoint. The appointment can be made only to serve an execution or attachment, not other process. Gordon v. Knapp et al., 1 S. 488.

A constable who has collected an execution issued in a judgment on an attachment suit, and paid the money to the order of the plaintiff, is not, after the reversal of the judgment, on appeal, liable to the attachment debtor, for the money so collected and paid, nor to a garnishee of whom he collected money on the execution. A constable collected money on a judgment of W. against R. and paid it to G. on the order of E., the assignee of the judgment. The judgment was reversed, on appeal, and the constable paid the money back which he had collected of R.: Held, that E., the assignee of the judgment, was not liable to refund the money to the constable, and that W. alone was liable. Elliot v. Sneed, 1 S. 517.

The return of a constable should show the time when a service of process was made. A return on a summons, in these words, "Executed on the within defendant by his reading the within. Joseph Flinn, Const. M. C.," is insufficient and void. Wilson v. Greathouse, 1 S. 174.

The justice who issues, and the constable who executes process, in a case where the justice has no jurisdiction, are both liable as trespassers. Hall v. Blaisdell et al., 1 S. 332.

A justice has no jurisdiction where the original demand exceeds $100, though reduced below that sum by credits, under the law in force June 1, 1827. Simpson v. Rawlings, 1 S. 28.

Justices have no jurisdiction in penal actions, unless it be expressly conferred by statute. Bowers v. Green, 1 S. 42.

To bar an action before a justice, on the ground that a former suit between the parties had been decided by a justice, it must appear that the demands in both suits could have been consolidated in one action. Carsen v. Clark, 1 S. 113.

Under the statute in force June 1, 1827, a justice has no jurisdiction of a demand exceeding $100, but reduced below that sum by false or unfair credits; nor, under the same statute, can he have jurisdiction of a case in which he must investigate an account exceeding $100. Sands v. Delap, 1 S. 168. See Huguin v. Nicholson, 1 S. 575. See also, note to Simpson v. Rawlings, 1 S. 28.

A justice has no jurisdiction of a suit for a demand exceeding $20, where an administrator is a party, except for debts due for property purchased at an administrator's sale. If a court has no jurisdiction of the subject matter, the consent of parties cannot give it. Leigh v. Mason et al., 1 S. 249.

A justice has no jurisdiction of an attachment suit for a demand exceeding $30. Hull v. Blaisdell et al., 1 S. 332.

A justice has jurisdiction of a suit, brought to recover the value of work and labor, by one who, under a written contract, had performed part of the work, and was prevented from finishing by the other party to the contract. Butts v. Huntley, 1 S. 410.

The jurisdiction of courts, not of record, must appear affirmatively. Truder et al. v. McKee, 1 S. 558.

A justice has jurisdiction of a suit on a note for $100, when interest is not claimed. Simpson v. Updegraff et al., 1 S. 594.

A justice has jurisdiction in a case where the original debt exceeds $100, but is reduced below that sum by fair credits. Such credits will be presumed fair, till the contrary appears. Huguin v. Nicholson, 1 S. 575. (This decision is under the statute of March 2, 1833.)

Acts of official misconduct, done with corrupt motives, by justices, are indictable offenses. Wickersham v. The People, 1 S. 128.

If, in a suit before a justice, where all the demands of the parties may be legally investigated, such suit terminate in a judgment binding on the parties, demands which might have been consolidated into one action or defense, and neglected to be exhibited by the parties, shall not be the foundation of a future action. The dismissal of a suit by a justice, is, in effect, a non-suit, and does not bar a subsequent suit for the same cause. McKinney v. Finch, 1 S. 152.

A non-resident cannot commence an action before a justice, though he sue for the use of a resident, till he give bond for costs. Seward v. Chapman, 1 S. 192.

Under the act of Feb. 13, 1827, an assignor of a note is not the "adverse party" by whom a demand may be proved before a justice. Arnold v. Johnson, 1 S. 196.

The obvious intention of all the legislation with respect to proceedings before justices, is to simplify and dispense with all needless form and technicality. Dedman v. Barber, 1 S. 254.

The notice, under the 5th section of the act of Feb. 13, 1827, (Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 409,) must be given to the adverse party personally. Notice to his attorney is insufficient. Carver v. Crocker, 1 S. 265.

A summons from a justice to a defendant, to answer "for a violation of an ordinance of said town, relative to a nuisance," is informal and insufficient. Israel et al. v. The Town of Jacksonville, 1 S. 290.

In proceedings under the "Act regulating inclosures," (Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 261,) the justices should notify the defendant. Holliday v. Swailes, 1 S. 515.

A justice has no authority to render judgment against any one of several defendants, who is not served with process. Marcy v. Padfield, 1 S. 590.

Proceedings before justices are without written pleadings, and a plaintiff who sues before a justice in his character of administrator, is not required to prove that he is such administrator, unless it is denied on the trial. Bullance v. Frisby et al., 2 S. 63.

The statute, which requires parties, before a justice, to produce all their claims within his jurisdiction as to amount, precludes the parties from exhibiting claims, on the trial of the appeal, not produced before the justice. Brookbank v. Smith, 2 S. 78.

It is immaterial in what part of a justice's summons the words "State of Illinois" appear; it is sufficient if they are contained in it. Under the act of March 2, 1833, (Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 415,) a justice has jurisdiction of an unliquidated account exceeding $100, but reduced below that sum by fair credits. Harris v. Jenks, 2 S. 475.

A justice entered a judgment of non-suit against a plaintiff, though the defendant asked a judgment in bar of the suit; afterwards, he erased the word "non-suit," at the request of the defendant, and then restored it, and testified that he intended to enter a non-suit: Held, that the proceedings were no bar to a subsequent suit for the same cause. Eldridge et al. v. Huntington, 2 S. 535.

A justice has jurisdiction of a suit, for a breach of an ordinance of an incorporated town, prohibiting the sale of ardent spirits without a license, in the name of the president and trustees of such town. King et al. v. Jacksonville, 2 S. 305.

A justice can render judgment against a defendant, only when process is legally served on him, or when he appears in person and waives process. One cannot authorize a justice to render judgment against him by a letter. Such judgment would be totally void. Evans v. Pierce et al., 2 S. 463. See also, Bines v. Procter et al., 4 S. 174.

Surplusage does not vitiate a magistrate's warrant. Shirliff v. The People, 2 S. 7.

The jurisdiction of an inferior court, like that of a justice's, is not to be extended by implication. The word "debt," in the first section of the "Act concerning justices of the peace and constables," (Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 386,) includes any demand for which the actions of debt or assumpsit will lie. A plaintiff can recover before a justice no more than his original claim, unless the excess accrue as interest. Dowling v. Stewart, 3 S. 193.

Unliquidated damages, arising out of a contract, may be set off before a justice. The words "claim or demand," in the 17th section of the practice act, include all cases arising out of contracts, either express or implied. A justice has jurisdiction of a set-off exceeding $100, when the balance claimed by the defendant exceeds that sum. Nichols v. Ruckells, 3 S. 298.

Under the 2nd section of the practice act of March 2, 1839, (Laws, 1839, p. 271,) the assignee of a note, who sues before a justice, need not prove the assignment, unless it is denied by affidavit. Archer v. Doque, 3 S. 526. See also, Hudson v. Dickinson, 12 Ill. 407.

It is not the law that a constable can in no case require a bond of indemnity, before he is compelled to take property on execution. Cummings et al. v. McKinney, 4 S. 57.

Under the 5th section of the act in force June 1, 1829, (Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 409,) when either the "adverse party," or the other, is sworn, he does not become a witness, except in regard to the "demand, discount or set-off," as to which he is sworn. Webb v. Lasater, 4 S. 543.

The 3rd section of the "Act to amend the several laws in relation to appeals," (Laws, 1840, p. 103,) is only directory to the justice, and prescribes the performance of a ministerial duty, which, if neglected, may be enforced by the circuit court. The neglect of the justice to do his duty, does not defeat the appeal. The decision, in the case of Campbell v. Quinlin, 3 S. 288, is overruled. Little v. Smith, 4 S. 400.

Justices have exclusive jurisdiction in cases of assault, and assault and battery. Carpenter v. The People, 4 S. 197.

The letters "J. P.," appended to the certificate to a recognizance, mean "justice of the peace." Shattuck v. The People, 4 S. 477.

A constable or other officer, in the execution of process, is protected by law, so long as he keeps within the limit of his authority, but no longer. Wentworth v. The People, 4 S. 550.

Under the 20th section of the "Act concerning justices of the peace and constables," (Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 192,) a justice has power to enter up a judgment, upon an award of arbitrators. Under the 19th section of the same act, partners may submit their partnership accounts to a justice, and he may entertain jurisdiction thereof, and proceed as in other cases, if the amount be within his jurisdiction. Hyatt v. Harmon, 1 G. 379.

A constable is protected in the execution of the process of a justice, where it shows upon its face that the court had jurisdiction of the subject matter, and nothing appears to apprise him that the court had not jurisdiction of the person of the defendant. Barnes v. Barber et al., 1 G. 401.

Under the "Act to exempt certain articles from execution," (Laws, 1843, p. 141,) it is the duty of a constable to notify the defendant, before levy of an execution; and if the defendant neglect to select the property allowed him by the statute, the officer may levy and sell. But if the defendant select property, and notify the officer, and the officer take it, unless authorized by the finding of appraisers, under the statute, he is a trespasser. Cook v. Scott, 1 G. 333.

A justice has jurisdiction in an action on a note for $100, payable in 20 days, if the plaintiff do not claim interest. The defendant before a justice should state his defense before the trial. Bates v. Bulkley, 2 G. 389.

The authority of a justice to act as a justice cannot be examined collaterally. Culbertson v. Galena, 2 G. 129.

In an action of trespass to personal property, before a justice, the question of jurisdiction is to be determined by the evidence of the amount of damages. Rodgers v. Blanchard, 2 G. 335.

A justice may render judgment against all the defendants, who are served with process; if the joint liability of all the defendants sued, is established. Kerr v. Boyer et al., 2 G. 417.

A justice duly elected, filed within the 20 days an imperfect bond, and after the 20 days, filed a bond correcting the imperfection: Held, that as the first bond was insufficient, and the last not filed in time, the office was vacant. People v. Percels, 3 G. 59.

To give a justice jurisdiction of an action of forcible entry and detainer, the complaint should contain allegations sufficient to bring it within the statute. Ballance v. Curtin et al., 3 G. 449.

In an action before a justice, the plaintiff can recover no larger amount than the sum indorsed on the summons, as his claim. Badgley v. Heald, 3 G. 64.

Under the road law of 1841, a justice has jurisdiction of a suit to recover the penalty for obstruction of a road. Ferris v. Ward, 4 G. 499.

A summons, in the ordinary form, issued by a justice, may be construed as commencing either an action of debt or assumpsit, at the option of the plaintiff. Brdell v. Janney et al., 4 G. 193.

The statute directing justices to take appeal bonds in a penalty double the amount of judgment and costs, is not imperative, and though the penalty be more than double, the bond is valid. Smith v. Whitaker, 11 Ill. 417.

A justice may render a judgment upon confession of a party before him, for a debt within his jurisdiction. Lopkins v. Walter, 11 Ill. 543.

When actions, in which process is returnable at the same time, are brought before a justice, on two notes, which, if consolidated, are more than $100, a judgment on one is not a bar to the other.

If a controversy exists as to the amount of a set-off, the party is not bound to give credit before trial for the exact amount which the trial may show to be correct. Buckner v. Thompson, 11 Ill. 563.

The statute permitting parties, before justices, to avail themselves of the oath of adverse parties, embraces only cases within both the letter and spirit of the law. If the "adverse party" refuse to swear, or to testify when sworn, or does not testify explicitly, fairly and fully, the other party may be a witness. Pickering v. Misner et al., 11 Ill. 597.

The statute which requires justices to indorse the amount of the plaintiff's claim on the summons, is directory, and if not done, does not defeat the action; but when done, will limit the recovery to that amount. Eaton v. Graham, 11 Ill. 619.

An affidavit by the agent of a creditor authorizes a justice to issue a warrant to hold a debtor to bail. Wilson v. Nettleton, 12 Ill. 61.

Justices have jurisdiction only to the amount of $20, in actions by or against executors or administrators; and the consent of parties cannot confer jurisdiction. Williams et al. v. Blankenship et al., 12 Ill. 122.

The statute requiring bond for costs in penal actions, applies to such actions before justices; if such bond be not given, the motion to dismiss should be made to the justice. Adams v. Miller, 12 Ill. 27.

A justice cannot issue an execution against the body of a defendant, before an execution against the property is returned unsatisfied, except in cases of trespass and trover. McDonald v. Wilkey et al., 13 Ill. 22.

Justices have authority to take recognizances in allailable cases, and where taken by two justices, when one would be sufficient, they are not thereby made invalid. McFarlan v. The People, 13 Ill. 9.

The admission of a party, before a justice, that a claim against him is correct, is not a confession of judgment, and he may still appeal. Campbell v. Randolph, 13 Ill. 313. See also, Wair v. Stephenson, 13 Ill. 374.

The statute providing that "appeals from the judgments of justices shall be granted in all cases except on judgments confessed," has reference to judgments in civil proceedings. Edwards v. Vandemack, 13 Ill. 633.

An appeal does not lie from the decision of a justice for a penalty, under the "Act to prohibit the retailing of intoxicating drinks," approved April 18, 1851. The right to appeal, under the 58th section, chapter LIX, Revised Statutes, does not apply to judgments by justices in criminal prosecutions, for fines, penalties or offenses criminal in their character. Ward v. The People, 13 Ill. 635.

A justice has jurisdiction to the amount of $100, in an action against a constable for non-feasance. Briley v. Copeland, 14 Ill. 38.

A justice has no jurisdiction in actions to recover the statute penalty for seizure of property exempt from sale on execution, when treble the value of the property taken is more than $100. Casey v. Harvey, 14 Ill. 45.

A justice has jurisdiction in an action of trespass for injury to growing corn, if the damages claimed do not exceed $100. Reed v. Johnson, 14 Ill. 257.

A justice has jurisdiction in a suit against a constable for taking property not subject to levy; and against a constable and his sureties, to recover single damages for such taking. Vaughan v. Thompson, 15 Ill. 39.

The jurisdiction of a justice does not depend upon the amount of the claim filed, but upon, the real amount due as ascertained by the evidence. Clark v. Whitbeck, 14 Ill. 393.

Mayors, elected for but one year, under the general law of 1849, (Laws, 1849, 1st Sess. p. 224,) cannot exercise the judicial powers of justices. The People v. Maynard, 14 Ill. 419.

A person elected a justice for a "precinct," if afterwards elected a justice for a "township," and accepting the latter, the first office becomes vacated. Eddy v. County Commissioners, 15 Ill. 375.

S., a justice, removed and transferred his docket, &c., to H., the nearest justice; H. removed and transferred his docket, &c., and that of S., to Swan. Swan issued an execution on a judgment rendered by S.: Held to be properly issued, and that the officer executing it was protected. Martin v. Walker, 15 Ill. 377.

Parol proof will not be admitted to show that a justice intended to enter a different judgment from the one recorded on his docket. Where parties appeared and went to trial before a justice, and after hearing the evidence, he rendered a judgment against the plaintiff for costs, it was held to be a judgment in bar of the plaintiff's claim. Zimmerman v. Zimmerman, 15 Ill. 85.

CHAPTER LX.

LANDLORD AND TENANT.

SECTION

1. Reasonable rent for lands held without special agreement, may be collected.
2. Persons holding over by collusion with tenant, to pay double rent.
3. Tenant not quitting premises according to notice by him given, to pay double rent.
4. If a half year's rent be due, landlord may commence action of ejectment; effect of judgment in such action; if tenant pays arrearages and costs, suit to be discontinued.
5. Tenant sued in ejectment by other than landlord, to give landlord notice.
6. Distress for rent, how landlord shall proceed in case of; entry of amount due by clerk of court or justice; sale; return.

SECTION

7. Property of tenant in county may be seized, but not the property of other persons.
8. Crops, lien of landlord upon, for rent.
9. Abandonment of premises, how landlord may proceed in case of, as to crops thereon.
10. When defendant shall not replevy property in five days, how property to be disposed of; notice of sale; sale; surplus to be restored.
11. Perishable property, how officer may dispose of.
12. What property is exempt from distress for rent.
13. Proceedings in case of distress for rent, where defendant has left the State.
14. When act to take effect.

(1.) SECTION I. In all cases in which rent may be due and in arrear, on a lease for life or lives, and where lands shall be held and occupied by any person without any special agreement for rent, it shall and may be lawful for the owner or owners of such lands, or his, her or their executors or administrators, to sue for and recover such rent, or a fair and reasonable satisfaction for such use and occupation, by action of debt or assumpsit, in any court having jurisdiction thereof.

(2.) SEC. II. If any tenant or tenants for life, lives, or for years, or any person or persons who are or shall come into possession of any lands, tenements or hereditaments, by, from or under, or by collusion with such tenant or tenants, shall willfully hold over any lands, tenements or hereditaments, after the expiration of such term or terms, and after demand made, and notice in writing given, for the possession thereof, by his, her or their landlord or landlords, lessor or lessors, or the person or persons to whom the remainder or reversion of such lands, tenements or hereditaments shall belong, such person or persons so holding over, shall for the time such landlord or rightful owner be so kept out of possession, pay to the person or persons so kept out of possession, or their legal representatives, at the rate of double the yearly value of the lands, tenements or hereditaments so detained as aforesaid, to be recovered by action of debt or otherwise, in any court having cognizance of the same.

(3.) SEC. III. If any tenant or tenants shall give notice of his, her or their intention to quit the premises, by him, her or them holden, at a time mentioned in such notice, at which the tenant would have a right to quit by the lease, and shall not accordingly deliver up possession thereof, the said tenant or tenants shall pay to the landlord or lessor, double the rent or sum which would otherwise have been due, to be collected in the same manner as the rent otherwise due should have been collected.

(4.) SEC. IV. In all cases between landlord and tenant, where one-half year's rent shall be in arrear and unpaid, and the landlord or lessor to whom such rent is due, has right by law to re-enter for non-payment thereof, such landlord or lessor may, without any formal demand or re-entry, commence an action of ejectment for the recovery of the demised premises. And in case judgment be given for the plaintiff in such action of ejectment, and the writ of possession thereof be executed thereon, before the rent in arrear and costs of suit be paid, then the lease of such lands shall cease and be determined, unless such lessee or lessees shall, by writ of error, reverse the said judgment, or shall by bill, filed in chancery, within six months after the rendition of such judgment, obtain relief from the same: Provided, That any such tenant or tenants may, at any time before final judgment on said ejectment, pay or tender to the landlord or lessor of the premises, the amount of rent in arrear, and costs of suit, and the proceedings on such ejectment shall thereupon be discontinued.

(5.) SEC. V. Every tenant who shall at any time be sued in ejectment, by any person other than his or her landlord, shall forthwith give notice thereof to his or her landlord, or to his or her agent or attorney, under the penalty of forfeiting two years' rent of the premises in question, or the value thereof, to be recovered by such landlord, by action of debt, in any court having cognizance thereof.

(6.) SEC. VI. In all cases of distress for rent, the person making the same, shall immediately file with some justice of the peace, in case the amount claimed does not exceed one hundred dollars, or with the clerk of the circuit court, in case it exceeds that sum, a copy of the distress warrant, together with an inventory of the property levied upon; and thereupon the party against whom the distress warrant shall have been issued, shall be duly summoned, and the amount due from him assessed and entered upon the records of the court finding the same. The said court shall certify to the person or officer making the same, the amount so found due, together with the costs of court; and said officer shall thereupon proceed to sell the property so distrained, and make the amount thus certified to him, and return the certificate so issued to him, with an indorsement thereon of his proceedings, which return and certificate shall be filed in the proper court.

(7.) SEC. VII. In all cases of distress for rent, it shall be lawful for the landlord, by himself, his agent or attorney, to seize for rent, any personal property of his tenant that may be found in the county where such tenant shall reside; and in no case shall the property of any other person, although the same may be found on the premises, be liable to seizure for rent due from such tenant.

(8.) SEC. VIII. Every landlord shall have a lien upon the crops, growing or grown upon the demised premises in any year, for rent that shall accrue for such year.

(9.) SEC. IX. In case of the removal or abandonment of the premises or any part thereof, by such tenant, all grain or vegetables, grown or growing upon any part of the premises so abandoned, may be seized by the landlord, his agent or attorney, before the rent is due; and the landlord so distraining, shall cause the grain or vegetables so growing, to be properly cultivated and perfected, and in all cases husband such grain or vegetables, grown and growing, until the rent agreed upon shall become due, when it shall be lawful for such landlord, his agent or attorney, to sell and dispose of the same as in other cases of seizure, after the rent shall have become due, and also to retain a just compensation for his care, culture and husbanding of such grain or vegetables: Provided, That such tenant may at any time redeem the property so taken before the rent is due, by tendering the rent agreed upon, and all reasonable expenses attending the same, for care, cultivation and husbandry as aforesaid, or replevy the same, as in case of seizure, where the rent is due.

(10.) SEC. X. When any goods or chattels shall be distrained for rent, and the tenant or owner of the goods so distrained shall not, within five days after such distress taken, and notice thereof, and the cause of taking, replevy the same, with sufficient security according to law, the person distraining, or his agent duly authorized, may, with the sheriff or constable of the county, cause the goods and chattels so distrained to be appraised by two reputable freeholders under oath; which oath may be administered by such sheriff or constable, to appraise said goods and chattels, according to their best judgment and understanding; the person making such distress, after having obtained such assessment, as specified in section six of this chapter, and on giving ten days' notice, may sell such goods and chattels at public auction, and after retaining the amount of rent distrained for, and the costs of distress and sale, shall pay the overplus, if any there be, to such tenant or tenants.

(11.) SEC. XI. Any landlord distraining, or officer or other person, in whose hands perishable property may be, when there is danger that the same will perish or be lost if it shall remain undisposed of until the conclusion of the suit, such landlord, officer or other person may sell the same as provided in the preceding section, and after paying the costs attending such sale, shall pay over the balance to the person or persons to whom the same shall be due.

(12.) SEC. XII. The same articles of personal property which are by law exempt from execution, except the crops grown or growing upon the demised premises, shall also be exempt from distress for rent.

An Act to amend an Act entitled "An Act amendatory of the Practice Act," approved February 16, 1849.

the State or cannot be found, and upon the filing by the landlord, his agent or attorney, of an affidavit setting forth that such defendant or defendants have left the State, or cannot be found, it shall be the duty of the justice of the peace to proceed in the cause in the same manner as is required by section seven or eight of chapter eight of the Revised Laws.

(14.) SEC. II. This act to take effect from and after its passage.

PRIOR LAWS. An act as to proceedings in ejectment, distress for rent and tenants at will, holding over; in force Feb. 23, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 53. Repealed Feb. 13, 1827.

An act concerning landlords and tenants; in force June 1, 1827. Rev. Laws, 1827, p. 278; Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 775.

An act to amend an act entitled "An act concerning landlords and tenants;" in force Jan. 4, 1831. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 420.

An act to exempt certain articles from execution; in force Feb. 26, 1841. Laws, 1841, p. 171.

DECISIONS. An execution in the hands of a sheriff, not levied, will hold property subsequently distrained for rent, due prior to the time such execution was received by the sheriff; and the sheriff may take the property from the officer who holds the same, under a distress warrant, levied after such execution came to his hands. Rodgers v. Dickey, 1 G. 636.

The goods of a sub-lessee cannot be distrained for rent reserved in the original lease, though found on the premises. Gray v. Rawson, 11 Ill. 527.

A landlord may distrain after the rent is due, and before the determination of a tenancy. Keizer v. Kennedy, 11 Ill. 572.

When a tenancy is for more than a year, no notice to quit before the termination of the tenancy is necessary. Walker v. Ellis, 12 Ill. 470.

A tenant having a right by his lease to remove certain fixtures put by him into a mill during the tenancy, who is enjoined from removing the same, may do so after the determination of the lease; or the same may be removed by the mortgagee of the tenant. Mason v. Fenn, 13 Ill. 525.

In proceedings under a distress warrant, the court will only inquire whether the relation of landlord and tenant exists, and whether there is any and what amount of rent due; a set-off will not be allowed; neither can the landlord recover for any other claim. Sketoe v. Ellis, 14 Ill. 75.

(1.) SECTION I. All contracts, promises, assumpsits or undertakings, either written or verbal, which shall be made hereafter in good faith and without fraud, collusion or circumvention, for sale, purchase or payment of improvements made on the lands owned by the government of the United States, shall be deemed valid in law or equity, and may be sued for and recovered as in other contracts.

(2.) SEC. II. The possession of any person settled on unsold lands of the United States, may, in actions of trespass, trespass quare clausum fregit, forcible entry and detainer and ejectment, (and in the absence of a paper title,) extend to three hundred and twenty acres of unsurveyed lands, or one hundred and sixty acres of surveyed lands, (if the custom of the neighborhood extend to so many acres.)

(3.) SEC. III. When such claim is made of surveyed lands, lying in separate parcels, the person claiming the same shall not have the benefit of the preceding section, unless he shall reside on or near the same, nor unless it be so plainly marked that it can be plainly designated and distinguished from adjacent lands.

(4.) SEC. IV. If such claim be made of unsurveyed lands, the person claiming the same shall not have the benefit of the second section, unless such lands be so plainly marked and designated as to be distinguished from adjacent lands.

(5.) SEC. V. But such claim shall not be pleaded or set up in bar of any action, at any time commenced or to be commenced by a bona fide purchaser or purchasers of such lands from the United States, or person entitled to the right of pre-emption on the same, under any act of Congress now in force, or hereafter to be in force.

(6.) SEC. VI. In all cases where the clerk of any county commissioners' court of this State, shall come in possession of the fact that there is land situated in the county in which he is acting as clerk, which land has not been transmitted to said clerk by the auditor of State, and which has been actually granted to any person or persons, and which has not been listed by any person, and that taxes are due and owing the State or county which remain unpaid, said clerk shall proceed to list the same in the name of the person or persons to whom said lands were granted, and shall proceed to advertise and sell the same for taxes, as other non-resident lands are now sold.

An Act to dispose of the Swamp and overflowed Lands, and to pay the Expenses of selecting and surveying the Same.

(8.) SEC. II. Whenever it shall appear that any of the lands granted to the State by the aforesaid act of Congress, shall have been sold by the United States since the passage of this act, it shall be lawful for the said counties to convey such lands to the purchasers thereof. The said deed of conveyance shall be made by the judges of the county court, as such, and countersigned by the clerk of said court, with the official seal thereto affixed; and on delivering said deed to the purchaser, the county judge shall take from him an assignment of all his rights in the premises, and as such assignees they shall be authorized to receive from the United States the purchase money of said land; and whenever any lands embraced by the said act have been located by bounty land warrants since the passage thereof, it shall be lawful for such county in which the same are situated, to convey the same in manner aforesaid, to the person or persons who located said warrant, and to take an assignment of the same to them as county judges, who shall thereupon be considered as assignees of the State, and as such may locate said warrant on any of the public lands belonging to the United States within the limits of such county, or elsewhere. Whenever lands embraced by the said act have been located since the passage thereof, under the provisions of the act of Congress, approved fourth September, one thousand eight hundred and forty-one, it shall be lawful for the counties in which the same may lie, to locate a like quantity of public land within the limits of such counties, or elsewhere: Provided, The same shall be located in accordance with the provisions of the said act of the fourth September, eighteen hundred and forty-one. And whenever any swamp and overflowed lands within the limits of any county, lying outside of the six sections and within the fifteen miles of the central railroad and branches, have been selected by the central railroad company, under the provisions of the act of Congress, approved September twentieth, eighteen hundred and fifty, and which are of the character embraced by the said act of the twenty-eighth September, eighteen hundred and fifty, it shall be lawful for any such county to select other lands in lieu thereof, within the fifteen miles authorized by the act of twentieth September, eighteen hundred and fifty; and it is hereby understood and so intended by this act, that all the rights of the State accruing thereto in the above enumerated cases, under the said act of twenty-eighth September, eighteen hundred and fifty, and the decision of the secretary of the interior of the twenty-third December, eighteen hundred and fifty-one, in regard to the grants made by the said last mentioned act, be and the same are hereby vested in the counties aforesaid, for the purposes aforesaid.

(9.) SEC. III. The auditor of public accounts shall, within a reasonable time after the passage of this act, furnish to each of said counties a full abstract of all the swamp and overflowed lands within the limits of the same, and of all the swamp and overflowed lands which have been purchased from the United States, or which have been located by bounty land warrants, or to which the right of pre-emption has attached, or which have been, under the act of September twentieth, eighteen hundred and fifty, selected by the central railroad company, in lieu of lands sold by the United States, in said six sections, since the passage of said act of twenty-eighth September, eighteen hundred and fifty, the same to be made out as far as practicable from the surveyor's returns filed in his office: which said abstract shall be recorded in a book to be provided by the clerk of the county court, and filed away among the records of his office.

(10.) SEC. IV. The said lands shall be under the care and superintendence of the county courts of the counties, respectively, in which the same are situated. And at the next regular term for holding said courts, after the passage of this act, it shall be the duty of the said county courts of their respective counties to appoint an officer, to be styled "Drainage Commissioner of the county of —," who shall, within twenty days after his said appointment, enter into bond, with good security, to be approved by the county court, payable to the people of the State of Illinois, for the use of the inhabitants of the county of —, in the penal sum of ten thousand dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance of all the duties required of him, or which may hereafter be required of him by law.

(11.) SEC. V. It shall be the duty of the surveyors in the several counties in this State, who have surveyed the said swamp and overflowed lands in their respective counties, to make out plats of all the swamp and overflowed lands in the several townships and fractional townships within their counties, noting distinctly upon the same every tract or parcel of swamp and overflowed land in each township, the quantity and quality thereof, as to whether the same is first, second or third rate; and it shall be his duty to return the same, as soon as practicable, and in reasonable time, to the clerk's office of the county court, and the said court, at the next regular term thereafter, or sooner, if deemed necessary, shall fix a valuation upon each tract according to its quality; but in no case shall any of said land be valued at a less price than ten cents per acre; and the said plat, with the description and valuation marked thereon, shall be recorded in said book, and filed away among the records of the office: Provided, That in case of the death or refusal to act of any such county surveyors, the said courts may employ any other suitable person or persons to perform the duties aforesaid.

(12.) SEC. VI. After the surveyors have returned the plats as aforesaid, and the valuations have been made and recorded as aforesaid, the said court shall fix upon the proper time for selling said lands, which shall, in all cases, be at the county seat, and at the court-house door of the several counties. The said courts may order the whole of said lands to be sold, and the sale to be continued from day to day, or they may order a part only of said lands to be sold from time to time, as they may deem most expedient, and all such orders so made by them shall be entered on record in said book.

(13.) SEC. VII. The said drainage commissioner shall be notified in writing, by the clerk, of all such orders, and within a reasonable time thereafter, not exceeding ten days, he shall give at least sixty days' notice of the time and place of the sale thereof, by publishing the same in some newspaper printed in the county; or if there be no such newspaper, then by posting up two notices thereof in each election precinct, and in the most public places therein in said county, for the like period of sixty days before the said day of sale. The said notices shall contain an accurate description of the lands to be sold, and shall specify the time, place and terms thereof, and that the sale will be at public auction, between the hours of ten o'clock A. M. and five o'clock P. M. of the day fixed therefor, and that the same will be continued from day to day, if deemed necessary.

(14.) SEC. VIII. The terms of selling said lands shall be to the highest bidder, for cash, the amount of which, however, may be discharged by the purchaser in labor, to be performed according to the terms and manner hereinafter specified.

(15.) SEC. IX. In conducting the sale, the said commissioner shall sell the same in such order as may be directed by the county court. No tract shall be sold for less than its valuation, and the same shall be cried separately and long enough to enable any one to bid who desires it.

(16.) SEC. X. Upon closing the sales each day, the purchasers shall each pay or secure the payment of the purchase money according to the terms of sale, or in case of his failure to do so by ten o'clock the succeeding day, the tract purchased shall be again offered at public sale, on the same terms as before, and if the valuation shall be bid, the same shall be stricken off, but if the valuation be not bid, the tract shall be set down as not sold. If sale is made, the former purchaser shall be required to pay the difference between his bid, and the valuation of the tract; and in case of his failure to make such payment, the drainage commissioner may forthwith institute an action of debt or assumpsit in his name, for the use of the inhabitants of the proper county, for the required sum, and upon making proof, shall be entitled to judgment, with costs of suit, which, when collected, shall be applied as other moneys arising from the sale of lands; and if the amount claimed does not exceed one hundred dollars, the suit may be before a justice of the peace, but if more than that sum, then in the circuit court of any county wherein the party may be found.

(17.) SEC. XI. Upon the completion of every sale by the purchaser, the commissioner shall enter the same in a sale book to be kept for that purpose, and shall deliver to the purchaser a certificate of purchase, stating therein the name and residence of the purchaser, describing the land sold, and the price paid therefor; which certificate shall be evidence of the facts therein stated; and when presented to the county court, it shall be the duty of said court to execute and deliver to him a deed in fee simple for the land therein described, signed in their official capacity, and countersigned by the clerk of said court, with the official seal thereto affixed; which said deed shall vest in said purchaser an absolute title in fee simple of said lands therein described.

(18.) SEC. XII. The said county courts shall cause the said lands to be drained, by the construction of proper levees and drains necessary to reclaim the same, and whenever there are bodies of said land extending into two or more counties, and the reclaiming of the same can be more effectually accomplished by the co-operation of such counties, it shall be lawful for them to unite for that purpose; and if the said county courts thus uniting are of opinion that said lands can be more effectually reclaimed, and the value thereof enhanced, by cutting a canal through the same, they are hereby fully authorized so to do.

(19.) SEC. XIII. The surveyors or others employed to perform the duties specified in the fifth section of this act, shall also report to the county courts all the lands in their respective counties which are susceptible of being drained or reclaimed, in all cases where said information cannot be satisfactorily had from the said abstracts from the auditor's office, with an estimate of the probable cost thereof; and at the regular term after said reports are received, the said courts shall divide all such drainable lands in their counties into sections, numbered one, two, three, &c., and whenever there shall be a sufficiency of lands sold to complete one or more sections, the same shall be, as soon as practicable, put under contract, and operations commenced thereon; and in like manner shall the work progress until the avails of said lands are exhausted, or the drainage completed.

(20.) SEC. XIV. The said county court shall cause the work to be done on the said sections, to be let out at public sale to the lowest bidder, and it shall be the duty of the drainage commissioner, on being ordered by said court so to do, to give at least six weeks' notice of the time and place of such lettings, by putting up notices thereof in six of the most public places in the county, and in case there shall be a newspaper printed in the county, then by causing a similar notice thereof to be published in the same for the like period of six successive weeks before the day of such letting. The said lettings shall be at the court-house door of the county, and between the hours of ten o'clock A. M. and five o'clock P. M. of said day; and the said notice shall contain specifications of the work to be done, to be made out under the direction and control of the county court.

(21.) SEC. XV. The persons to whom such lettings shall be struck off, shall enter into bond, with good security, payable to the said commissioner, for the use of the inhabitants of the county, in the penal sum of double the value of his bid, conditioned for the faithful performance of the work so undertaken by him, according to the specifications thereof, and on a failure to comply with the conditions thereof, said bond shall be forfeited, and suit brought upon the same to recover damages for non-compliance.

(22.) SEC. XVI. The said county courts, in laying off said work into sections as aforesaid, shall make such division thereof as will enable purchasers of land to pay for the same in necessary work; and if said purchasers shall be the lowest bidders at the lettings, the land so purchased shall be paid for in work; but if any other responsible person or persons shall be lower bidders, the same shall be struck off to him and them, and the purchasers aforesaid shall be forthwith required to pay for their lands purchased in cash, or on credit, by giving mortgage and good security for the purchase money, at the discretion of said drainage commissioner.

(23.) SEC. XVII. That said county courts shall not dispose of or sell more of said lands than shall be absolutely necessary to complete the reclaiming and draining the same; and in all cases where there are any lands remaining unsold after the completion of said draining in any county, the lands so remaining unsold as aforesaid, shall belong and the same are hereby granted to the several townships in such county, equally to be divided between them, and shall constitute a part of the school fund of each township, and shall be disposed of by the school commissioners of said counties, for educational purposes, in the same manner as the sixteenth in each township now is by law: Provided, That any county in this State may apply the remainder of said lands in such county to the construction of roads, bridges or other works of internal improvements within the limits thereof, in case it shall be deemed expedient by the court so to do.

(24.) SEC. XVIII. If any drainage commissioner, or other person, shall embezzle or appropriate to their own use any money, bonds, bills, notes or mortgages, belonging to the drainage fund of any county in this State, he, she or they shall be liable to indictment, and on conviction shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary of this State for a period not less than one nor more than five years, and such conviction shall work a forfeiture of office in all cases.

(25.) SEC. XIX. All lands not sold at public sale, as herein provided for, shall be subject to sale at any time thereafter at the valuation, and the county judges in term time, or the clerks of the county court in vacation, are authorized and required to sell all such lands at private sale upon the terms which they were offered at public sale, the money to be paid over to the drainage commissioner, and his receipt taken therefor: Provided, The purchaser shall pay a fee of fifty cents to the said clerk for each tract purchased; and all incidental and necessary expenses incurred in carrying into effect the provisions of this act, shall, on being satisfactorily proved before the county court, be paid by the drainage commissioner out of any funds in his hands not otherwise appropriated.

(26.) SEC. XX. The surveyors and assistant surveyors employed in selecting the swamp and overflowed lands donated to the State of Illinois by the general government, under an act of Congress, dated September twenty-eight, eighteen hundred and fifty, shall be allowed the sum of three dollars per day, which shall include and be in full for their services and all expenses of whatsoever kind.

(27.) SEC. XXI. The chainmen and others necessarily employed by the surveyors in surveying and locating the said lands, shall be allowed the sum of one dollar per day, which shall include and be in full for their services and expenses; and where it was necessary to employ a team, the sum of one dollar per day shall be allowed for the time actually employed. And the county clerks of the respective counties shall be allowed a reasonable compensation, in the discretion of the county court, to be paid in the same manner as the county surveyors, for all abstracts, certificates, copies of records, official searches, and other services necessarily rendered by them to and at the request of such surveyors in surveying and locating said lands.

(28.) SEC. XXII. The surveyor shall be required to file in the office of the auditor of public accounts, an affidavit, setting forth the number of days he was actually and necessarily employed, and the number of days that each person, naming such person, was actually and necessarily employed by him, and when a team was employed, the number of days such team was actually and necessarily employed, and when an assistant surveyor was employed, that such assistant is a practical surveyor, and was authorized by him to make selections of swamp and overflowed lands.

(29.) SEC. XXIII. Assistant surveyors shall be required to file in the office of the auditor of public accounts, a like affidavit as that required of the surveyor in the preceding section.

(30.) SEC. XXIV. Assistant surveyors shall only receive the pay allowed by this act to assistant surveyors, where they have been employed separate and apart from the surveyor; and no assistant surveyor shall be entitled to pay as an assistant surveyor where he has been employed in selecting the same lands selected by the surveyor, or for lands selected by them jointly, which fact shall be proven by the affidavit of the surveyor.

(31.) SEC. XXV. When accounts are proved and filed as provided for in this act, in such manner as shall be satisfactory to the auditor, the auditor is hereby authorized and required to draw his warrant on the treasurer for the amount thereof in favor of the persons entitled thereto, or on their written order. The several amounts authorized to be paid by this act, are hereby appropriated: Provided, That the auditor shall charge the several amounts so paid, to the drainage fund of the several counties, and the same shall be a debt due and owing from such fund to the State; and it is hereby made the duty of the drainage commissioners to pay, out of the first moneys received from the sale of lands, to the collectors of the several counties, the said amounts so charged by the auditor against such drainage funds as aforesaid, which said amounts shall be paid by said collectors into the State treasury as other State funds.

(32.) SEC. XXVI. Each and every person who, on the twenty-eighth day of September, one thousand eight hundred and fifty, was the owner of any improvement made previous to that date, or who since that date has become the owner of such improvement, on any of the said swamp and overflowed lands, and who became such owner with a view to a residence on or occupation of such land for agricultural purposes, shall have the right to purchase, at the appraised value thereof, a quantity of land, including his said improvement, to be bounded by the legal subdivisions, not exceeding one quarter section, to consist of the quarter quarter, half quarter, or quarter section: Provided, That any person claiming the right to purchase under this act shall, within three months from the passage of this act, file in the clerk's office of the county court of the proper county, a notice of his, her or their claims, describing the land by its numbers, accompanied with an affidavit stating the date and object of the improvement, the time and manner, where and how, he, she or they became the owner thereof, and also the affidavits of two residents of the county, proving the facts in relation to such claims: And provided, further, That any person claiming the right to purchase as aforesaid, shall, within twelve months from the day fixed for the letting of the section in which his said improvement may be situated, pay to the drainage commissioner the consideration money for the land claimed, or the person so claiming shall be allowed to pay the same in labor, according to the provisions of this act, which payment shall entitle him, her or them to a deed, conveying an estate in fee; but in case of failure to make such payment, or to pay in labor as aforesaid, the right to make the purchase shall cease. When two or more persons claim the right to purchase the same land, and file the proof of ownership as herein required, the person proving the first residence or ownership, by himself or those under whom he claims the improvement, shall have the right to make the purchase, but no sale or conveyance of any lot of land under the provisions of this section, shall affect the rights or equities of parties claiming the same as between each other.

(33.) SEC. XXVII. All business in relation to the swamp and overflowed lands shall be transacted at the regular term of the county courts, except on extraordinary occasions, when said county courts shall have the power to appoint special terms for the transaction of such business. And where said counties have adopted the township organization law, and are acting under its provisions, the county judge in such counties shall exercise the same powers and perform the same duties as the judges of the county courts are required to exercise and perform under the provisions of this act, and they shall hold meetings for the transaction of all business connected with the swamp and overflowed lands in their counties, at such times as the county courts are required to do, and they may convene on extraordinary occasions to transact such business, when the nature of the case shall require it. The fees of officers and others necessarily employed, shall be as follows: To the drainage commissioner, such reasonable compensation as may be allowed by the county court or county judge; to the county judge, or judge and clerks, the same fees as are now allowed by law for the performance of their other duties: Provided, That the clerks shall prepare all deeds to be executed by said county judges or judge, for which they shall be allowed one dollar, to be paid in all cases by the purchaser; to surveyors, chainmen and others necessarily employed, a reasonable compensation, to be fixed by the court or county judge; which fees, with the exception aforesaid, shall be paid out of the drainage fund. It shall be the duty of all constables, coroners, sheriffs, justices of the peace, county surveyors and grand jurors, to take notice of all trespasses committed on such lands, either by cutting timber or otherwise; and to take all legal steps, under the laws of this State, to bring such offenders to punishment. And it shall be the duty of the State's attorneys in the respective judicial circuits, to give this section specially in charge to the grand jurors of such counties at each circuit court.

(34.) SEC. XXVIII. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to amend an Act to dispose of the Swamp and overflowed Lands, and to pay the Expenses of selecting and surveying the Same, approved June 22, 1852.

be and the same is hereby so amended as to authorize the auditor of public accounts to receive of the agent appointed by the governor to select and report the swamp and overflowed lands in the county of Iroquois, any number of townships said agent may report as complete, and pay the expense of selecting the same, at any time. Any number of townships may be reported, instead of receiving the reports of the county complete, as is now required by said act.

(36.) SEC. II. This act to be in force and effect from and after its passage.

An Act to amend an Act entitled "An Act to dispose of the Swamp and overflowed Lands, and to pay the Expenses of selecting and surveying the Same," approved June 22, 1852.

[Approved March 4, 1854. Laws, 1854, p. 19.]

(38.) SEC. II. That in all cases where the county courts shall require the purchasers to pay to the drainage commissioners the cash for said lands, as prescribed by the first section of this act, the purchaser, his heirs or assigns, are hereby entitled to receive from the United States, or the State of Illinois, the original consideration paid by him for lands as aforesaid, whether in money or military bounty land warrants, as the case may be.

(39.) SEC. III. The board of supervisors, in counties that have adopted township organization, are hereby vested with all the powers, and may make all orders and regulations that county courts are authorized to make and receive by this act.

(40.) SEC. IV. A certified copy of all orders made by county courts, or the board of supervisors, requiring the purchasers aforesaid to pay to the drainage commissioner the cash for swamp and overflowed lands, shall, by said courts or board of supervisors, be published four weeks successively in some public newspaper published in such counties respectively; and if there shall be no newspaper published in such counties, then such orders shall be published in the nearest newspaper to said counties, and copies of the paper containing said orders shall be filed by the clerks of the county courts, or board of supervisors, among the records of swamp and overflowed lands; said orders to be published immediately after the adjournment of the court or board of supervisors making such orders, and all expenses incurred for copying, certifying and printing, as specified in this act, shall be paid out of the drainage fund of such county.

(41.) SEC. V. County courts or the board of supervisors, as the case may be, may, in their discretion, after the incidental expenses of selecting, surveying, draining, reclaiming, platting, selling, &c., are fully paid, apply the excess, if any there be, arising from the sales of the swamp and overflowed lands, situate in their counties respectively, to such purposes as they may deem expedient: Provided, That the disposition of said fund shall be entered of record at any regular or special term or terms at which the same shall be applied.

(42.) SEC. VI. All persons having the right of pre-emption in any of the swamp or overflowed lands, may prove the same at any time before the day of sale, and upon filing the proof thereof, shall be entitled to a pre-emption in like manner as if such pre-emption had been proven within the time required by the act to which this is an amendment.

(43.) SEC. VII. Whenever it shall be necessary to take private property in carrying out the general provisions of this act, or the act to which it is an amendment, the county or the persons desiring to use such property or materials, shall make a just compensation therefor to the person whose property or materials may be wanted, taken or injured; and in case the amount of injury, value or damages and compensation thereof cannot be agreed upon, the same shall be determined, valued, condemned, paid for, and taken by virtue of, under, and according to the provisions of the laws of this State now in force in relation to the right of way; and when said value or damages are assessed, and paid or tendered, according to the provisions of said act, the said county, or persons acting under the county, may take and use the property so condemned for the purpose of said drainage.

(44.) SEC. VIII. The evidence of title from the general government, of the swamp and overflowed lands granted to this State by act of Congress of September 28, 1850, shall be filed in the auditor's office, and as soon as practicable thereafter, the auditor of public accounts shall cause to be made out, for each of the several counties, a correct abstract or list of said lands, the correctness of which list shall be certified to by the said auditor, with the seal of his office attached thereto, and the lists so made out shall be sufficient evidence of the title of the lands therein described; said lists shall be forwarded by mail or other safe conveyance to the clerk of the county court of the proper county, and upon the receipt of such lists, the said clerk shall file them in his office, and shall cause them to be recorded in a proper and well-bound book. The lists conveying the land as aforesaid shall have the same force and effect as patents issued for school lands, and duly certified copies thereof shall be received in all courts, and have the same force and effect as the original lists so filed and recorded.

(45.) SEC. IX. It shall be the duty of the auditor to cause the lists or patents received from the general government to be recorded in a well-bound book, and safely preserved in his office, and abstracts or diagrams therefrom, properly certified by the auditor, shall be evidence of the facts therein stated.

(46.) SEC. X. The clerk of the county court shall be allowed and paid for recording the lists aforesaid, two cents per tract for each and every tract contained therein, to be paid out of the swamp land fund; and the auditor shall be allowed like compensation for recording the lists or patents from the general government in his office, and for making out the lists for the several counties, to be paid out of the State treasury.

(47.) SEC. XI. The clerks of the county courts, respectively, shall execute all deeds for swamp or overflowed lands, and affix the seal of the county court thereto, which deeds shall vest in the purchaser an absolute title in fee simple to the lands therein described.

(48.) SEC. XII. All the parts of the acts to which this is an amendment, which appear to grant the swamp and overflowed lands to the townships in the several counties, and which authorize the county judges to execute deeds, and all other parts of said acts which are inconsistent with the provisions of this act, are hereby repealed; and all the swamp and overflowed lands granted to the State of Illinois by the act of Congress aforesaid, are hereby granted to and vested in the several counties in which they are situated.

(49.) SEC. XIII. Provided, That nothing herein contained shall change or vitiate the sales or applications of sales made by any county previous to the passage of this act; and the secretary of State is hereby required to cause to be sent to the clerks of the county courts, respectively, a certified copy of this act. County courts, or boards of supervisors, shall have power to remove from office drainage commissioners, if in their opinion the public interest requires it, and fill vacancies.

(50.) SEC. XIV. This act to take effect from and after its passage.

An Act to amend an Act entitled "An Act to dispose of the Swamp and overflowed Lands, and to pay the Expenses of selecting and surveying the Same," approved June 22, 1852; and to vest the Title of such of the said Lands as lie in Kankakee County in said Kankakee County, and to provide for the Payment of selecting, surveying and locating said Lands.

Approved March 1, 1854. Private Laws, 1854, p. 100.]

(52.) SEC. II. The auditor of State shall, upon the receipt of the returns of swamp and overflowed lands selected by the counties of Will and Iroquois, or so much thereof as may be approved by the general government, shall be listed to the county of Kankakee, which list shall be certified to by the auditor of public accounts, with the seal of his office attached thereto, and said list so made out shall be sufficient evidence of title to the lands therein described. The remainder of said lands reported by the counties of Will and Iroquois, shall be conveyed to them: Provided, The county of Kankakee shall produce a receipt in full satisfaction for the expense of selecting, surveying and locating the same from the counties of Will and Iroquois.

(53.) SEC. III. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to vest the Board of Supervisors of Cook County to control the Swamp and overflowed Lands situate therein.

[Approved March 4, 1854. Private Laws, 1854, p. 184.]

(55.) SEC. II. This act shall be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to amend an Act entitled "An Act to dispose of the Swamp and overflowed Lands, and to pay the Expenses of selecting and surveying the Same," approved June 22, 1852.

[Approved Feb. 15, 1855. Laws, 1855, p. 149.]

(57.) SEC. II. This act to take effect from and after its passage.

An Act to amend the several Laws of this State in relation to Swamp Lands.

[Approved Feb. 15, 1855. Laws, 1855, p. 176.]

time hereafter in the manner now provided for by law, anything in the laws of this State in relation to swamp lands to the contrary notwithstanding.

(59.) SEC. II. This act shall be deemed a public act, and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to provide for the Sale of the State Lands and Liquidation of State Indebtedness, and to grant the Right of Pre-emption to Settlers on State Lands.

(61.) SEC. II. The auditor shall cause all the said lands to be offered at public sale by auction, within a period of twelve months from the passage of this act, and shall sell said lands for gold or silver, to the highest bidder: Provided, That any of said lands shall not be struck off and sold for a less amount per acre than three dollars and fifty cents; and all such lands as may be appraised at less than that sum, may be struck off and sold at their appraisement, as made in pursuance of "An act to provide for the sale of public property, and the payment of the public debt," in force March 4, 1843.

(62.) SEC. III. The auditor shall cause all such lands to be offered for sale at the several county seats in which said lands are situated; notices of such sales to be published in two newspapers in the county where such land is located, if any there be, if not, in the nearest newspaper published in the vicinity; and in those counties where no newspaper is published, in addition to the foregoing notice, the auditor shall cause printed notices of such sale, to be posted in at least three public places within such county, four weeks before the day of sale, of which sales he shall give public notice in the newspapers published in the aforementioned places, if any there be, and if not, in the newspaper or newspapers, as he may determine, published nearest to such places, describing, by numbers of the United States surveys, each tract of land which will be offered for sale, and stating that the same will be sold for gold or silver only; which notices shall be so published four successive times, at least eight weeks before the time of sale.

(63.) SEC. IV. Said sale shall be continued, from day to day, until each tract shall have been once offered, giving a reasonable time for bids to be made for each tract; and all such lands remaining unsold, after having been so offered, shall then be subject to entry, in the auditor's office, for gold or silver, at the rate of three dollars and fifty cents per acre, except such lands as are appraised at less than that sum, which shall be subject to entry at their appraisement. And no person shall be allowed to buy at any of such sales a larger quantity of said lands than the amount of three hundred and twenty acres. And one year from and after the said lands shall be so offered at public sale, the price thereof shall be reduced fifty cents on each and every acre, and the auditor shall so continue, at the expiration of each and every year thereafter, to reduce the price of said lands fifty cents per acre, until the same shall be sold; but in no case shall any of said lands be sold for a less sum than one dollar and fifty cents per acre. After holding such sales, the auditor shall cause separate lists to be made of the lands remaining unsold in each county, and shall send such lists to the clerks of the county courts of such counties, to be by them kept in their offices for inspection.

(64.) SEC. V. The auditor shall issue a certificate to all purchasers, stating therein the amount bid per acre for each tract, which shall entitle the holder thereof, or his heirs or other legal representatives, to a deed, to be made in the same manner as deeds or patents were made to such lands before they were withheld from sale by the act to suspend the sale of lands owned by the State, approved February seventh, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-one.

(65.) SEC. VI. All moneys received by the auditor for such lands, shall be by him paid over to the State treasurer monthly, who shall give him a voucher therefor, which shall be filed in the auditor's office; and the auditor shall enter an account of all such sales upon a book or books to be kept, or now kept, in his office, which books shall be open to the inspection of any person interested.

(66.) SEC. VII. All moneys so received into the treasury shall be invested, by the governor, in bonds, scrip or other State indebtedness now due, or which may hereafter become due, and the governor shall cancel all such indebtedness, of whatever kind, and deliver the same to the auditor, together with a statement showing the numbers and description of such indebtedness, and the amount paid therefor; also the names of the persons from whom such bonds, scrip or other State indebtedness were purchased; all of which shall be reported to the next General Assembly, and biennially thereafter, until all such lands are sold by the auditor, who shall also make a record in his office of all such indebtedness so cancelled.

(67.) SEC. VIII. Any person having become an actual settler on any forty or eighty acre tract of land now belonging to the State, previous to the entry or selection of said land by the State, or owner or owners, in possession at the time of the passage of this act, of any improvement so made, he or she shall be entitled to the right of pre-emption to any such tract or tracts of land, not exceeding eighty acres, extending to the period of two years from the passage of this act, at the price of one dollar and twenty-five cents per acre, with six per cent. per annum interest from the date of entry or selection by the State until paid for by the person having such pre-emption right. And any owner or owners of any improvement at the time of the passage of this act, made on any forty or eighty acre tract of said lands previous to the first day of October, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-two, he or she shall be entitled to the right of pre-emption to any such tract or tracts of land, not exceeding eighty acres, extending to the period of two years from the passage of this act, at the price per acre of the last appraisalment made by authority of the State: Provided, That every person claiming the right of pre-emption under this act, shall file his or her claim with the auditor of public accounts within six months from the passage of this act, authenticated by his or her affidavit, and by the oath of one or more competent witnesses, establishing his or her claim, made before some person having the authority to administer oaths under the laws of this State, particularly and accurately describing such tract or tracts of land, and setting forth that such person had settled on the same previous to the entry or selection thereof by the State, or had purchased and was the owner of an improvement so made, or was the owner of an improvement, at the passage of this act, made previous to the first day of October, 1852, as the case may be.

(68.) SEC. IX. All bills for expenses necessarily incurred by the auditor in carrying out the provisions of this act, shall be submitted to the governor, and, upon his approval, the auditor shall issue his warrants on the State treasury for the payment of the same.

(69.) SEC. X. Any such lands to which pre-emption rights may be established within the time specified by this act, shall not be offered at public sale, nor be subject to entry until the pre-emption right thereto shall have expired.

(70.) SEC. XI. All combinations, agreements, contracts and bargains, of every kind and description, intended to enable any person or persons to acquire more than three hundred and twenty acres of land under the provisions of this act, shall be unlawful and void, and the title to the land attempted to be illegally conveyed shall remain in the State, without refunding the money paid therefor.

(71.) SEC. XII. This act to be in force from and after its passage, and to be immediately published by the secretary of State in the public papers printed in Springfield; to defray the expenses of which, the auditor is hereby authorized, on the certificate of the secretary, to draw his warrant on the treasurer.

An Act amendatory of an Act entitled "An Act to provide for the Sale of the State Lands and Liquidation of State Indebtedness, and to grant the Right of Pre-emption to Settlers on State Lands," in force February 14, 1853.

[Approved Feb. 10, 1855. Laws, 1855, p. 45.]

(73.) SEC. II. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

PRIOR LAWS. An act concerning occupying claimants of land; approved Feb. 23, 1819. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 416.

An act to provide for the collection of demands growing out of contracts for sales of improvements on public lands; approved Feb. 15, 1831. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 420.

An act to define the extent of possession in cases of settlement on the public lands; approved Feb. 27, 1837. Laws, 1837, p. 154.

An act supplemental to an act entitled "An act to define the extent of possession in cases of settlement on the public lands," approved Feb. 27, 1837; approved Feb. 16, 1839. Laws, 1839, p. 124.

An act to provide for the collection of demands growing out of contracts for the sales of the possession of the public lands; in force Feb. 2, 1839. Laws, 1839, p. 47.

An act to provide for settlers on lands purchased by the State; approved Feb. 27, 1841. Laws, 1841, p. 191.

An act to revive an act to provide for settlers on lands purchased by the State; approved Feb. 21, 1843. Laws, 1843, p. 184.

DECISIONS. A promise to pay for improvements upon the public lands does not bind the promisor, if made after his purchase of the lands. Carson v. Clark, 1 S. 113. See also, Roberts v. Garen, 1 S. 396; Townsend v. Briggs, 1 S. 472.

The statute of 1831, respecting the sale of improvements on the public lands, applies only to the sale of improvements which are on land owned by the government, at the time the contract of sale is made. Hutson v. Overturf, 1 S. 170.

A purchaser of land from the United States, or this State, acquires the right to all the improvements made on it before his purchase. Blair v. Worley, 1 S. 178.

To recover for improvements made on the public lands, the plaintiff is only required to prove an express promise to pay; and if no price be agreed on, the value must be ascertained by proof thereof. Johnson v. Moulton, 1 S. 532.

Mere entry on land, without color of title, constitutes possession of what is inclosed only. Webb v. Sturtevant, 1 S. 181.

A settler on the public lands of the United States cannot maintain trespass against one who enters and cuts down timber upon any part of the land not actually occupied and inclosed by the settler. Lovett et al. v. Noble, 1 S. 185.

Where the plaintiff had made rails from timber on government land, and left them on the land, and the defendant afterwards purchased the land of the government, and converted the rails to his own use: Held, that the rails did not pass with the land, and that their value could be recovered in trespass. Wincher v. Shrewsbury, 2 S. 283.

To maintain trespass, under the "Act to define the extent of possession in cases of settlement on government lands," it is not necessary that the premises should be inclosed by a fence, nor that the plaintiff should be settled on the tract where the trespass is committed, or on an adjoining tract. In the trial of a trespass suit under that act, evidence may be given of the custom of the neighborhood in relation to claims, not exceeding 320 acres. Gleason et al. v. Edmunds, 2 S. 448.

The possession of land, or a claim of title thereto, may be the subject of sale or transfer; and such sale or transfer, made by one in possession of government land, is a good consideration for a note given for the price. Doyle et al. v. Knapp, 3 S. 334.

The lands of the United States, in possession of occupants, are treated by the laws of Illinois as the property of the occupants, and as such, are controlled by the law so far as the occupants are concerned, except that no disposition can be made of them to affect a title derived from the United States. Persons in possession and owning claims and improvements on the public lands, whether pre-emptors or not, are included within the provisions of the mechanics' lien law. Turney et al. v. Saunders et al., 4 S. 527.

Improvements on government lands are by law regarded as property, and under the United States bankrupt law of Aug. 19, 1841, such improvements would pass to the assignee of the bankrupt. French v. Carr, 2 G. 664.

Improvements on the public lands are property, and the subject matter of contracts. They may be sold on execution, and the purchaser may maintain ejectment for their possession, but these rights cannot be enforced against the United States or its grantee, and they cease to exist on the sale of the land by the United States. Switzer v. Skiles et al., 3 G. 529.

To constitute a valid claim to unsurveyed public lands, the claim must be plainly marked, so as to distinguish it from adjacent lands. Sergeant v. Kellogg et al., 5 G. 273.

The 1st section, 61st chapter, Rev. Stat., 1845, makes valid all "contracts, promises, assumpsits or undertakings," made in good faith, for the sales of improvements on the public lands. The statute authorizes a recovery upon such promises and undertakings as do not strictly amount to a contract, and authorizes a promise to be enforced which is a mere gratuity. Taylor v. Davis, 11 Ill. 10.

The statute concerning occupying claimants of land, is constitutional. Ross v. Irving, and Pryor v. Irving, 14 Ill. 171.

(1.) SECTION I. The common law of England, so far as the same is applicable and of a general nature, and all statutes or acts of the British parliament made in aid of, and to supply the defects of the common law, prior to the fourth year of James the First, excepting the second section of the sixth chapter of forty-third Elizabeth, the eighth chapter of thirteenth Elizabeth, and ninth chapter of thirty-seventh Henry eighth; and which are of a general nature and not local to that kingdom, shall be the rule of decision, and shall be considered as of full force until repealed by legislative authority.

(2.) SEC. II. Whenever a bill which shall have passed both houses of the General Assembly, shall be returned by the council of revision, with objections thereto, and upon reconsideration, shall pass both houses by the constitutional majority, it shall be authenticated as having become a law, by a certificate thereon to the following effect:

"This bill having been returned by the council of revision, with objections thereto, and after reconsideration, having passed both houses by the constitutional majority, it has become a law, this — day of —,"

Which being signed by the speakers of the senate and of the house of representatives, respectively, shall be deemed a sufficient authentication thereof; whereupon, the bill shall be presented to the governor, to be by him deposited with the laws in the office of the secretary of State.

(3.) SEC. III. Every bill which shall have passed both houses of the General Assembly, and shall not be returned by the council of revision within ten days, having thereby become a law, shall be authenticated by the governor causing the fact to be certified thereon by the secretary of State, in the following form:

"This bill having remained with the council of revision ten days, (Sundays excepted,) and the General Assembly being in session, it has become a law, this — day of —, C. F., Secretary of State."

(4.) SEC. IV. Whenever the General Assembly shall, by their adjournment before the expiration of ten days after the passage of any bill, render the return of such bill by the council of revision within that time impracticable, and the same shall not be returned on the first day of the next meeting of the General Assembly, and shall thereby become a law, the fact shall be authenticated in the manner provided in the preceding section.

(5.) SEC. V. It shall be the duty of the governor of this State, for the time being, so soon as the acts of the General Assembly of this State, after each and every session thereof, shall have been published, to transmit, free of postage, to the executive of each State and territory of the United States, and to the secretary of State of the United States, three copies of the acts of the General Assembly of Illinois, at such session, and request a like interchange by the several States: Provided, That when such request has heretofore been made, it shall not be the duty of the governor again to make it.

(6.) SEC. VI. Any expense incurred by virtue of the preceding section, shall be paid out of the contingent fund, reserved in the State treasury, to be drawn by warrant from the auditor on the certificate of the governor, from time to time, as the case shall require.

(7.) SEC. VII. The secretary of State, on the completion of the printing and binding of the acts of the General Assembly of this State, shall reserve two hundred and fifty copies thereof in his office, subject to the disposition of any future General Assembly. He shall cause to be delivered to the governor, lieutenant governor, auditor of public accounts, State treasurer, each of the justices of the supreme court, attorney general, circuit attorneys, secretary of the senate and clerk of the house of representatives, engrossing and enrolling clerks of each house, one copy each. He shall transmit, by some person or persons with whom he may contract for the purpose, a sufficient number of copies to the clerk of the county commissioners' court of each county, to be distributed among the different civil officers of the county and members of the General Assembly residing therein, allowing one for each probate justice, county commissioner, coroner, clerk of a court, county treasurer, sheriff, justice of the peace, county surveyor, constable, county recorder, school commissioner, and member of the General Assembly residing in the county; and there shall also be delivered to the clerk of the circuit court of each county, two copies for the use of the court, grand jury, and bar; and the surplus copies, if any, shall be by said clerk of the county commissioners' court carefully kept and preserved, to be distributed as may be hereafter directed by law; and the reasonable expenses attending such distribution shall be paid out of the State treasury.

(8.) SEC. VIII. The clerks of the several county commissioners' courts, on receiving the laws for distribution as aforesaid, shall give their receipts for the same; which receipts shall be filed in the secretary's office by the person by whom the said laws were distributed, before he shall be entitled to payment for distributing the same.

(9.) SEC. IX. The clerks of the several county commissioners' courts shall, upon the request of any person who may be entitled to a copy of the laws as aforesaid, deliver to him such copy, taking his receipt for the same; but no person shall be entitled to more than one copy, although he may hold several offices.

(10.) SEC. X. Upon the expiration of the term of service, resignation or removal from office, of any county officer, it shall be his duty to return to the clerk of the county commissioners' court of his county, for the use of his successor in office, the copy or copies of the laws of this State, received by him in pursuance of this chapter, and in case of the death of any such officer, the said copy or copies of the laws shall be returned as aforesaid, by his executors or administrators. If any such officer, his executors or administrators, shall refuse or neglect, for three months after the happening of such vacancy as aforesaid, to return the said copy or copies of the laws, to the clerk of the county commissioners' court as aforesaid, it shall then be the duty of said clerk to sue for the same, before some justice of the peace, and he shall recover for the use of the county, the sum of four dollars for each copy so detained, with costs of suit. No person, however, while he continues to hold any office, which entitles its incumbent to a copy of the laws, shall be required to return his copy of the same as aforesaid.

(11.) SEC. XI. There shall be added to each copy of the laws published in conformity to this chapter, an accurate account of the receipts and expenditures of the public moneys for the two years preceding the session of the General Assembly at which were passed the laws comprised in such copy. The volume hereby required to be published, shall also contain the title of every act of a private or temporary nature, passed at such session.

(12.) SEC. XII. The journals of the General Assembly shall be distributed among the several counties according to the number of white inhabitants, reserving in the office of the secretary of State one hundred copies.

(13.) SEC. XIII. It shall be the duty of the secretary of State to distribute, with the laws of the General Assembly, to each of the clerks of the county commissioners' courts in this State, excepting those counties to which the same shall have already been sent, one set of the documents, legislative and executive, of the Congress of the United States, in relation to the public lands, to be kept by said clerks in their offices for the use of the people of their respective counties.

(14.) SEC. XIV. The secretary of State shall also send to each senatorial district in this State, to which the same shall not have already been sent, one copy of the acts of Congress, from eighteen hundred and twenty-two to the present time, to be deposited with the clerk of the county commissioners' court where the votes for said district are canvassed, for the use of the people of said district, and hereafter with each distribution of the laws of this State there shall be sent out as aforesaid, to each of said districts, one copy of the acts of Congress which may hereafter be received.

An Act to provide for Copying and Distributing the Laws and Journals, and for other Purposes.

(16.) SEC. II. At the time designated in said advertisement, the secretary of State shall open the proposals received by him, in the presence of such persons as may desire to witness the same, and shall give the contract to the lowest competent responsible bidder, who shall be required, within two days after the opening of said proposals, to file a good and sufficient bond, with security, to be approved by the governor, in the sum of one thousand dollars, for the faithful performance of said contract.

(17.) SEC. III. Within thirty days previous to the meeting of any future General Assembly, the secretary of State shall cause an advertisement to be published in at least six of the newspapers printed in this State, inviting proposals for copying the laws, joint resolutions and journals of the General Assembly. The advertisement shall be published at least three weeks, and designate the time and place when proposals will be examined; said proposals to be delivered to the secretary of State within twenty days from the date of the first advertisement. Proposals shall be examined, and the contract given in the manner and form prescribed in the second section of this act, and shall state specifically the price at which it proposed to do said copying of the laws, journals and joint resolutions; which price shall not exceed the sum of twenty cents for each and every one hundred words.

(18.) SEC. IV. The secretary of State shall be required to furnish a well-bound book, in which the journals shall be copied; and shall also furnish the stationery necessarily used in copying the laws. In case the person contracting for said copying shall fail to comply with his contract, by neglect to enter into bond within the time prescribed, the secretary of State shall cause the same to be done by some competent person, who shall receive for his services a compensation not exceeding the sum of twenty cents for each and every one hundred words.

(19.) SEC. V. Within twenty days after the adjournment of the present or any future session of the General Assembly, the secretary of State shall cause an advertisement to be published in six of the newspapers printed in this State, inviting proposals for distributing the laws, journals and reports, and any other matter that the legislature shall designate, to the several counties in this State. Said distribution to be in districts of not less than ten counties each, to be designated in said advertisement, and in such manner, and within such time, as shall be therein specified. Said advertisement to be published at least three weeks, and to name the time and place where said proposals will be opened and decided upon.

(20.) SEC. VI. At the time and place specified in said advertisement, the secretary of State shall open the proposals filed in his office for the distribution aforesaid, in the presence of all persons who may desire to witness the same, and shall give said contract to the lowest competent responsible bidder; who shall, within three days thereafter, file a good and sufficient bond, with satisfactory security to be approved by the governor, for the faithful performance of said contract. In case of failure to enter into a bond as aforesaid, or to perform said contract, the secretary of State shall cause the laws, journals and reports to be distributed by some competent person. The compensation for distributing the laws, journals and reports, shall in no case exceed the sum heretofore allowed by the State for similar services.

(21.) SEC. VII. It shall be the duty of the secretary of State, on or before the first day of July in each year, to cause an advertisement to be published in the newspapers published in Springfield, for proposals for furnishing the necessary fuel for the use of the State during the next ensuing winter; the quantity and quality of the same to be designated in said advertisement; and at the time and place specified, said proposals shall be opened in public, and the contract be given to the lowest responsible bidder or bidders, who shall, within two days, enter into bond, with satisfactory security, for the prompt and faithful delivery of said fuel, according to the terms of the contract. In case of failure to comply with said contract, the secretary of State shall cause said fuel to be supplied without delay: Provided, That in no case shall there be allowed a higher price for said fuel, per cord, than has heretofore been paid by the State.

(22.) SEC. VIII. It shall be the duty of the secretary of State, within six months previous to the meeting of any future General Assembly, to cause an advertisement to be published in three of the newspapers printed in this State, and in one of the newspapers printed in St. Louis, New York and Boston, for proposals to furnish all stationery necessary for the use of the General Assembly, and the several departments of State; the articles of the stationery to be designated in said advertisements; and the proposals to be accompanied by specimens of the articles proposed to be furnished, with the price charged for each article. All of said articles shall be delivered at the office of the secretary of State, in Springfield, at a time to be specified in said advertisement; the advertisement to be published not less than three weeks, and to designate the time and place of opening and examining said proposals. On the day named in the said advertisement, the secretary of State shall open the proposals in public, and contract with the lowest responsible bidder or bidders for the prompt delivery of all the articles of stationery necessary for the use of the State. A good and sufficient bond, for the faithful performance of the contract, shall be filed in the office of the secretary of State within three days after the proposals shall have been decided upon. In case of failure to deliver said articles of stationery according to the terms of the contract, and of the quality of the specimens accompanying the proposals, the secretary of State shall cause the same to be furnished and paid for as formerly: Provided, That the prices allowed for any of the articles enumerated in said advertisement, shall in no case exceed the prices which have been heretofore paid by the State for similar articles furnished for the use of the General Assembly.

(23.) SEC. IX. The binding of the laws, journals and reports of the General Assembly shall be given out by contract, to the lowest responsible bidder, at the time and in the manner and form prescribed in the eighty-fourth chapter of the Revised Statutes. Said binding shall be done at prices not exceeding those now allowed by law.

(24.) SEC. X. In case of failure to file proposals under the provisions of this act, or in case any person or persons entering into contract shall fail to comply faithfully and promptly with the terms of said contract and proposals, it shall be the duty of the secretary of State to cause the articles to be supplied, or the services performed without unnecessary delay, as nearly as possible within the time and in the manner prescribed by law, and at prices not exceeding those specified in this act. And when said articles are delivered, or the service completed, to the satisfaction of the secretary of State, he shall certify the amount due the persons furnishing or performing the same. Upon the presentation of such certificate, approved by the governor, the auditor of public accounts shall draw his warrant upon the treasurer for the amount due said person or persons, as certified as aforesaid. All advertisements for proposals of any kind shall be paid for out of the public treasury, upon the warrant of the auditor of public accounts.

(25.) SEC. XI. This act to take effect from and after its passage.

An Act to amend an Act entitled "An Act to provide for Copying and Distributing the Laws and Journals, and for other Purposes."

(27.) SEC. II. Hereafter it shall be the duty of the secretary of State, whenever the laws and journals are distributed, to cause the reports of the supreme court belonging to the several officers of the respective counties, which may remain in his office, to be distributed in the same manner as said laws and journals.

(28.) SEC. II. There shall be printed for the use of the State, and for distribution to the several counties, under the provisions of section seven, of chapter sixty-two, Revised Statutes, eight thousand copies of the acts and resolutions of the present session of the General Assembly; and hereafter, until otherwise directed, a sufficient number of copies of the acts of each session shall be printed to enable the secretary of State to make such distribution thereof as is now or may be required by law.

(29.) SEC. IV. The secretary of State shall cause to be printed and bound with the volume of public acts of the present session, the public acts of the late special session of the General Assembly, causing said acts of the special session to be placed and indexed in the fore part of said volume.

(30.) SEC. V. It shall be the duty of the said secretary of State to cause to be printed and distributed, as now provided by law, a number of copies of said acts of the present and late special session, equal to one-eighth the whole number required for distribution, to be deposited with the counties respectively, in the proportions to which they are now entitled, for future distribution, as the future wants of the respective counties may demand.

(31.) SEC. VI. Until otherwise provided by law, there shall be printed for the use of the State, and for distribution to the several counties, eight thousand copies of the laws of the General Assembly, over and above the eighth part to be deposited with the counties, as provided for in the above sections.

(32.) SEC. VII. It shall be the duty of the secretary of State to give four weeks' notice, biennially, in the month of May, by advertising in the papers published in the places named as required in the first section of "An act concerning public printing," approved Feb. 8, 1849, that he will receive sealed proposals for executing the printing of the journals, reports and laws, and all other printing ordered by the General Assembly. Said proposals to be delivered to the secretary of State within forty days after the last day of May, biennially.

(33.) SEC. VIII. Hereafter, and until otherwise provided by law, there shall be printed for the use of the State, and for distribution to the several counties, one thousand copies of the reports. This section to apply to the reports of the present session.

(34.) SEC. IX. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to provide for the Reprinting of the Public Laws enacted the First Session of the Sixteenth General Assembly of Illinois, together with the Constitution.

(36.) SEC. II. Said five thousand copies shall be distributed among the several counties in this State, in proportion to the number of copies of the laws to which each county is now entitled, and the county clerks of the several counties shall distribute them among such officers as are entitled to copies of the laws, and are now unprovided with the public laws of 1849.

(37.) SEC. III. There shall be printed and distributed, in like manner, five thousand copies of the laws of this State of 1847.

(38.) SEC. IV. There shall be printed, along with the other laws, one thousand extra copies of each session, which shall be kept by the secretary of State, and sold at cost, and the proceeds accounted for by him.

(39.) SEC. V. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

	15. Proceeds of sales of surplus copies of laws of State, how to be applied.
	16. Appropriation for years 1855 and 1856.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 340.]

(1.) SECTION I. The books now belonging to the State, and such as shall be hereafter purchased or received by the State, except the law books now in the custody of the clerk of the supreme court, and such additions as hereafter may be made to them, which shall remain under the direction and control of the supreme court, shall be kept in the office of the secretary of State, and shall compose the State library.

(2.) SEC. II. The secretary of State shall be librarian, and take charge of the library and all papers, maps and charts properly belonging thereto, under such regulations as are hereinafter established, and shall take special care that none of them be lost or injured.

(3.) SEC. III. Books may be taken from the State library by the members of the General Assembly and its officers during the session of the legislature, and at any time by the governor and the officers of the executive department of this State, who are required to keep their offices at the seat of government, the justices of the supreme court and attorney general: Provided, That no person shall be permitted to take or detain from the library more than two volumes of miscellaneous works at any one time.

(4.) SEC. IV. The librarian shall cause to be kept a register of all books issued and returned at the times they shall be so issued and returned; and none of the books except the laws, journals and reports of this State, which may be taken from the library by members of the legislature or its officers during the session, shall be retained more than two weeks; and all the books taken by members of the General Assembly or its officers, of every kind, shall be returned at the close of the session.

(5.) SEC. V. If any person injure or fail to return any book taken from the library within the time prescribed in the foregoing section, he shall forfeit and pay to the librarian, for the benefit of the library, three times the value thereof, or of the set to which it belongs; and before the auditor shall issue his warrant in favor of any member or officer of the General Assembly, for his services during the session, he shall be satisfied that such member or officer has returned all books taken out of the library by him, and has settled all accounts for injuring such books or otherwise.

(6.) SEC. VI. All fines and forfeitures accruing under and by virtue of this chapter, shall be recoverable by action of debt before any justice of the peace or court having jurisdiction of the same, in the name of the people of the State of Illinois, for the use of the State library; and in all such trials, the entries of the librarian, to be made as hereinbefore described, shall be evidence of the delivery of the book or books, and of the date thereof; and it shall be his duty to carry the provisions of this chapter into execution, and sue for all injuries done to the library, and for all penalties under this chapter.

An Act to amend an Act in relation to the State Library.

[Approved Jan. 26, 1847. Laws, 1847, p. 160.]

original cost of the same to the State, the surplus volumes of the Revised Statutes of Illinois for 1845, the surplus volumes of the American State papers, relating to public lands, the surplus volumes of the sixth census of 1840, now belonging to the State of Illinois, and such other surplus volumes as shall be deemed by the governor unnecessary to be retained in the State library, and for the use of the State; a sufficient number of the above mentioned works, for all the purposes of the State, and for the use of the State library, are to be retained out of the sales aforesaid.

(8.) SEC. II. It shall be the duty of the secretary of State, in addition to his duties in charge of the State library, and as librarian of the same, as is now required by law, to cause all books belonging to the State library to be returned to said library on or before the second Monday before the commencement of each regular session of the State legislature, and to make a report to each regular session of the legislature, of the condition of the library, what books, maps and pamphlets have been added to the same since the previous session of the legislature, what have been lost, if any, and the names of all persons who stand charged with books delivered, which have not been returned; for all which services, as State librarian, the secretary of State shall receive such compensation as the State library committee shall agree upon, not exceeding one hundred dollars per annum:

(9.) SEC. III. It shall be the duty of the librarian, as soon as the same can be done to the best advantage to the State library, to make or cause to be made a catalogue of all books, pamphlets, maps, &c., in the same, and cause three hundred of the same to be printed.

(10.) SEC. IV. The proceeds of the sales of the surplus books, as mentioned in section one of this act, after paying the necessary expenses of such sale, and all other sums of money appropriated and unexpended, or which may be hereafter appropriated for the use of said State library, shall be expended by the secretary of State, under the direction of the governor, for the sole and express benefit of said library.

(11.) SEC. V. The copy of the narrative of the United States exploring expedition, furnished by the government of the United States, together with such other volumes in relation to said expedition as may hereafter be published by order of Congress, and the copy of the natural history of the State of New York, presented to the library by said State, shall not be permitted to be taken out of the library room.

An Act to increase the State Library.

[Approved Feb. 8, 1849. Laws, 1849, (1st Sess.) p. 98.]

An Act to authorize the State Librarian to repair the Library Room, and for other Purposes.

and the same is hereby appropriated, for the purpose of putting up additional shelves in the library room, and making glass cases in which to keep the most valuable works; also for repairing the said library room and the office of secretary of State; which said sum of money shall be expended under the direction of the secretary of State, and the auditor is hereby required to issue his warrant on the treasurer for said amount, to be paid to the said secretary for the purposes aforesaid.

(14.) SEC. II. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to authorize the Purchase of Books for the State Library.

(16.) SEC. II. That there be appropriated for the years 1855 and 1856, the sum of five hundred dollars, to be applied in the purchase of books for the State library; and that the State librarian or secretary of State shall report to the legislature at its every session, (regular and special,) the number and title of books purchased, their price per volume, and the aggregate amount expended for said purpose.

PRIOR LAWS. An act making an appropriation for a library for the use of the legislature and supreme court; approved Feb. 22, 1839. Laws, 1839, p. 149.

(1.) SECTION I. No merchant, auctioneer, peddler or other person or persons, company or corporation, shall be permitted to sell, vend or retail, either at private sale or public auction, any goods, wares or merchandise, without having first obtained a license for that purpose, as hereinafter provided.

(2.) SEC. II. The county commissioners' courts of the respective counties in this State shall have power to grant such licenses, on the payment into the county treasury, by the applicant for such license, of a sum to be assessed by said court, not less than five nor more than one hundred dollars.

(3.) SEC. III. Such license shall authorize the person receiving it, to vend, sell and retail goods, wares and merchandise within said county for the space of one year from the time of granting the same.

(4.) SEC. IV. If the county commissioners' court shall not be in session when the application is made, the clerk may grant a written permission to the applicant to vend, sell and retail goods, wares and merchandise until the end of the next term of the court, or if the court take no action upon the case, for the term provided in the third section of this chapter. At the time of granting such permission, the clerk may assess the amount to be paid by the applicant, which shall be paid into the county treasury accordingly.

(5.) SEC. V. When a permission shall be granted by the clerk in vacation as aforesaid, it shall be the duty of the county commissioners' court, at their next term thereafter, to examine such permit, and if approved, to proceed forthwith to assess the amount to be paid for license, to be paid as in the case of original applications. But if the court do not approve the same, the license shall be vacated, and no other sum shall be required to be paid, than that fixed by the clerk.

(6.) SEC. VI. If any person or persons, company or corporation, shall, directly or indirectly, keep a store, or sell, vend or retail any goods, wares or merchandise, without being first duly authorized by license or permit as aforesaid, such person or persons, company or corporation, so offending, shall forfeit and pay any sum, not exceeding one hundred dollars nor less than ten dollars.

(7.) SEC. VII. The preceding section shall not be construed to extend to the sale of goods, wares and merchandise, by persons who are not merchants, auctioneers, grocers, grocery keepers or peddlers, nor to merchants who pay an annual tax upon merchandise, assessed according to the revenue laws of this State, nor to persons who sell commodities manufactured by themselves in this State.

(8.) SEC. VIII. No citizen of this State, or other person or persons, shall purchase of, or otherwise trade or barter with, any Indian or Indians in this State, for any fire-arms, knives, tomahawks, blankets or horses, under the penalty of not less than twenty dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, for every such offense, recoverable before any court of competent jurisdiction; the one-half part thereof for the use of the county in which such offense is committed, and the other half to the person informing.

(9.) SEC. IX. County commissioners' courts may grant licenses to keep groceries upon the following conditions, to wit: First, the applicant shall pay into the county treasury, for the privilege granted, a sum not exceeding three hundred dollars nor less than twenty-five dollars, in the discretion of the court; Second, the applicant shall execute bond, in the penalty of five hundred dollars, with one or more securities, to be approved by the court, conditioned that the applicant will keep an orderly house, and that he will not permit any unlawful gaming or riotous conduct in his house.

(10.) SEC. X. Upon applications for licenses to keep groceries, the court may reject or grant the same in their discretion.

(11.) SEC. XI. County commissioners' courts shall have power, upon complaint being made to them, to revoke any license granted to keep a grocery, whenever they may be satisfied that the privileges granted have been abused, or that the person to whom the license was granted, has violated the law.

(12.) SEC. XII. Licenses granted to keep groceries, shall not authorize the person obtaining the license, to vend or sell spirituous or vinous liquors in more than one place or house, and every license shall describe the house and place intended to be occupied.

(13.) SEC. XIII. A grocery shall be deemed to include all houses and places where spirituous or vinous liquors are retailed by less quantities than one quart.

(14.) SEC. XIV. The president and trustees of incorporated towns, shall have the exclusive privilege of granting licenses to groceries within their incorporated limits; and all sums of money which may be received for licenses granted as aforesaid, shall be paid into the county treasury.

(15.) SEC. XV. Every person, not having a legal license to keep a grocery, who shall barter, sell, exchange or otherwise dispose of, for his gain or benefit, any vinous, spirituous or mixed liquors in less quantities than one quart, or shall permit the same to be done on his premises, for his gain and benefit, shall forfeit and pay the sum of ten dollars for each offense, together with costs of suit, one-half to any person who shall give information, the other half to be paid into the county treasury: Provided, That a conviction under the one hundred and thirty-second section of chapter thirty of the Revised Statutes, shall bar any suit under this section for the same offense; and judgment under the provisions of this section shall be an effectual bar to a prosecution under the provisions of the said one hundred and thirty-second section.

(16.) SEC. XVI. No grocer or retailer of spirituous liquors, or other person or persons, shall sell, exchange or otherwise deliver to any Indian or Indians, within the boundaries of this State, any spirituous liquors, under the penalty of twenty dollars for every such offense; the one-half thereof for the use of the county wherein the offense is committed, and the other half for the person informing.

(17.) SEC. XVII. All accounts of grocers or other retailers of spirituous liquors in this State, for liquors by them or their agents retailed, sold or delivered, for a greater or higher amount than fifty cents, shall be void; and no court shall entertain jurisdiction of any account of any grocer or other retailer as aforesaid, in which there shall be more than fifty cents charged for liquor; and if any grocer or retailer of spirituous liquors, shall sue for or otherwise claim of or from any one person in this State, a greater or higher amount than fifty cents for spirituous liquors, the claim shall be void: Provided, That nothing in this section contained shall prevent any grocer, retailer or other person as aforesaid, from selling spirituous liquors larger in quantity than one quart, and suing for and recovering pay for the same.

(18.) SEC. XVIII. Every person licensed to keep a grocery, who shall knowingly suffer any disorder, drunkenness or unlawful games whatever, in his, her or their houses, his, her or their license or licenses shall be suppressed by the county commissioners' court.

(19.) SEC. XIX. No person or persons other than such as are or shall be qualified so to do by this law, shall presume, under any color or pretense, to sell, barter with or deliver any wine, rum, brandy or other spirits, or any mixed or strong liquors, to be used, or drank within his, her or their houses yards or sheds, or to be with his, her or their knowledge, privity or consent, used or drank in any shelter, places or woods, near or adjacent to them, by companies of servants, slaves or others; nor to retail or sell to any person or persons any rum, brandy or other spirits, by less quantity or measure than one quart, the same liquors being respectively delivered to one person, and at one time, without any collusion or fraud, contrary to the true intent and meaning of this law; and any person offending against the provisions of this section, shall be subject to all the penalties which are herein provided against selling without a license.

(20.) SEC. XX. If any grocery keeper or other retailer of liquors shall receive, harbor, entertain or trust any minor or any servant, knowing them or either of them to be such, or after having been cautioned or warned to the contrary by the parent, guardian, master or mistress of such minor or servant, in the presence of one or more credible witnesses, such grocery keeper or retailer of liquors so offending, shall, for the first or second offense, being duly convicted thereof, forfeit and pay the sum of three dollars for every such offense, over and above the loss and forfeiture of any debt such minor or servant shall or may contract for liquors or entertainment; and upon conviction for the third offense, the license obtained by such offender is hereby declared null and void; and the person so repeatedly offending, shall forfeit and pay the sum of twelve dollars, on conviction by indictment, to the use of the county, and be forever after incapable of keeping a grocery or of retailing liquor within the State.

(21.) SEC. XXI. No person shall, by any means, presume to furnish, supply or sell to any bond servant or slave, any rum, brandy, spirits or any other strong liquors, mixed or unmixed, either within or without doors, nor shall receive, harbor or entertain any slave or servant in or about his, her or their houses, without special license had and obtained under the hand of such master or mistress of such slave or bond servant respectively, under the penalty, for the first offense, of three dollars, and for every succeeding offense, four dollars, to be recovered on the proof of one or more credible witnesses, or upon the view of any justice within the respective counties where the act shall be committed.

(22.) SEC. XXII. All agents of foreign insurance companies shall, upon their acceptance of such agencies, signify the same in writing, to the clerk of the county commissioners' court of their respective counties, which notice shall be filed by the clerk in his office, which shall entitle the agent to grant policies of insurance, according to the laws governing the company of such agency.

(23.) SEC. XXIII. The said agent or agents shall be required to pay over to the clerk of the county commissioners' court, three per cent. on the amount of premiums charged by him on all policies by him issued; and the said clerk shall give to the agent, duplicate receipts, one of which the clerk shall retain; and the said clerk shall enter the amount so received in a book kept by him for that purpose, designating the time when and from what agent the same was received; and the said clerk shall, on the first day of January and the first day of July annually, (if he has in his hands any funds so received,) make out an abstract of the same, and shall forward said abstract, together with the money on hand, to the treasurer of the State of Illinois, who shall receive the same and enter the amount so received in a book kept by him for that purpose, with the time when and from what clerk and county the same was received; and the moneys so received shall be considered as revenue to the State, and by the treasurer paid out as such.

(24.) SEC. XXIV. Any agent failing to pay over to the clerk of the county commissioners' court, the per cent. as directed in this chapter, shall subject himself to be fined double the amount of the premium upon which he failed to pay over the per cent. as directed in this chapter; one-half to the informer, and the other half to be paid over to the clerk of the county commissioners' court, and paid over by him to the State treasurer, in like manner as the per cent. in this chapter is directed to be paid.

(25.) SEC. XXV. Every magistrate or other officer to whom any fines or penalties imposed by this chapter, shall be paid for the use of the county, shall, at the next term of the county commissioners' court, make a report of the amount thereof, and pay the same into the county treasury.

(26.) SEC. XXVI. Persons prosecuting or giving information under the provisions of this chapter, may be competent witnesses on the trial, notwithstanding their interest in the penalty to be recovered.

(27.) SEC. XXVII. Penalties incurred by a violation of the provisions of this chapter, may be recovered by action of debt by summons in the name of the people of the State of Illinois, for the use of the proper county, before any justice of the peace, or court of competent jurisdiction of the proper county, upon complaint of any citizen of such county; and any justice of the peace or other officer into whose hands such penalty shall properly come, shall, unless otherwise required by law, make report of such recovery to the county commissioners' court, and at its next regular term succeeding the collection of such penalty, pay into the county treasury, the part thereof which shall be payable to such county, and the remainder to the person informing or prosecuting.

(28.) SEC. XXVIII. Appeals and writs of certiorari may be taken from proceedings had under the provisions of this chapter, as in other cases.

An Act to prohibit the Retailing of Intoxicating Drinks.

conviction, be fined for every offense twenty-five dollars. The giving away of any of the aforesaid liquors for the purpose of avoiding the provisions of this act, shall be construed as selling, within the meaning of this act.

(30.) SEC. II. Every person who shall sell or give away any of the liquors specified in the first section of this act to any person under the age of eighteen years, shall, on conviction thereof, be fined for every such offense in any sum not less than thirty dollars nor more than one hundred dollars.

(31.) SEC. III. The fines herein provided for may be recovered, either by indictment in any court having jurisdiction of such offense, or by action of debt in the name of the people of the State of Illinois, before any justice of the peace of the proper county.

(32.) SEC. IV. The provisions of this act shall not extend to druggists or physicians who shall sell or give away any of the said liquors in good faith, for purely medical, mechanical or sacramental purposes.

(33.) SEC. V. The circuit courts of the several counties in this State shall give, or cause to be given in charge, the provisions of this act to the grand jury at every regular term of the court.

(34.) SEC. VI. All laws and parts of laws authorizing licenses to be granted to keep groceries, or for the sale of vinous, spirituous or mixed liquors, are hereby repealed, and the provisions of this act shall extend to all incorporated cities or towns in this State, anything in their charters to the contrary notwithstanding: Provided, That nothing contained in this act shall affect the rights, privileges or liabilities of persons to whom licenses have heretofore been granted.

(35.) SEC. VII. All fines collected under the provisions of this act shall be paid into the proper county treasury, and set apart as a fund for the support of paupers in the county in which the same shall be collected.

See Sections 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10 of "An act to incorporate the firemen's benevolent association, and for other purposes," approved June 21, 1852, (Laws, 1852, p. 68,) which repeal the 22nd, 23rd and 24th sections of chapter LXIV, title "LICENSES," so far as they relate to fire insurance or fire insurance agents in the city of Chicago.

An Act to prohibit the Sale of Intoxicating Drinks.

PRIOR LAWS. An act requiring merchants, auctioneers, peddlers and others engaged in the sale of goods, wares and merchandise, in this State, to procure a license for that purpose, under the penalties therein prescribed; in force March 1, 1831. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 438.

An act to prevent the selling of spirituous liquors in this State, and for other purposes; approved Feb. 14, 1823. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 594.

An act to regulate and license taverns; approved Feb. 27, 1819. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 595.

An act regulating the mode of granting license to clock peddlers; in force Jan. 31, 1835. Laws, 1835, p. 63.

An act regulating tavern and grocery license; approved March 2, 1839. Laws, 1839, p. 71.

An act to amend an act entitled "An act to regulate tavern and grocery licenses;" in force March 1, 1841. Laws, 1841, p. 178.

An act supplemental to an act to amend an act entitled "An act to regulate taverns and groceries;" approved Feb. 18, 1841. Laws, 1841, p. 179.

An act in relation to peddlers; approved Feb. 27, 1841. Laws, 1841, p. 179.

An act to regulate foreign insurance company agencies established in the State of Illinois; in force May 1, 1841. Laws, 1841, p. 180. Repealed March 4, 1843. See repealing act, Laws, 1843, p. 165.

An act to prohibit shows of wax figures, tricks of jugglers, &c.; in force May 1, 1829. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 532.

DECISIONS. A law prohibiting selling spirits without a license, is not unconstitutional. King et al. v. Jacksonville, 2 S. 305.

The 5th section, act 1831, (Laws, 1831, p. 84,) which confers on incorporated towns the power to "provide for licensing public shows," supersedes so much of the act of May 1, 1829, (Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 582,) as requires a license from the county treasurer. Woodward v. Turnbull, 3 S. 1.

Under the license law of 1845, the county commissioners cannot grant a license for less than $25; such a license attaches to the person, and is not transferable, nor can it be issued on credit. Munsell v. Temple, 3 G. 93. See also, Lombard v. Cheever et al., 3 G. 469.

The 7th section of the act of March 2, 1839, authorized incorporated towns to grant licenses to keep groceries, but to pay all moneys received therefor into the county treasury; this does not repeal a special law, of earlier date, empowering a particular town to grant such licenses and retain the moneys therefor. Ottawa v. La Salle County, 12 Ill. 339.

The license law (Chap. LXIV, Rev. Stat. 1845,) does not conflict with that provision of the constitution requiring all taxation to be by valuation and uniform. Nor does it violate that provision of the United States constitution regulating commerce. Nor was the license law repealed, by abolishing the office of clerk of the county commissioners' court; by fair construction the clerk of the county court succeeds the clerk of the county commissioners' court. People v. Thurber, 13 Ill. 554.

The General Assembly may repeal that part of an act incorporating a city, which gives it authority to grant licenses to sell liquor. Gutzwiller v. The People, 15 Ill. 142.

A town charter gives the corporation power to declare what shall be a nuisance, &c. Under this the authorities may ordain that selling spirituous liquors is a nuisance, and impose fines for violation of such ordinance. Goddard v. Jacksonville, 15 Ill. 588.

25. Right of action at law not affected.
26. Money arising from sale, how distributed; deficiency, how made up; excess, how applied.
27. Costs, how taxed and apportioned.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845. p. 345.]

SECTION I. Any person who shall, by contract with the owner of any piece of land or town lot, furnish labor or materials for erecting or repairing any building, or the appurtenances of any building on such land or lot, shall have a lien upon the whole tract of land or town lot, in the manner herein provided, for the amount due to him for such labor or materials.

SEC. II. The lien shall extend to all work done and materials furnished under the provisions of the contract, whether the kind or quantity of the work, or amount to be paid, be specified or not: Provided, That the time of completing the contract shall not be extended for a longer period than three years, nor the time of payment beyond the period of one year, for the time stipulated for the completion thereof.

SEC. III. When any sum due by such contract shall remain unpaid after the same is payable, the creditor may, upon bill or petition to the circuit court of the county in which the land or lot lies, obtain an order for the sale thereof, and for applying the proceeds of such sale to the discharge of his demand; and the filing of the bill or petition in the clerk's office, and suing out a summons thereon, shall be deemed the commencement of the suit.

SEC. IV. The bill or petition shall contain a brief statement of the contract on which it is founded, and of the amount due thereon, with a description of the premises which are subject to the lien, and all other material facts and circumstances necessary to a full understanding of the rights of the parties, and shall be considered as the foundation of the plaintiff's action; and upon the filing of which with the clerk, a summons shall issue thereon against all persons made parties, as is required upon filing bills in chancery.

SEC. V. For the purpose of bringing all parties in interest before the court, the court shall have power to permit amendments to any part of the pleadings, and to issue process, make all orders requiring parties to appear, and requiring notice to be given by publication in newspapers, that are or may be authorized in proceedings in chancery; and the court shall have the same power and jurisdiction over the parties and subject that are or may be conferred upon courts in chancery in respect to proceedings before that court.

SEC. VI. Suits instituted under the provisions of this chapter, shall be placed upon the common law docket, and shall stand for trial at the term of the court to which the summons is made returnable. The summons shall be served by the sheriff as other process; but if not served ten days before the return day thereof, the cause shall be continued, unless the parties agree to a trial at that term of the court.

SEC. VII. Defendants, in proceedings under the provisions of this chapter, shall answer the bill or petition under oath, and the plaintiff shall except or reply to the answer as though the proceeding was in chancery; the answer shall be regarded as the plea of the defendant, and by the replication thereto, an issue or issues shall be formed, which shall be tried by the court or by a jury under the direction of the court, as the court may direct or the parties agree.

SEC. VIII. Every defendant served with process ten days before the return day thereof, shall answer the bill or petition on or before the day on which the cause shall be set for trial on the docket, and the issue or issues in the cause shall be made up under the direction of the court, and oral testimony shall be received as in cases at law.

SEC. IX. Notice given to parties by publication in newspapers, under the direction of the court, shall be equivalent to personal service of such notice.

SEC. X. In proceedings under this chapter, all persons interested in the subject matter of the suit, or in the premises intended to be sold, may, on application to the court wherein the suit is pending, become parties at any time before final judgment.

SEC. XI. Upon questions arising between different creditors, no preference shall be given to him whose contract was first made.

SEC. XII. Upon the trial of causes under the provisions of this chapter, the court shall ascertain the amount due each creditor, and shall direct the application of the proceeds of sales to be made to each, in proportion to their several amounts.

SEC. XIII. When the owner of the land shall have failed to perform his part of the contract, and by reason thereof the other party shall, without his own default, have been prevented from performing his part, he shall be entitled to a reasonable compensation for as much thereof as he has performed, in proportion to the price stipulated for the whole, and the court shall adjust his claim accordingly.

SEC. XIV. If any part of the premises can be separated from the residue, and sold without damage to the whole, and if the value thereof should be sufficient to satisfy all the claims proved in the cause, the court may order a sale of that part.

SEC. XV. Parties entitled to liens under the provisions of this chapter, whose claims are not due or payable at the time of the commencement of suit by any other party, shall be permitted to become parties to the suit, and their claims shall be allowed, subject to a reduction of interest from the date of judgment to the time such claim is due or payable.

SEC. XVI. In cases under the provisions of this chapter, where there are several claimants, the issue of law and fact, or either, may be tried separately, and in no case shall the want of preparation for trial to one claim delay the trial in respect to others; but trials shall be had upon issues between such parties as are prepared, without reference to issues between other parties; and when one creditor shall have obtained a verdict or judgment for the amount due, the court may order a sale of the premises on which the lien operates, or a part thereof, so as to satisfy the judgment: Provided, That the court may, for good causes shown, delay making any order of sale until the rights of all parties in interest shall be ascertained and settled by the court.

SEC. XVII. If the person who procures work to be done, or materials furnished, has an estate for life only, or any other estate less than a fee simple in the land or lot on which the work is done, or materials furnished, or if such land or lot, at the time of making the contract, is mortgaged, or under any other encumbrance, the person who procures the work or materials shall, nevertheless, be considered as the owner within the meaning of this chapter, to the extent of his right and interest in the premises; and the lien herein provided for, shall bind his whole estate and interest therein in like manner as a mortgage would have done; and the creditor may cause the right of redemption, or whatever other right or estate such owner had in the land at the time of making the contract, to be sold, and the proceeds of sale applied according to the provisions of this chapter.

SEC. XVIII. Suits may be instituted under the provisions of this chapter in favor of administrators or executors, and may be maintained against the representatives in interest of those against whom the cause of action accrued; and in suits instituted under the provisions of this chapter, the representatives of any party who may die pending the suit, shall be made parties as though it were a suit in chancery.

SEC. XIX. Upon proceedings under the provisions of this chapter, parties claiming may contest each other's rights as well with respect to amount due, as with respect to their right to the benefit of the lien hereby created; and upon all questions made by parties, the court shall require issues of law or fact to be formed, so as to bring about a speedy decision thereof.

SEC. XX. No encumbrance upon land created before or after the making of a contract under the provisions of this chapter, shall operate upon the building erected or materials furnished, until the lien in favor of the person doing the work or furnishing the materials shall have been satisfied; and upon questions arising between previous encumbrances and creditors, under the provisions of this chapter, the previous encumbrance shall be preferred to the extent of the value of the land at the time of making the contract, and the court shall ascertain by jury or otherwise, as the case may require, what proportion of the proceeds of any sale shall be paid to the several parties in interest.

SEC. XXI. Parties in interest, within the meaning of this chapter, shall include all persons who may have any legal or equitable claim to lands or lots upon which a lien may be attempted to be enforced under the provisions of this chapter.

SEC. XXII. Creditors who file bills or petitions under the provisions of this chapter, may contest the validity of encumbrances, as well in regard to amount as to their justice; and any encumbrance, whether by mortgage, judgment or otherwise, charged and shown to be fraudulent in respect to such creditor, or in respect to creditors generally, may be set aside by the court, and the premises made subject to the claim of the creditor, freed and discharged from such fraudulent encumbrance.

SEC. XXIII. In proceedings under the provisions of this chapter, the courts are vested with all the powers of courts of chancery, and shall be governed by the rules of proceeding and decision in these courts, so far as that power may be necessary to carry into full and complete effect the provisions hereof, and so far as those rules of proceeding and decision are applicable to cases and questions presented for adjudication and decision.

SEC. XXIV. No creditor shall be allowed to enforce the lien created under the provisions of this chapter, as against or to the prejudice of any other creditor or any encumbrance, unless suit be instituted to enforce such lien within six months after the last payment, for labor or materials, shall have become due and payable.

SEC. XXV. Nothing contained in this chapter, shall be construed to prevent any creditor from maintaining an action at law upon his contract, in like manner as if he had no lien for the security of his debt.

SEC. XXVI. If, upon making sale of any premises under this chapter, the proceeds of such shall not be sufficient to pay the claims of all parties, according to their rights, the judgment shall be credited by the amount of such sale, and execution may issue in favor of any creditor, whose claim is not satisfied, for the balance due, as upon a judgment in actions of debt or assumpsit; and in case of excess of sales over the amount of judgment, such excess shall be paid to the owner of the land, or to the person who may be entitled to the same, under the direction of the court.

SEC. XXVII. The costs of proceeding under the provisions of this chapter, as between creditors claiming liens and the person against whom the lien is intended to be enforced, shall abide the event of the suit; and the costs, as between creditors aforesaid, in contests relative to each other's claims, shall be subject to the order of the court, and the same rule shall prevail in respect to costs growing out of proceedings against and between encumbrancers.

PRIOR LAWS. An act for the benefit of mechanics; approved Feb. 22, 1833. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 447.

An act to provide for securing to mechanics and others, liens for the value of labor and materials; in force Dec. 10, 1839. Laws, 1839, p. 147.

DECISIONS. Under the mechanics' lien law of 1833, the petition cannot be filed till the contract is completed, and within three months from the time payment is to be made. Kinney v. Hudnut, 2 S. 472.

The act of 1833, for the benefit of mechanics, requires the contract, by virtue of which the lien is claimed, to be set out in the petition; to set out a note, and allege it to be given for work done on defendant's building, is not sufficient. Logan v. Dunlap, 3 S. 188.

The proceeding, under the mechanics' lien law of 1833, is only in rem., and the remedy is cumulative, and cannot be pleaded in abatement of an action to recover for work or materials. Delahay v. Clement, 3 S. 201.

The petition for a lien, under the act of Dec. 10, 1839, should contain a precise statement of the contract, when made, when performed, when payable, and showing the right to recover, and apprising all parties of the nature and character of the claim. Muller v. Smith, 3 S. 543.

Persons in possession and owning improvements on the public lands of the United States, whether entitled to pre-emptions or not, are within the meaning of the lien law of Dec. 10, 1839. That act fixes no time within which the suit must be commenced, as between the parties to the contract. A lien growing out of a contract, made before the act of 1839, but not completed till after the passage of that act, should be enforced under that act. The completion of his contract by the plaintiff, and the liability of the defendant to be sued, are the "rights acquired and liabilities incurred," under the act of 1833, which are not affected by the repeal of the latter statute. The premises, upon which the lien is sought to be enforced, should be so clearly described in the petition as to leave no room for doubt or mistake. Turney et al. v. Saunders et al., 4 S. 527.

Proceedings to enforce a lien under the act of 1839, are in the nature of chancery proceedings, and governed by the rules and practice of the courts of chancery. The same rules of evidence apply, except that parol proof is admitted; and the answer, so far as responsive to the petition, is evidence. In the 11th section of the act, the word "creditors," means those who claim a lien under the act. Kimball et al. v. Cook, 1 G. 423; Shaeffer v. Weed et al., 3 G. 511.

Under the lien law of Dec. 10, 1839, no limitation, in time, is placed upon the right of the creditor to enforce his lien, as against the debtor. The answer of the defendant to the petition in such cases, is evidence for the jury, so far as it is responsive to the petition. The decree, on such petition, can affect only the legal and equitable interest of the defendant in the premises. Garrett v. Stevenson et al., 3 G. 261.

A widow's dower is not affected by the lien given to mechanics, nor is she a proper party to proceedings under the law, when her only interest is her dower. The word "creditor," as used in the 65th chapter of Rev. Stat. 1845, is applied to him who has a lien by contract made under the law, and the term "encumbrancer," to one who has a lien by mortgage or otherwise, not under the law. A creditor who does not file his bill till after the expiration of six months from the time payment is due by the contract, loses his lien, as against any other such creditor, or as against an encumbrancer by mortgage or otherwise, existing at the time of the rendition of his judgment, whether they are creditors before or after the making of the contract. Shaeffer v. Weed et al., 3 G. 511.

A mechanics' lien, under chapter 65, Rev. Stat. 1845, does not attach before performing the labor, or furnishing the materials; and judgment creditors cannot be affected by suits to enforce a lien, unless made parties thereto. McLagan v. Brown et al., 11 Ill. 519.

The lien law of March 3, 1845, creates a lien in favor only of those who perform labor, or furnish materials at the instance of the owner of the property, not in favor of those who labor or furnish materials on account of the contractor. Dawson v. Harrington, 12 Ill. 300.

The party complaining of the verdict in a suit for a mechanics' lien, should preserve the evidence in the record, either by bill of exceptions or the certificate of the judge. The sale may be made either by a master, or a commissioner, or by the sheriff under a special execution; and the decree need not direct to whom the surplus money, if any, is to be paid. The rights of those not made parties are not affected by the decree. Kelly et al. v. Chapman, 13 Ill. 530.

The using, on the premises, of materials furnished, and attaching them to the freehold, and not the place of making the contract, entitles the party to a lien on the premises for their value; and the destruction of such materials by fire, does not destroy the lien. Money derived from a sale of property on which there is a mechanics' lien, will, by a court of equity, be followed into the hands of the party who has converted the property into money. Gaty et al. v. Casey et al., 15 Ill. 189.

Under the 8th Sec. of the lien law of March 3, 1845, a certificate that notice was "inserted in said paper, commencing with Aug. 21, 1852, and ending Oct. 2, 1852, six weeks," is sufficient. The act only gives a lien upon contracts with the owner, who owns at the time of the contract. Underhill v. Corwin et al., 15 Ill. 556.

15. Actions of trespass, detinue, &c., when to be commenced. Portions of acts repealed.
16. Act subject to certain conditions.
17. Actions upon promissory notes, &c., must be brought within sixteen years.
18. Actions upon accounts, &c., to be commenced within five years.
19. Provisions, &c., to which this act is subject.
20. Portion of act repealed: proviso.
21. When action to be brought within two years.
22. When act to take effect.
23. Rule as to causes of action which accrued under act of Feb. 10, 1849.
24. Rule in causes of action which accrued previous to said act.
25. When act to take effect.

(1.) SECTION I. All actions of trespass quare clausum fregit, all actions of trespass, detinue, trover and replevin, for taking away goods and chattels, all actions for arrearages of rent, due on a parol demise, and all actions of account, and upon the case, except actions for slander, and except also, actions for malicious prosecution, and such actions as concern the trade of merchandise, between merchant and merchant, their factors or agents, shall be commenced within five years next after the cause of such actions shall have accrued, and not after.

(2.) SEC. II. All actions of trespass for assault, battery, wounding and imprisonment, or any of them, shall be commenced within two years next after the cause of such actions shall have accrued, and not after.

(3.) SEC. III. Every action upon the case for words, shall be commenced within one year next after the words spoken, and not after; and every action for malicious prosecution shall be commenced within two years next after the cause of action shall have accrued, and not after.

(4.) SEC. IV. Every action of debt or covenant, for rent or arrearages of rent, founded upon any lease under seal, and every action of debt or covenant, founded upon any single or penal bill, promissory note, or writing obligatory, for the direct payment of money, or the delivery of property, or the performance of covenants, or upon any award under the hands and seals of arbitrators, for the payment of money only, shall be commenced within sixteen years after the cause of such action shall have accrued, and not after; but if any payment shall have been made on any such lease, single or penal bill, promissory note, writing obligatory or award, within or after the said period of sixteen years, then an action instituted on such lease, single or penal bill, promissory note, writing obligatory or award, within sixteen years after such payment, shall be good and effectual in law, and not after.

(5.) SEC. V. Judgment in any court of record in this State, may be revived by scire facias, or an action of debt may be brought thereon, within twenty years next after the date of such judgment, and not after.

(6.) SEC. VI. No person who now hath or hereafter may have any right of entry into any lands, tenements or hereditaments, shall make an entry therein, but within twenty years next after such right shall have accrued, and such person shall be barred from any entry afterwards.

(7.) SEC. VII. Every real, possessory, ancestral or mixed action, or writ of right, brought for the recovery of any lands, tenements or hereditaments, shall be brought within twenty years next after the right or title thereto, or cause of such action accrued, and not after.

(8.) SEC. VIII. Every real, possessory, ancestral or mixed action, or writ of right, brought for the recovery of any lands, tenements or hereditaments of which any person may be possessed by actual residence thereon, having a connected title in law or equity, deducible of record, from this State or the United States, or from any public officer or other person authorized by the laws of this State, to sell such land for the non-payment of taxes, or from any sheriff, marshal or other person authorized to sell such land on execution, or under any order, judgment or decree of any court of record, shall be brought within seven years next after possession being taken as aforesaid; but when the possessor shall acquire such title after taking such possession, the limitation shall begin to run from the time of acquiring title.

(9.) Possession, as described in the preceding section, to bar the rights, actions and suits aforesaid, shall have been continued in manner aforesaid, for the term of seven years next preceding the time of asserting the right of entry, or the commencement of any such suit or action.

(10.) SEC. X. The heirs, devisees and assigns of the person having such possession and title, shall have the same benefit of this chapter as the person from whom the possession was derived could have had by virtue of such possession.

(11.) SEC. XI. No person who has or may have any right of entry into any lands, tenements or hereditaments, of which any person may be possessed by actual residence thereon, having a connected title in law or equity, deducible of record, from this State or the United States, or from any public officer or other person authorized by the laws of this State to sell such lands for non-payment of taxes, or from any sheriff, marshal or other person authorized to sell such land on execution, or under any order, judgment or decree of any court of record, shall make any entry therein, except within seven years from the time of such possession being taken; but when the possessor shall acquire such title after the time of taking such possession, the limitation shall begin to run from the time of acquiring title.

(12.) SEC. XII. If, in any of the said actions specified in any of the preceding sections of this chapter, judgment be given for the plaintiff, and the same be reversed by writ of error or upon appeal, or if a verdict pass for the plaintiff, and upon matter alleged in arrest of judgment, the judgment be given against the plaintiff; or if the plaintiff be non-suited, then, if the time limited for bringing such action shall have expired during the pendency of such suit, the said plaintiff, his or her heirs, executors or administrators, as the case shall require, may commence a new action within one year after such judgment reversed or given against the plaintiff, and not after.

(13.) SEC. XIII. If any person or persons against whom there is or shall be any cause of action, as is specified in the preceding sections of this chapter, except real or possessory actions, shall be out of this State at the time of the cause of such action accruing, or any time during which a suit might be sustained on such cause of action, then the person or persons who shall be entitled to such action, shall be at liberty to bring the same against such person or persons, after his, her or their return to this State, and the time of such person's absence shall not be accounted or taken as part of the time limited by this chapter.

(14.) SEC. XIV. In all the foregoing cases in which the person or persons who shall have right of entry, title or cause of action, is, are or shall be, at the time of such right of entry, title or cause of action, under the age of twenty-one years, insane, or feme covert, such person or persons may make such entry or institute such action, so that the same be done within such time as is within the different sections of this chapter limited, after his or her becoming of full age, sane, or feme sole.

An Act to amend Chapter LXVI of the Revised Statutes, entitled "Limitations."

[Approved Feb. 10, 1849. In force April 13, 1849. Laws, 1849, p. 132.]

sory note, bond, judgment, contract, or indebtedness executed, rendered, entered into, or accrued, beyond the limits of this State; and all actions on the case, shall be commenced within five years next after such recovery, or the cause of such action shall have accrued, and not after. All parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act shall be and the same are hereby repealed.

(16.) SEC. II. This act shall be subject to the same conditions as are provided in the twelfth section of the sixty-sixth section [chapter] of the Revised Statutes, entitled "LIMITATIONS."

An Act to amend the several Laws concerning Limitations of Actions.

[Approved Nov. 5, 1849. Laws, 1849, (2nd Sess.) p. 37.]

(18.) SEC. II. All actions founded upon accounts, bills of exchange, orders, or upon promises not in writing, express or implied, made after the passage of this act, shall be commenced within five years next after the cause of action shall have accrued, and not thereafter.

(19.) SEC. III. Be it further enacted, That this act and the several acts to which this is an amendment, shall be subject to the several provisions, conditions and restrictions contained in the twelfth and thirteenth sections of the sixty-sixth chapter of the Revised Statutes of this State.

(20.) SEC. IV. So much of the sixty-sixth chapter of the said Revised Statutes, entitled "LIMITATIONS," as is in conflict with this act, is hereby repealed; and so much of the said act amendatory thereof, passed February tenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-nine, as is inconsistent with this act, is hereby repealed: Provided, always, That the several acts aforesaid shall be hereafter, in all actions instituted upon causes of action arising during the period in which said laws were respectively in force, be the rule of limitation and adjudication in all such cases, and that neither this act nor said amendatory act shall be so construed as to limit or affect the right of action upon any matter of indebtedness or cause of action existing or accruing before their several enactment.

(21.) SEC. V. No action of debt shall be maintained on any open account or any promise, not in writing, unless the same be brought within five years next after the cause of action accrued; but if said cause of action has accrued five years before the passage of this act, then such action shall not be maintained, unless the suit is brought within two years next after the passage of this act.

(22.) SEC. VI. This act to take effect from and after its passage.

An Act to amend the several Laws in relation to Limitations.

the Revised Statutes, entitled 'LIMITATIONS,' approved on the tenth day of February, one thousand eight hundred and forty-nine, was in force, and where a different period is prescribed by that act from the one provided by the act entitled "An act to amend the several acts concerning limitations of actions," approved on the fifth day of November, one thousand eight hundred and forty-nine, shall be governed by the provisions of the latter act.

(24.) SEC. II. That all causes of action existing at the time, or which had accrued prior to the thirteenth day of April, one thousand eight hundred and forty-nine, when the first of the above recited acts became a law, and for the barring of which there was no previous statute, shall be governed by the provisions of that act; the time limited thereby, to commence to run from and after said act became a law.

(25.) SEC. III. This act to take effect on its passage.

PRIOR LAWS. An act regulating the practice in the supreme and circuit courts of this State, and for other purposes; section 8; approved March 22, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 139.

An act of limitations relating to lands and tenements; approved Feb. 18, 1823. Laws, 1823, p. 183; R. E. S., (Real Estate Statutes,) p. 420.

An act for the limitation of actions, and for avoiding vexatious law suits; approved Feb. 10, 1827; in force June 1, 1827. Rev. Laws, 1827, p. 284; R. E. S., p. 422.

An act to amend "An act for the limitation of actions and for avoiding vexatious law suits," approved Feb. 10, 1827; approved Jan. 17, 1835. Laws, 1835, p. 42; R. E. S., p. 424.

An act to amend an act entitled "An act for the limitation of actions and for avoiding vexatious law suits," approved Feb. 11, 1837. Laws, 1837, p. 160; R. E. S., p. 424.

An act to quiet possessions and confirm titles to land; approved March 2, 1839. Laws, 1839, p. 266; R. E. S., p. 426.

DECISIONS. An unqualified promise to pay a debt, takes a case out of the statute of limitations. Where the promise to pay is qualified, the burden of proof is on the plaintiff to do away with the qualification, or show that the contingency has happened. An acknowledgment that a debt is due, will infer a promise to pay; and proof of payment of a part, will authorize the jury to infer a promise to pay the balance. Mellick v. Seelhorst, Breese, 171.

Proof that the defendant promised to pay is insufficient alone to take a case out of the statute, without evidence of the original consideration. Such a promise only removes the bar of the statute, and leaves the case to be proved as if no statute had been pleaded. The promise must be absolute and unqualified, and is not to be extended by implication. Kimmel v. Schwartz, Breese, 216.

In an action of slander, if the words were spoken within one year before the repeal of the statute, the repealed statute will be no bar; if the cause of action accrued one year before the repeal, the old statute is a bar. Naught v. O'Neal, Appendix to Breese, 29.

The act of March 22, 1819, could not, in an action of assumpsit, be pleaded in 1822, in bar to a contract made in 1812. The statute had not then run five years. Tifts v. Rice, Appendix to Breese, 30.

A State is not barred by the statute of limitations, unless expressly named. State Bank v. Brown et al., 1 S. 106.

Non-residents are exempted from the provisions of the limitation law of Feb. 10, 1827. The limitation of sixteen years in that statute, applies only to actions of debt, covenant, and on awards. White v. Hight, 1 S. 204.

If five years do not elapse between the time of making the promise to pay money, and the commencement of suit on such promise, the statute of limitations is no bar. Prevo v. Lathrop, 1 S. 305.

The limitation law, in force June 1, 1835, is no bar to a recovery until seven years after it took effect. Rhinehart v. Schuyler, 2 G. 473.

The defense of the statute of limitations cannot be interposed in the supreme court when it has not been pleaded or specially insisted on in the circuit court. Wilson et al. v. Van Winkle, 2 G. 684.

An executor, claiming to have overpaid a legatee, cannot, ten years after such payment, recover the excess claimed; he is barred by the statute of limitations. The statute begins to run when a cause of action accrues; and when some act or condition precedent is required, to entitle a party to sue, he must exercise reasonable diligence, or he is barred by the statute. Shelburne, Ex'r, v. Robinson, 3 G. 597.

Before the statute will bar an action of debt, the defendant must reside sixteen years in the State after the cause of action accrues, and before suit brought. The time of the defendant's absence from the State, is no part of the sixteen years. The "limitation" laws of a foreign country, must be pleaded in suits brought here, upon instruments made in such foreign country, before they can be given in evidence; and the time within which a remedy must be enforced, is governed solely by the lex fori. Chenot v. Lefevre, 3 G. 637.

Such absence from the State as prevents service of process, suspends, for the time of absence, the operation of the statute of limitations. Vanlandingham v. Huston, 4 G. 125.

Actions of the classes enumerated in the first section of the act of March 3, 1845, must be commenced within five years after the cause of action accrued; and actions enumerated in the fourth section, within sixteen years. The first section bars the action of assumpsit in all cases except such as concern the trade of merchandise between merchant and merchant, their factors or agents, in five years; but the action of debt is not barred in five years, except for arrearages of rent due on parol demise. Justices of the peace, having jurisdiction both in debt and assumpsit, and the form of their summons not distinguishing the form of action, when the statute of limitations is made a defense before them, the law will presume the form of action to be that which will best advance the plaintiff's remedy. In the first section of the act, the term "actions of account," comprehends the action of assumpsit, express or implied, as well as actions ex delicto. In construing statutes of limitation, only cases within the words of the statute are barred, not those within the reason of the statute only. Bedell v. Janney et al., 4 G. 193.

The limitation law which was in force June 1, 1835, is no bar to a recovery, unless the party has been in possession for seven years thereafter. Bruce v. Schuyler et al., 4 G. 221. See Moore et al. v. Capps, 4 G. 315.

The limitation law of Feb. 10, 1849, which took effect April 13, 1849, operates only on causes of action accruing after it took effect, and has a prospective effect only. Thompson v. Alexander, 11 Ill. 54.

The 3rd section of the limitation law of March 3, 1845, requiring "every action on the case for words" to be "commenced within one year next after the words spoken," does not include actions for libel, but for verbal slander only. Hazell v. Shelby, 11 Ill. 9.

That part of the statute of limitations which requires certain real actions to be brought within seven years after possession taken by a defendant, does not apply against premises dedicated to the public. City of Alton v. Illinois Transportation Company, 12 Ill. 38.

An account was read to the defendant, who admitted the correctness of the whole, and of each item, but thought some of the items had been paid, and said he would see plaintiff and settle with him; Held, not to take the case out of the limitation law of five years. In such case there must be a promise to pay, which promise may be inferred from the admission that the debt is due and unpaid. In assumpsit on an open account, the last item of which accrued more than five years before the commencement of the action, the statute of limitations is a good defense. Ayers v. Richards, 12 Ill. 146.

The limitation of twenty years' possession does not begin to run until the land is bought of the United States. Spellman v. Curtin, 12 Ill. 409.

A certificate showing that a party had proved himself entitled to a pre-emption, is not such title, or claim or color of title, as can be made the foundation of seven years' possession, against one who entered the land afterwards under another pre-emption. Idem.

The defense of the statute of limitations must be made by plea, not by a motion to dismiss. Burnap v. Wight, 14 Ill. 303.

The limitation act of Feb. 10, 1849, is prospective only; and that part thereof which limited the bringing suit to two years, upon all causes of action existing five years before its passage, was repealed by the 2nd section, act, Feb. 15, 1851. A plea of the statute of limitations, to an action commenced within five years from the passage of the act of Feb. 10, 1849, though upon a cause of action existing five years before the passage of the act of 1849, is bad. Trustees of Schools v. Chamberlain et al., 14 Ill. 495; Watt v. Kirby, 15 Ill. 200.

Adverse possession in order to defeat a legal title, must be hostile in its inception, and so continuous constantly for twenty years. It need not be under a rightful claim, or a muniment of title, but must be actual, visible, exclusive, and retained under claim of title, inconsistent with that of the true owner. If entry is made under paper title, the occupation of a part will be possession of the whole; if not under paper title, the possession is adverse only to the part actually occupied. Turney v. Chamberlain, 15 Ill. 271.

A guardian's deed does not constitute such claim and color of title made in good faith, as is required by the statute of limitations of 1839. Rawlings v. Bailey, 15 Ill. 178.

The words "claim and color of title made in good faith," under the act of March 2, 1839, mean such a title as tested by itself would appear to be good; not a paramount title, but a prima facie title. Such a title, connected with seven years' possession and payment of taxes, is invincible. Irving v. Brownell, 11 Ill. 402.

The word "prosecution" in the limitation law of 1845, includes cases where a party has been maliciously prosecuted, and imprisoned without cause, as well in civil as criminal proceedings. Burnap v. Marsh et al., 13 Ill. 535.

CHAPTER LXVII.

MANDAMUS.

SECTION

1. Circuit courts may issue writs of mandamus; appeals may be taken; writs of error may be prosecuted: allowance of writ to stay proceedings.
2. When writ issued, duty of officer.
3. Facts stated in return, may be traversed: person making return, may take issue; subsequent proceedings; if verdict be against person returning

SECTION

- writ, damages, how assessed; peremptory mandamus may be granted; if judgment be for defendant, he may recover costs.
4. Recovery of damages to bar other action for same matter.
5. Court issuing writ, &c., to give sufficient time for pleading, making return, &c.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 351.]

SECTION I. The respective circuit courts in this State shall have power to issue writs of mandamus. Appeals may be taken from the decision of the said courts, upon such terms as the said circuit courts shall prescribe; or, writs of error may be prosecuted, whenever the supreme court or any of the judges thereof in vacation, upon being presented with a copy of the record, shall certify that there is reasonable cause for the bringing of such writ; and the said supreme court, or judge in vacation, may impose such terms and conditions upon the party wishing to prosecute such writ of error, as the said court or judge may deem reasonable. The allowance of a writ of error shall operate, after notice thereof, as a stay of proceedings in the circuit court until the termination of such writ of error.

SEC. II. When any writ of mandamus shall be issued out of any court of this State, directed and delivered to any person or persons, who, by the laws of this State, are required to make return of such writ, such person or persons shall make his or their return to the first writ of mandamus.

SEC. III. When any writ of mandamus shall issue out of any court of this State, and return shall be made thereunto, it shall be lawful for the person or persons suing or prosecuting such writ, to plead to or traverse all or any of the material facts contained in such return; to which the person or persons making such returns shall reply, take issue or demur, and such further proceedings shall be had therein, and in such manner, for the determination thereof, as might have been had if the person or persons suing out such writ had brought his or their action on the case for a false return. If any issue shall be joined upon such proceedings, the person or persons suing such writ, shall and may try the same in such place, as an issue joined on such action on the case should or might have been tried. In case a verdict shall be found for the person or persons suing such writ, or judgment given for him or them upon a demurrer, or by nihil dicit, or for want of a replication or other pleading, he or they shall recover his or their damages and costs, in such manner as he or they might have done in an action on the case as aforesaid; such damages and costs shall and may be levied by execution, as in other cases, and a peremptory writ of mandamus shall be granted without delay for him or them for whom judgment shall be given, as might have been if such return had been adjudged insufficient. In case judgment shall be given for the person or persons making such return to such writ, he or they shall recover his or their costs of suit, to be levied in manner aforesaid.

SEC. IV. If any damages shall be recovered by virtue of the provisions of this chapter, against any person or persons making such returns to such writ as aforesaid, he or they shall not be liable to be sued in any other action or suit for the making of such return, any law, usage or custom to the contrary notwithstanding.

SEC. V. It shall and may be lawful to and for the court issuing any writ of mandamus, to allow to such person or persons, respectively, to whom such writ shall be directed, or to the person or persons who shall sue or prosecute the same, such convenient time, respectively, to make return, plead, reply, rejoin or demur, as to the court shall seem just and reasonable, anything herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

PRIOR LAWS. An act to regulate proceedings on writs of mandamus. In force June 1, 1827. Laws, 1827, p. 287; Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 444.

DECISIONS. A peremptory mandamus will issue to a county commissioners' court, to compel them to restore a clerk, the cause of whose removal is not stated on their records. Street v. County Commissioners, Gallatin, Breese, 25.

A mandamus will not issue to compel a person to do an act, when it is doubtful whether he has the right by law to do such act. The People v. Forquer, Breese, 68.

A motion was made by the defendant to continue a cause, because the plaintiff had not filed an account with his declaration, which contained a special count on a note, and the money counts. The plaintiff offered to file a stipulation that he only claimed to recover on the note, a copy of which was duly filed, but the court continued the case. The supreme court awarded a peremptory writ of mandamus to the judge, directing him to proceed with the cause without requiring an account to be filed. The People v. Pearson, 1 S. 458. People ex rel. v. Pearson, 1 S. 473.

When a judge of the circuit court refused to sign a bill of exceptions, as tendered, but signed it after striking out material portions, an alternative writ of mandamus was awarded, requiring him to sign the bill as originally tendered. When such alternative writ was delivered to the judge, but not returned by him, a peremptory writ of mandamus was issued, requiring him to sign the bill of exceptions. The judge should have either signed the bill of exceptions, in obedience to the alternative writ, or returned the causes of his objection. The supreme court would not require him to sign a bill of exceptions not truly stating the facts. The signing a bill of exceptions is a ministerial act, which the supreme court will compel by writ of mandamus. The People ex rel. v. Pearson, 2 S. 189.

On judgment against a defendant, he moved to set aside the judgment and grant a new trial, and pending the motion, the court adjourned. The clerk, on application of the plaintiff, refused to issue execution because the motion was undecided. The supreme court awarded an alternative writ of mandamus to the clerk, requiring him to issue execution, or show cause for refusal. People ex rel. v. Cloud, 2 S. 362.

A sheriff elect, at the first term of the circuit court of his county, after notice of the receipt of his commission by the clerk, prepared his bond, which was approved by the court. After the adjournment of the court, but within thirty days after notice of the receipt of his commission, the sheriff presented his bond to the clerk, and offered to take the oaths of office; but the clerk refused to receive the bond, or administer the oaths. A writ of mandamus issued to compel the clerk to receive the bond and administer the oaths. The People v. Fletcher, 2 S. 482.

A patent cannot be set aside or vacated on motion for a mandamus against the auditor, requiring him to issue a second patent for the same land. The People v. The Auditor, 2 S. 567.

A party excepting to the opinion of the court, should prepare and tender a correct bill of exceptions, and if the judge refuse to sign it, should apply to the supreme court for a writ of mandamus. Weatherford v. Wilson, 2 S. 253.

The supreme court has jurisdiction to award writs of mandamus to circuit judges; and when such a writ has been served on any person, and he refuses to obey it, an attachment for contempt will issue. Any person may serve a writ of mandamus. When the person served with an alternative writ of mandamus neglects to return it, a peremptory writ will issue, without first taking a rule for a return of the alternative writ. A judge may be punished for refusing to obey a writ of mandamus, even after he has resigned his office. The People v. Pearson, 3 S. 270.

A writ of mandamus may be granted against the board of canal commissioners, to require them to perform duties imposed on them by law. People v. Canal Commissioners, 3 S. 153.

A writ of mandamus may issue to compel a sheriff (or his successor, who has the means of doing it,) to execute to the purchaser a good and perfect deed of land sold for taxes. Marcy v. Clabaugh, 1 G. 28.

If the overseers of the poor or the county commissioners' court, neglect to perform their respective duties in regard to contracts for the support of paupers, the remedy in the first instance is by writ of mandamus. Rouse v. County of Peoria, 2 G. 99.

A writ of mandamus can issue only to compel a party to act, when it is his duty to act without it. People, &c., v. Gilmer, 5 G. 242.

When a writ of mandamus is applied for to enforce a private right, the person interested should be the relator; when the object is to enforce a public right, the people are the real party. By the statute, the successful party in the proceeding recovers costs. County of Pike v. The State, 11 Ill. 202.

An alternative mandamus is the foundation of the subsequent proceedings, and must show a clear right to the relief demanded, by setting forth all the facts, so that they may be admitted or denied. The mode of reaching formal defects in an alternative mandamus, is by motion to quash. Objections to substantial defects may be raised at any time. Canal Trustees v. People, 12 Ill. 248.

Mandamus is a proper remedy against an ex-mayor to obtain possession of books, &c., the property of the corporation; and a pretended intrusion into, or retention of such office, will not justify the withholding such property, so as to drive the informant to a quo warranto. Every intendment is made against a return to a writ of mandamus, which does not answer the important facts. The People ex rel. v. Kilduff, 15 Ill. 492.

CHAPTER LXVIII. MARKS AND BRANDS.

SECTION

1. Every person having stock, may have separate ear mark, which shall be recorded.
2. Clerk of county commissioners' court to keep record of marks; his fees.

SECTION

3. How disputes to be settled.
4. Persons purchasing stock, may change marks in presence of witnesses.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat., 1845, p. 352.]

SECTION I. Every person in this State, who hath cattle, horses, hogs, sheep or goats, may have an ear mark and brand, and but one of each, which shall be different from the ear mark and brand of his neighbors; which ear mark and brand may be recorded by the clerk of the county court, where such cattle, horses, hogs, sheep or goats shall be.

SEC. II. It shall be the duty of the county clerks in the respective counties of this State, to keep a well-bound book, in which they shall record the marks and brands of each individual who may apply to them for that purpose; for which they shall be entitled to demand and receive the sum of twelve and a half cents; and the book in which the same are recorded, shall be open to the examination of every citizen of the county at all reasonable office hours, free of charge.

SEC. III. If any dispute shall arise about any ear mark or brand, it shall be decided by reference to the book of marks and brands kept by the county clerk, but such book shall be prima facie evidence only.

SEC. IV. Any person purchasing or acquiring horses, cattle, hogs, sheep or goats, when he brands or marks the same in his brand or mark, after the acquisition of the same, may do it in the presence of one or more of his neighbors, who are authorized to certify to the fact of the marking or branding being done, when done, and in what brand or mark the same were, previously, and in what brand or mark they were re-branded or re-marked.

Such certificate shall not be deemed evidence of property in the animal branded, but only prima facie evidence of the facts therein certified to.

PRIOR LAWS. An act concerning marks and brands; in force Feb. 6, 1835. Laws, 1835, p. 51. See note in Gale's Statutes, p. 457.

2. Persons of different color not permitted to contract marriage; penalty for; clerk issuing license to such persons, and officers solemnizing their marriage, how punished.
3. Who, in religious societies, may solemnize marriages according to their custom.
4. What declaration of parties sufficient; before whom such declaration may be made.
5. Persons celebrating marriage, to file certificate thereof in office of clerk of county commissioners' court.

SECTION

6. Clerk to keep registry thereof; copies to be evidence.
7. Clerk refusing to register marriage, how punished.
8. Penalty for neglecting to file certificate; penalty for celebrating marriage contrary to law.
9. Two weeks' publication, or a license, required before marriage.
10. License, when necessary; its contents; consent of parents and guardians, when necessary; penalty if clerk issue license to minors without such consent; how sued for and recovered; how fact of age ascertained.
11. Marriages solemnized by ministers, legalized; pro-viso.

(1.) SECTION I. All male persons over the age of seventeen years, and females over the age of fourteen years, may contract and be joined in marriage: Provided, In all cases where either party is a minor, the consent of parents or guardians be first had, as is hereinafter required.

(2.) SEC. II. No person of color, negro or mulatto, of either sex, shall be joined in marriage with any white person, male or female, in this State; and all marriages or marriage contracts, entered into between such colored person and white person, shall be null and void in law; and any person so marrying or contracting to marry, shall be liable to pay a fine, be whipped in not exceeding thirty-nine lashes, and be imprisoned, not less than one year; and shall be held to answer in no other than a criminal prosecution, by information or indictment. And any clerk who shall knowingly issue a license to any such colored person, negro or mulatto, or to any white person to be joined to a negro or mulatto, in manner aforesaid, or if any officer or person authorized to solemnize marriages in this State, shall join any such colored person, negro or mulatto in marriage with a white person, such magistrate or other person so offending as aforesaid, on conviction thereof, shall be fined, in a sum not less than two hundred dollars, to be sued for and recovered in any court of record in this State, the one-half for the use of the county in which said suit is brought, and the other half to the person suing for the same; and thereafter be ineligible to any office in this State.

(3.) SEC. III. All persons belonging to any religious society, church or denomination, may celebrate their marriage according to the rules and principles of such religious society, church or denomination; and a certificate of such marriage, signed by the regular minister, or if there be no minister, then by the clerk of such religious society, church or denomination, registered as hereinafter directed, shall be evidence of such marriage.

(4.) SEC. IV. Any person wishing to marry, or be joined in marriage, may go before any regular minister of the gospel, authorized to marry by the custom of the church or society to which he belongs, any justice of the supreme court, judge of any inferior court, or justice of the peace, and celebrate or declare their marriage, in such manner and form as shall be most agreeable.

(5.) SEC. V. Any minister of the gospel, justice of the supreme court, judge or justice of the peace, who shall celebrate any marriage, shall make a certificate of such marriage, and return the same, with the license, to the clerk of the county commissioners' court who issued such license, within thirty days after solemnizing such marriage.

(6.) SEC. VI. The clerk of the county commissioners' court, after receiving such certificate, shall make a registry thereof, in a book to be kept by him for that purpose only; which registry shall contain the christian and surnames of both the parties, the time of their marriage, and the name of the person certifying the same; and said clerk shall, at the same time, indorse on such certificate, that the same is registered, and the time when; which certificate shall be carefully filed and preserved; and the same, or a certified copy of the registry thereof, shall be evidence of the marriage of the parties.

(7.) SEC. VII. If any clerk shall, for more than one month, refuse or neglect to register any marriage certificate which has been or may hereafter be delivered to him for that purpose, (his fee therefor being paid,) he shall be liable to be removed from office, and shall moreover pay the sum of one hundred dollars, to the use of the party injured, to be recovered by action of debt in any court having cognizance of the same.

(8.) SEC. VIII. If any minister, justice of the supreme court, judge or justice of the peace, having solemnized a marriage, or clerk of any religious society, as the case may be, shall not make return of a certificate of the same, as required, within the time limited, to the clerk of the commissioners' court of the county in which such marriage was solemnized, he shall forfeit and pay one hundred dollars for each case so neglected, to go to the use of the county, to be recovered by indictment. And if any minister of the gospel, justice of the supreme court, judge or any other officer or person, except as hereinbefore excepted, shall solemnize and join in marriage any couple without a license as aforesaid, he shall, for every such offense, forfeit and pay one hundred dollars, to the use of the county, to be recovered by indictment.

(9.) SEC. IX. No persons shall be joined in marriage as aforesaid, unless their intention to marry shall have been published, at least two weeks previous to such marriage, in the church or congregation to which the parties, or one of them, belong; or unless such persons have obtained a license, as herein provided.

(10.) SEC. X. In all cases when publication of such intention to marry has not been made as before described, the parties wishing to marry shall obtain a license from the clerk of the county commissioners' court of the county where such marriage is to take place; which license shall authorize any regular minister of the gospel, authorized to marry by the church or society to which he belongs, any justice of the supreme court, judge or justice of the peace, to celebrate and certify such marriage; but no such license shall be granted for the marriage of any male under twenty-one years of age, or female under the age of eighteen years, without the consent of his or her father, or, if he be dead or incapable, of his or her mother or guardian, to be noted in such license. And if any clerk shall issue a license for the marriage of any such minor, without consent as aforesaid, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of three hundred dollars, to the use of such father, mother or guardian, to be sued for and recovered in any court having cognizance thereof; and for the purpose of ascertaining the age of the parties, such clerk is hereby authorized to examine either party, or other witness, on oath.

An Act to amend the Law in relation to Marriages.

WHEREAS under the provisions of the law regulating the mode of celebrating the rites of matrimony, and designating the persons who may so solemnize those rites, doubts are entertained as to the right of ministers of the gospel to officiate in the premises, unless they have authority conferred upon them by some express action of the society or church to which they belong, therefore,

PRIOR LAWS. An act regulating marriages; in force Feb. 20, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 26.
An act concerning marriages; in force June 1, 1827. Laws, 1827, p. 288; Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 444.
An act to amend the "Act concerning marriages;" in force March 2, 1839. Laws, 1839, p. 277.

DECISIONS. Under the statute of 1819, males of the age of seventeen and females of fourteen, could be joined in marriage, "if not prohibited by the laws of God." "A." married the daughter of his sister, and the marriage was held to be within the Levitical degrees, and voidable, though not absolutely void. For all civil purposes such marriage is valid, until sentence of separation; which sentence must be in the lifetime of the parties. Bonham et al. v. Badgley et al., 2 G. 622.

SECTION I. All free white male inhabitants, resident in this State, who are or shall be of the age of eighteen, and under the age of forty-five years, except as hereinafter excepted, shall severally and respectively be enrolled in the militia by the captain or commanding officer of the company within whose bounds such citizen shall reside, within ten days after he shall be informed of such residence; and also, those who may from time to time arrive at the age of eighteen, who shall reside in the bounds of his company; and shall without delay notify such person by an officer or non-commissioned officer of the company; and every such person so notified, shall, within six months thereafter, provide himself with a good musket, fuzee or rifle, with proper accoutrements. The field officers, ranking as commissioned officers, shall be armed with a sword and pair of pistols, and the company officers with a sword; and every person so enrolled, and providing himself with arms and accoutrements required as aforesaid, shall hold the same exempt from execution, distress, or for tax: Provided, No private shall be compelled to appear on parade with arms unless he actually has them.

SEC. II. The enrolled militia of this State shall be laid off into divisions, brigades, regiments, battalions and companies. The counties of Clinton, St. Clair, Monroe, Randolph, Jackson, Johnson, Franklin, Jefferson, Washington, Perry, Union, Alexander, Pope, Gallatin and Hamilton, shall compose the first division; the counties of White, Wabash, Edwards, Wayne, Clay, Lawrence, Marion, Effingham, Jasper, Crawford, Coles, Clark and Edgar, shall compose the second division; the counties of Madison, Macoupin, Bond, Montgomery, Morgan and Greene, shall compose the third division; the counties of Sangamon, Tazewell, McLean, Macon, Shelby, Fayette, Champaign and Vermilion, shall compose the fourth division; the counties of Calhoun, Pike, Schuyler, Adams, Hancock, McDonough, Warren, Knox, Fulton, Peoria, Henry and Mercer, shall compose the fifth division; and the counties of Jo Daviess, Whiteside, Rock Island, Ogle, Putnam, La Salle, Iroquois, Will, Kane, Cook, McHenry and Winnebago, shall compose the sixth division, of the Illinois militia. The counties of Clinton, St. Clair, Monroe and Randolph, shall compose the first brigade of the first division; the counties of Johnson, Franklin, Washington and Jefferson, shall compose the second brigade of the first division; the counties of Perry, Jackson, Union and Alexander, shall compose the third brigade of the first division; and the counties of Pope, Gallatin and Hamilton, shall compose the fourth brigade of the first division. The counties of White, Wayne, Marion, Clay and Edwards, shall compose the first brigade of the second division; the counties of Wabash, Lawrence, Effingham, Jasper and Crawford, shall compose the second brigade in the second division; and the counties of Coles, Clark and Edgar, shall compose the third brigade in the second division. The counties of Bond, Madison and Montgomery, shall compose the first brigade of the third division; the counties of Greene and Macoupin shall compose the second brigade in the third division; and the county of Morgan shall compose the third brigade of the third division. The counties of Sangamon and Tazewell shall compose the first brigade of the fourth division, and the counties of McLean, Macon, Shelby, Fayette, Champaign and Vermilion, shall compose the second brigade of the fourth division. The counties of Calhoun, Pike, Schuyler and Adams, shall compose the first brigade of the fifth division; the counties of Fulton, Peoria, Henry and Knox, shall compose the second brigade of the fifth division; and the counties of Hancock, McDonough, Warren and Mercer, shall compose the third brigade of the fifth division. The counties of Jo Daviess, Whiteside, Rock Island, Ogle, Winnebago and Putnam, shall compose the first brigade of the sixth division; and the counties of La Salle, Iroquois, Will, Cook, Kane and McHenry, shall compose the second brigade of the sixth division.

SEC. III. The militia of this State shall be officered as follows, to wit: To each division there shall be one major general, who shall appoint one division inspector, one division quarter-master, to rank as colonels of infantry, and two aids-de-camp, to rank as lieutenant colonels. To each brigade, there shall be one brigadier general, who shall appoint one brigade inspector, to act as brigade major; one quarter-master and one aid-de-camp, to rank as majors; the aid-de-camp, to perform the duty of brigade judge advocate. To each regiment there shall be one colonel, one, two or three majors, (as the case may be,) the senior to be lieutenant colonel, with a regimental staff, to be appointed by the colonel, to consist of one adjutant, who shall act as regimental judge advocate; one quarter-master and one paymaster, to rank as captains, respectively; one surgeon and surgeon's mate, one sergeant major, one quarter-master sergeant, one drum major, and one fife major. To each odd battalion, not forming a part of a regiment, one major, with a staff of a regiment, to be appointed by the major. To each company there shall be one captain, one first and one second lieutenant, four sergeants, four corporals, one drummer and fifer; the said sergeants and corporals to be appointed by the captains, respectively, and to hold their appointments by certificate.

SEC. IV. There shall be one adjutant general, quarter-master general and paymaster general, to be appointed by the commander-in-chief, to rank respectively as colonels of cavalry; and the commander-in-chief is also authorized to appoint two aids-de-camp, with the same rank, to continue in service until the expiration of his term of service as governor.

SEC. V. Each division, brigade, regiment, battalion and company, when in the field, shall take rank agreeably to the date of the commission of the officer commanding the same. Each division shall consist of not less than two nor more than six brigades; each brigade of not less than three nor more than six regiments; each regiment of not less than two nor more than three battalions; each battalion of not less than three nor more than six companies; each company shall consist of not less than thirty-two nor more than ninety-six privates.

SEC. VI. Whenever it becomes necessary to create new, or alter old brigade districts, the major general of the division shall call the field officers, or a majority of them together, in which brigades the bounds are to be fixed. He shall act as president of the board, and cause the division inspector to record any alterations that may be made. In like manner whenever it becomes necessary to divide any regiment in this State so as to make two regiments, it shall be the duty of the colonel or officer commanding the same, to notify the brigadier general of his brigade thereof, who may, if he think such division proper, issue his order to the colonel, or officer commanding said regiment, directing him to convene a board of officers of his regiment, which shall consist of all the commissioned officers thereof, a majority of whom shall constitute a quorum, the colonel, or officer highest in rank present, presiding. Said board, when so convened, shall proceed to determine whether they will divide said regiment; and if a division is agreed upon, they shall designate the line of division, and the place of holding the regimental muster of the new regiment, and cause the same to be recorded by the adjutant of said regiment, who shall be in attendance for that purpose. A return of the proceedings of said board shall forthwith be transmitted to the general of said brigade, who shall issue his order for an election for a colonel to command the new regiment, which shall be conducted, and return thereof made as in other cases. But commissioned officers, living in the bounds of any regiment so created, or of the old regiment, shall continue to hold their respective offices as though no such division had been made. In like manner, whenever it shall become necessary to alter any old regimental district, it shall be the duty of the brigadier general of the brigade, to call a board of field officers, to consist of not less than five, for that purpose; at which board he shall preside, and cause his brigade major to record all the proceedings, and alterations made by such board; also in like manner whenever it becomes necessary to alter old, or create new battalion districts, it shall be the duty of the colonel to call the field officers and captains of the regiment together, a majority of whom may act; and it shall be the duty of the colonel to preside at such meeting, and cause his adjutant to record all alterations made by such board; and whenever it becomes necessary to alter old, or create new company districts, it shall be the duty of the major to call a meeting of the captains of his battalion, a majority of whom may act; at which meeting he shall preside; and it shall be the duty of the adjutant to record the proceedings and alterations made by such board.

SEC. VII. No person shall be eligible to a command in the militia in this State, who is not a citizen of the United States and of this State, and has not resided in the proper bounds at least ten days; and every officer commissioned by virtue of this chapter, shall, within thirty days after receiving a commission, and previous to entering upon the duties of his office, take an oath to support the constitution of the United States and of this State; also an oath of office; a certificate of which shall be indorsed on the back of his commission, by the person administering the same; and if any person receiving such commission, who was elected by his own consent, shall fail to take the oaths as aforesaid, within the time herein provided, and give notice thereof within twenty days thereafter to the proper officer, whose duty it shall be to direct such vacancy to be filled, and to forward the date of his commission to the adjutant of the regiment, he shall be fined in the sum of ten dollars, by sentence of the regimental court martial, and forfeit his office; which shall be filled as in other cases: Provided, That any officer declared duly elected, may receive a certificate of any superior officer, which shall entitle him to command until his commission can be procured; and in all cases the officer giving such certificate, shall administer to such officer the necessary oaths of office: Provided also, That whenever it may be necessary to administer oaths to carry into effect any of the provisions of this chapter, any judge, justice of the peace, or officer of the militia, duly commissioned and sworn, shall be authorized to administer such oaths.

SEC. VIII. There may be one company of artillery and one company of cavalry attached to each regiment, to be raised by voluntary enrollment; and one company of grenadiers, light infantry or riflemen, attached to each battalion, to be raised also by voluntary enrollment: Provided, It shall not reduce a district company in such regiment or battalion below the number of forty-two, rank and file; and if such company will thereby be reduced below the number of forty-two, rank and file, such person shall return to his proper company; and in no case shall an election be held or ordered in any independent company, until it shall be made to appear that there are at least forty-two men authorized to serve, enrolled in such intended company.

SEC. IX. All light or independent companies shall be armed and equipped in the same manner that similar corps are in the army of the United States; and shall consist of the following officers, non-commissioned officers, musicians and privates, to wit: To each company of cavalry there shall be one captain, one first, one second, and one third lieutenant, one cornet, four sergeants, four corporals, one saddler, one farrier, one trumpeter, and not less than forty-six, nor more than one hundred and sixteen, rank and file; to all other independent companies, there shall be one captain, one first, one second, and one third lieutenant, four sergeants, four corporals, one drummer, one fifer, and not less than forty-six, nor more than one hundred and sixteen, rank and file: Provided, That each independent company may agree upon an uniform, which they shall wear upon parade and in service.

SEC. X. All independent companies, when called into service, shall serve by company, and if any non-commissioned officer, musician or private, in any such company, shall refuse or neglect, either by himself or a substitute, to perform such service, after being duly notified, such person shall be considered as in service, and shall be liable to be punished as a deserter; and if any member of such company shall be sick or absent when his company is called into service, such person shall be required to join his company as soon as his health will permit, or he shall have returned to the State, under the same penalty of refusing or neglecting to perform service: Provided, That when any independent company shall have served a regular tour of duty, no person shall be admitted a member of such company without producing to the officer commanding the same, a regular discharge, stating that such applicant has served a similar tour.

SEC. XI. For good cause shown, the commander-in-chief may receive the resignation of major generals, who may accept the resignation of brigadier generals, within their respective divisions. Brigadier generals may accept the resignation of colonels, or officers commanding odd battalions, within their respective brigades; and colonels or officers commanding odd battalions, may accept the resignation of commissioned officers, within their respective commands, and in all cases when a resignation is accepted, the cause of such resignation shall be indorsed on the back of the commission; and it shall be the duty of all officers authorized to accept resignations as above, to order elections to fill such vacancies as may occur by resignation or otherwise, giving at all times sufficient notice of such election; and, except in cases of emergency, the order for an election of a major or brigadier general, shall be given to the officers commanding regiments or odd battalions, within the limits of the division or brigade where such election is to be held, at least forty days previous to such election; who shall give to all commissioned officers of their respective commands, at least twenty days' notice of the time and place of holding such election. For the election of a colonel or major commanding an odd battalion, the order shall be given to the next common superior officer, at least twenty days previous to such election, who shall give at least ten days' notice of the time and place of holding such election, to all the officers commanding companies within the regiment or battalion (as the case may be,) where such election is to be held; who shall give at least five days' notice to their respective commands. For the election of a lieutenant colonel or major, there shall be at least fifteen days' notice given to all the officers commanding companies, within their respective battalions, who shall give at least five days' notice of the time and place of holding such election to their respective companies. For the election of a captain or commissioned officer, there shall be at least ten days' notice given to the senior commissioned, or, if there be no commissioned, non-commissioned officer of the company, who shall give to the company at least five days' notice of the time and place of holding such election. All returns of elections so held, shall be made to the officer ordering the same, who shall certify to the adjutant general, within thirty days thereafter, the names of all officers who may have been thus duly elected. And it shall be the duty of all officers, authorized to appoint staff officers, to accept their resignation as above, and fill all vacancies in their own staff by appointment: Provided, That no resignation of an officer shall be accepted, unless such officer shall have held his commission at least two years.

SEC. XII. The manner of voting shall be, by the elector addressing the judges of the election, in his own proper person, and with an audible voice, to be heard by the judges and clerk, name the person he votes for, and the clerk shall enter the name of the person voting, and his vote, accordingly, in a poll book, to be provided for that purpose; which poll book shall be (as near as may be,) in the following form, to wit:

"A Poll Book of an election held at _____, in the county of _____, in the _____ regiment of Illinois Militia, on the _____ day of _____, 18—.

NAMES OF VOTERS.	CANDIDATES FOR _____, ETC.
	C	D	F
A. B.	1
C. D.		1

When all the votes shall be given, they shall be examined and counted; and the judges shall cause the clerk to make out a return thereof, as near as may be, in the following form, to wit:

"At an election held at _____, in the county of _____, in the _____ regiment of Illinois Militia, on the _____ day of _____, A. D. 18—, the following named persons received the number of votes annexed to their names, for the following described offices, to wit:

- A. B. had — votes for Major General.
- C. D. had — votes for Brigadier General.
- E. F. had — votes for Colonel.
- F. G. had — votes for Major.

(and in like manner for all other offices.)

Certified by us,

A. B., }
C. D., } Judges of Election
E. F., }

Attest: J. H., Clerk of Election."

Which return, when so made out and certified, shall be transmitted by the judges to the officer ordering the election; and the poll-book aforesaid shall be transmitted to the adjutant of the regiment, (or odd battalion, as the case may be,) to be by him filed with the records of his office; and in case of a contested election, it shall be the duty of the adjutant to transmit the same to the presiding officer of the court of inquiry, in which such contest shall be tried; and the person having the greatest number of votes shall be declared duly elected.

SEC. XIII. All contested elections in the militia of this State shall be tried by a board of officers, to be appointed for that purpose by the officer ordering the same, under the rules and regulations following, to wit: The commander-in-chief shall appoint the board of officers, to decide the contested elections of major generals; major generals shall appoint the board to decide the contested elections of brigadier generals; brigadier generals shall appoint the board to decide the contested elections of colonels, lieutenant colonels and majors; and the commandants of regiments and odd battalions, for the time being, shall appoint the board to decide the contested elections of captains and subaltern officers: Provided, That in all cases the members composing such board of officers as aforesaid, shall be as near the rank as may be of the officer whose election shall be contested; and shall consist of not less than three nor more than seven members.

SEC. XIV. The officer appointing the board of officers as aforesaid, shall notify each member thereof in writing, of the time when and place where such board is to be held; and if any officer, when so appointed and notified as aforesaid, shall neglect or refuse to attend at the time and place of holding such board, he shall be liable to be fined as in other cases, for neglect of duty.

SEC. XV. The division inspector shall attend all boards of officers, which may be organized to pass upon the contested elections of major generals; and shall keep a record of the proceedings of such boards respectively. The brigade inspector shall attend all boards which may be organized to pass upon the contested elections of brigadier generals; and shall keep a record of the proceedings of such boards respectively. And the adjutant of the regiment, (or odd battalion, as the case may be,) shall attend all boards which may be organized to pass upon the contested elections of colonels, lieutenant colonels, majors, captains and subaltern officers; and shall keep a record of the proceedings in each case respectively. And the decisions of all such boards of officers, which may at any time be instituted as aforesaid, shall be final and conclusive upon all the parties concerned.

SEC. XVI. When any election shall be contested as aforesaid, it shall not be lawful for the officer whose duty it may be to certify the same, to make return thereof, until a decision shall be had thereon as aforesaid; after which, the presiding officer of the board shall certify to the officer who may have appointed the same, which of the contending parties is entitled to the office; and such successful party shall then be commissioned as in other cases: Provided, That no exception shall be allowed to be taken to the election of any officer, unless the same be done within ten days after such election shall have been held.

SEC. XVII. The presiding officer of any board, which may at any time be appointed to pass upon a contested election as aforesaid, shall have power, at the request of either party, to send for and examine witnesses; and if any witness, when properly summoned, shall refuse or neglect to attend any such board as aforesaid, without a reasonable excuse, it shall be the duty of the presiding officer as aforesaid, to turn such witness over as a delinquent to the next regular court of inquiry, to be held for the county wherein such witness shall reside; who shall thereupon proceed to acquit or to assess the fine of such witness, as circumstances shall require, in like manner as is prescribed against delinquent militiamen, for failing to attend muster, when legally required so to do.

SEC. XVIII. All oaths of office to be taken by the militia officers in this State, shall (as near as may be,) be in the following form, to wit:

"I do solemnly swear, (or affirm,) that I will support the constitution of the United States and of this State, and that I will not be engaged in dueling, either directly or indirectly, during my continuance in office; and that I will faithfully discharge the duties of captain, in the _____ regiment of Illinois militia, (or otherwise, as the case may be,) to the best of my skill and understanding: so help me God."

Which said oath shall be indorsed on the commission or certificate, (as the case may be,) and certified by the officer administering the same.

SEC. XIX. In addition to the staff in the several regiments and odd battalions in this State, as at present organized, there shall be appointed by the commandant of each regiment and odd battalion, a color bearer, to each battalion, whose duty it shall be to take charge of the colors of the battalion to which he may belong, and bear the same at all regimental and battalion parades and drill musters, and on such other occasions as shall be necessary, when required so to do.

SEC. XX. Whenever any officer of the militia in this State shall have served as such, without intermission, for the period of seven years, and shall have been completely equipped for the whole of said time, according to law, he shall ever after be exempted from the performance of military duty, except in time of war, invasion or insurrection.

SEC. XXI. If the members of any militia company in this State shall neglect or refuse to elect company officers to command such company, when legally notified of the time and place of holding an election for such purpose, and such company shall thereby become unofficered and disorganized, it shall be the duty of the commandant of the regiment or odd battalion, (as the case may be,) to attach such company to the next nearest company in the regiment or battalion to which the same may belong, without delay; whereupon the officer commanding the company to which the same may be attached, shall proceed to enroll the names of all the militiamen within the bounds of such attached company, and shall require them to perform military duty in such company, in all respects as though they had originally belonged to his command.

SEC. XXII. All volunteer cavalry, grenadier, light infantry and rifle companies, now raised and organized, shall have until the first day of April next to uniform and equip themselves, respectively: Provided, That no such company shall hereafter be dissolved for the want of equipment as the law directs; but in such case, each member shall be fined twenty-five cents, for each and every day he shall appear on parade without being equipped according to law, and the regulation of the company to which he may belong.

SEC. XXIII. In all cases where militia officers shall be fined for appearing on parade without equipments, the fine shall be proportioned according to the extent to which the uniform of such officer shall be deficient.

SEC. XXIV. In all cases hereafter, where a resignation is accepted, the cause of such resignation may either be indorsed on the commission, or, if the commission be not surrendered, on the letter of resignation.

SEC. XXV. There shall be in every year, a muster of each regiment, on such day in September as the commandant of the brigade shall direct, at which all field, staff and company officers, non-commissioned officers, musicians and privates of the regiment, shall attend, armed and equipped as the law directs.

SEC. XXVI. There shall be in every year, at such time and place, in April, as the commandant of the battalion may direct, a muster of each battalion, at which every commissioned and non-commissioned officer, musician and private of the battalion, shall attend, armed and equipped as the law directs.

SEC. XXVII. There shall be in every year, in April, at such time and place as the commandant of the company may direct, a muster of each company; at which every commissioned and non-commissioned officer, musician and private of such company, shall attend, armed and equipped as the law directs; and it shall be the duty of the commandants of companies at such muster, to notify the company of the times and places of holding all musters and courts of assessment and appeal, for the current year, which any of the company may be required to attend; which shall be all the notice required for persons regularly enrolled.

SEC. XXVIII. Each brigadier general shall appoint the days in each year on which the regimental muster shall be held in his brigade, and notify the commandants of regiments and the major general thereof, by the first day of March annually: Provided, That if the brigadier general should fail to notify the commandant of any regiment, of the time prescribed by law, the commandant of such regiment shall appoint his own regimental muster.

SEC. XXIX. The commander of each regiment, on receiving from the commandant of the brigade, notice of the time of holding the annual regimental muster, shall add thereto the place of holding the same, and also the time and place of holding the annual battalion and the regimental drill musters, and the courts of assessment and appeals; a copy of which he shall cause to be delivered to the field officers and commandants of companies, by the first day of April thereafter.

SEC. XXX. And the brigadier generals are hereby required to attend the regimental musters in their respective brigades, accompanied by their brigade inspectors, whose duty it shall be to inspect the militiamen, their arms and equipments, and report the condition of the same to the major general commanding the division to which their brigades may belong, within thirty days thereafter; and the said brigadier generals are hereby required to review each regiment of their brigades before they are dismissed from parade.

SEC. XXXI. There shall be one regimental drill muster in each year, at such time and place as may be appointed by the commandant of the regiment as aforesaid, to continue two days; at which all the commissioned and staff officers and sergeants of the regiment shall attend; commissioned officers to be armed with swords, fire-arms and accoutrements: Provided, That field officers only shall be compelled to be armed with swords; non-commissioned officers with fire-arms and cartouch boxes, or pouch and horn; and shall be trained and exercised agreeably to the rules and regulations of the army of the United States; except that surgeons and surgeon's mates need not attend such drill; and the commandant of the regiment, or, in case of his absence, the officer highest in rank or command at such drill, shall cause the roll of officers to be called on each day, note all delinquents, and make return thereof to the next court of assessment: Provided, That all the notices required as aforesaid, shall be issued by the colonels and majors commanding odd battalions, in writing, to each of the captains, by the first of April annually; and the captains shall give notice to their companies respectively, at least ten days previous to the first muster in the year, by causing written or printed notices to be set up in five of the most public places in the bounds of their companies respectively, stating the time and place for all the musters and courts of assessment and appeals, for that year.

SEC. XXXII. No private shall be fined more than seventy-five cents, for failing to attend any regimental muster, or more than fifty cents for failing to attend any battalion or company muster. No captain shall be fined for failing to wear epaulets, or subaltern officer for failing to equip himself in time of peace.

SEC. XXXIII. In all cases where there is only one regiment in the county, the regimental muster shall be held at the county seat.

SEC. XXXIV. No person conscientiously opposed to doing military duty, by reason of his religious opinions, shall be compelled to do so in time of peace: Provided, Such person shall be a member of a religious society, whose rules require him to support all poor persons connected with such society; and any person so being opposed to doing militia duty, but not a member of any religious society, may be exempted therefrom, on paying seventy-five cents each year into the county treasury. The clerk of the county commissioners' court of the county where such application shall be made, shall require an affidavit of the applicant, that he is conscientiously opposed to doing military duty, and of his age, and make a record thereof, and issue his certificate to such applicant, of his exemption from doing military duty in time of peace; such applicant shall pay the clerk granting such certificate, twenty-five cents; and the clerk shall keep a record of all such certificates and affidavits so granted by him, in a book for that purpose.

SEC. XXXV. When any independent company of grenadiers, light infantry, riflemen, artillery or cavalry, shall become organized and uniformed according to law, the captain or commanding officer thereof may petition the governor to furnish him, for the use of his company, with such a number of muskets, rifles or other arms, with their accoutrements, or, if an artillery company, a cannon or field piece and swords, with their necessary appendages, as their respective companies may require, and set forth in said petition the regiment to which his company belongs, the number it contains, and a specific number and description of the arms and equipments requisite for them; which number shall not be for more than ten persons over and above the number of rank and file his company shall at that time contain; which petition shall be accompanied with a certificate of the colonel or commanding officer of the regiment to which it belongs, that such company has been organized according to law; and also a bond, payable to the governor and his successors in office, for the use of the people of the State of Illinois, in a penal sum, equal to fourteen dollars for each musket and equipment by him so petitioned for, a sum equivalent thereto for such other arms as they may require, according to the prices at which they are rated by the United States, when furnishing them, and signed by himself as principal, with good and sufficient securities, conditioned to safely keep and have in readiness for use, the arms and other equipments by him received, in case they should be required at any time. Which bond must be proved as to the sufficiency of the security, by the judge of the circuit court of the county where such company is formed; and his certificate thereof, together with the bond, shall be filed in the office of the secretary of State.

SEC. XXXVI. The governor, upon application being made to him as aforesaid, may, if there be any arms or other equipments, so petitioned for, within the State, or due to this State from the United States, immediately furnish him with the same; and the person so applying, shall, upon their being delivered, consider them in his care, and from that time shall become responsible for the same, upon the conditions of his bond; and said company shall be permitted to use the same upon all occasions, whenever they may be called together for any kind of duty.

SEC. XXXVII. There shall be held, annually, at the same place, on the same day week next succeeding the regimental muster, a court of inquiry and assessment of fines, to be composed of the colonel, lieutenant colonel, major and captains; or any five of them, if a regiment, or three, if a battalion, may act; the said court to continue in session from day to day, until the business shall be finished. It shall be the duty of said court to assess fines on all delinquent officers, non-commissioned officers, musicians and privates, belonging to such regiment, in conformity to the provisions of this chapter; and to fine all captains or officers commanding companies, who shall neglect or refuse to return to said court by twelve o'clock of the day of such court's sitting, all the delinquencies of their respective companies at the several musters held during the year; and it shall be the duty of all delinquents so returned, to appear without further notice at said court, to make a lawful excuse, if any they have; and should any persons feel themselves aggrieved by the decision of said court, they may appeal to the colonel for a new hearing, who shall, on receiving satisfactory evidence that it is just, grant the same, by giving an order to the constable to suspend the collection of such fine; and if the person so applying for a new hearing, shall fail to attend at the next annual court of assessment, or shall not be able to show cause why he should not have been fined, it shall be the duty of said court to issue their warrant anew for the amount, with an addition of twenty per cent. The presiding officer of each board shall cause the adjutant of the regiment to keep a record of the proceedings of the court, in a book kept for that purpose, and make out therefrom a certified list of the names of the persons fined, with the fine or fines annexed to each name; upon which list it shall be the duty of the presiding officer to issue and furnish to the constable appointed to collect such fines, the following warrant, to be indorsed at any time when it may be necessary, which shall be his authority for collecting and paying over the same, to wit:

"STATE OF ILLINOIS, }
County, } ss. To A. B., Constable of the County of ———, GREETING:

In the name of the people of the State of Illinois, you are hereby required and commanded to collect from each person named in the foregoing list, the several sums of money set opposite their respective names, and within ninety days after receiving this warrant, to pay over to the paymaster of the regiment the amount so collected, and take his receipt for the same; and if any one or more of the said persons shall neglect or refuse to pay the same, you are hereby further commanded to levy on the personal goods and chattels of each delinquent, and make sale thereof according to the law regulating the collection of debts of a similar amount by execution in this State.

Given under my hand, this — day of —, A. D. 18—.

A. F.,

Colonel of the ——— Regiment —, and President of the Court."

And any constable collecting any fines under the provisions of this chapter, who shall neglect or refuse to pay over the amount so collected, as required in the foregoing warrant, after deducting twenty per cent., which shall be his fees for collection, it shall be the duty of the paymaster of the regiment to proceed against such constable or his securities, before any justice of the peace of said county; and the said constable and his securities shall only be exonerated from the payment of the amount of such fines, by showing to the satisfaction of such justice, that there was no property whereon to levy, of which such fine or fines could be made, or that the collection had been suspended by order of the colonel; and if, in the opinion of the commandant of the regiment, or another board of officers, any constable has neglected his duty, it shall be the duty of such colonel or board to withdraw the warrant from such constable, and appoint another or others, as the case may require.

SEC. XXXVIII. The following forfeitures and penalties shall be incurred for delinquencies, to wit: By the commandants of divisions, for neglect of any of the duties enjoined on them, the sum of twenty dollars; by the commandants of brigades, for neglect of any lawful orders of their superior officers, or any of the duties enjoined on them, the sum of fifteen dollars; by the commandant of a regiment, for neglect of any orders of his superior officers, or any of the duties enjoined on him, the sum of ten dollars; by the commandant of a battalion, for neglect of any orders of his superior officers, or any of the duties enjoined on him, the sum of eight dollars; by the commandant of a company, for neglect of any orders of his superior officers, or any of the duties enjoined on him, the sum of five dollars; by any subaltern officer, for neglect of any orders of his superior officers, or any of the duties enjoined on him, the sum of three dollars; by the adjutant general, quarter-master general, paymaster general, or either of the aids-de-camp to the commander-in-chief, for neglect of any orders of their superior officers, or any of the duties enjoined on them, the sum of fifteen dollars; by a division inspector, division quarter-master, division paymaster, or either of the aids-de-camp to the major general, for neglect of any orders of their superior officers, or any of the duties enjoined on them, the sum of ten dollars; by a brigade major, brigade quarter-master, or the aid-de-camp to the brigadier general, for any neglect of any orders of their superior officers, or any of the duties enjoined on them, the sum of eight dollars; by adjutant, quarter-master, paymaster, surgeon or surgeon's mate of a regiment, for neglect of any orders of their superior officers, or any of the duties enjoined on them, the sum of five dollars; by the regimental non-commissioned staff officers, for neglect of any orders of their superior officers, or any of the duties enjoined on them, the sum of two dollars; by non-commissioned officers, musicians and privates of companies, for neglect to attend any regimental muster, the sum of two dollars; or any other muster fixed or ordered agreeably to law, or for neglect of any orders of a superior officer, the sum of one dollar; for failing to attend at any muster without their proper arms, uniform and accoutrements, they shall be fined in proportion to rank, as recited in the foregoing part of this section; in one-half the sum for neglect of duty or disobedience of orders. Fathers shall be bound for the payment of fines incurred by their sons under twenty-one years of age; guardians, for the payment of fines incurred by their wards; and masters, for the payment of fines incurred by their apprentices; to be charged and collected accordingly.

SEC. XXXIX. On complaint of a commissioned officer, in writing, to a superior officer, charging any officer under the command of such superior with neglect of any of the duties enjoined on him by law, of disobedience of orders, or of being guilty of any conduct unbecoming an officer or a gentleman, such superior officer shall, if he thinks the complaint sufficient cause for an arrest, cause the officer against whom such complaint is made to be arrested, by notifying such officer in writing that he is suspended from command until acquitted from such arrest; stating, at the same time, the grounds of arrest, and the time and place of trial; and, at the same time, notify the officer next in command, that, in consequence of such arrest, he is required to do the duties which were enjoined on the officer so arrested: Provided, That when any superior officer shall consider the charges made against any officer of insufficient consequence to cause his arrest, he shall, on application of the officer preferring the charges, give him his reasons in writing for his refusal to cause the arrest; which reasons the complaining officer may send, together with the charges, to the next common superior, who may, if he think it correct, order the arrest and trial of such officer.

SEC. XL. In all cases where an officer is arrested, the officer who orders the arrest, shall issue any subpoenas that may be applied for by either of the parties, or which he may think necessary, to compel the attendance of witnesses; and the party so applying, or any person whom the officer granting the subpoena may appoint, may serve the same, and indorse the time of service thereon, which shall be at least three days previous to the sitting of the court martial, and shall make a return thereof to the president of the said court, the first day thereof, who shall, if necessary, administer an oath or affirmation to the person returning the subpoena relative to the service thereof. Any person who neglects or refuses to attend a court martial, after being subpoenaed, shall be fined in a sum not exceeding fifty dollars, which fine shall be collected and applied as other fines under the provisions of this chapter; and any court martial shall have power to issue compulsory process to compel the attendance of witnesses who neglect or refuse to attend, after being duly subpoenaed.

SEC. XLI. Major generals shall be tried by courts martial appointed by the commander-in-chief, where a major general shall preside; brigadier generals shall be tried by courts martial appointed by a major general, where a brigadier general shall preside; colonels, lieutenant colonels, majors and captains, shall be tried by courts martial appointed by a brigadier general, where a colonel shall preside; and subalterns shall be tried by a court martial appointed by a colonel, where a lieutenant colonel or major shall preside; each court martial shall consist of not less than five nor more than thirteen members, and to be of rank, as near as can be conveniently had, of the officer tried; all courts martial, so ordered, shall have power to punish any officer for neglect of duty, disobedience of orders, contempt, or any conduct unbecoming an officer or a gentleman, by suspension, fining, cashiering and disqualification to hold any office in the militia of this State: Provided, That when the militia are called into service, the commanding officer present shall alone have power to order an officer into a state of arrest, except in such cases as are designated in the twenty-seventh article of war.

SEC. XLII. When any court martial is met, the president shall administer the following oath or affirmation to the judge advocate:

"You do solemnly swear, or affirm, (as the case may be,) that you will not disclose or discover the vote of any particular member of this court martial, unless required to give evidence thereof as a witness by a court of justice, nor divulge the sentence of the court to any but the proper authority, until it shall be disclosed by the same."

And the judge advocate, or the person acting as such, shall administer the following oath to each member of such court martial:

"You do swear, or affirm, (as the case may be,) that you will truly determine, according to evidence, the matter now before you, between the United States or the State of Illinois, (as the case may be,) and A. B. (the person to be tried,) and that you will truly administer justice, according to law, without partiality, favor or affection, according to your conscience and the best of your understanding, and the custom of war in like cases; and that you will not divulge the sentence of the court, until it shall be published by the proper authority; neither will you discover the vote or opinion of any member of the court, unless required to give evidence thereof in a court of justice."

The judge advocate shall prosecute in the name of the United States, or of this State, (as the case may be,) but shall so far consider himself counsel for the person accused, as to object to any leading question being put to him, or any witness, which might tend to criminate himself; he shall also see that right and justice shall be done to the accused. All persons giving evidence before a court martial, are to be examined on oath, in the following manner:

"You do swear, or affirm, (as the case may be,) that the evidence that you give shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth."

The court shall have power to punish its members, or any person attending the same, for disorderly conduct, as in other cases; and in giving their votes on any subject, to begin with the lowest in rank: Provided, That the party tried by such court martial, shall be entitled to a copy of the sentence and the proceedings of the court in his case, after the decision and sentence, upon demand thereof, whether such sentence be approved or not: Provided, also, That all sentences of any general court martial shall be submitted to the officer ordering such court, who shall have power to approve or disapprove the sentence of any such court; also, to pardon, or mitigate the sentence.

SEC. XLIII. Whenever it may be necessary to call into actual service any part of the militia of this State, on a requisition of the executive of the United States, on an actual or threatened invasion of this State, or any of the neighboring States or territories of the United States, the commander-in-chief shall forthwith demand from each division, a detachment in proportion to the strength thereof, except as hereinafter excepted; which order shall be delivered by a special messenger to the several commandants of divisions, specifying the number required from each division, the time and place of rendezvous, if ordered to march, and if the same be detached under any particular act of the United States, to indorse the same on such order; and the several commandants of divisions, after receiving such notice, shall proceed forthwith to detach the same accordingly: Provided, That whenever the safety of any of the frontier settlements of this State shall, in the opinion of the governor, require it, he may exempt the militia in such settlements, from being called into service, and make such further provisions for their defense as the necessity of the case may require; which exemption shall be expressed in his orders to the commandants of the divisions, who, together with the commandants of brigades, regiments, battalions and companies, shall govern themselves accordingly: And provided, also, That such militiamen may be required to serve as spies on their own frontiers; and that on actual invasion, or any extreme emergency, the commander-in-chief, commandants of divisions, brigades, regiments, battalions and companies, may call on the whole or any part of the militia under their respective commands, as the nature of the case may require; who shall continue in service, if necessary, until the militia can be regularly called out; and all manner of persons so called and refusing to serve, shall be liable to the penalties and punishments, as if they had been regularly drafted into actual service.

SEC. XLIV. Whenever any detachment of militia of this State shall be ordered into actual service, to perform a tour of duty, under the laws of this State, the commanding officer of brigades or regiments, on receiving the proper orders from any superior officer, shall issue his orders to the commanding officers of the regiment or battalion composing his brigade or regiment, (as the case may be,) detailing to them the number of men required from their respective commands, ordering them to cause the captains or commanding officers of companies, together with the subalterns or commissioned officers of their respective companies, composing their regiments or battalions, to furnish the number of men required; and on the receipt of such orders, the commanding officer of each and every company so ordered, shall forthwith assemble his company at their usual place of muster, and at such meeting he shall divide those subject to do military duty, by ballot, into as many classes as there are men required of him; and in case of the absence of any of the members of the company, the commanding officer shall draw for him or them, and forthwith notify such absentee or absentees, by himself or a non-commissioned officer; and when such absentee or absentees cannot be found, a written notice shall be left at his or their last and most usual place of abode, signed by a non-commissioned officer, by whom such notice may be proven; which warning shall be deemed sufficient; and each class, so formed, shall furnish one able-bodied man, by draft or contract, as such class may agree, within five days thereafter, to the acceptance of the commanding officer of such company, who shall immediately enroll such man or men, and cause them to be marched agreeably to the orders he may have received for that purpose.

SEC. XLV. When any class shall be called on to furnish a militiaman, agreeably to the preceding section, and any part of such class shall agree and actually furnish such able-bodied man, to the acceptance of the commanding officer of such company, the remaining part of such class, furnishing a man, shall report the same, in writing, to the commanding officer of the company to which such class may belong; and on the receipt of such report, the captain or commanding officer shall immediately assess on the members of the class, equally, the amount which may have been paid or contracted to be paid by that part of the class who have furnished the man, and shall certify and deliver the same over to such part of the class as has furnished the man returned for service; and such man or men having furnished such able-bodied man for the class to which they belong, on the receipt of such certificate, shall have full power to sue for and recover in their own name, and for their own use, for each of the remaining parts of the class who have refused or neglected to comply with such requisition, his equal part of the sum paid or to be paid as aforesaid, before any justice of the peace or court having competent jurisdiction, which shall be collected, with costs of suit, and paid over as in other cases; from which there shall be no appeal or stay of execution: Provided, That no more than fifteen dollars per month shall be given, in addition to the regular monthly pay of any substitute so hired in the name and for such class.

SEC. XLVI. If either of the classes, when regularly formed and notified, shall neglect or refuse to comply with the requisitions of this chapter, within five days, the captain or commanding officer of such company shall detach, by draft, one able-bodied man from each and every class so refusing or neglecting, and cause him to be enrolled and march forthwith to the place of rendezvous; and if such man shall desert or abscond, after being ordered to the place of rendezvous, he shall be advertised and treated as a deserter; and when any militiaman shall be so drafted, the commandant of his company in which he resides shall thereupon assess on the remaining members of the class, equally, the sum of fifty dollars, and certify the same to such militiaman, on application, who shall thereupon be authorized and empowered to sue for and recover from each of the remaining members of his class the sum so assessed, in the same manner as a part of a class furnishing a man for a tour of duty are, by the provisions of the preceding section, empowered to recover from the part neglecting or refusing: Provided, That in all cases, any person so drawn may serve by a sufficient substitute, to be approved by the captain or commanding officer of the company to which he may be offered to serve in.

SEC. XLVII. When there may be minors in any class, parents may be bound for their sons, guardians for their wards, to the extent of the funds of such wards in the hands of such guardians, and masters for their apprentices.

SEC. XLVIII. No militiaman who has served a tour of duty, either by himself or substitute, nor militiaman who has paid the whole penalty for neglecting or refusing to perform a tour of duty, shall be called on to serve a second tour of duty until each remaining member of the class has served a tour of duty, either by himself or substitute: Provided, That all fines or penalties that may be collected for neglect, desertion or refusal to serve, shall, in time of war, be applied to hiring of substitutes, and equally divided among the classes of the company to which the person belonged, owing such fine.

SEC. XLIX. When any detachment of militia shall be called into service, the captain or commandant of each company shall take care that his portion of men are assembled and marched to the proper place of rendezvous, with a list of the men; which list he shall deliver, or cause to be delivered, to the adjutant of the regiment, who shall make out a roll of the whole, the rank of the officers, and names of the non-commissioned officers and privates; and when the detachment shall be completed and placed under the proper officer, he shall attend them to a place appointed for the meeting of the detachment of the brigade, where the several adjutants shall deliver to the brigade major or officer appointed to command the whole detachment from the brigade, a complete roll, containing the names of the commissioned officers, non-commissioned officers and privates, composing the detachment from each regiment, noting such remarks as circumstances may require; and it shall be the duty of the officer appointed to command such detachment, to make out two complete rolls of the whole detachment, and certify under his hand, one of which he shall direct to the brigadier general, and the other to the major general of the brigade and division from which such troops are detached.

SEC. L. For the purpose of having the militia, when called into service, properly officered, the following order is hereby enjoined, that is to say: All major generals shall serve on tours of duty agreeably to the dates of their respective commissions, if the whole detachment from the State amounts to a major general's command; and the brigadier generals shall also serve according to the dates of their commissions respectively, if the whole detachment from the State shall amount to a brigadier general's command; and if more than one brigadier general's command, the next senior brigadier general shall be called to take command; subordinates, and so on, in succession; and all other officers, although out of the State at the time the call is made, shall serve according to the dates of their respective commissions, as follows: The senior colonel, lieutenant colonel, major and platoon officers, within the bounds from which such regiment, battalion or company was formed, shall take command therein according to rank, in proper succession; and when there shall be two or more commissions of the same rank and date in any regiment, the commandant thereof shall, in the presence of two disinterested officers, determine the seniority of such officers by lot, which shall ever after govern such officers as to their rank; in like manner the brigadier general shall determine the rank of colonels in his brigade; in like manner major generals shall determine the rank of brigadier generals in their divisions; and in like manner shall the adjutant general determine the rank of major generals; and the rank thus determined shall be entered on the several rank rolls, as pointed out in this chapter. The division, brigade and regimental staff officers will serve on tours of duty with their respective generals or colonels, (as the case may be); the non-commissioned officers shall serve with their respective company officers, as follows: The first sergeant, first corporal and musicians, shall serve with the captain; the second and third sergeant and second and third corporal, with the first lieutenant; the fourth sergeant and fourth corporal shall serve with the second lieutenant: Provided, That when the adjutant shall be called to perform regular tours of duty with the colonel, he shall, previous to his departure from the regiment in which he shall belong, deliver all papers and records in his possession, and belonging to the regiment, unto the senior officer remaining in said regiment, who is hereby authorized and required, without delay, to appoint an adjutant pro tempore; and when absence, sickness or other circumstances prevent any non-commissioned officer of a company from marching, when called, the commissioned officers shall determine, by lot, among the other non-commissioned officers, who, among them, shall perform the tour of duty in place of him whose duty it was to march; and those persons on whom such lot may fall, shall be compelled to perform the tour of duty in the same manner as though he were otherwise subject to the same; and he whose duty it was to serve such tour of duty, shall march on the next; and any officer or non-commissioned officer, who may resign his office after being notified to march on a tour of duty, before he has completed the same, shall be compelled to serve on such tour as a private, under all the penalties described by this chapter, for a private failing to perform a tour of duty, after being regularly drafted on such a tour: Provided, That the commander-in-chief may, if he shall think it advisable, permit any superior officer to take the command of any detachment of militia called into service; such officer to rank, during his continuance in such command, agreeably to its number and the requisition, without regard to his rank in the militia.

SEC. LI. If any person wishes to be exempted from military duty, on account of bodily infirmity or disability, such person shall appear before the next regimental court of inquiry or assessment, where he shall be examined on oath by the surgeon of the regiment, in the presence of the court, relative to his indisposition or disability to perform military duty; the president of the court shall give to each man found disabled, a certificate of exemption until his complaint shall be removed.

SEC. LII. The militia of this State, when called into actual service, shall serve six months, unless sooner discharged, from the time they arrive from the place of rendezvous within the brigade from which they are detached; which place shall be designated by the commandant of the brigade; and shall, in all cases, be commanded by the militia officers regularly elected and appointed, agreeably to the provisions of this chapter; and if discharged previous to the expiration of six months, shall be entitled to pay for such time as they have been in the service, allowing them a reasonable time to return to their places of residence, and shall be entitled to a discharge for a full tour of duty.

SEC. LIII. The adjutant general shall be allowed, in time of war, four hundred dollars, and in time of peace, one hundred dollars, annually; the division inspector, the sum of five dollars for each regiment he shall actually inspect, by order of the major general of the division to which he belongs, on the certificate of the major general; the brigade major, the sum of ten dollars, annually, for each battalion in the brigade to which he belongs, on the certificate of the major general; officers performing the duties of special judge advocate to general courts martial, the sum of one dollar and fifty cents per day; and to officers attending a general court martial, as members or witnesses, the sum of one dollar per day for every day they may be necessarily employed in the performance of said duties, on the certificate of the officer ordering and the president of the court, to be paid out of the State treasury: Provided, That no compensation will be allowed to officers attending courts martial, as members or witnesses, who reside within ten miles of the place where such court is held. The adjutants of regiments, the sum of one dollar and fifty cents per day for attending each battalion and regimental muster and court of assessment, upon the certificate of the colonel, to be paid out of the funds of the regiment.

SEC. LIV. In addition to the persons exempted from military duty by the laws of the United States and by this chapter, there shall be exempted the following: The lieutenant governor of the State, the chief and associate justices of the supreme and circuit courts, the attorney general of the State, licensed ministers of the gospel, and keepers of jails.

SEC. LV. The following shall be the uniform and equipments of the several officers of the militia of this State, to be worn at all times when on duty: Every general officer or of the general staff, blue coat and pantaloons, made in the fashion of the United States' uniform, gold epaulets, with sword, mounting, buttons, spurs, &c., of the same color; a round hat, black cockade, white plume, black belt, red silk sash, stock and boots; every regimental officer, a blue coat and pantaloons, made in the fashion of the United States' infantry uniform, or common dress coat, as such regimental officer may think proper, silver epaulets or epaulet, according to rank, sword, mounting, buttons and spurs of the same color; a round hat, black cockade, with plume with a red top, red belt, stock and boots: Provided, That platoon officers may wear a blue hunting shirt and pantaloons, trimmed with red; and for good cause shown, shall not be fined for not wearing epaulets. Officers of the medical staff may wear a blue coat and pantaloons, made in the fashion of the general staff, with black silk velvet collars and cuffs, yellow mounted sword or hanger, yellow buttons, spurs, &c.

SEC. LVI. The colonels commanding regiments, lieutenant colonels, and majors commanding battalions, and captains commanding companies, shall appoint the place of holding their several regimental and drill, battalion and company musters, which shall be as near the centre of their respective commands as convenient; and all officers, non-commissioned officers, musicians and privates, whose duty it is made by this chapter to attend any regimental drill, battalion or company muster, by the hour of ten, A. M., of the day of such muster, armed and equipped; at half past ten o'clock, the officers commanding companies, shall cause their respective rolls to be called, and note all delinquents; at eleven o'clock, the superior officers present at any regimental drill, battalion or company muster, shall assume the command, and exercise them until three o'clock, P. M., agreeably to the established discipline for the army of the United States.

SEC. LVII. The colonels commanding regiments, and majors commanding battalions, not attached to a regiment, shall, as soon as there are funds sufficient belonging to the regiments or odd battalions, purchase out of said fund a stand of colors made after the fashion of the United States' flag, with the number of the regiment, brigade and division inscribed upon it; the captains commanding companies shall furnish their respective musicians with proper instruments; and the drum and fife majors shall furnish themselves with proper instruments, to be paid for out of the funds of the regiment, by order of the regimental board of officers.

SEC. LVIII. In addition to the services required of the major generals by this chapter, it shall be their duty to review the several regiments and odd battalions not attached to regiments, composing the several brigades attached to their respective divisions, as often as is consistent, and as in their opinion the good of the service may require; to cause their respective division inspectors to record all general orders, also all reports and rank rolls received annually from the several brigades attached to their divisions; and, when required by the commander-in-chief, to make out division returns and rank rolls, to be forwarded to the adjutant general of the State; and to do and perform all other duties that may be necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this chapter, or which may appertain to the office of major general.

SEC. LIX. In addition to the services required of the brigadier generals by this chapter, it shall be their duty to review the several regiments, and battalions not attached to regiments, composing their respective brigades, annually, at their regimental or battalion musters in the fall; to cause their respective brigade majors to record all reports received annually from the several regiments and odd battalions composing their commands, and to make out a consolidated brigade return therefrom, and forward one copy to the major general of the division, and one to the adjutant general of the State, on or before the first day of December, annually; and to do and perform all other duties which may be necessary to carry into full effect the provisions of this chapter, or which may be necessary to the perfection of discipline, or which may in anywise appertain to the office of brigadier general.

SEC. LX. In addition to the services required of the colonels commanding regiments, and majors commanding battalions not attached to a regiment, it shall be their duty to require from the several officers commanding battalions, if a regiment, or companies, if a battalion, complete returns of their respective commands, on the day of a regimental or battalion muster, in the fall of each year; to cause their adjutants to record all returns so received, and also all orders received or issued by themselves; and to make out a regimental return and rank roll, and forward it to the brigadier general of their respective brigades, on the day of holding their annual regimental court. It shall also be their duty to take the command at all regimental or drill musters, and exercise their regiments or battalions (as the case may be,) agreeably to the discipline established for the army of the United States; also, to be responsible for the good order of their respective regiments or odd battalions, as the case may be, and cause to be executed the laws and orders applicable to their commands; and to do and perform all other duties belonging to their respective offices.

SEC. LXI. In addition to the service required of lieutenant colonels and majors commanding battalions, it shall be their further duty to assume the command at all musters of their respective battalions; to require of the officers commanding companies annual returns on the day of the regimental muster, in the fall, and, on the same day, deliver the returns so received to the officer commanding the regiment; and to do and perform all other duties which may, in any way, appertain to their office.

SEC. LXII. In addition to the services required of captains or officers commanding companies, it shall be their further duty to take command of their respective companies, at all company, battalion and regimental musters, at ten o'clock, A. M., of the day of holding such muster; and, at half-past ten o'clock, call or cause the roll of their company to be called, under their immediate inspection, noting all delinquents at any such muster upon a company roll, or report of delinquents made out by them for that purpose, in which all the delinquents, at any muster held during the year, shall be noted; which delinquent report shall be returned to the regimental court of assessment of fines, by twelve o'clock of the day of holding such court, by every such commanding officer, which shall be considered good evidence against all delinquents therein returned; also, to make out and deliver to the commanding officers of their respective regiments or battalions, on the day of holding the regimental or battalion musters in the fall, a complete return of the companies under their command; at which muster they shall cause the names of such persons as have been delinquents at any muster held during the year, to be read aloud; also, to obey all orders from their superior officers; and to do and perform such other duties as may appertain to their office. It shall also be the duty of all inferior officers, non-commissioned officers, musicians and privates, to go on parade at all musters so held, at ten o'clock; and to do and perform such services as may in anywise appertain to their respective stations.

SEC. LXIII. In case of death, removal, absence or resignation of any superior officer, it shall be the duty of the next officer in rank attached to the same corps, to assume the command and perform all the duties that would have devolved on any such commanding officer, were he present; and to exercise the same until such superior officer shall return, or the vacancy be filled agreeably to the provisions of this chapter. In like manner if it should happen at any time, that there is no commissioned officer belonging to any company, it shall be the duty of the senior non-commissioned officer of such company, to assume the command, under the same penalties that any superior officer of a company would be, were he present, for any neglect of his duties.

SEC. LXIV. There shall be observed in the several corps of militia in this State, a gradual and universal subordination of authority; and all inferior officers and privates shall obey all orders from their respective superior officers; but it is understood that orders are not to be manifestly against law or reason; and that nothing in this chapter, shall be so construed as to prevent any superior officer from taking the command, at any muster of the militia of this State.

SEC. LXV. The adjutant general shall keep his office at the seat of government; and it shall be his duty to receive all certificates of elections for officers, to file the same in his office, to procure from the secretary of State the commissions of all officers duly elected or appointed; and within ten days after receiving any certificate of election or appointment, forward the commission to the officer by whom such certificate was transmitted; all which commissions shall be properly registered by him; also, to lay before the commander-in-chief, an abstract of the annual returns of the militia made to his office, and forward to the President of the United States, annually, a duplicate thereof; to perform the duties of inspector general, and distribute all orders from the commander-in-chief of the divisions, or other corps of militia; to attend all reviews with the commander-in-chief; to obey all orders from him relative to carrying into effect the provisions of this chapter, and to do and perform all other acts and duties which appertain to the office of adjutant general.

SEC. LXVI. It shall be the duty of the division inspector of each division, to act as assistant adjutant general; to distribute all orders from the commandants of divisions or the adjutant general; attend all reviews with the major general; to record all orders received or issued by the major general; also, all returns and rank rolls received annually, from the several brigades composing their division; also, a detail of all detachments marched into service from their divisions, in a general order book kept for that purpose; also, to make out division returns, when required by the major general or any superior officer, and to perform such other duties as may appertain to their office.

SEC. LXVII. In addition to the services required of the brigade majors, it shall be their duty to attend all regimental musters, and all officer and drill musters held in the several regiments, or odd battalions not attached to a regiment, composing their respective brigades; to inspect the arms and equipments of all officers and privates at every such muster, and report all such as are delinquent, to the commanding officer present, to be handed to the next regimental court of assessment; also, to record all orders received or issued by the brigadier general, and all returns and rank rolls received annually from the several regiments and odd battalions composing their respective brigades, in a general order book kept for that purpose; to consolidate the annual returns and rank rolls received from the several officers commanding regiments and odd battalions in their brigades, into a brigade return, and, on the first day of December, annually, transmit one copy to the major general of the division, and one to the adjutant general of the State; to keep a correct detail of all detachments marched from their brigade into service; to distribute all general orders; and to do and perform such other services as may be necessary for the discipline of the militia, and all other duties that may appertain to the office of brigade inspector.

SEC. LXVIII. In addition to the services required of the adjutants of regiments or odd battalions, it shall be their duty to attend all regimental, drill and battalion musters, and courts martial, or courts of inquiry held in their respective regiments or battalions, (as the case may be); to deliver all general and regimental orders; also, to record all orders received or issued by their respective commanding officers, and all annual returns received by them, and the date of each officer's commission belonging to their regiment or battalion, noting the resignations, removals or death of any officer, in an order book kept for that purpose; also, to make out, under the direction of their commanding officers, regimental returns and rank rolls, and on the day of holding their annual court, forward such returns and rank rolls to the general of their respective brigades; to furnish the paymaster of the regiment with a duplicate of all lists of fines put into the hands of any constable for collection; also, at all regimental or drill musters, in case of the absence of the brigade major, to perform such duties as may be required of him at any such muster; also, at all regimental, battalion or drill musters, to form the regiment or battalion, (as the case may be,) by eleven o'clock, A. M., and immediately thereafter inform the commanding officer that the parade is ready; also, to keep a correct detail of all detachments marched into service from their regiments or battalions, (as the case may be); and to do and perform such other duties as may be required of them by their superior officers, and all other duties that may appertain to the office of adjutant.

SEC. LXIX. It shall be the duty of the sergeant major to assist the adjutant in forming the regiment or battalion, (as the case may be,) at all musters; also, to assist him in delivering all orders to the regiment, and to do such other services as he may be required to perform, or that may belong to the station of sergeant major.

SEC. LXX. It shall be the duty of the quarter-master general, to apply for and receive all arms that are or may become due to this State from the general government; to deposit all arms so received, or which may have heretofore been received, and not otherwise disposed of, in some safe place at the seat of government of this State; also, to employ such means to preserve all such arms from damage, as in his opinion may, from time to time, become necessary; to furnish, when required so to do by any superior officer, a full exhibit of all the arms in his possession belonging to the State; also, to do and perform all other duties that may in anywise appertain to the office of quarter-master general.

SEC. LXXI. All officers belonging to the general or regimental staff, whose duties are not defined particularly by this chapter, shall attend all musters held by their respective commanding officers, obey all orders from them, or any superior officer, and do and perform such other duties as may in anywise appertain or belong to their respective stations.

SEC. LXXII. Each regimental paymaster appointed under the provisions of this chapter, shall and is hereby required to give bond to the county commissioners of the county where he may reside, and their successors in office, with good and sufficient security, in the sum of two hundred dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duty; which bond shall remain on file in the clerk's office of said commissioners, and be prosecuted on a failure in the conditions thereof, at the suit of the adjutant, in the same manner that a suit could be prosecuted against a sheriff or county treasurer for a failure of the conditions of his bond; it shall also be his duty to receive all money belonging to his regiment or odd battalion, (as the case may be,) which he shall only pay out by an order from the regimental court, taking, at all times, proper vouchers for any moneys so paid; to attend all courts of inquiry held in his regiment or battalion, and lay before the board an account of the finances of the regiment, stating particularly all moneys received and paid out, with his several proceedings relative to the duties of his office; and all accounts so exhibited and settled by the board, shall be entered by the adjutant on his order book; and to do and perform such other services as may be required, or which may in anywise appertain to the office of paymaster.

SEC. LXXIII. If any paymaster shall neglect or refuse to pay over any moneys that may be in his hands, the adjutant of the regiment shall make an application in writing to the circuit court held in the proper county against such paymaster, setting forth the facts; and the adjutant shall give the said paymaster a copy of any such application five days before the session of said court; whereupon the court shall, at that term, proceed to render judgment against such paymaster and his securities, for the amount of such moneys so retained, with twenty per cent. added, and interest until paid, with costs of suit; and the testimony of the adjutant or other parol evidence of such delinquency, shall be sufficient for the court to render judgment; from which there shall be no appeal or stay of execution.

SEC. LXXIV. When any necessary expense shall accrue in carrying into effect the provisions of this chapter, for the payment of which no provision is hereinbefore made, the same shall be paid out of the contingent fund, by the order of the commander-in-chief.

SEC. LXXV. Whenever there is any new division or brigade created, the elections to fill such vacancies shall be held on the third Saturday of September; the election to be held at the same places that the regimental musters are held, and conducted by the colonels or majors commanding odd battalions; and when there is no commissioned officer in the county, it shall be held by the sheriff, and advertised by him according to law; and when there is any county in the State that the militia is not organized, the sheriff of such county shall advertise and hold all such elections at the county seat, on the first Saturday in June; or if there be pressing necessity therefor, at any other time he may appoint.

SEC. LXXVI. Whenever any volunteer or independant company shall be organized according to the laws of this State, it shall be lawful for such company, at any regular meeting thereof, to adopt a constitution and by-laws for the regulation and government of said company, which shall not be inconsistent with the constitution of the United States or of this State.

SEC. LXXVII. It shall be the duty of the acting orderly sergeant of the company to keep a perfect and complete record of the constitution and by-laws of said company, which shall be signed by the acting captain of the company, and countersigned by the acting orderly sergeant, and said constitution and by-laws shall, at all times, be subject to the inspection of any member of the company, and of all militia officers, and any person interested therein.

SEC. LXXVIII. Said constitution and by-laws may fix the fines and penalties which shall be imposed on any member of the company for an infraction of any of the provisions of said constitution or by-laws, and may also fix the fines which shall be imposed on any member for a failure to parade at any muster which may be called, according to the constitution or by-laws of the company.

SEC. LXXIX. No company shall be entitled to any of the benefits hereof, which shall not provide in its constitution or by-laws for company musters at least once in each year.

SEC. LXXX. When any member of the company shall have been guilty of a violation of any of the provisions of the constitution or by-laws of the company, and a fine shall have been assessed on him in accordance with the provisions of said constitution and by-laws, it shall be the duty of the acting orderly sergeant of the company, or in case he is interested, then of the next sergeant of the company, to demand of such member said fine, and in case of his neglect or refusal to pay the same, it shall be lawful to bring suit for the same in the name of the company before any justice of the peace of the county, subject to an appeal to the circuit court, as in cases of debt or assumpsit: Provided, however, That when said suit shall be brought, security for costs shall be given by some responsible person or persons, in case said suit shall be determined against said company.

SEC. LXXXI. It shall be sufficient evidence that the constitution or by-laws have been regularly adopted, if they are signed by the acting captain, and countersigned by the acting orderly sergeant of the company; and any member of said company may be a witness in all cases brought under the provisions of this law.

SEC. LXXXII. All fines collected shall be received by the acting orderly sergeant or acting captain of the company, and shall be used for the benefit and under the direction of the company.

SEC. LXXXIII. It shall be lawful for any two or more volunteer companies to organize themselves into an odd battalion, and elect their major and all other staff officers: Provided, The parade grounds of said companies are in the same county and not more than twenty-five miles apart, and in case there shall be four or more volunteer companies in one county, they may organize themselves into a regiment and two battalions, and elect their colonel and staff officers in such manner as may be mutually agreed upon by the respective companies.

SEC. LXXXIV. Whenever any battalion or regiment shall become organized as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the same to adopt a constitution and by-laws for their government, as is above provided for in the cases of companies, the acting colonel or major (as the case may be,) supplying the place of the acting captain, and the acting adjutant the place of the orderly sergeant.

SEC. LXXXV. Any person serving eight years in one or more volunteer or independent companies, shall be exempt from performing any military duty in time of peace, upon obtaining a certificate or certificates that he has faithfully discharged his duty as a member of said company.

(1.) SECTION I. When any person owning lands on one side of any stream or water-course, the bed of which wholly or in part belongs to himself or herself, and may be desirous of building a water grist mill or saw-mill on such lands, or of erecting any dam across such water-course for that purpose, and shall not own the lands on the opposite side of such stream or water-course, such person, on application to the county commissioners' court of the county where the opposite lands may lie, may obtain a writ of ad quod damnum, to be issued, directed and proceeded on as is hereinafter directed: Provided, That notice in writing of such application be given four weeks before the said application, by personal service on the owner or owners of such lands, his, her or their agents, if to be found in the county, and if not, then by affixing such notice on the court-house door of the county.

(2.) SEC. II. The said writ shall be directed to the sheriff of the county in which the lands to be affected thereby may lie, commanding him to summon twelve good and lawful men of his county, to meet upon the lands in such writ named, on a day therein to be specified; and ten days' notice of the execution of such writ shall be given by the sheriff to the proprietor of such lands, as before directed in the case of notices, unless the party, his, her or their agent, were present in court when such writ was obtained.

(3.) SEC. III. The jury so summoned, when met, shall be sworn and charged by the sheriff, impartially and to the best of their skill and judgment, to view the lands in the said writ described, and the lands above and below the proposed dam, and ascertain the damages, as by said writ directed, and shall locate and set apart, by metes and bounds, so much land as they may think necessary for the purpose of erecting such dam, not exceeding three acres, having due regard in such location to the interest of both parties, and shall appraise the same at its true value; also to examine the lands of other persons, which may probably be overflowed by the erection of such dam, and say what damage each owner will sustain thereby, and whether the dwelling-house, out-house, orchard or garden of any such owner will be overflowed; and whether, in their opinion, the health of the neighborhood will be injuriously affected by such overflowing; which inquisition shall be made and signed by all the jurors, and returned by the sheriff, with the writ, to the next term of the court whence it issued.

(4.) SEC. IV. When the inquest aforesaid shall be taken, the party obtaining the same shall notify the owner or owners of lands mentioned in such inquisition, whose lands are to be affected by the same, to appear at the next county commissioners' court and show cause why leave should not be granted to build such mill and dam; which notice shall be served as before directed.

(5.) SEC. V. Any person wishing to build such mill, and to dam any water-course, who may own the land on both sides of such stream, shall make application as aforesaid, to the court of the county where such mill is proposed to be erected, for a writ to examine as aforesaid, what lands may be thereby overflowed, and what damage will be sustained by the owner or owners of such lands, and whether the health of the neighborhood will be affected by such overflowing; which writ shall be issued, directed and returned as before prescribed.

(6.) SEC. VI. If, on such inquest, or other evidence, it shall appear to the court that the dwelling-house of any proprietor, or any out-house, garden or orchard will be overflowed, or the health of the neighborhood impaired, they shall not give leave to erect such dam. If the said court shall judge it reasonable and for the public benefit, they may give leave, and lay the party applying under such regulations and restrictions in respect to the navigation of such stream, as they shall judge proper.

(7.) SEC. VII. If the party applying obtain leave to build the said dam, he shall, on paying to the proprietor or proprietors of the lands located, the damages assessed by the jury as aforesaid, become seized in fee of the land so located, to him, his heirs and assigns. But if he shall not, within one year thereafter, begin to build the said mill, and finish the same within three years, and afterwards keep it in good repair for the accommodation of the public, or in case the said mill or dam be destroyed, shall not begin to rebuild in one year after its destruction, and finish it in three years, the said land shall revert to the former owner and his heirs, unless, at the time of such destruction, the owner of such mill be an infant, or otherwise disabled in law, in which case the same time shall be allowed after such disability is removed.

(8.) SEC. VIII. The inquest of the jury aforesaid, or the opinion of the court, shall not bar any prosecution or action which would otherwise be maintained in law, had this chapter never been passed, other than for such injuries as were foreseen and estimated by the jury.

(9.) SEC. IX. Any person, having obtained leave to erect any dam and mill as aforesaid, who shall neglect to finish the same within the time before prescribed in this chapter, or having erected such mill, shall fail to keep it in repair and running, for the accommodation of the public, for the space of one year, at any one time, shall forfeit all rights acquired by virtue of the provisions of this chapter.

(10.) SEC. X. All mills now in operation, or which may hereafter be put in operation, in this State, for grinding wheat, rye, corn, or other grain, and which shall grind for toll, shall be deemed public mills.

(11.) SEC. XI. The owner or occupier of every public mill within this State shall grind the grain brought to his mill, as well as the nature and condition of his mill will permit, and in due turn as the same shall be brought, and may take for the toll, if a water mill or steam mill, for grinding and bolting wheat or rye, one-eighth part; for grinding Indian corn, oats, barley and buckwheat, not required to be bolted, one-seventh part; for grinding malt, and chopping all kinds of grain, one-eighth part: For an ox or a horse mill, for grinding and bolting wheat or rye into flour, one-fourth part; for grinding all other grain, one-fourth part, in full of all compensation: Provided, If the owner of any such grain, ground at an ox or horse mill, shall furnish team to grind the same, with the consent of the owner or occupier of such mill, the same toll shall be taken as is allowed for a water or steam mill, and no more.

(12.) SEC. XII. It shall be the duty of each and every owner and occu-pier of every public mill, to give due and punctual attendance when his mill shall not be out of repair, and to aid and assist in loading and unloading all grain which shall be brought to him to be ground. And he shall keep in his mill an accurate half bushel measure, and an accurate set of toll dishes. And for a failure to perform any of the duties required by this chapter, every occupier of a public mill shall forfeit and pay the sum of five dollars, to the use of any person who will sue for the same, in any court having cognizance thereof.

(13.) SEC. XIII. Every owner or occupier of a public mill as aforesaid, shall be accountable for the safe-keeping of all grain received in his mill for the purpose of being ground, with the bags or casks containing the same; and shall, when required, deliver the same, or the flour or meal thereof, to the owner, or his or her agent, or servant, with the bags or casks in which the same was received: Provided, That such miller shall not be accountable for any bags or casks, unless the same be distinctly marked with the initial letters of the owner's name; nor for the loss of grain, bags or casks, which happen by unavoidable accident.

(14.) SEC. XIV. If any miller, or the occupier of any mill, shall take a greater proportionate quantity of toll than is allowed by this chapter, or shall not sufficiently grind, or grind and bolt, (as the case may be,) agreeably to the capacity of his mill, and in due time, as the same may have been brought, all grain received into such mill for the purpose of being ground, or ground and bolted, as directed by the owner, every miller of a public mill, so offending, shall forfeit and pay the sum of five dollars to the party injured, to be sued for and recovered as before provided for.

(15.) SEC. XV. All penalties under the provision of this chapter may be sued for and recovered before any justice of the peace of the county where such penalties are incurred.

An Act to amend an Act entitled "Mills and Millers."

[Approved Feb. 28, 1847. Laws, 1847, p. 57.]

(16.) SEC. I. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly, That the provisions contained in the first nine sections of the said act, entitled "MILLS AND MILLERS," which provide for and regulate the erection of mill-dams, be and they are hereby extended to the management and erection of dams on streams, for other machinery as well as for mills; and said nine sections shall be extended to the erection of dams for any and all kinds of machinery, in the same manner as the said original act applies to the erection of mill-dams. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

PRIOR LAWS. An act regulating grist-mills and millers; in force March 25, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 264.

An act regulating mills and millers; in force June 1, 1827. Rev. Laws, 1827, p. 297. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 449.

An act to amend an act entitled "An act regulating mills and millers," approved Feb. 7, 1827; in force March 3, 1843. Laws, 1843, p. 179.

DECISIONS. Every flowing back or throwing water on the land of another, entitles the party injured to his action; and this is so, though the act in itself be lawful, if the necessary consequences are such as to injure another. He who first occupies and constructs a mill and dam on a stream, does not thereby acquire a right to overflow the land of his neighbor. Stout v. McAdams, 2 S. 67. See Evans v. Merriweather, 3 S. 492; Plumleigh v. Dawson, 1 G. 344; Hill v. Ward, 2 G. 285.

CHAPTER LXXII.

NE EXEAT AND INJUNCTIONS.

SECTION

1. Writs of ne exeat republica may issue whether demand be actually due or not.
2. Co-obligor or joint debtor may have writ to compel payment or securing of proportion due from debtor about to remove; security may also have this writ against principal.
3. No writ granted without bill or petition filed, and bond given; suit on bond.
4. Writ to be issued by judge or clerk of circuit court, and made returnable thereto.
5. Writ shall be a summons to appear and answer bill; defendant to give bond not to leave the State; temporary absence not a breach.
6. Security may surrender principal in discharge of his liability.

SECTION

7. On return of writ, how court to proceed to examine.
8. Ne exeat and injunction, who may grant; writ not to issue for less than twenty dollars.
9. Return of writ into what court.
10. In case of injunction to stay judgment at law, where proceedings may be had; subpoena may issue to any county.
11. Effect of injunction; not to issue without bond; conditions of bond.
12. Punishment for disobeying injunction.
13. On filing answer, court may dissolve injunction; may hear proof; on dissolution of injunction, complainant may have time to prove answer untrue; testimony; how taken and read.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 381.]

SECTION I. Writs of ne exeat republica may hereafter be granted, as well in cases where the debt or demand is not actually due, but exists fairly and bona fide in expectancy, at the time of making application, as in cases where the demand is due; and it shall not be necessary to authorize the granting of such writ of ne exeat, that the applicant should show that his debt or demand is purely of an equitable character, and only cognizable before a court of equity.

SEC. II. In case of joint, or joint and several obligors or debtors, if one or more of them be about to remove without the jurisdictional limits of this State, taking their property with them, leaving one or more co-obligors or co-debtors bound with them for the payment of any sum of money, or for the delivery of any article of property, or for the conveyance of land at a certain time, which time shall not have arrived at the time of such intended removal, such co-obligor or co-debtor who remains, shall be entitled on application, to a writ of ne exeat, to compel the co-obligor or co-debtor who is about to remove, to secure the payment of his part of the sum to be paid, or of the delivery of the property, or to convey or to join in the conveyance of the land. Also, in cases of security, the writ of ne exeat may issue on application of a security, against the principal or co-security, when the obligation or debt shall not yet be due, and the principal or co-security is about removing out of the State.

SEC. III. No writ of ne exeat shall be granted but upon bill or petition filed, and affidavit of the truth of the allegations therein contained; upon the granting of any such writ, the court or judge granting the same, shall indorse, or cause to be indorsed on the bill or petition, in what penalty bond and security shall be required of the defendant; and shall also, before issuing the said writ, take bond of the complainant, with good and sufficient security, in such sum as the said court or judge shall deem proper, conditioned that the said complainant will prosecute his bill or petition with effect; and that he will reimburse to the defendant, such damages and costs as he shall wrongfully sustain by occasion of the said writ. If any defendant to such writ of ne exeat shall think himself aggrieved, he may bring suit on such bond; and if, on trial, it shall appear that such writ of ne exeat was prayed for without a just cause, the person injured shall recover damages, to be assessed as in other cases on penal bonds.

SEC. IV. All writs of ne exeat shall be returnable into the circuit court of the proper county; and, when granted by a judge in vacation, may be issued under the hand of the judge; or the judge may direct the clerk of the said circuit court to issue the said writ, and to take bond of the complainant as above required.

SEC. V. The writ of ne exeat shall contain a summons for the defendant to appear in the circuit court and answer to the said petition or bill; and upon the same being served upon the said defendant, he shall give bond with surety, in the sum indorsed on such writ, conditioned that he will not depart the State without leave of the said court, and that he will render himself in execution to answer any judgment or decree which the said court may render against him; and in default of giving such security, he may be committed to jail as in other cases, for the want of bail. No temporary departure of the defendant from the State, shall be considered as a breach of the condition of the said bond, if he shall return before personal appearance shall be necessary to answer or perform any judgment, order or decree of the said court.

SEC. VI. The surety in any bond for the defendant as aforesaid, may, at any time before the said bond shall be forfeited, surrender the said defendant in exoneration of himself, in the same manner that bail may surrender their principal, and obtain the same discharge.

SEC. VII. On the return of the writ of ne exeat, if the same shall have been duly served, the court shall proceed therein as in other cases in chancery, if the matters alleged in said bill be purely of an equitable character, and the time of performance of the duty or obligation of the defendant has expired; if not, then the proceedings shall be stayed until it has expired; but the court may, nevertheless, proceed to determine whether the said writ ought not to be quashed or set aside.

SEC. VIII. The supreme and circuit courts, in term time, and any judge thereof in vacation, shall have power to grant writs of ne exeat and injunction. No writ of injunction shall be granted to stay proceedings under a judgment obtained before a justice of the peace, for a sum not exceeding twenty dollars besides the costs.

SEC. IX. When an injunction shall be granted by the supreme court, or a judge thereof, it shall be made returnable into the circuit court of the proper county.

SEC. X. When an injunction shall be granted to stay a suit or judgment at law, the proceedings shall be had in the county where the judgment was obtained, or the suit is pending; and the writ of subpoena may be sent, in the first instance, into any county within this State where the defendant resides.

SEC. XI. No injunction shall be granted to stay any judgment at law, for a greater sum than the complainant shall show himself equitably not bound to pay, and so much as shall be sufficient to cover costs. Every injunction, when granted, shall operate as a release of all errors in the proceedings at law, that are prayed to be enjoined. No injunction shall be issued, unless the complainant shall have previously executed a bond with sufficient surety, to the defendant, approved by the court or judge granting such injunction, and filed with the clerk, in double the sum directed to be enjoined, conditioned for the payment of all money and costs due, or to be due, to the plaintiff in the action at law; and also all such costs and damages as shall be awarded against the complainant, in case the injunction shall be dissolved, or such bond may be entered into before the clerk of the circuit court of the county where the writ is required to be issued, the court or judge granting the injunction having first approved the security. If the injunction be dissolved in the whole or in part, the complainant shall pay, exclusive of legal interest and costs, such damages as the court shall award, not exceeding ten per centum, on such part as may be released from the injunction; and the clerk shall issue execution for the same, when he issues execution upon such judgment.

SEC. XII. If any person against whom a writ of injunction shall be issued, shall, after the service thereof, be guilty of disobedience to and breach of the said injunction, it shall be lawful for the judge granting the same, or if the same were granted in open court, then for any judge of that court in vacation, to issue an attachment against the said person for a contempt. Upon his being brought before the said judge, unless he shall disprove or purge the said contempt, the said judge may, in his discretion, commit him to jail until the sitting of the court in which the said injunction is pending, or take bail for his appearance in the said court at the next term thereof, to answer for the said contempt, and to abide the order of the court thereon.

SEC. XIII. Upon the filing of an answer, it shall be in order at any time in term, to move for the dissolution of the injunction; and upon such motion it shall be lawful for the parties to introduce testimony to support the bill and answer; the court shall decide such motion upon the weight of testimony, without being bound to take the answer as absolutely true. If, after such dissolution is moved for, the plaintiff in the bill will satisfy the court by his own affidavit, or the affidavit of any disinterested person, that the answer, or any material part thereof, (to be specified in such affidavit,) is untrue, and that he has witnesses whose testimony he believes he can procure by the next term of the court, who will disprove the said answer, or such material part thereof as shall be specified as aforesaid, and that he has had no opportunity to procure such testimony since the coming in of the answer, it shall be lawful for the court to grant a continuance of the said motion until the next term. The testimony to be heard on such motions, aside from the bill and answer, shall be, by depositions in writing, taken as in other cases in chancery proceedings, except the affidavits which may have been filed with the bill or answer, which may be read on such motion as heretofore; and the depositions taken to dissolve an injunction may be read on the final hearing of the cause in which they have been taken.

PRIOR LAWS. An act regulating the issuing of writs of ne exeat and injunctions; in force June 1, 1827. Laws, 1827, p. 304; Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 466.

An act to provide for issuing writs of ne exeat and habeas corpus, and for other purposes; in force Feb. 11, 1835. Laws, 1835, p. 32.

DECISIONS. Under the statutes, the circuit court has power to dissolve an injunction upon the filing of answer, if the answer denies the equity of the bill. But it does not follow that the bill should be dismissed, because the injunction is dissolved. Beams et al. v. Denham et al., 2 S. 58.

An injunction to stay a judgment at law, releases errors; but an injunction to stay proceedings at law, before judgment, does not. McConnel v. Ayres, 3 S. 210.

A bill for a writ of ne exeat, which set forth that the petitioner had obtained a judgment against the defendant, before a justice, which had been appealed by the defendant, that the surety in the appeal bond had become insolvent and left the State, and that the defendant was also about to leave the State, was held to show sufficient equity on its face. Fisher v. Stone, 3 S. 68.

The supreme court has no jurisdiction of an application to grant a writ of injunction; the application should be made to one of the justices of the court. Hall v. O'Brien, 4 S. 410.

The circuit court, sitting in chancery, may, by injunction, restrain a commissioner from executing a decree of sale, and the commissioner cannot inquire into the propriety of the injunction, but must obey it. The People ex rel. v. Gilmer, 5 G. 242.

An injunction should not be dissolved upon the filing of an answer not under oath, or without evidence of the truth of the answer. Gray v. McCance, 11 Ill. 325.

Though an injunction will not be granted in the first instance upon an unsworn bill, yet it will not be refused for that reason upon a final hearing, if the party shows himself entitled to it. Hawkins v. Hunt et al., 14 Ill. 42.

In order to compel an execution of its decree, a court of chancery may prevent a defendant from leaving its jurisdiction pendente lite, by a writ of ne exeat. Enos et al. v. Hunter, 4 G. 211.

An injunction should not be granted against more of a judgment than the complainant shows to be unjust in his bill. Duncan v. Morrison et al., Breese, 113.

CHAPTER LXXIII.

NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS.

SECTION	SECTION
1. Ten per cent. damages on foreign bill of exchange protested.	8. If note, &c., be indorsed over after it is due, demands against original payee may be set off.
2. Five per cent. damages on inland bill protested.	9. Payments made on note, &c., before due, may be set off against assignee, if he had notice of such payments.
3. Construction and effect of note, &c., in writing.	10. Failure of consideration, in whole or in part, may be pleaded; right of bona fide assignee not affected by failure of consideration.
4. Notes, &c., assignable by indorsement.	11. Fraud in procuring note may be pleaded in bar.
5. Assignee of notes, &c., may bring suit in his own name or otherwise.	12. If note, &c., be for the delivery of property, how delivery or tender may be made.
6. Payment by maker to payee after assignment, not to be alleged as a defense against assignees.	13. Legal tender to discharge maker from liability; property vested in payee; what if property be perishable.
7. Assignor, how liable; due diligence necessary in collecting from the maker; proviso, if suit against maker would be unavailing, need not be brought in order to make indorser liable.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 384.]

SECTION I. When any foreign bill of exchange, which may be drawn for any sum of money, expressed that the value has been received, shall be duly presented for acceptance or payment, and protested for non-acceptance or non-payment, the drawer or indorser thereof, due notice being given of such non-acceptance or non-payment, shall pay said bill, with legal interest from the time such bill ought to have been paid, until paid, and ten per cent. damages, in addition, together with the costs and charges of protest.

SEC. II. If any bill of exchange drawn upon any person, or body politic or corporate, out of this State, but within the United States or their territories, for the payment of money, and expressed to be for value received, shall be duly presented for acceptance or payment, and protested for non-acceptance or non-payment, the drawer or indorser thereof, due notice being given of such non-acceptance or non-payment, shall pay said bill, with legal interest from the time such bill ought to have been paid, until paid, and five per cent. damages, in addition, together with costs and charges of protest.

SEC. III. All promissory notes, bonds, due-bills and other instruments in writing, made or to be made, by any person or persons, body politic or corporate, whereby such person or persons promise or agree to pay any sum of money or articles of personal property, or any sum of money in personal property, or acknowledge any sum of money or article of personal property to be due to any other person or persons, shall be taken to be due and payable; and the sum of money or article of personal property therein mentioned, shall, by virtue thereof, be due and payable to the person or persons to whom the said note, bond, bill or other instrument in writing is made.

SEC. IV. Any such note, bond, bill or other instrument in writing, made payable to any person or persons, shall be assignable, by indorsement thereon, under the hand or hands of such person or persons, and of his, her or their assignee or assignees, in the same manner as bills of exchange are, so as absolutely to transfer and vest the property thereof, in each and every assignee or assignees successively.

SEC. V. Any assignee or assignees, to whom such sum of money or personal property is, by such indorsement or indorsements, made payable, or in case of the death of such assignee or assignees, his, her or their executors or administrators, may, in his, her or their own name or names, institute and maintain the same kind of action for the recovery thereof, against the person or persons who made and executed any such note, bond, bill or other instrument in writing, or against his, her or their heirs, executors or administrators, as might have been maintained against him, her or them, by the obligee or payee, in case the same had not been assigned; and in every such action, in which judgment shall be given for the plaintiff or plaintiffs, he, she or they shall recover his, her or their damages and costs of suit, as in other cases.

SEC. VI. No maker of any such note, bond, bill or other instrument in writing, or other person liable thereon, shall be allowed to allege payment to the payee, made after notice of such assignment, as a defense against such assignee or assignees.

SEC. VII. Every assignor or assignors, or his, her or their heirs, executors or administrators, of every such note, bond, bill or other instrument in writing, shall be liable to the action of the assignee or assignees thereof, or his, her or their executors or administrators, if such assignee or assignees shall have used due diligence, by the institution and prosecution of a suit against the maker or makers of such assigned note, bond, bill or other instrument of writing, or against his, her or their heirs, executors or administrators, for the recovery of the money or property due thereon, or damages in lieu thereof: Provided, That if the institution of such suit would have been unavailing, or that the maker or makers had absconded, or left the State, when such assigned note, bond, bill or other instrument in writing became due, such assignee or assignees, or his or her executors or administrators, may recover against the assignor or assignors, or against his or their heirs, executors or administrators, as if due diligence by suit had been used.

SEC. VIII. If any such note, bond, bill or other instrument in writing, shall be indorsed after the day on which the money or property therein mentioned, becomes due and payable, and the indorsee shall institute an action thereon against the maker and signer of the same, the defendant, being maker and signer, shall be allowed to set up the same defense that he might have done had the said action been instituted in the name and for the use of the person or persons to whom the said note, bond, bill or other instrument in writing, was originally made due and payable.

SEC. IX. If any such note, bond, bill or other instrument of writing, shall be indorsed before the day the money or property therein mentioned, becomes due and payable, and the indorsee shall institute an action thereon, the defendant may give in evidence at the trial, any money or property actually paid on the said note, bond, bill or other instrument in writing, before the said note, bond, bill or other instrument in writing was indorsed or assigned to the plaintiff, on proving that the plaintiff had sufficient notice of the said payment, before he or she accepted or received such indorsement.

SEC. X. In any action commenced, or which may hereafter be commenced, in any court of law in this State, upon any note, bond, bill or other instrument in writing, for the payment of money or property, or the performance of covenants or conditions by the obligee or payee thereof, if such note, bond, bill or instrument in writing was made or entered into without a good or valuable consideration; or, if the consideration upon which such note, bond, bill or instrument in writing was made or entered into, has wholly or in part failed, it shall be lawful for the defendant or defendants against whom such action shall have been commenced by such obligee or payee, to plead such want of consideration, or that the consideration has wholly or in part failed; and if it shall appear that any such note, bond, bill or instrument of writing was made or entered into without a good or valuable consideration, or that the consideration has wholly failed, the verdict shall be for the defendant; and if it shall appear that the consideration has failed in part, the plaintiff shall recover according to the equity of the case: Provided, That nothing in this section contained, shall be construed to affect or impair the right of any bona fide assignee or assignees of any instrument made assignable by this chapter, when such assignment was made before such instrument became due.

SEC. XI. If any fraud or circumvention be used, in obtaining the making or executing of any of the instruments aforesaid, such fraud or circumvention may be pleaded in bar to any action to be brought on any such instrument so obtained, whether such action be brought by the party committing such fraud or circumvention, or any assignee or assignees of such instrument.

SEC. XII. In all cases when any of the before mentioned instruments of writing are for the payment or delivery of personal property, other than money, and no particular place be specified in such instruments of writing, for the payment or delivery thereof, it shall be lawful for the maker of any such instrument of writing, to tender, or cause to be tendered, on the day mentioned in any such instrument, the personal property therein mentioned, at the place where the obligee or payee of any such instrument resided at the time of the execution thereof: Provided, however, If such personal property be too ponderous to be easily moved, or if the obligee or payee of such instrument had not, at the time of the execution of such instrument of writing, a known place of residence in the county where the maker or makers resided, then it shall be lawful to tender such personal property at the place where the maker or makers of such instrument resided at the time of the execution thereof. Any tender made in pursuance of this section, shall be equally valid and legal, in case any such instrument of writing shall have been assigned in pursuance of the first section of this chapter, as if no such assignment had been made.

SEC. XIII. A legal tender of any such personal property, shall discharge the maker of any such instrument from all liability thereon; and the property thus tendered, is hereby declared to be vested in and belong to the legal holder and owner of any such instrument of writing, and he may maintain an action for the recovery thereof, or for damages, if the possession be subsequently illegally withheld from him: Provided, however, If any such property so tendered, shall be of a perishable nature, or shall require feeding or other sustentation, and the person owning and holding such instrument of writing, be absent at the time of tendering the same, it shall be lawful for every person making such tender, to preserve, feed and otherwise take care of the same; and he shall have a lien on such tendered property, for his reasonable trouble, and the expense of feeding or sustaining such property, until payment be made for such trouble and expense.

PRIOR LAWS. An act making promissory notes, bonds, bills and writings obligatory, negotiable; approved Feb. 6, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 4.

An act to prevent the circulation of any paper currency unauthorized by law; approved Feb. 8, 1821. Laws, 1821, p. 115.

An act concerning bills of exchange; in force June 1, 1827. Rev. Laws, 1827, p. 87.

An act relative to promissory notes, bonds, due-bills and other instruments in writing, and making them assignable; in force July 1, 1827. Rev. Laws, 1827, p. 320; Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 482.

DECISIONS. A note for a certain sum of money, payable in pork, is assignable. Thompson v. Armstrong, Breese, 23.

An averment in the declaration that the maker was insolvent at the time the note became due, and continued to be so to the time of trial, dispenses with the necessity of diligence to collect the note of the maker. Idem.

A note payable in mason work, is not negotiable. Ramson v. Jones, 1 S. 291.

The assignee of a promissory note cannot sue in his own name, unless the whole interest therein has been assigned to him. Miller v. Bledsoe et al., 1 S. 530.

Under the statute of this State, the assignor of a promissory note is not liable unless due diligence has been used to collect the same from the maker; or unless the maker was a non-resident or insolvent at the time the note became due. Mason v. Wash, Breese, 16; Thompson v. Armstrong, Breese, 23; Tarlton v. Miller, Breese, 39; Lusk v. Cook, Breese, 53; Humphreys v. Collier et al., 1 S. 47; Brown v. Knozer et al., 1 S. 469; Raplee v. Morgan, 2 S. 561; Coules v. Litchfield, 2 S. 360; Harmon et al. v. Thornton, 2 S. 355; Saunders v. O'Briant, 2 S. 370; Bestor v. Walker, 4 G. 3.

When a promissory note is assigned before it is due, to a bona fide assignee, no equities existing between the original parties, will affect the right of such assignee. Woods v. Hines, 3 S. 103; Mobley v. Ryan, 14 Ill. 51; Harlow v. Boswell, 15 Ill. 56.

Where a note is assigned after maturity, the maker may make any defense against it in the hands of the assignee, that he could have done against the original payee. Lazell v. Francis, 4 S. 423; Sargeant v. Kellogg, 5 G. 3; Mobley v. Ryan, 14 Ill. 51; Morrison v. Davidson, Breese, 33.

Under the act of March 2, 1839, in a suit on a promissory note, when the general issue only is pleaded, it is not necessary for the plaintiffs to prove their christian and surnames. Hollenback v. Williams et al., 1 S. 544.

In an action by the indorsee against the maker of a note, payable at a particular place, a presentment of the note on the day and at the place of payment, is unnecessary. Armstrong v. Caldwell, 1 S. 546.

Under the statute of Illinois, notice of non-payment is not required to charge an indorser. State Bank of Illinois v. Headley, 1 S. 580.

Fraud which will vitiate a negotiable instrument in the hands of a bona fide assignee, must be in obtaining the making or execution of the same. Mulford v. Shepherd, 1 S. 583; Adams v. Woodbridge, 3 S. 256.

When a note is indorsed in blank, the holder may sue in his own name, without filling up the assignment. Gilham v. State Bank of Illinois, 2 S. 247; McHenry v. Ridgely, 2 S. 310.

In an action by the assignee against the assignor of a promissory note, where the plaintiff relies upon proving diligence to collect the note of the maker, he may give in evidence an execution against the maker, without showing a judgment. The defendant is held to be priei to such judgment. Raplee v. Morgan, 2 S. 561.

When a suit is commenced by the assignee of a note against the maker, before a justice of the peace, it is not due diligence to take out an execution, and have a return of "no property" made upon the judgment before the justice. He should file a transcript of the judgment in the office of the clerk of the circuit court, issue execution from that court, and have the same returned "no property." Saunders v. O'Briant, 2 S. 371; Raplee v. Morgan, 2 S. 562.

In an action by an assignee against an assignor of a note, the measure of damages is the amount paid by the assignee. Raplee v. Morgan, 2 S. 562.

A note indorsed in blank; the indorsement or assignment may be filled up at the trial. Jackson v. Haskell, 2 S. 565.

A remote assignor of a promissory note is liable to a remote assignee, provided due diligence has been used to collect the same of the maker. Clifford v. Keating, 3 S. 253.

No defense, except some statutory one, which makes a note void in its inception, can be set up against the bona fide holder of a note assigned to him before maturity. Adams v. Woodbridge, 3 S. 256; Conkling v. Underhill, 3 S. 388; Mobley v. Ryan, 14 Ill. 51.

An assignor of a note does not become liable to the assignee, because the maker is absent temporarily from the State when the note falls due; but if he is absent when, in order to fix the assignor's liability, suit should be commenced against him, the assignor will be liable. Illiburn v. Artus et al., 3 S. 345.

A note, payable to bearer, is not assignable by delivery only, so as to enable the holder to sue in his own name. Idem.

The presumption of law is, when a note is assigned without date, that the same was done before it was due. Adams v. Woodbridge, 3 S. 256; Pettis v. Westlake, 3 S. 538; Mobley v. Ryan, 14 Ill. 51.

A note, payable in cattle on a certain day, becomes payable in cash, if not paid at maturity. Vanhooser et al. v. Loyal, 3 S. 390.

The signature of a third person upon the back of a note, after the payee has indorsed it, is evidence of a contract to become responsible as second indorser. Camden et al. v. McCoy et al., 3 S. 447.

Such signature of a third person, while the note is in the hands of the payee, is a guarantee of the payment of the note. Idem. See also, Cushman v. Dement, 3 S. 499.

In a suit between the assignee and assignor of a note, the latter will be liable: 1st, when the assignee has used due diligence to collect the same of the maker, by suit; 2nd, when suit could not have been instituted because the maker had left the State or absconded, when the note became due; 3rd, when the institution of a suit would have been unavailing. Bledsoe v. Graves, 4 S. 384; Schuttler v. Piatt, 12 Ill. 417; Pierce v. Short, 14 Ill. 144.

If the institution of a suit by the assignee against the maker on an assigned note would be unavailing, the assignee may sue the assignor as soon as the note falls due. Bledsoe v. Graves, 4 S. 384.

A prior indorser cannot maintain an action against a subsequent indorser of a note, who has re-indorsed the note to such prior indorser, unless under peculiar circumstances. Carstens et al. v. Little et al., 4 S. 410.

When the declaration in a suit by an assignee against an assignor on a note, contains an averment that the "defendant then and there indorsed the same to the plaintiff, whereof the defendant then and there had notice," this is a sufficient allegation of an assignment of the note. Simpson v. Ranlett, 2 G. 312.

To render the assignor of a note liable to the assignee, he, the assignee, must not only use due diligence in prosecuting his suit and obtaining judgment, but he must also use diligence in enforcing the judgment by execution; but if such process would be unavailing, he need not sue out execution. If the maker was solvent at the commencement of the suit, but became insolvent afterwards, that fact should be alleged in the declaration. Bestor v. Walker, 4 G. 3.

A note for forty dollars, which the maker may pay in corn at twenty cents per bushel, is not assignable under the statute. The maker of such a note, in order to discharge himself from liability, must tender the corn at the residence of the payee, or at some other reasonable place the payee may appoint. Borah v. Curry et al., 12 Ill. 66.

A note payable to a person "when he is twenty-one years old," is not assignable so as to enable the assignee to sue in his own name. Kelly v. Hemingway, 13 Ill. 604.

If a party put his name upon the back of a note before it is delivered to the payee, he becomes a guarantor of the note, and may be sued as such. Carroll v. Weld, 13 Ill. 682.

But the presumption that he is such guarantor, may be rebutted by parol evidence. Idem.

The legal title to a note cannot be transferred by a separate instrument. An assignment or indorsement must be made on the note itself, to enable the holder to sue in his own name. Ryan v. May, 14 Ill. 49.

It is a good defense to a note in the hands of a bona fide assignee, that the execution thereof was obtained by fraud. Mobley v. Ryan, 14 Ill. 51.

Payment to the payee of a note, is good against an assignee who takes the note after maturity, whether indorsed on the note or not. Capps et al. v. Gorham, 14 Ill. 198.

The liability of an assignor of a note assigned in this State, will be governed by the laws of this State. Crouch v. Hall, 15 Ill. 263.

Where an assignor seeks to recover of an assignee, upon the ground that suit against the maker would be unavailing, he must state in his declaration the reasons why such suit would be unavailing. Idem.

(1.) SECTION I. No black or mulatto person shall be permitted to reside in this State, until such person shall produce to the county commissioners' court where he or she is desirous of settling, a certificate of his or her freedom; which certificate shall be duly authenticated in the same manner that is required to be done in cases arising under the acts and judicial proceedings of other States. And until such person shall have given bond, with sufficient security, to the people of this State, for the use of the proper county, in the penal sum of one thousand dollars, conditioned that such person will not, at any time, become a charge to said county, or any other county of this State, as a poor person, and that such person shall, at all times, demean himself or herself, in strict conformity with the laws of this State, that now are or hereafter may be enacted; the solvency of said security shall be approved by said clerk. The clerk shall file said bond, and if said bond shall in any condition thereof be broken, the whole penalty shall become forfeited, and the clerk, on being informed thereof, shall cause the said bond to be prosecuted to effect. And it shall be the duty of such clerk to make an entry of the certificate so produced, and indorse a certificate on the original certificate, stating the time the said bond was approved and filed; and the name and description of the person producing the same; after which it shall be lawful for such free negro or mulatto to reside in this State.

(2.) SEC. II. If any person shall harbor such negro or mulatto as aforesaid, not having such certificate, and given bond, and taken a certificate thereof, or shall hire, or in anywise give sustenance to such negro or mulatto, not having such certificate of freedom, and of having given bond, shall be fined in the sum of five hundred dollars, one-half thereof to the use of the county, and the other half to the party giving information thereof: Pro- vided, This section shall not affect any negro or mulatto who is now a resident of this State.

(3.) SEC. III. It shall be the duty of all free negroes and mulattoes who shall come to reside in this State, having a family of his or her own, and having a certificate, as mentioned in the first section of this chapter, to give to the clerk of the county commissioners' court, at the time of making an entry of his certificate, a description, with the name and ages of his, her or their family, which shall be stated by the clerk, in the entry made by him of such certificate; and the clerk shall also state the same on the original certificate: Provided, however, That nothing contained in this or the preceding section of this chapter, shall be construed to prevent the overseers of the poor in any township from causing any such free negro or mulatto to be removed, who shall come into this State contrary to the provisions of the laws concerning the poor.

(4.) SEC. IV. Every black or mulatto person (slaves and persons held to service excepted,) residing in this State, shall enter his or her name, (unless they have heretofore entered the same,) together with the name or names of his or her family, with the clerk of the county commissioners' court of the county in which they reside, together with the evidence of his or her freedom, which shall be entered on record by the said clerk, together with a description of all such persons; and thereafter the clerk's certificate of such record shall be sufficient evidence of his or her freedom: Provided, That nothing in this chapter contained shall be construed to bar the lawful claim of any person or persons to any such negro or mulatto.

(5.) SEC. V. Every black or mulatto person who shall be found in this State, and not having such a certificate as is required by this chapter, shall be deemed a runaway slave or servant, and it shall be lawful for any inhabitant of this State to take such black or mulatto person before some justice of the peace; and should such black or mulatto person not produce such certificate as aforesaid, it shall be the duty of such justice to cause such black or mulatto person to be committed to the custody of the sheriff of the county, who shall keep such black or mulatto person, and in three days after receiving him, shall advertise him, at the court-house door, and shall transmit a notice, and cause the same to be advertised for six weeks in some public newspaper printed nearest to the place of apprehending such black person or mulatto, stating a description of the most remarkable features of the supposed runaway; and if such person so committed shall not produce a certificate or other evidence of his freedom within the time aforesaid, it shall be the duty of the sheriff to hire him out for the best price he can get, after having given five days' previous notice thereof, from month to month, for the space of one year; and if no owner shall appear and substantiate his claim before the expiration of the year, the sheriff shall give a certificate to such black or mulatto person, who, on producing the same to the next circuit court of the county, may obtain a certificate from the court, stating the facts, and the person shall be deemed a free person, unless he shall be lawfully claimed by his proper owner or owners thereafter. And as a reward to the taker up of such negro, there shall be paid by the owner, if any, before he shall receive him from the sheriff, ten dollars; and the owner shall pay to the sheriff, for the justice, two dollars, and reasonable costs for taking such runaway to the sheriff, and also pay the sheriff all fees for keeping such runaway, as other prisoners: Provided, however, That the proper owner, if any there be, shall be entitled to the hire of any such runaway from the sheriff, after deducting the expenses of the same: And provided, also, That the taker up shall have a right to claim any reward which the owner shall have offered for the apprehension of such runaway. Should any taker up claim any such offered reward, he shall not be entitled to the allowance made by this section.

(6.) SEC. VI. If any negro or mulatto, being the property of a citizen of the United States, residing without this State, shall hereafter come into this State for the purpose of hiring himself or herself to labor in this State, and shall afterwards institute, or procure to be instituted, any suit or proceedings, for the purpose of procuring his or her freedom, it shall be the duty of the court before which such suit or proceeding shall be instituted and pending, upon being satisfied that such negro or mulatto had come into this State for the purpose aforesaid, to dismiss such suit or proceeding, and cause the same to be certified to the sheriff of the county, who shall immediately take possession of such negro or mulatto, whose duty it shall be to confine such negro or mulatto in the jail of his county, and notify the owner of such slave of the commitment aforesaid, and that said owner make immediate application for said slave; and it shall be the duty of the sheriff, on such application being made, after all reasonable costs and charges being paid, to deliver to said owner such negro or mulatto slave.

(7.) SEC. VII. Every servant, upon the expiration of his or her time, and proof thereof made before the circuit court of the county where he or she last served, shall have his or her freedom recorded, and a certificate thereof, under the hand of the clerk, which shall be sufficient to indemnify any person for entertaining or hiring such servant; and if such certificate should happen to be torn or lost, the clerk, upon request, shall issue another, reciting therein the loss of the former.

(8.) SEC. VIII. Any person who shall hereafter bring into this State any black or mulatto person, in order to free him or her from slavery, or shall, directly or indirectly, bring into this State, or aid or assist any person in bringing any such black or mulatto person to settle or reside therein, shall be fined one hundred dollars, on conviction on indictment, or before any justice of the peace in the county where such offense shall be committed.

(9.) SEC. IX. If any slave or servant shall be found at a distance of ten miles from the tenement of his or her master, or the person with whom he or she lives, without a pass, or some letter or token, whereby it may appear that he or she is proceeding by authority from his or her master, employer or overseer, it shall and may be lawful for any person to apprehend and carry him or her before a justice of the peace, to be by his order punished with stripes, not exceeding thirty-five, at his discretion.

(10.) SEC. X. If any slave or servant shall presume to come and be upon the plantation, or at the dwelling of any person whatsoever, without leave from his or her owner, not being sent upon lawful business, it shall be lawful for the owner of such plantation, or dwelling-house, to give or order such slave or servant ten lashes on his or her bare back.

(11.) SEC. XI. Riots, routs, unlawful assemblies, trespasses and seditious speeches, by any slave or slaves, servant or servants, shall be punished with stripes, at the discretion of a justice of the peace, not exceeding thirty-nine, and he who will may apprehend and carry him, her or them before such justice.

(12.) SEC. XII. If any person or persons shall permit or suffer any slave or slaves, servant or servants of color, to the number of three or more, to assemble in his, her or their out-house, yard or shed, for the purpose of dancing or reveling, either by night or by day, the person or persons so offending shall forfeit and pay the sum of twenty dollars with costs, to any person or persons who will sue for and recover the same by action of debt or by indictment, in any court of record proper to try the same.

(13.) SEC. XIII. It shall be the duty of all coroners, sheriffs, judges and justices of the peace, who shall see or know of, or be informed of any such assemblage of slaves or servants, immediately to commit such slaves or servants to the jail of the county, and on view or proof thereof, order each and every such slave or servant to be whipped, not exceeding thirty-nine stripes, on his or her bare back, on the day next succeeding such assemblage, unless it shall happen on a Sunday, then on the Monday following; which said stripes shall be inflicted by any constable of the township, if there should be one therein, or otherwise, by any person or persons whom the said justices shall appoint, and who shall be willing so to inflict the same: Provided, however, That the provisions hereof shall not apply to any persons of color who may assemble for the purpose of amusement, by permission of their masters, first had in writing, on condition that no disorderly conduct is made use of by them in such assemblage.

(14.) SEC. XIV. In all cases of penal laws, where free persons are punishable by fine, servants shall be punished by whipping, after the rate of twenty lashes for every eight dollars, so that no servant shall receive more than forty lashes at any one time, unless such offender can procure some person to pay the fine.

(15.) SEC. XV. No person shall buy, sell, or receive of, to or from any servant or slave, any coin or commodity, without leave or consent of the master or owner of such slave or servant, and any person so offending shall forfeit and pay to the master or owner of such slave or servant four times the value of the thing so bought, sold or received, to be recovered with costs of suit, before any court having cognizance of the same.

(16.) SEC. XVI. Any such servant being lazy, disorderly, guilty of misbehavior to his master or master's family, shall be corrected by stripes, on order from a justice of the county wherein he resides; or refusing to work, shall be compelled thereto in like manner, and moreover shall serve two days for every one he shall have so refused to serve, or shall otherwise have lost, without sufficient justification. All necessary expenses incurred by any master for apprehending and bringing home any absconding servant, shall be repaid by further services, after such rates as the circuit court of the county shall direct, unless such servant shall give security, to be approved by the court, for the payment in money within six months after he shall be free from service, and shall accordingly pay the same.

(17.) SEC. XVII. All contracts between masters and servants, during the time of service, shall be void.

(18.) SEC. XVIII. The benefit of any contract of service shall be assignable by the master to any person being a citizen of this State, to whom the servant shall, in the presence of a justice of the peace, freely consent that it shall be assigned, the said justice attesting such free consent in writing; and shall also pass to the executors, administrators and legatees of the master.

(19.) SEC. XIX. No negro, mulatto or Indian, shall at any time purchase any servant, other than of his own complexion; and if any of the persons aforesaid shall, nevertheless, presume to purchase a white servant, such servant shall immediately become free, and shall be so held, deemed and taken.

(20.) SEC. XX. Servants shall be provided by the master with wholesome and sufficient food, clothing and lodging; and at the end of their service, if they shall not have contracted for any reward, food, clothing and lodging, shall receive from him one new and complete suit of clothing, suited to the season of the year, to wit: a coat, waistcoat, pair of breeches and shoes, two pairs of stockings, two shirts, a hat and blanket.

(21.) SEC. XXI. If any servants shall at any time bring in goods or money during the time of their service, or shall, by gift or other lawful means, acquire goods or money, they shall have the property and benefit thereof for their own use; and if any servant shall be sick or lame, and so become useless or chargeable, his or her master or owner shall maintain such servant until his or her time of service shall be expired; and if any master or owner shall put away any lame or sick servant, under pretense of freedom, and such servant becomes chargeable to the county, such master or owner shall forfeit and pay thirty dollars to the overseers of the poor of the county wherein such offense shall be committed, to the use of the poor of the county, recoverable with costs, by action of debt, in any circuit court; and, moreover, shall be liable to the action of the said overseers of the poor at the common law for damages.

(22.) SEC. XXII. The circuit court of every county shall, at all times, receive the complaints of servants, being citizens of any of the United States of America, who reside within the jurisdiction of such court, against their masters or mistresses, alleging undeserved or immoderate correction, insufficient allowances of food, raiment or lodging, or any failure in the duties of such master or mistress as prescribed in this chapter; and the said circuit court shall hear and determine complaints of masters and mistresses against their servants, for desertion without good cause, and may oblige the latter, for loss thereby occasioned, to make restitution by further services after the expiration of the time for which they had been bound.

(23.) SEC. XXIII. Any black, colored or mulatto man and white woman, and any white man and black, colored, or mulatto woman, who shall live together in an open state of adultery or fornication, or adultery and fornication, shall be indicted, and, on conviction, severally fined, in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars, and confined in the penitentiary for a term not exceeding one year. For the second offense, the punishment shall be double; for the third, trebled, and in the same ratio for each succeeding offense.

An Act to prevent the Immigration of Free Negroes into this State.

bring, or cause to be brought into this State, any negro or mulatto slave, whether said slave is set free or not, shall be liable to an indictment, and, upon conviction thereof, be fined for every such negro or mulatto, a sum not less than one hundred dollars, nor more than five hundred dollars, and imprisoned in the county jail not more than one year, and shall stand committed until said fine and costs are paid.

(25.) SEC. II. When an indictment shall be found against any person or persons, who are not residents of this State, it shall be the duty of the court before whom said indictment is pending, upon affidavit being made and filed in said court by the prosecuting attorney, or any other credible witness, setting forth the non-residence of said defendant, to notify the governor of this State, by causing the clerk of said court to transmit to the office of the secretary of State a certified copy of said indictment and affidavit; and it shall be the duty of the governor, upon the receipt of said copies, to appoint some suitable person to arrest said defendant or defendants, in whatever State or county he or they may be found, and to commit him or them to the jail of the county in which said indictment is pending, there to remain and answer said indictment, and be otherwise dealt with in accordance with this act. And it shall be the duty of the governor to issue all necessary requisitions, writs and papers to the governor or other executive officer of the State, territory or province where such defendant or defendants may be found: Provided, That this section shall not be construed so as to affect persons, or slaves, bona fide traveling through this State from and to any other State in the United States.

(26.) SEC. III. If any negro, or mulatto, bond or free, shall hereafter come into this State and remain ten days, with the evident intention of residing in the same, every such negro or mulatto shall be deemed guilty of a high misdemeanor, and for the first offense shall be fined the sum of fifty dollars, to be recovered before any justice of the peace in the county where said negro or mulatto may be found. Said proceedings shall be in the name of the people of the State of Illinois, and shall be tried by a jury of twelve men. The person making the information or complaint shall not be a competent witness upon said trial.

(27.) SEC. IV. If said negro or mulatto shall be found guilty, and the fine assessed be not paid forthwith to the justice of the peace before whom said proceedings were had, it shall be the duty of said justice to commit said negro or mulatto to the custody of the sheriff of said county, or otherwise keep him, her or them in custody; and said justice shall forthwith advertise said negro or mulatto, by posting up notices thereof in at least three of the most public places in his district, which said notices shall be posted up for ten days, and on the day and at the time and place mentioned in said advertisement, the said justice shall, at public auction, proceed to sell said negro or mulatto to any person or persons who will pay said fine and costs, for the shortest time; and said purchaser shall have the right to compel said negro or mulatto to work for and serve out said time, and he shall furnish said negro or mulatto with comfortable food, clothing and lodging during said servitude.

(28.) SEC. V. If said negro or mulatto shall not, within ten days after the expiration of his, her or their time of service as aforesaid, leave the State, he, she or they shall be liable to a second prosecution, in which the penalty to be inflicted shall be one hundred dollars, and so on for every subsequent offense the penalty shall be increased fifty dollars over and above the last penalty inflicted, and the same proceedings shall be had in each case as is provided for in the preceding sections for the first offense.

(29.) SEC. VI. Said negro or mulatto shall have a right to take an appeal to the circuit court of the county in which said proceedings shall have been had, within five days after the rendition of the judgment, before the justice of the peace, by giving bond and security, to be approved by the clerk of said court, to the people of the State of Illinois, and to be filed in the office of said clerk within said five days, in double the amount of said fine and costs, conditioned that the party appealing will personally be and appear before said circuit court, at the next term thereof, and not depart said court without leave, and will pay said fine and all costs, if the same shall be so adjudged by said court; and said security shall have the right to take said negro or mulatto into custody, and retain the same until the order of said court is complied with. And if the judgment of the justice of the peace be affirmed in whole or in part, and said negro or mulatto be found guilty, the said circuit court shall thereupon render judgment against said negro or mulatto and the security or securities on said appeal bond, for the amount of fine so found by the court, and all costs of suit, and the clerk of said court shall forthwith issue an execution against said defendant and security as in other cases, and the sheriff or other officer to whom said execution is directed, shall proceed to collect the same by sale or otherwise: Provided, That this section shall not be so construed as to give the security on said appeal bond right to retain the custody of said negro or mulatto for a longer time than ten days after the rendition of said judgment by said circuit court.

(30.) SEC. VII. In all cases arising under the provisions of this act, the prosecuting witness, or person making the complaint and prosecuting the same, shall be entitled to one-half of the fine so imposed and collected, and the residue of said fine shall be paid into the county treasury of the county in which said proceedings were had; and said fines, when so collected, shall be received by said county treasurer, and kept by him as a distinct and separate fund, to be called the "charity fund;" and said fund shall be used for the express and only purpose of relieving the poor of said county, and shall be paid out by said treasurer upon the order of the county court of said county, drawn upon him for that purpose.

(31.) SEC. VIII. If, after any negro or mulatto shall have been arrested under the provisions of this act, any person or persons shall claim any such negro or mulatto as a slave, the owner, by himself, or agent, shall have a right, by giving reasonable notice to the officer or person having the custody of said negro or mulatto, to appear before the justice of the peace before whom said negro or mulatto shall have been arrested, and prove his or their right to the custody of said negro or mulatto as a slave, and if said justice of the peace shall, after hearing the evidence, be satisfied that the person or persons claiming said negro or mulatto, is or are the owner or owners of and entitled to the custody of said negro or mulatto, in accordance with the laws of the United States passed upon this subject, he shall, upon the owner or agent paying all costs up to the time of claiming said negro or mulatto, and the costs of proving the same, and also the balance of the fine remaining unpaid, give to said owner a certificate of said facts, and said owner or agent so claiming, shall have a right to take and remove said slave out of this State.

(32.) SEC. IX. If any justice of the peace shall refuse to issue any writ or process necessary for the arrest and prosecution of any negro or mulatto under the provisions of this act, upon complaint being made before said justice by any resident of his county, and his fees for said service being tendered him, he shall be deemed guilty of non-feasance in office, and upon conviction thereof, punished accordingly; and in all cases where the jury find for the negro or mulatto, or that he, she or they are not guilty under the provisions of this act, the said justice of the peace shall proceed to render judgment against the prosecuting witness, or person making the complaint, and shall collect the same as other judgments: Provided, That said prosecuting witness, or person making said complaint, in case judgment is rendered against him, shall have a right to take an appeal to the circuit court, as is provided for in this act, in case said negro or mulatto is found guilty.

(33.) SEC. X. Every person who shall have one-fourth negro blood, shall be deemed a mulatto.

(34.) SEC. XI. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

DECISIONS. To create the relation of master and servant, under the territorial act of Sept. 17, 1807, the indenture should be executed by both parties, before the clerk. Cornelius v. Cohen, Breese, 92. See Nance v. Howard, Breese, 183.

The act of 1807, respecting the introduction of negroes and mulattoes into the territory, is void, it being repugnant to the 6th article of the ordinance of 1787; but indentures made under that law, are valid by the 3rd section, 6th article, of the constitution of Illinois. Phoebe v. Jay, Breese, 207. See Choisser v. Hargrave, 1 S. 317.

The children of negroes and mulattoes, registered under the territorial laws of Indiana and Illinois, are free; and the proviso of section 3, article 6, of the constitution of Illinois, does not render the persons therein named subject to servitude. Boon v. Juliet, 1 S. 258.

In the State of Illinois every person is presumed free, without regard to color, and the sale of a free person is illegal. Bailey v. Cronwell et al., 3 S. 71; Kinney v. Cook, 3 S. 232. See also, case of Sarah v. Borders, 4 S. 341, in which the case of Phoebe v. Jay, Breese, 207, is re-affirmed.

The State of Illinois has power to prohibit the introduction of negro slaves into the State, and to punish its citizens who introduce them. Eells v. The People, 4 S. 498.

The clerks of the county commissioners' courts, as successors of the clerks of the court of common pleas, and of the county courts, have the same powers and duties as their predecessors, in reference to the registering of indentured servants, under the territorial laws of Indiana and Illinois. The facts necessary to warrant the registry need not be recited therein. The point settled in the case of Phoebe v. Jay, Breese, 207, is recognized in this case. Hays v. Borders, 1 G. 46.

A colored person may maintain an action for services rendered, and in such action his right to freedom may be tried. The descendants of the slaves of the old French settlers, born since the ordinance of 1787, and before or since the adoption of the constitution of Illinois, cannot be held in slavery in this State. Jarrot v. Jarrot, 2 G. 1.

Section 5, chapter 74, Rev. Stat., 1845, is void, because it assumes to legislate on the subject of the recapture of fugitive slaves, over which subject Congress has supreme and exclusive power. Thornton's case, 11 Ill. 332.

The statute in reference to negroes and mulattoes, does not authorize the taking of a bond, until the negro or mulatto has produced his certificate of freedom; and such negroes and mulattoes only can reside here, who furnish evidence of their freedom and give bond under the statute. Owens et al. v. People, &c., 13 Ill. 59.

A contract made in Illinois, for the sale of a person as a slave, who is, at the time, in the State, and to a citizen of the State, is illegal and void. TRUMBULL, J. A note, taken in consideration of such a sale, will not be enforced, unless there is affirmative proof to rebut the legal presumption of freedom. CATON, J. Hone v. Ammons, 14 Ill. 29.

CHAPTER LXXV.

NOTARIES PUBLIC.

SECTION

1. Governor to appoint notaries public; when additional notaries may be appointed.
2. Vacancies, how filled.
3. Notary to surrender papers, &c., to successor; how punished for refusal.
4. Duty of, as to protests; notice to indorsers, &c.

SECTION

5. To keep record of business done; such record to be competent evidence.
6. Manner of serving notices; when in person; when by mail.
7. Notary to give bond to governor; suit may be had on bond for use of party injured.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 391.]

SECTION I. The governor of the State, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, shall appoint and commission one notary public in each county in the State. And whenever fifty legal voters of any city, town, village or township in this State, shall, by petition to the governor, request the appointment of a notary public in such city, town, village or township, the governor shall, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, appoint a notary public conformably to such petition; but no more than five shall be appointed in any one city, town, village or township, and not more than one shall be appointed on the same petition, and such petition shall be signed by different voters. An additional notary public may also be appointed in any county, whenever it shall be petitioned for as above provided; but not more than one notary public shall be appointed in the same precinct of any county except in the case of cities, &c., and the said notaries public, when so appointed, shall hold their offices for four years, and until their successors are appointed and qualified.

SEC. II. If a vacancy shall occur in the office of notary public during the recess of the senate, the governor shall fill such vacancy by appointment.

SEC. III. Whenever the successor of any notary public shall be appointed and qualified, it shall be the duty of said notary public, to surrender to such successor all books, papers, vouchers and other documents belonging to his office. Any notary public who shall neglect or refuse to surrender all the books, papers and vouchers, for ten days after the same shall have been demanded by his successor, may be indicted, and, on conviction, shall be fined, in a sum not exceeding one thousand dollars, and stand committed until paid.

SEC. IV. It shall be the duty of each and every notary public in this State, whenever any bill of exchange, promissory note or other written instrument shall be by him protested for non-acceptance or non-payment, to give notice in writing thereof to the maker, and to each and every indorser of any bill of exchange, and to the maker or makers of, and each and every security or indorser of any promissory note or other written instrument, on the same day the said protest is made, or within forty-eight hours from the time of such protest.

SEC. V. It shall be the duty of each and every notary public, to keep a correct record of all such notices, and of the time and manner in which the same shall have been served, and of the names of all the parties to whom the same were directed, and the description and amount of the instrument protested; which record shall at all times be competent evidence to prove such notice, in any trial, before any court of this State, where proof of such notice may become requisite.

SEC. VI. It shall be the duty of each and every notary public, personally to serve the notice upon the person or persons protested against, provided he or they reside in the town where such protest was made, or within one mile thereof; but if such person or persons reside more than one mile from such town, than the said notice may be forwarded by mail or other safe conveyance.

SEC. VII. It shall be the duty of the governor to take bond, with sufficient security, from each notary public, before he enters on the duties of his office, in the sum of five hundred dollars, conditioned for the due and faithful performance of the duties of his office, which bond shall be filed in the office of the secretary of State; and if forfeited, suit may be instituted thereon, for the use of the party injured by such forfeiture.

An act to amend an act entitled "An act for the appointment of notaries public," approved Dec. 30, 1828; in force Jan. 16, 1837. Laws, 1837, p. 175.

An act to provide for the appointment of notaries public; in force Feb. 22, 1839. Laws, 1839, p. 148.

An act to fix the tenure of certain officers; in force Feb. 21, 1843. Laws, 1843, p. 10.

DECISIONS. The notarial protest of an inland bill of exchange, is not evidence of a demand of payment on the drawee, nor of notice to the drawer of non-payment. Kaskaskin Bridge Company v. Shannon et al., 1 G. 15.

The signature of a notary public to the jurat of an affidavit, without his seal, is sufficient within the county where the notary resides; if the affidavit is to be used out of his county, his seal, or some other evidence of his official character, is necessary. The statute does not require a notary to verify his acts by seal, except in the acknowledgment of deeds. Stout v. Slattery, 12 Ill. 162. See also, Mason v. Brock, 12 Ill. 273.

The letters "N. P." are an abbreviation of the words "Notary Public," and clearly indicate that office. Rowley v. Berrian, 12 Ill. 198.

The provision of law which authorized certain officers to use their private seals till public ones were provided, does not apply to notaries public. Mason v. Brock, 12 Ill. 273.

CHAPTER LXXVI.

OATHS AND AFFIRMATIONS.

SECTION

1. Form and manner of swearing.
2. Persons having conscientious scruples, to be affirmed; false affirmation considered perjury.
3. Who may administer oaths, and on what occasions.

SECTION

4. Chairman of committee of either house of the General Assembly, may administer oaths.
5. False swearing under the provisions of this chapter, considered and punished as perjury.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 393.]

SECTION I. Whenever any person shall be required to take an oath before he enters upon the discharge of any office, place or business, or on any other lawful occasion, and such person shall declare that he or she has conscientious scruples about the present mode of administering oaths, by laying the hand on and kissing the gospels, it shall be lawful for any person empowered to administer the oath, to administer it in the following form, to wit: the person swearing shall, with his or hand uplifted, swear by the ever-living God; and shall not be compelled to lay the hand on or kiss the gospels. And oaths so administered shall be equally effectual, and subject such persons to the like pains and penalties for willful and corrupt perjury, as oaths administered in the usual form.

SEC. II. Whenever any person, required to take or subscribe an oath as aforesaid, and in all cases where an oath is upon any lawful occasion to be administered, and such person shall have conscientious scruples against taking an oath, he or she shall be admitted, instead of taking an oath, to make his or her solemn affirmation or declaration, in the following form, to wit: "You do solemnly, sincerely and truly declare and affirm;" which solemn affirmation or declaration shall be equally valid as if such person had taken an oath in the usual form; and every person guilty of falsely and corruptly declaring as aforesaid, shall incur and suffer the like pains and penalties as are or shall be inflicted on persons convicted of willful and corrupt perjury.

SEC. III. All courts now established, or hereafter to be established, and each judge, justice and clerk thereof, and all justices of the peace and notaries public, shall, respectively, have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses and others, concerning anything depending, or proceeding commenced or to be commenced before them, respectively; and the said courts, the judges, justices, notaries public and clerks thereof, within their respective districts, circuits or counties, and the justices of the peace within their counties, shall respectively have power to administer all oaths of office, and other oaths required to be taken by any person before entering upon the discharge of the duties of any office, appointment, place or business, or any other lawful occasion, and to take affidavits and depositions concerning any matter or thing, process or proceeding, depending or to be commenced in any court, or before any justice of the peace, or on any occasion wherein such affidavits or depositions are authorized or required by law to be taken.

SEC. IV. The chairman, or any member of any committee appointed by either branch of the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, or any member of any joint committee appointed by the two houses of the General Assembly aforesaid, shall be authorized, under the direction of such committee, to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses called before such committee, for the purpose of giving evidence touching any matter or thing which may be under the consideration or investigation of the committee; and oaths and affirmations administered as aforesaid, shall be deemed and considered as having been administered lawfully.

SEC. V. All oaths, affirmations, affidavits and depositions administered or taken as provided in this chapter, shall subject any person who shall so swear or affirm, willfully and falsely, in matter material to any issue or point in question, to the like pains and penalties inflicted by law, for the time being, on persons convicted of willful and corrupt perjury.

PRIOR LAWS. An act authorizing certain persons to administer oaths; approved March 30, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 348.

An act concerning oaths and affirmations; approved Dec. 26, 1826. Rev. Laws, 1827, p. 308; Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 472.

An act in addition to the act concerning oaths and affirmations; approved Feb. 9, 1831. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 472.

DECISIONS. Swearing a witness by the uplifted hand, is a legal mode of swearing, independent of the statute. By the common law, oaths are to be administered in the manner which most affects the conscience. Gill v. Caldwell, Brees, 28.

An oath administered by holding up the hand, though the gospels were not presented to the witness, and though he did not declare that he had conscientious scruples against being sworn on the gospels, is legal and valid, no objection being made at the time by the prisoner or his counsel. McKinney v. The People, 2 G. 540.

CHAPTER LXXVII.

OFFICERS.

SECTION

1. What officers to reside at the seat of government.
2. Auditor to sue and defend in behalf of State; duty of attorney general.
3. Appeals allowed; auditor not personally bound.
4. When judgment is had against the State, how satisfied.

SECTION

5. Duty of certain officers to report defects in laws, and suggest amendments thereto.
6. Clerks of courts may appoint deputies.
7. Principal clerk, when able, to perform duties.
8. Clerk to reside at county seat.
9. If officer remove from county, his office to be vacated.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 394.]

SECTION I. The governor, the secretary of State, the auditor, the treasurer, the clerk of the supreme court, and the attorney general, shall keep their residence at the seat of government.

SEC. II. It shall be lawful for the auditor of public accounts of the State of Illinois, to sue for any demand which the people of the State may have a right to claim, and to be sued and to sue, to plead and be impleaded, to answer and to be answered, to defend and to be defended, in any court of record or other place, where justice shall be judicially administered, in the name of the auditor of public accounts, for the people of the State of Illinois: Provided, That the auditor shall not be liable to be sued in any other county than that in which the seat of government is situated. And the attorney general of this State shall prosecute and defend all suits brought by or against the auditor of public accounts, as is prescribed by law.

SEC. III. From all judgments so rendered, appeals may be taken to the supreme court; and it shall be the duty of the auditor to take such appeal, if in his opinion justice has not been done in the court where such judgment has been rendered; nor shall any judgment against the auditor, in his representative capacity, bind him personally, or be conclusive upon the State, until the same shall be examined by the General Assembly. In cases of appeals by the auditor, he shall not be required to give bond or security, as in other cases.

SEC. IV. When judgment shall be rendered against the auditor of public accounts for the State of Illinois, it shall be his duty to forward a copy of such judgment and proceedings thereon, to the next General Assembly, and if approved by the same, an appropriation shall be made to satisfy the same, or such part thereof as the said General Assembly may deem just.

SEC. V. It shall be the duty of each of the justices of the supreme court, the attorney general, the clerk of the supreme court, each of the prosecuting attorneys in the several circuit courts, the secretary of State, the auditor of public accounts, the treasurer of the State, the major, brigadier and adjutant generals, and each of them, to make a report of all apparent defects, inconsistencies, omissions, unequal or oppressive laws, which each shall have discovered, to the speaker of the house of representatives, at the commencement of each and every session of the General Assembly, for the purpose of enabling it to make such amendments as will tend to perfect our code.

SEC. VI. The clerk of the supreme court, and the several clerks of the circuit and county commissioners' courts, may appoint deputies, who shall severally take an oath for the faithful discharge of the duties of their offices, and for whose conduct the principal clerk shall, in all cases, be responsible.

SEC. VII. The principal clerk shall, in all cases, attend in person to the duties of his office, when it is practicable, or when the duties of the office are not greater than can be performed by one person.

SEC. VIII. Whenever any clerk as aforesaid, shall reside at such a distance from the seat of justice of his county, that he cannot give his daily attendance to the duties of his office, and shall not, within six months from his election or appointment, remove to the county seat, or within such a distance that he can and will give his daily attendance to the duties of his office, the office shall be taken and deemed vacant; and the presiding judge of the circuit court, and the county commissioners' court, at their first session, after being informed of the fact, shall proceed to fill such vacancy.

SEC. IX. If any officer of a county shall remove from, and permanently reside out of the same, his office shall be deemed vacant, and such vacancy shall be filled as in other cases.

PRIOR LAWS. An act for the appointment of circuit attorneys, and defining their duties and the duties of the attorney general; approved March 23, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 204.

An act defining the duties of auditor and treasurer; approved March 24, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 240.

An act defining and regulating the duties of the secretary of State; approved March 1, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 87.

An act regulating and defining the duties of justices of the supreme court; approved March 31, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 373.

An act requiring the several clerks of this State to keep their respective offices at the county seat; approved Jan. 11, 1823. Laws, 1823, p. 70; Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 144.

An act relating to the attorney general and State's attorneys; approved Feb. 17, 1827. Rev. Laws, 1827, p. 79. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 97.

An act requiring certain official reports to be made to the General Assembly; approved Feb. 20, 1819. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 504.

An act relative to several officers therein named; approved Jan. 22, 1829. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 504.

An act to authorize clerks of the circuit and county commissioners' courts to appoint deputies in certain cases; approved Feb. 9, 1831. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 127.

An act defining and regulating the duties and term of service of the secretary of State; approved Feb. 14, 1831. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 567.

An act further defining the duties of the attorney general, and for other purposes; approved Feb. 26, 1841. Laws, 1841, p. 35.

CHAPTER LXXVIII.

OFFICIAL BONDS.

SECTION

1. Judge of circuit court to examine official bonds of sheriffs, &c., at each term of court; may require additional security.
2. County commissioners' courts to examine bonds of certain officers; may require additional security.
3. Probate justice to examine, periodically, the bonds of executors, &c.; may require new bond.
4. Persons interested in official bond, may try sufficiency thereof.
5. Circuit court to make record of examination of bonds.
6. If officer fail to give additional security when required, to be superseded.
7. Securities, how may be released from liability on official bond.
8. Other security to be substituted in such case.

SECTION

9. Time in which to file additional bond.
10. If bond not filed, office vacant.
11. When securities on old bond discharged; when those on new bond to become liable.
12. Embezzlement, how punished.
13. Officer failing to file new bond, to deliver his papers, &c., to his securities.
14. Penalty for refusal, or for acting officially before giving new bond.
15. Securities on old bond, not released by the giving of new.
16. Principal and securities in bond may be sued jointly or severally.
17. Property of sureties not to be taken in execution until that of principal be exhausted.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 396.]

SECTION I. It shall be the duty of the presiding judge of the circuit court of each county in this State, at every term of said circuit court, on the first day of the term, in open court, to examine and inquire into the sufficiency of the official bonds of the sheriff, coroner and clerk of the circuit court; and if it shall appear that any one or more of the securities on the official bond of any such sheriff, coroner or clerk of the circuit court, has or have removed from the county, died or become insolvent, an order shall be entered of record, requiring such sheriff, coroner or clerk of the circuit court, to file in the office of the clerk of the circuit court a new bond, to be approved and recorded as is now required by law, unless the number and pecuniary abilities of other securities on the bond shall be such as to satisfy the judge that the bond is sufficient, notwithstanding one or more of the securities may have removed, died or become insolvent or of doubtful solvency, in which case the bond in question may, in the discretion of said judge, be held to be sufficient.

SEC. II. It shall be the duty of the county commissioners' court, at the regular June and December terms of said court, in each year, on the first day of the term, in open court, to examine and inquire into the sufficiency of the official bond of each probate justice of the peace, justice of the peace, constable, collector, county treasurer, recorder, and clerk of the county commissioners' court, and if it shall appear that any one or more of the securities on the official bond of any such probate justice of the peace, justice of the peace, constable, collector, county treasurer, recorder, or clerk of the county commissioners' court, has or have removed from the county, died or become insolvent or of doubtful solvency, the said court shall cause such probate justice of the peace, constable, collector, county treasurer, recorder, or clerk of the county commissioners' court, to be summoned to appear before said court on a day fixed therein, to show cause why he should not be required to give a new bond with security; and if at the appointed time he should fail to satisfy the court as to the sufficiency of the present security, an order shall be entered of record, requiring such probate justice of the peace, justice of the peace, constable, collector, county treasurer, recorder, and clerk of the county commissioners' court, to file in the office of the clerk of the county commissioners' court, within thirty days, a new bond, to be approved, as is now required by law, unless the number and pecuniary ability of other securities on the bond shall be such as to satisfy the court that the bond is sufficient, notwithstanding one or more of the securities on said bond may be removed, dead or insolvent, or of doubtful solvency; in which case the bond in question may, in the discretion of the court, be held to be sufficient.

SEC. III. It shall be the duty of each probate justice of the peace, at two terms in each year, to be holden on the first Mondays in January and July, on the first day of the term, in open court, to examine and inquire into the sufficiency of the official bond of each executor, administrator, guardian, and of any other official bond that may be filed in his office; and if it shall appear that any one or more of the securities on the official bond of any such executor, administrator, guardian or other officer, has or have removed from the county, died or become insolvent, or of doubtful solvency, the said probate justice shall cause such executor, administrator, guardian or other officer to be summoned to appear before him on a day to be named in said summons, to show cause why he should not be required to give a new bond with security; and if at the appointed time he should fail to satisfy such probate justice of the sufficiency of the present security, an order shall be made on the records of the probate justice of the peace, requiring such executor, administrator, guardian or other officer, to file in the office of the probate justice, a new bond, to be approved as is now required by law, unless the number and pecuniary ability of other securities on the bond shall be such as to satisfy the court that the bond is sufficient, notwithstanding one or more of the securities on said bond may be removed, dead or insolvent, in which case the bond in question may, in the discretion of the court, be held to be sufficient.

SEC. IV. Any person having any pecuniary interest in the sufficiency of the official bond of any of the officers hereinbefore named, may appear at the prescribed time and place, and shall be allowed to introduce any evidence legally conducing to prove the removal, death or insolvency, or doubtful solvency of any security on such official bond, and the officer interested, or any of his securities, may also appear and introduce any evidence legally conducing to establish the sufficiency of such official bond.

SEC. V. It shall be the duty of the respective courts above named, to enter upon their respective records, at the times hereinbefore prescribed for an examination, that an examination and inquiry into the sufficiency of the official bonds within their cognizance, has been made, and that they severally are deemed sufficient or insufficient, as the facts may justify.

SEC. VI. If any officer hereinbefore enumerated, shall fail to file a new bond within the prescribed time, when an order of the appropriate court entered of record shall require the filing of such new bond, the officer in default shall be deemed and held to have vacated his office, and the same steps shall be taken to fill such vacancy thus created as are now taken to fill a vacancy by the death or resignation of such officer.

SEC. VII. Any person who now is, or who hereafter may become the security of any sheriff, coroner or clerk of the county commissioners' court, shall have the power of releasing himself from such securityship, by filing with the clerk of the circuit court, a notice that he is unwilling longer to be security for said sheriff, coroner or clerk of county commissioners' court; and any person who now is, or hereafter may become security for any justice of the peace, probate justice of the peace, constable, school commissioner, collector of State and county revenue, or clerk of the circuit court, may in like manner become released, by filing with the clerk of the county commissioners' court, a like notice.

SEC. VIII. When any notice shall be filed as aforesaid with the clerk of the circuit court, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the sheriff, coroner or clerk of the county commissioners' court, as the case may be, who shall thereupon file other security, to be approved by the circuit court, if the same shall then be in session, or if a session thereof be commenced within ten days after said notice shall have been given; but if said court be not in session, nor a session thereof be commenced within ten days, then the said sheriff or coroner shall, within ten days, file said bond with the clerk of said court, which clerk shall, in that case, judge of the sufficiency of said bond, subject, however, to the decision of the judge of the circuit court, as in other cases.

SEC. IX. When any notice shall be filed with the clerk of the county commissioners' court as aforesaid, he shall, in like manner, give notice to the justice, probate justice, constable, school commissioner or collector of State and county revenue, as the case may be, who shall, within ten days thereafter, file another bond, to be approved by said clerk.

SEC. X. If said sheriff, coroner, justice, probate justice, constable, school commissioner or collector of State and county revenue, as the case may be, shall not, in the time and manner aforesaid, file bond, to be approved as aforesaid, the said office shall become vacant, and said vacancy shall be filled as required by law.

SEC. XI. If a new bond shall be given by any officer, as provided in the foregoing sections of this chapter, then the former securities shall be entirely released and discharged from all liabilities incurred by any such officer in consequence of business which may have come to hand from and after the time of the approval of the said new bond, and the securities to the new bond are hereby declared to be liable for all the official delinquencies of said officer, whether of omission or commission, which may occur after the approval of the new bond as aforesaid.

SEC. XII. If any sheriff, coroner, justice of the peace, probate justice of the peace, constable, school commissioner or collector of State and county revenue, shall embezzle, or appropriate to his own use, any money which may be paid him by virtue of his office, he shall be liable to be indicted therefor, and upon conviction thereof, the court shall pass judgment that the office held by such officer shall be vacated; and a new election shall be held to fill the vacancy thereby created.

SEC. XIII. It shall be the duty of such sheriff, coroner, justice of the peace, probate justice of the peace, constable, school commissioner or collector of State and county revenue, if he shall fail to give bond as provided for in this chapter, to deliver over to his sureties forthwith, all books, moneys, vouchers, papers, and every description of property whatever, pertaining to his said office, and the said sureties may, at any time after said failure to file said bond, maintain an action of replevin, or other appropriate action, to recover such property, money or effects from their said principal.

SEC. XIV. If any officer designated in the foregoing sections of this chapter, shall fail to deliver any money, property or effects as aforesaid, to his securities, or shall act, or attempt to act, in his said office, after failing to give a new bond as aforesaid, he shall be deemed guilty of a high misdemeanor, and upon indictment and conviction therefor, shall be fined, in any sum not less than five hundred dollars nor more than five thousand dollars.

SEC. XV. The provisions of this chapter shall not be so construed as to operate as a release of the securities of any of the aforesaid officers, for liabilities incurred previous to the filing of a new bond, as required in the foregoing sections of this chapter.

SEC. XVI. Whenever the condition of the bond of any public officer shall be violated, suit may be instituted on such bond, and prosecuted to final judgment against such officer, and any or all of the securities, or against one or more of them, jointly and severally, without first establishing the liability of the principal, by obtaining judgment against him alone.

SEC. XVII. Execution may issue on any judgment so rendered as in ordinary cases, but the officer executing the same shall not levy upon the property of the sureties, until he shall fail to find sufficient property of the principal to satisfy such execution: Provided, however, The judgment and execution shall be a lien upon the property of the sureties, as in ordinary cases.

PRIOR LAWS. An act in relation to official bonds; in force Jan. 23, 1843. Laws, 1843, p. 40. An act for the relief of certain securities therein named; in force Dec. 5, 1842. Laws, 1842, p. 222.

CHAPTER LXXIX.

PARTITIONS.

SECTION

1. When lands held in joint tenancy, &c., any person interested may, by petition to the proper court, have partition and sale.
2. Petition, what facts to set out.
3. Who shall be made parties.
4. If persons in interest be unknown, or their interest uncertain, that fact to be set out in petition.
5. How such unknown persons to be made parties.
6. How they may be summoned; non-resident parties, how notified.
7. Any person interested, may become party defendant by interpleader.
8. Court to try cause and determine the interest of the respective parties.

SECTION

9. Court ordering partition, to appoint commissioners; their duty; their report, and order of the court thereon.
10. Compensation of commissioners.
11. When lands, &c., cannot be properly divided, to be sold, and proceeds divided; proceedings thereon to be reported; order of court.
12. Uncialmed moneys to be deposited in the State treasury, to be drawn by order of court.
13. Claimants of such money, to preserve same by order of court.
14. Plea in abatement, not allowed.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 399.]

SECTION I. When any lands, tenements or hereditaments, shall be held in joint tenancy, tenancy in common or coparcenery, whether such right or title be derived by purchase, devise or descent, or whether any, all or a part of such claimants be of full age or minors, it shall be lawful for any one or more of the persons interested, by themselves, if of full age, or by their guardians, if minors, to present to the circuit court of the county where such lands or tenements lie, or where the lands or tenements lie in different counties, in the circuit court of the county in which the major part of such lands lie; but if the major part of such lands do not lie in any one county, then to the circuit court of any county in which any of such lands lie, their petition, praying for a division and partition of such premises, according to the respective rights of the parties interested therein, and for a sale thereof, if it shall appear that partition cannot be made without great prejudice to the owners.

SEC. II. The petition shall particularly describe the premises sought to be divided or sold, and shall set forth and make exhibits of the rights and titles of all parties interested therein, so far as the same are known to the petitioners, including tenants for years, for life, by the courtesy, or in dower; and of persons entitled to the reversion, remainder or inheritance; and of every person who, upon any contingency, may be or become entitled to any beneficial interest in the premises, so far as the same are known to the petitioners; and such petition shall be verified by affidavit.

SEC. III. Every person having such interest as is specified in this chapter, whether in possession or otherwise, and every person entitled to dower in such premises, if the same has not been admeasured, shall be made a party to such petition.

SEC. IV. In cases where one or more of such parties shall be unknown, or the share or quantity of interest of any of the parties is unknown to the petitioner, or where such share or interest shall be uncertain or contingent, or the ownership of the inheritance shall depend upon an executory devise, or the remainder shall be contingent, so that such parties cannot be named, the same shall be so stated in the petition.

SEC. V. All persons interested in the premises of which partition is sought to be made according to the provisions of this chapter, whose names are unknown, may be made parties to such petition, by the name and description of unknown owners or proprietors of the premises, or as the unknown heirs of any person who may have been interested in the same.

SEC. VI. All persons having such interest as is specified in this chapter, in any premises of which partition is sought to be made, or the guardians of such as are under age, who shall not have joined in the petition, (and if any person so interested, be under age and without a guardian, the court shall appoint a guardian ad litem, for such minor,) shall have notice of such application by summons duly served, which summons shall issue against such persons by the name and description given in the petition. And when the names of persons having any such interest in such premises are unknown, and when parties whose names are known, do not reside in this State, or cannot be found, they shall have further notice by advertisement, as provided in sections eight, forty-one and forty-two of chapter twenty-one, and after such advertisement, the court shall proceed to act in the premises as though the parties had been duly served with summons, or had been notified by their proper names.

SEC. VII. During the pendency of any such suit or proceeding, any person claiming to be interested in the premises to be assigned or aperted, may appear and answer the petition, and assert his or her rights, by way of interpleader; and the court shall decide upon the rights of persons appearing as aforesaid, as though they had been made parties in the first instance.

SEC. VIII. The court shall ascertain from the evidence, in case of default, or from the confession by plea, of the parties, if they appear, or from the verdict, by which any issue of fact shall be determined, and shall declare the rights, titles and interests of all the parties to such proceedings, petitioners as well as defendants, and give such judgment as may be required by the rights of the parties.

SEC. IX. The court, when it shall order a partition of any premises to be made, under the provisions of this chapter, shall appoint three commissioners, not connected with any of the parties, either by consanguinity or affinity, and entirely disinterested; each of whom shall take an oath before the court, or some justice of the peace, fairly and impartially to make partition of said lands, in accordance with the judgment of the court, as to the rights and interests of parties, if the same can be done consistently with the interests of the estate; and the said commissioners shall go upon the premises and make partition of said lands, tenements and hereditaments, assigning to each party his or her share, by metes and bounds; and may make report, which shall be under their hands and seals, to the court, during the same or next succeeding term at which they were appointed; and the court may, at the term when such report shall be made, make all such orders upon such reports as may be necessary to a final disposition of the case.

SEC. X. The commissioners to be appointed under this chapter, shall be allowed, as a compensation for their services, one dollar per day each, to be taxed as other costs.

SEC. XI. When any lands, houses or lots, are so circumstanced that a division thereof cannot be made without manifest prejudice to the proprietors of the same, and the commissioners appointed to divide the same, shall so report to the court, the court shall thereupon give an order to said commissioners, or other person or persons, to sell such lands, houses and lots, or houses and lots, at public vendue, upon such terms, and by giving notice of sale as the court shall direct; and who shall make and execute good and sufficient conveyance or conveyances to the purchaser or purchasers thereof, which shall operate as an effectual bar, both in law and equity, against such owners or proprietors, and all persons claiming under them; and the commissioners or persons making such sale, shall report their proceedings to the court, and shall pay over the moneys arising therefrom, to the parties entitled to receive the same, under the direction of the court; the court to make such order in relation to costs as shall seem right.

SEC. XII. When a sale of any lands or premises shall be made, in accordance with the preceding section, and no persons shall appear to claim such portions of the money as may belong to any non-resident or person whose name is unknown, the court shall, thereupon, require the money belonging to the person not claiming as aforesaid, to be deposited in the treasury of the State, subject to the further order of the court; and all money required to be deposited as aforesaid, shall be received by the State treasurer, and paid out upon the order of the court.

SEC. XIII. When money shall be deposited in the State treasury under the provisions of this chapter, the person or persons entitled to the same may, at any time, apply to the court making the order of sale, and obtain an order for the same, upon making satisfactory proof to the court of his, her or their right thereto.

SEC. XIV. No plea in abatement shall be received in any suit for partition, nor shall such suit abate by the death of any tenant.

PRIOR LAWS. An act for the partition of lands; approved Feb. 20, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 335.
An act concerning partitions and joint rights and obligations; approved Jan. 13, 1821. Laws, 1821, p. 14. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 472.
An act for the speedy assignment of dower, and partition of real estate; in force June 1, 1827. Rev. Laws, 1827, p. 183; Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 236.

DECISIONS. The circuit court can set aside the report of commissioners of partition, for inequality of value or quantity, and such inequality may be shown by depositions. Riggs v. Dickinson et al., 2 S. 437.

The act to amend the act entitled "An act for the relief of Nathaniel Pope and others," approved July 21, 1837, in force Jan. 18, 1839, although a special act, authorizing a partition, is constitutional. Edwards v. Pope et al., 3 S. 465.

In a suit for partition, under the statute, the defendant is not required to make discovery, or answer under oath, and the testimony may be vide voce. The proceedings are summary and in rem. The only duty of the court is to direct a division according to the legal interests of the parties; their equities are to be determined by some other remedy. When the report of the commissioners is approved, the tenancy is terminated, and each holds the portion allotted to him in severalty. Louvalle et al. v. Menard et al., 1 G. 39.

Courts of equity have jurisdiction in matters of partition, and a bill in chancery lies therefor, notwithstanding an adverse possession, unless the possession be a bar to recovery under the statute of limitations. Howey v. Goings, 13 Ill. 95.

(1.) SECTION I. Every poor person who shall be unable to earn a livelihood in consequence of any bodily infirmity, idiocy, lunacy or other unavoidable cause, shall be supported by the father, grand-father, mother, grand-mother, children, grand-children, brothers or sisters of such poor person, if they or either of them be of sufficient ability. And every person who shall fail or refuse to support his or her father, grand-father, mother, grand-mother, child or grand-child, sister or brother, when directed by the county commissioners' court of the county where such poor person shall be found, whether such relative reside in the same county or not, shall forfeit and pay to the said county commissioners, for the use of the poor of their county, the sum of five dollars for every month, for which they or either of them shall fail or refuse; to be recovered in the name of the county commissioners' court, for the use of the poor as aforesaid, before any justice of the peace or any other court having jurisdiction: Provided, That when any persons become paupers from intemperance or other bad conduct, they shall not be entitled to support from any relation, except parent or child.

(2.) SEC. II. The children shall first be called on to support their parents, if there be children of sufficient ability, and if there be none of sufficient ability, the parents of such poor person shall be next called on, and if there be no parents or children, the brothers and sisters of such poor person shall next be called on, and if there be no brothers or sisters, the grand-children of such poor person shall next be called on, and then the grand-parents: Provided, Married females, whilst their husbands live, shall not be liable to a suit.

(3.) SEC. III. When any such poor person shall not have any such relatives in any county in this State, as are named in the preceding sections, or such relative shall not be of sufficient ability, or shall fail or refuse to maintain such pauper, then the said pauper shall receive such relief as his or her case may require, out of the county treasury, in the manner hereinafter provided.

(4.) SEC. IV. When any non-resident, or any other person not coming within the definition of a pauper, shall fall sick or die in any county of this State, not having money or property to pay his board, nursing and medical aid, it shall be the duty of the overseers of the poor of the proper district, or if there be none, then of the nearest county commissioner of the county, upon complaint being made, to give or order to be given such assistance to such poor person as they may deem just and necessary; and if said sick person shall die, then the said overseers or county commissioner shall give or order to be given to such person, a decent burial; and the said overseers or county commissioner shall make such allowance for board, nursing, medical aid or burial expenses, as they shall deem just and equitable; which allowance shall be laid before the county commissioners' court, and the said court shall allow either the whole or such reasonable and just part thereof as ought to be allowed, and order the same to be paid out of the county treasury.

(5.) SEC. V. The justices of the peace in each justice's district, in conjunction with such other person as the county commissioners in the several counties in this State may appoint, shall be, and are hereby, made overseers of the poor, and are vested with the entire and exclusive superintendence of the poor in their respective districts, excepting in case of corporate towns or cities, to which such superintendence and jurisdiction shall be by law granted.

(6.) SEC. VI. It shall be the duty of said justices within their respective districts, and the person appointed as aforesaid, diligently to inquire after all such persons as are unable to earn a livelihood, in consequence of any bodily infirmity, idiocy, lunacy or other unavoidable cause, and to provide for them the necessary comforts of life, by confiding the care of such poor person or persons to some moral and discreet householder or householders in the district, of sufficient ability to provide for them. Every person to whom the care of such poor person shall be committed, shall execute a bond to the county in which said poor person shall reside, conditioned that he will treat said poor person with humanity, and afford to him or her the necessary attention and comforts of life, fitted to his or her condition. Said bond shall set forth the sum to be given by said county for keeping such poor person or persons.

(7.) SEC. VII. Said overseers shall, at each session of the county commissioners' court, make a full report of their actings and doings under this chapter, and return a list of all the poor within their respective districts, specifying the age, sex and infirmities of each.

(8.) SEC. VIII. Upon the making of said report, it shall be the duty of the several county commissioners' courts, to make such appropriations as will justify the person having the custody of any poor person, in affording to him or her suitable clothing, and such comforts as may be suitable to their state and condition.

(9.) SEC. IX. Any sum set forth in the bond executed by any county as aforesaid, may be lessened or increased at the discretion of said county, without affecting, in either case, the validity of the bond.

(10.) SEC. X. The county commissioners' court may, at any regular term of said court, remove any poor person from the custody of the person or persons to whose care the overseers may have committed the keeping of such poor person, without subjecting the overseers or the county to any claim for damages.

(11.) SEC. XI. The overseers, in fixing the amount to be paid for keeping any poor person, shall take into the calculation the ability of the poor person to labor.

(12.) SEC. XII. Any person becoming chargeable as a pauper in this State, shall be chargeable as such pauper in the county in which he or she resided at the commencement of the thirty days immediately preceding such person becoming so chargeable.

(13.) SEC. XIII. If any person shall become chargeable in any county in which he or she did not reside at the commencement of the thirty days immediately preceding his or her becoming so chargeable, he or she shall be duly taken care of by the proper authority of the county where he or she may be found; and it shall be the duty of the clerk of the county commissioners' court, to send notice by mail to the clerk of the county commissioners' court of the county in which such pauper resided, as before stated, that said person has become chargeable as a pauper, and requesting the authorities of said county to remove the said pauper forthwith, and to pay the expense accrued in taking care of him or them.

(14.) SEC. XIV. If said pauper, by reason of sickness or disease, or by neglect of the authorities of the county to which he or she belongs, or for any other sufficient cause, cannot be moved, then the county taking charge of such individual or individuals may sue for and recover from the county to which said individual or individuals belong, the amount expended for and in behalf of such pauper or paupers, and in taking care of the same.

(15.) SEC. XV. The term "residence" mentioned in this chapter, shall be taken and considered to mean the actual residence of the party, or the place where he or she was employed, or in case he or she was in no employment, then it shall be considered and held to be the place where he made it his or her home.

(16.) SEC. XVI. If any person shall bring and leave any pauper or paupers in any county in this State, wherein such pauper is not lawfully settled, knowing him or them to be paupers, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of one hundred dollars for every such offense, to be sued for and recovered by and to the use of such county, by action of debt, before any justice of the peace in the proper county.

(17.) SEC. XVII. The county commissioners' court in each county, is hereby authorized (whenever it shall see fit so to do,) to establish a poor-house.

(18.) SEC. XVIII. The county commissioners are hereby authorized to take to the county, by grant, devise or purchase, any tract of land, not exceeding six hundred and forty acres, for the purposes of said poor-house.

(19.) SEC. XIX. Said county commissioners' courts are hereby empowered to receive donations to aid in the establishment of such poor-house, and are also empowered, from time to time, if they shall see fit, to levy and collect a tax, not exceeding one-fourth of one per cent., on the taxable property of the county, and to appropriate the same to the purchase of land, not exceeding the aforesaid six hundred and forty acres, and to erect and furnish buildings suitable to a poor-house, and to put it into operation, and to defray the annual expenses of said poor-house, should the labors of the inmates be inadequate thereto.

(20.) SEC. XX. Said county commissioners' courts are hereby authorized to employ such agents and other persons as may be necessary, to establish and put into operation such poor-house.

(21.) SEC. XXI. Whenever any county commissioners' court shall enter upon their records, that they have established a poor-house, and that such poor-house is ready for the reception of the poor of the county, then the authority conferred upon the overseers of the poor, shall cease to be in force in said county: Provided, however, If there be any particular case or cases which the court should deem prudent to put out under the provisions of this chapter, they may do so, making a proper entry of the circumstances upon their records.

(22.) SEC. XXII. The title to the property authorized to be acquired by this chapter, for the purpose of said poor-house, shall be made to the county.

(23.) SEC. XXIII. The county commissioners' court of any county in this State may, if they shall at any time deem it to the interest of said county, appropriate out of any fund appropriated to said county for any purpose, or other money belonging to said county, any sum, not exceeding two thousand five hundred dollars, for the purpose of purchasing a farm, and erecting thereon suitable buildings for a poor-house for said county, as contemplated in sections seventeen, eighteen and nineteen of this chapter.

An Act to provide for the Support of Paupers in Lake County.

[Approved Feb. 17, 1851. Laus, 1851, p. 183.]

(25.) SEC. II. It shall be the duty of the clerk of the county court of said county to give notice of the said election in the same manner as is provided for giving notices of general elections.

(26.) SEC. III. That in case separate township support shall be adopted in said county, agreeably to the provisions of the first section of this act, then the overseers of the poor of the several townships aforesaid shall take charge of, maintain and support the poor of their respective townships, in manner as is now or may hereafter be provided by law; and all expenses incurred for such maintenance and support shall be considered a township charge; and it shall be the duty of said overseers to present to the board of township auditors of their respective townships, at each regular annual meeting thereof, a true account of all expenditures incurred under the provisions of this act; which shall be audited and paid as other township charges are audited and paid.

(27.) SEC. IV. If any person shall become chargeable in any township of said county, in which he or she did not reside at the commencement of the thirty days immediately preceding his or her becoming so chargeable, he or she shall be taken care of by the overseer of the poor of such township; and if such poor person was a resident of any other township of said county, within the thirty days aforesaid, then the overseer of the poor of the township having such poor person in charge, shall give notice to the overseer of the poor where such pauper resided as aforesaid, stating that such pauper became chargeable as a pauper, and requesting said overseer to remove said pauper forthwith, and pay the expense incurred in taking care of him or her.

(28.) SEC. V. That the provisions of sections fourteen, fifteen and sixteen, of chapter eighty of the Revised Statutes, entitled "PAUPERS," shall apply to and operate, as between the several townships of said county, in the same manner as they do between the several counties of this State. And if any person shall become chargeable in any township of said county, who did not reside in said county at the commencement of the thirty days as aforesaid, then the overseer of the poor having such pauper in charge, shall give notice thereof to the county clerk of said county, whose duty it shall be to give notice thereof to the authorities of the proper county, as in other cases. And the expenses of taking care of such pauper, when received from such foreign county, shall be paid into the treasury of the proper township.

An Act to provide for the Residence of Paupers in Tazewell County.

[Approved June 21, 1852. Laws, 1852, p. 118.]

(30.) SEC. II. That the provisions of sections fourteen, fifteen and sixteen, of chapter eighty of the Revised Statutes, entitled "PAUPERS," shall apply to and operate as between the several townships of said county in the same manner as they do between the several counties of this State; and if any person shall become chargeable in any township of said county, who did not reside in said county at the commencement of the thirty days as aforesaid, then the overseer of the poor having such pauper in charge, shall give notice thereof to the county clerk of said county, whose duty it shall be to give notice thereof to the authorities of the proper county as in other cases and the expenses of taking care of such pauper, when received from such foreign county, shall be paid into the treasury of the proper township.

(31.) SEC. III. This act to take effect from and after its passage.

An Act to provide for the Support of Paupers in Bureau and McHenry Counties.

[Approved Feb. 10, 1853. Laws, 1853, p. 261.]

(33.) SEC. II. It shall be the duty of the clerk of the county court of said counties to give notice of the said election in the same manner as is provided for giving notice of general elections.

(34.) SEC. III. That in case separate township support shall be adopted in said county, agreeably to the provisions of the first section of this act, then the overseers of the poor of the several townships aforesaid, shall take charge of, maintain and support the poor of their respective townships in manner as is now or may hereafter be provided by law; and all expenses incurred for such maintenance and support, shall be considered a township charge, and it shall be the duty of said overseers to present to the board of township auditors of their respective townships, at each regular meeting thereof, a true account of all expenditures incurred under the provisions of this act, which shall be audited and paid.

(35.) SEC. IV. That the provisions of sections fourteen, fifteen and sixteen, of chapter eighty of the Revised Statutes, entitled "PAUPERS," shall apply to and operate as between the several townships of said county, in the same manner as they do between the several counties of this State; and if any person shall become chargeable in any township in said county who has not resided in said county thirty days, then the overseers of the poor having such pauper in charge, shall give notice thereof to the county clerk of said counties, whose duty it shall be to give notice thereof to the authorities of the proper county as in other cases; and the expenses of taking care of such pauper, when received from such foreign county, shall be paid into the treasury of the proper township. This act to take effect from and after its passage.

An Act requiring the Towns in Kane County to Support their own Paupers.

(37.) SEC. II. That the overseers of the poor of the townships aforesaid shall take charge of, maintain and support the poor of their respective townships in manner as is now or hereafter may be provided by law, and all expenses incurred for such maintenance and support, shall be considered a township charge, and it shall be the duty of said overseers to present to the board of township auditors of their respective townships, at each regular annual meeting thereof, a true account of all expenditures incurred under the provisions of this act, which shall be audited and paid as other township charges are audited and paid.

(38.) SEC. III. If any person shall become chargeable in any township of said county in which he or she did not reside at the commencement of the thirty days immediately preceding his or her becoming so chargeable, he or she shall be taken care of by the overseers of the poor of such township; and if such poor person was a resident of any other township of said county, within the thirty days aforesaid, then the overseer of the poor of the township having such poor person in charge, shall give notice to the overseer of the poor where such pauper resided as aforesaid, stating that such pauper became chargeable as a pauper, and requesting said overseer to remove said pauper forthwith, and pay the expenses incurred in taking care of him or her.

(39.) SEC. IV. That the provisions of sections fourteen, fifteen and sixteen, of chapter eighty of the Revised Statutes, entitled "PAUPERS," shall apply to and operate as between the several townships of said counties, in the same manner as they do between the several counties of this State. And if any person shall become chargeable in any township of said county, who did not reside in said county at the commencement of the thirty days as aforesaid, then the overseer of the poor having such pauper in charge, shall give notice thereof to the authorities of the proper county, as in other cases. And the expenses of taking care of such pauper, when received from such foreign county, shall be paid into the treasury of the proper township.

(40.) SEC. V. That at the annual town meeting held in said county next after the passage of this act, the legal voters of said county may vote upon the question whether this act shall become a law or not; which said question shall be submitted to be voted upon in the following manner, viz.: In giving notice of the annual town meeting in said county, it shall be the duty of the town clerk to state in said notice that said question will be submitted to a vote at such meeting, and at said town meeting, said question shall be voted upon, by ballot, either written or printed, "For county support," "For township support," which said votes shall be canvassed and entered upon the minutes by the town clerk, in the same manner as other votes cast at said town meeting, and the town clerks of the several towns, within twenty days after said town meetings, shall make out and transmit to the clerk of the county court of said county, a certificate of the said judges and clerks of said elections, showing the whole number of votes given at said town meetings upon said question; and if it shall appear that a majority of all the votes cast are in favor of or for township support, then the foregoing provisions of this act, in relation to the support of paupers, shall be in force in said county, otherwise not.

(41.) SEC. VI. This act to take effect immediately.

An Act to provide for the Support of Paupers in Kane County.

(43.) SEC. II. That the overseers of the poor of the townships aforesaid, shall take charge of, maintain and support the poor of their respective townships, in manner as is now or may hereafter be provided by law, and all expenses incurred for such maintenance and support shall be considered a township charge; and it shall be the duty of said overseers to present to the board of township auditors of their respective townships, at each regular annual meeting thereof, a true account of all expenditures incurred under the provisions of this act, which shall be audited and paid as other township charges are audited and paid.

(44.) SEC. III. If any person shall become chargeable in any township of said county, in which he or she did not reside at the commencement of the thirty days immediately preceding his or her becoming so chargeable, he or she shall be taken care of by the overseer of the poor of such township; and if such poor person was a resident of any other township of said county within the thirty days aforesaid, then the overseer of the poor of the township having such poor person in charge, shall give notice to the overseer of the poor where such pauper resides as aforesaid, stating that such poor person became chargeable as a pauper, and requesting said overseer to remove said pauper forthwith, and pay the expenses incurred in taking care of him or her.

(45.) SEC. IV. That the provisions of sections fourteen, fifteen and sixteen, of chapter eighty of the Revised Statutes, entitled "PAUPERS," shall apply to and operate as between the several townships of said county, in the same manner as they do between the several counties of this State; and if any person becomes chargeable in any township of said county, who did not reside in said county at the commencement of the thirty days as aforesaid, then the overseer of the poor having such pauper in charge, shall give notice thereof to the authorities of the proper county, as in other cases, and the expenses of taking care of such paupers, when received from such foreign county, shall be paid into the treasury of the proper township.

DECISIONS. One who has rendered aid to a person acknowledged as a pauper by the county commissioners, and at their request, need not prove that such person was entitled to aid, under the laws for the support of the poor, in order to recover for his services. Vermillion County v. Knight, 1 S. 97.

A contract for the support of a pauper, or for medical services for him, is not obligatory upon a county, unless a majority of the overseers of the poor make such contract, and report it to the county commissioners court for approval. The court may then approve or disapprove, increase or diminish the sum agreed to be paid, and make appropriation therefor out of the county treasury. Rouse v. County of Peoria, 2 G. 99.

The board of supervisors, in those counties which have adopted township organization, are required to provide for the support of the paupers of the county. There is no distinction between town and county paupers. Supervisors v. South Ottawa, 13 Ill. 480.

Under the act incorporating the city of Alton, the obligation on the city to support its paupers is legal and binding, and may be enforced. Such corporation would not be liable to an individual for relief of a pauper, till an opportunity was given it to make the necessary provision; after notice, and neglect to provide, the corporation would be liable to individuals. Seagraves v. City of Alton, 13 Ill. 366.

A party contracted with Macoupin county, to feed and clothe every pauper sent him by the county court, for a specified sum each: Held, that he could recover no more than that sum for a lunatic pauper, although the trouble and expense might be greater; and that the term pauper, in the statute, includes lunatic paupers. Macoupin County v. Edwards, 15 Ill. 197.

(1.) SECTION I. The governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, shall appoint three inspectors of the penitentiary, who shall hold their offices for the term of two years, and until others are in like manner appointed and qualified.

(2.) SEC. II. The said inspectors, or a majority of them, shall have power, and it shall be their duty, from time to time, to examine and inquire into all matters connected with the government, discipline and police of the penitentiary at Alton, which is committed to their care; the punishment and employment of the prisoners therein confined; the moneyed concerns and contracts for work to complete the penitentiary, and the purchase and sale of the articles provided for the said penitentiary, or sold on the account thereof: they shall have power to make rules and regulations for the management of the said penitentiary and the officers therein employed, and to require the warden, from time to time, to render a minute and full account of all the expenditures, with the receipts and other transactions of and concerning the said penitentiary.

(3.) SEC. III. The said inspectors shall keep regular minutes of their proceedings, and shall, at the meeting of each General Assembly, make a full report of the situation of the said penitentiary, and all things connected with the management of the same, the number of prisoners confined therein, the accounts, both of receipts and expenditures, and all proceedings by them as inspectors of the penitentiary for the preceding two years.

(4.) SEC. IV. The inspectors of the penitentiary are authorized and empowered to appoint a warden, and all inferior officers and agents in the said penitentiary, to superintend and manage the affairs of the same. The inspectors shall have power to revoke the appointment of the warden and inferior officers and agents, whenever, in their opinion, the interests of the State shall require it; but, unless so revoked, he shall hold his office for the term of two years, and until his successor is appointed and qualified.

(5.) SEC. V. For the purpose of preventing the escape of convicts, the warden, with the approbation of the inspectors, may employ three able-bodied and trusty men as prison guards, who shall alternately, under the direction of the warden, guard the prisoners, as well by night as by day; which number of prison guards may be increased by the inspectors, when the increased number of convicts shall render it necessary: Provided, That not more than three guards shall be employed, unless the number of convicts shall amount to forty.

(6.) SEC. VI. On failure to realize from the labor of the convicts confined in said penitentiary, a sum sufficient to defray the incidental expenses of the same and support the convicts, the inspectors shall have power to draw on the auditor for a sum, not exceeding fifteen hundred dollars per annum, to supply the deficiency.

(7.) SEC. VII. The warden shall receive a salary, at the rate of one thousand dollars a year, payable quarterly out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated; but if any convicts shall escape from said penitentiary during his continuance in office, a deduction of thirty dollars shall be made from his salary, for every convict so escaping.

(8.) SEC. VIII. The inspectors shall meet at the penitentiary on the first Monday of every month, at such hour as they shall appoint. They shall appoint one of their number to act as secretary, who shall enter in a book to be provided for the purpose, all orders, regulations and other transactions of the board.

(9.) SEC. IX. One of the inspectors, to be designated by the board, shall visit the penitentiary once a week; and each inspector may visit the penitentiary as often as he shall think necessary.

(10.) SEC. X. At every monthly meeting of the board of inspectors, the superintendent shall make a report of the receipts, expenses and condition of the penitentiary during the preceding month.

(11.) SEC. XI. The inspectors shall establish and maintain a rigid system of police in the penitentiary; and, so far as practicable, they shall prevent any conversation between the convicts.

(12.) SEC. XII. The inspectors are authorized to furnish, at the expense of the State, a copy of the Bible to each convict who is able and willing to read the same.

(13.) SEC. XIII. The warden is authorized, under the direction of the inspectors, to procure, at the expense of the State, a book or books, in which he shall keep a descriptive list of all the convicts, stating their age, place of birth, place and time of conviction, crime of which they were convicted, duration of sentence, time of reception into the penitentiary, trade, business or profession, former habits of life, whether married or unmarried, and such other particulars as the inspectors may direct.

(14.) SEC. XIV. The inspectors are authorized, if, in their opinion, the public interest will be promoted thereby, to cause a separate account to be opened by the warden with each convict, in which such convict shall be credited with all the extra work which he may perform, and charged for all the time he may lose by refusal to labor, or misconduct of any kind.

(15.) SEC. XV. At the close of each week, the warden shall make an entry in a book to be kept for that purpose, of the good or bad behavior of each convict during the week; also, of the state of such convict's health, and such other particulars as, in the opinion of the inspectors, it may be useful for them to know.

(16.) SEC. XVI. The inspectors are authorized, if they shall deem it expedient, to allow compensation to the convicts for work performed over and above the quantity usually required of workmen, such compensation to be applied, under the direction of the inspectors, in supplying such convicts with useful reading; to the support of their families, if they have any; or it may be placed to their credit, and paid to them when they are discharged from the penitentiary.

(17.) SEC. XVII. No inspector of the penitentiary shall become personally interested, either directly or indirectly, in any purchase, sale, lease or contract of any kind, to be entered into by the board of inspectors, on behalf of the State, with any person or persons whomsoever, under a penalty of two hundred dollars.

(18.) SEC. XVIII. Before entering upon the the duties of their respective offices, the inspectors and warden of the penitentiary shall severally take and subscribe an oath to support the constitution of the United States and of this State, and faithfully to perform the duties of their respective offices according to law and to the best of their ability. Such oaths may be administered by any judge, justice of the peace or notary public, of this State, and shall be transmitted by the inspectors to the secretary of State, and filed in his office.

(19.) SEC. XIX. Each of the inspectors of the penitentiary, before entering upon the duties of his office, shall execute a bond to the governor, for the use of the people of this State, in the penal sum of five thousand dollars, with sufficient sureties, to be approved by the judge of the second judicial circuit, with the condition that such inspector shall faithfully perform the duties of his office according to law; which bond shall be transmitted by the inspectors to the secretary of State, and filed in his office.

(20.) SEC. XX. The warden of the penitentiary, before entering upon the duties of his office, shall execute a bond to the governor, for the use of the people of this State, in the penal sum of ten thousand dollars, with sufficient sureties, approved by the judge of the second judicial circuit, conditioned that the said warden shall faithfully and truly perform the duties of said office according to law.

(21.) SEC. XXI. No spirituous liquors shall be given or furnished to any convict, unless prescribed by a physician.

(22.) SEC. XXII. The inspectors of the penitentiary are hereby authorized, if, in their opinion, the interests of the State will be promoted thereby, to lease the penitentiary and the labor of the convicts, for a term of years, not exceeding three, to some qualified and responsible person, who shall thenceforth, during the continuance of the lease, be the warden of the penitentiary, and shall perform all the duties required of that officer by law; such lessee being required to furnish all necessary food, clothing and bedding for the convicts; to hire all the necessary guards; and in all respects, to manage the affairs of the penitentiary in such a manner as best to promote the reformation, improvement and health of the convicts: Provided, That the penitentiary shall not be leased for a longer term than three years, nor upon any terms which will make the penitentiary a cost to the State.

(23.) SEC. XXIII. No contract shall be entered into by the inspectors with any lessee, which will restrain or affect the power of the executive to pardon any convict confined in the penitentiary, or to grant the lessee any remuneration in consequence of the exercise of the pardoning power.

(24.) SEC. XXIV. No contract which may be entered into by the inspectors with any lessee, shall be so construed as to interfere with the right of the State to remove the convicts to another building hereafter to be erected; but the right to make such removal is hereby reserved, and when such removal shall have been made, the lease herein provided for shall no longer attach to the present penitentiary buildings, but shall thenceforth attach and apply to such new penitentiary.

(25.) SEC. XXV. Triplicate copies of such lease shall be executed by the parties; one copy of which shall be kept by the lessee, one retained by the inspectors, and the other copy shall be transmitted by them to the secretary of State, and filed in his office.

(26.) SEC. XXVI. The person who may become warden of the penitentiary, by virtue of a lease as herein provided, shall be required to take an oath of office, and give bond as in other cases, but shall receive no salary or other compensation, except such as shall be stipulated in such lease.

(27.) SEC. XXVII. No lease entered into by the inspectors in pursuance of this chapter, shall be transferable by the lessee without the written assent of the inspectors.

(28.) SEC. XXVIII. Before executing any lease of the penitentiary, and of the labor of the convicts, the inspectors shall appoint a day on which they will receive written proposals for such lease; and they shall cause four weeks' notice to be given of the same, by advertisement in the newspapers published at Alton, and in the newspaper published by the State printer. In deciding upon the proposals received, the inspectors shall take into consideration the qualifications and ability of the persons offering the same.

(29.) SEC. XXIX. No warden of the penitentiary, unless he is also the lessee thereof, shall become personally interested, either directly or indirectly, in any purchase, sale or contract to be entered into by the board of inspectors on behalf of the State, with any person or persons whomsoever, under a penalty of two hundred dollars.

(30.) SEC. XXX. The governor shall have power to remove from office any inspector of the penitentiary for misconduct or long continued neglect of the duties of his office, and to appoint another person to fill the vacancy, until the end of the next succeeding session of the General Assembly.

(31.) SEC. XXXI. Whenever the inspectors shall lease the penitentiary, they shall make an inventory of all the tools and all the manufactured articles and raw materials belonging to the penitentiary, and fix upon them such prices as, in their judgment, they will readily sell for; a copy of which inventory shall be signed by the inspectors, and filed in the office of the auditor of public accounts.

(32.) SEC. XXXII. The lessee of the penitentiary may receive such property at said valuation, on a credit of one year, by securing the payment of the same. If he declines to receive it on these terms, the inspectors shall have power to dispose of such property on the best terms they can procure.

(33.) SEC. XXXIII. If the inspectors of the penitentiary shall fail to lease the penitentiary within a reasonable time, they shall be authorized to draw on the auditor of public accounts for a sum not exceeding three thousand dollars, payable out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated; which sum shall be applied exclusively to the purchase of materials for making barrels and other articles, the manufacture of which, at the penitentiary, may be considered by the inspectors advantageous to the State.

(34.) SEC. XXXIV. The said inspectors shall each receive the sum of two dollars per day, for each day they may be necessarily employed in the discharge of the duties of their office: Provided, That the same shall not exceed fifty dollars in the course of any one year.

(35.) SEC. XXXV. All persons sentenced to hard labor, or solitary imprisonment and hard labor, shall be imprisoned, restrained and employed in and within the precincts of the penitentiary, located at the city of Alton, in the county of Madison; and the court before whom any such conviction may be had, is hereby authorized and empowered by its order on the sheriff of the county where such conviction is had, to cause all such convicts, as soon as conveniently may be after sentence, to be removed from the jail of such county, to the said penitentiary; and the sheriff of the county in which such conviction may be had, is hereby authorized and required, by himself or his deputies, to remove such convicts to the penitentiary accordingly, and deliver such convicts into the custody of the warden or other officer, who may have charge of said penitentiary; and the said sheriff, or his deputies shall have all the power of sheriffs and deputies in all counties in this State, which they may enter into or pass through for the purpose of conveying such convicts to the penitentiary aforesaid; and it shall be the duty of the clerk of the court before whom such conviction may be had, to make out and deliver to the sheriff of the county, a copy of said conviction and judgment, and order thereon; and the said sheriff or deputy shall leave an attested copy thereof, with a copy of his return thereon, with the warden or other officer having the charge or custody of said penitentiary, and the sheriff shall make due return to the court of its said order.

(36.) SEC. XXXVI. It shall be the duty of the sheriff of the county where the conviction was had, to supply a sufficient force to guard all convicts to the penitentiary; and the sheriff shall be responsible for the safe delivery of such convicts. A failure to deliver the same, shall be a breach of duty in the official conduct of such sheriff, for which he may be indicted in any county, as in other cases of misconduct in office. The said sheriff shall be allowed thirty cents for each mile necessarily traveled in going to the penitentiary with each convict, when taken separately, but when more than one convict shall be sentenced to the penitentiary at the same term of the court, twenty-five cents per mile shall be allowed for the second, and the same compensation for any greater number of convicts sentenced at the same term of the court, to be paid out of the State treasury, on the warrant of the auditor, which shall be issued in favor of such sheriff, on the presentation of the warden's certificate that such convict or convicts had been delivered into his custody by such sheriff; and which shall be in full compensation for all charges and expenses of himself and guards, in conveying such convict or convicts to the penitentiary.

(37.) SEC. XXXVII. It shall be the duty of the warden or officer having charge or custody of said penitentiary, to receive such persons as may be convicted, sentenced and ordered to be imprisoned in said penitentiary, and them safely keep at hard labor, or solitary confinement and hard labor, within the precincts of said penitentiary, pursuant to their sentence, until their time shall fully expire, or they be otherwise discharged by due course of law. The said warden or officer having charge or custody of said penitentiary and the convicts therein confined, shall not, under any circumstances whatever, permit or suffer any convict to leave the prison or yard connected therewith, for any purpose whatever, excepting in working in the stone quarry belonging to the State and connected with said prison, at such times as additions may be making to the prison buildings or walls connected therewith; in assisting in the conveyance of articles manufactured in the prison, to the landing in front of the penitentiary; and in the unloading of boats of such articles and materials as may be intended for the use of the penitentiary, and in the conveyance of any such articles to the same: Provided, however, That in case of any accident happening to the prison, or the walls thereof, the inspectors may permit and direct the removal of the convicts confined therein, or any part of the same, to any other place of security, for such length of time as they may deem necessary, or until such repairs shall be made to said prison; and in the event of any contagious disease breaking out among the convicts in said prison, the inspectors may, if they deem it necessary, order and direct that such diseased convict or convicts be removed to some safe and secure place, where they shall receive such medical treatment and nursing as their circumstances may require; and as soon as their health will permit, and the safety and health of the other convicts will not be endangered thereby, said convicts shall be returned to their confinement in said prison, to serve out their time pursuant to their sentence.

(38.) SEC. XXXVIII. If at any time the warden or officer having charge of said penitentiary, and the convicts confined therein, shall violate any of the provisions of the foregoing section of this chapter, such officer shall, on conviction, be fined in a sum not less than five nor more than eight hundred dollars for each and every violation, and the judge of the second judicial circuit shall give this chapter in charge to the grand jury, at every term of the circuit court of Madison county.

(39.) SEC. XXXIX. The using of the lash in the infliction of punishment upon convicts, is hereby expressly forbidden, (unless sanctioned and ordered by the inspectors,) and it shall be their duty to examine into all disorderly conduct of the convicts, when requested by the warden, and when it shall appear that any convict has been disorderly, refractory or disobedient, they may order such corporal punishment as they may deem necessary to enforce obedience, not inconsistent with humanity.

An Act to Lease the Penitentiary.

[Approved March 1, 1845. Laws, 1845, p. 105. App. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 582.]

First. The said lease herein authorized and granted, shall take effect and the term thereof commence from and after the tenth day of June, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and forty-five, and shall continue to the said S. A. Buckmaster, his executors, administrators and assigns, for a period of eight years from the commencement of the same, and until the tenth day of June, A. D. eighteen hundred and fifty three, unless sooner avoided, for reasons specified in this act.

Second. The said lessee shall pay, annually, into the treasury of the State, a bonus of five thousand and one hundred dollars, which said bonus shall be paid in gold, silver, auditor's warrants, or in other State indebtedness, at its current value at the time of paying the same; the first payment of five thousand and one hundred dollars to be made on the tenth day of June, A. D. eighteen hundred and forty-six; and a like sum of five thousand and one hundred dollars, per annum, on the tenth day of June, of every year thereafter, during the continuance of said lease, and until the entire rent herein stipulated for and reserved shall have been paid: Provided, That the said bonus accruing for the last year of said term shall be paid in advance.

Third. The said lessee, within one year from the commencement of the term herein granted and authorized, shall apply the labor of one-fourth of the convicts confined in said penitentiary, to the manufacture of hempen articles; and within two years from the commencement of the said term, the said lessee shall divert and apply the labor of a majority of the said convicts to the said manufacture of hempen articles; and during the remainder of the said term, the labor of a major part of the convicts who may be from time to time confined in the said penitentiary, shall be applied entirely and exclusively to the manufacture of hempen articles, and to no other employment or purpose whatever.

Fourth. The said lessee, in addition to the bonus hereinbefore prescribed, shall pay the usual fees of the inspectors, shall furnish, at his own expense, the necessary guards, shall feed and clothe the convicts, and furnish all necessary beds and bedding for the cells, and all necessary bills of physicians, and shall save the State harmless from all expense by reason of any of the items specified in this article.

Fifth. The said lessee shall enter into bond, conditioned to abide by and comply with all the provisions of this act, so far as they shall apply to the duties to be performed by said lessee; which bond shall be made to the people of the State of Illinois, in the penal sum of twenty thousand dollars, with Washington Libby, Robert Ferguson, Lansing T. Wells, Lewis J. Clanson, B. C. Webster & Co., James L. Lamb, Wm. Tyler Brown, or such of them as shall be approved and deemed sufficient by the governor, as his securities; which said bond shall be executed within ten days after the passage of this act, and shall be filed with the secretary of State, and shall be renewable every two years, or oftener, if, in the opinion of the inspectors, the securities become insufficient to secure the interests of the State, with such securities as the governor for the time being shall approve.

Sixth. The said lessee, his executors, administrators or assigns, shall be bound by all the provisions of this act; and if at any time for a period of thirty days after the same shall become due and payable, the yearly bonus, as herein provided, shall remain unpaid, or the said lessee shall fail to comply with any of its substantial provisions, the lease hereby granted shall therefor become forfeited: Provided, That the said lessee and his securities shall not be released from the amount of any bonus due at the time that the said penitentiary shall be resumed by the State, by reason of said forfeiture, nor from any loss that may accrue to the State by reason of a less bonus being obtained upon a re-letting of the same.

Seventh. The said S. A. Buckmaster, by virtue of this act, shall be warden of the said penitentiary, and shall take an oath, possess all the right, and perform all the duties of warden of the said penitentiary, as is now provided by law; and all laws not coming within the purview of this act, respecting the power of the inspectors and the police and management of the said penitentiary, and such other laws, not inconsistent with the terms of this act, as the legislature may, from time to time, prescribe for the welfare and reformation of the said convicts, shall be in force and binding upon the said warden and lessee.

Eighth. If the said lessee shall be called upon by the State, during the term of the said lease, to construct a warden's house, the said lessee shall be and hereby is bound to construct the same complete, according to the original plan, for the sum of three thousand dollars, to be deducted from the said sum of five thousand one hundred dollars, accruing for the year when such warden's house shall be built.

Ninth. All laws coming within the purview of this act, and all laws that authorize the inspectors of the penitentiary to lease the same, and appropriate the proceeds of said lease to any purpose, are hereby repealed. This act shall be in force from and after its passage.

An Act concerning the Penitentiary.

(42.) SEC. II. The said inspectors shall proceed in the execution of said works, in such a manner as to have those first completed which may be most needed, keeping in view the necessity of having the hospital in a state of readiness for the approaching sickly season; and also the accrual of the bonus due and to become due, by the lessee of said prison to the State, out of which the expenses for the improvements contemplated in the preceding section are to be paid: Provided, That the expenditures herein authorized shall, in no event, exceed the bonus due and to become due to the State from the present lessee.

(43.) SEC. III. The said inspectors shall contract, on the best terms they can, for the erection and completion of the works set forth in the first section of this act, and in so doing shall require the contract to be reduced to writing, in which shall be stated particularly the time and manner in which the same shall be completed, and that it shall be finished in a substantial and workmanlike manner; and in case the work should be let to any other person than the lessee of said penitentiary, bond and security shall be required for its faithful performance, according to the terms of the contract.

(44.) SEC. IV. The lessee of said penitentiary may also contract for said work, and in case it is adjudged to him by said inspectors, the work shall be estimated by three mechanics, one to be chosen by said lessee, the other by said inspectors, and they two shall choose a third, by whom the value of the work shall be estimated under oath; and the said inspectors shall have the right to elect whether they will pay for said work according to the contract with said lessee, or the estimation thereof; and the lessee shall have the right to employ any of the convicts in said prison in the construction of said work; and the said inspectors may give to said lessee, certificates stating the value of the work done by said lessee, according to their judgment, as the said work progresses, which he may file with the treasurer of State, which shall be considered as so much money paid by said lessee into the State treasury; but which shall not be deemed final and conclusive between the parties, but shall abide the election of the said inspectors as to the choice of payment.

(45.) SEC. V. Should the contract authorized to be made by this act not be taken by the lessee, the persons who may do the work, shall receive from the inspectors, certificates of the amount of work done from time to time, and which certificates shall be paid by the lessee out of the bonus due to the State, and which certificates when returned to the treasurer, shall be in full for the bonus due to the State, so far as said certificates may go.

(46.) SEC. VI. The said warden shall not place convicts for slight offenses in the same cell with those guilty of enormous crimes.

(47.) SEC. VII. The convicts in said penitentiary shall be provided with comfortable seats at tables ranged crosswise of the said dining room, for their accommodation while at meals and during divine service.

(48.) SEC. VIII. The said warden shall be required to have and preserve a record of the convicts received hereafter, their names and description, the counties from whence sent, the crimes for which they were convicted, the term of time for which they were sentenced, the country and State in which they were born, and the nature and degree of their education, together with such other information as he shall deem necessary, and he shall report the same to each session of the legislature; he shall also keep a journal of the number of violations of the regulations of said prison, and the nature and extent of the punishment therefor, an abstract of which shall be reported at the same time.

(49.) SEC. IX. The physician in attendance upon said prison shall be required to report to the warden, who shall report to the legislature at each session, a list of the names and ages of those who may die, with the nature and description of the disease, together with such other information as he may deem important.

(50.) SEC. X. The said warden, under the direction of the inspectors, shall allow to each person, upon the expiration of his term of service, either by pardon or lapse of time, such sum of money as may be deemed suited to his wants, and also a comfortable suit of citizen's clothes suited to his condition, if the said person have not such clothes of his own.

(51.) SEC. XI. The said inspectors shall procure some suitable person to perform divine service every Sabbath day, at least once, for the benefit of said convicts, for which they shall allow the sum of five dollars per week; and [in] case of sickness of any convict, upon his request to that effect, any clergyman or other religious person, of any denomination designated by him, shall be procured, if possible, to administer such spiritual consolation as such convict may need.

(52.) SEC. XII. The inspector shall give a certificate to said person officiating as chaplain of said prison, stating the amount due to him, which shall be paid by the warden and deducted out of his bonus.

(53.) SEC. XIII. The inspectors shall allow to the persons selected to appraise the work done pursuant to the provisions of this act, such compensation as they may deem suitable, which shall be paid out of any funds belonging to said penitentiary, or by the said warden, and their receipt shall be allowed him as credit in his settlement with the State.

(54.) SEC. XIV. The city of Alton shall not have any control over the penitentiary landing except for police regulations and wharfage purposes, and for keeping the same in repair, reserving to the State and the lessee of the penitentiary all rights belonging to them therein.

(55.) SEC. XV. The warden of the penitentiary shall not be allowed, in any event, more than three thousand dollars for building the warden's house, in conformity with the provisions of the eighth section of an act entitled "An act to lease the penitentiary," approved March 1st, 1845.

(56.) SEC. XVI. The warden of the penitentiary shall keep an exact account of the money paid and the value of clothes furnished to discharged convicts, under the provisions of this act, and shall be allowed to deduct the same out of [the] bonus due by him to the State: Provided, That the inspectors shall first pass upon the correctness of said account, and allow the same.

(57.) SEC. XVII. The warden shall see that said convicts are brought out every Sabbath day to attend divine service, as prescribed in this act, except in cases of probable insurrection or other imminent danger.

(58.) SEC. XVIII. That fifty dollars a year, to be paid out of the bonus, be appropriated for the purchase of such books as the inspectors may designate for the use of said convicts, which said money is also to be expended by the inspectors, and that all books donated to the use of the convicts, shall be applied and kept by the warden for the purpose for which they were donated, and for no other purpose whatever.

(59.) SEC. XIX. No forfeiture shall accrue against said lessee by reason of his not employing any greater number of hands in the manufacture of hempen articles than are now employed for that purpose.

(60.) SEC. XX. This act shall be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to provide for Improvements to the Penitentiary.

[Approved Feb. 3, 1849 Laws, 1849, p. 101.]

(62.) SEC. II. The said inspectors shall take and have properly executed and recorded a deed in favor of the State of Illinois, in fee simple, for said lots when purchased as aforesaid.

(63.) SEC. III. Said inspectors shall have power and are hereby authorized, to sell and dispose of, to the highest and best bidder, for cash or on credit, as they deem proper, the gore or tract of land lying on the south side of Second or Short street, being a part of the wharfage ground belonging to said penitentiary: Provided, The same shall not be sold for less than the value set upon it by the said inspectors. The governor is hereby authorized to make out a patent to the purchaser or purchasers thereof, upon being satisfied from the certificate of the said inspectors, or a majority thereof, of the payment of the money as agreed upon.

(64.) SEC. IV. Be it further enacted, That the inspectors of the prison be authorized, and the same are hereby authorized, to contract with the present warden for the erection of a wall, commencing at the north-east corner of the penitentiary yard, running north one hundred and sixty-three feet, thence west three hundred and thirty feet, thence south one hundred and sixty-three feet, to the north-west corner of aforesaid yard; the said wall to be thirty feet high and three and a half feet thick on an average, lattering from bottom to the top, the foundation of which shall be sunk three feet below the level of the grade of [the] prison yard, and securely bound together by regular bands running through said wall, and thoroughly grouted, so as to make it permanent and secure. The said wall shall be examined by three competent mechanics, whose decision shall be in accordance with this act; and if said appraisers shall decide that said wall is not in accordance with this act, then they shall state the amount which shall be deducted from the price as allowed by this act.

(65.) SEC. V. Be it further enacted, That the inspectors be and the same are hereby authorized to pay for the above-named wall, the sum of one dollar and twenty-five cents for every perch, to be paid out of rent of prison; and if said appraisers shall estimate the work below the sum named in this act, then such amount of appraisement shall be allowed, and no more.

(66.) SEC. VI. Be it further enacted, That the inspectors be and the same are hereby authorized to pay the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars to the warden of the prison, for building a wall in front of prison, three hundred and thirty feet long, five feet high and two thick, which shall be a good, firm wall; the same to be paid out of rents of prison.

(67.) SEC. VII. Be it further enacted, That the inspectors be and are hereby authorized to extend the lease, until the improvements contemplated in this act shall be paid for: Provided, nevertheless, That the time of lease shall not extend over one year beyond the present lease.

(68.) SEC. VIII. Be it further enacted, That should the lease be extended the above-named one year, the inspectors shall be and are hereby authorized to pay the balance in their hands to the contingent expenses, as the condition of the prison may require.

(69.) SEC. IX. Be it further enacted, That the governor be and hereby is authorized to appoint some suitable person as chaplain, who shall be paid from rents of said prison, as is now provided for by law.

(70.) SEC. X. Be it further enacted, That the chaplain shall not pass any letters, or other communication, to or from the prison, without the advice or consent of the warden of the prison.

(71.) SEC. XI. Be it further enacted, That this act be in full force and effect from and after its passage.

An Act to amend an Act entitled "An Act to Lease the Penitentiary," approved March 1st, 1845.

[Approved Jan. 31, 1851. Laws, 1851, p. 13.]

(73.) SEC. II. The said Samuel A. Buckmaster shall pay, annually, the sum of five thousand and one hundred dollars bonus, or rent, for said penitentiary, as is provided by section two of the act to which this is an amendment.

(74.) SEC. III. The said Samuel A. Buckmaster shall enter into bond, conditioned to comply with the provisions of this act, and the act to which this is an amendment; which bond shall be made to the people of the State of Illinois, in the penal sum of twenty thousand dollars, with good and sufficient securities, to be approved by the governor of this State; which bond shall be executed within thirty days after the passage of this act, and shall be renewable every two years, or oftener, if, in the opinion of the inspectors of the penitentiary, the securities become insufficient.

(75.) SEC. IV. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act in relation to the Penitentiary.

lessee, and the said treasurer shall give his receipt for the same, to apply on any bonus or rent due or to become due from said lessee to the State of Illinois.

(77.) SEC. II. The inspectors of the penitentiary are hereby authorized to make such improvements in the penitentiary as are recommended by their reports, or such as they may deem necessary, from time to time, to be made, or for the safe-keeping or successful working of the convicts: Provided, however, That they shall keep in view the bonus due or to become due from time to time, and that in no case shall they be allowed to draw on the treasury for making such improvements.

(78.) SEC. III. The guards of the penitentiary are by this [act] declared exempt from doing road labor, during their service as such guards.

(79.) SEC. IV. This act to take effect from and after its passage.

See 5th section of an act amendatory of, and supplemental to, an act therein named; approved Feb. 12, 1853. Laws, 1853, p. 177.

An Act in relation to the Penitentiary.

(81.) SEC. II. The inspectors of the penitentiary are also authorized to purchase a lot of ground, in some convenient place, without the limits of the city of Alton, not to exceed two acres, to be used by the penitentiary as a burial place for the convicts that die: Provided, That said ground shall not cost to exceed three hundred dollars.

(82.) SEC. III. The auditor of public accounts is hereby directed to draw his warrant on the treasurer, payable to the order of the inspectors of the penitentiary, for such sum or sums, and in such instalments, as the said inspectors may order, in payment for the improvements provided for in sections one and two of this act, which, when completed, shall not cost to exceed the sum of thirty-five thousand dollars, payable out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated by law.

(83.) SEC. IV. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

CHAPTER LXXXII.

PETITIONS.

SECTION

1. Notice to be published, of all petitions to the General Assembly, which affect the rights of counties or persons.
2. No county to be divided, or county seat removed, unless a majority of voters petition.
3. State roads, notice to be given of intended petition to alter or create.

SECTION

4. How petition to be signed and proved; and by whom certified.
5. People of county in which road is to be made, to petition therefor.
6. Certificate of regular notice having been given, to be made by the county commissioners' clerk.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 411.]

SECTION I. No petition or petitions shall be finally acted upon by the General Assembly, which prays for a change of county lines, the erection of new counties, the removal of the seat of justice of any county, or which may affect the rights and interests of any person or persons, unless the petitioner or petitioners shall have given four weeks' notice in some newspaper printed in this State, and a copy of said advertisement shall be put up on the courthouse door in said county, at least two months before such petition or petitions shall be presented to the General Assembly.

SEC. II. No county shall hereafter be divided, or county seat removed, unless it be done on a petition signed by a majority of the qualified voters of said county so to be divided or the county seat removed; which petition shall particularly describe the line or lines of division or curtailment so proposed, and the particular place to which such county seat is proposed to be removed.

SEC. III. When any of the citizens of this State shall deem the establishment or relocation of any State road to be of public utility, they, or some two of them, shall give four weeks' public notice, by at least four written notices posted up in the most public place in each county in which the proposed location, change or alteration is about to take place, that they will petition the next session of the legislature to establish or relocate such road; in which notice a particular description of the road shall be set forth.

SEC. IV. At least fifty householders and citizens of the county or counties through which said road shall pass, are necessary to sign the petition; and before the petition shall be presented to the legislature, the persons giving said notice, or other credible persons, shall make affidavit of such advertisements having been made as required by the preceding section, before the clerk of the court of any county through which the road may pass; a certificate of which shall be given by the clerk and accompany the petition.

SEC. V. No State road shall be established or relocated, except upon the petition of a portion of the citizens of the county in which the same is to be established or relocated.

SEC. VI. The clerks of the county commissioners' courts shall, severally, issue the certificates aforesaid, upon oath being made by any credible person that said notices were given according to the provisions of section three.

PRIOR LAWS. An act requiring persons who petition the General Assembly to give certain notices before such petitions are finally acted upon; approved Dec. 26, 1826. Gale's Statutes, p. 522; Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 479.

An act to define the manner of proceeding in petitioning the General Assembly, for locating or altering State roads; approved Feb. 27, 1839. Laws, 1839, p. 167.

DECISIONS. The legislature cannot abolish, change or remodel counties, or remove the county seats, without submitting the act to the vote of the inhabitants affected. People v. Marshall, 12 Ill. 391.

A law for the division or alteration of a county, conditioned to take effect upon a vote of the majority of the voters, is constitutional. 5 G. 1.

(1.) SECTION I. The first process in all actions to be hereafter commenced in any of the circuit courts of this State, shall be a summons, except actions where special bail may be required; which summons shall be issued under the seal of the court, tested in the name of the clerk of such court, dated on the day it shall be issued, and signed with his name; and shall be directed to the sheriff, (or if he be interested in the suit,) to the coroner of the county; and shall be made returnable on the first day of the next circuit court in which the action may be commenced.

(2.) SEC. II. It shall not be lawful for any plaintiff to sue a defendant out of the county where the latter resides, or may be found, except in cases where the debt, contract or cause of action accrued in the county of the plaintiff, or where the contract may have specifically been made payable; when it shall be lawful to sue in such county, and process may issue against the defendant to the sheriff of the county where he resides. And in every species of personal actions in law or equity, when there is more than one defendant, the plaintiff commencing his action, where either of them resides, may have a writ or writs issued, directed to any county or counties, where the other defendants or either of them may be found: Provided, That if a verdict shall not be found or judgment rendered against the defendant or defendants, resident in the county where the action is commenced, judgment shall not be rendered against those defendants who do not reside in the county, unless they appear and defend the action.

(3.) SEC. III. It shall be the duty of the sheriff or coroner to serve all process of summons or capias, when it shall be practicable, ten days before the return day thereof, and to make return of such process to the clerk who issued the same, by or on the return day, with an indorsement of his service, the time of serving it and the amount of his fees: Provided, That when such process shall have been directed to a foreign county, the officer executing the same, may make return thereof by mail; and the clerk may charge the postage and tax the amount in his fee bill.

(4.) SEC. IV. In all suits instituted against any incorporated company in this State, a summons returned executed on the president thereof, or served by leaving a copy of the summons with the principal clerk, cashier or secretary of such company, at his office, within such time and under such regulations as are herein provided for the service of such process in suits against natural persons, shall be deemed a sufficient service whereon to ground subsequent proceedings and judgment against such company, in any court of this State having jurisdiction: Provided, That the provisions of this section shall not be construed to interfere with any mode of suing counties, or other corporations specially provided in any statute law of this State.

(5.) SEC. V. If it shall not be in the power of such sheriff or coroner to serve such summons or capias, ten days before the return day thereof, he may execute the same at any time before or on the return day, but in such case the defendant or defendants shall be entitled to a continuance, and shall not be compelled to plead before the next succeeding term.

(6.) SEC. VI. Whenever it shall appear, by the return of the sheriff or coroner, that the defendant or defendants are not found, the clerk shall, at the request of the plaintiff, issue another summons or capias, (as the case may be,) and so on, until service be had, and the defendant or defendants be summoned or brought into court; and if such summons or capias be served on any one or more, but not on all of the defendants, the plaintiff or plaintiffs shall be at liberty to proceed to trial and judgment, in the same manner as if all the defendants were in court, and any judgment so obtained shall be valid against the defendant or defendants on whom the process had been served; and the plaintiff or plaintiffs may, at any time afterwards, have a summons in the nature of a scire facias, against the defendant or defendants not served with the first process as aforesaid, to cause him, her or them to appear in the said court and show cause why he, she or they should not be made a party to such judgment, and the court shall thereupon proceed to hear and determine the matter in the same manner as if such defendant or defendants had been originally summoned or brought into court; and such defendant or defendants shall also be allowed the benefit of any payment which may have been made on the judgment before recovered, and the judgment of the court against the defendant or defendants in such case, shall be that the plaintiff or plaintiffs recover against such defendant or defendants, together with the defendant or defendants in the former judgment, the amount of his debt or damages, as the case may be.

(7.) SEC. VII. If any sheriff or coroner to whom any summons or capias shall be delivered, shall neglect or refuse to make return of the same, before or on the return day of such process, the plaintiff may enter a rule requiring said sheriff or coroner to make return of such process on a day to be fixed by the court, or to show cause on that day, why he should not be attached for a contempt of the court; and the plaintiff shall, thereupon, cause a written notice of such rule to be served on such sheriff or coroner, and if good and sufficient cause be not shown to excuse such officer, the court shall adjudge him guilty of a contempt; and shall proceed to punish such officer as in other cases of contempt.

(8.) SEC. VIII. If the plaintiff shall not file his declaration, together with a copy of the instrument of writing or account on which the action is brought, in case the same be brought on a written instrument or account, ten days before the court at which the summons or capias is made returnable, the court, on motion of the defendant, shall continue the cause at the cost of the plaintiff, unless it shall appear that the suit was commenced within ten days of the sitting of the court, in which case the cause shall be continued without costs, unless the parties shall agree to have a trial; and if no declaration shall be filed ten days before the second term of the court, the defendant shall be entitled to a judgment as in case of a nonsuit.

(9.) SEC. IX. The clerks of the circuit courts shall keep a docket of all the causes pending in their respective courts, in which shall be entered the names of the parties, the cause of action, and the name of the plaintiff's attorney, and he shall furnish the judge and bar at each term, with a copy of the same, in which all indictments and causes to which the people may be a party, shall be first set down, after which shall be set down all cases in law, in order, according to the date of their commencement, and lastly, the suits in chancery; and the clerk shall also set and apportion the causes for as many days of the term as he may think necessary, or be directed by the judge; and all subpoenas for witnesses shall be made returnable on the day on which the cause in which the witnesses are to be called, is set for trial.

(10.) SEC. X. The clerks shall, from time to time, issue subpoenas for such witnesses as may be required by either party, returnable on the day for which the cause in which they are required to attend, is set for trial, and every clerk who shall refuse so to do, shall be fined, at the discretion of the court, in any sum not exceeding one hundred dollars.

(11.) SEC. XI. In all cases pending in any circuit court in this State, if both the parties shall agree, both matters of law and fact may be tried by the court.

(12.) SEC. XII. The several circuit courts shall have power, in any action pending before them, upon motion, and good and sufficient cause shown, and reasonable notice thereof given, to require the parties, or either of them, to produce books and writings in their possession or power, which contain evidence pertinent to the issue; and it shall be the duty of the defendant or defendants, in all cases where he, she or they intend to prove, on the trial, any accounts or demands against the plaintiff or plaintiffs, to file with his plea, a bill of the particular items of such accounts or demands, and no other accounts or demands shall be suffered to be proved to the jury.

(13.) SEC. XIII. On the appearance of the defendant or defendants, the court may allow such time to plead as may be deemed reasonable and necessary, and for want of appearance, may give judgment by default on calling the cause, except in cases where the process has not been served, or declaration filed, ten days before the term of the court; but all the causes shall be tried or otherwise disposed of in the order they are placed on the docket, unless the court, for good and sufficient cause, shall otherwise direct. And whenever either party shall apply for the continuance of a cause on account of the absence of testimony, the motion shall be grounded on the affidavit of the party so applying, or his, her or their authorized agent, showing that due diligence has been used to obtain such testimony, or the want of time to obtain it; and also the name and residence of the witness or witnesses, and what particular fact or facts the party expects to prove by such witness or witnesses; and should the court be satisfied that such evidence would not be material on the trial of the cause, or if the opposite party will admit the fact or facts stated in the affidavit, the cause shall not be continued.

(14.) SEC. XIV. The defendant may plead as many matters of fact in several pleas as he may deem necessary for his defense, or may plead the general issue, and give notice in writing under the same, of the special matters intended to be relied on for a defense on the trial; under which notice, if adjudged by the court to be sufficiently clear and explicit, the defendant shall be permitted to give evidence of the facts therein stated, as if the same had been specially pleaded and issue taken thereon; and whenever it shall become necessary for the attainment of justice, to allow a plaintiff to reply several matters to the plea of a defendant, or to allow a defendant to rejoin several matters to the replication of a plaintiff, the court in which the action shall be pending, on the special application of the party desiring so to reply or rejoin, may allow the same to be done. But no person shall be permitted to deny on trial, the execution of any instrument in writing, whether sealed or not, upon which any action may have been brought, or which shall be pleaded or set up by way of defense or set-off, unless the person so denying the same, shall, if defendant, verify his plea by affidavit, and if plaintiff, file his or her affidavit denying the execution of such instrument: Provided, If the party making such denial, be prosecuting or sued as executor or administrator, it shall be sufficient to state in such affidavit, the belief of the party making the same, according to his or her best knowledge, that such instrument was not executed by the testator or intestate.

(15.) SEC. XV. In all cases where interlocutory judgment shall be given in any action brought upon a penal bond, or upon any instrument of writing for the payment of money only, and the damages rest in computation, the court may refer it to the clerk to assess and report the damages, and may enter the final judgment therefor, without a writ of inquiry, and without empanneling a jury for that purpose; and in all other actions, when judgment shall go by default, the plaintiff may have his damages assessed by the jury in court.

(16.) SEC. XVI. The court may, in its discretion, before final judgment, set aside any default, upon good and sufficient cause, upon affidavit, upon such terms and conditions as shall be deemed reasonable.

(17.) SEC. XVII. All affidavits read in court during the progress of any cause, and relating thereto, shall be filed and preserved by the clerk.

(18.) SEC. XVIII. In actions brought on penal bonds, conditioned for the performance of covenants, the plaintiff may assign in his declaration as many breaches as he may think fit, and the jury, whether on trial of the issue or of inquiry, shall assess the damages for so many breaches as the plaintiff shall prove, and the judgment for the penalty shall stand as a security for such other breaches as may afterwards happen, and the plaintiff may, at any time afterwards, sue out a writ of inquiry, to assess damages for the breach of any covenant or covenants contained in such bond, subsequent to the former trial or inquiry; and whenever execution shall be issued on such judgment, the clerk shall indorse thereon the amount of the damages assessed by the jury, with the costs of suit, and the sheriff or coronor shall only collect the amount so indorsed: Provided, That in all cases where a writ of inquiry of damages shall be issued for any such breaches subsequent to the first trial or inquiry, the defendant, or his agent or attorney, shall have at least ten days' notice, in writing, of the time of executing the same.

(19.) SEC. XIX. The defendant or defendants, in any action brought upon any contract or agreement, either express or implied, having claims or demands against the plaintiff or plaintiffs in such action, may plead the same, or give notice thereof under the general issue, as is provided in the fourteenth section of this chapter, or under the plea of payment; and the same, or such part thereof as the defendant or defendants shall prove on trial, shall be set off and allowed against the plaintiff's demand, and a verdict shall be given for the balance due; and if it shall appear that the plaintiff be indebted to the defendant, the jury shall find a verdict for the defendant or defendants, and certify to the court the amount so found; and the court shall give judgment in favor of such defendant or defendants, for the amount so certified, with the costs of his defense, and execution shall be issued on such judgment, as in other cases.

(20.) SEC. XX. In all civil actions, each party shall be entitled to a challenge of three jurors, without showing cause for such challenge; and when the jury retire to consider their verdict, they shall be permitted to take any papers that may have been used as evidence on the trial.

(21.) SEC. XXI. If, during the progress of any trial in any civil cause, either party shall allege an exception to the opinion of the court, and reduce the same to writing, it shall be the duty of the judge to allow the said exception, and to sign and seal the same; and the said exception shall thereupon become a part of the record of such cause.

(22.) SEC. XXII. Exceptions taken to opinions and decisions of the circuit courts upon the trial of causes, in which the parties agree that both matters of law and fact may be tried by the court, and in appeal cases tried by the court without the intervention of a jury, shall be deemed and held to have been properly taken and allowed, and the party excepting may assign for error before the supreme court, any decision or opinion so excepted to, whether such exception relates to receiving improper or rejecting proper testimony, or to the final judgment of the court upon the law and evidence.

(23.) SEC. XXIII. Exceptions taken to opinions or decisions of the circuit courts, overruling motions in arrest of judgment, motions for new trials and for continuances of causes, shall be allowed; and the party excepting may assign for error any opinion so excepted to.

(24.) SEC. XXIV. It shall be sufficient for the jury to pronounce their verdict, by their foreman, in open court, without reducing the same to writing, and the clerk shall enter the same in form, under the direction of the court; and if either party may wish to except to the verdict, or for other causes to move for a new trial or in arrest of judgment, he shall, before final judgment be entered, give, by himself or counsel, to the opposite party or his counsel, the points in writing, particularly specifying the grounds of such motion, and shall also furnish the judge with a copy of the same, and final judgment shall thereupon be stayed until such motion can be heard by the court. But no more than two new trials shall be granted to the same party in the same cause; nor shall any verdict or judgment be set aside for irregularity only, unless cause be shown for the same, during the sitting of the court at the term such judgment or verdict shall be given.

(25.) SEC. XXV. Whenever an entire verdict shall be given on several counts, the same shall not be set aside or reversed, if any one or more of the counts be good. But if one or more counts be faulty, the defendant may apply to the court to instruct the jury to disregard such faulty counts.

(26.) SEC. XXVI. In cases of attachment against absent or absconding debtors, the attaching creditor or creditors shall, on the return of the attachment, or at the term of the court where the same is made returnable, file a declaration, with a copy of the instrument or account on which the attachment was issued, as in other cases; after which the cause shall proceed as in other cases; and if no declaration shall be filed, the defendant, on entering his appearance, shall have a judgment against the attaching creditor for costs.

(27.) SEC. XXVII. Any person, for a debt bona fide due, may confess judgment by himself or attorney duly authorized, without process, and every confession of judgment whether with or without process, shall operate as a release of all errors in the entering up of the judgment or making record thereof.

(28.) SEC. XXVIII. The circuit courts in charging the jury, shall only instruct as to the law of the case.

(29.) SEC. XXIX. Every person desirous of suffering a nonsuit on trial, shall be barred therefrom unless he do so before the jury retire from the bar.

(30.) SEC. XXX. Papers read in evidence, though not under seal, may be carried from the bar by the jury.

(31.) SEC. XXXI. Interpreters may be sworn truly to interpret when necessary.

(32.) SEC. XXXII. When judgment shall be arrested for any defect in the record of proceedings after the first process, the plaintiff shall not be compelled to commence his action anew; but the court shall order new pleadings to commence with the error that caused the arrest.

(33.) SEC. XXXIII. Any person holding a bond or note for the direct payment of property or money, desiring to put the same in suit, may elect to do so, by filing it with the clerk of any circuit court having jurisdiction thereof, together with a petition purporting as follows:

"F. Circuit, }
                  }    sect. . . . A. B., plaintiff, states that he holds a bond or note (as the case may be,) on the defendant, C. B., in substance as followeth: (here insert a copy of the bond or note,) yet the said debt remains unpaid; wherefore he prays judgment for his debt, and damages for the detention of the same, together with his costs."

(34.) SEC. XXXIV. If the plaintiff shall hold the bond or note as indorsee, then after reciting the bond or note, say:

"On which are the following assignments, (recite the assignments,) whereby the plaintiff hath become the proprietor thereof, of which the defendant hath had due notice."

(35.) SEC. XXXV. A copy of the petition shall be sent out, with a summons annexed thereto, requiring the defendant or defendants to appear and answer the said demand, which shall be executed by the sheriff, by delivering a copy of the petition and summons to the defendant, and each of them, if there be more than one.

(36.) SEC. XXXVI. The said petition shall stand in the place of a declaration. The defendant or defendants may appear and plead, and then an issue may be joined as in actions of debt on such bond or note; but if the defendant or defendants shall not appear and plead, the plaintiff may take judgment by default, and final judgment as in other cases.

(37.) SEC. XXXVII. When a petition shall have been filed according to the provisions of sections thirty-three and thirty-four of this chapter, and an affidavit to hold to bail, as herein provided, there shall be issued by the clerk (if he shall be satisfied there is good cause,) a capias and an order to hold to bail, as is now provided by law. In such cases the affidavit shall be, as near as may be, in the following form, to wit:

"STATE OF ILLINOIS, }
 County, } ss. A. B., plaintiff in the above petition, maketh oath and saith that he hath a real subsisting and unsatisfied cause of action against C. D., the defendant, which is the same cause of action set out in the above petition, and amounts to the sum of _____; and further, that the plaintiff will be in danger of losing his debt, unless the defendant be held to bail.

A. B.
 Sworn to, and subscribed before me, at my office, this _____ day of _____, 18—. E. F., Clerk."

Which affidavit may be made before the clerk of the proper county, or before any justice of the peace in this State.

(38.) SEC. XXXVIII. In all cases when a tender shall be made and full payment offered, by discount or otherwise, in specie, as the party by contract or agreement ought to do, and the party to whom such tender shall be made doth refuse the same, and yet afterwards will sue for the debt or goods so tendered, the plaintiff shall not recover any costs in such suit.

(39.) SEC. XXXIX. It shall not be necessary to file a declaration in any scire facias to revive a judgment, or foreclose a mortgage, in any court of record in this State.

(40.) SEC. XL. The clerks of the several circuit courts shall keep a fee book, in which shall be clearly and distinctly set down, in items under the proper title, the costs of each suit, including the sheriff's and witnesses', as well as the clerk's fees, noting distinctly what fees have accrued on the part of each party; which fee book shall be a public record; and whenever any suit shall be determined, and final judgment entered, the costs and charges of each party litigant shall be made up, and the costs of the prevailing party shall be included in the judgment; and the clerk shall always send out a bill of such costs with the execution; and the costs of the party failing in the suit shall be collected by fee bill, in the manner prescribed by law.

(41.) SEC. XLI. If any clerk shall issue a fee bill or a bill of costs with the execution, without first entering the same in his fee book, or if any such bill of costs or fee bill shall be so issued which shall not be in substance a copy of the recorded bill, the same shall be void; and any person having paid such bill of costs or fee bill, may recover from the clerk the amount thereof, with costs of suit, in any court having cognizance thereof; and in every bill of costs to be made and recorded as aforesaid, the names of the witnesses shall be stated, with the number of days each attended at every term.

(42.) SEC. XLII. It shall not be necessary to insert in the judgment other than the docket book, the costs of the prevailing party, except in cases where a complete record shall be required; but the fee book of the clerk shall be taken and deemed a part of the record; subject, however, at all times, to be corrected by the court.

(43.) SEC. XLIII. The clerks of the several circuit courts shall provide and keep in their respective offices, well-bound books for entering therein an alphabetical docket of all judgments and decrees rendered in their respective courts; and it shall be the duty of said clerks, during every term, or within thirty days thereafter, to enter in such docket all final judgments and decrees rendered at such term, in alphabetical order, by the name of the person against whom the judgment or decree was entered, which shall contain in columns, ruled for that purpose, the names of the parties, the date, the nature of the judgment or decree, the amount of the debt, damages and costs, the book and page in which it is entered, and leaving a blank column or columns for entering a note or memorandum of the satisfaction or other disposition thereof; and when any judgment or decree shall be satisfied by execution or otherwise, or shall be set aside, the said clerk shall enter a memorandum thereof in the column left for that purpose, showing how disposed of, and the date, book and page where the evidence thereof is recorded; and such dockets may be searched by persons at all reasonable times without fee. And every clerk who shall fail to keep such docket, or to enter therein any judgment or decree as aforesaid, shall forfeit and pay a sum, not exceeding one hundred dollars, nor less than twenty-five dollars, and costs of suit; the one-half to the use of the county where such court is held, and the other half to the use of any person who will sue for the same, to be recovered by action of debt in the circuit court.

(44.) SEC. XLIV. Whenever any sheriff or coroner shall neglect or refuse to make return of any execution to him directed and delivered, where the same shall be made returnable, or shall refuse or neglect to pay over any moneys collected on such execution, the party suing out such execution, on giving to said sheriff or coroner ten days' notice in writing, of his, her or their intention, may apply to the next circuit court for relief; and it shall be the duty of such court, on proof, by affidavit, of the delivery of such execution, if the same be not returned, or on proof that such money has been collected and not paid over, to grant an order against such sheriff or coroner, requiring him to make immediate return of such execution; or if the amount or any part thereof has been collected, to pay over the same immediately with twenty per cent. thereon from the time of collection till paid; and on failure of such sheriff or coroner to comply with such order on demand, and being served with a copy of the order, he shall be judged to be in contempt, and punished accordingly; or the plaintiff in such execution may have judgment for the money with twenty per cent. thereon so collected, and have execution as in other cases.

(45.) SEC. XLV. The clerk shall enter in a book, to be kept by him for the purpose, the return of the sheriff or coroner, of all executions, within thirty days after the same shall be returned, under the penalty imposed by the forty-third section of this chapter.

(46.) SEC. XLVI. A party out of term intending to move to set aside or quash any execution, replevin bond or other proceedings, may apply to the judge at his chamber for a certificate, (and which the said judge may in his discretion grant,) certifying that there is probable cause for staying further proceedings until the order of the court on the motion; and a service of a copy of the certificate at the time of or after the service of the notice of the motion, shall thenceforth stay all further proceedings accordingly.

(47.) SEC. XLVII. Appeals from the circuit courts to the supreme court, shall be allowed in all cases where the judgment or decree appealed from be final, and shall amount, exclusive of costs, to the sum of twenty dollars, or relate to a franchise or freehold: Provided, Such appeals be prayed for at the time of rendering the judgment or decree, and provided the party praying for such appeal shall, by himself or agent or attorney, give bond with sufficient security, to be approved by the circuit court, and filed in the office of the clerk of the circuit court within the time limited by the court; which bond shall be in a reasonable sum, sufficient to cover the amount of the judgment appealed from, and all costs, and conditioned for the payment of the judgments, costs, interest and damages, in case the judgment shall be affirmed, and also for the due prosecution of said appeal; and the obligee in such bond may, at any time, on a breach of the conditions thereof, have and maintain an action at law as on other bonds.

(48.) SEC. XLVIII. The appellant shall lodge, in the office of the clerk of the supreme court, an authenticated copy of the record of the judgment or decree appealed from, by or before the third day of the next succeeding term of said supreme court, provided that if there be not thirty days between the time of making the appeal and the sitting of the supreme court, then the record shall be lodged as aforesaid, at or before the third day of the next succeeding term of said supreme court, otherwise the said appeal shall be dismissed, unless further time to file the same shall have been granted by the supreme court upon good cause shown.

(49.) SEC. XLIX. In all cases of appeal and writs of error, the supreme court may give final judgment and issue execution, or remand the cause to the circuit court, in order that an execution may be there issued, or that other proceedings may be had thereon.

(50.) SEC. L. When an appeal or writ of error shall be prosecuted from the judgment of any circuit court of this State to the supreme court, and said appeal or writ of error shall be dismissed, or the judgment of the circuit court affirmed, it shall be the duty of the clerk of the circuit court from which said appeal or writ of error was prosecuted, upon a copy of the order of the supreme court dismissing said appeal or writ of error, or affirming said judgment, being filed in his office, to issue execution upon said judgment, and to proceed thereon in all respects as though no appeal or writ of error had been prosecuted from said judgment.

(51.) SEC. LI. In all cases where a judgment or decree shall be rendered in any circuit court, in any case whatever, either in law or in chancery, against two or more persons, either one of said persons shall be permitted to remove said suit to the supreme court by appeal or writ of error, and for that purpose shall be permitted to use the names of all said persons, if necessary; but no costs shall be taxed against any person who shall not join in said appeal or writ of error. And all such cases shall be determined in said supreme court as other suits are, and in the same manner that it would have been if all the parties had joined in said appeal or writ of error.

(52.) SEC. LII. The supreme court, in case of a partial reversal, shall give such judgment or decree as the inferior court ought to have given; or remand the cause to the inferior court for further proceedings, as the case may require.

(53.) SEC. LIII. A writ of error shall not be brought after the expiration of five years from the passing of the judgment complained of; but when a person thinking himself aggrieved by any decree or judgment that may be reversed in the supreme court, shall be an infant, feme covert, non compos mentis, or imprisoned, when the same was passed, the time of such disability shall be excluded from the computation of the said five years.

(54.) SEC. LIV. No writ of error shall operate as a supersedeas, unless the supreme court, or some justice thereof in vacation, after inspecting a copy of the record shall order the same to be made a supersedeas, nor until the party procuring such writ shall file a bond in the manner and with the condition required in cases of appeals; when the clerk issuing such writ shall indorse thereon that it shall be a supersedeas and operate accordingly; and the parties in writs of error shall be subject to the same judgment and mode of execution, as is provided in cases of appeals.

(55.) SEC. LV. Whenever the supreme court shall be equally divided in opinion on hearing an appeal or writ of error, the judgment of the court below shall stand affirmed.

(56.) SEC. LVI. Any instrument of writing, to which the maker shall affix a scrawl by way of seal, shall be of the same effect and obligation, to all intents, as if the same were sealed.

(57.) SEC. LVII. In all cases of appeals to the supreme court, where the appellant shall fail to prosecute the appeal, the supreme court shall, upon dismissing the appeal, enter judgment against the appellant, for not less than five nor more than ten per cent. upon the amount of the judgment, for damages, in consequence of the delay occasioned by such appeal.

(58.) SEC. LVIII. In cases of appeals to the circuit court, from judgments of justices of the peace, the appellee shall be entitled to judgment, not exceeding ten per cent. damages upon the amount of the judgment, if the appeal is dismissed for want of prosecution, or if the court shall be satisfied that the appeal was prosecuted for purposes of delay.

(59.) SEC. LIX. In actions upon bonds, notes and all other writings made assignable by law, in the name of the assignee, the plaintiff shall not be held bound to prove the assignments or the signature of any assignor unless the fact of assignment be put in issue by plea, verified by the affidavit of the defendant or some credible person, stating that he verily believes the facts stated in the plea are true.

An Act to amend the Practice Act.

(61.) SEC. II. And when instructions are asked which the judge cannot give, he shall, on the margin thereof, write the word "refused;" and such as he approves he shall write, on the margin thereof, the word "given;" and he shall in no case, after instructions are given, orally qualify, modify, or in any manner explain the same to the jury.

(62.) SEC. III. And such instructions, so given, shall be taken by the jury in their retirement, and returned by them, with their verdict, into court.

(63.) SEC. IV. That an act to regulate the salaries of justices of the supreme court hereafter to be elected, approved February the twelfth, eighteen hundred and forty-five, and so much of the forty-first chapter of the Revised Statutes as provides that the justices of the supreme court elected or appointed subsequently to February the twelfth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-five, shall each receive one thousand dollars, approved March the third, one thousand eight hundred and forty-five, be and the same are hereby repealed; and the twenty-sixth section of chapter twenty-nine of the Revised Statutes, approved March the third, one thousand eight hundred and forty-five, be, and the same is hereby, revived, from and after the first of January, one thousand eight hundred and forty-seven.

An Act concerning Practice.

[Approved March 1, 1847. Laws, 1847, p. 62.]

(65.) SEC. II. This act shall be in force from and after its passage.

An Act amendatory of the Practice Act.

[Approved Feb. 10, 1849. Laws, 1849, p. 102.]

In a declaration in slander, charging the defendant with having said of the plaintiff that "he had sworn a lie," there must be a colloquium, showing the occasion. Blair v. Sharp, Breese, 11.

A plea that a note was given without any consideration, is good, under the statute, and throws the burden of proof on the plaintiff. Pool v. Vanlandingham, Breese, 22. Contra, Stacker et al. v. Tyler, 1 S. 207.

Under the practice act of 1819, the sheriff was not authorized to assign bail bonds. Hunter v. Gilham, Breese, 51.

When there is a general demurrer to a declaration containing good and bad counts, the demurrer will be overruled. Lusk v. Cook, Breese, 53.

Debts to be set off must be mutual and due in the same right. Gregg v. James et al., Breese, 107.

A plea of payment is a good plea in an action of assumpsit; without it, evidence of counter demands cannot be received. Jones, Administrator, v. Francis, Breese, 125.

Suit is commenced against three persons, upon a joint liability; two are served with process, and one appears by attorney. Judgment should be given against all, or none. It is irregular to take judgment against the two served, and discontinue as to the other. Ladd and Taylor v. Edwards, Breese, 139; Dougherty v. Birch, 1 S. 552; Oyden et al. v. Bowen, 2 S. 33; Hoxey v. County of Macoupin, 2 S. 36; Rider et al. v. Allen, 2 S. 474.

Bills of exceptions must be taken upon the trial, and at the time the evidence is admitted or rejected, or decision of the court made, or instructions given or refused. Clemson v. Kruper, Breese, 162; Swafford v. Governor, 1 S. 165; Gillmore v. Ballard, 1 S. 252; Peck v. Boygess, 1 S. 281; Leigh v. Hodges, 3 S. 15; Gibbons v. Johnson, 3 S. 61; Udike v. Armstrong, 3 S. 564; Hill v. Ward, 2 G. 285.

A return to a writ by a person who signs himself "deputy sheriff," is irregular. Ryan v. Eads, Breese, 163; Ditch v. Edwards, 1 S. 127.

A sheriff's return should state the manner in which the writ was served, and the time. Ogle v. Coffey, 1 S. 239; Garratt et al. v. Phelps et al., 1 S. 331; Bellingall v. Gear, 3 S. 575.

Where the declaration is in debt, the judgment must be for the debt and damages; a general judgment for damages is erroneous. Jones v. Sorrel et al., Breese, 174.

When the declaration has not been filed ten days before the court, a judgment by default cannot be entered. Gore v. Smith, Breese, 206.

When a defendant appeals from the judgment of a justice, the plaintiff in the circuit court cannot be compelled to give security for costs. Teague v. Wells, Breese, 297.

When the defendant has pleaded, a judgment by default cannot be entered. Semple v. Lock, Appendix to Breese, 5.

A default may be set aside at a term subsequent to that when the judgment is rendered. Bell v. Whiteside, Idem, 6. Quere, Hall v. Byrne et al., 1 S. 141.

Further time to file a transcript in the supreme court, must be obtained within the three first days of court, or the appeal will be dismissed. Rager v. Taylor, Idem, 21; Green v. McConnell, Idem, 32.

Under the 30th section of the practice act of 1827, a sheriff who refuses to pay over money collected by him, is liable for the principal and 20 per cent. per annum, damages. Beard v. Foreman, 1 S. 40.

A writ of error from the supreme court to a circuit court, lies in all cases, at law and in chancery. Bowers v. Clark, 1 S. 42.

A set-off will not be allowed, unless the claim proposed to be set off existed at the time of the commencement of the suit. Irvin and Wife v. Wright, 1 S. 135.

A bill of exceptions does not lie in a case tried in the circuit court without a jury. Swafford v. Governor, 1 S. 165; White v. Barnes, 1 S. 169; Gillmore v. Ballard, 1 S. 252; Stringer v. Smith, 1 S. 295; Bellingall v. Spraggins, 1 S. 330; Arens v. Riley, 1 S. 340.

A sheriff's return must show the time when the process was served. Clemson et al. v. Hunter, 1 S. 176.

It is irregular to enter up final judgment upon the forfeiture of a recognizance; a scire facias must first issue against the cognizers. 1 S. 187.

A defendant who has suffered a default, cannot except to testimony given before the jury of inquest. He may cross-examine the witnesses. Morton v. Bailey et al., 1 S. 213.

A scire facias to foreclose a mortgage, is both process and a declaration; a demurrer is the proper method of taking advantage of defects therein. It may be amended. Marshall v. Mawry, 1 S. 231.

Reasons filed for a new trial, are no part of the record unless made so by a bill of exceptions. Vandlandingham v. Folloes et al., 1 S. 233.

A writ of inquiry may be executed in vacation, and at any place in the county. Idem.

The circuit court, for good cause shown, may set aside the inquest. Idem.

A summons, issued by a clerk of a circuit court, not under seal, is voidable, and should be quashed on motion. Hammann v. Thompson, 1 S. 238; Anglin v. Nott, 1 S. 395.

But if defendant enters a general appearance, he cannot afterwards object on account of the summons having no seal. Euston et al. v. Altum, 1 S. 250.

A writ of error does not lie in behalf of the people in a criminal proceeding. People v. Dill, 1 S. 257.

A notice under the statute, that a party will prove his claim by his own oath or by that of the adverse party, must be served on the party and not on the attorney. Curver v. Crocker, 1 S. 265.

Appeal bonds in prosecutions for assault and battery, are not amendable. Scafford v. The People, 1 S. 289.

Want of consideration may be pleaded to an action on a bond for conveyance of land. Buckmaster v. Grundy, 1 S. 310.

When a record shows that a plea was filed on the same day of a judgment by default, the judgment will be reversed. Lyon v. Barney, 1 S. 387.

It is erroneous to enter a judgment in debt and damages, in an action of assumpsit. Idem.

It is erroneous to enter judgment by default after a plea is filed. Manlove et al. v. Gallipot, 1 S. 390.

As to the necessary averments in a declaration, when process issues to a foreign county, and the decisions upon the several provisions of the statute, see ante, p. 358, title "COURTS."

Where there is a general demurrer to several pleas, some of which are good and some bad, the demurrer will be overruled. Stacy, Administrator, v. Baker, 1 S. 417.

A defendant on trial cannot deny the execution of the instrument on which suit is brought, unless he verifies his plea by affidavit. Linn v. Buckingham et al., 1 S. 451.

Unliquidated damages, arising ex contractu, may be set off in assumpsit. Edwards et al. v. Todd, 1 S. 462; Nichols v. Ruckles, 3 S. 298.

When appeal bonds are insufficient, the statute is imperative that the circuit court shall permit them to be amended. Hubbard et al. v. Freer, 1 S. 467; Waldow et al. v. Averty, 1 S. 487.

When a bill of exchange or promissory note is sued on, and the declaration contains the common counts, and the bill or note is the only claim of the plaintiff, it is unnecessary to file any copy of the account sued on, except the bill or note. People v. Pearson, 1 S. 458, 473.

Since the passage of the act of 1837, an appeal may be prosecuted from the decision of the circuit court, refusing a new trial. Smith v. Shultz, 1 S. 491.

Applications for leave to amend pleadings, are addressed to the discretion of the court; a refusal to grant them, is not error. Phillips v. Dana, 1 S. 498.

A default cannot be entered where there is a demurrer to the declaration, filed. McKinney v. May, 1 S. 534.

A party, intending to move to quash an execution, must give notice to the opposite party. Dazey v. Orr, 1 S. 535.

When matters of law and fact are submitted to the court, and the court finds the issues for the plaintiff, on a promissory note, the clerk may assess the damages. Burlingham et al. v. Turner, 1 S. 588.

Circuit courts cannot amend papers on an appeal by striking out one of the defendant's names. Macey v. Padfield, 1 S. 590.

Prayer for an appeal to the supreme court, may be made at any time during the term. Ballance v. Frisby, 1 S. 595.

An appeal to the supreme court, when the judgment (exclusive of costs) exceeds $20, or relates to a franchise or freehold, is matter of right. Emerson v. Clark, 1 S. 596; Idem, 2 S. 489.

To give the municipal court of the city of Chicago, jurisdiction to send its process to a foreign county, the same averments in the declaration are necessary, as in like cases in the circuit court. Vanhorn v. Clark et al., 2 S. 1.

A return upon a scire facias to foreclose a mortgage, "executed the within as the law directs, by reading and delivering to defendant a true copy, Nov. 1, 1837," the process being returnable on the first Monday of November, A. D. 1837, is a sufficient return. Mitcheltree v. Stewart et al., 2 S. 17; Beaubien v. Sabine, 2 S. 457.

A motion to amend a petition and summons is addressed to the discretion of the courts. Warren v. McHatton, 2 S. 32.

As to what is a good plea of partial failure of consideration, see Purkett v. Gregory, 2 S. 44.

A variance in the amount of costs between an alias or pluries and an original writ, is not material. The clerk is authorized to add accruing costs to each successive execution. Bryan et al. v. Smith et al., 2 S. 47.

It is error to render a judgment upon sustaining a demurrer to special pleas, where there is a plea of nil debet on the files, unanswered. Merryweather v. Gregory, 2 S. 50.

Pleas of failure of consideration decided to be insufficient. Merryweather v. Gregory, 2 S. 50; Merryweather v. Smith, 2 S. 31; Wann v. McGoon, 2 S. 74; Dunbar v. Bonesteel, 3 S. 32; Wagy v. Lane, 3 S. 237; Averill v. Field, 3 S. 390; Owings v. Thompson, 3 S. 502; Duncan v. Charles, 4 S. 561.

Pleas of failure of consideration decided to be sufficient. Kinzie v. Trustees of Chicago, 1 S. 187; Gorham et al. v. Peyton, 2 S. 363; Tyler v. Young, 2 S. 444; Myers v. Aikman, 2 S. 452; Bailey v. Cromwell et al., 3 S. 71; Capps v. Smith et al., 3 S. 179; Gregory v. Scott, 4 S. 392; Hull v. Perkins, 4 S. 548.

The object of the law relating to commencing suits by petition and summons, was to enable every man to bring his own suits. Evans v. Landon, 2 S. 54.

A note payable in good bank paper may be sued in this way. Idem.

An averment "that the debt remains unpaid," is sufficient. Idem.

A bill of exceptions must be signed and sealed by the judge who tried the cause, or the supreme court will not notice it. Jones v. Sprague, 2 S. 55.

Non est factum may be pleaded to an action of debt on a sealed promissory note, though not verified by affidavit. Russell et al. v. Hamilton, 2 S. 56.

A motion to amend an appeal bond in case of forcible entry and detainer, is addressed to the discretion of the court. Harlan v. Scott, 2 S. 65.

When affidavits for continuances will be held sufficient. Adams v. Colton, 2 S. 71; Doe, ex dem. McConnell v. Johnson, 2 S. 522.

When a defendant is arrested on a capias and gives bail, and the bail is discharged for insufficiency in the affidavit, the capias will stand in the place of a summons. Wann v. McGoon, 2 S. 74.

On appeals in the circuit court, the parties are precluded from litigating other and different claims from those tried before the justice. Brookbank v. Smith, 2 S. 78.

It is error for the circuit court to dismiss a suit for a failure to file a copy of the account sued on, unless a rule for that purpose has been taken, and the party has neglected to comply therewith. Kimball v. Kent, 2 S. 217.

A writ returnable to a remote and not to the first term after it issues, is a nullity. Calhoun v. Webster et al., 2 S. 221.

Counsel have a right to have instructions given or refused, as asked; but if they are calculated to mislead a jury, the court may qualify or explain them. State of Illinois v. Wilson, 2 S. 225.

Under the act of July 21, 1837, a party has a right to except to the opinion of the court, overruling a motion for a new trial. Weatherford v. Wilson, 2 S. 251.

An affidavit does not give a court jurisdiction to send its process out of the county. The averment of jurisdiction must be made in the declaration. Shepard v. Ogden, 2 S. 257.

After a jury has retired to consider of their verdict, if they return and receive further instructions, the plaintiff may take a new trial. Berry et al. v. Savage, 2 S. 261.

Appearance and pleading will cure a defect in the service of process. Berry v. Savage, 2 S. 261.

In a suit against several, when one pleads and the others suffer a default, the proper course is to call a jury to try the issue as to the party pleading, and assess the damages as to the others. Teal v. Russell et al., 2 S. 319.

Two summons were issued, returnable to different terms; neither was served. On the fifth day of the second term, the defendant appeared. He was not bound to plead at that term. He had a right to file pleas, and the court erred in refusing him that privilege. Little v. Carlisle, 2 S. 377.

When a witness is unable to attend court on account of sickness in his family, the cause should be continued, whether the witness has been subpoenaed or not. Allen et al. v. Dowling, 2 S. 454.

An immaterial amendment is no ground for the continuance of a cause. Russell and Wife v. Martin, 2 S. 492.

Part failure of consideration cannot be given in evidence under a plea of total failure, nor under the general issue with notice of set-off. Swaim et al. v. Cawood, 2 S. 505.

A petition and summons will lie upon a note under seal. Duncan v. McAfee, 2 S. 559.

It is unnecessary to file a copy of the instrument on which suit is brought, where the same is set out in haec verba in the declaration. Benjamin v. Delahay, 2 S. 574.

A bill of exceptions, under the practice act, is to be construed as a pleading of the party, and most strongly against the party preparing it. Rogers v. Hall, 3 S. 5.

An appearance in a cause waives all irregularities in the service of process. Vanderbilt v. Johnson & S. 48.

When a cause is tried by the court, and a motion is made for a new trial, the motion and reasons for such new trial, and the affidavits and evidence, &c., will not be noticed in the supreme court, unless incorporated into a bill of exceptions. Idem. McLoughlin v. Walsh, 3 S. 185.

Where a judgment by default is rendered on a note, the court may assess the damages. Wilcox v. Woods et al., 3 S. 51.

Where there is a general verdict on several counts, one of which is good, the verdict must be sustained. Snyder v. Gaither, 3 S. 91.

A default cannot be entered unless it appears by the return of the sheriff that the summons had been served ten days before court. Pattison v. Hood, 3 S. 152.

When all of the defendants pray an appeal to the supreme court, they must all execute the bond. Carson v. Merle, 3 S. 163.

A motion for a re-hearing will not be entertained after the lapse of a term. Weatherford v. Fishback, 3 S. 170; People v. Pearson, 3 S. 406.

Where a defendant denies the execution of a note sued on, he should plead non-assumpsit, and swear to the truth of the plea. Hinton v. Husbands, 3 S. 187.

A change of venue may be ordered upon the consent of the parties. The People v. Scates, 3 S. 351.

In all criminal cases, not capital, a writ of error is a writ of right. An appeal lies in a case of a proceeding for a contempt of court. Stuart v. The People, 3 S. 395.

A mistake or error in assessing damages cannot be inquired into in the supreme court, unless the same is shown by the bill of exceptions. Smith v. Lusk, 3 S. 411.

A scire facias to make a joint debtor, not served with process, a party to a judgment rendered against his co-debtor, may issue at any time, without an order of court. Tiffany v. Breese, 3 S. 499; Ryder v. Glover, 3 S. 547.

Under the act of March 2, 1839, the assignee is not required to prove the assignment of a note, unless the same is denied by affidavit. Archer v. Bogue, 3 S. 526.

The plea of set-off is an affirmative plea and must be proved. The party setting it up must also show that the claim was due to him at the commencement of the suit. Pettis v. Westlake et al., 3 S. 536; Kelly v. Garrett, 1 G. 649.

Judgment was rendered against three defendants; two prayed an appeal. One who prayed the appeal, and one who did not, signed the appeal bond. The appeal was dismissed. Ryder v. Stevenson, 3 S. 539. See also, Watson v. Thwall, 3 G. 68.

A summons returnable on the fourth day of the term of a court, is void. Rattan v. Stone, 2 S. 540.

Judgment against two, when process is only served on one, is erroneous. Idem.

An attachment may issue in aid of a scire facias to make a party to the judgment. Ryder v. Glover, 3 S. 547.

A party is not bound to pay any attention to a notice to produce a paper upon a trial, unless such notice is in writing and given a reasonable time before trial. What is reasonable notice is a matter in the discretion of the court. If the party have the paper in court, notice given on the trial is sufficient. Cummings v. McKinney, 4 S. 58.

If the transcript of a record is not duly certified to the supreme court, the suit will be dismissed. Morse v. Williams, 4 S. 285.

Where thirty days intervene between the time of the order, allowing an appeal to the supreme court, and the session of that court, the record must be filed within the first three days of that court. Vance v. Schuyler, 4 S. 286; Frink v. Phelps, 4 S. 580.

On the trial of appeals from justices, parties may, by leave of court, file additional accounts. If the other party is surprised thereby, he will be entitled to a continuance. Webb v. Losalar, 4 S. 544.

Unliquidated damages, arising ex contractu, may be set off. Kaskaskia Bridge Company v. Shannon et al., 1 G. 15.

When a declaration is amended in matter of substance, the defendant is entitled to a continuance. Illinois Mutual Fire Insurance Company v. Marsailles Manufacturing Company, 1 G. 236.

A writ of error does not lie, until final judgment is entered in the circuit court. Hedges v. County of Madison, 1 G. 306.

The trial of an appealed case in the circuit court, is de novo, and either party may file additional accounts, upon such terms as the court may direct. Waterman v. Bristol et al., 1 G. 593.

A city order may be set off in a suit brought by a city in an action of debt, to recover a penalty. City of Springfield v. Hickox, 2 G. 241.

Under the act of July 21, 1837, exceptions may be taken to decisions of the circuit courts for overruling motions in arrest of judgment, motions for new trials and continuances. Hill v. Ward, 2 G. 285.

A writ of scire facias cannot be served after the return day. Hitchcock v. Haight, 2 G. 603.

A year is not an unreasonable time to take a deposition in China. Where a party uses due diligence to obtain the testimony of a witness, and the court refuse a continuance, the judgment will be reversed in the supreme court. Lyon et al. v. Boilvin, 2 G. 629.

Under the 12th section of the practice act of Jan. 29, 1827, a defendant cannot deny the execution of the instrument sued on, unless he verify his plea by affidavit. Stevenson v. Furnsworth, 2 G. 715.

Where there are two defendants, and one only denies the execution of the instrument sued on under oath, the execution of the same need be proved only as to the party making such denial.

By the act of Feb. 17, 1841, when two persons are sued as partners, upon a written instrument purporting to have been executed by the firm, and one denies its execution, under oath, it is sufficient to prove that the same was executed by one of the members of the firm, and that the party denying its execution was a partner. Stevenson v. Furnsworth, 2 G. 715.

If a party, upon due notice, refuses to produce papers, parol evidence may be given of their contents, and if the evidence is vague, &c., every intendment will be made against the party refusing to produce the papers. Rector v. Rector, 3 G. 105.

A writ of inquiry may be executed at any place within the county, and the sheriff may make his return to the writ even after the cause is pending in the supreme court, and such return may be certified to the supreme court and made part of the record. Moore v. Purple, 3 G. 149.

Unliquidated damages arising out of covenants, contracts or torts, totally disconnected with the subject matter of the plaintiff's claim, are not such claims or demands as constitute the subject matter of set-off, under the statute. Hawks v. Lands, 3 G. 227.

The practice act is applicable to civil cases only. Baxter v. The People, 3 G. 368.

When an appeal to the supreme court is prayed by several defendants and the bond is signed by one only, the appeal will be dismissed. Johnson v. Barber, 4 G. 1.

Demands to be set off must be mutual, and due in the same right. Hinckley v. West, 4 G. 136.

No appeal lies to the supreme court, unless the judgment (exclusive of costs) amounts to twenty dollars, or relates to a franchise or freehold. Washington County v. Parlier et al., 4 G. 353.

The supreme court has no jurisdiction of an agreed case pending in a circuit court, until there has been a decision in that court, and the cause has been duly certified to the supreme court. Plumleigh v. White, 4 G. 388.

A re-hearing will be allowed in the supreme court, at a subsequent term, when the party was prevented from making the application at the term when judgment was rendered. Pearl v. Wellman, 4 G. 395; Selby v. Hutchinson, 5 G. 261.

The statute does not authorize a defendant to plead specially, and also give notice under the general issue; but the court, in its discretion, may permit it to be done. Benjamin v. McConnell, 4 G. 536.

A bill of exceptions should in all cases appear on its face to have been signed at the trial. It may, by consent of parties, be signed out of term. Evans v. Fisher, 5 G. 453.

The provisions of section 7, chapter 40, of Revised Statutes, extends as well to suits before justices of the peace as in the circuit court. Partnerships need not be proved unless they are denied under oath. Evans v. Fisher, 5 G. 569.

An appeal is not pending in the supreme court until a bond is filed. Peck v. Stevens, 5 G. 127.

Suits commenced to a regular term of a circuit court, will be returnable to a special term, appointed after the commencement of the suit. But cases returnable to a prior regular term, will still be returnable to that term, although the same is continued into the special term. Rucker v. Fuller, 11 Ill. 223.

A plea in abatement, sworn to, puts in issue the partnership of plaintiffs. A plea of the general issue, verified by affidavit, does not. Warren v. Chambers, 12 Ill. 124.

A plaintiff cannot take a non-suit after the cause has been submitted to the jury. Ross v. City of Chicago, 12 Ill. 336.

Where an appeal to the supreme court is prayed and allowed within thirty days of the session of the court, the appellant is not bound to file his record until the second term, and the appellee need not appear till the second term. Hagar v. Phillips, 13 Ill. 292.

Exceptions to instructions should be taken at the time they are given. Martin v. The People, 13 Ill. 341.

A declaration must be filed ten days before the second term, or the suit will be dismissed. The omission to hold the court does not change this right of the party. Dowley v. Smith, 13 Ill. 671.

Where an order is made that a bill of exceptions be filed in vacation, it will be understood to mean the next ensuing vacation after the court at which the order was made. Saltonstall v. Canal Commissioners, 13 Ill. 705.

An affidavit for a continuance should state facts with certainty, so that the opposite party may admit the same and go to trial if he chooses to do so. It is too indefinite to state that the whole or some part of the claim has been paid. McBain v. Enloe, 13 Ill. 76.

An application for a continuance, not within the provisions of the statute, is addressed to the discretion of the court. The overruling of such motion cannot be assigned for error. Ault v. Rawson, 14 Ill. 484.

A plea of failure of consideration cannot be interposed to a note in the hands of a bona fide assignee, before maturity. Harlow v. Boswell, 15 Ill. 56.

(1.) SECTION I. The public printer shall give bond to the governor, with good security, previous to entering upon the discharge of the duties of his office, in the penalty of ten thousand dollars, conditioned that he will faithfully perform and execute all the public printing required to be done in pursuance of law, by the direction of either branch of the General Assembly, or any officer of the State, and that he will do and perform all other acts and things required, or which may hereafter be required, of him according to law, which said bond shall be approved by the governor and filed in the office of the secretary of State.

(2.) SEC. II. All laws, journals, bills, messages, blanks, certificates, circulars or advertisements of any description, which shall be ordered to be printed by the legislature of the State of Illinois, or by either branch thereof, or by the governor, or by either of the heads of departments, in pursuance of law and the discharge of their official duties, shall be given to the public printer or printers, who may, from time to time, be elected under the constitution of this State, unless otherwise provided by law.

(3.) SEC. III. The journal of each house of the General Assembly, shall hereafter be kept in well-bound books. The secretary of the senate, and clerk of the house of representatives, shall furnish to the public printer, every morning during each session of the General Assembly, a copy of the journal kept by them, respectively, of the day preceding the last day's journal; and the said secretary and clerk shall, within ten days after the adjournment of each session of the General Assembly, deposit the original journals kept by them as aforesaid, with the secretary of State.

(4.) SEC. IV. The secretary of State is authorized and required to cause to be made out true and accurate copies of all laws, acts and resolutions of the General Assembly, which may be required to be printed; and such copies so made out he shall deliver to the person or persons authorized to print the same, within ten days after the adjournment of each session of the General Assembly.

(5.) SEC. V. And the secretary of State shall likewise superintend the printing of such laws, acts and resolutions, carefully comparing the printed copies with the original laws and rolls deposited in his office, correcting all errors that may appear in such printed copies; and shall make and cause to be printed at the end of such printed copy, his certificate that the acts and resolutions so printed are exact copies of the rolls in his office.

(6.) SEC. VI. Such laws shall be arranged in alphabetical order, according to their subject matter; and prefixed to each volume, there shall be a table of contents, and at the end thereof a full and complete index.

(7.) SEC. VII. Each edition of the laws required to be published, shall be comprised in one octavo volume, with marginal notes, and the day on which each act takes effect shall be stated in the margin opposite the table, and the day on which the same was approved by the council of revision, or when it became a law, in any of the modes prescribed in the constitution, shall be stated at the end of the act, omitting the name and style of the governor, and of the speakers of the two houses of the General Assembly.

(8.) SEC. VIII. The public printer or printers shall be allowed forty days from the adjournment of the legislature to complete the printing of the laws, journals and reports of each session of the legislature.

(9.) SEC. IX. There shall be published, at the close of each session of the legislature, two thousand copies of the laws, passed at such session; one thousand copies of the journals of the senate; one thousand copies of the journals of the house of representatives; and one thousand copies of the reports of the two houses.

(10.) SEC. X. The prices of public printing shall be as follows, to wit: For plain work, fifty-six and one-fourth cents per thousand ems; for figure work, eighty-four cents per thousand ems; and for rule and figure work, one dollar and twelve and a half cents per thousand ems, for composition; and fifty-six and one-fourth cents per token for press work. For blanks, certificates and circulars, for the use of the legislature, and the several departments of the State government, one dollar for the first quire, and for each additional quire of the same kind ordered at the same time, seventy-five cents; excepting when said blanks contain so much rule and figure work as would demand an additional charge from journeymen for composition; in which case the public printer may make an advance of fifty per cent. on the charge of his journeymen as aforesaid; the paper for such blanks, certificates and circulars to be furnished by the public printer, at his own proper cost and charge; and if said blanks, certificates or circulars be badly or inaccurately printed, or be printed on paper of an inferior quality, the officer ordering the same may refuse to receive the same. For advertising, the public printer or printers shall receive, for every one hundred words, fifty cents for the first insertion, and twenty-five cents for every subsequent insertion that may be ordered by the officer of government that directs the same to be published; and all other editors of papers who may publish such advertisement by direction of the proper officer, shall receive for their services the same as the public printer or printers for the same services.

(11.) SEC. XI. It shall be the duty of the auditor, treasurer and secretary of State, to examine all accounts rendered by the public printer or printers, for work performed or materials furnished for the State, which officers shall call to their aid practical printers, whenever they shall not be satisfied that the charges have been correctly made.

(12.) SEC. XII. Immediately after the printing of any session of the General Assembly shall have been completed, it shall be the duty of the auditor, treasurer and secretary of State, to settle the accounts of the public printer according to the preceding section, and to ascertain the quantity of paper which has been properly used by the public printer in the printing for said session, according to the provisions of the preceding section.

(13.) SEC. XIII. Thereupon the secretary of State shall cause an advertisement to be published three times in the newspaper published by the public printer, and in some newspaper published at each of the following places, to wit: St. Louis, Louisville, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, New York and Boston; the third insertion of such advertisement to be at least one month previous to the time appointed for receiving proposals; said advertisement shall specify the quantity, size and quality of paper which will be required for the public printing, the time and place of delivering the same, and the time when, and the place where, sealed proposals will be received for furnishing the same. The quantity of paper to be furnished, shall be ascertained by adding one-fourth to the quantity used for the printing of the preceding session of the legislature, and deducting from the whole amount the quantity of surplus paper remaining in the hands of the public printer for the time being.

(14.) SEC. XIV. At the close of the period for said advertisement, the secretary of State shall, in the presence of the auditor and treasurer, open all the proposals he may have received, and thereupon shall accept the proposal of the lowest responsible bidder, and immediately notify such bidder of such acceptance.

(15.) SEC. XV. The secretary of State shall file such proposal in his office.

(16.) SEC. XVI. The person receiving the contract for furnishing the paper for the use of the State, shall, at the time of the execution of such contract, give bond to the governor, in the penalty of ten thousand dollars, conditioned that he will faithfully furnish and deliver the said paper in kind, quality and quantity, at the times, places, and upon the terms mentioned in said contract; and that he will, in all respects, comply faithfully with the provisions of such contract, and of the law by virtue of which such contract shall have been made, which said bond shall be approved by the secretary of State, auditor and treasurer, and filed in the office of the secretary of State.

(17.) SEC. XVII. Upon the delivering of the paper in pursuance of and according to such contract, the auditor, with the concurrence of the secretary of State and treasurer, shall draw his warrant in favor of such contractor for such sum of money as he shall be entitled to therefor.

(18.) SEC. XVIII. The public printer shall, within the first week of each session, report to the legislature the amount of work done by him, the nature of said work, the amount of money received therefor, and the amount and quality of paper used by him as public printer since the commencement of the preceding session of the General Assembly.

(19.) SEC. XIX. In printing messages, reports and other documents ordered by either branch of the General Assembly, or in pursuance of any law or resolution of the legislature, the State printer may place a title at the top of the first page of every such document, but shall dispense with a title page, and with all unnecessary blank pages: Provided, That a title page shall be prefixed to the volume of reports, and to the journals of the General Assembly.

(20.) SEC. XX. It shall be the duty of the secretary of State, after having given six weeks' notice, to be published in one of the newspapers printed at the city of Springfield, and one at the city of Chicago, of the time of letting the folding, stitching and binding, to contract with some responsible book binder or binders, who reside in this State, be forethe commencement of each regular or special session of the General Assembly of this State, to do the folding, stitching and binding of the approaching session, consisting of reports, journals and laws, in the following manner and at no greater prices than those annexed, to wit: For folding, stitching and covering with blue paper, and cutting the edges of the journals, three and one-half cents for each one hundred pages in the volume; for folding and stitching reports, two cents for each one hundred pages in the volume; for binding laws and journals and reports for secretary's office, with leather backs and paper sides, when the number of pages do not exceed one hundred and fifty, twelve and one-half cents for each one hundred pages; when the volume of laws contains over one hundred and fifty pages, the price shall be ten cents for each one hundred pages of the volume.

(21.) SEC. XXI. The secretary of State is hereby required and authorized to contract for the binding in the preceding section specified, at less prices therein named, if in his power so to do.

(22.) SEC. XXII. It shall be the duty of the public binder or binders, to give bond with sufficient security, to be approved by the governor, in the penal sum of ten thousand dollars, for the faithful performance of his or their contract, agreeable to law.

(23.) SEC. XXIII. It shall be the duty of the public printer or printers to deliver to the public binder or binders, each form of the laws and journals, dry and in good order, as fast as they are printed; and after the last form of the laws is so printed and delivered, the said binder or binders shall bind and deliver to the secretary of State, one thousand copies of the laws in fifteen days, and at the rate of one thousand copies every twelve days afterward, (Sundays excepted.) Also, after the last form of the journals are delivered to said binder or binders, they shall do them up as above specified, and deliver them at the rate of one thousand copies every ten days, (Sundays excepted.)

(24.) SEC. XXIV. On the fulfillment of any contract for binding, folding, stitching or distributing the laws of this State, the secretary of State shall certify the fact to the auditor of public accounts, who shall issue his warrant on the treasurer for the sum due such person for such binding, folding, stitching or distributing.

(25.) SEC. XXV. If the public printer shall fail to print the laws and journals within the time limited by law, or if the binder shall fail to have the laws and journals bound within the time limited, it shall be the duty of the secretary of State, to state in the certificate which he is required to give to such printer, the time at which such laws and journals shall have been printed, and the time at which the binding should have been completed, and the time at which the said printing was completed; and the auditor shall thereupon deduct from the price of such printing, if the failure be in the printing, or if the failure be in the binding, deduct from the price of such binding, six per cent. per week, on the price of the printing or binding, as the case may be, and issue his warrant on the treasury for the sum due such printer or binder, after making the deductions aforesaid.

An Act to amend an Act entitled "An Act to provide for the Binding of the Laws and Journals," approved Jan. 31, 1840.

[Approved Feb. 26, 1845. Laws, 1845, p. 46.]

An Act concerning the Public Printing.

(28.) SEC. II. No person, unless he be a resident of the State, shall be permitted to contract for the public printing; and the printing, thus contracted for, shall be executed within the limits of this State.

(29.) SEC. III. Each bid shall specifically set forth the price or prices at which it is proposed to do and perform the printing of the laws, journals and reports, and all other printing that may be ordered by the General Assembly of this State, or either branch thereof; and no bid for said printing shall be received or considered unless the same be accompanied by a bond, in the penal sum of ten thousand dollars, with a good and sufficient security, to be approved by the governor, for a faithful performance of said printing in a correct and workmanlike manner.

(30.) SEC. IV. All proposals shall be delivered to the secretary of State sealed, and shall not be opened until the hour of the day designated in his advertisement inviting bids for said printing; which opening of such bids shall be public, in the presence of the governor and auditor of public accounts; at which time those interested in said bids shall be permitted to attend. Such contracts shall be given to the lowest responsible bidder or bidders, whose proposals are the most favorable to the State in all respects, having reference to his or their competency to do and perform the work contracted for: Provided, Such bids shall not, in any event, exceed the sum or sums allowed for public printing as specified in the eighty-fourth chapter of the Revised Laws, approved March 3rd, 1845.

(31.) SEC. V. The contracts entered into under the provisions of this act, shall be so drawn as to cover all special sessions of the legislature, if any there should be, and extend until the close of the next biennial regular session of the General Assembly; and shall contain all necessary provisions to guard against and prohibit any extra compensation to the successful bidder or bidders, other than the prices specifically agreed to be paid by the terms of said contract. The contracts for printing may include the blanks, certificates and circulars required by the several departments of the State government in the performance of their public duties: Provided, The secretary of State shall be authorized to receive (separate and distinct from other printing,) bids for said blanks, certificates and circulars; and said bids shall be accompanied by a bond of five hundred dollars, to be approved by the governor, for the faithful performance of said contract.

(32.) SEC. VI. The printing of the laws, journals and reports shall be completed within the time now prescribed by law; and in case of failure to complete the same within such time, the contractor or contractors shall be liable to the penalty provided for in the twenty-fifth section of the eighty-fourth chapter of the Revised Laws; and the laws, journals and reports, when printed, shall be delivered to the person or persons authorized to do the binding of the same, without any additional charge or expense to the State.

(33.) SEC. VII. In all cases of failure of any persons making proposals under the provisions of this act, to comply with the requirements of the law in the execution of their contract, it shall be the duty of the secretary of State to cause the same to be performed without unnecessary delay, and in conformity with the public interests; the same to be well and faithfully performed, as nearly as possible within the time prescribed by law, and at prices not exceeding those specified in the eighty-fourth chapter of the Revised Laws.

(34.) SEC. VIII. When the printing of said laws, journals and reports, and all other printing ordered by the General Assembly, shall be completed, as required by this act, the secretary of State shall certify the amount due the contractor or contractors who shall have performed the same; and upon the presentation of such certificate, the auditor of public accounts shall draw his warrant upon the treasurer for the amount due said contractor or contractors, as certified as aforesaid.

(35.) SEC. IX. Until otherwise provided by law, there shall be printed for the use of the State, and for distribution to the several counties, two thousand copies of the journals, two thousand copies of the reports, and four thousand copies of the laws of the General Assembly.

(36.) SEC. X. The public printer elected at the last session of the General Assembly, shall be and he is hereby authorized to print the journals, reports and laws, and all other printing ordered by the present General Assembly; and for the performance of said work he shall not receive a greater compensation than is allowed by the provisions of the eighty-fourth chapter of the Revised Laws.

An Act in relation to the Public Printing.

(38.) SEC. II. The acts passed by the present General Assembly, shall be bound in half binding, and only five hundred copies of the incorporation and private acts shall be printed; and no reports ordered to be printed shall be included in both the journals and reports.

PRIOR LAWS. An act authorizing the secretary of State to liquidate the accounts of the late public printer; in force Jan. 31, 1821. Laws, 1821, p. 61.

An act defining the duties of public printer, and fixing the time and manner of performing the same; in force Jan. 24, 1835. Laws, 1835, p. 163.

An act in relation to the public printer; in force March 4, 1837. Laws, 1837, p. 179.

An act providing for the binding of the laws and journals; in force Jan. 31, 1840. Laws, 1840, p. 34.

An act supplemental to "An act defining the duties of public printer, and fixing the time and manner of performing the same;" in force Feb. 23, 1841. Laws, 1841, p. 192.

An act to amend an act entitled "An act providing for the binding of the laws and journals," approved Jan. 31, 1840; in force Feb. 23, 1843. Laws, 1843, p. 173.

An act supplemental to the several acts defining the duties of the public printer; in force March 4, 1843. Laws, 1843, p. 194.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 426.]

(1.) SECTION I. There shall be and remain, as now established, in each county of this State, a court of probate, to be composed of one officer, to be styled a probate justice of the peace.

(2.) SEC. II. Such probate justices of the peace shall be elected at the general elections to be held in their respective counties, as provided by law, in the same manner as provided for the election of other justices of the peace, and shall hold their offices for the term of two years, and until their successors shall be elected and qualified.

(3.) SEC. III. The election of such probate justices of the peace shall, in all respects, be conducted and returns thereof made, in the manner provided or to be provided by law in the case of the election of justices of the peace. The said probate justices of the peace so to be elected under the provisions of this chapter, shall hold and keep their offices at the county seats of their respective counties, and shall take the same oath, in the same manner, and give like bond and security as are required of other justices of the peace.

(4.) SEC. IV. Said probate justices of the peace are hereby vested with the same powers and jurisdiction in civil cases which are or shall be conferred by law upon other justices of the peace, and in the exercise of said powers and jurisdiction, the rules of law which are or shall be applicable to ordinary justices of the peace, shall be applicable to the probate justices of the peace hereby created, and to all the proceedings before them, growing out of such power and jurisdiction; and appeals may be taken from, and writs of certiorari prosecuted upon, their judgments rendered under the power conferred in this section, in the manner provided in case of similar judgments rendered by justices of the peace.

(5.) SEC. V. The said justices of the peace hereby created, shall also have jurisdiction of all cases of debt and assumpsit, express or implied, where executors or administrators shall be parties, plaintiff or defendant, and when the amount on either side claimed to be due shall not exceed one thousand dollars.

(6.) SEC. VI. In addition to the judicial powers conferred in the preceding sections, the said probate justices of the peace shall have, possess and exercise within their respective counties, the following ministerial powers, to wit:

First. Power to administer all oaths or affirmations concerning any matter or thing before them.

Second. To issue and grant letters of administration, letters testamentary and letters of guardianship, and repeal the same.

Third. To take probate of wills, and record the same.

Fourth. To determine the person or persons entitled to letters of administration, or to letters testamentary, and in general, to do and perform all things concerning the granting of letters testamentary, or of administration, or of guardianship, which the judge of probate may do by the existing laws.

Fifth. To receive, file and record inventories, appraisement bills and sale bills, as is required by the existing laws.

Sixth. To require executors, administrators and guardians, to exhibit and settle their accounts, and to settle for the estates and property in their hands, and for that purpose they may issue citations and attachments into every county in this State, to be executed by the sheriffs of the said counties.

Seventh. To do and perform all other acts of a ministerial character which the judges of probate are now authorized to perform in their respective counties.

Eighth. To take and certify acknowledgments and proofs of deeds and other instruments; to take affidavits and depositions; and to administer oaths, to the same extent and with like effect, as other justices of the peace.

(7.) SEC. VII. If it should become necessary to use copies of the proceedings had before such probate justices of the peace under the ministerial powers aforesaid, or any of them, in any other State or territory, the parties interested therein may procure a transcript thereof, and, on motion, the same may be filed in the clerk's office of the circuit court, and shall be considered a matter of record in said court, and copies thereof may be certified as other records of said court are or may be.

(8.) SEC. VIII. The said courts shall sit in their respective counties throughout this State, on the first Monday in every month, and at such other times as extraordinary circumstances may require, and continue open until all the business pending before them shall be disposed of. The said courts shall each have a seal, and may issue all process necessary, under the hand and seal of the probate justice, and all such process shall bear date when issued. The said probate justice shall record all his proceedings at length, in a book or books by him for that purpose furnished; and for all necessary books so furnished, the respective county commissioners' courts shall allow the said probate justice a reasonable compensation, to be paid out of the county treasury.

(9.) SEC. IX. All matters of law and of fact shall be determined by said court, when properly before it; and in all cases an appeal or writ of certiorari shall lie to the circuit court of the county, to be prosecuted in the same manner as appeals and writs of certiorari are prosecuted from the decisions of other justices of the peace.

(10.) SEC. X. The said probate justices of the peace are hereby vested with all the judicial powers usually exercised by former judges of probate; but in all cases of the exercise of such judicial powers, they shall report their proceedings therein to the next term of the circuit court of their respective counties on the first day thereof, for approval or rejection of such circuit court, and if such proceedings shall be approved by the circuit court, the same shall be considered as a matter of record in said court.

(11.) SEC. XI. Letters of administration, letters testamentary, and all process, certificates and all other papers, made or issued by probate justices of the peace, to which the private seal of such justice is or may be affixed, because of there being no public seal, shall be as valid, to all intents and purposes, as though a public seal had been used.

(12.) SEC. XII. Administrators and executors, and their sureties, may be sued on their bonds in the probate court, subject to the limitation contained in section five of this chapter, and the proofs and proceedings shall be as in ordinary cases.

(13.) SEC. XIII. The probate justices of the peace shall make, keep and preserve complete records of all wills, testaments and codicils, and the probate thereof, all letters testamentary and of administration, and all bonds taken of executors or administrators; and shall file and preserve the originals of the aforesaid papers, and all inventories, appraisements, sale bills and other exhibits, presented to and received by said courts, appertaining to the administration and settlement of estates; and shall enter on their order books the amount of all such inventories, appraisements, sale bills and other exhibits, under a proper heading, for easy reference; and shall enter upon their books of record all matters, controversies and suits that shall arise for decision or adjudication before them, with the names of the parties and the judgment or opinion of the court, in order that there may be no difficulty in taking appeals.

(14.) SEC. XIV. The probate justices of the peace shall have power to issue all process necessary to enforce the judgments and decrees of said court, which process shall be directed to the sheriff or to any constable of the county; and any sheriff or constable to whom such process shall be directed, is hereby authorized and required to execute the same, and they shall be entitled to the same fees as are allowed for serving like process issued by a justice of the peace.

(15.) SEC. XV. The probate justices of the peace shall provide well-bound books, and enter therein the accounts of executors and administrators, so as to make the same complete records of all accounts allowed, and all settlements of estates made in said courts.

(16.) SEC. XVI. All letters testamentary, letters of administration, either with or without the will annexed, letters of administration to collect, and de bonis non, writs, summonses, citations, subpoenas, and all other processes which may at any time be made or issued by the justice of probate, in the discharge of his official duties, shall be made and issued in the name of the people of the State of Illinois, bear teste in the name of such probate justice, and be sealed with the seal of the said court of probate.

(17.) SEC. XVII. The probate justices in each county in this State, shall have jurisdiction and authority to hear and determine all causes, matters and controversies testamentary, which shall be brought before them, touching the proof of wills, testaments and codicils, and may grant probate thereof; and shall hear and determine the right of administration of estates of persons dying intestate; and to do all other things touching the granting of letters testamentary, and of administration, and the settlement of estates.

(18.) SEC. XVIII. When any probate justice of the peace shall resign, refuse to qualify, or be removed from office, or the office shall in any way become vacant, such office may be filled by a special election to be called and held in the same manner as in the case of justices of the peace. And if any probate justice of the peace shall refuse to qualify and give bond, in manner and within the time specified in case of other justices of the peace, the office shall in like manner be deemed vacant.

(19.) SEC. XIX. The probate justices of the peace, when acting as ordinary justices of the peace, shall be entitled to the fees allowed by law to justices of the peace for similar services, and when acting under the powers usually exercised by judges of probate, they shall be allowed such fees as shall be, from time to time, allowed by law.

(20.) SEC. XX. Appeals may be taken from all judgments, decrees and decisions rendered by probate justices of the peace, while acting in the capacity of judges of probate, whether such acts be performed in their judicial or ministerial character; such appeals to be taken and prosecuted in the same manner, and with like effect as appeals from the judgments and decisions of other justices of the peace.

(21.) SEC. XXI. Parties litigant, in suits before such probate justices of the peace, whether acting as courts of probate or justices of the peace, shall be entitled to trial by jury, as is provided in suits before other justices of the peace.

An Act to promote a more faithful Discharge of the Duties of Probate Justices of the Peace, and for other Purposes.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Laws, 1845, p. 40. App. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 585.]

(23.) SEC. II. If any such probate justice of the peace shall willfully fail, neglect or refuse to make, or cause to be made a full and perfect record of all such orders, decrees or judgments made as aforesaid, within ten days from the time of making the same, he shall be held and taken to be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be fined in any sum not less than five nor more than one hundred dollars.

(24.) SEC. III. This act, and also chapter fifty-four of the Revised Statutes, entitled "INTEREST," passed at the present session, shall take effect, and be in force from and after the first day of May, eighteen hundred and forty-five, any law to the contrary notwithstanding.

(25.) SEC. IV. Section eighty of the act entitled "An act regulating the assessment and collection of the public revenue," passed at the present session, shall be and the same is hereby repealed.

(26.) SEC. V. The council of revision shall, on the approval of the Revised Statutes, deliver the same to the superintendent, appointed in chapter ninety of the Revised Statutes, who shall copy and certify the same, and with the same effect, as the secretary of State is authorized to do, in said chapter. After the same are copied and compared for publication, the enrolled chapters shall be then filed in the office of the secretary of State. The sum of two hundred dollars is hereby appropriated to said superintendent for copying the same for publication. The act to establish and maintain common schools, shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to amend "An Act to provide for the Election of Probate Justices of the Peace."
[Approved March 1, 1845. Laws, 1845, p. 25. App. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 586.]

(28.) SEC. II. And so much of the act entitled "An act to provide for the election of probate justices of the peace," as requires transcripts of proceedings before probate justices to be filed in the clerk's office of the circuit court, in order to be used as evidence in any other State or territory, and so much as requires probate justices to report their proceedings to the circuit courts of their respective counties, for the approval or rejection of such circuit courts, is hereby repealed.

(29.) SEC. III. That in all cases where probate justices have failed to make such report, it shall not be required; but their record, or certified copies of the same, shall be good evidence, as though the same had been reported to the circuit courts of their respective counties, and approved by said courts.

(30.) SEC. IV. That all rights acquired, or liabilities incurred, before this act takes effect, are not to be affected by the passage of this act.

(31.) SEC. V. This act to take effect and be in force from its passage.

An Act further to define the Duties of Probate Justices.
[Approved Feb. 19, 1847. Laws, 1847, p. 63.]

executor or administrator to appear before him, within thirty days after the date of said notice, and make a settlement of his accounts, as now required by law; and in case said executor or administrator shall neglect or refuse to make said settlement as aforesaid, it shall be the duty of said probate justice to remove said executor or administrator from office, and to supply the vacancy as now directed by law in other cases.

See An act to legalize the acts of certain officers therein named; approved Jan. 25, 1849. Laws, 1849, p. 100.

As to Probate Courts, see ante, p. 290.

PRIOR LAWS. An act to provide for the election of probate justices of the peace; in force March 4, 1837. Laws, 1837, p. 176.

An act to amend an act to provide for the election of probate justices of the peace; in force July 21, 1837. Laws, 1837, (Special Session,) p. 46.

DECISIONS. Courts of probate have power to revoke letters of administration obtained by fraud. Marston v. Wilcox, 1 S. 60.

A court of probate has no power to render a judgment in favor of heirs or devisees, against an executor or administrator, for not paying to such heirs or devisees, their portion of the estate. The remedy against an executor or administrator for not complying with an order of the court of probate, is by attachment for contempt. Piggott v. Raney et al., 1 S. 145.

The certificate of a judge of probate is not admissible in evidence to prove who are the heirs of a deceased person. Greenwood v. Spiller, 2 S. 502.

Appeals from judgments of probate justices, under section 4, of the act of March 3, 1845, should be taken in the same manner as appeals from the judgments of justices of the peace. Gibbons v. Johnson, 3 S. 61.

The proceedings of a probate justice, in allowing claims against an estate, should be reported to the circuit court at its first term thereafter. The circuit court approves or rejects it, and the effect of its approval, is that it is matter of record and may be certified as such. Scott v. Crow et al., 4 S. 183.

Appeals may be taken from decisions of probate justices, in all cases not included in sections 3 and 4, of the act of March 4, 1837, in the manner prescribed in the statute of wills, for appeals from the old court of probate. Idem.

Whether one who acted as probate justice by granting letters of administration and approving the administrator's bond, was, at the time, an officer de jure, cannot be inquired into in a suit on such bond. Pritchett et al. v. The People, 1 G. 525.

Courts of probate have exclusive jurisdiction over the personalty, but none over the realty. Ferguson et al. v. Hunter, 2 G. 657.

Taking proof of the execution of a will, is a ministerial, not a judicial act. Idem.

A probate justice of the peace, acts as judge of the probate court, with the powers of that court; and as a justice of the peace in civil cases. As a probate justice he uses the seal of that court, but when acting as a justice of the peace, he is not required to use his official seal. Williams v. Blankenship, 12 Ill. 122; Dunlap v. Ennis, 3 G. 287.

A claim was filed against an estate, in a probate court; the administrator exhibited a set-off, and obtained judgment in his favor for $1,450. On appeal to the circuit court, the parties agreed that the cause should be tried on its merits, and judgment was rendered for the administrator for $1,500, and the clerk directed to certify the proceedings to the probate justice, with orders to issue execution: Held, that the circuit court had jurisdiction of the case by consent of the parties, but erred in directing the probate justice to issue execution. Allen v. Belcher, Administrator, 3 G. 594.

Probate justices have jurisdiction of suits on official bonds. Robertson v. County Commissioners, 5 G. 559.

An order of a probate court, directing a guardian to pay to his successor, money in his hands belonging to the ward, is conclusive on the guardian, unless it can be impeached for fraud or collusion. Ammons v. The People, 11 Ill. 6.

When a court of probate has acquired full jurisdiction of an estate, it retains jurisdiction till the estate is fully administered. People v. White et al., 11 Ill. 341.

The authority of a father to appoint a guardian for his children, is higher than the authority of the probate court, and when the former has exercised his right, the latter cannot act. Holmes v. Field, 12 Ill. 424.

CHAPTER LXXXVI.

QUO WARRANTO.

SECTION

1. Persons usurping office, franchise, &c., to be proceeded against by quo warranto; rights of several may be tried in one information; proceedings to be had of same term at which information is filed.
2. Party found guilty to be ousted, fined and mulcted in costs.
3. Court may allow time for pleading, &c.

SECTION

4. Appeals to be allowed, on terms; writ of error, &c., to operate as a stay of proceedings.
5. Service of quo warranto on defendant without the State, to be at least forty days before commencement of term.
6. Service on incorporated company, what sufficient.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 429.]

(1.) SECTION I. In case any person or persons shall usurp, intrude into, or unlawfully hold or execute, any office or franchise, it shall and may be lawful for the attorney general, or the circuit attorney of the proper circuit, with the leave of any circuit court, to exhibit to such court one or more information or informations, in the nature of a quo warranto, at the relation of any person or persons desiring to sue or prosecute the same, who shall be mentioned in such information or informations, as the relator or relators against such person or persons so usurping, intruding into, or unlawfully holding or executing any such office or franchise, and to proceed therein in such manner as is usual in cases of informations in the nature of quo warranto. If it shall appear to said court that the several rights of divers persons to the same office or franchise may properly be determined by one information, it shall and may be lawful for the said court to give leave to exhibit one such information against several persons, in order to try their respective rights to such office or franchise; and such person or persons against whom such information or informations in the nature of a quo warranto shall be sued or prosecuted, shall appear and plead, as of the same term in which the said information or informations shall be filed, unless the court shall give further time to such person or persons against whom such information or informations shall be exhibited, to plead; such person or persons, who shall sue or prosecute such information or informations, shall proceed thereupon with the most convenient speed that may be.

(2.) SEC. II. In case any person or persons against whom any such information in the nature of a quo warranto shall, in any of the said cases, be exhibited as aforesaid, shall be found or adjudged guilty of any usurpation or intrusion into, or unlawfully holding and executing any office or franchise as aforesaid, it shall and may be lawful for the said courts, as well to give judgment of ouster against such person or persons, of and from any of the said offices or franchise, as to fine such person or persons, respectively, for his or their usurping, intruding into or unlawfully holding and executing any such office or franchise; and also to give judgment that the relator or relators in such information named, shall recover his or their costs of such prosecution; and if judgment shall be given for the defendant or defendants in such information, he or they for whom such judgment shall be given, shall recover his or their costs therein expended, against such relator or relators.

(3.) SEC. III. It shall be lawful for the court in which any information as aforesaid shall be exhibited, to allow to the relator or relators, and the defendant or defendants, such convenient time to plead, reply, rejoin or demur, as to said court may seem just and reasonable.

(4.) SEC. IV. Appeals may be taken from the decision of the circuit court, upon such terms as the said circuit court shall prescribe; or writs of error may be prosecuted, whenever the supreme court, or any of the judges thereof in vacation, upon being presented with a copy of the record, shall certify that there is reasonable cause for the bringing such writ. The said supreme court, or judge in vacation, may impose such terms and conditions upon the party wishing to prosecute such writ of error, as to the said court or judge may seem reasonable and just. The allowance of a writ of error shall operate, after notice thereof, as a stay of proceedings in the circuit court, until the determination; but writs of error without supersedeas, shall issue as writs of right, as in other cases.

An Act to provide for the Service of Process on Information in the Nature of Quo Warranto.

(6.) SEC. II. In cases of such service on any incorporated company, it will be sufficient to make the same upon the president or the principal clerk or cashier, secretary or principal agent or superintendent of such company.

PRIOR LAWS. An act to regulate proceedings upon information in the nature of quo warranto; in force Dec. 28, 1826. Rev. Laws, 1827, p. 347; Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 506.

DECISIONS. Where a person is in office by color of right, and exercising the duties thereof, quo warranto is the proper remedy for another person claiming the same office. The People v. Forquer, Breese, 68. See also, The People v. Mobley, 1 S. 215; Field v. The People, 2 S. 79.

The question of the forfeiture of a charter cannot be examined collaterally; quo warranto is the proper mode. Wilms v. Bank of Illinois, 1 G. 667.

To an information in the nature of quo warranto, the defendant should plead, not answer. The People v. Percells, 3 G. 59.

The proceeding by quo warranto is a criminal prosecution, and like an indictment must be carried on "in the name and by the authority of the people of the State of Illinois," and conclude, "against the peace and dignity of the same." Donnelly v. The People, 11 Ill. 552. See also People v. Mississippi and Atlantic R. R. Co., 13 Ill. 66; Wight et al. v. The People, 15 Ill. 417.

When quo warranto is resorted to for the protection of private or individual rights, it is in substance, though not in form, a civil suit, and a change of venue will be allowed under the statute. People ex rel. v. Shaw et al., 13 Ill. 581.

In a proceeding by quo warranto, the defendant must either disclaim or justify; and if he justifies, must set out his title specially, showing by what warrant he holds and exercises the functions of the office. It will be no answer to allege that the relator is not entitled to the office; the defendant must show himself rightfully in office. Clark v. The People, 15 Ill. 213.

(1.) SECTION I. County recorders shall be elected in the several counties of this State on the first Monday in August, on the expiration of the terms of those now in office, and every two years thereafter. When so elected, they shall continue in office for the term of two years, and until their successors are elected and qualified.

(2.) SEC. II. The election of county recorders shall, in all things, be conducted, and returns thereof be made to the office of the secretary of State, as provided by the chapter regulating elections; and upon such election being made, the governor shall commission such county recorder, to continue in office for two years; which commission shall be transmitted by the secretary of State to the clerk of the county commissioners' court of the proper county, and it shall be the duty of said clerk to give immediate notice to such recorder of the receipt of his commission.

(3.) SEC. III. County recorders, previous to entering upon the duties of their office, shall enter into bond to the people of the State of Illinois, each with one or more sufficient sureties, in a bond of five hundred dollars, conditioned for the true and faithful execution of the duties of his office, and to deliver up the records and other writings belonging to his office, safe and undamaged, to his successor in said office; which said bond shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the county commissioners' court, and there safely kept, in order to be made use of, for making satisfaction to the parties that shall be damaged or aggrieved, as is or shall be in such cases directed by law. The securities to such bonds shall be approved by the county commissioners' courts of the respective counties for which said recorders are elected.

(4.) SEC. IV. The election for county recorders shall be held at the same times and places, and conducted in all respects as elections of county commissioners; and all vacancies shall be filled in the same manner; and all contested elections for recorders shall be decided as in other cases. And in case of a contested election between two or more persons who shall have been voted for, for the office of county recorder, a commission shall not issue until such contest shall have been duly decided according to law.

(5.) SEC. V. County recorders may appoint deputies only when they shall be disabled by sickness or other bodily infirmity. They shall keep their offices at the seat of justice of the counties respectively, and on a neglect or a refusal to do so, the county commissioners' court may declare the same to be vacant.

(6.) SEC. VI. No recorder shall enter upon or officiate in his said office, before he hath given such security as is provided in section three, upon pain of forfeiting the sum of one hundred dollars, one-half to the State, and the other half to him or them that shall sue for the same, to be recovered as aforesaid; but no record made by him shall be vacated or so avoided as to operate against the parties to the instrument recorded, by reason of such recorder not giving such bond.

(7.) SEC. VII. Every recorder shall keep a fair book, in which he shall immediately make entry of every deed or writing brought into his office to be recorded, mentioning therein the date, the parties and the place where the lands, tenements or hereditaments granted or conveyed by the said deed or writing are situate, dating the entry on the day on which such deed or writing was brought into his office, and shall record all such deeds and writings in regular succession, according to the priority of time of their being brought into said office; and shall also make and keep a complete alphabetical index to each record book, showing the page on which each instrument is recorded, with the names of the parties thereto; he shall give a receipt to the person bringing such deed or writing to be recorded, bearing date on the same day as the entry, and containing the abstract aforesaid, for which entry and receipt he shall be entitled to no fee or compensation whatever.

(8.) SEC. VIII. It shall be the duty of the county commissioners' courts to provide the county recorders of their respective counties with well-bound books necessary to the execution of the duties of their offices, to be paid for out of the county treasuries.

(9.) SEC. IX. All copies and transcripts of the ancient books, records and papers, bearing date prior to the thirteenth of July, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty-seven, now in the office of the recorder of the county of Randolph, which may be made by the said recorder, from the said papers or records, and attested by him, shall be as authentic in any court of record in this State as if given by the secretary of State; and the said recorder shall be entitled to the same fees for such copies, transcripts and attestations, as he is now entitled to by law for the performance of similar services.

(10.) SEC. X. If any person, whose office has become vacated or determined, or his executors or administrators, shall neglect or refuse to deliver over any record, book, paper, document or other article of public property, when thereto lawfully required by the successor to such officer or other person entitled to the custody thereof, it shall and may be lawful for any judge of the supreme or circuit court of the proper county, upon the affidavit of any competent person, setting forth proper facts, to issue his warrant, directed to the sheriff or coroner of the proper county, commanding him to seize all the records, books, papers, documents and other public property belonging or appertaining to the said officer, and deliver the same to the person entitled to the custody thereof, to be named in such warrant.

(11.) SEC. XI. It shall be lawful for the officer executing any warrant issued as aforesaid, to break open any doors, trunks or places in which any of the records, books, papers, documents or other public property, in such warrant commanded to be seized and secured, may be concealed, or in which he may suspect them to be; and in case of resistance, to arrest any person or persons who may resist the execution of such warrant, and to carry him, her or them before some judge or justice of the peace, to be dealt with as other persons obstructing the execution of such process; and the officer executing such warrant, may call to his assistance the power of the county, in the same manner as in the execution of other process. And any officer to whom any such warrant may be directed and delivered, who shall neglect or refuse to execute and return the same according to law, or otherwise fail to perform any of the duties herein required by him, shall forfeit and pay a sum, not exceeding one thousand nor less than one hundred dollars, to be recovered by indictment, to the use of the county, in any court of competent jurisdiction.

(12.) SEC. XII. It shall be lawful for any person who may think himself aggrieved by the issuing of any warrant as aforesaid, to apply to any judge of the supreme or circuit court of the proper county, who, if he be satisfied, upon the affidavit of the applicant, that there is good cause to believe that injustice has been or is about to be done, under or by virtue of such warrant, shall issue a citation to all persons interested therein, commanding them to appear before such judge, at a place and time to be in such citation named, which shall be executed by the sheriff or coroner, as process issued by the supreme or circuit court. And the judge shall have the power to enforce obedience to such citation by attachment, to be issued by him, and shall have power to proceed in a summary way, and determine according to right and justice, and may issue his warrant for the restoration of any book, record, paper, document or other article of property, which shall appear to him to have been improperly seized or delivered over; which warrant shall be executed in the same manner, and the officer to whom it is directed shall have the same powers, and be liable to the same penalties for neglect of duty, as upon other warrants issued under the provisions of this chapter.

An Act concerning Public Records.

[Approved March 1, 1845. Laws, 1845, p. 37. App. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 587.]

(14.) SEC. II. So much of said recited acts as conflicts with the provisions of this act, is hereby repealed. This act to be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to authorize Recorders to appoint Deputies.

[Approved Feb. 26, 1845. Laws, 1845, p. 30. App. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 587.]

(16.) SEC. II. That the recorder in each county be and he is hereby authorized to appoint a deputy, who shall be sworn to discharge his duty faithfully, in the same manner as the recorder is now sworn, and the acts of said deputy in recording any writings authorized by law to be recorded, shall be deemed valid in all respects, as if recorded by the recorder himself. The recorder shall, at the time of the appointment of said deputy, enter upon the records of his office the certificate of the appointment aforesaid.

(17.) SEC. III. Hereafter the penalty of each recorder's bond shall be in the sum of not less than two nor more than five thousand dollars, to be determined by the county commissioners' court taking the bond.

An Act to amend Chapter LXXXVII of the Revised Statutes, entitled "Records and Recorders."
[Approved March 1, 1847. Laws, 1847, p. 69.]

(19.) SEC. II. The county commissioners' courts of the several counties in this State are hereby required to furnish the recorder of their respective counties with such books of suitable and convenient size as may be necessary to carry into full effect the first section of this act, and to grant such compensation out of their respective county treasuries, to any such recorder as shall have made out such index, as contemplated in the first section of this act, and has not heretofore been paid therefor, such compensation to be agreed upon between said recorder and the commissioners' court of said county; and should they not agree, then the same shall be submitted to three disinterested citizens of said county, one of whom shall be appointed by the county commissioners' court of said county, at any regular term thereof, as soon after the passage of this act as practicable, and one by said recorder, and the third, if not agreed upon by said court and the recorder, shall be appointed by the two who shall be appointed as aforesaid, and the three so appointed shall inspect said index, and report, upon oath, if required by either party, the sufficiency and value of the same; and when said index shall have been paid for as aforesaid, the same shall be open to inspection for reference to the citizens of said county, without charge.

(20.) SEC. III. In any county where no such index has been made, it shall be the duty of the county commissioners' court of such county to employ some competent person to make out the same, and pay him such compensation out of the county treasury as said court may deem just and reasonable.

(21.) SEC. IV. The county commissioners of the county of Will are hereby authorized to cause an index of the records of judgments rendered in the circuit court of said county, as well as the record of judgments filed in the office of the clerk of the said circuit court, to be made, if, in the opinion of the said commissioners, the making of each index only is necessary; otherwise the said commissioners shall cause to be transcribed the whole of the said judgment record into a well-bound book to be by them provided for that purpose, and the record, so transcribed, shall become and constitute a portion of the records of said circuit court, and shall be as valid in law as if originally recorded in the same. The county commissioners' court of said county shall cause to be paid to the person employed by them to carry out the provisions of this section, a fair and reasonable compensation, and in case of disagreement, the amount shall be determined in the manner already provided in this act for services in transcribing of other records. This act to be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to transcribe the Records of Scott County.

(23.) SEC. II. When the deeds, mortgages and other writings aforesaid shall be copied, the recorder of Morgan county shall assist in comparing said copies with the records thereof, and when all errors, if any, shall have been corrected, the person so employed, and the recorder of Morgan county, shall make, sign and make oath to a certificate, stating that said copy has been truly and correctly made from the records of said office, which certificate shall be made upon the book in which the deeds are copied as aforesaid.

(24.) SEC. III. Copies made from the book in which the deeds shall be copied as aforesaid, certified by the recorder of Scott county, may be used as evidence prima facie of the existence and contents of the original deeds.

(25.) SEC. IV. The recorder of Morgan county shall be allowed and paid for his services and the use of his office, in comparing and certifying to the deeds copied under the provisions of this act, five cents for each deed or mortgage, which shall be paid by the county of Scott.

(26.) SEC. V. The county commissioners of Scott county may allow the persons authorized to make the copies aforesaid, not exceeding ten cents for every one hundred words of said copy; said court shall also pay for the record book or books used under the provisions of this act.

An Act in relation to the Records of Kendall County.

[Approved Feb. 16, 1847. Laws, 1847, p. 71.]

(27.) SEC. I. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly, That the county commissioners' court of Kendall county be and it is hereby authorized to employ a competent person to make a complete index to the records in the recorder's office of said county. There shall be an index of the names of the grantors and of the grantees, and also of the tracts or parcels of land; and the recorder of said county, after said index or indexes shall be so made, is hereby required to keep the same in that manner without additional compensation. The said person so employed shall take an oath faithfully to perform the duties herein required of him, which may be taken before the clerk of the said court, and filed in his office. The said county commissioners' court is hereby authorized to pay the person so to be employed, a reasonable compensation, to be fixed by them, out of any money in the treasury of said county not otherwise appropriated.

An Act in relation to the Records of Peoria County.

(29.) SEC. II. This act to be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to transcribe certain Records in Greene, Will and Pulaski Counties.

(31.) SEC. II. When said records have been transcribed as aforesaid, the same shall become and constitute a portion of the records of said court, and shall be as valid in law as if originally recorded in the same. If the said records, when so transcribed, shall not fill the book furnished as aforesaid, sales hereafter made may be recorded in the same.

(32.) SEC. III. The clerk of the county commissioners' court of said county shall be allowed a reasonable compensation for performing the duties required of him under this act, to be paid out of the county treasury.

(33.) SEC. IV. When said records have been so transcribed, it shall be the duty of said court, at some convenient time thereafter, not exceeding three months, to carefully compare the same with the original records, (and make corrections, if any may be required,) and certify the same under their signatures as being a true and perfect transcript of the sales aforesaid, as originally recorded.

(34.) SEC. V. The aforesaid act shall be applicable to the county of Will, and it shall be the duty of the county commissioners' court of the county of Will, to cause the records of said county to be transcribed, as expressed in this act.

(35.) SEC. VI. The recorder of Will county is hereby authorized, by himself or deputy, to transcribe all the records in the Cook County recorder's office, of deeds and mortgages given for lands situated in the county of Will, where the same were recorded in Cook county, previous to the formation of Will county out of a part of the county of Cook. It shall be the duty of the said recorder or his deputy, in transcribing such records, to transcribe, in a neat and accurate manner, all town plats situated in the county of Will, and recorded as above, as well as every other instrument or article touching the interest of the people of said county, that may have been recorded in Cook county previous to the formation of Will county, in a good and substantial book, which he shall procure for that purpose.

(36.) SEC. VII. The said recorder or his deputy shall have access to all records of the county of Cook for the purpose of making such transcription; and when the same shall have been made, the recorder of Cook county, or his deputy, shall assist the person making such transcription, to compare every article transcribed with the original record, to correct errors, if any shall have been made, and at the close of the same, the said recorder of Cook county shall make a certificate that the foregoing transcribed records have been carefully compared with the original records in his office, and found to be correctly transcribed in every particular.

(37.) SEC. VIII. The county commissioners' court of Will county, at their first term after the completion of the said transcribed record, shall order the clerk of said court to draw an order in favor of the recorder, upon the treasurer of said county, for the sum of two dollars and fifty cents per day for every day actually employed in making out such transcribed record, and also for such an amount as the record book may have cost; the number of days employed to be certified under oath of the person doing the work. They shall also cause to be paid to the recorder of the county of Cook, five cents for each article transcribed; and when the same shall have been transcribed as before mentioned, each article shall be as valid to all intents and purposes as if the same had been originally recorded in the county of Will.

(38.) SEC. IX. That James S. Smith, of North Caledonia, in Pulaski county, be and he is hereby authorized to transcribe the records of Johnson county and Alexander county, so far as the same may affect in any way the rights of persons resident in Pulaski county, or the interests in real estate lying in said county of Pulaski, and shall receive such compensation as the county commissioners' court of Pulaski county shall allow, to be paid out of the treasury of Pulaski county; and for the purposes of transcribing said records, the recorders of Alexander and Johnson counties shall allow said Smith free access to the records of their respective counties, such time as will enable him to complete the same.

(39.) SEC. X. Said James S. Smith shall deposit in the recorder's office of the county of Pulaski, the said records when so transcribed, certified by him to be a true and perfect copy of such parts of the records of said counties of Johnson and Alexander, as affect the interests in Pulaski county of persons and lands; which transcribed records shall have the same force and effect in law that the originals have in the counties from which they have been transcribed; and copies thereof, certified, shall be evidence of the facts contained therein, as if certified from the originals in all respects whatever. This act to be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to legalize the Records of the Recorder's Office in Macoupin County.

[Approved Jan. 20, 1849. Laws, 1849, p. 107.]

recorder, or the person acting as such, of Macoupin county, and State of Illinois, between the first of May, A. D. 1846, and the first of September, A. D. 1847, shall be legal, valid and binding, as though done by the recorder in person.

An Act to authorize certain Records to be Transcribed.

[Approved Jan. 20, 1849. Laws, 1849, p. 108.]

(42.) SEC. II. It shall be the duty of said court, when they make such appointment, to provide a sufficient number of blank books, substantially bound, and suitable for recording deeds in, which books, when provided, shall be delivered to the aforesaid commissioner, who shall receipt for the same.

(43.) SEC. III. As soon as such books shall be delivered to said commissioner, he shall record in each book a copy of the order appointing him, and his oath of office, and proceed in due time to all recording offices in this State, where deeds or title papers for lands lying within the said county of Schuyler have been by law required or permitted to be recorded, or where such records may be deposited or kept, and shall, from the books of said offices, make out and record in a fair and legible manner in the books furnished him for that purpose, all deeds and title papers to lands lying in the said county of Schuyler, which have been recorded in any such recording office as aforesaid; after which said commissioner shall return the books so delivered to him to the recorder of the county of Schuyler, and the said recorder shall make a certificate of the delivery of said books to him at the end of each of them.

(44.) SEC. IV. It shall be the duty of all recorders and other persons who may have the care, custody or control of any of the books in which deeds and other title papers to lands lying within the county of Schuyler, have been recorded, to permit said commissioner to make transcripts of all and every such deed and title paper, and for that purpose to have access to and the use of the books in which such deeds or title papers may be recorded.

(45.) SEC. V. The said commissioner, in transcribing the deeds and title papers aforesaid, shall, immediately after transcribing each deed, title paper and acknowledgment, note in the said book at what time, in what office, book and page, the same were originally recorded.

(46.) SEC. VI. When such transcripts shall be delivered to the recorder of Schuyler county by said commissioner, they shall, to all intents and purposes, be considered as books of record of deeds and title papers for the said county of Schuyler, and copies of such transcribed deeds and title papers, certified by the recorder of Schuyler, shall be evidence in all courts in this State, in the same manner that copies of deeds regularly recorded in the recorder's office of said county are evidence, and with the like effect.

(47.) SEC. VII. The said county court shall have power to fill any vacancy which may happen in the said office of commissioner.

(48.) SEC. VIII. The recorder of Schuyler, upon the delivery of the transcribed records aforesaid, by the commissioner aforesaid, shall estimate the number of deeds and other title papers which may have been transcribed by said commissioner as aforesaid, and shall certify the result to [the] county court aforesaid, and said court shall thereupon make an order upon the treasury of the county, in favor of such commissioner, for his services, at and after the rate of twenty-five cents for each and every deed and title paper so transcribed by him as aforesaid; which said order shall be paid as other county orders are now required to be paid.

(49.) SEC. IX. This act to take effect from and after its passage.

An Act to authorize the County of Bureau to transcribe Records of Putnam County.

(51.) SEC. II. The person obtaining the aforesaid contract shall, before entering upon the duties enjoined by this act, take and subscribe an oath or affirmation carefully and faithfully to perform the same; which oath or affirmation may be administered and certified to the clerk of the aforesaid court, by any justice of the peace in said county, and shall also give bond, with good and sufficient security, in such sum as the county commissioners' or county court may determine.

(52.) SEC. III. It shall be the duty of the county commissioners' or county court of said county, after making such contract, or as soon thereafter as may be convenient, to provide a sufficient number of suitable blank books, substantially bound, for the purpose contemplated by this act.

(53.) SEC. IV. As soon as such book or books shall be delivered to the aforesaid contractor, he shall proceed to the office of the recorder of the county of Putnam, and shall from the books in said office make out and record, in a fair and legible manner, in the book or books furnished him, all records contemplated by the foregoing provisions of this act, and shall certify at the end of each volume, that the deeds, certificates, title papers, and all other writings contained therein, are true and correct copies from the records of the county of Putnam. When the said contractor shall have finished transcribing the records contemplated by this act, he shall also certify that these books (naming or numbering them) contain all the records appertaining to real estate lying in the county of Bureau, and on record in the office of the recorder of Putnam county.

(54.) SEC. V. It shall be the duty of the recorder of the county of Putnam to permit said contractor to make transcripts of all and every record required by the provisions of this act, and for that purpose to use the books in which such instruments may be recorded, free of charge.

(55.) SEC. VI. The said contractor shall be paid for his services out of the county treasury of Bureau county.

(56.) SEC. VII. When the records made by authority of this act are completed in the manner contemplated therein, and deposited in the recorder's office of the county of Bureau, certified copies of the same, made by the recorder of the aforesaid county, shall be evidence in all courts and places, and with the same effect as if made by the recorder of the county of Putnam.

(57.) SEC. VIII. Said county court are hereby authorized, in like manner as is provided by this act for transcribing the records of deeds of said county of Putnam, to cause to be transcribed all records of sales of lands for taxes, made in said county of Putnam, and which lands may lie in said county of Bureau; and also all records of judgments, or other public records of said county of Putnam, necessary for the use or security of the people of said Bureau county, or any lands situate therein. And all such transcribed records, when deposited in the proper office of said Bureau county, as provided by this act for transcripts of the records of deeds aforesaid, and copies duly certified from them, shall be evidence to the same extent that the original records of said Putnam county, or transcripts from them, would be; and the officers of said Putnam county, having the custody of such original records, shall permit said transcripts to be taken therefrom free of charge.

An Act to authorize the Recorder of St. Clair County to transcribe certain Records in said County.

(59.) SEC. II. All such records so transcribed shall have the same force, validity and effect as is by law allowed to other records; and copies thereof, duly certified, shall be competent evidence in any of the courts of this State.

An Act to amend an Act entitled "An Act to authorize certain Records to be Transcribed," approved Jan. 29, 1849.

(61.) SEC. II. All the powers and privileges conferred by this bill or the act to which this is an amendment, upon the county court of the county of Schuyler, be and the same are hereby as fully conferred upon the county court of the county of Brown.

(62.) SEC. III. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to amend the Recording Laws of this State.

[Approved Feb. 12, 1851. Laws, 1851, p. 80.]

(64.) SEC. II. That whenever any recorder, heretofore in office, has neglected to keep up said indexes, it shall be the duty of the recorder now in office, to make and complete said indexes mentioned in the preceding section, for which he shall receive a compensation of five cents for each tract of land embraced in the deed, mortgage or other instrument, to be paid out of the county treasury: Provided, That after said indexes are completed, no compensation shall be allowed to said recorders for keeping up said indexes.

(65.) SEC. III. All laws in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to authorize the County of Menard to transcribe Records of Sangamon County.

(67.) SEC. II. The said clerk shall, before entering upon the duties enjoined by this act, take and subscribe an oath or affirmation, carefully and faithfully to perform the same; which oath or affirmation may be administered and certified to the said court by any justice in said county, and shall also give bond in such sum as said court may determine, with good and sufficient security.

(68.) SEC. III. It shall be the duty of said county court of said county of Menard, as soon as may be convenient thereafter, to provide a sufficient number of suitable blank books substantially bound, for the purpose contemplated in this act.

(69.) SEC. IV. As soon as such book or books shall be delivered to the aforesaid clerk and ex officio recorder, he shall proceed to the office of the recorder of Sangamon county, and shall, from the books in said office, make out and record, in a fair and legible manner, in the book or books furnished him, all records contemplated by the foregoing provisions of this act, and shall certify, at the end of each volume, that the deeds, certificates, title papers and all other writings contained therein, are true and correct copies from the records of the county of Sangamon. When the said clerk shall have finished transcribing the records contemplated by this act, he shall also certify that these books (naming or numbering them) contain all the records appertaining to real estate lying in the county of Menard, and on record in the recorder's office of Sangamon county.

(70.) SEC. V. It shall be the duty of the recorder of the county of Sangamon, to permit the said clerk of Menard circuit court, and ex officio recorder, to make transcripts of all and every record required by the provisions of this act, and, for that purpose, to use the books in which such instruments may be recorded, free of charge.

(71.) SEC. VI. When the records made by the authority of this act are completed, in the manner contemplated herein, and deposited in the recorder's office of Menard county, certified copies of the same, made by the recorder of Menard county, shall be evidence in all courts and places, and with the same effect as if made by the recorder of Sangamon county.

(72.) SEC. VII. The said clerk and ex officio recorder of Menard county shall be allowed for his services, required to be performed in this act, the same fees now allowed by law for recording deeds, mortgages, and other instruments in writing, to be paid out of the county treasury of Menard county.

(73.) SEC. VIII. This act to be in force from and after its passage.

An Act in relation to the Records of the Counties of Carroll and Putnam.

[Approved Feb. 15, 1851. Laws, 1851, p. 130.]

(74.) SEC. I. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly, That the county court of Putnam county and the board of supervisors of the county of Carroll, be, and they hereby are, authorized, each of them, to employ a competent person to make a complete index to the records in the recorder's office of their respective counties. There shall be an index of the names of the grantors and of the grantees, and also of the tracts or parcels of land; and the recorder of said counties, after said index or indexes shall be so made, is required to keep the same in that manner without additional compensation; and such index or indexes shall be kept in said recorder's office. The said persons so employed shall take an oath faithfully to perform the duties herein required of them, which may be taken before any justice of the peace, and shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the circuit court. The said county court and board of supervisors are each respectively authorized to pay the person so to be employed by them, a reasonable compensation, out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated.

An Act to provide for making Indexes to certain Records in La Salle County.

(76.) SEC. II. The board of supervisors of said county shall determine the time and the manner of making such indexes, and shall allow and pay to said clerk a reasonable compensation for his services in making such indexes; the amount of said compensation to be fixed by said board of supervisors.

(77.) SEC. III. This act to be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to authorize the County Court of Sangamon to transcribe certain Records.

[Approved Feb. 10, 1853. Laws, 1853, p. 167.]

(79.) SEC. II. That the said transcript, when made and properly certified by the clerk of the circuit court and ex officio recorder of said county, shall have all the legal force and effect of the original record.

(80.) SEC. III. This act to be in force from and after its passage.

An Act in relation to certain Records in Crawford County.

[Approved Feb. 11, 1853. Laws, 1853, p. 211.]

(82.) SEC. II. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act for transcribing certain Records in Coles County.

county, from record "B." back to the organization of said county, that William D. Latshaw, of Charleston, in said county, is hereby authorized and required, by himself or his authorized deputy or deputies, to transcribe said records into well-bound books, to be furnished by the county court of said county, and for that purpose shall have access to all the public records of said county.

(84.) SEC. II. When said records have been fully transcribed, as aforesaid, the same shall become and constitute a portion of the records of said court, and shall be as valid in law as if originally recorded in the same.

(85.) SEC. III. That the said William D. Latshaw shall be allowed as a compensation for performing the duties required of him under this act, for every one hundred words and figures, in transcribing probate records, eight cents; and for each tract of land and town lot transcribed, five cents; to be paid out of the county treasury from time to time, as the said transcribing progresses.

(86.) SEC. IV. It shall be the duty of the judge of the county court of said county, within three months after the transcribing of the probate records aforesaid shall have been completed, to carefully compare the same, in open court, with the original records, (making corrections, if any be necessary,) and certify the same, under his signature, as being a true and perfect transcript of said records, as originally recorded; and the said judge, having associated with himself one or both of the county justices of the peace of said county, shall, in like manner, examine and compare the transcript of the tax sales with the original records, and certify the same, under their signatures, as being a true and perfect transcript of the sales aforesaid, as originally recorded.

(87.) SEC. V. This act to be in effect from and after the 14th February, 1853.

An Act concerning the Records of Massac County.

(89.) SEC. II. The person or persons employed by the county court of Massac county to procure copies as aforesaid, shall have full access to the books in the recorders' offices of Johnson and Pope counties, for the purpose of making such copies, and the recorders of Johnson and Pope counties shall carefully compare such copies with the records in their offices, and if they find them to be correct, they shall make a certificate to that effect, under their hands and seals, at the end of each volume of said copies.

(90.) SEC. III. At the end of each copy of each deed, or other writing, copied as aforesaid, the person copying the same shall note the volume and page of the record from which it is copied.

(91.) SEC. IV. For their services in comparing such copies, the recorders of Johnson and Pope counties shall be entitled to a compensation not exceeding ten cents for each deed or other writing so compared by them, to be paid by Massac county.

(92.) SEC. V. All copies made, compared and certified as aforesaid, and all transcripts of such copies, certified under the hand and official seal of the recorder of said Massac county, shall be received and taken in all courts of justice, and other places in this State, in as full and ample a manner as the records from which they shall be taken: Provided, however, That if any discrepancy or variance shall be found to exist between the said copies and the records of Johnson and Pope counties, certified by the recorders thereof to be correct, and to have been examined with reference to such variance, shall be received as the proper evidence.

(93.) SEC. VI. This act shall not be so construed as to change or affect the existing laws of this State in relation to the admission of copies of deeds and other writings as evidence, but the same rules of evidence, as to the production of the original deeds or writings, shall be pursued as is now provided by law.

(94.) SEC. VII. This act to take effect from and after its passage, and to be deemed a public act.

An Act in regard to Indexes of Records of Deeds, Mortgages and other Instruments.

[Approved Feb. 12, 1853. Laws 1853, p. 254.]

(96.) SEC. II. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act in relation to Certain Records.

[Approved Feb. 10, 1853. Laws 1853, p. 260.]

(98.) SEC. II. Said clerk shall in like manner make and keep an execution docket of all executions, and the returns thereon, issued by the predecessors in office of the said clerk, or which had not been docketed, as required by law, prior to the said clerk taking charge of said office.

(99.) SEC. III. The county court of said county of Clark, shall pay the said clerk the sum of eight cents for each judgment or execution so docketed as aforesaid.

(100.) SEC. IV. This act to be in force from and after its passage.

An act legalizing certain records in Greene county, and authorizing recorders to appoint deputies in certain cases; in force Jan. 24, 1843. Laws, 1843, p. 203.

An act concerning the records of Jersey county; in force Feb. 1, 1843. Laws, 1843, p. 204.

An act to repair the damages occasioned by the destruction of the records and public documents of Jackson county; in force Feb. 1, 1843. Laws, 1843, p. 205.

An act in relation to certain records in Adams county; in force Feb. 3, 1843. Laws, 1843, p. 208.

An act to amend an act entitled "An act to provide for transcribing certain records therein named," approved Feb. 12, 1835; in force March 4, 1843. Laws, 1843, p. 212.

DECISIONS. A deed is valid between the parties to it, without being acknowledged or recorded. A deed acknowledged before a justice of the peace, can be recorded only in the county where the justice resides and the land lies, unless the clerk's certificate of magistracy be appended. Semple v. Miles, 2 S. 315; McConnel v. Reed, 2 S. 371.

Under the acts of 1827 and 1829, in regard to recording deeds, bona fide subsequent purchasers and mortgagees only are protected against the effect of an unrecorded deed. Robinson v. Rowan, 2 S. 499.

The act of 1833, in regard to recording deeds, is remedial, but not retrospective, in its effect. Idem.

A deed acknowledged and recorded is admissible in evidence without proof of execution. McConnel v. Johnson, 2 S. 522.

It is not the duty of a recorder of deeds to give information as to the legal effect of the records in his office; but he is obliged to search and give information whether deeds, &c., are on record, and refer the party to them. If he give incorrect information, he is guilty of a breach of duty, and is liable therefor on his official bond. Lusk et al. v. Carlin, 4 S. 395.

The object of the recording laws is to protect purchasers against latent equities. The deed first recorded, must prevail over a prior unrecorded deed, when the first recorded deed is made in good faith. McConnel v. Reed, 4 S. 117.

Such notice of the existence of an unrecorded instrument, as shows a subsequent purchaser guilty of fraud in making his purchase, gives the unrecorded instrument, priority. The effect of recording an agreement for the sale of land, is, under the statute, the same as that of a deed; and the word "subsequent," in the recording act of 1833, has reference to the time of recording, not the date of the instrument. Doyle et al. v. Teas et al., 4 S. 202.

The registry acts do not apply to patents issued by the State or the United States, nor to unsold lands of the United States. Recording a deed, not required by law to be recorded, is not notice to any one. Under the statute, a deed takes effect from the time of filing the same for record; not from the time when it is actually recorded. Moore et ux. v. Hunter, 1 G. 317; Cook v. Hall, 1 G. 575; Rhinehart v. Schuyler, 1 G. 473.

The statute in regard to recording, applies to administrators' deeds as well as others; and when parties are equally innocent and meritorious, he who first places his title on record must prevail. Choteau v. Jones et al., 11 Ill. 300.

The 7th section of the recording act of 1829, is only directory to the recorder, and the performance of what is there prescribed, is not indispensable to the validity of the deed. A deed delivered to one who has custody of the records, and acts as recorder, is a sufficient delivery to entitle the deed to be filed for record. Cook v. Hall, 1 G. 575.

CHAPTER LXXXVIII.

REPLEVIN.

SECTION

1. Replevin may be maintained for goods wrongfully taken or detained.
2. In what cases action of replevin will not lie.
3. Plaintiff to make oath; its contents.
4. Plaintiff to give bond to the sheriff.
5. Proceedings to be by plaintiff and summons.
6. Judgment in case plaintiff fails; in case he succeeds.

SECTION

7. Who may sue on bond, if breach be made.
8. If sheriff fail to take bond, he shall be liable.
9. Avowry and cognizance, in cases of distress for rent.
10. When oath may state belief of defendant.
11. Goods not found, value thereof recoverable.
12. Declaration in trover to be filed.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 433.]

(1.) SECTION I. Whenever any goods or chattels shall have been wrongfully distrained, or otherwise wrongfully taken, or shall be wrongfully detained, an action of replevin may be brought for the recovery of such goods or chattels, by the owner or person entitled to their possession.

(2.) SEC. II. No action of replevin shall lie at the suit of the defendant in any execution or attachment, to recover goods or chattels seized by virtue thereof, unless such goods or chattels are exempted, by law, from such execution or attachment; nor shall an action of replevin lie for such goods and chattels at the suit of any other person, unless he shall, at the time, have a right to reduce into his possession the goods taken.

(3.) SEC. III. The person or persons bringing such action, or some one in his, her or their behalf, shall, before any writ shall issue, make oath or affirmation before the clerk of the circuit court, or any justice of the peace of the proper county, that the plaintiff in such action is the owner of the property described in the writ and about to be replevied, or that he is then lawfully entitled to the possession thereof; and that the same has not been taken for any tax, assessment or fine, levied by virtue of any law of this State; nor seized under any execution or attachment against the goods and chattels of such plaintiff, liable to execution or attachment.

(4.) SEC. IV. Before the execution of any writ of replevin, the party suing out such writ, shall give bond to the sheriff, with good and sufficient security, in double the value of the property about to be replevied, conditioned that he or they will prosecute such suit to effect, and without delay, and make return of the property, if return thereof shall be awarded, and save and keep harmless the said sheriff in replevying such property; and the sheriff shall thereupon serve such writ, and deliver the property therein mentioned to the party suing out such writ.

(5.) SEC. V. The proceedings in an action of replevin shall be commenced by plaint, with a summons to the defendant, in which shall be stated a description of the property to be replevied, and the sheriff shall return the bond by him taken, together with the writ, to the clerk, who shall file the same.

(6.) SEC. VI. If any plaintiff in the action of replevin shall fail to prosecute his suit with effect, and without delay, or shall suffer a non-suit or discontinuance, or if the right of property shall be adjudged against him, the court shall give judgment for a return of the property taken, and damages for the use of the property from the time it was taken until return thereof shall be made; and if judgment be given for the plaintiff, he shall recover damages for the detention of such property while in the possession of the defendant; and the damages in either case shall be assessed by the jury, in case of a trial; but if the plaintiff shall not prosecute his suit, or if judgment shall in any manner be given for the defendant, without a trial, the damages in such case may be assessed by the court, on hearing such testimony as may be offered on the subject.

(7.) SEC. VII. If at any time the condition of the bond required by the fourth section of this chapter shall be broken, the sheriff, or plaintiff in the name of the sheriff to his own use, as the case may be, may sue and maintain an action on such bond, for the recovery of such damages as may have been sustained in consequence of the breach of such condition.

(8.) SEC. VIII. If any sheriff shall fail to take and return a bond, as required by the fourth section of this chapter, or shall return an insufficient bond, such sheriff shall pay to the party injured, all damages which he may sustain or be put to, in consequence of such neglect; to be recovered by an action on the case in the circuit court.

(9.) SEC. IX. It shall be sufficient for the defendant, in all cases of replevin for distress taken for rent, to avow or make cognizance generally, without particularly setting forth the tenure or title to the lands whereon such distress was taken.

(10.) SEC. X. When the oath required in section three, is made by another in behalf of the claimant, it shall be sufficient to state that he believes the facts stated in such affidavit to be true.

See ante, p. 830, under title "PRACTICE," "An act amendatory of the practice act," approved Feb. 10, 1849.

See also, ante, p. 830, under title "PRACTICE," "An act concerning practice," approved March 1, 1847.

An Act to amend Chapter LXXXVIII. of the Revised Statutes, approved March 3rd, 1845, entitled "Replevin."

[Approved Feb. 15, 1851. Laws, 1851, p. 106.]

the goods and chattels specified in the writ of replevin to be replevied, cannot be found by the officer having such writ, or shall not have been delivered to the officer, the defendant shall be summoned by virtue of such writ by the officer reading the same to him, to appear and answer to the plaintiff's action for the recovery of the value of such property; such reading of the writ to have the same force and effect as the service of summons in other actions.

(12.) SEC. II. In such action of replevin, in case the property named in such writ shall not be found or replevied, or shall not have been delivered as aforesaid, and the defendant shall have been summoned as aforesaid, the plaintiff may file his declaration in trover, and the cause shall be heard and determined as other actions of trover; and the plaintiff, if he shall recover, shall be entitled to judgment and execution for the value of such property, or of his interest therein, and such damage as he shall have sustained by reason of the wrongful taking or detention thereof, together with the costs of suit.

PRIOR LAWS. An act to regulate the action of replevin; in force June 1, 1827. Rev. Laws, 1827, p. 349; Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 508.

An act supplemental to an act entitled "An act to regulate the action of replevin," approved Jan. 29, 1827; approved Feb. 12, 1839. Laws, 1839, p. 77.

DECISIONS. Debt is a proper form of action on a replevin bond. The condition of a replevin bond, was in the language of the statute, and in a suit on the bond, the declaration alleged that such proceedings were had in the replevin suit, that the plaintiff was adjudged to take nothing by his writ, and that thereupon a retorno habendo issued and was delivered to the officer, and that the plaintiff did not prosecute his suit with effect, or make return of the property: Held, that the breaches were sufficiently set out in the declaration. Manning et al. v. Pierce, 2 S. 4.

Property was delivered by A. to B., for which B. gave notes to A., payable thereafter. At the same time, A. gave B. a memorandum, that when the notes were paid, the property should belong to B., and that the memorandum should be "a perfect bill of sale of the same," but that until the payment of the notes, the memorandum should operate as a license to B. to use the property. Before the maturity of the notes, B. sold the property, and A. replevied it of the purchaser. The purchaser knew of the existence of the memorandum, but it did not appear that he knew its contents. Under the instructions of the court, the jury found for the defendant, in replevin, as in case of a non-suit, and assessed his damages. Upon these facts, the supreme court refused to grant a supersedeas. Morris v. Grover, 2 S. 528.

In a declaration on a replevin bond, a breach, stating that the judgment was in favor of the defendant, that a return of the property was adjudged to him, and that the plaintiff refused to return the property according to the order, is sufficient; and the declaration need not aver that a writ of retorno habendo issued. The breach need not be stated in broader terms than those used in the condition of the bond. Hunter v. Sherman, 2 S. 539.

The action of replevin cannot be maintained against a gratuitous bailee, having no interest in the property bailed, and holding possession lawfully for the bailor, without a demand of the possession of the property about to be replevied. Hulson v. Mize, 3 S. 579.

The statute of Feb. 12, 1839, on the subject of replevin, enlarges the common law remedy, as well as the remedy given in the statute of June 1, 1827, and extends it to a wrongful detention only. Under the latter statute, the general issue is non detinet. At the common law, and under the former statute, the general issue is non cepit. Under the plea of non detinet, the plaintiff must prove not only the wrongful detention, but also the right to immediate possession. The mode of commencing a suit in replevin, under the statutes, is, first, for the plaintiff to make affidavit of the nature of his complaint; second, for the clerk to issue his writ of replevin, which contains the plaint and summons mentioned in the act of 1827, setting out the substance of the affidavit by way of plaint or complaint, and concluding with a summons to the defendant; and, thirdly, by filing a declaration. See Anderson v. Talcott, 1 G. 365; Amos v. Sinnott, 4 S. 440.

The affidavit for the writ of replevin, when made by the agent of the plaintiff, should be as positive as when made by the plaintiff himself. In this respect, the 3rd section of the law of 1839, repeals the 6th section of the law of 1827. An insufficient affidavit may be amended on motion seasonably made; but a motion to dismiss, for want of sufficient affidavit, is too late after the party has appeared and pleaded. The affidavit is not the foundation of the jurisdiction of the court. Frink v. Flanagan, 1 G. 35.

Under the issue of non detinet, found for the defendant in an action of replevin, the writ of retorno habendo will not be awarded if the defendant shows no title or right of possession, in himself or any other person, to the property. Johnson v. Howe et al., 2 G. 342.

To a suit on a replevin bond in the name of the sheriff, for the use of one of the parties interested, the defendant demurred; the court held the nominal plaintiff the only one whom it could notice, and the fact that one, of several interested parties, had sued in the name of the sheriff, could not be questioned by a demurrer. Buckmaster v. Beames et al., 4 G. 443.

The plea of non cepit in replevin, only puts in issue the taking of the property, and does not warrant a judgment of retorno habendo. Vose et al. v. Hart, 12 Ill. 378.

The affidavit in replevin should state that the property had not been distrained for taxes assessed. It is not error to refuse leave to amend the affidavit, after judgment given, sustaining a motion to quash the writ. The assessment of damages by the court under the 6th section of the replevin act of 1845, is not a violation of the right of trial by jury. Campbell v. Head, 13 Ill. 122.

The owner of property wrongfully taken, may pursue it so long as it can be identified, though changed in form, unless it be made part of some other thing which is the principal, such as coin made into a cup or timber into a house. Davis v. Easley et al., 13 Ill. 192.

A demand and refusal must be proved, in order to recover in an action of replevin in the detinet. And such demand, if made by an agent, should be accompanied by proof of the authority of the agent. In replevin in the detinet alone, the same proof is required as in the action of trover. Ingalls v. Bulkeley, 13 Ill. 315.

A verdict and judgment in replevin, are conclusive only as between the parties and their privies. The defendant in replevin may plead property in a third person, but such person is not bound by the verdict, unless connected with the party who filed the plea. Edwards et al. v. McCurdy et al., 13 Ill. 496.

In a suit on a replevin bond, the defendant, who wishes to plead, under the statute, that the merits of the case were not determined on the trial of the action in which the bond was given, must set forth enough of the proceedings in the former action to enable the court to decide whether the right of property was determined. When the right of property is put in issue by a defendant, and the verdict is in his favor, the writ of retorno habendo is awarded, of course. King et al. v. Ramsay, 13 Ill. 619.

The plea of non detinet admits the right of property in the plaintiff, and only puts in issue the detention. The authority of a person making a demand of property withheld, may be questioned; and when one refuses to deliver property, because he doubts the authority of the person demanding, he should distinctly assign that as his reason for refusal. Ingalls v. Bulkeley, 15 Ill. 224.

In replevin, the jury may find a part of the property in the plaintiff and a part in the defendant. O'Keefe v. Kellogg, 15 Ill. 347.

When there is a judgment of retorno habendo for costs, and a writ of inquiry of damages for a detention, either the court or jury may assess the damages. Butler v. Mehring, 15 Ill. 488.

(1.) SECTION I. All property, real and personal, within this State, shall be liable to taxation, subject to the exceptions hereinafter stated.

(2.) SEC. II. The term "real property," with respect to the assessment and collection of the revenue, shall be construed to include all lands within this State, and all buildings and other things erected on or affixed to the same; and the terms "lands" and "lots," whenever they occur in this chapter, shall be construed as having the same meaning as "real property."

(3.) SEC. III. The term "personal property" shall be construed to include all household furniture, goods and chattels, all ships and vessels, whether at home or abroad, all moneys on hand and moneys loaned, whether within or without this State, all public stocks, stocks in turnpikes, bridges, insurance companies and moneyed corporations; also all commissions, and every species of property not included in the description of real estate.

(4.) SEC. IV. The following property shall be exempt from taxation: First, the real and personal property of the United States and of this State. Second, all lands sold by the United States, until the term of five years from the sale thereof, shall have expired: Provided, That if Congress shall pass a law, expressing the consent of the federal government that such lands may be taxed as soon as sold, then they shall be subject to taxation in accordance with the provisions of such law: Provided, further, That this exemption shall not extend to lands acquired by the United States by purchase of individuals on the re-sale of such lands by the United States. Third, all lands belonging to the school fund of any township in this State, and every school-house, court-house, jail, and the land whereon such buildings are situated, all property which is, or may be exempt from taxation by special law, and all county lands and buildings set apart for county purposes, not to exceed five acres. Fourth, every building erected for religious worship, the pews and furniture within the same, and the land whereon such building is situated, not exceeding ten acres; also, every burial ground not exceeding ten acres, or such quantity as in any case may have heretofore been exempted by law: Provided, That such personal or real property shall not be exempt from taxation longer than the same is so used. Fifth, every building erected for the use of any literary, religious, benevolent, charitable or scientific institution, and the tract of land on which the same is situated, not exceeding ten acres; also, the personal property belonging to any such institution, and connected with and set apart for the use thereof.

(5.) SEC. V. Lands reserved to or for any individual, by any treaty between the United States and any Indian tribe or nation, shall be liable to taxation from the date of the confirmation of such treaty.

(6.) SEC. VI. Every person exercising the business of a stock or exchange broker, in buying or selling stocks, bank notes, gold or silver money, or bills of exchange, or lottery tickets, shall be required to obtain a license therefor from the clerk of the county commissioners' court of the county in which he resides, which shall authorize him to carry on such business for one year from the date thereof; for which license he shall pay to the said clerk, for the use of the State, the sum of one hundred dollars. Any broker failing to obtain such license, on or before the first day of May in each year, shall forfeit and pay to the State the sum of five hundred dollars, to be recovered by action of debt in the name of the State of Illinois, in any court having jurisdiction of the amount.

(7.) SEC. VII. Every hawker or peddler who may desire to hawk or peddle any goods, wares, merchandise or clocks, throughout the State, shall, on the payment of fifty dollars for the use of said State, to the secretary of State, be entitled to receive a license authorizing him to pursue such occupation in every county of the State; and any hawker or peddler may procure a license for a single county, on the payment to the county commissioners' clerk of said county, for the use of the county, the sum of ten dollars. Any person pursuing the occupation of a hawker or peddler within this State, or any of the counties thereof, without license, shall forfeit and pay, one-half for the use of the person complaining thereof, and the other half for the use of the State, the sum of one hundred dollars, to be recovered by action of debt in the name of the State of Illinois, before any justice of the peace, or probate justice of the peace, subject to appeal to the circuit court as in other cases: Provided, That this section shall not apply to persons whose ordinary occupation is not that of a peddler, nor to those engaged in vending articles manufactured in this State.

(8.) SEC. VIII. The county commissioners' court shall have the power to levy a tax in their respective counties for county purposes, but they shall in no case exceed the amount of four mills on each dollar's worth of property, unless specially authorized by law; and said county tax shall be levied at the March term of said courts, and collected with the State revenue. The same lien created to secure the State revenue, shall also exist in favor of the county revenue.

(9.) SEC. IX. The county revenue shall be collected in gold and silver coin, county orders and jury certificates issued by the county, and in no other currency.

(10.) SEC. X. The minimum value of all lands in this State for the purpose of taxation, shall be three dollars per acre.

(11.) SEC. XI. It shall be the duty of the auditor of public accounts, in cases where such abstracts have not already been obtained, and as the same may become necessary, to obtain from the several land offices of the United States at which lands within this State are sold, abstracts, containing a description of all lands sold at each office, the dates of sale, and the names of purchasers; also, maps of the several land districts, where such abstracts and maps have not already been procured.

(12.) SEC. XII. The auditor shall annually transmit to the said clerks, on or before the first day of February, a list of all lands in their respective counties which may have become subject to taxation within the preceding year.

(13.) SEC. XIII. The treasurer of each county shall be ex officio the assessor. Before he enters upon the discharge of the duties of his office of assessor, he shall take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation:

"I, A. B., do solemnly swear, (or affirm, as the case may be,) that I will faithfully, diligently and impartially perform all the duties required of me by law, as the assessor of taxable property in the county of _____, and that I will in no instance value any lands as low as at three dollars per acre, which I believe to be worth more."

A refusal or neglect of the treasurer to qualify and act as assessor, shall vacate his office as treasurer, and the county commissioners' court shall thereupon appoint some suitable person to fill such vacancy, who shall hold his office until his successor is duly elected and qualified. The treasurer shall keep his office at the county seat, and his neglect to do so shall vacate his office which may be filled as aforesaid.

(14.) SEC. XIV. Every clerk shall, on or before the first Monday of March in each year, cause to be delivered to the assessor of his county, in a well-bound book, a transcript containing a list and description of all taxable lands and town lots lying within his county, except such as have been sold to the State, and remain unredeemed, with the names of purchasers of lands from the United States and from this State, together with the names of the present owners in a separate column, when the same are known; and the said transcript when returned by the assessor, shall be kept by the said clerk in his office for the use of future assessors. He shall, annually, before delivering said transcript to the said assessor, add thereto the auditor's list of lands in his county, which may have become taxable during the preceding year. He shall also specify in a separate and distinct list, and deliver the same to the assessor as aforesaid, all delinquent lands and town lots lying within his county, which may have been previous to that time forfeited to the State for taxes, and are unredeemed from such forfeiture; and each year, before delivering the same to the assessor, he shall add thereto the unredeemed lands and town lots which may have been forfeited to the State subsequent to the previous assessment, and said lists of lands and town lots shall be made out in numerical order: Provided, That where such transcripts and lists have heretofore been made, the said transcripts and lists shall be furnished by the clerks to the assessor, with such additions as are herein specified.

(15.) SEC. XV. The assessor of each county shall, upon the receipt of such transcript, proceed to make out lists of all taxable property within his county, the said lists being of tabular form, with separate columns for the names of owners of property, the kind of property, the value of each kind, and the total value of each person's taxable property, and such other columns as may be deemed necessary, as near as convenient in the following form:

Names of Persons chargeable with tax.
Town Lots.
Acres of Land.
Description of Land.
Value of Land per acre.
Total Value of Lands.
Value of Personal Property not enumerated.
Stud Horses.
Asses.
Jennies.
Horses and Mares.
Cattle.
Servants of color.
Clocks.
Watches.
Carriages.
Wagons.
Carts.
Wholesale Stores.
Retail Stores.
Money loaned.
Money on hand.
Ships and Vessels.
Stocks in Companies.
Value of Stocks.
Value of taxable Property, except Lands.
Persons for whom Tax is paid, and date of payment.

The assessor shall in no case include in such list any delinquent lands or town lots belonging to the State.

(16.) SEC. XVI. Each assessor shall, without delay, on being provided with the lists aforesaid, proceed to take a list of the taxable property in his county, and assess the value thereof, by going to the place of residence of each owner of taxable property in his county. He may, if he shall deem it necessary, require every owner of taxable property to give in, under oath, either by himself or agent, a list and description of all his taxable lands, by townships, ranges, quarter-sections, tracts, lots or parts thereof, and the number of acres in each tract, with the improvements thereon, all town lots with the improvements thereon, all pleasure carriages, whether with two or four wheels, all horses, mares, jacks, jennies, mules, indentured servants, neat cattle, ships and vessels, stocks, money on hand and at interest, household furniture, and every other description of personal property, all capital employed each year in merchandising, adopting as a criterion the value of the greatest amount of goods on hand at any time in the year; and he shall, in the presence of such person, enter the same in his book, and value each tract or lot separately, and each species of personal property separately, placing the description and value in figures opposite the name of the person owning or listing the same: Provided, That unimproved town lots may be listed and assessed in blocks.

(17.) SEC. XVII. If any assessor shall be unable to find the owner of any lands or lots contained in his list, he shall value the same according to the best information he can procure, and enter the same on his list in the name of the patentee or present owner, if known.

(18.) SEC. XVIII. If any person shall give a false or fraudulent list, or refuse to deliver to the assessor, when called on for that purpose, a list of his or her taxable property, as required by law, the said assessor, as a penalty therefor, shall assess the property of such person at double its value.

(19.) SEC. XIX. Lands and town lots owned by non-residents of the county, when once correctly listed for taxation by their owners, shall not be required to be listed again by them till a sub-division or change of ownership takes place.

(20.) SEC. XX. If any real or personal property shall be omitted in the assessment of any year, or number of years, the same, when discovered, shall be assessed by the assessor for the time being, and placed upon the assessment list with the arrearages of tax which might have been assessed, with six per cent. interest thereon, from the time the same ought to have been paid; the clerk of the county commissioners' court shall also have power to list any property omitted for a previous year or years, and add the same to the collector's list, and report the same to the county commissioners' court at their next term; and said court is required to enter the same of record, and charge the collector with the same, and the clerk to certify said charges to the auditor at the time of certifying the allowances made to collectors.

(21.) SEC. XXI. Every assessor shall complete the assessment of property in his county on or before the first Monday of August in each year, and return to the county commissioners' clerk the abstract of lands furnished him by said clerk; also the list of delinquent real estate forfeited to the State and still owned by the same, with the valuation thereof, and his list and description of all taxable property within the county, with the names of owners, when known, and valuation.

(22.) SEC. XXII. The clerk shall make out copies of the said lists, and on or before the second Monday of September in each year, transmit a copy of the list of forfeited lands and lots, with the valuation thereof, to the auditor, and deliver a copy of the other to the collector of his county, for the purpose of collection; and the county commissioners' court shall be required to make all necessary corrections in the same.

(23.) SEC. XXIII. The assessor shall add up his own figures in the columns expressing the total valuation of real estate, the total valuation of personal property, and the total amount of State tax, county tax and road tax.

(24.) SEC. XXIV. Every clerk shall, immediately after the September term of the county commissioners' court, transmit by mail to the auditor, a statement of the aggregate amount of State tax assessed in his county, and the auditor shall charge the same to the collector.

(25.) SEC. XXV. The clerk of the county commissioners' court shall, at the same time as aforesaid, transmit to the auditor a statement showing the aggregate amount of taxes on real estate, in his county, for State and county purposes respectively; also a statement of the amount of taxes on personal property for State and county purposes respectively, together with a statement of the rate of taxation levied for county purposes in his county.

(26.) SEC. XXVI. Any person feeling aggrieved by the assessment of his property, may, at the September term of the county commissioners' court, immediately succeeding such assessment, and not afterwards, apply to said court for a reduction of said assessment, which may, in the discretion of the court, be made, on proof that the valuation of the assessor was too high, which correction shall be made of record and a list certified by the clerk to the collector.

(27.) SEC. XXVII. The sheriff of each county shall be, ex officio, the collector of taxes, and his refusal to act shall vacate his office of sheriff, which shall be filled as in other cases of vacancy.

(28.) SEC. XXVIII. Said collector, before he enters upon the duties of his office, shall execute a bond in a penalty of at least double the amount of the tax to be by him collected, and with such securities as the county commissioners shall deem sufficient; which bond shall be substantially in the following form, to wit:

"KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, That we, A. B., C. D. and E. F., securities, all of the county of _____, and State of Illinois, are held and firmly bound to the people of the State of Illinois, in the penal sum of _____ dollars, for the payment of which, well and truly to be made, we bind ourselves, each of us, our heirs, executors and administrators, firmly by these presents.

Signed with our hands and sealed with our seals. Dated at _____, this _____ day of _____, 18____.

The condition of the above bond is such, that if the above bounden A. B. shall perform all the duties required to be performed by him as collector of the said county of _____, in the time and manner prescribed by law, and when he shall be succeeded in office, shall surrender and deliver over to his successor in office, all books, papers and moneys belonging to said county or to the State, and appertaining to his said office, then the above bond to be void, otherwise to remain in full force.

Signed, sealed and delivered in presence of G. H." }

A. B. [L. s.]
C. D. [L. s.]

He shall also take and subscribe an oath before some person authorized to administer oaths, that he will faithfully, diligently and impartially, and to the best of his skill, judgment and ability, perform all the duties required of him by law, as collector.

(29.) SEC. XXIX. When approved by the county commissioners' courts, said bond shall be entered upon their records, and immediately transmitted by their clerk to the office of secretary of State; certified copies thereof, under the seal of State, shall be evidence in all the courts of this State; and the entry thereof in the records of the said courts, shall be evidence within the county.

(30.) SEC. XXX. The auditor shall direct the commencement of suits on the bonds of collectors for the use of the State, whenever he shall deem it for the public interest, for any breach of said bonds, until the whole penalty if necessary is recovered; and it shall in all cases be his duty to cause suits to be commenced against delinquent collectors and their securities, whenever said collectors have failed to make their final settlements, for the space of two months after the time fixed upon by law for that purpose.

(31.) SEC. XXXI. On the second Monday of September, annually, or as soon as the collectors are qualified, every county commissioners' clerk shall deliver to the collector of his county, a copy of the list of taxable property returned by the assessor, and take duplicate receipts therefor, in which shall be specified the taxes on real and personal property respectively, one of which shall be filed in the clerk's office, and the other filed in the office of the county treasurer.

(32.) SEC. XXXII. Every collector, on receiving the assessment list from the clerk as aforesaid, and giving receipt for the same, shall proceed to collect the taxes charged in said list, by calling upon each person residing in his county, at his or her usual place of residence, and requiring payment thereof.

(33.) SEC. XXXIII. The lien created by this chapter, for State and county purposes, on personal property, shall attach from and after the assessment list is received by the collector, and no sale or transfer of the same shall affect the claim of the State or counties, but the said property may be seized by the collector wherever found, and removed, if necessary, and sold to discharge the taxes of the person owing the same at the time of such assessment, together with the costs and charges of collection.

(34.) SEC. XXXIV. In case any person shall be absent from home at the time of the call of the collector for his or her taxes, the said collector shall leave a written or printed notice with some member of the family, above the age of ten years, requiring payment of the same within ten days from the date thereof, and such notice shall be considered a sufficient demand for the taxes of such person, and the said collector shall be a competent witness to prove the service of said notice.

(35.) SEC. XXXV. In case any person shall refuse or neglect to pay his or her taxes when demanded, or within ten days thereafter, it shall be the duty of the collector to levy the same, together with the costs and charges that may accrue, by distress and sale of the personal property of such person as ought to pay the same, wherever the same may be found in the county. No real estate of any person shall be sold for taxes while personal property of such person can be found by the collector.

(36.) SEC. XXXVI. The collector shall give public notice of the time and place of sale, the property to be sold, and the name of the delinquent, at least ten days previous to the day of sale, by advertisements to be posted up in at least three public places in the precinct where such sale is to be made.

(37.) SEC. XXXVII. Such sale shall be by public auction, and if practicable, no more property shall be sold than sufficient to pay the tax, costs and charges due; the same shall, if convenient, be sold in parcels, and if sold for more than the amount necessary, the surplus shall be returned to the owner of such property.

(38.) SEC. XXXVIII. The collector shall be allowed the same fees and charges for making distress and sale of goods and chattels for the payment of taxes, as may be allowed by law to constables for making levy and sale of property on execution: Provided, The provisions of this chapter shall apply to the collection of all delinquent taxes due in any county in this State.

(39.) SEC. XXXIX. The power to levy and collect shall continue in the collector after his return and final settlement with the auditor, until the taxes shall be paid; if personal property of the person having failed to pay taxes, be found within his county, the county commissioners' court shall have power to issue process to any sheriff or constable for the collection of delinquencies, for which credit has been given to the collector.

(40.) SEC. XL. Whenever the taxes on the same property shall be paid more than once, for the same year, by different claimants, the collector shall make a return to the clerk of the county commissioners' court, of all such surplus taxes so received by him, together with the names of the several claimants thus paying; and the clerk shall make a record of all such cases, and transmit a copy thereof to the auditor of public accounts, who shall charge such collector with the portion of such surplus taxes belonging to the State.

(41.) SEC. XLI. Whenever any tax is paid, the collector shall enter such payment in his list, and give the person paying the same a receipt, specifying the name of the person for whom paid, the amount paid, what year paid for, and the property on which the same was assessed, according to its description on the assessment list.

(42.) SEC. XLII. The collectors of this State shall collect the revenue for State purposes in gold and silver coin; auditor's warrants, and in no other currency whatever.

(43.) SEC. XLIII. The collectors of the several counties shall pay annually into the State treasury, on or before the first Monday in March, all the taxes of the preceding year, for State purposes, except such delinquencies as may exist, deducting therefrom their commissions for collections.

(44.) SEC. XLIV. Every collector shall pay into the treasury of his county, at the end of every month, all taxes collected for the use of such county in his hands, except county orders and jury certificates, and on the first Monday of June, annually, he shall make a final settlement, and account for and pay over the whole amount of revenue due the county, deducting therefrom the amount of taxes he may have been unable to collect by reason of the insolvency, removal or non-residence of persons charged with taxes. All county orders and jury certificates collected by him, shall be paid into the county commissioners' court at the said term, and cancelled.

(45.) SEC. XLV. Every collector of revenue shall present to the county commissioners' court of his county, at the June term thereof, a list, upon oath, of the names of all persons charged with taxes on personal property, from whom no collection of said taxes have been made on account of the insolvency, removal or non-residence of such persons; said list shall be copied from the assessment list, and shall contain the valuation of the property, and the amount of tax shall be noted opposite the name of each person, whether he be insolvent, a non-resident or has removed, if removed, to what place, if a non-resident, his place of residence, if known. The collector shall certify that such list contains the names of all persons, and a description of all personal property, charged with taxes which have not been collected, and that the notes and remarks made opposite to the names of persons charged with taxes are correct and true, according to his best information and knowledge. The said list shall be examined by the county commissioners' court, and errors and mistakes therein corrected; after which an order shall be made, allowing the collectors credit for the amount of taxes due or payable to the county on the same. The said list shall be filed in the office of the clerk of said court, and thereupon the said clerk shall certify under the seal of the court, to the auditor, the whole amount of taxes assessed upon real and upon personal property, and the amount of taxes on personal property for which the collector has been allowed credit on account of insolvency, non-residence or removal of the persons charged therewith; and upon a settlement with the auditor, the collector shall file with him the said certificate, and shall be allowed a credit for the amount certified therein.

(46.) SEC. XLVI. When any person owning lands in any county in this State, shall fail to pay taxes assessed thereon, and the collector shall be unable to find any personal property of such person in his county whereon to levy, of value sufficient to pay said taxes and costs, it shall be the duty of the collector to make report thereof to the circuit court of his county, at the first term in each year, for the preceding year or years, which report shall be in the following form:

List of lands, and other real estate, situated in the county of _____, and State of Illinois, on which taxes remain due and unpaid for the year herein set forth:

Name of present Owner.	Town Lots.	In whose Name patented.	Cost.	Amount of Tax.	Years for which Tax is due.	Valuation.	Description.	County.

(47.) SEC. XLVII. Before making the application to the circuit court provided for in the preceding section, the collector shall publish an advertisement in some newspaper printed in his said county, if any such there be, and if there be no such paper printed in his county, then in the nearest newspaper in this State, which advertisement shall be once published, at least six weeks previous to the said term of the said circuit court; and the said advertisement shall contain a list of the delinquent lands and town lots to be reported to the said court, the names of the owners, if known, the amount of tax, interest and costs due thereon, and the year or years for which the same are due; shall give notice of the intended application to the court for judgment against said lands and town lots for said taxes, interest and costs thereon, and for an order to sell the said lands for the satisfaction thereof; and shall also give notice that on the fourth Tuesday next succeeding the day fixed by law for the commencement of the said term of the said circuit court, all the lands against which judgment shall be pronounced, and for the sale of which such order shall be made, will be exposed to public sale at the court-house of the said county, for the amount of said taxes, interest and costs due thereon; and the advertisement published according to the provisions of this section, shall be deemed and taken to be sufficient and legal notice, both of the aforesaid intended application by the collector to the circuit court for judgment, and also of the sale of said lands, under the order of the said court: Provided, That if the publisher of such newspaper shall be unable or unwilling to publish said list and notice accurately and properly, the collector shall select some other newspaper having the means and ability of making such publication in a satisfactory manner, having due regard to the circulation of such paper.

(48.) SEC. XLVIII. The county commissioners' courts shall not allow credit to collectors for any taxes uncollected, unless they are satisfied that such taxes could not have been collected by reasonable and proper diligence, and that such diligence has been used without success.

(49.) SEC. XLIX. The printer publishing such notice and list shall be required to transmit, by mail, two numbers of each paper containing said list and notice, to the auditor of public accounts, two to the treasurer of State, and two to the clerk of the county commissioners' court of the county in which the lands and lots advertised lie; and the said papers shall be filed, and kept in the offices to which they are sent.

(50.) SEC. L. The collector shall attend at the court-house, in his county, on the day specified in the notice aforesaid, and then and there, at the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon, proceed to offer for sale, separately, each tract of land and town lot in the said list, on which the taxes and costs have not been paid.

(51.) SEC. LI. The person at such sale, offering to pay the taxes and costs charged on each tract or lot, for the least quantity thereof, shall be the purchaser of such quantity, which shall be taken from the east side of such tract or lot.

(52.) SEC. LII. The collector shall continue such sale from day to day, until each tract of land or town lot contained in the delinquent list, on which the taxes and costs remain unpaid, shall be sold or offered for sale.

(53.) SEC. LIII. The person purchasing any tract of land or town lot, or any part thereof, shall forthwith pay to the collector the amount of taxes and costs charged on said tract or lot, and on a failure to do so, the said land or lot shall be again offered for sale, in the same manner as if no such sale had been made, at the commencement of the sale on the following day.

(54.) SEC. LIV. The collector shall file the list of delinquent lands with the clerk of the circuit court, at least five days before the commencement of the term at which application for judgment is to be made.

(55.) SEC. LV. No costs shall be charged by the clerk of the circuit court when the taxes are paid five days previous to the term of the said court.

(56.) SEC. LVI. The collector shall obtain a copy of said advertisement, together with a certificate of the due publication thereof, from the printer or publisher of the newspaper in which the same shall have been published, and shall file the same with the clerk of the said circuit court, at the said term thereof, together with the said report, provided for in the forty-sixth section of this chapter.

(57.) SEC. LVII. The clerk of the circuit court, upon the filing of such report and certificate of publication by the collector, shall receive and record the same in a book to be kept for that purpose, in which he shall enter all judgments, orders and other proceedings of the court in relation thereto, and shall keep and preserve the same as a part of the records of his office; and the said clerk shall place the said report and certificate of said collector at the head of the common law docket for said term, in the following form, to wit:

 vs. } Suit for taxes.
 JOHN DOE, and others. }

(58.) SEC. LVIII. It shall be the duty of the said court, upon calling the common law docket of said term, if any defense be offered by any of the owners of said lands so reported, or by any person having a claim or interest therein, to hear and determine the same in a summary way, without pleadings; and if no defense be made, the said court shall pronounce judgment against the said lands, and shall thereupon direct the clerk of said court to make out and issue an order for the sale of the same, which shall be in the following form, to wit:

"STATE OF ILLINOIS, }
 County. } sct. Whereas A. B., collector of said county, returned to the circuit court of said county, on the ____ day of ____, 18____, the following tracts and parts of tracts of land as having been assessed for taxes, by the assessor of said county of ____, for the year 18____, and that the taxes thereon remained due and unpaid, on the day of the date of the said collector's return, and that the respective owner or owners have no goods and chattels within his county, on which the collector can levy for the taxes, interest and costs due and unpaid, on the following described lands, to wit:

And whereas due notice has been given of the intended application for a judgment against said lands, and no owner hath appeared to make defense or show cause why judgment should not be entered against the said lands for the taxes, interest and costs due and unpaid thereon, for the year o. years herein set forth: Therefore, it is considered by the court, that judgment be and it is hereby entered against the aforesaid tract or tracts of land, or parts of tracts, (as the case may be,) in the name of the State of Illinois, for the sum annexed to each tract or parcel of land, being the amount of taxes, interest and costs due severally thereon; and it is ordered by the court that the said several tracts of land, or so much thereof as shall be sufficient of each of them to satisfy the amount of taxes, interest and costs annexed to them severally, be sold, as the law directs."

(59.) SEC. LIX. The form as hereinbefore set forth shall be pursued, as near as the nature of the case will permit.

(60.) SEC. LX. It shall be the duty of the clerk, within five days after the adjournment of said court, to make out, under the seal of said court, a copy of the collector's report, together with the order of the court thereon, which shall hereafter constitute the process on which all lands shall be sold for taxes, and deliver the same to the collector of his county; and the collector shall thereupon cause the said lands to be sold, on the day specified in the notice given by the collector for sale of the same, and make return thereof to the said clerk, within twenty days after the day of sale.

(61.) SEC. LXI. Any person or persons owning or claiming lands advertised for sale as aforesaid, may pay the taxes, interest and costs due thereon, to the collector of the county in which the same are situated, at any time before the sale thereof: Provided, That such collector shall be required to make a report to the court, before judgment is rendered, of all lands upon which the taxes may have been paid, subsequent to making his first report to the circuit court.

(62.) SEC. LXII. In all advertisements for the sale of lands for taxes, and in entries required to be made by the clerk of the court, letters and figures may be used, as they have heretofore been, to denote townships, ranges, sections, parts of sections, the year for which taxes are due, and the amount of taxes, interest and costs.

(63.) SEC. LXIII. The clerk of the county commissioners' court shall attend all such sales of lands for taxes, made by the collector, and make a record thereof, in a book to be kept for that purpose, therein describing the several tracts of land and town lots, as they are described in the recorded list, stating, in separate columns, the State and county tax, with the costs thereon, and how much of each tract or lot was sold, and to whom sold; and all such tracts or lots as shall remain unsold, for want of bidders, shall be entered as sold to the State.

(64.) SEC. LXIV. The said clerk, immediately after such sale, shall transmit to the auditor of public accounts, a copy of such record, certified under the seal of the court, together with a separate list of lands and lots forfeited to the State, as aforesaid.

(65.) SEC. LXV. If any clerk shall fail to attend any sale of lands, as required by this chapter, either in proper person or by a competent deputy, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of one hundred dollars, and shall be liable to indictment for such failure, and upon conviction, shall be removed from office.

(66.) SEC. LXVI. Within thirty days after any sale, the collector shall pay into the State treasury, the amount of taxes due the State upon lands advertised and sold as aforesaid, and make a final settlement with the auditor; he shall also, within ten days after such sale, pay into the county treasury, the amount of taxes due the county upon the same: Provided, That county orders received by him shall be paid into the county commissioners' court, at the next session thereafter.

(67.) SEC. LXVII. The clerk shall make out and deliver to the purchaser of any lands or lots, sold for the payment of taxes as aforesaid, a certificate of purchase, to be countersigned by the collector, describing the land or lot sold, as the same was described in the delinquent list, the amount of taxes and costs for which the same was sold, and that payment has been made therefor. If any person shall become the purchaser of more than one tract of land or lot, he may have the whole included in one certificate.

(68.) SEC. LXVIII. Such certificate of purchase shall be assignable by indorsement, and an assignment thereof shall vest in the assignee, or his legal representatives, all the right and title of the original purchaser.

(69.) SEC. LXIX. Real estate, sold under the provisions of this chapter, may be redeemed, at any time before the expiration of two years from the date of sale, by the payment in specie, to the clerk of the county commissioners' court of the proper county, of double the amount for which the same was sold, and all taxes accruing after such sale, unless such subsequent taxes have been paid to the collector, as may be shown by the collector's receipt, by the person redeeming, with six per cent. interest thereon, from the first day of May, in each year, up to the time of payment: Provided, That if the real estate of any infant, feme covert or lunatic, be sold for taxes, the same may be redeemed at any time within one year after such disability be removed, upon the terms specified in this section.

(70.) SEC. LXX. No collector or clerk of any county commissioners' court, shall be, either directly or indirectly, concerned in the purchase of any tract of land or town lot sold for the payment of taxes, under the penalty of one hundred dollars, to be recovered by action of debt.

(71.) SEC. LXXI. At any time after the expiration of two years from the sale of any real estate for taxes, if the same shall not have been redeemed, the collector, on request, and on the production of the certificate of purchase, shall execute and deliver to the purchaser, his heirs or assigns, a deed of conveyance for the real estate described in such certificate. When any person shall hold more than one certificate of purchase, of the same sale, the collector shall, on the request of such person, include as many tracts or lots described therein, in the said deed of conveyance, as such person may desire.

(72.) SEC. LXXII. The deed so made by the collector, shall be acknowledged and recorded in the same manner as other conveyances of real estate, and shall vest in the grantee, his heirs or assigns, the title of the property therein described.

(73.) SEC. LXXIII. Deeds executed by the collector as aforesaid, shall be prima facie evidence in all controversies and suits in relation to the right of the purchaser, his heirs or assigns, to the land thereby conveyed, of the following facts: First, That the land conveyed was subject to taxation at the time the same was advertised for sale, and had been listed and assessed in the time and manner required by law. Second, That the taxes were not paid at any time before the sale. Third, That the lands conveyed had not been redeemed from the sale, at the date of the deed. Fourth, That the land was advertised for sale in the manner and for the length of time required by law. Fifth, That the land was sold for taxes, as stated in the deed. Sixth, That the grantee in the deed was the purchaser. Seventh, That the sale was conducted in the manner required by law. And all in controversies and suits involving the title to land claimed and held under, and by virtue of, a deed executed by the collector as aforesaid, the person claiming title adverse to the title conveyed by such deed, shall be required to prove, in order to defeat the said title, either that the said land was not subject to taxation at the date of the sale, that the taxes had been paid, that the land had never been listed and assessed for taxation, or that the same had been redeemed, according to the provisions of this chapter, and that such redemption was had or made for the use and benefit of persons having the right of redemption under the laws of the State; but no person shall be permitted to question the title acquired by a collector's deed, without first showing that he or she, or the person under whom he or she claims title, had title to the land, at the time of the sale, or that the title was obtained from the United States or this State, after the sale, and that all taxes due upon the land have been paid by such person, or by their agent, or the person under whom he claims title as aforesaid.

(74.) SEC. LXXIV. If any collector shall die, resign or be removed from office, or his term of service expire, after selling any real estate for taxes, and before executing a conveyance for the same, his successor, being then in office, shall execute such conveyance in the same manner as the officer making such sale might have done: Provided, That in case the collector shall die, or be removed from office, before the taxes are collected, the county commissioners' court shall appoint a successor, to remain in office until an election is had.

(75.) SEC. LXXV. No sale of real estate for taxes shall be considered invalid, on account of the same having been charged in the assessment list in any other name than that of the rightful owner, if the said real estate be in other respects sufficiently described, and the taxes thereon were unpaid at the time of such sale.

(76.) SEC. LXXVI. The books and records belonging to the office of the clerks of the county commissioners' courts, or copies thereof, certified by said clerks, shall be deemed sufficient evidence to prove the sale of any land for taxes, the redemption of the same, or payment of taxes thereon.

(77.) SEC. LXXVII. Every tract of land or town lot offered for sale by any collector, as hereinbefore provided, and not sold for want of bidders, shall be and the same is hereby declared to be forfeited to the State of Illinois, and thenceforth all right, title and claim of the former owner or owners, shall be considered as transferred to and vested in the State.

(78.) SEC. LXXVIII. Lands and town lots forfeited to the State for taxes, may be redeemed at any time within two years from the time of the sale at which they were forfeited, by paying to the clerk of the county commissioners' court of the county in which said lands or lots are situated, double the amount for which such real estate was forfeited, and all taxes accruing thereon to the time of redemption, with interest on each year's tax, at the rate of six per cent., from the first Monday of May in each year, to the time of redemption: Provided, That any lands or town lots of any infant, feme covert or lunatic, so struck off and forfeited to the State, may be redeemed, as provided in this section, at any time within one year after such disability be removed.

(79.) SEC. LXXIX. On the first Monday in March, and semi-annually thereafter, it shall be the duty of the several clerks of the county commissioners' courts, to transmit to the auditor a list, with a full description of all the lands and town lots forfeited to the State, which have been redeemed during the preceding six months, which list shall be carefully noted in the books of the auditor; he shall also pay, at the same time, into the State treasury, the proportion of the redemption money belonging to the State, and monthly, into the county treasury, the proportion of such county.

(80.) LXXX. On the first Monday of September, one thousand eight hundred and forty-five, and every two years thereafter, all lands and town lots which have been forfeited to the State, and are unredeemed, shall be exposed for sale, and sold at public auction, at the county seats of the respective counties in which they are situated, by or under the direction of the clerks of the county commissioners' courts; and the clerk of the county commissioners' court and the collector, for services rendered under this section, shall be entitled to the same compensation as they are allowed for like services by this chapter.

(81.) SEC. LXXXI. It shall be the duty of the auditor, on or before the first Monday of July next, and biennially thereafter, to furnish to the said clerks lists of lands and lots forfeited to the State, and unredeemed, lying within their respective counties.

(82.) SEC. LXXXII. The said clerks, on the receipt of such lists, shall, at least four weeks before the first Monday of September, publish a notice, in the newspaper having the greatest circulation in their respective counties, setting forth that all lands and lots forfeited to the State for taxes, and unredeemed, will, on the first Monday of September next, be offered for sale at public auction, at the court-house, and that a list of the same is kept at the clerk's office, subject to the inspection of any person who may desire to examine the same.

(83.) SEC. LXXXIII. Such lands and town lots shall not be sold for a less sum than the amount of State and county taxes, with the costs and interest thereon, from the forfeiture up to the time of sale.

(84.) SEC. LXXXIV. The clerk of each county, assisted by the sheriff, shall, on the first Monday of September aforesaid, at the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon, proceed to offer for sale, separately, each tract of land or town lot contained in such list, which shall have been forfeited to the State as aforesaid, and he may continue such sale from day to day until each tract or town lot in said list shall be sold or offered for sale.

(85.) SEC. LXXXV. Every person purchasing lands or town lots at such sale, shall forthwith pay to the clerk the amount for which the same may have been sold, and on failure so to do, the said lands or lots shall again be offered for sale, as if no sale had been made.

(86.) SEC. LXXXVI. The said clerks shall, immediately after such sale, execute and deliver to each person purchasing lands or lots at such sale, a certificate of purchase, and shall include in such certificate all the lands and lots purchased by such person, if the same is desired.

(87.) SEC. LXXXVII. Upon the presentation of such certificate to the auditor, the legal holder thereof shall be entitled to a deed, conveying all the right, title, interest and claim of the State to the tracts or lots described in said certificate; and for every deed of conveyance made as aforesaid, the auditor shall be entitled to receive the sum of twenty-five cents.

(88.) SEC. LXXXVIII. At any time after the close of any such sale as aforesaid, the clerks may sell any of the lands and town lots offered for sale which were not sold for want of bidders, to any person wishing to purchase the same, who shall pay the State and county tax, together with the costs and interest due thereon.

(89.) SEC. LXXXIX. All deeds made by the auditor of public accounts under the provisions of this chapter, shall be recorded in the county where the lands or lots conveyed are situated.

(90.) SEC. XC. No money shall, in any case, be refunded out of the State or county treasury, to any purchaser of lands or lots sold for taxes on account of such lands or lots being erroneously sold, but the collector or other officer making such error, shall be liable to pay double the amount of the same, and on failure to make such payment, the said purchaser may recover the said money of the said collector or other officer, by action of debt before any justice of the peace or court having jurisdiction thereof: Provided, That if said lands were not taxable at the time they were assessed, or the taxes had been paid before the land was sold, then, in that case, the State and county shall refund the taxes paid, upon the presentation of a certificate of the clerk of the county commissioners' court, under seal of said court.

(91.) SEC. XCI. Whenever it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the clerk of the county commissioners' court, before the execution of a deed for lands or lots sold for taxes, that any tract or lot was sold which was not subject to be taxed, or upon which taxes had been paid previous to the sale, he shall make an entry opposite to such tracts or lots on the list of sales, that the same was erroneously sold, and such entry shall be evidence of the fact therein stated.

(92.) SEC. XCII. The clerks of the county commissioners' courts shall be liable for all redemption money of lands and lots which may come into their hands as such, and shall pay over the same, on demand being made by a proper person, and in case of failure or refusal so to do when demanded as aforesaid, then their office shall be considered vacated; and thereupon the county commissioners' court shall appoint some suitable persons to fill such vacancy until the same be filled in the manner now prescribed by law.

(93.) SEC. XCIII. Lands sold by the State, though not granted or conveyed, shall be assessed in the same manner as if conveyed, but such lands, when forfeited to the State for the non-payment of taxes thereon, shall not, in any case, be sold for such non-payment as other lands, and shall not afterwards be subject to taxation until again sold by the State.

(94.) SEC. XCIV. Whenever any purchaser of canal lands or lots, shall fail to pay the taxes assessed thereon, as required by the terms of sale provided by law, it shall be the duty of the collector forthwith to report such failure to the acting commissioner of the Illinois and Michigan canal, who shall enter the said lands or lots as forfeited to the State, and thenceforth all right, interest and title of the said purchaser shall cease; the said lands shall not in any case be sold for the non-payment of taxes, and any such sale, if made, shall be void.

(95.) SEC. XCV. The receipt of the redemption money of any tract of land or lot by any purchaser, shall operate as a release of all claim to such tract or lot, under or by virtue of the purchase.

(96.) SEC. XCVI. Persons paying taxes on lands advertised for sale for the taxes due thereon, previous to the sale, shall be required to pay the costs of advertising, and all other costs which may have accrued up to the time of such payment.

(97.) SEC. XCVII. If any purchaser of lands sold for taxes, shall suffer the same to be again sold for taxes before the expiration of two years from the date of his or her purchase, such purchaser shall not be entitled to a deed for the land, until the expiration of two years from the date of the second sale; during which time the land shall be subject to redemption upon the terms and conditions prescribed in this chapter, except that the person redeeming shall only be required to pay, for the use of such purchaser, the amount paid for the land, and double the amount paid by the second purchaser.

(98.) SEC. XCVIII. No sheriff or deputy sheriff shall be eligible to the office of county treasurer, nor shall any county treasurer hold the office of sheriff or collector.

(99.) SEC. XCIX. If any collector, by himself or deputy, shall fail to attend any sale of lands advertised according to the provisions of this chapter, and make sale thereof as required by law, he shall be liable to pay into the State and county treasury, the amount of taxes and costs due upon the lands and lots so advertised, in the same manner as if they had been sold.

(100.) SEC. C. If any collector or clerk shall fail to pay into the State treasury the amount of taxes or revenue due the State at the times and in the manner herein required, he shall be liable to pay ten per cent. per month upon the amount which he shall fail to pay as aforesaid, and for a failure to pay to the county, he shall be subject to the same penalty.

(101.) SEC. CI. If any collector shall fail to pay to his county the revenue due the same at the time and in the manner required by law, it shall be the duty of the county treasurer, to deliver or cause to be delivered to such collector and his securities, a notice in writing, informing them that at the next term of the circuit court of the county, a motion will be made for judgment against such collector for all sums due from him to the county at the time of making such motion, together with the damages allowed by law for default in not paying the same into the county treasury; and the circuit court of the several counties are hereby vested with jurisdiction to hear and determine all such motions, and to inquire into the amounts due from collectors, and give judgment for the same, together with the damages allowed by law; the said courts may compel the production of all books, papers, with vouchers in the possession of the collector, and pertaining to his office, to be used as evidence, if it shall appear to the court that any such books, papers or vouchers are, or may be, material evidence in the cause. The notice required by this section shall be served by any constable of the county, or coroner, at least five days before the motion is to be made.

(102.) SEC. CII. Upon the failure of any collector or clerk to pay money into the State treasury as required by law, it shall be the duty of the auditor to proceed against such collector by motion in the supreme court; a written notice of which shall be served on the collector and his securities at least twenty days before the motion is to be made; such notice shall state that a motion will be made for judgment against the collector for the amount due from him to the State at the time such motion is heard, and all damages allowed by law for default in the payment of the same, which notice may be served by any sheriff or coroner in the State, or by any person employed by the auditor for that purpose. The supreme court is hereby vested with full power and jurisdiction to hear and determine all such motions, and to give judgments and award executions.

(103.) SEC. CIII. If any collector shall receive the taxes upon any land or real estate, and shall knowingly include the same land or real estate in the list of lands returned by him on which taxes have not been collected, and the said lands shall be sold for the taxes thereon, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on indictment and conviction thereof, shall be removed from office, and shall, moreover, be liable to the party injured for all damages.

(104.) SEC. CIV. Any treasurer who shall fail to perform the duties required of him as assessor, (except in cases of sickness, when he may appoint a deputy for whose conduct he shall be responsible,) shall forfeit and pay three hundred dollars to the use of the county, to be recovered by action of debt in the name of such county, and shall, moreover, be liable to pay to the county and State all damages sustained by either county or State, by reason of such failure, to be recovered by action on the case before any court having jurisdiction thereof; and if any assessor shall die or resign, the county commissioners' court shall appoint one, who shall perform the duties of assessor until an assessor is elected according to law.

(105.) SEC. CV. No collector shall, either directly or indirectly, be permitted to take, buy, shave or receive, by himself or agent, any auditor's warrant or warrants, at less than the full sum due thereon to the holder of such warrant or warrants.

(106.) SEC. CVI. Any collector who shall violate the provisions of the foregoing section, shall be liable to pay double the amount made by purchasing or shaving said warrants at less than their face, in an action of debt, before any court of the proper county; one-half the amount so recovered shall go to the person complaining, and the other half shall be paid into the State treasury, and his office shall be vacated.

(107.) SEC. CVII. Hereafter, the interest on the school fund belonging to the several counties of this State, shall not be required to be paid into the State treasury; but the auditor shall, as now required by law, ascertain the amount payable to each county, and certify the same to the collector, who shall thereupon pay over to the school commissioner of his county, such amount, and take his receipt therefor; and on settlement with the auditor, the said collector shall be credited with the amount specified in such receipt, in the same manner as if it had been paid into the treasury.

(108.) SEC. CVIII. The following fees and compensation shall be hereafter allowed to the following officers and persons herein named, for services rendered under the provisions of this chapter: To each assessor, a sum not exceeding one dollar and a half per day for every day necessarily employed in the performance of his duty as such assessor, to be verified to the county commissioners' court; one-half to be paid out of the State treasury, and the other half out of the county treasury. To each collector, for collecting and paying over taxes, five per cent. on the first thousand dollars, and three per cent. on all additional sums paid over that amount; the same to be paid by the State and county, in proportion to the amount paid over to each. The collectors of the several counties shall hereafter be allowed two dollars for every forty miles necessary travel in going to and returning from the seat of government, for the purpose of paying over the State revenue, which sum shall be paid out of the State treasury. To each clerk of the county commissioners' court, for making transcript of lands listed for taxation, and of delinquent lands and town lots sold to the State for taxes, and unredeemed, and for transmitting the list of lands sold for taxes, and the list of lands unredeemed from sale to the State, to the auditor of public accounts, one cent for each lot or tract included in each list; one-half of the same to be paid by the State, and the other half by the county. For assisting the collector in selling lands for taxes, ten cents for each lot, tract or parcel of land sold, for which a certificate is given, to be charged and collected as other costs: Provided, That no certificates shall be issued for lands or lots forfeited to the State. For adding to the transcript for assessors, the auditor's list of lands which may have become taxable during the preceding year, one cent for each lot or parcel of land so added, to be paid out of the county treasury. To collectors, for each tract of land or town lot sold for taxes, five cents, to be collected as costs, but no costs shall be paid to collectors on lands sold to the State, until the same are redeemed. For each collector's deed, twenty-five cents, and when more than one tract or lot is included therein, five cents for each additional tract or lot, to be paid to the collector by the person receiving such deed. To each printer, for publishing advertisement of the sale of lands for taxes, four cents for each lot or parcel of land advertised, to be paid out of the State treasury, and afterwards taxed and collected as costs: Provided, No fees shall be paid on the delinquent list until collected by the State.

(109.) SEC. CIX. The following acts are hereby repealed, viz.: "An act concerning the public revenue," approved February twenty-sixth, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-nine; "An act supplementary thereto," approved March first, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-nine; and "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act concerning the public revenue,'" approved February 26, 1839, and "An act supplemental to said act," approved

March 1, 1839; approved March sixth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-three.

(110.) SEC. CX. Taxes already levied, shall be collected under the provisions of the act hereby repealed; liabilities existing or hereafter to exist on the part of sheriffs, collectors, clerks or other persons, under the provisions of said acts, shall be enforced in accordance with said provisions; and also, the rights acquired by individuals under any of the aforesaid laws.

(111.) SEC. CXI. In all cases of erroneous sales of any tract or tracts of land for taxes, in any of the counties of this State, it shall be the duty of the clerk of the county commissioners' court, under the direction of said court, to correct said error or errors upon the books in his office, and to grant a certificate under the seal of said court, certifying that such tract of land was erroneously sold, which certificate being presented to the auditor of public accounts, it shall be the duty of the auditor to credit the collector of said county with the amount of said erroneous sale. The provisions of this chapter shall apply to all erroneous sales heretofore made in any of the counties of this State.

(112.) SEC. CXII. The clerk of the circuit court in each of the counties of this State, shall have, for each tract of land against which judgment is prayed for delinquent taxes, the sum of three cents, and the clerk of the county commissioners' court, for making out abstracts and delivering the same to the clerk of the circuit court, the sum of two cents a tract: Provided also, That the clerk of the county commissioners' court shall be allowed one cent a tract for all other abstracts made out under the provisions of this chapter, one-half to be paid by the State and one-half by the county.

(113.) SEC. CXIII. So much of any act or acts, as makes the deed of the collector or sheriff, for lands sold for taxes, conclusive evidence that the land was advertised for the time and in the manner required by law, or of any other fact or proceeding, shall be and the same is hereby repealed, and said deed shall only be prima facie evidence of such fact.

An Act to legalize the Acts of certain Assessors in this State.

[Approved Jan. 15, 1845. Laws, 1845, p. 178.]

(115.) SEC. II. In all cases where there has been a failure to assess the taxable property in this State, within the time limited by law, for the year 1844, or where such assessment has been ordered by the county commissioners' court since the time limited as aforesaid, such assessment shall be legal to all intents and purposes, and said assessments so made shall be returned to the clerk of the county commissioners' court, and the said clerk, together with the collector, shall respectively perform their respective duties as now required by law, anything in any law to the contrary notwithstanding.

(116.) SEC. III. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act concerning the Revenue.

[Approved Feb. 11, 1845. App. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 588.]

(118.) SEC. II. This act shall be in force from the time of its passage.

An Act to enable former and late Collectors of the Revenue in the several Counties of this State to collect any Taxes remaining due and unpaid.

[Approved Feb. 10, 1845. App. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 588.]

(120.) SEC. II. The said collectors, in order to collect said taxes and assessments, are hereby empowered to do whatsoever they might lawfully have done to enforce the payment of the same, had the ordinary time for making such collections not transpired; and may sell at any regular time for selling lands for taxes in and for their several counties, all lands and town lots on which taxes remain due and unpaid, and all rights accruing under such sales are hereby protected, and may be perfected as under ordinary sales for taxes: Provided, Public notice of the time and place of sale shall be given, and proceedings conducted in all respects as is now or may hereafter be required by law, in ordinary sales of lands for taxes.

(121.) SEC. III. That no late or former collector, who has advanced the State or county taxes upon any real estate, shall be authorized to sell such real estate to reimburse such taxes to himself, in any case where such real estate has changed owners since the expiration of the period in which such taxes should have been collected: Provided, That this act shall not be so construed as to extend the time provided by law for collectors making final settlement, or to release them or their securities from any penalties or liabilities incurred.

(122.)-SEC. IV. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to save a Portion of the Revenue from being lost.

[Approved March 1, 1845. App. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 559.]

(124.) SEC. II. The auditor of public accounts shall, on the passage of this act, or as soon thereafter as convenient, make out and transmit to the clerks of the county commissioners' courts of each county in which lands may be situated, that have been redeemed since the first day of January, 1845, a list of all such lands so redeemed; whereupon it shall be the duty of said clerks to make out certified lists of said lands, so returned, and hand the same to the assessors of their counties, whose duty it shall be to value the said lands, within fifteen days from the receipt of said lists, and return the same to the clerks from whom they received the same. The clerks shall then deliver the said lists to the collectors of their county, who shall give their receipt for the same, and be accountable, upon their official bond, for the amount due upon said lists, and collect the same as other taxes are.

An Act to provide for Paying a Portion of the Interest on the State Debt.

[Approved March 1, 1845. App. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 599.]

(126.) SEC. II. The proceeds of one mill of the tax for the year one thousand eight hundred and forty-five, and one and one-half mills for one thousand eight hundred and forty-six, and forever thereafter, until otherwise provided by law, (together with all surplus money in the treasury, after paying the expenses of the government,) shall be set apart and sacredly held for the payment of the interest on the State debt, and shall be called the "Interest Fund."

(127.) SEC. III. The governor is hereby directed, out of the proceeds of one mill, and one and a half mills, and surplus money, if any there should be, to make semi-annual payments of interest, commencing on the first day of July, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six, and semi-annually thereafter, on the first days of July and January of each year, pro rata, on all the canal bonds, and the internal improvement bonds, except the bonds heretofore hypothecated to McAllister and Stebbins; and the additional tax of one mill for the year one thousand eight hundred and forty-five, and one and one-half mills thereafter, shall be collected by the several collectors, and paid into the treasury, in gold and silver; and a separate account thereof shall be kept in the office of the auditor and treasurer; and auditor's warrants shall not be received therefor; and if the treasurer or any other public officer shall appropriate the same, or knowingly suffer the same to be appropriated or drawn from the treasury for any other purpose than that provided by this act, he or they shall be deemed guilty of embezzlement, and shall be indicted and punished accordingly; and on conviction shall be removed from office.

An Act to amend the Present Revenue Law.

(129.) SEC. II. It shall be the duty of the clerk of the county commissioners' court, to give a written notice to any resident of his county whose lands, lying in said county, have been sold for State, county or road taxes, within one year from and after the sale of such lands; which notice shall contain a description of the lands sold, and the amount of tax and costs thereon. For making out and delivering such notice, the clerk shall be entitled to receive from the owner of such lands the sum of twenty-five cents, to be paid upon the redemption of such lands: Provided, No one person shall be charged but twenty-five cents for such notice, whether such notice contains one or more tracts or town lots.

(130.) SEC. III. If any clerk shall fail or neglect to give the notice as provided by this act, he shall forfeit and pay to the owner of such lands the full amount of the tax and costs due upon said lands, with one hundred per cent. thereon; and upon application of the owner of any such lands, so sold as aforesaid, and who has neglected to be notified as aforesaid, by said clerk to the county commissioners' court of said county, within two years after the day of sale, it shall be the duty of the county commissioners' court to order said clerk to redeem said lands from sale, and to grant to the owner a certificate of redemption for the same; and for a failure to comply with such order, the clerk's office shall be vacated, and filled as other vacancies are, any law to the contrary notwithstanding. The forfeitures incurred in the third section of this act, shall be recoverable before any justice of the peace of the proper county.

(131.) SEC. IV. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to amend Chapter LXXXIX of the Revised Laws, entitled "Revenue."

[Approved Feb. 27, 1847. Laws, 1847, p. 79.]

(133.) SEC. II. So much of the eighth section of the chapter to which this is an amendment, as requires county commissioners' courts to levy the tax for county purposes, at the March term of said courts, is hereby modified so that when such tax shall not be levied at the March term, said courts respectively may levy the same at the June term next ensuing.

(134.) SEC. III. The twelfth section of the chapter to which this is an amendment, is hereby repealed, and hereafter the auditor shall annually transmit to the clerks of the several county commissioners' courts, on or before the first day of December, a list of all lands in their respective counties which may have or shall become subject to taxation within that year.

(135.) SEC. IV. Hereafter, when any assessor shall be unable to discharge his duties and complete his assessment within the time limited by law, on account of sickness, or on account of the extent of his county, such assessor may appoint and employ deputies to aid and assist him in the discharge of his duties: Provided, That before such deputy shall act, he shall take and subscribe an oath or affirmation similar to that of his principal, and the assessor shall be liable for all the acts of his deputy: And provided further, That said appointment shall not be made without the consent of the county commissioners' court of said county.

(136.) SEC. V. Hereafter the transcript which is required by the fourteenth section of the chapter to which this is an amendment, to be delivered by the clerk to the assessor of his county, shall be so delivered by such clerk, on or before the first day of January, instead of the first Monday of March; and such clerk shall also, at the same time, deliver to the assessor suitable blank books, properly headed, wherein to assess the property in his county.

(137.) SEC. VI. The auditor of public accounts shall hereafter furnish the clerks of the several county commissioners' courts with blank forms for assessor's books, sale books and sale lists, and all other lists and certificates necessary to establish a uniform practice in the collection of the State revenue.

(138.) SEC. VII. Sections twenty-one, twenty-two, twenty-three, twenty-four and twenty-five of the chapter to which this is an amendment, are hereby repealed; and hereafter the assessor shall complete the assessment of property on or before the second Monday in July in each year, and return to the clerk of the county commissioners' court the abstract of lands furnished him by said clerk, and his list and description of all taxable property within the county, with the valuation; and the assessor shall add up his own figures in the columns exhibiting the total valuation of real estate, and the total valuation of personal property: Provided, If any assessor, after having assessed any real estate, shall re-assess and raise the value thereof, it shall be his duty to give notice in writing to the owner of such real estate of the change thus made.

(139.) SEC. VIII. The clerk, assisted by the assessor, or other competent person, shall carefully compare the assessment list of real estate with the list furnished the assessor, correcting all errors in said list, and shall set down the valuation of each tract of land and town lot opposite the same, in columns provided for that purpose; and the said clerk shall calculate the amount of State, county and special tax due on each tract and lot, placing the same opposite such tract or lot, also on each person's personal property, and shall add up his own figures in the columns showing the State tax, county tax and special tax: Provided, That where any tract or lot shall have been forfeited to the State for the taxes of any former year, and remains unredeemed, the amount for which the same was forfeited, together with the interest thereon, shall be added to the amount due for the current year; for which service he shall be allowed a sum not exceeding one cent for each tract, lot or parcel contained in said assessment list, to be paid out of the county treasury.

(140.) SEC. IX. Any person feeling aggrieved by the assessment of his property, who shall apply to the county commissioners' court for a reduction thereof, as provided in the twenty-sixth section of the chapter to which this is an amendment, and who shall be dissatisfied with the decision of said county commissioners' court thereon, may appeal from such decision to the circuit court, and such reduction may be made by said circuit court, on proof that the valuation of the assessor was too high, which correction shall be made of record, and a list certified by the clerk of the circuit court to the collector: Provided, That on such appeal no costs shall be taxed against the State or county.

(141.) SEC. X. Hereafter collector's bonds shall be transmitted to the auditor of public accounts, instead of the office of secretary of State, and the said secretary shall deliver over to the auditor all the collector's bonds now on file in his office; certified copies of such bonds under the official seal of the auditor, shall be evidence in all the courts of this State.

(142.) SEC. XI. Hereafter no assessor shall be, either directly or indirectly, concerned in the purchase of any tract of land or town lot sold for the payment of taxes, under the penalty of one hundred dollars, to be recovered by action of debt.

(143.) SEC. XII. On or before the second Monday in September in each year, or as soon thereafter as the collector shall be qualified, the clerk shall deliver the assessment list to said collector, and shall transmit by mail to the auditor a statement of the aggregate value of real estate, the aggregate value of personal property, and the aggregate amount of State tax, county tax and special tax: Provided, That when the county commissioners' court of any county shall think it necessary, they shall require their clerk to make out new transcripts for the assessor, and copies of the assessor's books for the collector; for said services the clerk shall be allowed a sum not exceeding two cents for each tract or lot included in each list, to be paid out of the county treasury.

(144.) SEC. XIII. Sections forty-three and one hundred of the chapter to which this is an amendment, are hereby repealed; and hereafter the collectors of the several counties shall pay to the school commissioner, on or before the first Monday of March in each year, the amount of the interest on the school, college and seminary fund due from the State to his county, and shall, within sixty days after the time fixed by law for holding the first term of the circuit court of his county in each year, make a final settlement with the auditor, and pay into the State treasury the full amount of revenue due the State; and any collector failing to comply with the provisions of this section, shall pay ten per cent. per annum upon the amount he shall fail to pay, and said collector may charge ten per cent. per annum upon the taxes remaining due and unpaid on the first day of the term of the court aforesaid.

(145.) SEC. XIV. The eighty-first section of the chapter to which this is an amendment, is hereby repealed, and hereafter the clerks of the county commissioners' courts of the several counties shall sell, from the records of sales on file in their offices; and all sales of forfeited lands and town lots heretofore made by said clerks, as required by section eighty of the chapter to which this is an amendment, are hereby declared as good, valid and effectual as if the lists had been furnished by the auditor, as required by section eighty-one of the chapter aforesaid; and where the lists have not already been furnished, said clerks shall transmit to the auditor a list of all the lands and lots which have been or shall hereafter be sold, and shall pay into the State treasury the amount received by them for forfeited lands or lots sold, except the amount of county tax, and the interest thereon, which shall be paid into the county treasury.

(146.) SEC. XV. Hereafter assessors shall be allowed a sum not exceeding two dollars per day for every day necessarily employed in the performance of their duty as such assessors, to be paid out of the county treasury; the treasurer of each county shall be allowed two per cent. upon all moneys paid out of the county treasury; the clerk of the county commissioners' court of each county shall be allowed, for assisting the collector in selling lands for taxes, twenty-five cents for each tract of land, and ten cents for each town lot sold, for which a certificate is given, and for making a record of the sales, two cents for each tract of land, and one cent for each town lot, to be charged and collected as other costs; the clerk of the circuit court in each county shall be allowed six cents for each tract of land, and three cents for each town lot against which judgment is prayed for delinquent taxes, to be collected as other costs; the collector shall be allowed ten cents for each tract of land, and three cents for each town lot sold, and for making the delinquent list for publication, two cents for each tract of land and one cent for each town lot, to be collected as other costs; each printer shall be allowed for publishing advertisements of delinquent lands and town lots for sale, ten cents for each tract of land, and three cents for each town lot, to be collected as other costs; Provided, That no fees shall be paid on lands or town lots forfeited to the State.

(147.) SEC. XVI. All the sections or parts of sections of the chapter to which this is an amendment, conflicting with this act, are hereby repealed. This act to be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to amend the Seventh Section of a Law concerning Revenue, approved March 3, 1845.

peddlers shall take out licenses, authorizing them to pursue their occupation, either throughout the whole State, or in a single county in the State, as provided in section seven of an act concerning revenue, approved March third, one thousand eight hundred and forty-five, said licenses shall extend only to the term of one year from the time of their issue; and any person or persons who shall pursue said occupation of hawker or peddler after the time of expiration of his or their license, shall be liable to the same penalty set forth in said seventh section, for the punishment of persons who shall pursue said occupation within this State, or any of the counties thereof, without license.

(149.) SEC. II. This act to take effect from and after the first day of May next.

An Act to increase the Revenue of the State of Illinois.

WHEREAS, It has been enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States, in Congress assembled, as follows: That the assent of Congress is hereby given to the several States, admitted into the Union prior to the twenty-fourth day of April, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and twenty, to impose a tax or taxes upon all lands hereafter sold by the United States in said States from and after the day of such sale; therefore, (151.) SEC. II. That all that part of section four of the revenue law, approved March third, one thousand eight hundred and forty-five, which may conflict with the provisions of this act, be and the same is hereby repealed.

An Act to amend chapter LXXXIX of the Revised Statutes.

(153.) SEC. II. The said clerk shall advertise the same by inserting in the nearest newspaper, as now required, a notice of the time and place fixed for the sale of the same; and for services in attending to the sale of lands for taxes, the said clerks shall be allowed the sum of fifteen cents for each tract or parcel of land sold, to be taxed and collected as costs, in lieu of the ten cents now allowed by law.

(154.) SEC. III. The auditor of public accounts is hereby authorized and required to draw his warrant on the State treasurer in favor of the clerk of the county commissioners' court of each county in this State, in payment for services rendered by him in making abstracts and computations for all the different years for which taxes were due upon the lands and lots forfeited to the State for taxes, and which were offered for sale, by said clerks, at the sale of first Monday of September, 1845, at the rate of ten cents for each tract contained in the list of said forfeited lands and lots, and also reasonable pay for advertising.

(155.) SEC. IV. The compensation provided for in the third section of this act, shall not apply to those clerks of the county commissioners' courts who neglected to comply with all the provisions of the law relative to said sales, or who refused or neglected to comply with the instructions of the auditor, upon the subject of preparing said lists and making computations for said sale. This act to be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to amend the several Acts concerning the Public Revenue.

(157.) SEC. II. Assessors for the current year (1849) and hereafter, shall complete the assessment of the property and make returns thereof as is now required by law, on or before the first Monday in September; and for a failure to do so, they shall forfeit the amount allowed them for said service. The clerks shall perform the duties required of them, and deliver the books to the collectors on or before the first Monday in November thereafter. Every Clerk failing or neglecting to comply with the provisions of this section, shall forfeit the amount allowed him for said service, unless he shall have been prevented from performing the same by the failure of the assessor.

(158.) SEC. III. The collector, as now provided for by law, shall present his bond to the county court, at the September term thereof, and when approved by said court, it shall be recorded; and the clerk shall indorse thereon his certificate of the facts, under the seal of the court, and shall transmit it by mail to the auditor, within three days after the adjournment of the said court. If any collector's bond shall not be received within thirty days after the commencement of said court, it shall be his duty to advise the county treasurer, by letter, of the fact, and said treasurer shall demand the bond and forward it without delay.

(159.) SEC. IV. The county courts of the several counties of this State shall have the same jurisdiction of suits brought by collectors, for the taxes on delinquent lands and town lots, as the circuit courts of this State now have or may hereafter have by the laws of this State.

(160.) SEC. V. When any person, owning lands or town lots in any county in this State, shall fail to pay the taxes assessed thereon, and the collector shall be unable to find any personal property of such person in his county whereon to levy, of value sufficient to pay said taxes and costs, or shall be unable to sell personal property, as is required by law, it shall be the duty of the collector to publish an advertisement in some newspaper published in his county, having the greatest circulation in said county, if any such there be, and if there be no such paper printed in his county, then in the nearest newspaper in this State; which advertisement shall be once published at least four weeks previous to the June term of the county court; and the said advertisement shall contain a list of the delinquent lands and town lots upon which the taxes remain due and unpaid, the names of owners if known, the amount of tax, interest and costs due thereon, and the year or years for which the same are due; shall give notice that he will apply to the county court at the June term thereof, for judgment against said lands and town lots for said taxes, interest and costs, and for an order to sell said lands and town lots for the satisfaction thereof, and shall also give notice that on the third Monday next succeeding the day fixed by law for the commencement of the said term of the said county court, all the lands and town lots for the sale of which an order shall be made, will be exposed to public sale at the place of holding court in said county, for the amount of said taxes, interest and costs due thereon; and the advertisement published according to the provisions of this section, shall be deemed and taken to be sufficient and legal notice, both of the intended application of the collector to the county court for judgment, and also of the sale of lands and lots under the order of said court: Provided, That if the publisher of such paper shall be unable or unwilling to publish said list and notice accurately and properly, the collector shall select some other newspaper, having due regard to the circulation of such paper: And provided further, That nothing in this section shall be so construed as to prevent the collector from applying at any succeeding term of said court for judgment against delinquent lands and lots, and selling the same, if from any cause he shall be unable to obtain judgment at the June term thereof.

(161.) SEC. VI. Hereafter no purchaser of any land or town lot, at any sale of lands or town lots for taxes due either to this State or any county, or incorporated town or city within the same, or at any sale for taxes or levies authorized by the laws of this State, shall be entitled to a deed for the lands or town lots so purchased until he or she shall have complied with the following conditions, to wit: Such purchaser shall serve, or cause to be served, a written notice of such purchase on every person in possession of such land or town lot, three months before the expiration of the time of redemption on such sale; in which notice he shall state when he purchased the land or town lot, the description of the land or lot he has purchased, and when the time of redemption will expire. In like manner he shall serve on the person or persons in whose name or names such land or lot is taxed, a similar written notice, if such person or persons shall reside in the county where such land or lot shall be situated; and in the event that the person or persons, in whose name or names the land or lot is taxed, do not reside in the county, such purchaser shall publish such notice in some newspaper printed in such county, having the greatest circulation; and if no newspaper is printed in the county, then in the nearest newspaper that is published in this State to the county in which such lot or land is situated; which notice shall be inserted three times, the last time not less than three months before the time of redemption shall expire. Every such purchaser, by himself or agent, shall, before he shall be entitled to a deed, make an affidavit of his having complied with the conditions of this section, stating particularly the facts relied on as such compliance; which affidavit shall be delivered to the person authorized by law to execute such tax deed, and which shall by him be filed with the officer having custody of the records of lands and lots sold for taxes and entries of redemption, in the county where such land or lot shall lie, to be by such officer entered on the records of his office, and carefully preserved among the files of his office, and which record or affidavit shall be prima facie evidence that such notice has been given. Any person swearing falsely in such affidavit, shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and punished accordingly. In case any person shall be compelled under this section to publish a notice in a newspaper, then before any person who may have a right to redeem such land or lot from tax sale shall be permitted to redeem, he or she shall pay the officer or person who by law is authorized to receive such redemption money, the printer's fee for publishing such notice, and the expenses of swearing or affirming to the affidavit and filing the same: Provided, That this notice shall not be required to be given on sales made for taxes assessed prior to the adoption of the amended constitution in 1848. Sections two and three of an act entitled "An act to amend the present revenue law," requiring a clerk of the county court to give notice to owners, &c., approved February 27, 1847, shall be and the same are hereby repealed.

(162.) SEC. VII. The auditor of public accounts shall obtain, on the first day of October annually, or as soon thereafter as practicable, from the several land offices of the United States, at which lands within this State are sold, abstracts containing a description of all lands sold at each office, the dates of sale and the names of purchasers, for which he shall pay not exceeding four cents per tract, and shall certify the amount to the governor, whose duty shall be, if said account appears reasonable and right, to approve the same; which shall be sufficient authority for the auditor to issue his warrant on the treasury for the said amount.

(163.) SEC. VIII. The auditor shall annually transmit to the clerks of the several county courts, on or before the first day of January, a list of all lands in their respective counties, which may have or shall become taxable during the year preceding the said first day of January, and not previously reported; and the list required to be delivered by the clerk to the assessor shall be so delivered on or before the first day of February instead of the first day of January in each year.

(164.) SEC. IX. Section ten of chapter eighty-nine of the Revised Statutes, and all other laws establishing a minimum value of lands in this State for taxation, shall be and the same are hereby repealed. Hereafter it shall not be lawful for the clerks of the county commissioners' courts to make full lists of the lands and lots taxable in their counties, unless the county commissioners' court, at their September term, shall order a full list to be made; but the said clerks shall annually add to the old lists the lands described in the yearly report of the auditor, for which they shall be paid as may be directed by law. The assessor shall return to the said clerks the lists of lands furnished him by the clerks, which shall be preserved for future use.

(165.) SEC. X. The collector shall file the list of delinquent lands and lots, which shall be made out in numerical order, and contain all the information necessary to be recorded, with the clerk of the county court, at least five days before the commencement of the term at which application for judgment is to be made, and said clerk shall receive and record the same in a book to be kept for that purpose; which said book shall be ruled and headed, as near as may be, in the following form:

A List of Lands and Town Lots reported by —, Collector of the revenue for the year 18—, upon which he has been unable to collect the Taxes due thereon; and now, on this — day of —, 18—, files this, his petition, for a judgment and order of sale against said Lands and Lots, at the — term, 18—, of the County Court.

Owners' Names.	Part of Section.	Section.	Township.	Range.	Acres.	Valuation.	State Revenue Tax.	State Special Tax.	County Tax.	County Special Tax.	Total Amount Due.	Remarks.

(166.) SEC. XI. On the first day of the term at which judgment on delinquent lands and town lots is prayed, it shall be the duty of the collector to report to the clerk a list of all the lands and town lots upon which the taxes have been paid, if any, from the filing of the list mentioned in the tenth section of this act up to that time; and the clerk shall note the fact opposite each tract upon which the taxes have been so paid. The collector, assisted by the clerk, shall compare and correct said list, and shall make and subscribe an affidavit, which shall be, as near as may be, in the following form:

"I, —, collector for the county of —, do solemnly swear (or affirm, as the case may be,) that the foregoing is a true and correct record of the delinquent lands and town lots within the county of —, upon which I have been unable to collect the taxes as required by law, for the year or years herein set forth; that said taxes now remain due and unpaid, and that due notice of application for judgment and of sale has been given as required by law."

Said affidavit shall be entered on the record at the bottom of the list, and signed by the collector; the oath may be administered by the judge, clerk or any justice of the peace, who shall attest the same.

(167.) SEC. XII. The court shall examine said list, and if defense or objection be offered by any persons interested in any of said lands, to the entry of judgment against the same, the court shall hear and determine the same in a summary manner, without pleadings, and shall pronounce judgment as the right of the case may be, and shall direct the clerk to make out and enter an order for the sale of said lands, which shall be substantially in the following form:

"Whereas due notice has been given of the intended application for a judgment against said lands, and no owner hath appeared to make defense or show cause why judgment should not be entered against the said lands for the taxes, interest and costs due and unpaid thereon, for the year or years herein set forth; therefore, it is considered by the court that judgment be and it is hereby entered against the aforesaid tract or tracts of land, or parts of tracts, (as the case may be,) in the name of the State of Illinois, for the sum annexed to each tract or parcel of land, being the amount of taxes, interest and costs due severally thereon; and it is ordered by the court that the said several tracts of land, or so much thereof as shall be sufficient of each of them to satisfy the amount of taxes, interest and costs annexed to them severally, be sold as the law directs."

(168.) SEC. XIII. Said order shall be signed by the judge, and shall have the same effect as judgments and orders made by the circuit court, under the laws to which this is an amendment. Persons aggrieved by any decision of the county court in such cases, shall have the right of appeal to the circuit court, under such rules and restrictions as may be established by law.

(169.) SEC. XIV. All duties required to be performed by the clerk of the circuit court, by the law to which this is amendatory, and which are not in this act dispensed with, shall devolve upon and be performed by the clerk of the said county court, and his compensation for said services shall be the same as allowed by said law to which this is amendatory to the clerk of the said circuit court.

(170.) SEC. XV. The clerk of said court shall, within ten days after any sale for taxes, make out and transmit to the auditor a transcript of sales, which shall be written on foolscap paper, made up, stitched and paged in book form, suitable for binding; said form to be substantially as follows:

A Transcript of Lands and Town Lots sold for Taxes on the — day of —, 18—, in the County of —.

Acres offered.	Part of Section.	Section.	Town.	Range.	Acres sold.	Amount of Sale.	Name of Purchaser.

Lands and Lots forfeited to the State on the — day of —, 18—.

Part of Section.	Section.	Town.	Range.	Acres.	State Revenue Tax.	State Special Tax.	County Tax.	Total.

(171.) SEC. XVI. Said clerk, for failing to forward to the auditor the said transcript, within the time prescribed in the preceding section, shall forfeit and pay into the treasury of the State the sum of one hundred dollars, to be recovered in an action of debt in any court of competent jurisdiction; and it shall be the duty of the prosecuting attorney for the circuit in which the county of said clerk may be, to prosecute and recover the same, on being required by the auditor so to do.

(172.) SEC. XVII. Suits for the sale of delinquent lands for taxes of 1848, and prior years, may be brought and prosecuted either in the circuit courts or in the county courts; but for the taxes of subsequent years, original jurisdiction of such suits shall be exclusively in the county courts.

(173.) SEC. XVIII. Assessments and collections of taxes for the year 1849, and subsequent years, shall be made conformably to the provisions of this act, and the laws to which it is amendatory.

(174.) SEC. XIX. The collector of each county, upon receiving the assessment list from the clerk of the county commissioners' court of his county, and giving a receipt for the same, shall proceed to collect the taxes charged upon said list, by causing a printed notice to be posted in three different places in each election precinct, and in three different places at the county seat, one of which shall be on the door of the court-house, if any, and shall cause the same to be inserted in any newspaper published in such county having the greatest circulation, if any be published therein, for the space of three successive weeks; stating in each notice upon what day or successive days the collector will, by himself or agent, attend in such precincts, at the place of holding elections, or at some equally public and convenient place, for the purpose of receiving taxes; and the said collector, or his agent, shall attend for the purpose aforesaid, on the day and at the place named in such notice, and shall also attend, by himself or agent, at his office at the county seat, during the month of January, for the same purpose: Provided, however, That the said notice shall be considered a demand for the taxes sufficient to create the lien specified in the act to which this is an amendment; and said notice shall be posted up and advertised, as aforesaid, at least three weeks prior to the time specified for meeting in the precinct.

(175.) SEC. XX. If any person shall fail to pay the taxes charged against him, on or before the first day of February next, after the publication of said notices, the collector may distrain his personal property, and proceed to sell the same as already prescribed by law.

(176.) SEC. XXI. There shall be annually assessed and collected, in the same manner as other State revenue may be assessed and collected, a tax of two mills upon each dollar's worth of taxable property, in addition to all other taxes, to be applied as follows, to wit: The fund so created shall be kept separate, and shall annually, on the first day of January, be apportioned and paid over pro rata upon all such State indebtedness, other than the canal and school indebtedness, as may for that purpose be presented by the holders of the same, to be entered as credits upon, and to that extent, in extinguishment of the principal of said indebtedness.

(177.) SEC. XXII. The treasurer of each county shall be ex officio assessor. Before he enters on the duties of his office as assessor, he shall take and subscribe the following oath (or affirmation), to wit:

"I, A. B., do solemnly swear, (or affirm, as the case may be,) that I will faithfully, diligently and impartially perform all the duties required of me by law, as assessor and treasurer of the county of —; and especially that I will value and assess for taxation all property, real and personal, which is subject to taxation in said county, at its true value, in accordance with the provisions of the constitution."

Which oath may be administered by the clerk of the county court, or any justice of the peace, and indorsed on or attached to the book of said assessor, and returned, with said assessor's book, to the clerk's office. A refusal or neglect of the treasurer to qualify and act as assessor, shall vacate his office as treasurer, and the county court shall thereupon appoint some suitable person to fill such vacancy, who shall hold his office until his successor is duly elected and qualified. The treasurer shall keep his office at the county seat; and his neglect to do so shall vacate his office, which may be filled as aforesaid.

(178.) SEC. XXIII. The auditor of public accounts shall be and he is hereby required to have the land records in his office carefully compared with the records in the several land offices in this State, and corrected, so as to show the correct description of all the lands sold and subject to taxation in this State, the name of the purchaser, and the date of sale; and he shall enter up in said records, from the annual lists of lands obtained from the several land offices, a correct record of the land sold at said land offices, in numerical order, correcting all errors in said transcripts or records. To defray the expenses of the work required to be performed in making the comparison and entries aforesaid, he shall be allowed two cents per tract for each tract corrected and transcribed.

(179.) SEC. XXIV. It shall be the duty of the auditor to have the records mentioned in the first section of this act corrected as soon as practicable; and as the said work progresses, he may lay proper vouchers before the governor, which shall show the number of tracts actually compared or entered; and if the governor shall be satisfied that said vouchers are correct, he shall approve the same, which shall authorize the auditor to issue his warrant on the treasurer for the amount due, to be paid out of any moneys not otherwise appropriated; and the amount that may be approved as aforesaid is hereby appropriated. All laws and parts of laws authorizing John B. Weber to correct said records, are hereby repealed.

(180.) SEC. XXV. If any tract or tracts of land shall have been, or may hereafter be, taxed before the same became taxable under the laws of this State, the auditor of public accounts, upon application of the owner of said lands, shall give him a certificate, under the seal of his office, showing when the same became taxable under the rules heretofore observed in his said office, in making the reports of taxable lands to the several counties, and said certificate shall be evidence of the facts therein contained.

(181.) SEC. XXVI. The assessor shall, at the time of making the entry in his book, as required by the sixteenth section of the eighty-ninth chapter of the Revised Laws, give to the person so assessed a certificate of the entry so made of the value of the real and personal property so assessed; and the assessor shall not make any change or alteration in said entry after having given such certificate, without giving to the person assessed an additional certificate, showing such increased assessment.

(182.) SEC. XXVII. The auditor is hereby required to furnish to the clerks of the county courts of the several counties, forms of books for property to be assessed, and they are required to conform to said plan; said plan to be furnished to the clerks by the first day of April next.

(183.) SEC. XXVIII. The auditor is hereby required to furnish to each of the county clerks and assessors, a copy of this law as soon as practicable.

(184.) SEC. XXIX. It shall be the duty of each assessor, whenever any person shall refuse to furnish a list of his taxable property, of every description whatever, and swear or affirm to the same, if required so to do, to bring suit for the penalty provided by law; and if the said assessor should fail or neglect so to do, he shall be liable to a like penalty, to be recovered at the suit of any person who may sue for the same.

(185.) SEC. XXX. Whenever any assessor shall be required by any tax payer of his county to swear any other person in regard to his assessment, he shall administer the oath required by law at his earliest convenience, and on failure so to, do shall be subject to a penalty of fifty dollars, to be recovered as other penalties under this act.

(186.) SEC. XXXI. All acts and parts of acts conflicting with this act are hereby repealed.

(187.) SEC. XXXII. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to provide for the Collection of the Revenue on forfeited Property.
[Approved Feb. 12, 1849. Laws, 1849, p. 128.]

(189.) SEC. II. It shall be the duty of the auditor to make out correct statements of the several sums which may be reported as required in the foregoing section, and transmit the same to the sheriff of each of the respective counties, whose duty it shall be to lay the same before the county court, at the first term thereof after he shall have received said statement; and the said court shall examine the accounts and books, and enter an order upon the records, showing the correct amounts received by the clerk prior to the first day of June, 1849.

(190.) SEC. III. The statements of forfeited lands and lots sold, and of lands and lots redeemed, mentioned in the first section of this act, shall be made out separately; the statement of sales shall contain a description of the property sold, quantity of land or part of lots sold, the year or years tax for which forfeited, the amount of revenue, tax and interest, the amount of interest fund, tax and interest, and the amount of insane hospital tax and interest, the amount due the county, the total amount of sale, the name of the purchaser, and date of sale, in separate columns, ruled and headed for that purpose. A blank form of said list shall be forwarded, together with a copy of this act, by the auditor to the clerk of the county court of each county. The statement of lands and lots redeemed shall be made out in the same manner as the statement of sales, with the names of the persons redeeming, instead of those of the purchasers. Said statements shall be certified by the clerk, under the seal of his office, and forwarded to the auditor by mail, on or before the 10th day of June, 1849, and a certified copy of the order mentioned in the second section of this act, shall be forwarded within three days after the adjournment of the court; and the auditor shall charge the amount that may appear to be due to the State from the said clerk, and shall collect and pay the same into the State treasury: Provided, That if the auditor shall be satisfied that the amount set forth in the order is incorrect, he may return the same for correction.

(191.) SEC. IV. If the clerk of the county commissioners' court shall neglect or refuse to comply with the provisions of this act, or shall neglect to pay over the amount due by him, he shall be liable to pay the whole amount of State tax, interest and costs, on all the lands and lots which may have been forfeited to the State in his county; and the auditor shall ascertain the amount due from the sale lists on file in his office, and proceed against the said clerk in the same manner as is provided for proceeding against delinquent collectors. And the said clerk may be removed from office on failure to pay as aforesaid.

(192.) SEC. V. Lands and lots heretofore forfeited to the State may be assessed to the original owners, if listed by them; if not listed, they shall be forfeited to the State; and the clerk of the county court shall compute the amount of back taxes, interest and costs due thereon, and note the amount opposite each tract or lot. The collector shall proceed to collect said amounts, by sale or otherwise, the same as other revenue, and his receipt for the said amount, including the taxes for the current year, shall be evidence of redemption of said tract or lot from all claims for the taxes of the years specified in said receipt. All deeds made by the auditor of public accounts, under the provisions of chapter eighty-nine, Revised Statutes, shall have the same force and effect as tax deeds executed by sheriffs under said law. All auditor's deeds given under said act shall be prima facie evidence that all the prerequisites of the law were complied with before sale; and when it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the county court, that any tract or lot sold or redeemed under the provisions of said chapter, was not taxable at the time of sale to the State, or was assessed twice for the taxes of that year, the said court shall cause said sale to be cancelled, and shall enter an order showing the amount paid to the county, and the amount paid to the State on said erroneous sale. The court shall refund to the purchaser, or his legal representative, the amount paid to the county; and the auditor shall issue his warrant on the treasurer for the amount paid to the State, upon the presentation of a certified copy of said order and the return of the deed, if a deed has been issued for said tract or lot. But if it shall appear that the taxes had been properly paid to the collector, and through his neglect the lands or lots were sold, or forfeited to the State, then the purchaser shall have his remedy against the collector, and may proceed against him by action of debt in any court having competent jurisdiction: Provided, That if the clerk shall not have paid the redemption or sale money into the treasury, as required by law, he shall refund the amount to the purchaser or the person redeeming, as the case may be; and if said clerk shall refuse or neglect to pay the same, the person entitled to receive said amount shall have his remedy against said clerk, and may proceed against him by action of debt in any court having competent jurisdiction.

(193.) SEC. VI. The clerks of the county commissioners' courts of the several counties shall make out and deliver to the assessor, on or before the first day of July next, a list of all the forfeited lands and town lots remaining unsold or unredeemed on the first day of June, 1849, and it shall be the duty of the assessor to assess said lands and lots, and make return thereof, as is required by law for the assessing of other property. The clerk shall make out and deliver to the collector, at the same time that he delivers the assessment books for the current year, a correct list of said property, showing the value, amount of tax, amount of back taxes and interest, (including the taxes for which forfeited,) the amount of costs, and the year or years for which said back taxes are charged; and the said collector shall proceed to collect the amounts due thereon, by sale or otherwise, as is or may be provided by law for the collection of the taxes on other lands and town lots: Provided, That if any such lands or town lots shall again be forfeited to the State at said sale, for want of bidders, the collector shall sell them on the last day of sale, to the highest bidder, without regard to the amount due thereon, and the clerk shall deliver to the purchaser a certificate of purchase, which shall entitle him to a deed from the auditor, as is now provided for by law: Provided, further, That the owner or owners of any such lands or lots may redeem the same at any time within one year from the time that said lands or lots were sold, by paying to the clerk of the county court double the amount for which said lands or lots were sold, and the subsequent taxes, with interest thereon; and if any such lands and town lots were sold for a less sum than the amount due thereon, he shall pay the whole amount due, with interest thereon.

(194.) SEC. VII. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to amend the several Acts concerning the Public Revenue.

[Approved Nov. 6, 1849. Laws, 1849, p. 38.]

(196.) SEC. II. The assessor shall assess the property as now required by law, and make return thereof on or before the first day of October thereafter.

(197.) SEC. III. The clerk shall deliver the tax books to the collector on the first Monday in December, or so soon thereafter as he may be qualified: Provided, That this section shall not affect the revenue of the year 1849.

(198.) SEC. IV. At the December term of the county court, in each year, and before receiving the tax books, the collector shall file a good and sufficient bond, as is now provided for by law, to be approved by said court, which shall be recorded and forwarded to the auditor of public accounts, together with a certificate of the facts, within three days after the adjournment of said court: Provided, That this section shall not apply to bonds for the collection of the taxes of 1849.

(199.) SEC. V. The notice of the time of attending at the precincts for the purpose of receiving the taxes, required by law, shall be advertised and posted up at least two weeks prior to the time specified for meeting in the precincts. So much of the law as requires three weeks' notice, is hereby repealed:

(200.) SEC. VI. The collector, by himself or agent, shall attend at his office, during the month of February, for the purpose of receiving the taxes, instead of the month of January, as now required by law, and said collector shall not distrain or sell personal property for taxes before the first day of March, and not until he has attended the precincts for the purpose of receiving said taxes.

(201.) SEC. VII. The advertisement of the list of delinquent lands and town lots, required by law to be published before the rendition of judgment and sale of real estate for taxes, shall be so published on or before the seventh day of May, and the sale shall be made on the second Monday in June annually: Provided, That said sale may be continued from day to day, until all the property is sold. So much of the 5th section of an act entitled, "An act to amend the several acts concerning the public revenue," approved February 8, 1849, as requires the advertisement mentioned in said section to be published four weeks previous to the June term of the county court, and the sale to be made on the third Monday next succeeding the term of the court, is hereby repealed.

(202.) SEC. VIII. The collector shall present to the court, at the June term thereof, his list of abatements, and shall make a final settlement with the county at said term, except for the amount of taxes due on the delinquent real estate, which he shall account for and pay over to the treasurer within five days after the sale.

(203.) SEC. IX. The clerk shall make out a correct transcript of the sales, in form as required by law, and a certified statement, showing the value of the property, and the amount of State and county tax abated by the court, and within five days after the sale shall deliver the same to the collector, securely enveloped, sealed and directed to the auditor; and it shall be the duty of the collector to deliver said sale list and certificate to the auditor, and make a final settlement, and pay into the State treasury the full amount due from him to the State, on or before the first day of July.

(204.) SEC. X. Upon the final settlement of any account, the auditor shall give the collector a certificate, under seal of his office, setting forth that said collector has settled and paid into the State treasury the full amount due from him on said account; and it shall be the duty of the collector to file said certificate in the office of the clerk of the county court, on or before the first day of August next, after receiving the tax books. If any collector shall neglect or refuse to file said certificate, as above required, the clerk shall leave a written notice at the office of said collector, requiring him to appear before the county court at the September term thereof, and show cause why he has not filed the certificate aforesaid; and if the collector shall not show that he has paid over the full amount due from him, and made a final settlement with the State and county, or that he has a just and reasonable excuse for failing to do so, his office of sheriff shall be declared vacant.

(205.) SEC. XI. In case of the death of any collector during the time that the tax books are in his hands, and before the time specified in this act for selling the delinquent real estate, the clerk of the county court shall demand and take charge of the tax books, and thereupon shall forthwith notify the judge of said court of the fact, and said judge shall appoint one or more competent persons to examine said tax books, and it shall be the duty of the person or persons so appointed, to ascertain the amount remaining uncollected, and make out a correct abstract of the same: Provided, That should there be but a small portion of the taxes collected at the time of the death of the collector, then the amount actually collected shall be ascertained, and the same books used in completing the collections.

(206.) SEC. XII. In case of the vacancy, as mentioned in the foregoing section, the county court may appoint a suitable person to complete the collections, who shall execute a bond, collect and pay over the taxes in the same manner, and his acts shall be as binding and effectual, as the collector's would have been had he completed the collections; and the court may, if the circumstances of the case require it, allow the said collector further time to complete the collections and make settlement, which shall not be for a longer time than three months over and above the time allowed to collectors by this act. And the collector so appointed may obtain judgment at the September term of the county court, and sell delinquent lands and lots in like manner as collectors are authorized to do at the June term: Provided, That if the collector had attended in the precincts for the purpose of collecting the taxes, or had advertised the delinquent land list before his death, it shall not be necessary for his successor, or the person appointed to complete the collections, to attend in said precincts, or re-advertise, but he shall proceed to finish the collections in the same manner as the collector would have been authorized to do if he had lived: Provided, further, That if the circumstances of the case will permit of the necessary delay, or the court shall be unable to find a suitable person willing to complete the collections aforesaid, the sheriff elected to fill the vacancy shall complete the collections and make the settlement as specified in this section.

(207.) SEC. XIII. If any collector shall be unable to obtain judgment on the delinquent land list, at the June term of the county court, from any cause whatever, he may obtain judgment at any subsequent term of said court by giving notice of the intended application and sale; which notice shall contain all the facts required by law, and shall be once published, at least four weeks previous to the first day of the term at which the judgment will be prayed, and the sale shall be on the Monday next following the first day of said term: Provided, That the statute allowing the redemption from tax sale of the lands of infants, *feme covert*s and lunatics, shall be so construed as to authorize such redemption by their guardians or legal representatives, from and after the day of sale to the time now limited by the statutes for such redemption.

(208.) SEC. XIV. If any collector shall, by his own neglect, fail to obtain judgment at the June term of the court, or shall fail to present his list of delinquencies on personal property, or of errors in assessment at said term, he shall lose the benefit thereof, and shall pay to the State and county the full amount charged against him, after deducting his fees for collecting: Provided, That if, for any cause, the court do not sit at the June term, the collector shall be allowed further time to pay over the amount due on the delinquent list.

(209.) SEC. XV. All suits or applications for judgment and order of sale for the taxes on delinquent lands and town lots, shall be made at the terms of the county court sitting for the transaction of county business: Provided, That if, for any cause, the court shall not be holden at the term at which judgment is prayed, the cause shall be continued, and it shall not be necessary to re-advertise the list or notice required by law to be advertised before judgment and sale: Provided, further, That the term of the court at which the collector shall obtain judgment on the delinquent land list, shall not be continued for a longer time than six days from its commencement.

(210.) SEC. XVI. The printer publishing the list of delinquent lands and town lots, shall transmit by mail, or other safe conveyance, to the collector, four copies of the paper containing said list. Upon the receipt of said papers, the collector shall pay to the printer the amount of the fees allowed by law for publishing said list and notice; and it shall be his duty to file one copy of said paper in his office, and deliver one copy to the clerk of the county court, one copy to the auditor of public accounts, and one copy to the State treasurer, who shall file and safely preserve them in their respective offices: Provided, That if said publication is not made in accordance with the requirements of the law, or the papers above mentioned are not furnished the collector before the first day of the term of the court at which the judgment is prayed, the collector shall not pay said fees until they are collected by him.

(211.) SEC. XVII. If any collector shall neglect or refuse to pay the amount due the printer, as required by the act, it shall be competent for the printer to forward two copies of the paper containing the advertisement, with a statement of his account, and of the facts in the case, to the auditor of public accounts, and if the auditor be satisfied that the amount ought to be paid, he shall issue his warrant on the treasurer for the amount due, and charge the same to the collector: Provided, That said papers and statement be presented to the auditor on or before the day of sale. Any printer who shall so demand payment from the auditor, after he has received pay from the collector, or shall receive payment from the collector after he has forwarded the demand on the auditor, shall forfeit and pay to the State double the amount of said account, to be recovered in any court having jurisdiction of the amount.

(212.) SEC. XVIII. The auditor shall credit the collector with the amount of the printer's fees on the property forfeited to the State, and the clerk shall annually add to the taxes of the year following the amount for which the tract or lot was forfeited, including the printer's fees, and six per cent. interest for one year from the date of the last sale; the amount of said fees to be paid into the State treasury, when collected, and the additions to be continued from year to year, until the whole amount due on said tract or lot is collected. All laws authorizing the clerks of the county courts to receive the redemption money on property forfeited to the State, are hereby repealed.

(213.) SEC. XIX. If, upon the final settlement of any account, it is ascertained that the collector has paid into the State treasury a greater sum than is justly due from him to the State, the auditor shall refund the same, by issuing his warrant on the treasury for the amount so overpaid.

(214.) SEC. XX. Every justice of the peace, or other officer, who may have collected any fine imposed by virtue of the seventh section of chapter eighty-nine of the Revised Statutes, shall, within three months from and after the passage of this act, pay the amount so collected and due the State, to the sheriff of his county, and take duplicate receipts therefor, one of which he shall forward by mail to the auditor of public accounts; and hereafter it shall be the duty of the officer collecting any such fine, to report the same to the clerk of the county court within three days thereafter, and pay the amount so collected over to the sheriff; and the clerk shall file said report in his office, and forward a certified copy thereof to the auditor. And it shall be the duty of the sheriff of the several counties to demand and receive the amount of any such fine, and pay the same into the State treasury. Every officer neglecting or refusing to comply with the requirements of this section, shall forfeit and pay to the State double the amount received by him, and shall be removed from his office.

(215.) SEC. XXI. Any person desiring to obtain a license from the State, as provided for in the seventh section of chapter eighty-nine of the Revised Statutes, shall apply to the auditor of public accounts, who shall issue his order to the treasurer, directing him to receive from said person the amount required by law for said license; and upon the presentation of the treasurer's receipt, the auditor shall issue a license, under the seal of his office, which shall be countersigned by the treasurer, and shall have the same force and effect as the licenses heretofore issued by the secretary of State. So much of the above recited chapter as authorizes the secretary of the State to grant licenses, is hereby repealed.

(216.) SEC. XXII. If the time of holding the circuit court in any county in this State has been so changed by law, as to prevent the collector from obtaining judgment on the delinquent land list, or the court did not sit at its regular term, in consequence of which the fees for advertising said delinquent list were not collected and paid to the printer, the auditor of public accounts is hereby authorized and required to draw his warrant on the treasurer in favor of any such printer for the amount of fees allowed by law.

(217.) SEC. XXIII. All acts and parts of acts conflicting with this act are hereby repealed; and the auditor shall furnish the revenue officers of the several counties with a copy of this act.

(218.) SEC. XXIV. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to enable the Auditor of Public Accounts to collect the Revenue.

[Approved Feb. 17, 1851. Laws, 1851, p. 139.]

tions have in other cases; but no real estate purchased as aforesaid shall be considered redeemed from such sale until the redemption money is paid into the State treasury.

(220.) SEC. II. All moneys received by any sheriff, or other officer, for the redemption of any real estate sold to the State, on execution, shall be paid by such officer into the State treasury, or to the collector of his county, as may be directed by the auditor, within twenty days after demand is made by said auditor, and shall be paid into the State treasury, by such collector, when he makes settlement for the State revenue: Provided, That the demand aforesaid may be made by any person authorized by the auditor to make such demand.

(221.) SEC. III. If any real estate, purchased by the State on execution, shall not have been redeemed, or may not hereafter be redeemed, within the time required by law, it shall be the duty of the auditor to obtain a deed or deeds therefor; which he shall cause to be recorded in a book kept for that purpose, in his office, and shall take such steps as he shall deem necessary to protect the timber, or other fixtures thereon, from being lost or destroyed.

(222.) SEC. IV. The auditor of public accounts is hereby authorized and empowered to sell, transfer and convey, by deed, any and all real estate that may have been heretofore, or may be hereafter purchased, to satisfy, or in payment of any judgment, or any execution in favor of the State, by this State, or by any officer of this State, for the benefit and use of the State, to any person or persons who may pay into the State treasury the full amount paid by the State for said property, and six per cent. interest thereon, from the date of said sale to the time of such payment: Provided, That such amount shall be equal to the amount due the State on the judgment or decree on which the sale was made; or if not, the sale may be made at such price, not less than the price paid for the property as aforesaid, as the judge of the county court and the sheriff of the county in which the estate is situated, shall certify the same to be worth.

(223.) SEC. V. State's attorneys, in addition to the duties now required by law, shall prosecute all suits in favor of the State when required by the auditor; and where there is no other fee allowed by law for such service, they shall be allowed and paid out of the State treasury the sum of five dollars, for commencing and prosecuting suits as aforesaid, to be paid on the certificate of the auditor, and approved by the governor.

(224.) SEC. VI. If the back taxes on any forfeited property have not been collected, or the property sold as provided for by an act entitled "An act to provide for the collection of the revenue on forfeited property," approved February twelfth, eighteen hundred and forty-nine, said taxes, with the interest and costs due thereon, shall be added to and collected with the tax of the current year: Provided, That where such taxes have not been added to the list for the current year, the clerk shall add them to the taxes of the year A. D. one thousand eight hundred and fifty-one. Said property shall be advertised and sold in the same manner as required by the act aforesaid.

(225.) SEC. VII. Deeds on sales made in pursuance of this act, or of the foregoing recited act, shall be made by the sheriff or collector, as provided for in other cases of sales for taxes.

(226.) SEC. VIII. In all cases where the collectors of the tax of the year A. D. one thousand eight hundred and forty-nine, did not receive the tax books within the time required by law, or where any of the collectors aforesaid failed to obtain judgment on the delinquent list, at the time required by law, the auditor is hereby required to remit the interest on the accounts of such collectors; and in all cases where such interest has been paid into the treasury, the auditor shall cause the same to be refunded by drawing his warrant on the treasurer for the amount so paid.

(227.) SEC. IX. Sheriffs and collectors of the revenue for the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-one, and subsequent years, shall be allowed a commission upon all moneys paid into the State and county treasuries, of five per cent. on the first eight thousand dollars, three per cent. on the next ten thousand dollars, and two per cent on all additional sums, instead of the commission now allowed by law; which allowance shall be apportioned between the county and State, in proportion to the amounts collected and paid over.

(228.) SEC. X. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to amend the Revenue Law.

[In force Aug. 23, 1852. Laws, 1852, p. 205.]

(230.) SEC. II. Deeds made by the auditor, in pursuance of the provisions of said section eighty-seven, shall be conclusive evidence that the grantee therein named is vested with all the title of the State to the lands therein described, to the extent of the purport of such deed.

(231.) SEC. III. The auditor shall, upon the production of the certificate of the clerk of the county court, execute deeds to the purchaser or his assigns, for all forfeited lands heretofore sold, which deeds shall be effectual to vest in the grantee in said deed all of the title of the State at the time of such sale.

An Act to amend the Revenue Laws, and provide for the Collection of the State Taxes in the City of Quincy.

[Approved June 23, 1852. Laws, 1852, p. 236.]

(233.) SEC. II. The treasurer aforesaid shall qualify as assessor, make the assessment and the return thereof in like manner as assessors in counties not adopting the act entitled "An act to provide for township organization," are required to do, and shall receive like compensation for his services as such assessor, to be paid by the county of Adams, in the same manner that the county treasurers of other counties are paid for such services. The first and second sections of this act shall apply to the assessment for the year A. D. one thousand eight hundred and fifty-three, and subsequent years.

(234.) SEC. III. The sheriff of Adams county shall be ex officio collector, and as such collector, shall collect the taxes for State purposes within the limits of the city of Quincy, for the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-two, and subsequent years. Said collector shall qualify, give bond, and perform the duties required by this act, be subject to the same liabilities and penalties, and receive like compensation as collectors acting under the general revenue laws of this State, in counties not adopting the township organization law: Provided, That if the city marshal of the said city of Quincy neglects or refuses to give bond and collect the tax for the year 1851, as now required by law, then and in that case it shall be the duty of the sheriff of the said county of Adams, when required so to do by the auditor of public accounts, to qualify as collector, and collect and pay over said taxes.

(235.) SEC. IV. For the purposes of assessing the property and collecting the taxes for State purposes within the limits of the city of Quincy, the several acts relating to the revenue, except the "Act to provide for township organization" now in force, or which may hereafter be passed, shall be and have the same force and effect, for the purposes aforesaid, as they would have had if the "Act to provide for township organization" had never been adopted in the county of Adams, anything in said act to the contrary notwithstanding.

(236.) SEC. V. If the treasurer and sheriff of Adams county shall neglect or refuse to qualify and perform the duties required by this act, they or either of them so neglecting or refusing, shall be removed from office, and the vacancy caused by such removal shall be filled in like manner as in other similar cases under the revenue laws of this State.

(237.) SEC. VI. The services performed by the city assessor of the city of Quincy, and the clerk of the county court, under "An act to provide for the assessment of property in the city of Quincy for State taxes, and for the collection of taxes therein, for the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty, and for subsequent years, and for exempting the city of Quincy from the operation of the law authorizing township organization," approved February fifteenth, eighteen hundred and fifty-one, shall be paid for by the county of Adams, in the same manner as county assessors and county clerks are paid for similar services.

(238.) SEC. VII. The collector of taxes for the year one thousand eighteen [eight] hundred and fifty-one, in the city of Quincy, may obtain judgment on the non-resident delinquent list at the October term of the county court, and shall pay over to the State treasurer, and make final settlement with the auditor for the taxes of said year, on or before the first day of November next. Bonds given in pursuance of this act shall be approved by the judge of the county court, anything in the revenue laws to the contrary notwithstanding.

(239.) SEC. VIII. It is hereby declared that the true intention and meaning of this act is, that the State taxes on the property taxable within the city of Quincy shall be assessed, collected and paid over in the same manner that State taxes are collected and paid over in counties that have not adopted the act to provide for township organization, and that the revenue laws of this State, except the act aforesaid, shall be and remain in full force and effect for the purpose aforesaid, and that the fees and compensation allowed for services rendered under the general revenue laws of this State, shall be allowed and paid in the same manner as such fees and compensation are allowed and paid for in counties acting under the general revenue laws of this State.

(240.) SEC. IX. If the city marshal of the said city of Quincy shall have executed bond for the collection of taxes for the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-one, at any time prior to the passage of this act, he and his securities shall file, with the clerk of the county court of Adams county, their written acceptance of the provisions of this act, which shall make them, and each of them, as fully bound for the payment of said bond as they would have been had such bond been executed after the passage of this act.

(241.) SEC. X. The city council of the city of Quincy shall pay, on the first Monday of September next, and annually thereafter, to the county of Adams, the sum of three hundred dollars, for the purpose of reimbursing said county the moneys advanced by her under the provisions of this act, and on account of court expenses, &c.

(242.) SEC. XI. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act for the Assessment of Property.

[Approved Feb. 12, 1853. Laws, 1853, p. 85.]

(244.) SEC. II. The terms "real property" and "land," wherever used in this act, shall be held to mean and include not only the land itself, whether laid out in town lots or otherwise, with all things contained therein, but, also, all buildings, structures and improvements, and other fixtures, of whatsoever kind, thereon, and all rights and privileges belonging or in anywise pertaining thereto. The term "investments in bonds," wherever used in this act, shall be held to mean and include all moneys invested in bonds, of whatsoever kind, whether issued by incorporated or unincorporated companies, towns, cities, counties, States or other corporations, or by the United States, held or controlled by persons residing in this State, whether for themselves or as guardians, trustees or agents, on which the holder thereof is receiving or is entitled to receive interest. The term "investments in stocks," wherever used in this act, shall be held to mean and include all moneys invested in the public stocks of this or any other State, or of the United States, or in any association, corporation, joint-stock company, or otherwise, the stock or capital of which is or may be divided into shares, which are transferable by the owner, without the consent of the other partners or stockholders, for the taxation of which no special provision is made by this act, held by persons residing in this State, either for themselves or as guardians, trustees or agents. The term "oath," wherever used in this act, shall be held to mean oath or affirmation. Every word in this act importing the masculine gender, may extend and be applied to females as well as males. The term "personal property," wherever used in this act, shall be held to mean and include every tangible thing, being the subject of ownership, whether animate or inanimate, other than money, and not forming part of any parcel of real property, as hereinbefore defined. The capital stock, undivided profits, and all other means, not forming part of the capital stock of every company, whether incorporated or unincorporated, and every share, portion or interest in such stock, profits or means, by whatsoever name they may be designated, inclusive of every share or portion, right or interest, either legal or equitable, in and to every ship, vessel or boat, of whatsoever name or description, used or designed to be used, either exclusively or partially, in navigating any of the waters within or bordering on this State, whether such ship, vessel or boat, shall be within the jurisdiction of this State, or elsewhere, and whether the same shall have been enrolled, registered or licensed at any collector's office, or within any county or collector's district in this State or not. The term "money" or "moneys," wherever used in this act, shall be held to mean gold and silver coin, and bank notes in actual possession, and every deposit which the person owning, holding in trust or having the beneficial interest therein, is entitled to withdraw in money on demand. The term "credits," wherever used in this act, shall be held to mean and include every claim or demand for money, labor or other valuable thing, due or to become due, or every annuity or sum of money receivable at stated periods, and all money invested in property of any kind which is secured by deed, mortgage, or otherwise, which the person holding such deed or mortgage, or evidence of claim, is bound by any lease, contract or agreement, to reconvey, release or assign, upon the payment of any specific sum or sums: Provided, That pensions receivable from the United States, or from any State, salaries or payments expected to be received for labor or services to be performed or rendered, shall not be held to be annuities within the meaning of this act. The term "property," wherever used in this act, shall be held to mean and include every tangible thing being the subject of ownership, whether animate or inanimate, real or personal.

(245.) SEC. III. All property described in this section, to the extent herein limited, shall be exempt from taxation, that is to say:

First. All lands donated for school purposes, and not sold or leased. All public school-houses, and houses used exclusively for public worship, the books and furniture therein, and the grounds attached to such building necessary for the proper occupancy, use and enjoyment of the same, and not leased or otherwise used with a view to profit. All colleges, academies; all endowments made for their support; all buildings connected with the same, and all lands connected with institutions of learning, not used with a view to profit. This provision shall not extend to leasehold estates of real property, held under the authority of any college or university of learning.

Second. All lands used exclusively as grave yards, or grounds for burying the dead.

Third. All government lands belonging to the United States, and all property, whether real or personal, belonging to this State, and all swamp and overflowed lands belonging to the several counties of this State, so long as the same may remain unsold by such counties.

Fourth. All buildings belonging to counties used for holding courts, for jails, or for county offices, with the ground on which such buildings are erected, not exceeding, in any county, ten acres.

Fifth. All lands, houses and other buildings belonging to any county, town or city, used exclusively for the accommodation or the support of the poor.

Sixth. All buildings, with the furniture appertaining thereto, belonging to institutions of purely public charity, together with the lands actually occupied by such institutions, not leased or otherwise used with a view to profit; and all moneys and credits appropriated solely to sustaining, and belonging exclusively to, such institutions.

Seventh. All fire engines, and other implements used for the extinguishment of fires, with the buildings used exclusively for the safe-keeping thereof, and for the meetings of fire companies, whether belonging to any town or to any fire company organized therein.

Eighth. All market-houses, public squares or other public grounds, used exclusively for public purposes; and all works, machinery and fixtures belonging exclusively to any town or city, and used exclusively for conveying water to such town or city.

Ninth. No person shall be required to list a greater portion of any credits than he believes will be received or can be collected; nor any greater portion of any obligation given to secure the payment of rent, than the amount that shall have accrued on the lease, and shall remain unpaid at the time of such listing. No person shall be required to include in his statement, as a part of the personal property, moneys, credits, investments in bonds, stocks, joint-stock companies, or otherwise, which he is required to list, any share or portion of the capital stock or property of any company or corporation which is required to list or return its capital and property for taxation in this State, nor shall any partner be required to list or return any property, liability or supposed balance of said partnership due him, the property, effects and credits of said partnership being listed by any other partner.

(246.) SEC. IV. Every person of full age and sound mind, not a married woman, shall list the real property of which he is the owner, situate in the town or district in which he resides, the personal property of which he is the owner, all moneys in his possession, money loaned or invested, and all other property of which he is the owner; and he shall also list all moneys invested, loaned or otherwise controlled by him, as the agent or attorney, or on account of any other person or persons, company or corporation whatsoever, and all moneys deposited, subject to his order, check or draft, and credits due from or owing by any person or persons, body corporate or politic, whether in or out of such county. The property of every ward shall be listed by his guardian; of every minor child, idiot or lunatic, having no other guardian, by his father, if living, if not, by his mother, if living, and if neither father nor mother be living, by the person having such property in charge; of every wife, by her husband, if of sound mind, if not, by herself; of every person for whose benefit property is held in trust, by the trustee; of the estate of a deceased person, by the executor or administrator; of corporations, whose assets are in the hands of receivers, by such receivers; of every company, firm, body politic or corporate, by the president or principal accounting officer, partner or agent thereof. Every person required to list property on behalf of others, by the provisions of this act, shall list it in the same county, town or district in which he would be required to list it if such property were his own; but he shall list it separately from his own, specifying in each case the name of the person, estate, company or corporation to whom it belongs. Real property shall be listed in the county, town or district where it belongs; personal property, moneys and credits, except such as is required to be listed otherwise, shall be listed in the county, town or district where the owner resides; the property of banks or bankers, brokers, stock jobbers, insurance or other companies, merchants and manufacturers, shall be listed in the county, town or district where their business is usually done: Provided, That in the counties of the military tract, owners of real estate shall not be compelled to return the same, if they desire it to go to sale, and so inform the assessor.

(247.) SEC. V. Property held under a lease for a term exceeding ten years, belonging to the State, or to any religious, scientific or benevolent society or institution, whether incorporated or unincorporated, and school and ministerial lands, shall be considered, for all purposes of taxation, as the property of the person so holding the same, and shall be listed as such, by such person, or his agent, as in other cases.

(248.) SEC. VI. Each person required to list property, shall make out, sign and deliver to the assessor, when required, a certified statement of all the personal property, moneys, credits, investments in bonds, stocks, joint-stock companies, or otherwise, in his possession, or under the control of such person, which he is required to list for taxation, either as owner or holder thereof, or as guardian, parent, husband, trustee, executor, administrator, receiver, accounting officer, partner, agent or factor. Personal property shall be listed with reference to the quantity on hand and owned on the first day of May in the year for which the property is required to be listed, including the property purchased on that day.

(249.) SEC. VII. Such statement shall truly and distinctly set forth:

- First. The number of horses, and the value thereof.
- Second. The number of neat cattle, and the value thereof.
- Third. The number of mules and asses, and the value thereof.
- Fourth. The number of sheep, and the value thereof.
- Fifth. The number of hogs, and the value thereof.
- Sixth. Every carriage and wagon, of whatsoever kind, and the value thereof.
- Seventh. Every watch and clock, and the value thereof.
- Eighth. Every piano forte, and the value thereof.
- Ninth. The value of the goods and merchandise which such person is required to list as a merchant.

Tenth. The value of the property which such person is required to list as a banker, broker or stock-jobber.

Eleventh. The value of materials and manufactured articles which such person is required to list as a manufacturer.

Twelfth. The value of moneys and credits required to be listed.

Thirteenth. The value of moneys invested in bonds, stocks, joint-stock companies, or otherwise, which such person is required to list.

Fourteenth. The total value of all other personal property, including household furniture: Provided, That the value of such property shall be determined by the assessor.

(250.) SEC. VIII. If any person shall give a false and fraudulent list, or shall refuse to deliver to the assessor, when called on for that purpose, a list of his or her taxable property, as required by law, the said assessor, as a penalty therefor, shall assess the property of such person at double its value; and if said assessor shall neglect or refuse so to do, he shall be liable in each case to a penalty of fifty dollars, to be recovered at the suit of any person who may sue for the same.

(251.) SEC. IX. If the assessor believes that any property has been valued at less than its true value, in accordance with the rules and customs of valuing property for taxation, he shall value and charge such property at its true value, and shall notify the person listing such property of such increased valuation.

(252.) SEC. X. Each separate parcel of real property shall be valued at its true value in money, excluding the value of crops growing thereon; but the price for which such real property would sell at a forced sale shall not be taken as the criterion of such value. Each tract or lot of real property belonging to this State, or to any county, city, town, or charitable institution, whether incorporated or unincorporated, and school or ministerial lands, held under lease for a term exceeding ten years, shall be valued at such price as the assessor believes could be obtained at private sale for such leasehold estate. Personal property of every description shall be valued at the usual selling price of similar property at the time of listing, and in the county where the same may then be; and if there be no usual selling price known to the person whose duty it shall be to fix a value thereon, then at such price as it is believed could be obtained therefor in money at such time and place. Investments in bonds, stocks, joint-stock companies, or otherwise, shall be valued at the true value thereof in money. Money, whether in possession or on deposit, shall be entered in the statement at the full amount thereof: Provided, That depreciated bank notes shall be entered at their current value. Every credit for a sum certain, payable either in money or property of any kind, shall be valued at the full price of the sum so payable; if for a specific article, or for a specified number or quantity of any article or articles of property, or for a certain amount of labor done, or for services of any kind rendered, it shall be valued at the current price of such property, or of such labor or service, at the place payable. Annuities, or moneys receivable at stated periods, shall be valued at the price which the person listing the same believes them to worth in money.

(253.) SEC. XI. In making up the amount of moneys and credits which any person is required to list for himself, or any other person, company or corporation, he shall be entitled to deduct from the gross amount of moneys and credits, the amount of all bona fide debts owing by such person, company or corporation, to any other person, company or corporation, for a consideration received; but no acknowledgment of indebtedness not founded on actual consideration, believed when received to have been adequate, and no such acknowledgment made for the purpose of being so deducted, shall be considered a debt within the meaning of this section; and so much only of any liability, as surety for others, shall be deducted as the person making out the statement believes the surety is legally and equitably bound to pay, and so much only as he believes such surety will be compelled to pay on account of the inability or insolvency of the principal debtor; and if there are other sureties who are able to contribute, then only so much as the surety in whose behalf the statement is made, will be bound to contribute: Provided, That nothing in this section shall be so construed as to apply to any bank, company or corporation exercising banking powers or privileges.

(254.) SEC. XII. No person, company or corporation, shall be entitled to any deduction on account of any bond, note or obligation of any kind, given to any mutual insurance company, nor on account of any unpaid subscription to any religious, literary, scientific or charitable institution or society; nor on account of any subscription to or installment payable on the capital stock of any company, whether incorporated or unincorporated.

(255.) SEC. XIII. Every person that shall own or have in his possession, or subject to his control, any personal property within this State, with authority to sell the same, which shall have been purchased in or out of this State, with a view to being sold at an advanced price or profit, or which shall have been consigned to him from any place out of this State, for the purpose of being sold at any place within this State, shall be held to be a merchant; and when he shall be by this act required to make out and deliver to the assessor a statement of his other personal property, he shall state the value of such property appertaining to his business as a merchant; and in estimating the value thereof, he shall take, as the criterion, the average value of all such articles of personal property which he shall have had from time to time in his possession, or under his control, during the year next previous to the time of making such statement, if he shall have been so long engaged in business, and if not, then during such time as he shall have been so engaged; and the average shall be made up by taking the amount in value on hand, as nearly as may be, in each month of the next preceding year in which the person making such statement shall have been in business, adding together such amount, and dividing the aggregate amount thereof by the number of months that the person making the statement may have been in business during the preceding year: Provided, That no consignee shall be required to list for taxation the value of any property, the product of this State, which shall have been consigned to him for sale, or otherwise, from any place within the State, nor the value of any property consigned to him from any other place for the sole purpose of being stored or forwarded: Provided, He shall in either case have no interest in such property, or any profit to be derived from its sale; and the word person, as used in this and the succeeding sections, shall be held to mean and include firm, company and incorporation.

(256.) SEC. XIV. Every person who shall purchase, receive or hold personal property of any description, for the purpose of adding to the value thereof, by any process of manufacturing, refining, rectifying, or by the combination of different materials, with a view of making a gain or profit by so doing, shall be held to be a manufacturer; and he shall, when he is required to make out and deliver to the assessor a statement of the amount of his other personal property subject to taxation, also include in his statement the average value, estimated as provided in the preceding section, of all articles purchased or otherwise held for the purpose of being used, in whole or in part, in any process or operation of manufacturing, combining, rectifying, or refining, which from time to time he shall have had on hand during the year next previous to the time of making such statement, if he shall have been so long engaged in such manufacturing business, and if not, then during the time he shall have been so engaged: Provided, That from the value of property, being the product of this State, the merchant or manufacturer listing the same shall be entitled to deduct the amount owing by him for such property, or for moneys invested therein: And provided further, That from the value of property, being the product or stock of this State, the farmer or dealer listing the same shall be entitled to deduct the amount owing by him for such property, or for moneys invested therein.

(257.) SEC. XV. Every person owning a manufacturing establishment of any kind, and every manufacturer, shall list, as a part of his manufacturer's stock, the value of all engines and machinery of every description, used or designed to be used in any process of refining or manufacturing, (except such fixtures as shall have been considered as part of any parcel or parcels of real property,) including all tools and implements of every kind, used or designed to be used for the aforesaid purposes.

(258.) SEC. XVI. Every person who shall have money employed in the business of dealing in coin, notes or bills of exchange, or in the business of dealing in, or buying or selling any kind of bills of exchange, checks, drafts, bank notes, promissory notes, bonds, or other writing obligatory, or stocks of any kind or description whatsoever, shall be held to be a banker, broker, or stock-jobber; and he shall, when he is required to make out and deliver to the assessor a statement of the amount or value of his other personal property subject to taxation, also include in his statement the average value, estimated as provided in the thirteenth section of this act, of all moneys, notes, bills of exchange, bonds, stocks, or other property, appertaining to his business as a banker, broker or stock-jobber, which he shall have had from time to time in his possession, or under his control, during the year next previous to the time of making such statement, if he shall have been so long engaged in such business, and if not, then during the time he shall have been so engaged.

(259.) SEC. XVII. That when any person shall commence merchandising in any county after the first of May in any year, the average value of whose personal property employed in merchandising shall not have been previously entered on the assessor's list for taxation in said county, said person shall report to the clerk of the county, who shall enter the same upon the tax list, the probable average value of the personal property by him intended to be employed in merchandising until the first of May thereafter, and shall pay to the collector of such county a sum which shall bear the same proportion to the levy for all purposes, on the average value so employed, as the time from the day on which he shall commence merchandising as aforesaid, to the first of May next succeeding, shall bear to one year: Provided, That if the person so listing his merchant's capital, shall present a bona fide receipt from the collector of any county in which such merchant's capital had been previously listed and taxed for the amount of the taxes assessed, and by him paid on the same capital for the same year, then and in that case it shall be a receipt from paying taxes again on such capital: Provided further, That if the tax list had been delivered to the collector before the receipt of such report, it shall be the duty of the clerk, within ten days after receiving any such report, to charge the same to the collector, and to notify such collector of the amount so charged, who shall collect and pay over said amount in like manner, as near as may be, as if it had been regularly entered on the tax list.

(260.) SEC. XVIII. That when any person shall commence or engage in the business of dealing in stocks of any description, or in buying or selling any kind of bills of exchange, checks, drafts, bank notes, promissory notes, or other kind of writing obligatory, as mentioned in the sixteenth section of this act, after the first day of May, in any year, the average value of whose personal property employed in such business shall not have been previously entered on the assessor's list for taxation in said county, such person shall report to the county clerk of the county the probable average value of the property by him intended to be employed in such business, until the first day of May thereafter; which amount shall be entered on the tax list, and the taxes collected as in other cases.

(261.) SEC. XIX. That if any person shall commence or engage in the business of merchandising, banking, brokerage or stock-jobbing aforesaid, and shall not, within one month thereafter, list his property as before required, he shall forfeit and pay, in addition to the taxes authorized by law, a tax of two per cent. on the value of the personal property by him so employed, for the use of the county, to be charged and collected in like manner as other taxes; said value to be ascertained, as near as may be, by the assessor, or if he has made return of the assessment list, then by the clerk.

(262.) SEC. XX. It shall be the duty of the president and cashier of every bank or banking company that shall have been or may be hereafter incorporated by the laws of this State, and having the right to issue bills for circulation as money, to make out and return to the bank commissioners, in the month of May annually, a written statement, containing the average amount of notes and bills discounted or purchased by such bank or banking company, which amount shall include all the loans or discounts of such bank or banking company, whether originally made or renewed during the year next preceding the first of May aforesaid, or at any time previous, whether made on bills of exchange, notes, bonds, mortgages or any other evidence of indebtedness, at their actual value in money, whether due previous to, during or after the period aforesaid, and on which such bank or banking company has, at any time, reserved or received, or is entitled to receive, any profit or other consideration whatever, either in the shape of interest, discount, exchange or otherwise. Stocks deposited with the State treasurer shall be valued at the rate at which they are deposited. The bank commissioner shall proceed to ascertain the amount of the property valued in accordance with the provisions of this act, and make return thereof to the auditor, who shall report the same to the clerk of the proper county, and said clerk shall enter the same on the tax list for taxation.

(263.) SEC. XXI. To ascertain the amount of the notes and bills discounted and purchased, and all other effects or dues, of every description, belonging to such bank or banking company, and liable to taxation, there shall be taken, as a criterion, the average amount of the aforesaid items for each month during the year next previous to the time of making such statement, if such bank or banking company shall have been so long engaged in business, and if not, then during such time as such bank or banking company shall have been engaged in business; and the average shall be made by adding together the amount so found belonging to such bank or banking company in each month said bank or banking company was so engaged in business, and dividing the same by the number of months said bank or banking company was thus engaged in business.

(264.) SEC. XXII. The president, secretary or principal accounting officer of every railroad company, turnpike or plank road company, insurance company, telegraph company or other joint stock company, except corporations whose taxation is specifically provided for by law, for whatever purpose they may have been created, whether incorporated by any law of this State or not, shall list for taxation, at its actual value, its real and personal property, moneys and credits, within this State, in the manner following:

In all cases return shall be made to the assessor of each of the respective counties where such property may be situated, together with a statement of the amount of said property which is situated in each county, town, city or ward therein.

The value of all movable property shall be added to the stationary and fixed property and real estates, and apportioned to such wards, towns, cities, and counties, pro rata, in proportion to the value of the real estate and fixed property in said ward, town, city or county. The capital stock of bridge companies shall be assessed in the town where their principal office is located.

If the county assessor to whom returns are made, is of opinion that false or incorrect valuations have been made, or that the property of the corporation or association has not been listed at its full value, or that it has not been listed in the location where it properly belongs, or in cases where no return has been made to the county assessor, he is hereby required to proceed to have the same valued and assessed in the same manner as is prescribed in the several sections of this act regulating the duties of county assessors in cases of refusal or neglect to list property: Provided, That every agency of an insurance company, incorporated by the authority of any other State or government, shall return to the assessor of the county in which the office or agency of such company may be kept, in the month of May, annually, the amount of the gross receipts of such agency, which shall be entered on the tax list of the proper county, and subject to the same rate of taxation for all purposes that other personal property is subject to at the place where located.

(265.) SEC. XXIII. All property, except real property, shall be assessed annually; real property shall be assessed, as provided for by this act, in the year 1853, and every two years thereafter, until otherwise provided for by law.

(266.) SEC. XXIV. The treasurer of each county shall be ex officio the assessor. He shall, at the December term of the county court next succeeding his election, or so soon thereafter as practicable, execute and file with the clerk of the county court a good and sufficient bond, in addition to his bond as treasurer, in the penal sum of one thousand dollars, with security, to be approved by the county court, and conditioned for the faithful performance of all the duties required of him by law as such assessor. And every deputy assessor, or person appointed to the office of assessor to fill a vacancy, shall, before he enters upon the discharge of the duties of such assessor or deputy assessor, execute bond, and qualify in like manner as the assessor, and shall be entitled to the same compensation, and be subject to the same liabilities and penalties.

(267.) SEC. XXV. Every assessor, before he enters upon the duties of his office, shall take and subscribe an oath that he will, according to the best of his judgment, skill and ability, diligently, faithfully and impartially, perform all the duties enjoined on him as such assessor.

(268.) SEC. XXVI. If any person elected to the office of treasurer shall fail to give bond, or shall neglect or refuse to take an oath as required by this act, his office shall be considered vacant, and the county court shall fill such vacancy by the appointment of some suitable person, who shall qualify and discharge the duties of such treasurer and assessor, in like manner as if he had been regularly elected to said office, until one is elected and qualified.

(269.) SEC. XXVII. If any assessor, for any cause whatever, shall be unable to perform the duties required of him within the time required by law, he may, by and with the advice and consent of the county court, appoint one or more suitable persons to act as deputies, and assist him in making such assessment: Provided, That in all such cases, the assessor shall designate the district or portion of the county bounded by township or section lines, which such deputy or deputies are authorized to assess, and each assessor and deputy assessor shall assess all the property required to be assessed within his district; and when real property is to be assessed, he shall list all such real property as residents within his district are required to list for taxation in such county, but he shall enter each tract or parcel of real property so listed and lying out of his district in a separate list, to the end that it may be easily compared, and the value corrected by the lists of other assessors in the same county; and when return is made to the principal assessor, he shall correct the lists, so as to prevent double assessments, and that the property may be listed at its true value: Provided, further, That it shall be the duty of assessors to advise with and instruct their deputies as to the basis and rule of valuing property, so that the valuation of the property in the several districts will bear a just and equitable proportion to each other.

(270.) SEC. XXVIII. The assessor shall, without delay, after being furnished with the necessary blanks, proceed to take a list of the taxable property in his town, and assess the value thereof, in the manner following, to wit:

He shall call at the office, place of doing business, or residence of each person required by this act to list property, and shall require such person to make a correct statement of his taxable property, in accordance with the provisions of this act; and the assessor, or the person listing the property, shall enter a true and correct statement of such property, and the value thereof, in a printed or written blank prepared for that purpose; which statement, after being filled out, shall be signed by the person listing the property, and delivered to the assessor.

(271.) SEC. XXIX. If any person, required by this act to list property, shall be sick or absent when the assessor calls for a list of his property, the assessor shall leave at the office, usual place of residence or business of such person, a written or printed notice, requiring such person to make out and leave at the usual place of collecting taxes in that precinct, or at the office of said assessor, on or before some convenient day named therein, a statement of the property which he is required to list, and shall leave with such notice a printed or written blank for the statement required of such person. The date of leaving such notice, and the name of the person required to list the property, shall be carefully noted by the assessor in a book to be kept for that purpose; and if any such person shall neglect or refuse to deliver the statement, properly made out and signed as required, the assessor shall make the assessment as required by this act.

(272.) SEC. XXX. Assessors and deputy assessors, justices of the peace and clerks of the county courts, are authorized and empowered to administer any oath relating to the assessment of property required by this act.

(273.) SEC. XXXI. In every case where any person shall refuse to make out and deliver to the assessor a statement of the personal property, moneys and credits which he is required to list, as provided by this act, the assessor shall, in every such case, proceed to ascertain the number of each description of the several articles of personal property subject to taxation enumerated in this act, the value thereof, the value of the personal property subject to taxation, other than enumerated articles, and the value of the moneys and credits of which a statement shall have been withheld as aforesaid, as the case may require; and to enable him so to do, he is hereby authorized to examine on oath any person whom he may suppose to have knowledge of the amount or value of the personal property, moneys or credits, which the person so refusing was required to list.

(274.) SEC. XXXII. If any person who shall be required by the assessor to give evidence, as provided in the preceding section, shall refuse to be sworn by the assessor, or having been sworn, if he shall refuse to answer such questions as the assessor shall put to him, touching the subject of inquiry, any justice of the peace of the town or district, to whom the assessor may make application therefor, shall summon such person to appear before him at such time as the assessor shall designate, and answer on oath all pertinent questions which may be put to him by the assessor or his order, touching the amount and value of the personal property, moneys and credits which the person required to list the same on oath has refused to list; and every constable and witness shall be subject to the same penalties for refusal or neglect to obey the process of such justice, as they are by law subject to for refusing to obey the process of justices of the peace in civil cases, and shall receive the same fees allowed for like services in civil cases; and such justice of the peace shall immediately proceed to enter judgment for all such fees and for his own costs in favor of the State of Illinois, against the person who shall have refused to make and deliver to the assessor a statement of the property which, by this act, he was required to list, and proceed to collect and pay over the same, as in civil cases.

(275.) SEC. XXXIII. Each county assessor shall, on or before the first day of September, annually, make out and deliver to the clerk of his county, in tabular form and alphabetical order, the names of the several persons, companies or corporations, in whose names any personal property, moneys or credits shall have been listed in his county, and separately, in appropriate columns, opposite each name, the number and value of all articles of personal property enumerated in this act, the value of all non-enumerated articles of personal property, other than the stock of merchants and manufacturers, the value of merchants' and manufacturers' stock, and the value of the moneys and credits listed by said persons.

(276.) SEC. XXXIV. Any person feeling himself aggrieved by the assessment of his property, or of property which he is required to list, may, at the September term of the county court, or if the assessment lists are not returned at said term, then at the next term of said court after such assessment lists are returned to the clerk, apply to said court for a reduction of such assessment; and if the court shall be satisfied that the valuation of the property was too high, such deduction shall be made as the right of the case may require; but the court shall require the person making such application to prove the facts in the case by his own oath, or the oath of some credible witness. And if any person is assessed on property which he believes is not properly and legally liable to taxation, he may make application as aforesaid, and the court may hear and determine the matter as in cases of over-assessment; but if the court shall decide that any such property is not liable to taxation, and the question as to the liability of such property to taxation has not been previously settled, the decision of said court shall not be final, unless approved by the auditor of public accounts; and it shall be the duty of the county clerk, in all such cases, to make out and forward to the auditor a full and complete statement of all the facts in the case. If the auditor is satisfied that such property is not legally liable to taxation, he shall notify the clerk of his approval of the decision of the court, and the said clerk shall correct the assessment accordingly. But if the auditor believes that the court has erred in deciding that such property was not liable to taxation at the time of making the assessment, he shall advise the clerk of his objection to the decision of the court, and give notice to said clerk that he will apply to the supreme court, at the next term thereafter, for an order to set aside and reverse the decision of the county court. Upon the receipt of such notice, the clerk shall notify the person making application therefor. And it shall be the duty of the auditor to file in the supreme court a certified statement of the facts certified by the clerk, as aforesaid, together with his objections thereto, and the court shall hear and determine the matter, as the right of the case may be.

(277.) SEC. XXXV. In all cases where property is not listed by the owner, the assessor shall note opposite the name the words "by assessor."

(278.) SEC. XXXVI. Each county assessor shall, at the time he is required by this act to make his return of taxable property to the county clerk, also deliver to him all the statements of property which he shall have received from persons required to list the same, arranged in alphabetical order, and the clerk shall carefully file and preserve the same for one year thereafter.

(279.) SEC. XXXVII. Each county assessor shall take and subscribe an oath, which shall be certified by the magistrate or clerk administering the same, and attached to the return which he is required to make to the county clerk, in the following form, as near as may be:

"I, _____, assessor in the county of _____, do solemnly swear that the value of all personal property, moneys and credits required to be listed for taxation by me, is truly returned and set forth in the annexed list, and that in every case I have diligently, and by the best means in my power, endeavored to ascertain the true amount and value of all taxable property, moneys and credits; and that, as I verily believe, the full value thereof, estimated by the rules prescribed by said act, is set forth in the list aforesaid; that in no case have I knowingly omitted to assess any property which by law I am required to assess, nor have I in any way connived at any violation or evasion of any of the requirements of the law in relation to the listing or valuation of property, moneys or credits of any kind, for taxation."

(280.) SEC. XXXVIII. In all cases in which county assessors are required, in consequence of the sickness or absence of the person whose duty it is to make out a statement of personal property, moneys and credits, or in consequence of his neglect or refusal to make out and deliver such statement, to ascertain the amount and value of such personal property, moneys and credits, if the assessor shall be unable to obtain positive evidence of the amount and value of such property, moneys and credits, he shall return such amount and value as from general reputation and his own knowledge of facts and circumstances, he believes to be the full amount and value of such property, moneys and credits.

(281.) SEC. XXXIX. The assessor, or some suitable person employed by him for that purpose, shall add up the several columns containing the number and value of each article of property enumerated, the value of unenumerated articles, the value of each of the other items of property enumerated in the seventh section of this act, and the total value thereof, and note the aggregate of each column at the bottom thereof, and shall make out and deliver to the clerk, with the assessment list, an abstract of the several footings on each page, showing separately the aggregate number and value of each enumerated article of property, and the value of each kind of all other property assessed. The correctness of such abstract shall be verified by the oath of the assessor or person who shall have made such additions.

(282.) SEC. XL. It shall be the duty of each assessor, upon being furnished with the list and blanks provided for by this act, from actual view, or from the best sources of information that can be obtained, to determine, as nearly as practicable, the true value of each separate parcel of real property in his district or county, according to the rules prescribed by this act for valuing real property, and such value shall be noted opposite each parcel of real property, in a column provided for that purpose.

(283.) SEC. XLI. The assessor shall add up the valuation of the real property, and shall set down in figures on each page the total value of the property listed thereon, and shall make out a statement showing the aggregate value of the lands, and the aggregate value of town lots. The assessor shall complete the assessment and make return thereof to the clerk of the county court, on or before the first Monday in September, annually.

(284.) SEC. XLII. Each assessor shall take and subscribe an oath, which shall be certified by the clerk or magistrate administering the same, and attached to the return which he is required to make to the county clerk, as near as may be, in the following form:

"I, A. B., assessor of the county of _____, do solemnly swear that the return to which this is attached, contains a correct description of each parcel of real property subject to taxation within said county, (or district,) so far as I have been able to ascertain the same, and that the value attached to each parcel in said return is, as I verily believe, the full value thereof, estimated agreeably to the rules prescribed therefor in the act for the assessment of property, and the aggregate value, as set forth in the statement returned herewith, is true and correct, as I verily believe."

(285.) SEC. XLIII. Assessors shall make out their accounts in detail, giving the date of each day which they shall have been employed; which account they shall verify under oath; and the county court, if they shall find such account to be correct, shall grant an order on the treasurer for the same; but in no case shall the assessor be entitled to compensation until he shall have filed his lists of assessments, the statements, and the books furnished him, in the office of the clerk; the lists to be accurately made out and added up; nor shall he be entitled to pay, unless he performed the labor and made return in strict compliance with the law: Provided, That in cases of sickness, or for other causes not the fault of the assessor, to be determined by the court on the affidavit of the assessor or other respectable person, a failure to complete the assessment within the time required by law shall not bar the assessor from receiving compensation, when the work is completed.

(286.) SEC. XLIV. No assessment of property, or charge for taxes thereon, shall be considered illegal on account of any informality in making the assessment, or in the tax lists, or on account of the assessments not being made or completed within the time required by law.

(287.) SEC. XLV. Every county clerk, and every assessor who shall in any case refuse or knowingly neglect to perform any duty enjoined on him by this act, or who shall consent to or connive at any evasions of its provisions, whereby any proceeding required by this act shall be prevented or hindered, or whereby any property required to be listed for taxation shall be unlawfully exempted, or the valuation be entered upon the tax list at less than its true value, shall, for every such neglect or refusal, be liable, individually, and on his official bond, for double the amount of the loss or damage caused by such neglect or refusal, to be recovered in an action of debt, in any court having jurisdiction of the amount thereof, and may be removed from office, at the discretion of the county court.

(288.) SEC. XLVI. In all cases where any person, company or corporation, has or may hereafter divide any tract of land into parcels less than the one-sixteenth part of a section, or otherwise, in such manner that such parcels cannot be described in the usual manner of describing lands in accordance with the surveys made by the general government, with a view to sell said lands in such parcels, it shall be lawful for such person, company or corporation, to cause such lands to be surveyed, and a plat thereof made by the surveyor of the county where such lands are situated; which plat shall particularly describe and set forth the lots or parcels of land surveyed, as aforesaid; the lots shall be numbered in progressive numbers, and the plat shall show the number and location of each lot, and the description of the tract of land of which such land is a part, and also the quantity of land in each lot. Said plat shall be certified to by the surveyor, and recorded in like manner as the plats of towns are required to be certified to and recorded. Lands described in any deed or conveyance, or for the purpose of taxation, in accordance with the number and description set forth in the plat aforesaid, shall be deemed a good and valid description of the lot or parcel of land so described.

(289.) SEC. XLVII. When lands heretofore have been or may hereafter be subdivided into parcels less than one-sixteenth part of a section, or in such manner that they cannot be easily and properly described, without noting the metes and bounds of such tracts, it shall be the duty of the owner or owners thereof, when required so to do by the assessor, to cause the same to be surveyed, and the plat thereof recorded in like manner as is required in the foregoing section; and if such owner or owners shall refuse or neglect to cause such survey to be made within a reasonable time after being notified by the assessor, it shall be the duty of the assessor to cause such survey to be made and recorded; and the expense thereof to be returned by the assessor to the clerk, who shall add the same, together with the commissions for collecting, &c., to the tax assessed on such real property, and it shall be collected with and in like manner as the said tax; and when collected, shall be paid on demand to the persons to whom it is due: Provided, That the collector shall either file a receipt for the payment thereof with the treasurer, or shall pay the same into the county treasury, when he makes settlement for the county revenue, to be paid to the proper persons when called for.

(290.) SEC. XLVIII. In all cases where the boundary lines of any county or counties cannot be correctly ascertained from the plats or maps of the original surveys, and such boundary lines not having been surveyed, it shall be the duty of the county court of the counties bounded by any such lines, jointly to cause the same to be surveyed and located in accordance with the laws establishing such lines. They shall cause a plat or map to be made, showing the correct location of the line on each legal subdivision or tract of land through which such line may run; which plat, together with the field notes of such survey, shall be certified to by the surveyor making the survey, under oath, and forwarded to the auditor of public accounts, who shall cause the same to be filed and recorded in his office, and a correct copy thereof forwarded to the clerk of the county court of each of the counties bounded by such line. And said clerk shall cause such copy to be filed in his office, and recorded in a suitable record book, and the line thus surveyed shall be the true division line: Provided, That if the county court of any county bounded, in part or in whole, as aforesaid, shall neglect or refuse to comply with the requirements of this section within a reasonable time after being requested so to do by the auditor of public accounts, it shall be the duty of said auditor to cause the said survey to be made, if in his opinion the public interest requires it. And the expenses of making any such survey, whether under the direction of the county authorities or the auditor, shall be paid by the counties bounded by such line—one-half by each county.

(291.) SEC. XLIX. For the purpose of taxation, all tracts or parcels of land, not exceeding one-sixteenth part of a section, shall be assessed in the county where the greater part of said tract is situated; and the collector of said county shall have the same power and authority to collect the taxes due thereon as he would if the whole of said tract were within the limits of said county. And in all cases where any such tract or tracts shall be equally divided between two counties, and the owner thereof be a resident of either county, said land shall be assessed in the county in which the owner resides; but if the owner be not a resident of either county, then the auditor shall determine in which county the land shall be assessed: Provided, That if there be several tracts similarly situated, the auditor shall apportion them equally between the counties, as near as practicable: Provided, furthermore, That when a tract of land containing a half-quarter section, or more, is so divided by the county line that by subdividing it into quarter-quarter section lots, each county will be entitled to the taxes on one or more of said lots, then the tract shall be so divided.

(292.) SEC. L. Government lands entered or located prior to the first day of May, A. D. 1853, shall be taxable for the year 1853; lands entered or located prior to the first day of May, A. D. 1854, shall be taxable for the year 1854, and so on annually thereafter. Land sold by the trustees of the Illinois and Michigan canal, shall be taxable from and after the time that full payment therefor is made. School, seminary and saline lands sold shall be taxable in like manner as the lands sold by the general government. Internal improvement lands sold prior to the first day of May, A. D. 1848, shall be taxable for the year 1853, and annually thereafter.

(293.) SEC. LI. On the first day of May in each year, or as soon thereafter as practicable, the auditor shall obtain from the several land offices in this State, abstracts of the lands entered and located, and not previously obtained, and shall, when necessary, obtain from the canal office, abstracts of the canal lands sold. Upon the receipt of said abstracts, the auditor shall cause them to be transcribed into the tract books in his office, and shall, without delay, cause abstracts of the lands in each county to be made out and forwarded by mail to the county clerks of the several counties; and said clerks shall cause such abstracts to be transcribed into the tract book, and filed in their office.

(294.) SEC. LII. On the first Monday of May, A. D. 1853, and every two years thereafter, the clerk of the county court shall cause to be delivered to the assessor, a book or books, properly ruled and headed, containing a list of the real estate in numerical order, with such blank columns as may be necessary, for the use of the assessor. The clerk, in making out said lists, shall take as his guide the assessment list of the previous year, and the list of subsequent conveyances: Provided, That the list of lands reported in the annual abstract shall be furnished to the assessor within five days from and after the time such abstract is received from the auditor's office.

(295.) SEC. LIII. Every person owning or holding real property on the first day of May, including all such property purchased on that day, shall be liable for the taxes thereon for that year; and if any person shall sell and convey any real property on or prior to the first day of May next after the listing of such real property, he shall, when he lists his personal property for the year next after the listing of said real property, deliver to the assessor a statement setting forth the description of the property sold and conveyed, and the name of the purchaser, and he shall list all real property purchased by him during the said time; and the assessor shall make return thereof to the county clerk, who shall make the proper changes in the tax books. Real property shall in all cases be liable for the taxes thereon.

(296.) SEC. LIV. The clerk of the county court shall annually, on the first Monday in May, furnish the assessor with a book or books, properly ruled and headed, for the abstract of the assessment of personal property, and shall, at the proper time, furnish such assessor with a list of the real estate that may have become taxable subsequent to the regular assessment of real estate; all property, except real property, shall be assessed annually; real property shall be assessed biennially: Provided, That real property becoming taxable after the regular assessment of real property, or that may have been omitted, shall be assessed for the current year at the same time that the personal property is assessed in the year that the real property is not regularly assessed, and such property shall be re-assessed the next succeeding year with the regular assessment of real property.

(297.) SEC. LV. It shall be the duty of the auditor of public accounts to make out and forward to the clerk of the county court of the several counties, for the use of such clerks and other officers, suitable forms and instructions for carrying this act into effect; and all such instructions shall be strictly complied with by the officers in the performance of their respective duties, as required by this act. He shall give his opinion and advice on all questions of doubt as to the true intent and meaning of the provisions of this act.

(298.) SEC. LVI. If the assessor should discover any real property subject to taxation, which has not been returned to him by the clerk, he shall assess such property, and enter the same on the assessment list. And if, upon the return of such list to the clerk, it shall appear that any such real property has not been returned by the auditor, it shall be the duty of the clerk to advise the auditor of the facts, describing the property so returned by the assessor, and the auditor shall ascertain the true condition of such real property, and advise the said clerk thereof, who shall correct the records of his office, in accordance with the facts in the case.

(299.) SEC. LVII. It shall be the duty of the clerk, before delivering the list of real property to the assessor, to cause such list to be carefully compared with the lists of taxable real property on file in his office, and if it shall appear that any such property was omitted in the former assessment list, he shall correct the list designed for the assessor, so that said list may contain a full and complete abstract of all the taxable real property in the county.

(300.) SEC. LVIII. Assessors shall be allowed two dollars and fifty cents per day, for the time necessarily employed in making the assessment, including expenses and horse hire, to be paid out of the county treasury: Provided, That the county court may allow for any discount or loss, on account of a depreciation in the value of county orders, if, in their opinion, justice requires such allowance. And if said court shall be satisfied that any assessor has charged for time not actually and necessarily employed in the discharge of the duties of his office, or has consumed more time than was necessary, with a view to increase his compensation thereby, said court shall make such deduction from the amount charged as may be reasonable and right. The clerk of the county court shall be allowed and paid out of the county treasury two cents per tract, and one cent. per lot, for making out and comparing the abstract of lands and lots for the use of the assessor: Provided, That where a whole section, half section, quarter section or half-quarter section, is listed as the property of one person, company or corporation, the clerk shall so return it, and shall only be allowed pay for one tract; although such tract may have been purchased by such owner in several parcels, and at different times; and when all the town lots in any block shall be listed as the property of one person, company or corporation, it shall not be necessary to describe each lot, but such property shall be listed and assessed as blocks; and the clerk shall only be allowed the same pay for such blocks as he is allowed for town lots.

(301.) SEC. LIX. This act shall apply to and be in force in all counties not adopting the act to provide for township organization, and shall be in force from and after its passage.

An Act for the Assessment of Property, and the Collection of Taxes, in Counties adopting the Township Organization Law.

[Approved Feb. 12, 1853: Laws, 1853, p. 3.]

(303.) SEC. II. The terms "real property" and "land," wherever used in this act, shall be held to mean and include not only the land itself, whether laid out in town lots or otherwise, with all things contained therein, but, also, all buildings, structures and improvements, and other fixtures, of whatsoever kind, thereon, and all rights and privileges belonging or in anywise pertaining thereto. The term "investments in bonds," wherever used in this act, shall be held to mean and include all moneys invested in bonds, of whatsoever kind, whether issued by incorporated or unincorporated companies, towns, cities, counties, States or other corporations, or by the United States, held or controlled by persons residing in this State, whether for themselves or as guardians, trustees or agents, on which the holder thereof is receiving or is entitled to receive interest. The term "investments in stocks," wherever used in this act, shall be held to mean and include all moneys invested in the public stocks of this or any other State, or of the United States, or in any association, corporation, joint-stock company, or otherwise, the stock or capital of which is or may be divided into shares, which are transferable by the owner, without the consent of the other partners or stockholders, for the taxation of which no special provision is made by this act, held by persons residing in this State, either for themselves or as guardians, trustees or agents. The term "oath," wherever used in this act, shall be held to mean oath or affirmation. Every word in this act importing the masculine gender, may extend and be applied to females as well as males. The term "personal property," wherever used in this act, shall be held to mean and include every tangible thing, being the subject of ownership, whether animate or inanimate, other than money, and not forming part of any parcel of real property, as hereinbefore defined. The capital stock, undivided profits, and all other means, not forming part of the capital stock of every company, whether incorporated or unincorporated, and every share, portion or interest in such stock, profits or means, by whatsoever name they may be designated, inclusive of every share or portion, right or interest, either legal or equitable, in and to every ship, vessel or boat, of whatsoever name or description, used or designed to be used, either exclusively or partially, in navigating any of the waters within or bordering on this State, whether such ship, vessel or boat, shall be within the jurisdiction of this State, or elsewhere, and whether the same shall have been enrolled, registered or licensed at any collector's office, or within any county or collector's district in this State or not. The term "money" or "moneys," wherever used in this act, shall be held to mean gold and silver coin, and bank notes in actual possession, and every deposit which the person owning, holding in trust or having the beneficial interest therein, is entitled to withdraw in money on demand. The term "credits," wherever used in this act, shall be held to mean and include every claim or demand for money, labor or other valuable thing, due or to become due, or every annuity or sum of money receivable at stated periods, and all money invested in property of any kind which is secured by deed, mortgage, or otherwise, which the person holding such deed or mortgage, or evidence of claim, is bound by any lease, contract or agreement, to reconvey, release or assign, upon the payment of any specific sum or sums: Provided, That pensions receivable from the United States, or from any State, salaries or payments expected to be received for labor or services to be performed or rendered, shall not be held to be annuities within the meaning of this act. The term "property," wherever used in this act, shall be held to mean and include every tangible thing being the subject of ownership, whether animate or inanimate, real or personal.

(304.) SEC. III. All property described in this section, to the extent herein limited, shall be exempt from taxation, that is to say:

First. All lands donated for school purposes, and not sold or leased. All public school-houses, and houses used exclusively for public worship, the books and furniture therein, and the grounds attached to such building necessary for the proper occupancy, use and enjoyment of the same, and not leased or otherwise used with a view to profit. All colleges, academies; all endowments made for their support; all buildings connected with the same, and all lands connected with institutions of learning, not used with a view to profit. This provision shall not extend to leasehold estates of real property, held under the authority of any college or university of learning.

Second. All lands used exclusively as grave yards, or grounds for burying the dead.

Third. All government lands belonging to the United States, and all property, whether real or personal, belonging to this State, and all swamp and overflowed lands belonging to the several counties of this State, so long as the same may remain unsold by such counties.

Fourth. All buildings belonging to counties used for holding courts, for jails, or for county offices, with the ground on which such buildings are erected, not exceeding, in any county, ten acres.

Fifth. All lands, houses and other buildings belonging to any county, town or city, used exclusively for the accommodation or the support of the poor.

Sixth. All buildings, with the furniture appertaining thereto, belonging to institutions of purely public charity, together with the lands actually occupied by such institutions, not leased or otherwise used with a view to profit; and all moneys and credits appropriated solely to sustaining, and belonging exclusively to, such institutions.

Seventh. All fire engines, and other implements used for the extinguishment of fires, with the buildings used exclusively for the safe-keeping thereof, and for the meetings of fire companies, whether belonging to any town or to any fire company organized therein.

Eighth. All market-houses, public squares or other public grounds, used exclusively for public purposes; and all works, machinery and fixtures belonging exclusively to any town or city, and used exclusively for conveying water to such town or city.

Ninth. No person shall be required to list a greater portion of any credits than he believes will be received or can be collected; nor any greater portion of any obligation given to secure the payment of rent, than the amount that shall have accrued on the lease, and shall remain unpaid at the time of such listing. No person shall be required to include in his statement, as a part of the personal property, moneys, credits, investments in bonds, stocks, joint-stock companies, or otherwise, which he is required to list, any share or portion of the capital stock or property of any company or corporation which is required to list or return its capital and property for taxation in this State, nor shall any partner be required to list or return any property, liability or supposed balance of said partnership due him, the property, effects and credits of said partnership being listed by any other partner.

(305.) SEC. IV. Every person of full age and sound mind, not a married woman, shall list the real property of which he is the owner, situate in the town or district in which he resides, the personal property of which he is the owner, all moneys in his possession, money loaned or invested, and all other property of which he is the owner; and he shall also list all moneys invested, loaned or otherwise controlled by him, as the agent or attorney, or on account of any other person or persons, company or corporation whatsoever, and all moneys deposited, subject to his order, check or draft, and credits due from or owing by any person or persons, body corporate or politic, whether in or out of such county. The property of every ward shall be listed by his guardian; of every minor child, idiot or lunatic, having no other guardian, by his father, if living, if not, by his mother, if living, and if neither father nor mother be living, by the person having such property in charge; of every wife, by her husband, if of sound mind, if not, by herself; of every person for whose benefit property is held in trust, by the trustee; of the estate of a deceased person, by the executor or administrator; of corporations, whose assets are in the hands of receivers, by such receivers; of every company, firm, body politic or corporate, by the president or principal accounting officer, partner or agent thereof. Every person required to list property on behalf of others, by the provisions of this act, shall list it in the same county, town or district in which he would be required to list it if such property were his own; but he shall list it separately from his own, specifying in each case the name of the person, estate, company or corporation to whom it belongs. Real property shall be listed in the county, town or district where it belongs; personal property, moneys and credits, except such as is required to be listed otherwise, shall be listed in the county, town or district where the owner resides; the property of banks or bankers, brokers, stock-jobbers, insurance or other companies, merchants and manufacturers, shall be listed in the county, town or district where their business is usually done; Provided, That in the counties of the military tract, owners of real estate shall not be compelled to return the same, if they desire it to go to sale, and so inform the assessor.

(306.) SEC. V. Property held under a lease for a term exceeding ten years, belonging to the State, or to any religious, scientific or benevolent society or institution, whether incorporated or unincorporated, and school and ministerial lands, shall be considered, for all purposes of taxation, as the property of the person so holding the same, and shall be listed as such, by such person, or his agent, as in other cases.

(307.) SEC. VI. Each person required to list property, shall make out, sign and deliver to the assessor, when required, a certified statement of all the personal property, moneys, credits, investments in bonds, stocks, joint-stock companies, or otherwise, in his possession, or under the control of such person, which he is required to list for taxation, either as owner or holder thereof, or as guardian, parent, husband, trustee, executor, administrator, receiver, accounting officer, partner, agent or factor. Personal property shall be listed with reference to the quantity on hand and owned on the first day of May in the year for which the property is required to be listed, including the property purchased on that day.

(308.) SEC. VII. Such statement shall truly and distinctly set forth:

- First. The number of horses, and the value thereof.
- Second. The number of neat cattle, and the value thereof.
- Third. The number of mules and asses, and the value thereof.
- Fourth. The number of sheep, and the value thereof.
- Fifth. The number of hogs, and the value thereof.
- Sixth. Every carriage and wagon, of whatsoever kind, and the value thereof.

Seventh. Every watch and clock, and the value thereof.

Eighth. Every piano forte, and the value thereof.

Ninth. The value of the goods and merchandise which such person is required to list as a merchant.

Tenth. The value of the property which such person is required to list as a banker, broker or stock-jobber.

Eleventh. The value of materials and manufactured articles which such person is required to list as a manufacturer.

Twelfth. The value of moneys and credits required to be listed.

Thirteenth. The value of moneys invested in bonds, stocks, joint-stock companies, or otherwise, which such person is required to list.

Fourteenth. The total value of all other personal property, including household furniture: Provided, That the value of such property shall be determined by the assessor.

(309.) SEC. VIII. If any person shall give a false and fraudulent list, or shall refuse to deliver to the assessor, when called on for that purpose, a list of his or her taxable property, as required by law, the said assessor, as a penalty therefor, shall assess the property of such person at double its value; and if said assessor shall neglect or refuse so to do, he shall be liable in each case to a penalty of fifty dollars, to be recovered at the suit of any person who may sue for the same.

(310.) SEC. IX. If the assessor believes that any property has been valued at less than its true value, in accordance with the rules and customs of valuing property for taxation, he shall value and charge such property at its true value, and shall notify the person listing such property of such increased valuation.

(311.) SEC. X. Each separate parcel of real property shall be valued at its true value in money, excluding the value of crops growing thereon; but the price for which such real property would sell at a forced sale shall not be taken as the criterion of such value. Each tract or lot of real property belonging to this State, or to any county, city, town, or charitable institution, whether incorporated or unincorporated, and school or ministerial lands, held under lease for a term exceeding ten years, shall be valued at such price as the assessor believes could be obtained at private sale for such leasehold estate. Personal property of every description shall be valued at the usual selling price of similar property at the time of listing, and in the county where the same may then be; and if there be no usual selling price known to the person whose duty it shall be to fix a value thereon, then at such price as it is believed could be obtained therefor in money at such time and place. Investments in bonds, stocks, joint-stock companies, or otherwise, shall be valued at the true value thereof in money. Money, whether in possession or on deposit, shall be entered in the statement at the full amount thereof: Provided, That depreciated bank notes shall be entered at their current value. Every credit for a sum certain, payable either in money or property of any kind, shall be valued at the full price of the sum so payable; if for a specific article, or for a specified number or quantity of any article or articles of property, or for a certain amount of labor done, or for services of any kind rendered, it shall be valued at the current price of such property, or of such labor or service, at the place payable. Annuities, or moneys receivable at stated periods, shall be valued at the price which the person listing the same believes them to worth in money.

(312.) SEC. XI. In making up the amount of moneys and credits which any person is required to list for himself, or any other person, company or corporation, he shall be entitled to deduct from the gross amount of moneys and credits, the amount of all bona fide debts owing by such person, company or corporation, to any other person, company or corporation, for a consideration received; but no acknowledgment of indebtedness not founded on actual consideration, believed when received to have been adequate, and no such acknowledgment made for the purpose of being so deducted, shall be considered a debt within the meaning of this section; and so much only of any liability, as surety for others, shall be deducted as the person making out the statement believes the surety is legally and equitably bound to pay, and so much only as he believes such surety will be compelled to pay on account of the inability or insolvency of the principal debtor; and if there are other sureties who are able to contribute, then only so much as the surety in whose behalf the statement is made, will be bound to contribute: Provided, That nothing in this section shall be so construed as to apply to any bank, company or corporation exercising banking powers or privileges.

(313.) SEC. XII. No person, company or corporation, shall be entitled to any deduction on account of any bond, note or obligation of any kind, given to any mutual insurance company, nor on account of any unpaid subscription to any religious, literary, scientific or charitable institution or society; nor on account of any subscription to or installment payable on the capital stock of any company, whether incorporated or unincorporated.

(314.) SEC. XIII. Every person that shall own or have in his possession, or subject to his control, any personal property within this State, with authority to sell the same, which shall have been purchased in or out of this State, with a view to being sold at an advanced price or profit, or which shall have been consigned to him from any place out of this State, for the purpose of being sold at any place within this State, shall be held to be a merchant; and when he shall be by this act required to make out and deliver to the assessor a statement of his other personal property, he shall state the value of such property appertaining to his business as a merchant; and in estimating the value thereof, he shall take, as the criterion, the average value of all such articles of personal property which he shall have had from time to time in his possession, or under his control, during the year next previous to the time of making such statement, if he shall have been so long engaged in business, and if not, then during such time as he shall have been so engaged; and the average shall be made up by taking the amount in value on hand, as nearly as may be, in each month of the next preceding year in which the person making such statement shall have been in business, adding together such amount, and dividing the aggregate amount thereof by the number of months that the person making the statement may have been in business during the preceding year: Provided, That no consignee shall be required to list for taxation the value of any property, the product of this State, which shall have been consigned to him for sale, or otherwise, from any place within the State, nor the value of any property consigned to him from any other place for the sole purpose of being stored or forwarded: Provided, He shall in either case have no interest in such property, or any profit to be derived from its sale; and the word person, as used in this and the succeeding sections, shall be held to mean and include firm, company and incorporation.

(315.) SEC. XIV. Every person who shall purchase, receive or hold personal property of any description, for the purpose of adding to the value thereof, by any process of manufacturing, refining, rectifying, or by the combination of different materials, with a view of making a gain or profit by so doing, shall be held to be a manufacturer; and he shall, when he is required to make out and deliver to the assessor a statement of the amount of his other personal property subject to taxation, also include in his statement the average value, estimated as provided in the preceding section, of all articles purchased or otherwise held for the purpose of being used, in whole or in part, in any process or operation of manufacturing, combining, rectifying or refining, which from time to time he shall have had on hand during the year next previous to the time of making such statement, if he shall have been so long engaged in such manufacturing business, and if not, then during the time he shall have been so engaged: Provided, That from the value of property, being the product of this State, the merchant or manufacturer listing the same shall be entitled to deduct the amount owing by him for such property, or for moneys invested therein: And provided further, That from the value of property, being the product or stock of this State, the farmer or dealer listing the same shall be entitled to deduct the amount owing by him for such property, or for moneys invested therein.

(316.) SEC. XV. Every person owning a manufacturing establishment of any kind, and every manufacturer, shall list, as a part of his manufacturer's stock, the value of all engines and machinery of every description, used or designed to be used in any process of refining or manufacturing, (except such fixtures as shall have been considered as part of any parcel or parcels of real property,) including all tools and implements of every kind, used or designed to be used for the aforesaid purposes.

(317.) SEC. XVI. Every person who shall have money employed in the business of dealing in coin, notes or bills of exchange, or in the business of dealing in, or buying or selling any kind of bills of exchange, checks, drafts, bank notes, promissory notes, bonds, or other writing obligatory, or stocks of any kind or description whatsoever, shall be held to be a banker, broker, or stock-jobber; and he shall, when he is required to make out and deliver to the assessor a statement of the amount or value of his other personal property subject to taxation, also include in his statement the average value, estimated as provided in the thirteenth section of this act, of all moneys, notes, bills of exchange, bonds, stocks, or other property, appertaining to his business as a banker, broker or stock-jobber, which he shall have had from time to time in his possession, or under his control, during the year next previous to the time of making such statement, if he shall have been so long engaged in such business, and if not, then during the time he shall have been so engaged.

(318.) SEC. XVII. That when any person shall commence merchandising in any county after the first day of May in any year, the average value of whose personal property employed in merchandising shall not have been previously entered on the assessor's list for taxation in said county, said person shall report to the clerk of the county, who shall enter the same upon the tax list, the probable average value of the personal property by him intended to be employed in merchandising until the first of May thereafter, and shall pay to the collector of such county a sum which shall bear the same proportion to the levy for all purposes, on the average value so employed, as the time from the day on which he shall commence merchandising as aforesaid, to the first of May next succeeding, shall bear to one year: Provided, That if the person so listing his merchant's capital, shall present a bona fide receipt from the collector of any county in which such merchant's capital had been previously listed and taxed for the amount of the taxes assessed, and by him paid on the same capital for the same year, then and in that case it shall be a receipt from paying taxes again on such capital: Provided further, That if the tax list had been delivered to the collector before the receipt of such report, it shall be the duty of the clerk, within ten days after receiving any such report, to charge the same to the collector, and to notify such collector of the amount so charged, who shall collect and pay over said amount in like manner, as near as may be, as if it had been regularly entered on the tax list.

(319.) SEC. XVIII. That when any person shall commence or engage in the business of dealing in stocks of any description, or in buying or selling any kind of bills of exchange, checks, drafts, bank notes, promissory notes, or other kind of writing obligatory, as mentioned in the sixteenth section of this act, after the first day of May, in any year, the average value of whose personal property employed in such business shall not have been previously entered on the assessor's list for taxation in said county, such person shall report to the county clerk of the county the probable average value of the property by him intended to be employed in such business, until the first day of May thereafter; which amount shall be entered on the tax list, and the taxes collected as in other cases.

(320.) SEC. XIX. That if any person shall commence or engage in the business of merchandising, banking, brokerage or stock-jobbing aforesaid, and shall not, within one month thereafter, list his property as before required, he shall forfeit and pay, in addition to the taxes authorized by law, a tax of two per cent. on the value of the personal property by him so employed, for the use of the county, to be charged and collected in like manner as other taxes; said value to be ascertained, as near as may be, by the assessor, or if he has made return of the assessment list, then by the clerk.

(321.) SEC. XX. It shall be the duty of the president and cashier of every bank or banking company that shall have been or may be hereafter incorporated by the laws of this State, and having the right to issue bills for circulation as money, to make out and return to the bank commissioners, in the month of May annually, a written statement, containing the average amount of notes and bills discounted or purchased by such bank or banking company, which amount shall include all the loans or discounts of such bank or banking company, whether originally made or renewed during the year next preceding the first of May aforesaid, or at any time previous, whether made on bills of exchange, notes, bonds, mortgages or any other evidence of indebtedness, at their actual value in money, whether due previous to, during or after the period aforesaid, and on which such bank or banking company has, at any time, reserved or received, or is entitled to receive, any profit or other consideration whatever, either in the shape of interest, discount, exchange or otherwise. Stocks deposited with the State treasurer shall be valued at the rate at which they are deposited. The bank commissioner shall proceed to ascertain the amount of the property valued in accordance with the provisions of this act, and make return thereof to the auditor, who shall report the same to the clerk of the proper county, and said clerk shall enter the same on the tax list for taxation.

(322.) SEC. XXI. To ascertain the amount of the notes and bills discounted and purchased, and all other effects or dues, of every description, belonging to such bank or banking company, and liable to taxation, there shall be taken, as a criterion, the average amount of the aforesaid items for each month during the year next previous to the time of making such statement, if such bank or banking company shall have been so long engaged in business, and if not, then during such time as such bank or banking company shall have been engaged in business; and the average shall be made by adding together the amount so found belonging to such bank or banking company in each month said bank or banking company was so engaged in business, and dividing the same by the number of months said bank or banking company was thus engaged in business.

(323.) SEC. XXII. The president, secretary or principal accounting officer of every railroad company, turnpike or plank road company, insurance company, telegraph company or other joint stock company, except corporations whose taxation is specifically provided for by law, for whatever purpose they may have been created, whether incorporated by any law of this State or not, shall list for taxation, at its actual value, its real and personal property, moneys and credits, within this State, in the manner following:

In all cases return shall be made to the assessor of each of the respective counties where such property may be situated, together with a statement of the amount of said property which is situated in each county, town, city or ward therein.

The value of all movable property shall be added to the stationary and fixed property and real estates, and apportioned to such wards, towns, cities, and counties, pro rata, in proportion to the value of the real estate and fixed property in said ward, town, city or county: The capital stock of bridge companies shall be assessed in the town where their principal office is located.

If the county assessor to whom returns are made, is of opinion that false or incorrect valuations have been made, or that the property of the corporation or association has not been listed at its true value, or that it has not been listed in the location where it properly belongs, or in cases where no return has been made to the county assessor, he is hereby required to proceed to have the same valued and assessed in the same manner as is prescribed in the several sections of this act regulating the duties of county assessors in cases of refusal or neglect to list property: Provided, That every agency of an insurance company, incorporated by the authority of any other State or government, shall return to the assessor of the county in which the office or agency of such company may be kept, in the month of May, annually, the amount of the gross receipts of such agency, which shall be entered on the tax list of the proper county, and subject to the same rate of taxation for all purposes that other personal property is subject to at the place where located.

(324.) SEC. XXIII. All property, except real property, shall be assessed annually; real property shall be assessed, as provided for by this act, in the year 1853, and every two years thereafter, until otherwise provided for by law.

(325.) SEC. XXIV. All lands and town lots owned by any person, and not situated in the town where such owner may reside, shall be taxed as non-resident, and assessed in the town where the same shall lie.

(326.) SEC. XXV. Every assessor, before he enters upon the duties of his office, shall take and subscribe an oath, that he will, according to the best of his judgment, skill and ability, diligently, faithfully and impartially, perform all the duties enjoined on him as such assessor.

(327.) XXVI. If any person elected to the office of county treasurer shall fail to give bond as collector, or shall neglect or refuse to take an oath as required by this act, his office shall be considered vacant, and the board of supervisors shall be immediately called together by the county clerk, and shall forthwith fill such vacancy by the appointment of some suitable person, who shall qualify and discharge the duties of such treasurer and collector, in like manner as if he had been regularly elected to said office, until one is elected and qualified.

(328.) SEC. XXVII. The assessor shall, between the first days of May and July, and after being furnished with the necessary blanks, proceed to take a list of the taxable property in his town, and assess the value thereof, in the manner following, to wit:

He shall call at the office, place of doing business or residence of each person required by this act to list property, and shall require such person to make a correct statement of his taxable property, in accordance with the provisions of this act, and the assessor, or the person listing the property, shall enter a true and correct statement of such property and the value thereof, in a printed or written blank prepared for that purpose; which statement, after being filled out, shall be signed by the person listing the property, and delivered to the assessor.

(329.) SEC. XXVIII. If any person required by this act to list property shall be sick or absent when the assessor calls for a list of his property, the assessor shall leave at the office, usual place of residence or business of such person, a written or printed notice, requiring such person to make out and leave at the usual place of collecting taxes in that precinct, or at the office of said assessor, on or before some convenient day named therein, a statement of the property which he is required to list, and shall leave with such notice a printed or written blank for the statement required of such person. The date of leaving such notice, and the name of the person required to list the property, shall be carefully noted by the assessor in a book to be kept for that purpose; and if any such person shall neglect or refuse to deliver the statement, properly made out and signed as required, the assessor shall make the assessment as required by this act.

(330.) SEC. XXIX. Assessors and deputy assessors, justices of the peace and clerks of the county courts, are authorized and empowered to administer any oath relating to the assessment of property required by this act.

(331.) SEC. XXX. In every case where any person shall refuse to make out and deliver to the assessor a statement of the personal property, moneys and credits which he is required to list, as provided by this act, the assessor shall, in every such case, proceed to ascertain the number of each description of the several articles of personal property subject to taxation enumerated in this act, the value thereof, the value of the personal property subject to taxation, other than enumerated articles, and the value of the moneys and credits of which a statement shall have been withheld as aforesaid, as the case may require; and to enable him so to do, he is hereby authorized to examine on oath any person whom he may suppose to have knowledge of the amount or value of the personal property, moneys or credits, which the person so refusing was required to list.

(332.) SEC. XXXI. If any person who shall be required by the assessor to give evidence, as provided in the preceding section, shall refuse to be sworn by the assessor, or having been sworn, if he shall refuse to answer such questions as the assessor shall put to him touching the subject of inquiry, any justice of the peace of the town or district, to whom the assessor may make application therefor, shall summon such person to appear before him at such time as the assessor shall designate, and answer on oath, all pertinent questions which may be put to him by the assessor or his order, touching the amount and value of the personal property, moneys and credits which the person required to list the same on oath has refused to list; and every constable and witness shall be subject to the same penalties for refusal or neglect to obey the process of such justice, as they are by law subject to for refusing to obey the process of justices of the peace in civil cases, and shall receive the same fees allowed for like services in civil cases; and such justice of the peace shall immediately proceed to enter judgment for all such fees, and for his own costs in favor of the State of Illinois, against the person who shall have refused to make and deliver to the assessor, a statement of the property which, by this act, he was required to list, and proceed to collect and pay over the same, as in civil cases.

(333.) SEC. XXXII. On the last Saturday in June, the assessor, town clerk and supervisor shall attend at the office of the town clerk, for the purpose of reviewing the assessment list, and on the application of any person, conceiving himself aggrieved, they shall review the assessment, and when the person objecting thereto shall make an affidavit that the value of his personal estate does not exceed a certain sum specified in such affidavit, the assessor shall reduce the assessment to the sum specified in such affidavit, and if he, or any other one, objects to the valuation put upon any of their real estate, the board shall hear the objections, and may reduce the same, if a majority of the board think it advisable, and in such case the assessor shall correct his list.

(334.) SEC. XXXIII. Each town assessor shall, on or before the first day of July, annually, make out and deliver to the clerk of his county, in tabular form and alphabetical order, the names of the several persons, companies or corporations, in whose names any personal property, moneys or credits shall have been listed in his county, and separately, in appropriate columns, opposite each name, the number and value of all articles of personal property enumerated in this act, the value of all non-enumerated articles of personal property, other than the stock of merchants and manufacturers, the value of merchants' and manufacturers' stock, and the value of the moneys and credits listed by said persons. If any person is assessed on property which he believes is not properly and legally liable to taxation, he may apply to the board of supervisors, at their annual meeting, for an abatement of such assessment, and the said board shall hear and determine the matter; but if said board shall decide that any such property is not liable to taxation, and the question as to the liability of such property to taxation has not been previously settled, the decision of said board shall not be final, unless approved by the auditor of public accounts, and it shall be the duty of the clerk of said board, in all such cases, to make out and forward to the auditor a full and complete statement of all the facts in the case. If the auditor is satisfied that such property is not legally liable to taxation, he shall notify the clerk of his approval of the decision of the board, and the said clerk shall correct the assessment accordingly. But if the auditor believe that the board has erred in deciding that such property was not liable to taxation at the time of making the assessment, he shall advise the clerk of his objections to the decision of the board, and give notice to said clerk that he will apply to the supreme court, at the next term thereof, for an order to set aside and reverse the decision of the board of supervisors. Upon the receipt of such notice, the clerk shall notify the person making application therefor. And it shall be the duty of the auditor to file, in the supreme court, a certified statement of the facts certified by the clerk as aforesaid, together with his objections thereto, and the court shall hear and determine the matter, as the right of the case may be.

(336.) SEC. XXXV. Each town assessor shall, at the time he is required by this act to make his return of taxable property to the county clerk, also deliver to him all the statements of property which he shall have received from persons required to list the same, arranged in alphabetical order, and the clerk shall carefully file and preserve the same for one year thereafter.

(337.) SEC. XXXVI. Each town assessor shall take and subscribe an oath, which shall be certified by the magistrate or clerk administering the same, and attached to the return which he is required to make to the county clerk, in the following form, as near as may be:

"I, _____, assessor in the town of _____, do solemnly swear that the value of all personal property, moneys and credits required to be listed for taxation by me, is truly returned and set forth in the annexed list, and that in every case I have diligently, and by the best means in my power, endeavored to ascertain the true amount and value of all taxable property, moneys and credits; and that, as I verily believe, the full value thereof, estimated by the rules prescribed by said act, is set forth in the list aforesaid; that in no case have I knowingly omitted to assess any property which by law I am required to assess, nor have I in any way connived at any violation or evasion of any of the requirements of the law in relation to the listing or valuation of property, moneys or credits of any kind, for taxation."

(338.) SEC. XXXVII. In all cases in which town assessors are required, in consequence of the sickness or absence of the person whose duty it is to make out a statement of personal property, moneys and credits, or in consequence of his neglect or refusal to make out and deliver such statement, to ascertain the amount and value of such personal property, moneys and credits, if the assessor shall be unable to obtain positive evidence of the amount and value of such property, moneys and credits, he shall return such amount and value as from general reputation and his own knowledge of facts and circumstances, he believes to be the full amount and value of such property, moneys and credits.

(339.) SEC. XXXVIII. The assessor, or some suitable person employed by him for that purpose, shall add up the several columns containing the the number and value of each article of property enumerated, the value of unenumerated articles, the value of each of the other items of property enumerated in the seventh section of this act, and the total value thereof, and note the aggregate of each column at the bottom thereof, and shall make out and deliver to the clerk, with the assessment list, an abstract of the several footings on each page, showing separately the aggregate number and value of each enumerated article of property, and the value of each kind of all other property assessed. The correctness of such abstract shall be verified by the oath of the assessor or person who shall have made such additions.

(340.) SEC. XXXIX. It shall be the duty of each assessor, upon being furnished with the list and blanks provided for by this act, from actual view, or from the best sources of information that can be obtained, to determine, as nearly as practicable, the true value of each separate parcel of real property in his town, according to the rules prescribed by this act for valuing real property, and such value shall be noted opposite each parcel of real property, in a column provided for that purpose; and he shall note opposite each tract not listed by a resident of the town, the letter "N," denoting non-resident.

(341.) SEC. XL. The assessor shall add up the valuation of the real property, and shall set down in figures on each page the total value of the property listed thereon, and shall make out a statement showing the aggregate value of the lands, and the aggregate value of town lots. The assessor shall complete the assessment and make return thereof to the clerk of the county court, on or before the first Monday in July, annually.

(342.) SEC. XLI. Each assessor shall take and subscribe an oath, which shall be certified by the magistrate or clerk administering the same, and attached to the return which he is required to make to the county clerk, as near as may be, in the following form:

"I, A. B., assessor of the town of ———, do solemnly swear that the return to which this is attached, contains a correct description of each parcel of real property subject to taxation within said town, so far as I have been able to ascertain the same, and that the value attached to each parcel in said return is, as I verily believe, the full value thereof, estimated agreeably to the rules prescribed therefor in the act for the assessment of property and the collection of taxes, and that the aggregate value, as set forth in the statement returned herewith, is true and correct, as I verily believe."

The clerk, upon the receipt of the several assessment rolls, shall carefully compare the same with the list of taxable land on file in his office, correcting all errors which he may discover, and add to the roll of the proper town the name of the purchaser, and the description of all such lands as have been omitted by the assessor which are liable to taxation. He shall then make a fair copy of the several assessment rolls; which copy, together with the original, shall be laid before the board of supervisors at their annual meeting in each year; for which service said clerk shall be allowed a sum not exceeding two cents for each tract of land, and one cent on each town lot contained in said rolls, and where the real estate and personal property are separate, one half cent for each person's name and valuation of personal property contained in said rolls.

(343.) SEC. XLII. If any assessor shall willfully refuse or neglect to perform any of the duties required of him by this act, he shall forfeit to the people of this State the sum of fifty dollars, and be liable for all damages sustained by any such refusal or neglect.

(344.) SEC. XLIII. The board of supervisors of each county in this State, at their annual meeting, shall examine the assessment rolls of the several towns in their county, for the purpose of ascertaining the aggregate valuation of property in each town, and they shall assess the value of all such lands and lots as have been omitted by the assessor, and listed by the clerk, and cause the same to be placed opposite the description of said lands, in a column prepared for that purpose.

(345.) SEC. XLIV. They shall, at their annual meeting, fix a certain rate upon the hundred dollars to be levied upon the taxable property, both real and personal, in their respective counties, for county purposes, which they shall cause to be entered upon their record, and they shall, at the same time, also enter upon their record the amount to be collected in each town for town purposes. The clerk of the county court shall carefully compare the copy made by him with the original assessment roll, [and when so compared and corrected he shall cause the taxes to be extended on said copy, and shall also cause to be indorsed on the original assessment roll] the amount per cent. levied on each one hundred dollars worth of property, as taxes thereon, which original roll shall remain in the county clerk's office until the month of March next thereafter. The town clerks shall call on the county clerk during the month of March in each year, for the original assessment rolls of the previous year, of their respective towns, which rolls they shall file in their respective offices, for the use of the town.

(346.) SEC. XLV. The county clerk shall cause to be estimated and set down in a separate column, to be prepared for that purpose, in the copied assessment roll, opposite the several sums set down as the valuation of real and personal estate, the respective sums in dollars and cents, respecting the fractions of a cent, to be paid as tax thereon.

(347.) SEC. XLVI. The county clerk shall cause the copied and corrected assessment roll of each town or district in their respective counties, with the taxes extended thereon, to be delivered to the collector of such town or district, on or before the fifteenth day of November in each year.

(348.) SEC. XLVII. To each assessment roll a warrant, under the hand of the county clerk and seal of the county court, shall be annexed, commanding such collector to collect from the several persons named in the assessment roll, the several sums mentioned in the last column of such roll, opposite their respective names. The warrant shall direct the collector, out of the moneys to be collected, after deducting the compensation to which he may be legally entitled, to pay over to the commissioners of highways the amount of tax collected for the support of highways and bridges, and to the supervisor of the town all other moneys which shall have been collected therein, to defray any other town expenses; to the township treasurers the school fund tax, and to the county treasurer the State and county tax collected by him. The county treasurer shall pay over to the proper officers the amount of the tax collected by him on the delinquent real estate.

(349.) SEC. XLVIII. In all cases the warrant shall authorize the collector, in case any person named in such assessment roll shall neglect or refuse to pay his tax, to levy the same by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of such person; and it shall require all payments therein specified to be made by such collector on or before the fifteenth day of February next ensuing.

(350.) SEC. XLIX. Before the delivery of the tax books to the collectors, the clerk shall notify the county treasurer that said books are completed, and shall furnish such treasurer with a statement, setting forth the name of each collector, the amount of money to be collected and paid over for each purpose for which the tax is levied in each of the several towns. The treasurer shall compare said statement with the footings on the tax books.

(351.) SEC. L. On the last Saturday in April, in each year, the assessors of the several towns shall meet at the office of the county clerk, for the purpose of instruction and advice relative to their duties as assessors. They then and there shall agree upon a basis upon which the property in the several towns shall be assessed. The county clerk shall consult with and advise said assessors as to the true basis of valuing property; he shall furnish them with such blank circulars, &c., as they shall be entitled to, and shall give such instructions and advice as may be necessary to enable them to make their assessments and returns correctly.

(352.) SEC. LI. No assessment of property, or charge for taxes thereon, shall be considered illegal on account of any informality in making the assessment, or in the tax lists, or on account of the assessments not being made or completed within the time required by law.

(353.) SEC. LIII. Every county clerk, assessor, collector or other officer, who shall in any case refuse or knowingly neglect to perform any duty enjoined on him by this act, or who shall consent to or connive at any evasions of its provisions, whereby any proceeding required by this act shall be prevented or hindered, or whereby any property required to be listed for taxation shall be unlawfully exempted, or the value thereof be entered upon the tax list at less than its true valuation, shall, for every such neglect or refusal, be liable, individually, and on his official bond, for double the amount of the loss or damage caused by such neglect or refusal, to be recovered in an action of debt in any court having jurisdiction of the amount thereof, and may be removed from his office, at the discretion of the court before whom any such judgment shall be rendered.

(354.) SEC. LIIII. In all cases where any person, company or corporation, has or may hereafter divide any tract of land into parcels less than the one-sixteenth part of a section, or otherwise, in such manner that such parcels cannot be described in the usual manner of describing lands in accordance with the surveys made by the general government, with a view to sell said lands in such parcels, it shall be lawful for such person, company or corporation, to cause such lands to be surveyed, and a plat thereof made by the surveyor of the county where such lands are situated; which plat shall particularly describe and set forth the lots or parcels of land surveyed, as aforesaid; the lots shall be numbered in progressive numbers, and the plat shall show the number and location of each lot, and the description of the tract of land of which such land is a part, and also the quantity of land in each lot. Said plat shall be certified to by the surveyor, and recorded in like manner as the plats of towns are required to be certified to and recorded. Lands described in any deed or conveyance, or for the purpose of taxation, in accordance with the number and description set forth in the plat aforesaid, shall be deemed a good and valid description of the lot or parcel of land so described.

(355.) SEC. LIV. When lands heretofore have been, or may hereafter be subdivided into parcels less than one-sixteenth part of a section, or in such manner that they cannot be easily and properly described, without noting the metes and bounds of such tracts, it shall be the duty of the owner or owners thereof, when required so to do by the assessor, to cause the same to be surveyed, and the plat thereof recorded in like manner as is required in the foregoing section; and if such owner or owners shall refuse or neglect to cause such survey to be made within a reasonable time after being notified by the assessor, it shall be the duty of the assessor to cause such survey to be made and recorded; and the expense thereof to be returned by the assessor to the clerk, who shall add the same, together with the commissions for collecting, &c., to the tax assessed on such real property, and it shall be collected with and in like manner as the said tax; and when collected, shall be paid on demand to the persons to whom it is due: Provided, That the collector shall either file a receipt for the payment thereof with the treasurer, or shall pay the same into the county treasury, when he makes settlement for the county revenue, to be paid to the proper persons when called for.

(356.) SEC. LV. In all cases where the boundary lines of any county or counties cannot be correctly ascertained from the plats or maps of the original surveys, and such boundary lines not having been surveyed, it shall be the duty of the board of supervisors of the counties bounded by any such lines, jointly, to cause the same to be surveyed and located in accordance with the laws establishing such lines. They shall cause a plat or map to be made, showing the correct location of the line on each legal subdivision or tract of land through which such line may run; which plat, together with the field notes of such survey, shall be certified to by the surveyor making the survey, under oath, and forwarded to the auditor of public accounts, who shall cause the same to be filed and recorded in his office, and a correct copy thereof forwarded to the clerk of the county court of each of the counties bounded by such line. And said clerk shall cause such copy to be filed in his office, and recorded in a suitable record book, and the line thus surveyed shall be the true division line: Provided, That if the board of supervisors of any county bounded, in part or in whole, as aforesaid, shall neglect or refuse to comply with the requirements of this section within a reasonable time after being requested so to do by the auditor of public accounts, it shall be the duty of said auditor to cause the said survey to be made, if in his opinion the public interest requires it. And the expenses of making any such survey, whether under the direction of the county authorities or the auditor, shall be paid by the counties bounded by such line—one-half by each county.

(357.) SEC. LVI. For the purpose of taxation, all tracts or parcels of land, not exceeding one-sixteenth part of a section, shall be assessed in the county where the greater part of said tract is situated; and the collector of the proper town in said county shall have the same power and authority to collect the taxes due thereon as he would if the whole of said tract were within the limits of said county. And in all cases where any such tract or tracts shall be equally divided between two counties, and the owner thereof be a resident of either county, said land shall be assessed in the county in which the owner resides; but if the owner be not a resident of either county, then the auditor shall determine in which county the land shall be assessed: Provided, That if there be several tracts similarly situated, the auditor shall apportion them equally between the counties, as near as practicable: Provided, furthermore, That when a tract of land containing a half-quarter section, or more, is so divided by the county line that by subdividing it into quarter-quarter section lots, each county will be entitled to the taxes on one or more of said lots, then the tract shall be so divided. The provisions of this section regulating the assessment of land divided by county lines, shall apply to and regulate the assessment of land divided by town lines.

(358.) SEC. LVII. Government lands entered or located prior to the first day of May, A. D. 1853, shall be taxable for the year 1853; lands entered or located prior to the first day of May, A. D. 1854, shall be taxable for the year 1854, and so on annually thereafter. Land sold by the trustees of the Illinois and Michigan canal, shall be taxable from and after the time that full payment therefor is made. School, seminary and saline lands sold shall be taxable in like manner as the lands sold by the general government. Internal improvement lands sold prior to the first day of June, A. D. 1848, shall be taxable for the year 1853, and annually thereafter.

(359.) SEC. LVIII. On the first day of May in each year, or as soon thereafter as practicable, the auditor shall obtain from the several land offices in this State, abstracts of the lands entered and located, and not previously obtained, and shall, when necessary, obtain from the canal office, abstracts of the canal lands sold. Upon the receipt of said abstracts, the auditor shall cause them to be transcribed into the tract books in his office, and shall, without delay, cause abstracts of the lands in each county to be made out and forwarded by mail to the county clerks of the several counties; and said clerks shall cause such abstracts to be transcribed into the tract book, and filed in their office.

(360.) SEC. LIX. On the last Saturday in April, A. D. 1853, and every two years thereafter, the clerk of the county court shall cause to be delivered to the assessor of each town, a book, properly ruled and headed, containing a list of the real estate in numerical order, with such blank columns as may be necessary, for the use of the assessor. The clerk, in making out said lists, shall take as his guide the assessment list of the previous year, and the list of subsequent conveyances: Provided, That the list of lands reported in the annual abstract shall be furnished to the assessor within five days from and after the time such abstract is received from the auditor's office.

(361.) SEC. LX. Every person owning or holding real property on the first day of May, including all such property purchased on that day, shall be liable for the taxes thereon for that year; and if any person shall sell and convey any real property on or prior to the first day of May next after the listing of such real property, he shall, when he lists his personal property for the year next after the listing of said real property, deliver to the assessor a statement setting forth the description of the property sold and conveyed, and the name of the purchaser, and he shall list all real property purchased by him during the said time; and the assessor shall make return thereof to the county clerk, who shall make the proper changes in the tax books. Real property shall in all cases be liable for the taxes thereon.

(362.) SEC. LXI. The clerk of the county court shall annually, on the last Saturday in April, furnish the assessor of each town with a book or books, properly ruled and headed, for the abstract of the assessment of personal property, and shall, at the proper time, furnish such assessor with a list of the real estate that may have become taxable subsequent to the regular assessment of real estate; all property, except real property, shall be assessed annually; real property shall be assessed biennially: Provided, That real property becoming taxable after the regular assessment of real property, or that may have been omitted, shall be assessed for the current year at the same time that the personal property is assessed in the year that the real property is not regularly assessed, and such property shall be re-assessed the next succeeding year with the regular assessment of real property.

(363.) SEC. LXII. It shall be the duty of the auditor of public accounts to make out and forward to the clerk of the county court of the several counties, for the use of such clerks and other officers, suitable forms and instructions for carrying this act into effect; and all such instructions shall be strictly complied with by the officers in the performance of their respective duties, as required by this act. He shall give his opinion and advice on all questions of doubt as to the true intent and meaning of the provisions of this act.

(364.) SEC. LXIII. If the assessor should discover any real property subject to taxation, which has not been returned to him by the clerk, he shall assess such property, and enter the same on the assessment list. And if, upon the return of such list to the clerk, it shall appear that any such real property has not been returned by the auditor, it shall be the duty of the clerk to advise the auditor of the facts, describing the property so returned by the assessor, and the auditor shall ascertain the true condition of such real property, and advise the said clerk thereof, who shall correct the records of his office, in accordance with the facts in the case.

(365.) SEC. LXIV. It shall be the duty of the clerk, before delivering the list of real property to the assessor, to cause such list to be carefully compared with the lists of taxable real property on file in his office, and if it shall appear that any such property was omitted in the former assessment list, he shall correct the list designed for the assessor, so that said list may contain a full and complete abstract of all the taxable real property in the several towns.

(366.) SEC. LXV. Every collector, upon receiving the tax list and warrant, shall proceed to collect the taxes therein mentioned, and for that purpose shall call at least once on the person taxed, or at his or her place of residence, if in the town or district for which such collector has been chosen, and shall demand payment of the taxes charged to him on his property.

(367.) SEC. LXVI. In case any person shall refuse or neglect to pay the tax imposed on him, the collector shall levy the same by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the person who ought to pay the same.

(368.) SEC. LXVII. The collector shall give public notice of the time and place of sale, and of the property to be sold, at least six days previous to the sale, by advertisement, to be posted up in at least three public places in the town where such sale is to be made. The sale shall be by public auction.

(369.) SEC. LXVIII. If the property distrained shall be sold for more than the amount of the taxes, the surplus shall be returned to the person in whose possession such property was when the distress was made, if no claim be made to such surplus by any other person. If any other person shall claim such surplus, on the ground that the property sold belonged to him, and such claim be admitted by the person for whose tax the same was distrained, the surplus shall be paid to such owner.

(370.) SEC. LXIX. In case any person upon whom any tax shall be assessed, under the provisions of this act, in any city or town of this State, shall have removed out of such city or town after such assessment, and before such tax, which now is or hereafter may be assessed in any district of any city or in any town, upon the estate of such person, situated out of the city or town where he may reside, and within the county, it shall be lawful, in either of those cases, for the collector of said city or town to levy and collect such tax of the goods and chattels of the person assessed, in any district within said city, or within any town within said county, to which such person shall have removed, or in which he shall reside.

(371.) SEC. LXX. Every collector shall pay over, within one week after the time mentioned in his warrant for paying the moneys directed to be paid to the town officers of his town and to the county treasurer, the sums required in such warrant to be paid to them respectively, first retaining the compensation to which he may be legally entitled. The town officers to whom any such moneys shall be paid, shall deliver to the collector duplicate receipts therefor, one of which shall be filed by the collector with the county treasurer, for the amount therein stated to have been received, and no other evidence of such payment shall be received by the county treasurer.

(372.) SEC. LXXI. Whenever any greater amount of taxes shall be assessed in any town than the town charges thereof, and its proportion of the tax and county charges, the surplus shall be paid by the collector to the supervisor of the town, who shall hold the same until wanted by the town to pay any town expenses.

(373.) SEC. LXXII. The collector shall receive the tax on a part of any lot, piece or parcel of land charged with taxes: Provided, The persons paying such tax shall furnish a particular specification of the part, and if the tax on the remainder of such lot or parcel of land shall remain unpaid, the collector shall enter such specification in his return to the county treasurer, to the end that the part on which the tax remains unpaid may be clearly known.

(374.) SEC. LXXIII. If any part on which the tax shall be so paid be an undivided share, then the person paying the same shall state to the collector who is the owner of such share, that it may be excepted in case of a sale for the tax on the remainder; and the collector shall enter the name of such owner on his account of arrears of taxes.

(375.) SEC. LXXIV. If the town collector shall be unable to collect any tax charged in the tax list, by reason of the removal or insolvency of the person to whom such tax shall be charged, or on account of any error in the tax list, he shall deliver to the county treasurer his tax books, and shall make out and file with the said treasurer, at the time of his settlement, a statement in writing, setting forth the name of the person charged with such tax, the value of the property, and the amount of tax so charged, and the cause of delinquency, and shall make oath before the county treasurer, or some justice of the peace, that the facts stated in such statement are true and correct, that the sums mentioned therein remain unpaid, and that he has used due diligence to collect the same; which oath or affidavit shall be signed by the town collector. And upon the filing of said statement, the county treasurer shall allow the town collector credit for the amount of taxes therein stated, and shall apportion and credit the same on the several funds for which said tax was charged; and when he makes settlement with the board of supervisors, such statement shall be sufficient voucher to entitle him to credit for the amount therein stated; but in no case shall any town collector or county treasurer be entitled to abatements on the resident tax list, until the statement and affidavit aforesaid is filed, as required by this act.

(376.) SEC. LXXV. If any person, chosen or appointed to the office of collector of any town, district or city in this State, shall refuse to serve, or shall die, resign, or remove out of the town, district or city, or the office becomes vacated in any other way, before he shall have entered upon or completed the duties of his office, or shall in any way be disabled from completing the same, the supervisor and justices of such town or district, or any two of them, shall forthwith appoint a collector for the remainder of the year, who shall give the like security, and be subject to the like penalties, and have the same powers and compensation as the collector in whose place he was appointed, and the supervisor or town clerk shall forthwith give notice of such appointment to the county treasurer. But such appointment shall not exonerate the former collector or his sureties from any liability incurred by him or them.

(377.) SEC. LXXVI. If a warrant shall have been issued as by law provided, prior to any appointment under the last section, the original warrant, if the same can be obtained, shall be delivered to the collector so appointed, and shall be considered as giving him the same powers as if originally issued to him. But if such warrant cannot be obtained, a new one shall be made out by the clerk of the board of supervisors of the county, and shall be signed by the chairman of the board of supervisors, in the same way and manner as the original was, which shall be directed to the collector so appointed, and upon every such appointment, the supervisor of the town or district, if he shall think it necessary, may extend the time limited for the collection of taxes, for a period not exceeding thirty days; of which extension he shall forthwith give notice to the county treasurer. The collector so appointed, shall keep an account of all collections made by the former collector, so far as he can ascertain the same, and when any one shall present a receipt for taxes paid to the former collector, he shall mark against the amount of taxes so paid, to whom paid, and the time when paid.

(378.) SEC. LXXVII. If any collector shall refuse or neglect to pay to the several town officers of his town, or to the county treasurer, the sums required by his warrant to be paid to them respectively, or either of them, or to account for the same as unpaid, the county treasurer shall, within twenty days after the time when such payments ought to have been made, issue a warrant, under his hand and seal, directed to the sheriff of the county, commanding him to levy such sums as shall remain unpaid and unaccounted for by such collector, of the goods and chattels, lands and tenements of such collector, and to pay the same to the county treasurer, and to return such warrant within forty days after the date thereof; which warrant the county treasurer shall immediately deliver to the sheriff of the county. But no such warrant shall be issued by the county treasurer, for the collection of moneys payable to town officers, of the refusal or neglect of the collector to pay the same, or account therefor, as above provided.

(379.) SEC. LXXVIII. The sheriff to whom such warrant is directed, shall immediately cause the same to be executed, and shall make return thereof to the county treasurer, within the time specified, and shall pay to him the money received by virtue thereof, deducting from his fees the same compensation that the collector would have been entitled to retain. Such part of the moneys, if any, as ought to have been paid by the collector to the town officers, shall be paid by the county treasurer to the officers to whom the collector was directed to pay the same; but if the whole amount of moneys due from the collector, shall not be collected in such warrant, the county treasurer shall first retain the amount which ought to have been paid him, before making any payment to the town officers.

(380.) SEC. LXXIX. If the whole sum due from the said collector shall be collected, the sheriff shall so state in his return; but if part only, or if no part of such sum shall be collected, the sheriff shall note in his return the fact, and the amount collected, and shall also certify that such collector has no goods or chattels, lands or tenements in his county from which the money or residue thereof, as the case may be, could be levied; and in either case, the county treasurer shall forthwith give notice to the supervisor of the town or district, of the amount due from such collector.

(381.) SEC. LXXX. The supervisor shall forthwith cause the bond of such collector to be put in suit, and shall be entitled to recover thereon the sum due from such collector, with costs of suit, and the monies recovered shall be applied and paid in the same manner in which it was the duty of the collector to have applied and paid the same.

(382.) SEC. LXXXI. If any sheriff shall neglect to return any such warrant, or to pay the money levied thereon, within the time limited for the return of said warrant, or shall make any other return than such as is above mentioned, the county treasurer shall forthwith proceed to collect the whole sum directed to be levied by such warrant, and he may proceed in the first instance by a writ of attachment against the goods and chattels, lands and tenements, rights and credits, of such sheriff, and the same proceeding may be had thereon, in the proper court, as is now provided by law in ordinary cases of attachment.

(383.) SEC. LXXXII. In case the county treasurer shall fail to collect such moneys by attachment or suit, as is provided for in the next preceding section hereof, he shall prosecute suit on the official bond of such sheriff for the amount aforesaid.

(384.) SEC. LXXXIII. The town collectors shall be entitled to three per cent. on all moneys collected by them, as their compensation.

(385.) SEC. LXXXIV. This act shall apply to and be in force in counties adopting the act to provide for township organization, and take effect from and after its passage.

An Act regulating the Collection of the Revenue in Counties adopting the Township Organization Law.

[Approved Feb. 12, 1853. Laws, 1853, p. 67.]

expenses of the State government, shall be collected in gold and silver coin, and in no other currency.

(387.) SEC. II. The treasurer of each county shall be the county collector, and his refusal to qualify and act as such, shall vacate his office of treasurer, which shall be filled as in other cases of vacancy.

(388.) SEC. III. Said collector shall, at the September meeting of the board of supervisors, annually, and before he enters upon the duties of his office as collector, execute a bond, in addition to his bond as treasurer, in a penalty of at least double the amount of the State taxes to be collected in the year next thereafter, with two or more securities, who shall be residents of the said county, and owners of real estate equal in value to the amount specified in the bond; which amount shall be determined, and which bond shall be approved by the board of supervisors, and shall be witnessed by at least one witness who can write his name, and be substantially in the following form, to wit:

"KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, That we, A. B., collector, and C. D. and E. F., securities, all of the county of _____, and State of Illinois, are held and firmly bound to the people of the State of Illinois, in the penal sum of _____ dollars, for the payment of which, well and truly to be made, we bind ourselves, each of us, our heirs, executors and administrators, firmly by these presents.

Signed with our hands and sealed with our seals, this _____ day of _____, 18—.

The condition of the foregoing bond is such, that if the above bound A. B. shall perform all the duties required to be performed by him as collector of the taxes for the year 18—, in the time and manner prescribed by law, and when he shall be succeeded in office, shall surrender and deliver over to his successor in office, all books, papers and moneys belonging to said county or to the State, and appertaining to his said office, then the foregoing bond to be void, otherwise to remain in full force.

Signed, sealed and delivered in presence of me, G. H."

A. B.	[L. s.]
C. D.	[L. s.]
E. F.	[L. s.]

He shall also take and subscribe an oath, to be indorsed on the back of the bond, before some person authorized to administer oaths, that he will faithfully, diligently and impartially, to the best of his judgment and ability, perform all the duties required of him by law, as such collector.

(389.) SEC. IV. Bonds given in pursuance of this act, shall not be considered void, nor shall any security be released from any liability thereon, in consequence of any informality in the assessment, or in making out the assessment lists, nor of any change or alteration in the law made by the General Assembly, although the same may be made after the execution of said bond.

(390.) SEC. V. The collector's bond shall be approved by the board of supervisors, and shall be correctly copied and entered on the records of said board, and forthwith mailed to the auditor of public accounts, with the certificate of the clerk, under the seal of his office, showing that said bond has been duly approved and recorded. Said bond, when approved and recorded, shall be a lien against the real estate of such collector, until he shall have complied with the conditions thereof.

(391.) SEC. VI. On the first Monday of November, annually, or as soon thereafter as the collector shall be qualified, the clerk shall deliver the tax lists or books containing the non-resident tax list to said collector, and shall take from him duplicate receipts, setting forth the amount of State, county and special tax, charged for said year, one of which shall be forwarded to and filed in the office of the auditor of public accounts, and the other in the office of the county clerk. All taxes shall be considered due from and after the time that the tax books are required to be delivered to the collector.

(392.) SEC. VII. The clerk shall compute the amount of taxes due on each tract or parcel of land, on each town lot or block, and on each person's personal property, placing the amount of such tax in the proper columns opposite the value thereof, in all cases rejecting the fractions of cents, and shall add up the figures showing the amount of such tax, in the proper columns, and the aggregate amount in each column shall be noted on each page. Said clerk shall test the accuracy of such additions, by computing the amount of tax on the aggregate value of property on each page, that he may be certain that the tax has been correctly extended and added.

(393.) SEC. VIII. In all cases when any real property has heretofore been, or may hereafter be forfeited to the State for taxes, it shall be the duty of the clerk, when he is making up the amount of tax due on such real property for the current year, to add the amount of back tax and fees remaining due on such real property, with ten per cent. interest thereon, to the tax of the current year, and the aggregate amount so added together shall be collected in like manner as the tax on other real property for that year may be collected.

(394.) SEC. IX. The clerk shall annually make out for the use of the town collector correct lists of the property assessed to residents, which lists shall set forth, in alphabetical order, the names of the persons owing tax on personal property in each collector's district, the aggregate value of such property assessed to each person, and the amount of tax due thereon, and such other facts as may be required by the forms and instructions provided for by this act; he shall make out the abstracts of real property in numerical order, which shall show the name of the person to whom each tract or lot is assessed, the value of each tract or lot, and the amount of taxes thereon; which list shall be made out in strict conformity with the forms and instructions furnished by the auditor. He shall also make out in like manner, for the use of the county collector, abstracts of the real property listed as non-resident property.

(395.) SEC. X. When the books or lists for the collector are completed, the clerk shall make out a complete abstract, showing the aggregate number and value of each kind of personal property enumerated in the assessment list; the value of unenumerated articles; the value of goods and merchandise; the value of property listed by bankers, brokers and stock jobbers; the value of property listed by manufacturers; the value of moneys and credits; the value of moneys invested in bonds, stocks, joint stock companies, &c.; the value of property listed by banks; the value of lands, and the value of town and city lots; the amount of State tax due thereon, and the rate of taxation for county and other special purposes. The value of the property assessed to non-residents, and the amount of tax thereon, shall be stated separately from the non-resident tax. The correctness of said abstract shall be certified to by the clerk, with the seal of his office attached, and forwarded to the auditor's office by mail. A true copy of said abstract shall be entered on the records of said court. If any clerk shall knowingly make a false or incorrect abstract of the value of taxable property, he shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and punished accordingly.

(396.) SEC. XI. The collector of each county, upon receiving the assessment list of the non-resident property from the clerk of the county court, and giving a receipt for the same, shall collect the taxes charged upon said list, from the persons owing the same, and he shall give such persons receipts therefor.

(397.) SEC. XII. On or before the third Monday of April annually, the collector shall make out and file with the county clerk a statement in writing, setting forth the value of property and the amount of tax thereon in each town that has been returned to him by the town collectors as delinquent; and also a list of the errors in the non-resident list, showing a description of the property and the amount of tax charged in error, and the cause of error; the truth of said statement and list shall be verified by the oath of such collector. At the April meeting of the board of supervisors, he shall settle with and allow the collector credit for such abatements as he may be legally entitled to, and the clerk shall certify the value of the property upon which the taxes are so abated, and the amount of the State tax charged thereon, to the auditor of public accounts, who shall allow the collector credit for the amount so certified: Provided, That if the auditor shall have reason to believe that the amount stated in said certificate is not correct, or that the allowance was illegally made, he shall return the same for correction. If there be no meeting in April, the clerk shall certify the value of property and the amount of the State tax charged on the list of abatements filed by the collector, to the auditor, who shall allow the collector credit for the same, subject to the further action of the board, and said board shall examine and act upon the said list at their first term thereafter, and their action shall be certified by the clerk to the auditor, who shall adjust the account of the collector, as provided for in this act.

(398.) SEC. XIII. The county courts of the several counties in this State shall have original jurisdiction of suits for taxes due on real property whether such courts be sitting for the transaction of county or probate business.

(399.) SEC. XIV. Personal property shall be liable for taxes levied on real property, and real property shall be liable for taxes levied on personal property; but the tax on personal property shall not be charged against real property, except in cases of removals, or where said tax cannot be made out of the personal property.

(400.) SEC. XV. If the taxes on any town or city lot or lots shall remain unpaid on the third Monday in April next after said taxes become due, the collector shall advertise, obtain judgment and sell such lots in like manner as is provided for by this act for advertising, obtaining judgment and selling non-resident delinquent lands. And if any such lots be forfeited to the State, as is provided for in the case of delinquent lands, the clerk shall certify to the auditor the amount of State tax charged on the lots so forfeited, and the auditor shall allow the collector credit therefor, and charge the same to the collector for the following year. The board of supervisors shall allow the collector credit for the amount of taxes charged for county, town, and other special purposes, on the lots forfeited to the State, including the printer's fee thereon. Town and city lots shall be sold annually, in the month of May next after the taxes become due, or as soon thereafter as practicable.

(401.) SEC. XVI. If the taxes on any tract or parcel of land, other than town or city lots, shall remain unpaid on the first day of May next after such taxes become due, said collector shall make out and file with the clerk of the county court a true and correct list of said lands, setting forth the name of the owner, or person in whose name the said property is taxed, a description of the property, the value of each tract or parcel, and the amount of taxes charged thereon, together with the aggregate value and amount of tax due on such list; and he shall attach to and file with said list an affidavit, which shall be in the following form, to wit:

"I, A. B., collector in and for the county of _____, do solemnly swear that the list to which this affidavit is attached, is true and correct, and that the taxes thereon, as set forth in said list, are unpaid, and that I have used due diligence to collect said taxes, and that the aggregate amount therein stated remains due and unpaid, as I verily believe."

Said list shall be examined by the county clerk, and all errors therein corrected; and the collector shall be allowed credit in his settlement for the amount of county tax, including road, school, and other special county tax due thereon. The clerk of the county court shall, within ten days after the filing of said list, make out a true and correct copy thereof, in manner and form as may be required by the auditor of public accounts, and shall forward the same to said auditor, to be filed in his office.

(402.) SEC. XVII. The clerk of the county court shall make out and deliver to the collector, on or before the fifteenth day of May annually, the statements, certificates and lists appertaining to the settlement of the accounts of such collector; which statement, certificates and lists shall be made out in proper form, under seal of said court, securely enveloped and sealed. The collector shall deliver the package received from the clerk as aforesaid, at the office of the auditor, and make a final settlement of his accounts, and pay the amount due the State into the State treasury, on or before the first day of June next after receiving the tax books. At the time of making the settlement, the clerk shall deliver to the collector a memorandum showing the net amount collected, as per said settlement; and if any clerk shall neglect or refuse to make out and deliver the statements, certificates and lists as required by this act, on demand of the collector, he shall be liable for all damages sustained by such collector, or his securities, by reason of such neglect or refusal.

(403.) SEC. XVIII. If any collector shall refuse, fail or neglect to make settlement and pay the full amount due from him to the State into the State treasury, as is or may hereafter be required by law, it shall be the duty of the auditor of public accounts, and he is hereby authorized and required, to issue a warrant, under his hand and seal of office, directed to the sheriff of the proper county, (if there be no sheriff, then to the coroner, and if there be no sheriff or coroner, then to some suitable person, appointed by said auditor as especial agent for that purpose,) commanding him to levy and collect such sums as shall remain due from such collector, and pay the same into the State treasury, as required by law. Said auditor shall attach to every such warrant a correct statement of the account of such collector, as charged on the books in his said office. The warrant aforesaid shall have the same force and effect as executions issued by the circuit courts.

(404.) SEC. XIX. The officer or agent to whom such warrant shall be directed, shall immediately cause the same to be executed, and the money collected out of the goods and chattels, lands and tenements of such collector, and make return of such warrant to the said auditor, and pay the amount collected, after deducting his commissions and fees, into the State treasury, within forty days from the issuing of such warrant: Provided, That if any warrant issued by the auditor shall be lost or destroyed, the auditor shall issue a duplicate warrant, bearing date at the time of issuing the same. The officer or agent collecting money on any warrant issued as aforesaid, shall be allowed the same commissions and mileage that would have been allowed to the collector, had he paid over the funds as is required by law, and such fees as is allowed by law to sheriffs for serving executions, advertising property, &c.; which fees shall be charged and collected in like manner as fees on executions are charged and collected.

(405.) SEC. XX. The coroner or agent to whom any warrant shall be issued in pursuance of this act, shall indorse thereon the facts in the case, and if it shall appear that the whole or any part of the sum due remains unpaid, and that the collector has no goods and chattels, land or tenements in his county, out of which to make the amount remaining due, or any part thereof, the auditor shall cause suit to be commenced on the bond of such collector, at the first term of the supreme court held at the seat of government, or of the Sangamon county circuit court, thereafter.

(406.) SEC. XXI. In all cases where special agents are appointed, as provided for in the foregoing sections, the auditor shall require such agents to file, with the clerk of the county court of the proper county, a bond, with one or more securities, to be approved by the county judge, in a penal sum of at least double the amount to be collected, and made payable to the people of the State of Illinois, and conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties required of him by this act. And if any sheriff or coroner shall neglect or refuse to comply with the requirements of this act, he shall be liable, on his official bond, for all damages caused by such refusal or neglect; and if any sheriff or coroner shall knowingly make a false return on any warrant issued by the auditor as aforesaid, he shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and shall be punished accordingly. Agents appointed to execute any warrant issued by the auditor as provided for by this act, who may file bond and accept such appointment, shall be entitled to like compensation, and shall be liable to like penalties, as the sheriff or coroner. And if any sheriff, coroner or agent shall collect moneys due the State, and fail or neglect to pay the same into the State treasury as required by law, he shall pay, for the use of the State, ten per cent. per month damages, from the time he should have paid over said money, until paid: Provided, That in case of sickness, or other reasonable excuse, to be verified by the oath of the person so failing to pay, and the payment being made within a reasonable time, the auditor may remit such damages. But if such coroner or agent shall apply or use any funds collected by him and belonging to the State for his own benefit, or the benefit of any other person, or in any other way or manner than is provided for by law, such coroner or agent shall be deemed guilty of embezzlement, and on conviction thereof shall be punished accordingly.

(407.) SEC. XXII. The auditor of public accounts shall file the list of delinquent lands upon which the taxes remain due and unpaid, and shall add to the amount of tax charged on each tract, ten cents, to be collected and paid into the State treasury. Any person desiring to pay the taxes due on said lands, may pay the same into the State treasury at any time before the first day of August next, after the said taxes become due. If the taxes on any such lands shall remain due and unpaid after the first day of August aforesaid, the auditor shall add fifty per cent. on the amount of taxes due on each tract to said taxes, and the aggregate thereof shall be charged and collected. Any person may redeem said lands by paying the amount charged as aforesaid into the State treasury, at any time before the first day of November thereafter.

(408.) SEC. XXIII. On the first day of November, annually, or as soon thereafter as practicable, the auditor of public accounts shall make out and transmit by mail to the clerk of the county court, to be filed in the office of said clerk, a correct list of all the lands which had been returned to him as delinquent, and upon which the taxes remained unpaid on the first day of November.

(409.) SEC. XXIV. The assessor shall add fifty per cent., on the taxes remaining due at the time of filing the list with the clerk, and (for which he may be allowed credit,) to the tax charged on each tract of land, and the aggregate thereof shall be collected and paid over to the State and county, according to the rate of taxation for that year. Any person desiring to redeem or pay the taxes on such lands in the county after the first day of May, may do so by paying the amount, charged as above set forth, to the collector, at any time before the first day of December thereafter. When said collector shall receive the tax on any tract of land or town lot, subsequent to the first day of May aforesaid, he shall set forth the amount so received opposite the tract or lot so redeemed, in a column provided for that purpose, and shall note the date of such payment opposite such tract or lot on the list of delinquent lands and lots aforesaid, and shall file said lists with the clerk, on or before the first day of December aforesaid.

(410.) SEC. XXV. The clerk shall carefully compare the delinquent list returned by the auditor with the list returned by the collector, and if there be any lands or lots upon which the taxes have not been paid, he shall add the amount due thereon to the tax due on such lands and lots for the next succeeding year, and shall make out a true and correct list of such lands and lots, which shall be delivered to the collector with the tax books of the current year, or as soon thereafter as practicable; and the said collector shall collect the taxes thereon by sale or otherwise.

(411.) SEC. XXVI. When any person, owning lands or town lots in any county in this State, shall fail to pay the taxes assessed thereon, as provided for in the foregoing sections, it shall be the duty of the collector to publish an advertisement in some newspaper published in his county, if any such there be, and if there be no such paper printed in his county, then in the nearest newspaper in this State, which advertisement shall be once published at least four weeks previous to the term of the county court at which judgment is prayed; and said advertisement shall contain a list of the delinquent lands upon which the taxes remain due and unpaid, the names of owners, if known, the amount due thereon, and the years for which the same are due; and shall give notice that he will apply to the county court, at the — term thereof, for judgment against said lands for said taxes, interest and costs, and for an order to sell said lands for the satisfaction thereof; and shall also give notice that, on the first Monday next succeeding the day fixed by law for the commencement of the said county court, all the lands for sale of which an order shall be made, will be exposed to public sale at the place of holding court in said county, for the amount of taxes, interest and costs due thereon; and the advertisement published according to the provisions of this section, shall be deemed and taken to be sufficient and legal notice both of the intended application of the collector to the county court for judgment, and also for the sale of lands under the order of said court: Provided, That if the publisher of such paper shall be unable or unwilling to publish said list and notice accurately and properly, the collector shall select some other newspaper, having due regard to the circulation of such paper.

(412.) SEC. XXVII. Hereafter, no purchaser of any land or town lot at any sale of lands or town lots for taxes, due either to the State or any county or incorporated town or city within the same, or at any sale for taxes or levies authorized by the laws of this State, shall be entitled to a deed for the lands or town lots so purchased, until he or she shall have complied with the following conditions, to wit: Such purchaser shall serve, or cause to be served, a written notice of such purchase, on every person in possession of such land or town lot, at least three months before the expiration of the time of redemption on such sale; in which notice he shall state when he purchased the land or town lot, the description of the land or lot he has purchased, and when the time of redemption will expire. In like manner he shall serve on the person or persons in whose name or names such land or lot is taxed, a similar written notice, if such person or persons shall reside in the county where such land or lot shall be situated; and in the event that the person or persons in whose name or names the land or lot is taxed, do not reside in the county, such purchaser shall publish such notice in some newspaper printed in such county, and if no newspaper is printed in the county, then in the nearest newspaper that is published in this State to the county in which such lot or land is situated; which notice shall be inserted three times, the last time not less than three months before the time of redemption shall expire. Every such purchaser, by himself or agent, shall, before he shall be entitled to a deed, make an affidavit of his having complied with the conditions of this section, stating particularly the facts relied on as such compliance; which affidavit shall be delivered to the person authorized by law to execute such tax deed, and which shall by him be filed with the officer having custody of the record of the lands and lots sold for taxes and entries of redemption in the county where such lands or lots shall lie, to be by such officer entered on the records of his office, and carefully preserved among the files of his office, and which record or affidavit shall be prima facie evidence that such notice has been given. Any person swearing falsely in such affidavit, shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and punished accordingly. In case any person shall be compelled under this section to publish a notice in a newspaper, then, before any person who may have a right to redeem such lands or lots from such tax sale, shall be permitted to redeem, he or she shall pay the officer or person who by law is authorized to receive such redemption money, the printer's fee for publishing such notice, and the expenses of making and filing the affidavit: Provided, That the fee for such publication, where the notice does not include more than four tracts or lots, shall not exceed one dollar; and when the notice contains more than four tracts or lots, then the printer shall be allowed twenty cents for each additional tract, and five cents for each additional town lot contained in such notice.

(413.) SEC. XXVIII. In case of the death of any collector during the time the tax books are in his hands, and before the time specified in this act for making settlement, the clerk of the county court shall demand and take charge of the tax books, and shall appoint one or more competent persons to examine said tax books, and it shall be the duty of the persons so appointed, to ascertain the amount remaining uncollected, and make out a correct abstract of the same: Provided, That should there be but a small portion of the taxes collected at the time of the death of the collector, then the amount actually collected shall be ascertained, and the same books used in completing the collections.

(414.) SEC. XXIX. In case of a vacancy, as mentioned in the foregoing section, the board of supervisors may appoint a suitable person to complete the collections, who shall execute a bond, collect and pay over the taxes in the same manner, and his acts shall be as binding and effectual as the collector's would have been, had he completed the collections; and the collector so appointed may obtain judgment at any regular term of the court, and sell delinquent lands and lots in like manner as the collector would have been authorized to do had he completed such collections: Provided, That if the collector had advertised the delinquent land list before his death, it shall not be necessary for his successor, or the person appointed to complete the collections, to re-advertise, but he shall proceed to finish the collections in the same manner as the collector would have been authorized to do if he had lived.

(415.) SEC. XXX. All suits or applications for judgment, and order of sale for taxes on delinquent lands and town lots, shall be made at regular terms of the county court, and the sale shall be made at the time specified in the notice, whether the court remain in session or not. If for any cause the court shall not be holden at the term at which judgment is prayed, the cause shall stand continued; and it shall not be necessary to re-advertise the list or notice required by law to be advertised before judgment and sale, but at the next regular term thereafter, the court shall hear and determine the matter, and if judgment is rendered, the sale shall be made at the same time and in like manner as it would have been made if the suit had been commenced at that term.

(416.) SEC. XXXI. The printer publishing the list of delinquent lands and town lots, shall transmit by mail or other safe conveyance to the collector, four copies of the paper containing said list. Upon the receipt of said paper, and on demand being made, the collector shall pay to the printer the amount of the fees allowed by law for publishing said lists and notice; and it shall be his duty to file one copy of said paper in his office and deliver one copy to the clerk of the county court, one copy to the auditor of public accounts, and one copy to the State treasurer, who shall file and safely preserve them in their respective offices: Provided, That if said publication is not made in accordance with the requirements of the law, or the papers above mentioned are not furnished the collector before the first day of the term of the court at which judgment is prayed, the collector shall not pay said fees until they are collected by him

(417.) SEC. XXXII. If any collector shall refuse or neglect to pay the amount due the printer as required by this act, it shall be competent for the printer to collect the same in an action of debt against such collector.

(418.) SEC. XXXIII. The collector shall file the list of delinquent lands and town lots, which shall be made out in numerical order, and contain all the information necessary to be recorded, with the clerk of the county court, at least five days before the commencement of the term at which application for judgment is to be made, and said clerk shall receive and record the same in a book to be kept for that purpose; which said book shall be ruled and headed, as near as may be, in the following form:

A List of Lands and Town Lots reported by ———, Collector of the Revenue for the year 18—, upon which he has been unable to collect the taxes due thereon, and now on this ——— day of ——— 18—, files this his petition for a judgment and order of sale against said Lands and Lots at the ——— term, 18—, of the County Court.

Owners' Names.	Part of Section.	Section.	Township.	Range.	Acres.	Valuation.	State Tax.	County Tax.	Costs.	Total Amount due.

The clerk of the county court shall, before the day of sale, make a correct record of the lands and town lots against which judgment is rendered in any suit, for taxes due thereon, and which shall set forth the name of the owner, if known, the description of the property, and the amount due on each tract or lot, in the same order as said property may be set forth in the judgment-book, and shall attach thereto a correct copy of the order of the court, and his certificate of the truth of such record; which record, so attested, shall hereafter constitute the process on which all real property shall be sold for taxes, as well as the sales of such property. When any tract of land or town lot shall be sold, it shall be the duty of the clerk to enter on the record aforesaid the quantity sold and the name of the purchaser opposite such tract or lot, in the blank columns provided for that purpose, and when any such property shall be redeemed from sale, the clerk shall enter the name of the person redeeming, the date and amount of redemption, in the proper columns. Said book shall be so ruled that there shall be suitable blank columns for entering the quantity or portion of each tract or lot that may be sold, the name of the purchaser, and such other columns as may be deemed necessary.

(419.) SEC. XXXIV. On the first day of the term at which judgment on delinquent lands and town lots is prayed, it shall be the duty of the collector to report to the clerk a list of all the lands or town lots, as the case may be, upon which taxes have been paid, if any, from the filing of the list mentioned in the foregoing section up to that time; and the clerk shall note the fact opposite each tract upon which taxes have been paid. The collector, assisted by the clerk, shall compare and correct said list, and shall make and subscribe an affidavit, which shall be as near as may be in the following form :

"I, _____, collector of the county of _____, do solemnly swear, (or affirm, as the case may be,) that the foregoing is a true and correct record of the delinquent lands and town lots within the county of _____, upon which I have been unable to collect the taxes as required by law for the year or years therein set forth; that said taxes now remain due and unpaid, as I verily believe."

Said affidavit shall be entered on the record at the bottom of the list, and signed by the collector; the oath may be administered by the judge, clerk, or any justice of the peace, who shall attest the same.

(420.) SEC. XXXV. The court shall examine said list, and if defense or objection be offered by any person interested in any of said lands or lots to the entry of judgment against the same, the court shall hear and determine the matter in a summary manner, without pleadings, and shall pronounce judgment as the right of the case may be, and shall direct the clerk to make out and enter an order for the sale of such real property, which shall be substantially in the following form :

"WHEREAS, due notice has been given of the intended application for a judgment against said lands, and no owner hath appeared to make defense or show cause why judgment should not be entered against the said lands for taxes, interest and costs due and unpaid thereon for the year or years herein set forth, therefore it is considered by the court that judgment be and is hereby entered against the aforesaid tract or tracts of land, or parts of tracts (as the case may be,) in favor of the State of Illinois, for the sum annexed to each tract or parcel of land, being the amount of taxes, interest and costs due severally thereon; and it is ordered by the court that the said several tracts of land, or so much thereof as shall be sufficient of each of them to satisfy the amount of taxes, interest and costs annexed to them severally, be sold as the law directs."

(421.) SEC. XXXVI. Said order shall be signed by the judge, and shall have the same effect as judgments and orders made by the circuit court. Persons aggrieved by any decisions of the county court in such cases, shall have the right of appeal to the circuit court, by giving bond and security, payable to the people of the State of Illinois, as required in cases of appeals.

(422.) SEC. XXXVII. The clerk of said court shall, within five days after any sale for taxes, make out and deliver to the collector a transcript of sales for taxes, which shall be written on foolscap paper, made up and stitched in book form, suitable for binding. Said collector shall deliver said transcript to the auditor at the time that he is required to make settlement for the State tax.

(423.) SEC. XXXVIII. Every tract of land or town lot offered at public sale for the taxes due thereon, and not sold for want of bidders, shall be and the same is hereby declared to be forfeited to the State of Illinois.

(424.) SEC. XXXIX. If any lands or town lots shall be forfeited to the State for taxes, it shall be the duty of the clerk of the county court to certify to the auditor of public accounts the assessed value thereof, and the amount of State tax charged thereon; and the auditor shall credit the collector with the amount of State tax due on said property, and the board of supervisors shall allow him credit for the printer's fees and county tax thereon.

(425.) SEC. XL. If any person shall desire to redeem any tract of land or town lot forfeited to the State, he shall apply to the clerk of the county court, who shall issue his order to the collector, directing him to receive from such person the amount due on said tract or lot, particularly describing the property and setting forth the amount due, including the printer's fee; and upon presentation of said order to the collector, he shall receive said amount and give the person duplicate receipts therefor, setting forth a proper description of the property and the amount received; one of which shall be countersigned by the clerk, and when so countersigned shall be evidence of the redemption of the property therein described, but no such receipt shall be valid until it is countersigned by the clerk; the other receipt shall be filed by the clerk in his office, and said clerk shall cancel the sale of the property so redeemed on the books in his office, and charge the amount of the redemption money to the collector.

(426.) SEC. XLI. It shall be the duty of the clerk of the county court, annually, when he makes return of the amount of taxes levied, to report the amount due the State on such forfeited property to the auditor of public accounts, who shall charge the same to the collector: Provided, That if the collector who received said redemption money shall be succeeded in office, he shall pay the amount in his hands over to his successor, who shall pay said amount into the State treasury when he settles for the taxes of the current year.

(427.) SEC. XLII. The amount due on lands and lots, and remaining unpaid on the first day of November, shall be added to the tax of the current year, and the amount thereof shall be reported against the collector, with the amount of the assessment for said year; said collector shall collect and pay over the said amount in like manner as other taxes, and he is hereby authorized to advertise and sell said property in the same manner as if said property had been forfeited to the State. Said additions and sales shall be continued from year to year until the taxes on said property are paid, by sale or otherwise: Provided, That at the regular sale in the year 1855, and every five years thereafter, all the property previously forfeited and remaining unredeemed, shall be sold to the highest bidder, but not for a greater sum than is due thereon, including costs, &c., and the former sales of such property as will not sell shall be canceled: Provided, That if any person shall offer to pay the taxes, interest and costs due on forfeited property for a less quantity than the whole tract or lot, then such property shall be sold to the person offering to pay the amount due thereon, for the least quantity or part thereof.

(428.) SEC. XLIII. Real property sold under the provisions of this act may be redeemed at any time before the expiration of two years from the date of sale, by the payment in specie, to the clerk of the county court of the proper county, of double the amount for which the same was sold, and all taxes accruing after such sale, with ten per cent. interest thereon from the day of sale, unless such subsequent tax has been paid by the person for whose benefit the redemption is made; which fact may be shown by the collector's receipt: Provided, That if the real property of any minor heir, feme covert or lunatic, be sold for taxes, the same may be redeemed at any time within one year after such disability be removed, upon the terms specified in this section; which redemption may be made by their guardians or legal representatives.

(429.) SEC. XLIV. The securities on any bond given in pursuance of this act, or either of them, may at any time after the execution of said bond, if they, or either of them, have good reason to believe that the officer in said bond is about to fail to comply with the conditions thereof, file with the clerk of the county court, a notice in writing, verified by the person asking to be discharged, setting forth the facts in the case, and asking to be released from any further liability on said bond; whereupon the clerk with whom such notice shall be filed, shall notify the said officer to give additional security, equal to the security about to be released, to be approved by the board of supervisors, which notice may be served by the said board or clerk, or by any person appointed by them, or either of them. If the officer so notified shall not appear and give additional security within two days from the time he may be so notified, the board of supervisors may remove him from office; and in all such cases, said board shall appoint some suitable person to fill the vacancy occasioned by such removal, who shall execute bond, qualify and perform the duties required of such officer: Provided, That if the securities on any collector's bond, or either of them, shall be satisfied that such collector is making improper use of the funds collected by him, or has absconded, or is about to abscond, from this State, whereby said securities may become liable to pay any sum or sums of money, it shall be lawful for said security to sue out a writ of attachment against the goods and chattels of such collector, in like manner as he would be authorized to do if said collector was personally indebted to such security; and the money collected on any such attachment shall be paid into the treasury by the officer collecting the same, in like manner as if paid over by the collector.

(430.) SEC. XLV. If any real property shall be double assessed, or assessed before it become taxable, and the taxes so erroneously assessed shall have been paid, the board of supervisors, on application of the person paying the same, or his agent, and being satisfied of the facts in the case, shall cause said taxes to be refunded pro rata by the State and county; and if any collector shall receive the taxes properly due on any real property, and shall afterwards sell such property for said taxes, he shall refund to the purchaser thereof, if application be made within two years from the date of said sale, double the amount of purchase money. Any collector neglecting or refusing to pay as required by this section, shall be liable to the county in an action of debt, in any court having jurisdiction of the amount of said debt: Provided, That the county and the State shall refund in case of erroneous sales heretofore made, as provided for by the laws in force at the time of such sales.

(431.) SEC. XLVI. If any collector shall have paid, or may hereafter pay into the State treasury, any greater sum or sums of money than is, or may be, legally and justly due from such collector, after deducting abatements and commissions, the auditor shall issue his warrant for the amount so overpaid, which shall be paid out of the fund or funds so overpaid, on the warrant of the auditor.

(432.) SEC. XLVII. The board of supervisors shall have power to levy a tax in their respective counties for county purposes, but shall, in no case, exceed the amount of four mills on each dollar's worth of taxable property, unless specially authorized by law; and said county tax shall be levied at the September meeting of said board, or as soon thereafter as practicable, and collected with the State revenue. The same lien created to secure the State tax, and the provisions made for the collection thereof, shall also exist and apply to the county revenue.

(433.) SEC. XLVIII. Suits commenced by the auditor, as provided for in this act, shall not abate for the want of service on one or more of the defendants, but judgment may be rendered against such of said defendants as may have been legally notified: Provided, That suits may be prosecuted against the defendants not included in said judgment, at any subsequent term of said court: Provided further, That the provisions of this section shall not be so construed as to change the conditions of any bond executed prior to the passage of this act on suits in favor of the State, and against collectors or other persons indebted to the State. The State shall pay like fees as are or may be allowed by law in suits between individuals, and in all cases when the State is plaintiff, she shall advance and pay such fees, in like manner as individuals are required to advance and pay fees. And when the State becomes the purchaser of real property sold on execution for any debt due the said State, the officer selling such real estate shall be entitled to like commissions as he would have been entitled to had such property been purchased by individuals. Said fees and commissions to be paid on the warrant of the auditor, out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated; and when such fees are collected, they shall be paid into the State treasury. So much of this section as relates to fees, shall apply to suits heretofore prosecuted, as well as to suits that may hereafter be commenced and prosecuted.

(434.) SEC. XLIX. The assessment shall be a lien on the personal property of all persons owing taxes from and after the time the assessment books are received by the collector, for the State and county tax due thereon, and no sale or transfer of such property shall affect the claim of the State or county, but the said property may be seized by the collector wherever found, and removed if necessary, and sold to discharge the taxes of the person owing the same at the time of such assessment, together with the costs and charges of collection.

(435.) SEC. L. Whenever the taxes on the same property shall have been paid more than once, for the same year, by different claimants, the collector shall make a return to the clerk of the county court of all such surplus taxes so received by him, together with the names of the several claimants thus paying; and the clerk shall make a record of all such cases, and transmit a copy thereof to the auditor of public accounts, who shall charge such collector with the portion of such surplus taxes belonging to the State; but such surplus tax shall in no case be refunded.

(436.) SEC. LI. Whenever any person shall pay the taxes charged against him, the collector shall enter such payment in his list, and give the person paying the same a receipt, specifying the name of the person for whom paid, the amount paid, what year paid for, and the property on which the same was assessed, according to its description on the assessment list.

(437.) SEC. LII. The collector shall attend at the court-house in his county, on the day specified in the notice for the sale of real estate for taxes, and then and there, between the hours of ten o'clock in the forenoon and six o'clock in the afternoon, proceed to offer for sale, separately, each tract of land or town lot in the said list on which the taxes and costs have not been paid.

(438.) SEC. LIII. The person at such sale offering to pay the taxes and costs charged on each tract or lot, for the least quantity thereof, shall be the purchaser of such quantity, which shall be taken from the east side of such tract or lot.

(439.) SEC. LIV. The collector shall continue such sale from day to day, until all the tracts of land or town lots contained in the delinquent list, on which taxes and costs remain unpaid, shall be sold or offered for sale.

(440.) SEC. LV. The person purchasing any tract of land or town lot, or any part thereof, shall forthwith pay to the collector the amount of taxes and costs charged on said tract or lot, and on failure so to do, the said land or lot shall be again offered for sale in the same manner as if no such sale had been made; and in no case shall the sale be closed until payment is made.

(441.) SEC. LVI. The collector shall obtain a copy of the advertisement of the delinquent lands and lots, together with a certificate of the due publication thereof, from the printer or publisher of the newspaper in which the same shall have been published, and shall file the same with the clerk of the county court, on or before the first day of the term at which judgment is prayed.

(442.) SEC. LVII. In all advertisements for the sale of lands for taxes, and in entries required to be made by the clerk of the court, or other officer, letters and figures may be used, as they have heretofore been used, to denote townships, ranges, sections, parts of sections, the year for which the taxes were due, and the amount of taxes, interest and costs.

(443.) SEC. LVIII. The clerk shall make out and deliver to the purchaser of any lands or lots sold for the payment of taxes as aforesaid, a certificate of purchase, to be countersigned by the collector, describing the land or the lot sold as the same was described in the delinquent list, the amount of taxes and costs for which the same was sold, and that payment has been made therefor. If any person shall become the purchaser of more than one tract of land or lot, he may have the whole included in one certificate.

(444.) SEC. LIX. Such certificate of purchase shall be assignable by indorsement, and an assignment thereof shall vest in the assignee or his legal representatives, all the right and title of the original purchaser.

(445.) SEC. LX. No sale of real estate for taxes shall be considered invalid on account of the same having been charged in any other name than that of the rightful owner, if the said real estate be in other respects sufficiently described, and the taxes thereon were due and unpaid at the time of such sale.

(446.) SEC. LXI. The books and records belonging to the office of the clerk of the county court, or copies thereof, certified by said clerk, shall be deemed sufficient evidence to prove the sale of any land for taxes, the redemption of the same, or payment of taxes thereon.

(447.) SEC. LXII. Whenever it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the clerk of the county court, before the execution of a deed for lands or lots sold for taxes, or if the deed be returned by the purchaser, that any tract or lot was sold which was not subject to be taxed, or upon which taxes had been paid previous to the sale, he shall make an entry opposite to such tracts or lots on the list of sales, that the same was erroneously sold, and such entry shall be evidence of the fact therein stated.

(448.) SEC. LXIII. The receipt of the redemption money of any tract of land or lot, by any purchaser, shall operate as a release of all claim to such tract or lot, under or by virtue of the purchase.

(449.) SEC. LXIV. If any purchaser of lands sold for taxes shall suffer the same to be again sold for taxes before the expiration of two years from the date of his or her purchase, such purchaser shall not be entitled to a deed for the land until the expiration of two years from the date of the second sale; during which time the land shall be subject to redemption upon the terms and conditions prescribed in this act, but the person redeeming shall only be required to pay, for the use of such first purchaser, the amount paid by him, and double the amount paid by the second purchaser.

(450.) SEC. LXV. If any collector, by himself or deputy, shall fail to attend any sale of lands advertised according to the provisions of this act, and make sale thereof as required by law, he shall be liable to pay into the State and county treasury the amount of taxes and costs due upon the lands and lots so advertised, in the same manner as if they had been sold: Provided, That he may afterwards advertise and sell such delinquent property to reimburse himself for the amount advanced by him; but at no such sale shall there be any property forfeited to the State.

(451.) SEC. LXVI. No collector or treasurer shall, either directly or indirectly, be permitted to take, buy, shave or receive, by himself or agent, any auditor's warrant or warrants, or any county order or jury certificate, at less than the full amount due thereon.

(452.) SEC. LXVII. On the first day of January next after taking the census in the State, or as soon thereafter as the returns of said census may be made to the office of the secretary of State, it shall be the duty of said secretary to make out and deliver to the auditor, a correct statement of the number of white children in each county in this State, twenty years of age and under; the truth of said certificate shall be certified to by said secretary, and thereupon, under the supervision of the commissioners of the school fund, the auditor shall make a dividend to each county, of the interest due upon the school, college and seminary fund, in proportion to the number of persons in each, of the age aforesaid; and dividends shall be made according to the proportion ascertained to be due to each county annually thereafter, until another census shall have been taken, and then apportionments shall be made and continued as aforesaid, according to the last census.

(453.) SEC. LXVIII. The auditor shall, within five days after ascertaining the amount due, as required in the foregoing section, make out and forward by mail to the school commissioner of each county, an order on the collector for the amount due said county: Provided, That if the amount of interest due to any county shall exceed the amount of revenue, State tax, due from such county, then the auditor shall issue an order as aforesaid for the amount of revenue that he believes, from the returns of the assessment for that year, will be collected, and shall issue and forward with the order a warrant on the treasurer for the balance of interest that may be due to such county, which shall be paid out of any moneys not otherwise appropriated.

(454.) SEC. LXIX. On or before the first day of April, annually, or so soon thereafter as the school commissioner shall present the order of the auditor, the collector shall pay to said commissioner the amount due thereon: Provided, That if the said collector has not collected a sufficient amount of State revenue to pay said order, and shall make oath of that fact, then he shall pay the amount that he has collected, and shall pay the remainder on or before the fifteenth day of May next thereafter; but if any collector shall refuse to pay the interest on the school fund as required by this section, and shall refuse to make oath as aforesaid, it shall be competent for the commissioner to proceed against such collector and his securities, in an action of debt in the county court, which court is hereby vested with full power and authority to hear and determine all such suits, render judgment and issue execution. Said collector shall be liable to pay the full amount stated in the order, notwithstanding he may not have collected that amount; and if any collector shall pay a portion of the amount due as aforesaid, and shall fail to pay the remainder as required by this section, the commissioner shall proceed against him as above provided for.

(455.) SEC. LXX. Upon ascertaining the amount due to the State from any collector, or other person, the auditor shall give such person a statement of the amount to be paid, and upon the presentation of such statement to the treasurer, and the payment of the sum stated to be due, the treasurer shall give duplicate receipts therefor, one of which shall be filed in the auditor's office and entered in a book to be kept for that purpose, and the other shall be countersigned by the auditor and delivered to the person making the payment; and no payment shall be considered as having been made until the treasurer's receipt shall be countersigned by the auditor as aforesaid. When the list of delinquent lands is returned by the auditor for sale, he shall certify to the clerk the amount of the county's proportion of the tax paid into the State treasury, and the amount so certified shall be paid into the county treasury, out of the tax due from the collector to the State.

(456.) SEC. LXXI. The auditor of public accounts shall, as soon as practicable after the passage of this act, prepare and transmit to the several county clerks all such forms and instructions as he shall deem necessary to carry into effect its provisions. Said auditor shall cause to be printed, with the forms and instructions required by this section, a true and correct copy of this act, and shall forward a sufficient number thereof, for the use of the several county officers, to the clerk of the county court of each county, who shall deliver the same to the proper officers. The expenses of the printing required by this section, shall be paid for as other printing ordered by this General Assembly is paid for.

(457.) SEC. LXXII. There shall be allowed and paid for services rendered in pursuance of this act, the following fees and compensation: To clerks of county courts, for making lists of delinquent lands for the auditor's office, three cents for each tract described in said list, to be paid for out of the State treasury, which shall be in full for comparing and correcting the collector's returns of said delinquent lands to his office, as well as for making the list aforesaid, and comparing and certifying to the list for the use of the collector. For making record of delinquent lands and town lots for judgment, including the order of court, three cents for each tract, and one cent for each town lot. For making transcript of judgment for sale, three cents for each tract, and one cent for each town lot. For assisting the collector in selling lands and lots, twenty-five cents for each tract and five cents for each town lot, for which a certificate is given, to be charged and collected as costs. For making transcript of taxable real property for the assessor, two cents for each tract of land, and one-half cent for each town lot, to be paid out of the State treasury; for comparing the assessor's return with the original list of real property, extending the tax on each tract and lot, and adding up the aggregate amount of tax due thereon, two cents for each tract or sub-division, and one-half cent for each town lot; and for making copy of the assessment list for the collector, one cent for each tract and one-half cent for each town lot. For entering list of lands, furnished by the auditor, in the tract books, one cent for each tract. The same fees shall be allowed for computing the tax on each person's personal property, and for copying the same, as is allowed on town lots; all of which fees shall be paid out of the county treasury. The collector shall be allowed for making list of delinquent lands to be filed with the clerk, and adding up the amount of tax thereon, three cents for each tract, to be paid out of the State treasury. For selling lands and town lots, ten cents for each tract and three cents for each town lot sold, to be charged and collected as costs; but no costs except the printer's fees shall be charged or collected on any land or town lots forfeited to the State. Collectors shall be allowed a commission on all moneys collected, of five per cent. on the first eight thousand dollars, and three per cent. on all additional sums collected by them, to be paid by the State, and county in proportion to the amount of State and county tax collected; and the auditor shall allow said collector in his settlement, in addition to the commissions aforesaid, two dollars for every twenty miles necessary travel, in going to and returning from the seat of government, for the purpose of paying over the State tax. County treasurers shall be allowed a commission of one per cent. on all moneys, county orders and jury certificates received by them for county purposes, and one per cent. on all moneys paid out by them, but shall not be allowed any compensation for paying moneys over to a successor.

(458.) SEC. LXXIII. If any officer shall fail or neglect to perform any of the duties required of him by this act, upon being required so to do by any person interested in the matter, he shall be liable to a fine of not less than ten dollars, nor more than one hundred dollars, to be recovered in an action of debt in the circuit court of the proper county, and may be removed from office, if, in the opinion of the court before whom such suit may be tried, the circumstances require such removal; and any officer who shall knowingly violate any of the provisions of this act, shall be liable to a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, to be recovered in an action of debt in any court having jurisdiction of the amount, and may be removed from office at the discretion of the court.

(459.) SEC. LXXIV. The rate of taxation for State purposes for the year A. D. 1853, and forever thereafter, until otherwise provided by law, shall be two mills on every dollar's worth of taxable property, for the payment of the State debt, one and one-half mills on every dollar's worth of taxable property for the payment of the interest on the State debt, and one mill on every dollar's worth of taxable property, for defraying the expenses of the government.

(460.) SEC. LXXV. This act shall apply to and be in force in the several counties adopting the act to provide for township organization, and shall be in force from and after its passage.

An Act regulating the Collection of the Revenue.

[Approved Feb. 12, 1853. Laws, 1853, p. 99.]

(462.) SEC. II. The sheriff of each county shall be the collector of taxes, and his refusal to qualify and act as such, shall vacate his office of sheriff, which shall be filled as in other cases of vacancy.

(463.) SEC. III. Said collector shall, at the December term of the county court, annually, and before he enters upon the duties of his office as sheriff, execute a bond, in addition to his bond as sheriff, in a penalty of at least double the amount of the taxes to be collected for that year, with two or more securities, who shall be residents of the said county, and owners of real estate equal in value to the amount specified in the bond; which amount shall be determined, and which bond shall be approved by the county court, and shall be witnessed by at least one witness who can write his name, and be substantially in the following form, to wit:

"KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, That we, A. B., collector, and C. D. and E. F., securities, all of the county of _____, and State of Illinois, are held and firmly bound to the people of the State of Illinois, in the penal sum of _____ dollars, for the payment of which, well and truly to be made, we bind ourselves, each of us, our heirs, executors and administrators, firmly by these presents.

Signed with our hands and sealed with our seals, this _____ day of _____, 18____.

The condition of the foregoing bond is such, that if the above bound A. B. shall perform all the duties required to be performed by him as collector of the taxes for the year 18____, in the time and manner prescribed by law, and when he shall be succeeded in office, shall surrender and deliver over to his successor in office, all books, papers and moneys belonging to said county or to the State, and appertaining to his said office, then the foregoing bond to be void, otherwise to remain in full force.

Signed, sealed and delivered in presence of me, G. H." }

E. F.	[L. s.]

He shall also take and subscribe an oath, to be indorsed on the back of the bond, before some person authorized to administer oaths, that he will faithfully, diligently and impartially, to the best of his skill, judgment and ability, perform all the duties required of him by law, as such collector.

(464.) SEC. IV. Bonds given in pursuance of this act, shall not be considered void, nor shall any security be released from any liability thereon, in consequence of any informality in the assessment, or in making out the assessment lists, nor of any change or alteration in the law made by the General Assembly, although the same may be made after the execution of said bond.

(465.) SEC. V. The collector's bond shall be approved by the county court, and shall be correctly copied and entered on the records of said court, and forthwith mailed to the auditor of public accounts, with the certificate of the clerk, under the seal of his office, showing that said bond has been duly approved and recorded. Said bond, when approved and recorded, shall be a lien against the real estate of such collector, until he shall have complied with the conditions thereof.

(466.) SEC. VI. On the first Monday of December, annually, or as soon thereafter as the collector shall be qualified, the clerk shall deliver the tax lists or books to said collector, and shall take from him duplicate receipts, setting forth the amount of State, county and special tax, charged for said year, one of which shall be forwarded to and filed in the office of the county treasurer, and the other in the office of the county clerk.

(467.) SEC. VII. The clerk shall compute the amount of taxes due on each tract or parcel of land, on each town lot or block, and on each person's personal property, placing the amount of such tax in the proper columns opposite the value thereof, in all cases rejecting the fractions of cents, and shall add up the figures showing the amount of such tax, in the proper columns, and the aggregate amount in each column shall be noted on each page. Said clerk shall test the accuracy of such additions, by computing the amount of tax on the aggregate value of property on each page, that he may be certain that the tax has been correctly extended and added.

(468.) SEC. VIII. In all cases when any real property has heretofore been or may hereafter be forfeited to the State for taxes, it shall be the duty of the clerk, when he is making up the amount of tax due on such real property for the current year, to add the amount of back tax and fees remaining due on such real property, with six per cent. interest thereon, to the tax of the current year, and the aggregate amount so added together, shall be collected in like manner as the tax on other real property for that year may be collected.

(469.) SEC. IX. The clerk shall annually make out for the use of the collector, correct lists of the property assessed; which lists shall set forth, in alphabetical order, the names of the persons owing tax on personal property in each collector's district, the aggregate value of such property assessed to each person, and the amount of tax due thereon, and such other facts as may be required by the forms and instructions provided for by this act; he shall make out the abstracts of real property in numerical order, which shall show the name of the person to whom each tract or lot is assessed, the value of each tract or lot, and the amount of taxes thereon; which list shall be made out in strict conformity with the forms and instructions furnished by the auditor, as required by this act.

(470.) SEC. X. When the books or lists for the collector are completed, the clerk shall make out a complete abstract, showing the aggregate number and value of each kind of personal property enumerated in the assessment list; the value of unenumerated articles; the value of goods and merchandise; the value of property listed by bankers, brokers and stock jobbers; the value of property listed by manufacturers; the value of moneys and credits; the value of moneys invested in bonds, stocks, joint stock companies, &c.; the value of property listed by banks; the value of lands, and the value of town and city lots; the amount of State tax due thereon, and the rate of taxation for county and other special purposes. The correctness of said abstract shall be certified to by the clerk, with the seal of said court attached, and forwarded to the auditor's office by mail. A true copy of said abstract shall be entered on the records of said court. If any clerk shall knowingly make a false or incorrect abstract of the value of taxable property, he shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and punished accordingly.

(471.) SEC. XI. The collector of each county, upon receiving the assessment list from the clerk of the county court, and giving a receipt for the same, shall proceed to collect the taxes charged upon said list, by causing a printed notice to be posted up in three different places in each election precinct, and in three different places at the county seat; one of which shall be the door of the court-house; and shall cause the same to be inserted in any newspaper published in said county, if any be published therein, for the space of three successive weeks, stating in such notice upon what day or successive days the collector will, by himself or agent, attend in such precincts, at the place of holding elections, or at some other equally public and convenient place named therein, for the purpose of receiving taxes; and the said collector or his agent shall attend for the purpose aforesaid, on the day and at the place named in such notice, and shall also attend, by himself or agent, at his office at the county seat, during the month of February, for the same purpose. The said notice shall be considered a demand for the taxes, and shall be a lien on the property of the person owing such taxes; which notice shall be posted up and advertised, as aforesaid, at least three weeks prior to the time specified for meeting in the precinct.

(472.) SEC. XII. If any person shall fail to pay the taxes charged against him, on or before the first day of March next, after the publication of said notices, the collector may distrain his personal property, and proceed to sell the same as prescribed by this act; Provided, That if there be danger of loss by the removal or insolvency of any person owing taxes, the collector may distrain and sell property at any time after receiving the tax books.

(473.) SEC. XIII. If any person owing taxes, and being a resident, shall fail or neglect to pay his taxes in the precinct at the time appointed by the collector, or at the office of said collector, before the first day of March, annually, he shall pay to the said collector a fee of fifty cents, in addition to the amount of his tax; and if any such person shall fail or neglect to pay the amount of his taxes and the fee aforesaid, the collector may levy upon, remove and sell a sufficient amount of the personal property of said person to pay the taxes and costs of sale, and all legal and proper charges for removing and taking care of the said property; and if said property shall sell for more than the amount of taxes and costs, the excess shall be paid, on demand, to the owner of the property: Provided, That the fee of fifty cents mentioned in this section, shall not be charged in any case until after the expiration of one month after the meeting in the precinct.

(474.) SEC. XIV. In levying on and selling property for taxes, the collector shall be governed by the same rules, and be entitled to the same fees, as constables are for like services on executions; but in no case shall any collector charge mileage unless he is compelled to distrain property.

(475.) SEC. XV. On or before the first day of June, annually, the collector shall make out and file with the clerk of the county court, a statement in writing, setting forth the name of the person or persons charged with taxes on personal property, which he has been unable to collect, by reason of the insolvency or removal of such person, or in consequence of an error or errors in the assessment, or in the list furnished him; the cause of error, whether insolvent or removed, and the value of the property assessed, and the amount of tax due by said person; which list shall be made out in the form and according to the instructions that may be furnished, and the truth thereof shall be verified by the oath of such collector. Said list shall be laid before the county court at their June term, and if approved by said court, they shall make an order allowing said collector abatement therefor, and the clerk shall certify the value of the property upon which the taxes are so abated, and the amount of State tax charged thereon, to the auditor of public accounts, who shall allow the collector credit for the amount so certified: Provided, That if the auditor shall have reason to believe that the amount stated in the said certificate is not correct, or that the allowance was illegally made, he shall return the same for correction. If there be no court held at the June term, then the clerk shall certify the value of property and the amount of the State tax charged on the list of abatements filed by the collector, to the auditor, who shall allow the collector credit for the same, subject to the further action of the court, and said court shall examine and act upon the said list at their first term thereafter, and their action shall be certified by the clerk to the auditor, who shall adjust the account of the collector, as provided for in this act.

(476.) SEC. XVI. The county courts of the several counties in this State shall have original jurisdiction of suits for taxes due on real property whether such courts be sitting for the transaction of county or probate business.

(477.) SEC. XVII. Personal property shall be liable for taxes levied on real property, and real property shall be liable for taxes levied on personal property; but the tax on personal property shall not be charged against real property, except in cases of removals, or where said tax cannot be made out of the personal property; but the collector may in all cases sell personal property for taxes due on real property.

(478.) SEC. XVIII. If the taxes on any town or city lot or lots shall remain unpaid on the third Monday in April next after said taxes become due, the collector shall advertise, obtain judgment and sell such lots in like manner as is provided for by this act for advertising, obtaining judgment and selling delinquent lands. And if any such lots be forfeited to the State, as is provided for in the case of delinquent lands, the clerk shall certify to the auditor the amount of State tax charged on the lots so forfeited, and the auditor shall allow the collector credit therefor, and charge the same to the collector for the following year. The county court shall allow the collector credit for the county tax and printer's fees on the lots forfeited to the State. Town and city lots shall be sold annually, in the month of May next after the taxes become due, or as soon thereafter as practicable.

(479.) SEC. XIX. If the taxes on any tract or parcel of land, other than town or city lots, shall remain unpaid on the first day of May next after such taxes become due, said collector shall make out and file with the clerk of the county court a true and correct list of said lands, setting forth the name of the owner, or person in whose name the said property is taxed, a description of the property, the value of each tract or parcel, and the amount of taxes charged thereon, together with the aggregate value and amount of tax due on such list; and he shall attach to and file with said list an affidavit, which shall be in the following form, to wit:

"I, A. B., collector (or deputy collector, as the case may be,) in and for the county of _____, do solemnly swear that the list to which this affidavit is attached, is true and correct, and that the taxes thereon, as set forth in said list, are unpaid, and that I have used due diligence to collect said taxes, and that the aggregate amount therein stated remains due and unpaid, as I verily believe."

Said list shall be examined by the county clerk, and all errors therein corrected; and the collector shall be allowed credit in his settlement for the amount of county tax, including road, school, and other special county tax due thereon. The clerk of the county court shall, within ten days after the filing of said list, make out a true and correct copy thereof, in manner and form as may be required by the auditor of public accounts, and shall forward the same to said auditor, to be filed in his office.

(480.) SEC. XX. If there be no court held at the proper time for settling and adjusting the accounts of the collector, it shall be the duty of the collector to file the lists with the clerk of the county court, who shall examine said lists and correct the same, in like manner as the county court is required to do. He shall make an accurate computation of the value of the property and the amount of the delinquent tax returned, for which the collector should have credit, and he shall forward the lists and statements required by this act within ten days from the time fixed by law for the commencement of such term of the said court; and in all such cases the county court shall, at their first term thereafter, examine such settlement, and, if they find it to be correct, they shall enter an order to that effect; but if they find that any omission or error has been made, they shall cause the same to be corrected, and a correct statement of the facts in the case forwarded to the auditor, who shall correct and adjust the accounts accordingly: Provided, That the collector shall make out, for his own use, correct copies of the list of delinquent lands and delinquent town lots filed by him with the clerk, and shall return the tax books to the clerk at the time of making settlement, to be filed and preserved in the office of said clerk. Said copies or lists shall be carefully compared and corrected, in like manner as the lists made out for the auditor's office, the correctness of which shall be certified to by the clerk; which list, when certified to as aforesaid, shall be a sufficient authority for the collector to collect the taxes due thereon: Provided, That the collector shall file with the clerk, at the time of his settlement, a statement under oath, showing the amount of taxes collected by him on the delinquent land list during the month of May, and the clerk shall report the amount of State taxes so collected to the auditor, with the statement of settlement.

(481.) SEC. XXI. The clerk of the county court shall make out and deliver to the collector, on or before the fifteenth day of June, annually, the statements, certificates and lists appertaining to the settlement of the accounts of such collector; which statement, certificates and lists shall be made out in proper form, under seal of said court, securely enveloped and sealed. The collector shall deliver the package received from the clerk as aforesaid, at the office of the auditor, and make a final settlement of his accounts, and pay the amount due the State into the State treasury, on or before the first day of June next after receiving the tax books. At the time of making the settlement, the clerk shall deliver to the collector a memorandum showing the net amount collected, as per said settlement; and if any clerk shall neglect or refuse to make out and deliver the statements, certificates and lists as required by this act, on demand of the collector, he shall be liable for all damages sustained by such collector, or his securities, by reason of such neglect or refusal.

(482.) SEC. XXII. If any collector shall refuse, fail or neglect to make settlement and pay the full amount due from him to the State into the State treasury, as is or may hereafter be required by law, it shall be the duty of the auditor of public accounts, and he is hereby authorized and required, to issue a warrant, under his hand and seal of office, directed to the coroner of the proper county, (if there be no coroner, then to some suitable person, appointed by said auditor as especial agent for that purpose,) commanding him to levy and collect such sums as shall remain due from such collector, and pay the same into the State treasury, as required by law. Said auditor shall attach to every such warrant a correct statement of the account of such collector, as charged on the books in his said office. The warrant aforesaid shall have the same force and effect as executions issued by the circuit courts.

(483.) SEC. XXIII. The coroner or agent to whom such warrant shall be directed, shall immediately cause the same to be executed, and the money collected out of the goods and chattels, lands and tenements of such collector, and make return of such warrant to the said auditor, and pay the amount collected, after deducting his commissions and fees, into the State treasury, within forty days from the issuing of such warrant: Provided, That if any warrant issued by the auditor shall be lost or destroyed, the auditor shall issue a duplicate warrant, bearing date at the time of issuing the same. The coroner or agent collecting money on any warrant issued as aforesaid, shall be allowed the same mileage that would have been allowed to the collector, had he paid over the funds as is required by law, and such fees as is allowed by law to sheriffs for serving executions, advertising property, &c.; which fees shall be charged and collected in like manner as fees on executions are charged and collected.

(484.) SEC. XXIV. The coroner or agent to whom any warrant shall be issued in pursuance of this act, shall indorse thereon the facts in the case, and if it shall appear that the whole or any part of the sum due remains unpaid, and that the collector has no goods and chattels, land or tenements in his county, out of which to make the amount remaining due, or any part thereof, the auditor shall cause suit to be commenced on the bond of such collector, at the first term of the supreme court held at the seat of government, or of the Sangamon county circuit court, thereafter.

(485.) SEC. XXV. In all cases where special agents are appointed, as provided for in the foregoing sections, the auditor shall require such agents to file, with the clerk of the county court of the proper county, a bond, with one or more securities, to be approved by the county judge, in a penal sum of at least double the amount to be collected, and made payable to the people of the State of Illinois, and conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties required of him by this act. And if any coroner shall neglect or refuse to comply with the requirements of this act, he shall be liable, on his official bond, for all damages caused by such refusal or neglect; and if any coroner shall knowingly make a false return on any warrant issued by the auditor as aforesaid, he shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and shall be punished accordingly. Agents appointed to execute any warrant issued by the auditor as provided for by this act, who may file bond and accept such appointment, shall be liable to like penalties as the coroner. And if any coroner or agent shall collect moneys due the State, and fail or neglect to pay the same into the State treasury as required by law, he shall pay, for the use of the State, ten per cent. per month damages, from the time he should have paid over said money, until paid: Provided, That in case of sickness, or other reasonable excuse, to be verified by the oath of the person so failing to pay, and the payment being made within a reasonable time, the auditor may remit such damages. But if such coroner or agent shall apply or use any funds collected by him and belonging to the State for his own benefit, or the benefit of any other person, or in any other way or manner than is provided for by law, such coroner or agent shall be deemed guilty of embezzlement, and on conviction thereof shall be punished accordingly.

(486.) SEC. XXVI. The auditor of public accounts shall file the list of delinquent lands upon which the taxes remain due and unpaid, and shall add to the amount of tax charged on each tract, ten cents, to be collected and paid into the State treasury. Any person desiring to pay the taxes due on said lands, may pay the same into the State treasury at any time before the first day of August next, after the said taxes become due. If the taxes on any such lands shall remain due and unpaid after the first day of August aforesaid, the auditor shall add fifty per cent. on the amount of taxes due on each tract to said taxes, and the aggregate thereof shall be charged and collected. Any person may redeem said lands by paying the amount charged as aforesaid into the State treasury, at any time before the first day of November thereafter.

(487.) SEC. XXVII. On the first day of November, annually, or as soon thereafter as practicable, the auditor of public accounts shall make out and transmit by mail to the clerk of the county court, to be filed in the office of said clerk, a correct list of all the lands which had been returned to him as delinquent, and upon which the taxes remained unpaid on the first day of November.

(488.) SEC. XXVIII. The collector shall add fifty per cent., on the taxes remaining due on the first day of June, to the tax charged on each tract of land, and the aggregate thereof shall be collected and paid over to the State and county, according to the rate of taxation for that year. Any person desiring to redeem or pay the taxes on such lands in the county after the first day of June, may do so by paying the amount, charged as above set forth, to the collector, at any time before the first day of December thereafter. When said collector shall receive the tax on any tract of land or town lot, subsequent to the first day of May aforesaid, he shall set forth the amount so received opposite the tract or lot so redeemed, in a column provided for that purpose, and shall note the date of such payment opposite such tract or lot on the list of delinquent lands and lots aforesaid, and shall file said lists with the clerk, on or before the first day of December aforesaid.

(489.) SEC. XXIX. The clerk shall carefully compare the delinquent list returned by the auditor with the list returned by the collector, and if there be any lands or lots upon which the taxes have not been paid, he shall add the amount due thereon to the tax due on such lands and lots for the next succeeding year, and shall make out a true and correct list of such lands and lots, which shall be delivered to the collector with the tax books of the current year, or as soon thereafter as practicable; but in all cases such lists shall be delivered prior to the time of meeting in the precinct, and the said collector shall place said lists in some conspicuous place at the house where he may be collecting, during the time he may remain at that precinct, so that each person may examine the same, and shall collect the taxes thereon by sale or otherwise.

(490.) SEC. XXX. When any person, owning lands in any county in this State, shall fail to pay the taxes assessed thereon, as provided for in the foregoing sections, on or before the first day of March next after the list is returned by the auditor, it shall be the duty of the collector to publish an advertisement in some newspaper published in his county, if any such there be, and if there be no such paper printed in his county, then in the nearest newspaper in this State, which advertisement shall be once published at least four weeks previous to the term of the county court at which judgment is prayed; and said advertisement shall contain a list of the delinquent lands upon which the taxes remain due and unpaid, the names of owners, if known, the amount due thereon, and the year or years for which the same are due; and shall give notice that he will apply to the county court, at the — term thereof, for judgment against said lands for said taxes, interest and costs, and for an order to sell said lands for the satisfaction thereof; and shall also give notice that, on the first Monday next succeeding the day fixed by law for the commencement of the said term of the said county court, all the lands for sale of which an order shall be made, will be exposed to public sale at the place of holding court in said county, for the amount of taxes, interest and costs due thereon; and the advertisement published according to the provisions of this section, shall be deemed and taken to be sufficient and legal notice both of the intended application of the collector to the county court for judgment, and also of the sale of lands under the order of said court: Provided, That if the publisher of such paper shall be unable or unwilling to publish said list and notice accurately and properly, the collector shall select some other newspaper, having due regard to the circulation of such paper.

(491.) SEC. XXXI. Hereafter, no purchaser of any land or town lot at any sale of lands or town lots for taxes, due either to the State or any county or incorporated town or city within the same, or at any sale for taxes or levies authorized by the laws of this State, shall be entitled to a deed for the lands or town lots so purchased, until he or she shall have complied with the following conditions, to wit: Such purchaser shall serve, or cause to be served, a written notice of such purchase, on every person in possession of such land or town lot, at least three months before the expiration of the time of redemption on such sale; in which notice he shall state when he purchased the land or town lot, the description of the land or lot he has purchased, and when the time of redemption will expire. In like manner he shall serve on the person or persons in whose name or names such land or lot is taxed, a similar written notice, if such person or persons shall reside in the county where such land or lot shall be situated; and in the event that the person or persons in whose name or names the land or lot is taxed, do not reside in the county, such purchaser shall publish such notice in some newspaper printed in such county, and if no newspaper is printed in the county, then in the nearest newspaper that is published in this State to the county in which such lot or land is situated; which notice shall be inserted three times, the last time not less than three months before the time of redemption shall expire. Every such purchaser, by himself or agent,

The clerk of the county court shall, before the day of sale, make a correct record of the lands and town lots against which judgment is rendered in any suit, for taxes due thereon, and which shall set forth the name of the owner, if known, the description of the property, and the amount due on each tract or lot, in the same order as said property may be set forth in the judgment-book, and shall attach thereto a correct copy of the order of the court, and his certificate of the truth of such record; which record, so attested, shall hereafter constitute the process on which all real property shall be sold for taxes, as well as the sales of such property. When any tract of land or town lot shall be sold, it shall be the duty of the clerk to enter on the record aforesaid the quantity sold and the name of the purchaser opposite such tract or lot, in the blank columns provided for that purpose, and when any such property shall be redeemed from sale, the clerk shall enter the name of the person redeeming, the date and amount of redemption, in the proper columns. Said book shall be so ruled that there shall be suitable blank columns for entering the quantity or portion of each tract or lot that may be sold, the name of the purchaser, and such other columns as may be deemed necessary.

(498.) SEC. XXXVIII. On the first day of the term at which judgment on delinquent lands and town lots is prayed, it shall be the duty of the collector to report to the clerk a list of all the lands and town lots upon which taxes have been paid, if any, from the filing of the list mentioned in the foregoing section up to that time; and the clerk shall note the fact opposite each tract upon which taxes have been paid. The collector, assisted by the clerk, shall compare and correct said list, and shall make and subscribe an affidavit, which shall be, as near as may be, in the following form:

"I, ———, collector of the county of ———, do solemnly swear, (or affirm, as the case may be,) that the foregoing is a true and correct record of the delinquent lands and town lots within the county of ———, upon which I have been unable to collect the taxes as required by law for the year or years therein set forth; that said taxes now remain due and unpaid, as I verily believe."

Said affidavit shall be entered on the record at the bottom of the list, and signed by the collector; the oath may be administered by the judge, clerk, or any justice of the peace, who shall attest the same.

(499.) SEC. XXXIX. The court shall examine said list, and if defense or objection be offered by any person interested in any of said lands or lots to the entry of judgment against the same, the court shall hear and determine the matter in a summary manner, without pleadings, and shall pronounce judgment as the right of the case may be, and shall direct the clerk to make out and enter an order for the sale of such real property, which shall be substantially in the following form:

"WHEREAS, due notice has been given of the intended application for a judgment against said lands, and no owner hath appeared to make defense or show cause why judgment should not be entered against the said lands for taxes, interest and costs due and unpaid thereon for the year or years herein set forth, therefore it is considered by the court that judgment be and is hereby entered against the aforesaid tract or tracts of land, or parts of tracts (as the case may be,) in favor of the State of Illinois, for the sum annexed to each tract or parcel of land, being the amount of taxes, interest and costs due severally thereon; and it is ordered by the court that the said several tracts of land, or so much thereof as shall be sufficient of each of them to satisfy the amount of taxes, interest and costs annexed to them severally, be sold as the law directs."

(500.) SEC. XL. Said order shall be signed by the judge, and shall have the same effect as judgments and orders made by the circuit court. Persons aggrieved by any decisions of the county court in such cases, shall have the right of appeal to the circuit court, by giving bond and security, payable to the people of the State of Illinois, as required in cases of appeals from justices of the peace.

(501.) SEC. XLI. The clerk of said court shall, within five days after any sale for taxes, make out and deliver to the collector a transcript of sales for taxes, which shall be written on foolscap paper, made up and stitched in book form, suitable for binding. Said collector shall deliver said transcript to the auditor at the time that he is required to make settlement for the State tax.

(502.) SEC. XLII. Every tract of land or town lot offered at public sale for the taxes due thereon, and not sold for want of bidders, shall be and the same is hereby declared to be forfeited to the State of Illinois.

(503.) SEC. XLIII. If any lands or town lots shall be forfeited to the State for taxes, it shall be the duty of the clerk of the county court to certify to the auditor of public accounts the assessed value thereof, and the amount of State tax and the amount of county tax charged thereon; and the auditor shall credit the collector with the amount of State tax due on said property, and the court shall allow him credit for the printer's fees and county tax thereon.

(504.) SEC. XLIV. If any person shall desire to redeem any tract of land or town lot forfeited to the State, he shall apply to the clerk of the county court, who shall issue his order to the collector, directing him to receive from such person the amount due on said tract or lot, particularly describing the property and setting forth the amount due, including the printer's fee; and upon presentation of said order to the collector, he shall receive said amount and give the person duplicate receipts therefor, setting forth a proper description of the property and the amount received; one of which shall be countersigned by the clerk, and when so countersigned shall be evidence of the redemption of the property therein described, but no such receipt shall be valid until it is countersigned by the clerk; the other receipt shall be filed by the clerk in his office, and said clerk shall cancel the sale of the property so redeemed on the books in his office, and charge the amount of the redemption money to the collector.

(505.) SEC. XLV. At the December term of the county court, annually, it shall be the duty of said court to examine the account of the said collector, and cause the amount of State tax and interest collected on such forfeited property to be certified to the auditor of public accounts, who shall charge the same to the collector: Provided, That if the collector who received said redemption money shall be succeeded in office, he shall pay the amount in his hands over to his successor, who shall pay said amount into the State treasury when he settles for the taxes of the current year.

(506.) SEC. XLVI. The amount due on lands and lots, and remaining unpaid on the first day of November, shall be added to the tax of the current year, and the amount thereof shall be reported against the collector, with the amount of the assessment for said year; said collector shall collect and pay over the said amount in like manner as other taxes, and he is hereby authorized to advertise and sell said property in the same manner as if said property had been forfeited to the State. Said additions and sales shall be continued from year to year until the taxes on said property are paid, by sale or otherwise: Provided, That at the regular sale in the year 1855, and every five years thereafter, all the property previously forfeited and remaining unredeemed, shall be sold to the highest bidder, but not for a greater sum than is due thereon, including costs, &c., and the former sales of such property as will not sell shall be canceled: Provided, That if any person shall offer to pay the taxes, interest and costs due on any tract or lot forfeited as aforesaid for a less quantity than the whole tract or lot, then such property shall be sold to the person offering to pay the amount due thereon, for the least quantity or part thereof.

(507.) SEC. XLVII. Real property sold under the provisions of this act may be redeemed at any time before the expiration of two years from the date of sale, by the payment in specie, to the clerk of the county court of the proper county, of double the amount for which the same was sold, and all taxes accruing after such sale, with ten per cent. interest thereon from the day of sale, unless such subsequent tax has been paid by the person for whose benefit the redemption is made; which fact may be shown by the collector's receipt: Provided, That if the real property of any minor heir, feme covert or lunatic, be sold for taxes, the same may be redeemed at any time within one year after such disability be removed, upon the terms specified in this section; which redemption may be made by their guardians or legal representatives.

(508.) SEC. XLVIII. The securities on any bond given in pursuance of this act, or either of them, may at any time after the execution of said bond, if they, or either of them, have good reason to believe that the officer in said bond is about to fail to comply with the conditions thereof, file with the clerk of the county court, a notice in writing, verified by the oath of the person filing such notice, setting forth the facts in the case, and asking to be released from any further liability on said bond; whereupon the clerk with whom such notice shall be filed, shall notify the said officer to appear before the court and give additional security, equal to the security about to be released, to be approved by the judge of the county court, which notice may be served by the said judge or clerk, or by any person appointed by them, or either of them. If the officer so notified shall not appear and give additional security within two days from the time he may be so notified, the county court may remove him from office; and in all such cases, said court shall appoint some suitable person to fill the vacancy occasioned by such removal, who shall execute bond, qualify and perform the duties required of such officer: Provided, That if the securities on any collector's bond, or either of them, shall be satisfied that such collector is making improper use of the funds collected by him, or has absconded, or is about to abscond, from this State, whereby said securities may become liable to pay any sum or sums of money, it shall be lawful for said security to sue out a writ of attachment against the goods and chattels of such collector, in like manner as he would be authorized to do if said collector was personally indebted to such security; and the money collected on any such attachment, shall be paid into the treasury by the officer collecting the same, in like manner as if paid over by the collector.

(509.) SEC. XLIX. If any real property shall be double assessed, or assessed before it become taxable, and the taxes so erroneously assessed shall have been paid, the county court, on application of the person paying the same, or his agent, and being satisfied of the facts in the case, shall cause said taxes, together with the costs thereon, to be refunded pro rata by the State and county; and if any collector shall receive the taxes properly due on any real property, and shall afterwards sell such property for said taxes, he shall refund to the purchaser thereof, if application be made within two years from the date of said sale, double the amount of purchase money. Any officer neglecting or refusing to pay as required by this section, shall be liable to the county in an action of debt, in any court having jurisdiction of the amount of said debt: Provided, That the county and the State shall refund in case of erroneous sales heretofore made, as provided for by the laws in force at the time of such sales.

(510.) SEC. L. If any collector shall have paid, or may hereafter pay into the State treasury, any greater sum or sums of money than is or may be legally and justly due from such collector, after deducting abatements and commissions, the auditor shall issue his warrant for the amount so overpaid, which shall be paid out of the fund or funds so overpaid; and if any one of the funds shall have been or shall hereafter be overpaid, the auditor may issue his warrant for the amount so overpaid, and apply the same to the payment of any other fund due from such collector.

(511.) SEC. LI. The county courts shall have power to levy a tax in their respective counties for county purposes, but shall, in no case, exceed the amount of four mills on each dollar's worth of taxable property, unless specially authorized by law; and said county tax shall be levied at the September term of said court, or as soon thereafter as practicable, and collected with the State revenue. The same lien created to secure the State tax, and the provisions made for the collection thereof, shall also exist and apply to the county revenue.

(512.) SEC. LII. Suits commenced by the auditor, as provided for in this act, shall not abate for the want of service on one or more of the defendants, or in consequence of the death of one or more of said defendants, but judgment may be rendered against such of said defendants as may have been legally notified: Provided, That suits may be prosecuted against the defendants not included in said judgment, at any subsequent term of said court: Provided further, That the provisions of this section shall not be so construed as to change the conditions of any bond executed prior to the passage of this act on suits in favor of the State, and against collectors or other persons indebted to the State. The State shall pay like fees as are or may be allowed by law in suits between individuals, and in all cases when the State is plaintiff, she shall advance and pay such fees, in like manner as individuals are required to advance and pay fees. And when the State becomes the purchaser of real property sold on execution for any debt due the said State, the officer selling such real estate shall be entitled to like commissions as he would have been entitled to had such property been purchased by individuals. Said fees and commissions to be paid on the warrant of the auditor, out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated; and when such fees are collected, they shall be paid into the State treasury. So much of this section as relates to fees, shall apply to suits heretofore prosecuted, as well as to suits that may hereafter be commenced and prosecuted.

(513.) SEC. LIII. The assessment shall be a lien on the personal property of all persons owing taxes from and after the time that the tax books are received by the collector, for the State and county tax due thereon, and no sale or transfer of such property shall affect the claim of the State or county, but the said property may be seized by the collector wherever found, and removed, if necessary, and sold to discharge the taxes of the person owing the same at the time of such assessment, together with the costs and charges of collection.

(514.) SEC. LIV. In case any person shall refuse or neglect to pay his or her taxes when demanded, or within ten days thereafter, it shall be the duty of the collector to levy the same, together with the costs and charges that may accrue, by distress and sale of the personal property of such person, wherever the same may be found in the county.

(515.) SEC. LV. The collector shall give notice of the time and place of sale, the property to be sold, and the name of the delinquent, at least ten days previous to the day of sale, by advertisements to be posted up in at least three public places in the precinct where such sale is made.

(516.) SEC. LVI. Such sale shall be by public auction, and if practicable, no more property shall be sold than sufficient to pay the tax, costs and charges due; but if sold for more than the amount necessary to pay the debt, the surplus shall be returned to the owner of such property.

(517.) SEC. LVII. The power to levy and collect shall continue in the collector after his return and final settlement with the auditor, until the taxes shall be paid. If personal property of any person who may have been returned by the collector as being insolvent or removed, be afterwards found in the county, the clerk of the county court shall have power to issue process to any sheriff or constable, for the collection of the taxes due by such person, and when collected, such taxes shall be paid over to the State and county, in like manner as if collected by the collector.

(518.) SEC. LVIII. Whenever the taxes on the same property shall have been paid more than once, for the same year, by different claimants, the collector shall make a return to the clerk of the county court of all such surplus taxes so received by him, together with the names of the several claimants thus paying; and the clerk shall make a record of all such cases, and transmit a copy thereof to the auditor of public accounts, who shall charge such collector with the portion of such surplus taxes belonging to the State; but such surplus tax shall in no case be refunded.

(519.) SEC. LIX. Whenever any person shall pay the taxes charged against him, the collector shall enter such payment in his list, and give the person paying the same a receipt, specifying the name of the person for whom paid, the amount paid, what year paid for, and the property on which the same was assessed, according to its description on the assessment list.

(520.) SEC. LX. The collector shall, on the first Monday in every month, during the time of collecting the taxes, report to the county treasurer, in writing, the amount of county tax received by him during the preceding month, what amount of said tax was received in money and what amount in county orders and jury certificates, and shall pay the same over to said treasurer, who shall give him a receipt therefor. The treasurer shall cancel the orders and certificates returned as aforesaid, and at the next term of the county court thereafter, he shall present said reports, together with the orders and certificates; said court shall examine and see that the orders and certificates have been properly canceled on the books, and cause them to be destroyed by burning.

(521.) SEC. LXI. The collector shall attend at the court-house in his county, on the day specified in the notice for the sale of real estate for taxes, and then and there, between the hours of ten o'clock in the forenoon and six o'clock in the afternoon, proceed to offer for sale, separately, each tract of land and town lot in the said list on which the taxes and costs have not been paid.

(522.) SEC. LXII. The person at such sale offering to pay the taxes and costs charged on each tract or lot, for the least quantity thereof, shall be the purchaser of such quantity, which shall be taken from the east side of such tract or lot.

(523.) SEC. LXIII. The collector shall continue such sale from day to day, until all the tracts of land or town lots contained in the delinquent list, on which taxes and costs remain unpaid, shall be sold or offered for sale.

(524.) SEC. LXIV. The person purchasing any tract of land or town lot, or any part thereof, shall forthwith pay to the collector the amount of taxes and costs charged on said tract or lot, and on failure so to do, the said land or lot shall be again offered for sale in the same manner as if no such sale had been made; and in no case shall the sale be closed until payment is made.

(525.) SEC. LXV. The collector shall obtain a copy of the advertisement of the delinquent lands and lots, together with a certificate of the due publication thereof, from the printer or publisher of the newspaper in which the same shall have been published, and shall file the same with the clerk of the county court, on or before the first day of the term at which judgment is prayed.

(526.) SEC. LXVI. In all advertisements for the sale of lands for taxes, and in entries required to be made by the clerk of the court, or other officer, letters and figures may be used, as they have heretofore been used, to denote townships, ranges, sections, parts of sections, the year for which the taxes were due, and the amount of taxes, interest and costs.

(527.) SEC. LXVII. The clerk shall make out and deliver to the purchaser of any lands or lots sold for the payment of taxes as aforesaid, a certificate of purchase, to be countersigned by the collector, describing the land or the lot sold as the same was described in the delinquent list, the amount of taxes and costs for which the same was sold, and that payment has been made therefor. If any person shall become the purchaser of more than one tract of land or lot, he may have the whole included in one certificate.

(528.) SEC. LXVIII. Such certificate of purchase shall be assignable by indorsement, and an assignment thereof shall vest in the assignee or his legal representatives, all the right and title of the original purchaser.

(529.) SEC. LXIX. No sale of real estate for taxes shall be considered invalid on account of the same having been charged in any other name than that of the rightful owner, if the said real estate be in other respects sufficiently described, and the taxes thereon were due and unpaid at the time of such sale.

(530.) SEC. LXX. The books and records belonging to the office of the clerk of the county court, or copies thereof, certified by said clerk, shall be deemed sufficient evidence to prove the sale of any land for taxes, the redemption of the same, or payment of taxes thereon.

(531.) SEC. LXXI. Whenever it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the clerk of the county court, before the execution of a deed for lands or lots sold for taxes, or if the deed be returned by the purchaser, that any tract or lot was sold which was not subject to be taxed, or upon which taxes had been paid previous to the sale, he shall make an entry opposite to such tracts or lots on the list of sales, that the same was erroneously sold, and such entry shall be evidence of the fact therein stated.

(532.) SEC. LXXII. The receipt of the redemption money of any tract of land or lot, by any purchaser, shall operate as a release of all claim to such tract or lot, under or by virtue of the purchase.

(533.) SEC. LXXIII. If any purchaser of lands sold for taxes shall suffer the same to be again sold for taxes before the expiration of three years from the date of his or her purchase, such purchaser shall not be entitled to a deed for the land until the expiration of two years from the date of the second sale; during which time the land shall be subject to redemption upon the terms and conditions prescribed in this act, but the person redeeming shall only be required to pay, for the use of such first purchaser, the amount paid by him, and double the amount paid by the second purchaser.

(534.) SEC. LXXIV. If any collector, by himself or deputy, shall fail to attend any sale of lands advertised according to the provisions of this act, and make sale thereof as required by law, he shall be liable to pay into the State and county treasury the amount of taxes and costs due upon the lands and lots so advertised, in the same manner as if they had been sold: Provided, That he may afterwards advertise and sell such delinquent property to reimburse himself for the amount advanced by him; but at no such sale shall there be any property forfeited to the State. If the county clerk shall fail to attend, either by himself or deputy, any sale of real estate for taxes, he shall advance and pay the taxes due on the delinquent list to the collector; and if he shall neglect or refuse to pay such tax on demand, the collector shall proceed against him on his official bond, in any court having jurisdiction of the amount due.

(535.) SEC. LXXV. If any county treasurer shall fail to make return, fail to make settlement, or fail to pay over all money with which he may stand charged as treasurer, the county court may remove him from office, and appoint a successor; and it shall be the duty of the clerk of the county court to prosecute suit against such treasurer and his securities, which may be done either in the county court or circuit court of the county in which such default is made. The said court may compel the production of all books, papers and vouchers pertaining to the office of such treasurer, to be used as evidence, if it shall appear to the court that any such books, papers or vouchers are or may be material evidence in the case.

(536.) SEC. LXXVI. No collector or treasurer shall, either directly or indirectly, be permitted to take, buy, shave or receive, by himself or agent, any auditor's warrant or warrants, or any county order or jury certificate, at less than the full amount due thereon.

(537.) SEC. LXXVII. On the first day of January next after taking the census in the State, or as soon thereafter as the returns of said census may be made to the office of the secretary of State, it shall be the duty of said secretary to make out and deliver to the auditor, a correct statement of the number of white children in each county in this State, twenty years of age or under; the truth of said certificate shall be certified to by said secretary, and thereupon, under the supervision of the commissioners of the school fund, the auditor shall make a dividend to each county, of the interest due upon the school, college and seminary fund, in proportion to the number of persons in each, of the age aforesaid; and dividends shall be made according to the proportion ascertained to be due to each county annually thereafter, until another census shall have been taken, and then appointments shall be made and continued as aforesaid, according to the last census.

(538.) SEC. LXXVIII. The auditor shall, within five days after ascertaining the amount due, as required in the foregoing section, make out and forward by mail to the school commissioner of each county, an order on the collector for the amount due said county: Provided, That if the amount of interest due to any county shall exceed the amount of revenue, State tax, due from such county, then the auditor shall issue an order as aforesaid for the amount of revenue that he believes, from the returns of the assessment for that year, will be collected, and shall issue and forward with the order a warrant on the treasurer for the balance of interest that may be due to such county, which shall be paid out of any moneys not otherwise appropriated.

(539.) SEC. LXXIX. On or before the first day of April, annually, or so soon thereafter as the school commissioner shall present the order of the auditor, the collector shall pay to said commissioner the amount due thereon: Provided, That if the said collector has not collected a sufficient amount of State revenue to pay said order, and shall make oath of that fact, then he shall pay the amount that he has collected, and shall pay the remainder on or before the fifteenth day of June next thereafter; but if any collector shall refuse to pay the interest on the school fund as required by this section, and shall refuse to make oath as aforesaid, it shall be competent for the commissioner to proceed against such collector and his securities, in an action of debt in the county court; which court is hereby vested with full power and authority to hear and determine all such suits, render judgment and issue executions. Said collector shall be liable to pay the full amount stated in the order, notwithstanding he may not have collected that amount; and if any collector shall pay a portion of the amount due as aforesaid, and shall fail to pay the remainder as required by this section, the commissioner shall proceed against him as above provided for.

(540.) SEC. LXXX. Upon ascertaining the amount due to the State from any collector, or other person, the auditor shall give such person a statement of the amount to be paid, and upon the presentation of such statement to the treasurer, and the payment of the sum stated to be due, the treasurer shall give duplicate receipts therefor, one of which shall be filed in the auditor's office and entered in a book to be kept for that purpose, and the other shall be countersigned by the auditor and delivered to the person making the payment; and no payment shall be considered as having been made until the treasurer's receipt shall be countersigned by the auditor as aforesaid. When the list of delinquent lands is returned by the auditor for sale, he shall certify to the clerk the amount of the county's proportion of the tax paid into the State treasury, and the amount so certified shall be paid into the county treasury, out of the tax due from the collector to the State.

(541.) SEC. LXXXI. The auditor of public accounts shall, as soon as practicable after the passage of this act, prepare and transmit to the several county clerks all such forms and instructions as he shall deem necessary to carry into effect its provisions. Said auditor shall cause to be printed, with the forms and instructions required by this section, a true and correct copy of this act, and shall forward a sufficient number thereof, for the use of the several county officers, to the clerk of the county court of each county, who shall deliver the same to the proper officers. The expenses of the printing required by this section, shall be paid for as other printing ordered by this General Assembly is paid for.

(542.) SEC. LXXXII. There shall be allowed and paid for services rendered in pursuance of this act, the following fees and compensation: To clerks of county courts, for making lists of delinquent lands for the auditor's office, three cents for each tract described in said list, to be paid for out of the State treasury, which shall be in full for comparing and correcting the collector's returns of said delinquent lands to his office, as well as for making the list aforesaid, and comparing and certifying to the list for the use of the collector. For making record of delinquent lands and town lots for judgment, including the order of court, three cents for each tract, and one cent for each town lot. For making transcript of judgment for sale, three cents for each tract, and one cent for each town lot. For assisting the collector in selling lands and lots, twenty-five cents for each tract and five cents for each town lot, for which a certificate is given, to be charged and collected as costs. For making transcript of taxable real property for the assessor, two cents for each tract of land, and one-half cent for each town lot, to be paid out of the State treasury; for comparing the assessor's return with the original list of real property, extending the tax on each tract and lot, and adding up the aggregate amount of tax due thereon, two cents for each tract or subdivision, and one-half cent for each town lot; and for making copy of the assessment list for the collector, one cent for each tract and one-half cent for each town lot. For entering list of lands, furnished by the auditor, in the tract books, one cent for each tract. The same fees shall be allowed for computing the tax on each person's personal property, and for copying the same, as is allowed on town lots; all of which fees shall be paid out of the county treasury. The collector shall be allowed for making list of delinquent lands to be filed with the clerk, and adding up the amount of tax thereon, three cents for each tract, to be paid out of the State treasury. For selling lands and town lots, ten cents for each tract and three cents for each town lot sold, to be charged and collected as costs; but no costs except the printer's fees shall be charged or collected on any land or town lots forfeited to the State. Collectors shall be allowed a commission on all moneys collected, of five per cent. on the first eight thousand dollars, and three per cent. on all additional sums collected by them, to be paid by the State and county, in proportion to the amount of State and county tax collected; and the auditor shall allow said collector in his settlement, in addition to the commissions aforesaid, two dollars for every twenty miles necessary travel, in going to and returning from the seat of government, for the purpose of paying over the State tax. County treasurers shall be allowed a commission of one per cent. on all moneys, county orders and jury certificates received by them for county purposes, and one per cent. on all moneys paid out by them, but shall not be allowed any compensation for paying moneys over to a successor.

(543.) SEC. LXXXIII. If any officer shall fail or neglect to perform any of the duties required of him by this act, upon being required so to do by any person interested in the matter, he shall be liable to a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, to be recovered in an action of debt in the circuit court of the proper county, and may be removed from office, if, in the opinion of the court before whom such suit may be tried, the circumstances require such removal; and any officer who shall knowingly violate any of the provisions of this act, shall be liable to a fine of not less than — dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, to be recovered in an action of debt in any court having jurisdiction of the amount, and may be removed from office at the discretion of the court.

(544.) SEC. LXXXIV. The rate of taxation for State purposes for the year A. D. 1853, and forever thereafter, until otherwise provided by law, shall be two mills on every dollar's worth of taxable property, for the payment of the State debt, one and one-half mill on every dollar's worth of taxable property for the payment of the interest on the State debt, and one mill on every dollar's worth of taxable property, for defraying the expenses of the government.

(545.) SEC. LXXXV. This act shall apply to and be in force in the several counties not adopting the act to provide for township organization, and shall be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to amend the Revenue Laws of this State.

[Approved Feb. 12, 1853. Laws, 1853, p. 256.]

WHEREAS, doubts have arisen as to whether the sheriff or treasurer of counties that are organized under the township organization law, should execute deeds for lands sold for taxes in said counties: AND WHEREAS, deeds for lands sold for taxes in said counties have been executed sometimes by sheriff, and sometimes by county treasurer; therefore, (547.) SEC. II. In all cases where lands have heretofore been or may hereafter be sold in counties organized under the township organization law, and deeds have not been made to the purchasers thereof, such deeds shall be made by the sheriff of the proper county at the time when by law such deeds should be made.

An Act to repeal Part of Section Thirteen of an Act regulating the Collection of the Revenue.

[Approved Feb. 15, 1855. Laws, 1855, p. 35.]

vided said payment is not made previous to the first day of March, annually, be and the same is hereby repealed.

(549.) SEC. II. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to amend the Assessment and Revenue Laws.

[Approved Feb. 14, 1855. Laws, 1855, p. 35.]

(551.) SEC. II. The return of the schedule or list of taxable property belonging to any railroad company or companies, required to be made by this act, shall be made to the county clerk, instead of the assessor; and the clerk shall lay the same before the board of supervisors when they meet to equalize the assessment of property. If a majority of said board are satisfied that such return is correct, they shall assess it accordingly: but if they believe that such schedule or list does not contain a full and fair statement of the property of such company, subject to taxation in said county, made out and valued in accordance with the requirements of law, said board shall assess such property, or cause it to be assessed, in accordance with the rules prescribed for assessing such property. The schedule or list referred to in this section, shall be delivered at the office of the county clerk of the proper county on or before the first day of May in the year in which such property is required to be assessed; and if such schedule or list be not so delivered within the time specified in this section, it shall be the duty of the county clerk to obtain, as near as practicable, a correct list of the property of such company, with the valuation thereof, in each town or district in his county; which list shall be laid before the board; and said board shall take action thereon in like manner as if the return had been made by the company, and shall allow the clerk such compensation as may be right and proper for his services and expenses in obtaining such list. All property, whether owned by individuals or corporations, shall be listed with reference to the quantity on hand and owned on the first day of April instead of May: Provided, That government or other lands not previously listed shall be returned, and be subject to taxation in accordance with the fifty-sixth section of the act mentioned in the first section, of this act.

(552.) SEC. III. Every company, required to make return as aforesaid, that shall refuse or neglect to deliver to the clerk of the proper county, or to his deputy, within the time specified in the foregoing section, a correct list of their taxable property in such county, made out in accordance with the requirements of the laws of this State, shall be liable to the penalty imposed by the eighth section of the act referred to in the first section of this act.

(553.) SEC. IV. The schedule or list of the taxable property of railroad companies, shall set forth a description of all the real property owned or occupied by the company in each county, town and city through which such railroad may run; and the actual value of each lot or parcel of land, including the improvements thereon, except the track or superstructure of said road, shall be annexed to the description of such lot or parcel of land. Said list shall set forth the number of acres taken for right of way, stations or other purposes, from each tract of land through which said road may run, describing said land as near as practicable, in accordance with the surveys of the United States, giving the width of the strip or parcel of land, and its length through each tract; also the whole number of acres, and the aggregate value thereof, in said county, town and city. All of the property mentioned in this section, shall be denominated real property. The list aforesaid shall set forth the length of the main track, and the length of all side tracks and turn-outs in each county, city and town through which the road may run, with the actual value of the same, and the value of the improvements at each of the several stations, when said stations are not a part of city or town lots. The said stations and track shall be denominated "fixed and stationary personal property." The list shall contain an inventory of the rolling stock belonging to said company, with the value thereof; said rolling stock shall be denominated "personal property;" also a statement of the value of all other personal property owned by said company in each county, city and town. The length of the whole of the main track within this State, and the total value of the rolling stock, shall be set forth in said list. The rolling stock shall be listed and taxed in the several counties, towns and cities, pro rata, in proportion as the length of the main track in such county, town or city bears to the whole length of the road. All other property shall be listed and taxed in the county, town or city where the same is located or used. The description of all lands owned by any railroad company, for right of way or station purposes, other than those which are a part of a laid off town, city or village, shall be entered by the assessor on his books, as being a strip or tract of land extending on each side of the said railroad track, and embracing the same, commencing at the point where the said railroad track crosses the boundary line of said county, city or town, and extending to the point where the said track crosses the boundary line of said county, city or town, or to the point of its termination in the same, as the case may be, containing — acres, more or less, (inserting the name of the county, city or town, boundary line of the same, and number of acres,) and when advertised by any sheriff or collector to be sold for taxes, or when so sold, no other description shall be necessary. If any clerk or assessor as aforesaid, shall change the valuation of the property as aforesaid, or any of the same, that shall be returned by any railroad company, he shall give notice of such change, as provided for in section nine of "An act for the assessment of property and the collection of taxes in counties adopting the township organization law," approved February 12, 1853.

(554.) SEC. V. The county clerk shall furnish, at the expense of the county, suitable blanks for the use of the assessors, and he is hereby authorized and required to assess and enter on the list for taxation any and all property, whether real or personal, that may have been omitted in the regular assessment list; and if any such omissions be not discovered in time to be entered on the tax list of the proper year, he shall add the amount of tax due thereon to the tax of the following year. The list of taxable real estate required to be furnished for the use of the assessors, shall be made out from the collector's book, instead of the assessment list, and the town collectors shall deposit the tax lists or books furnished them by the county clerk with the county treasurer, at the time of their settlement with said treasurer; and said treasurer shall, within two months thereafter, deliver said tax books to the county clerk, who shall deposit them in his office, to be kept as part of the records of said office.

(555.) SEC. VI. Each assessor shall, at the time of taking a list of personal property in the year or years in which the real property is not required to be listed, also take a list of all real property situate in his town that shall have become subject to taxation since the last previous listing of property therein, with the value thereof, and of all new buildings or other structures of any kind, the value of which shall not have been previously added to or included in the valuation of the real property on which such structures have been erected, and shall make return thereof to the county clerk at the same time he makes return of the personal property; in which return he shall set forth a description of the real property on which each of such structures shall have been erected, the kind of structures so erected, and the true value added to such parcel of real property by the erection thereof; and the additional sum which it is believed the land on which the structure is erected would sell for at private sale, in consequence thereof, shall be considered the value of such new structure; and in case of the destruction by fire, flood, or otherwise, of any building or structure of any kind, which shall have been erected previous to the last valuation of the land or lot on which the same shall have stood, or the value of which shall have been added to any former valuation of such land or lot, the assessor shall determine, as near as practicable, how much less such property would sell for at private sale, in consequence of such destruction, and make a return thereof to the county clerk, as in this section provided. In all such cases, the clerk shall add to the former valuation of such property the amount of the additional value, and deduct from the former valuation the amount of decreased value, in accordance with the return made as aforesaid: Provided, That the board of supervisors shall have power to equalize or correct any such returns. If any tract or parcel of land shall be subdivided into town or city lots or blocks, after the previous assessment thereof, it shall be the duty of the assessor, at the time of taking a list of the personal property as aforesaid, to assess and return the value of such lots or blocks in like manner as if the land had not been assessed; and the clerk shall correct the tax list accordingly. Section forty-nine of the act mentioned in the first section of this act, is hereby repealed, provided that the town assessors shall call at the clerk's office for the lists, blanks, &c.

(556.) SEC. VII. The act entitled "An act regulating the collection of the revenue in counties adopting the township organization law," approved February 12, 1853, be so amended that the judge of the county court, county clerk and chairman of the board of supervisors, shall have power to approve of the bond required by the third section of said act, in like manner as the board of supervisors have power to approve of such bonds; which bond shall be executed before the first day of December in each and every year:

Provided, That any such bond executed after the time specified in this section, shall not be void in consequence of not having been executed within the time aforesaid. But in no case shall the county treasurer act as collector, or receive any State revenue, until after he shall have executed and filed the bond required by the aforesaid third section.

(557.) SEC. VIII. The collector may advertise the list of delinquent lands and town or city lots, upon which any taxes remain due and unpaid on the second Monday in March, at any time thereafter.

(558.) SEC. IX. The lands and lots delinquent for taxes of the year 1854, or for any previous year or years, shall be sold on the second Monday in May, 1855: Provided, That if for any cause, judgment thereon shall not be obtained at the May term of the county court, judgment may be had at any regular term of the county court thereafter, and the sale shall be on the Monday next after the first day of the term at which judgment is obtained; which sale may be continued from day to day, as is now provided for by law.

(559.) SEC. X. All lands and town or city lots upon which the taxes shall remain unpaid on the second Monday of March next, after such taxes become due, shall be considered delinquent; and all such lands and lots shall be sold on the second Monday of May next after they become delinquent, or as soon thereafter as practicable. Sections fifteen, sixteen, eighteen, nineteen, twenty, twenty-one, twenty-two, twenty-three, twenty-four and twenty-five of the act mentioned in the seventh section of this act, and all other acts or parts of acts conflicting with this act, are hereby repealed: Provided, That so much of the aforesaid sections and laws as requires fifty per cent. and costs to be charged and collected on the tax of the year 1853, remaining unpaid, shall remain in full force.

(560.) SEC. XI. The fees allowed by law for making out the list of real estate for the use of the assessors, shall be paid out of the county treasury; and the board of supervisors shall allow the clerk such reasonable compensation as may be right and just, for his services in making out and recording the abstract required to be made out and recorded, by the tenth section of the act mentioned in the seventh section of this act, and for making list of delinquent lands and lots sold for taxes, for the auditor's office, and for making settlement with the county collector, and for making certified statement of said settlement for the use of the auditor's office; all of which shall be paid out of the county treasury.

(561.) SEC. XII. Sections two, three and four of this act shall apply to the listing of the taxable property of railroad companies, and be in force in all the counties in this State, whether such counties have adopted the "Act to provide for township organization" or not: Provided, That in counties that have not adopted township organization, the return shall be made to the assessor instead of the county clerk, and said assessor shall have power, and it shall be his duty to obtain a list of such property, if such list be not furnished by the company; or if he believe the list furnished be not correct, he shall correct the same.

(562.) SEC. XIII. The act entitled "An act for the assessment of property," approved February 12, 1853, be so amended that the county clerk shall furnish, at the expense of the county, on or before the first day of April in each year, suitable blanks, books, &c., for the use of the assessor, and he is hereby authorized and required to assess and enter on the list for taxation any and all property, whether real or personal, that may have been omitted in the regular assessment list, and if any such omissions be not discovered in time to be entered on the tax list of the proper year, he shall add the amount of tax due thereon to the tax of the following year. All property, whether owned by individuals or corporations, shall be listed with reference to the quantity on hand and owned on the first day of April, instead of May: Provided, That government or other lands, not previously listed, shall be returned and be subject to taxation in accordance with the fiftieth section of the act mentioned in this section. The list of taxable real estate required to be furnished for the use of the assessors, shall be made out from the collector's book, instead of the assessment list, and shall be delivered to the assessor on or before the first day of April, in the year in which real estate is required to be listed; and the county clerk shall be paid for making said list in accordance with the provisions of section fifty-eight of the act mentioned in this section.

(563.) SEC. XIV. Each assessor shall, at the time of taking a list of the personal property, in the year or years in which the real property is not required to be listed, also take a list of all real property situate in his county, that shall have become subject to taxation since the last previous listing of property therein, with the value thereof, and of all new buildings, or other structures of any kind, the value of which shall not have been previously added to or included in the valuation of the real property on which such structures have been erected, and shall make return thereof to the county clerk, at the same time he makes return of the personal property; in which return he shall set forth a description of the real property on which each of such structures shall have been erected, the kind of structures so erected, and the true value added to such parcel of real property by the erection thereof, and the additional sum which it is believed the land on which the structure is erected would sell for at private sale, in consequence thereof, shall be considered the value of such new structure; and in case of the destruction by fire, flood or otherwise, of any building or structure of any kind which shall have been erected previous to the last valuation of the land or lot on which the same shall have stood, or the value which shall have been added to any former valuation of such land or lot, the assessor shall determine, as near as practicable, how much less such property would sell for at private sale in consequence of such destruction, and make return thereof to the county clerk, as in this section provided. In all such cases, the clerk shall add to the former valuation of such property the amount of the additional value, and deduct from the former valuation the amount of decreased value, in accordance with the return made as aforesaid. If any tract or parcel of land shall be subdivided into town or city lots or blocks, after the previous assessment thereof, it shall be the duty of the assessor, at the time of taking a list of the personal property, as aforesaid, to assess and return the value of such lots or blocks in like manner as if the land had not been assessed, and the clerk shall correct the tax lists accordingly.

(564.) SEC. XV. The act entitled "An act regulating the collection of the revenue," approved February 12, 1853, be so amended that the collector may advertise the list of delinquent lands and town or city lots at any time after the first day of April next, after the taxes thereon become due, and may obtain judgment at the May term of the county court, or at any regular term of said court thereafter; and shall sell on the Monday next following the first day of the term at which judgment is obtained. All lands and town or city lots upon which the taxes shall remain unpaid on the first day of April next after such taxes become due, shall be considered delinquent. The lands and lots delinquent for taxes of the year 1854, or any previous year or years, shall be sold in the year 1855, for such taxes, together with the damages and costs chargeable thereon.

(565.) SEC. XVI. Section nineteen, so much of section twenty as requires the collector to make out for his own use, copies of the list of delinquent lands and lots, and to file with the clerk a statement of the taxes collected by him during the month of May, and all of sections twenty-two, twenty-three, twenty-four, twenty-five, twenty-six, twenty-seven, twenty-eight and twenty-nine of the act mentioned in the fifteenth section of this act, and all other acts or parts of acts conflicting with this act, are hereby repealed: Provided, That so much of the aforesaid sections and laws as requires fifty per cent. and costs to be charged and collected on the tax of the year 1853, remaining unpaid, shall remain in full force.

(566.) SEC. XVII. The county court shall allow the clerk such reasonable compensation as may be right and just for his services in making out and recording the abstract required to be made and recorded by the tenth section of the act mentioned in the fifteenth section of this act, and for making list of delinquent lands and lots sold for taxes, for the auditor's office, and for making settlement with the county collector, and for making certified statement of said settlement for the use of the auditor's office; all of which shall be paid out of the county treasury.

(567.) SEC. XVIII. And be it further enacted, That so much of section one of an act entitled "An act to amend the act establishing the Illinois State hospital for the insane," approved February 15, 1851, and so much of an act to which it is an amendment, as authorizes the levying of any tax for the purpose of creating a "fund for the insane," and the twelfth section of an act entitled "An act to establish the Illinois Institution for the education of the blind," approved January 13, 1849, and the first section of an act entitled "An act creating a fund for the education of the deaf and dumb," approved February 15, 1851, and so much of any other act or acts as authorizes the levying of a special tax for the benefit of the institutions aforesaid, or either of them, be and the same is hereby repealed.

(568.) SEC. XIX. The taxes levied under the acts mentioned in the foregoing section for the year 1854 and prior years, when paid into the State treasury, and all such taxes now in the State treasury, shall be added to the tax levied for defraying the ordinary expenses of the State government; and the tax for defraying the expenses of the government, be and the same is hereby increased one-fifth of a mill, so that on the assessment of taxable property for the year 1855, and annually thereafter, the rate of taxation for said purpose, shall be one and one-fifth mill on each dollar's worth of taxable property; which tax, together with the taxes authorized to be levied for paying the State debt and interest thereon, shall annually hereafter be equal to forty-seven cents on every one hundred dollars' valuation of taxable property.

(569.) SEC. XX. So much of the several acts mentioned in this act, as requires a list of the non-resident property to be made separate from the resident property for the use of county treasurer or county collector, be and the same is hereby repealed, and hereafter the clerk shall include all the taxable property, whether owned by residents or non-residents, in the tax lists furnished the town collectors. All real property returned by the town collectors to the county collector as delinquent, shall be considered non-resident property, and the county collector shall proceed to collect the taxes due thereon by sale or otherwise, as provided for by law. Town collectors shall make out and deliver to the county collector, at the time of their settlement, a list of all the delinquent property aforesaid, which list shall contain a true description of said property, the name of the person to whom listed, the amount of taxes charged on each parcel of property, and such other facts relative thereto as may be set forth in the list furnished him.

(570.) SEC. XXI. The auditor shall obtain from the secretary of State, a certified copy of this act, and shall cause a sufficient number thereof to be printed and forwarded to the county clerks of the several counties, for the use of the officers of said counties.

(571.) SEC. XXII. In counties that have adopted township organization, the tax on property owned by railroad companies shall not be charged on the tax books made for the use of the town collectors, but a certified statement of such tax and property shall be delivered to the county collector, and said collector shall collect the amount of tax due from such company or companies, and pay the same over to the State treasurer and other persons authorized to receive it, in like manner as taxes due on non-resident property are required to be collected and paid over by him. If any such company shall neglect or refuse to pay any tax due by them, as provided for by law, and the collector cannot find property in his county, belonging to such company, sufficient to make the amount of tax due as aforesaid, he may, and it shall be his duty to prosecute suit therefor in any court having jurisdiction thereof in this State. In cases where judgment has heretofore or may hereafter be rendered for taxes due on real estate, and from any cause whatever the collector has failed to offer the property for sale at the time required by law, said collector may offer said property, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay taxes and costs remaining unpaid at the time of sale, at any subsequent time, by giving notice of the time and place of said sale, which notice shall be published in like manner, and for the length of time that notices for judgments and sale of such property are required to be published; and in cases of appeals in suits for delinquent taxes, when the judgment is affirmed, sale may be made at any time after the affirmation of such judgment, by giving notice as aforesaid. The fees for publishing notice as aforesaid, shall be charged and collected as other costs.

(572.) SEC. XXIII. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An act supplementary to "An act concerning the public revenue;" in force March 1, 1839. R. E. S., p. 267.

An act to amend "An act concerning the public revenue," approved Feb. 26, 1839; in force Feb. 1, 1840. R. E. S., p. 269.

An act in relation to incorporated towns and cities in this State; in force Feb. 23, 1841. R. E. S., p. 272.

An act concerning assessors; in force Feb. 26, 1841. R. E. S., p. 273.

An act to provide for the payment of interest on the public debt; in force Feb. 27, 1841. R. E. S., p. 275.

An act to authorize the appointment of assessors in certain cases; in force Feb. 27, 1841. R. E. S., p. 276.

An act in relation to the revenue of one thousand eight hundred and forty-two; in force Feb. 20, 1843. R. E. S., p. 276.

An act concerning the revenue; in force Feb. 25, 1843. R. E. S., p. 279.

An act to amend an act entitled "An act concerning the public revenue," approved Feb. 26, 1839, and an act supplemental to said act, approved March 1, 1839; in force March 6, 1843. R. E. S., p. 280.

An act to amend an act entitled "An act concerning the public revenue," approved Feb. 26, 1839, and to legalize the assessments of property in the county of La Salle, for the year 1841, and to provide a remedy where certificates of the purchaser of land for taxes have been lost; in force March 6, 1843. R. E. S., p. 290.

An act to save a portion of the revenue from being lost; in force Feb. 11, 1845. R. E. S., p. 292.

An act concerning the revenue; in force Feb. 11, 1845. R. E. S., p. 293.

DECISIONS. The act of March 27, 1819, makes no distinction between residents and non-residents. Edwards v. Beard, Breese, 41.

Indentured servants were taxable property under the territorial laws. Nance v. Howard, Breese, 183.

When property is to be taxed, the mode of levying the same is by valuation. But the legislature may, without violating the constitution, levy a poll tax, or a tax upon other objects and things than property. Sawyer v. The City of Alton, 3 S. 129; Shaw v. Dennis, 5 G. 405.

A town corporation has no power to make a collector's deed evidence of the legality of the sale, or of a compliance with the law. Fitch et al. v. Pinckard et al., 4 S. 76.

A corporation, in selling lands for taxes, must pursue its authority strictly; those claiming under such sales, must prove that all things required by law to divest the title had been done. Idem.

It is not admissible to show that an advertisement of the sale of land for taxes, was dated at a period different from that which appears in the same. Idem.

A purchaser at a tax sale, before he can give his deed in evidence, must produce the judgment and order of sale, and the process must recite the rendition of the judgment. The 9th section of the act of 1840 merely dispenses with the insertion of the collector's report in the process. Hinman v. Pope, 1 G. 131; Atkins v. Hinman, 2 G. 437.

Under the revenue law of 1829, a deed executed by the auditor of public accounts is prima facie evidence of the regularity and legality of the sale. Vance v. Schuyler, 1 G. 160; Messenger v. Germain, 1 G. 631; Job v. Tobbetts, 5 G. 376; Graves v. Bruen, 11 Ill. 431; Irving v. Brownell, 11 Ill. 411; Rhinehart v. Schuyler, 2 G. 523; Thompson v. Schuyler, 2 G. 280.

The 9th section of the act of Jan. 19, 1829, requiring copies of the advertisement to be filed with the various officers therein named, is directory, and an omission to do so will not invalidate a sale. Vance v. Schuyler, 1 G. 160.

Where the revenue law authorizes the auditor to continue sales from day to day, and a sale is made subsequent to the day provided by law, the presumption, (in the absence of proof,) is, that such continuances were made by the auditor from day to day, till the day of sale. Messenger v. Germain, 1 G. 631.

When a deed upon a tax sale has been executed by the sheriff, the presumption is that the certificate had been previously delivered to him. Silliman v. Frye, 1 G. 664.

When several tracts are sold at the same sale to one purchaser, he may have them all included in one deed. Idem.

The collector is not required in his return to state, under the act of Feb. 26, 1839, that he is unable to collect the taxes by seizure and sale of personal property; this is presumed when the report is made in proper form. Taylor v. The People, 2 G. 349.

The revenue laws, from 1823 to 1839, inclusive, are constitutional. Rhinehart v. Schuyler, 2 G. 473.

Under the revenue law of 1839, either the officer making the sale or his successor, may make the deed. Bestor v. Powell et al., 2 G. 119.

A sale under this act is properly made on the second Monday succeeding the first day of the term at which judgment was rendered. Idem.

To entitle a party to recover in ejectment, who claims under a tax sale, he must show a valid judgment, a valid precept authorizing the sale, and a proper conveyance from the officer making the sale. Atkins v. Hinman, 2 G. 437.

As to what is a sufficient precept. Idem.

The party who attempts to question the title derived under a tax sale, must first show that he, or the person under whom he claimed title, had title to the land at the time of the sale for taxes; or that the title was obtained from the United States or this State, subsequent to such sale. Idem.

A feme covert is not entitled to redeem lands sold during the life of her husband, and belonging to him, unless she shall do so within two years from the time of sale. Finch v. Brown, 3 G. 488.

Lands owned by her and sold for taxes, during her coverture, may be redeemed within one year after her disability ceases. Idem.

The revenue act of 1833, did not repeal the 25th section of the act of 1827; and a deed made by the auditor, subsequent to the passage of the law of 1833, for lands sold under the acts of 1827 and 1829, was held to be valid. Bruce v. Schuyler, 4 G. 221.

The deposition of the auditor, accompanied by extracts from the books in his office, is proper evidence upon the question, as to whether the law relating to the sale of lands for taxes has been complied with. Job v. Tobbetts, 5 G. 376.

Under the revenue law of 1839, the precept on which the sale is made need not contain a list of the lands sold. Idem.

A judgment, under the revenue law of 1839, is conclusive evidence of the fact that the taxes could not be collected out of personal property. Any defense of this sort must be made before judgment. Idem.

Under the 25th section, 8th chapter, Revised Statutes, if a collector makes a personal demand for taxes, which is refused, he may levy immediately; but if notice is given, as required by section 34, he must wait the ten days before he can distrain. Shaw v. Dennis, 5 G. 405.

Words, figures and abbreviations may be used to designate lands advertised for sale for taxes; but the description should be certain and definite so as to show its locality. Olcott v. The State, 5 G. 481.

A judgment against lands for taxes is several as to each tract. Any number of owners may jointly or severally prosecute a writ of error as to the judgment against their land; and the same may be reversed as to some and affirmed as to the residue. All persons joining in such writ, will be liable for costs. Idem.

Under the revenue laws of 1827, the auditor's deed is not evidence of title without proof that the law authorizing the sale has been complied with. Irving v. Brownell, 11 Ill. 411.

Under the act of March 2, 1839, entitled "An act to quiet possessions and confirm titles to land," "claim and color of title made in good faith," means, "a prima facie title,"—one which, on its face, would authorize a recovery in ejectment. An auditor's deed upon a sale made under the revenue act of 1827, is not such a title. Idem.

The payment of taxes for seven consecutive years must be made while the party is in possession; not part before and part after taking possession. Idem.

Suffering the land to be sold, and buying it in, is not a payment of taxes under this law; in such case, the land, and not the purchaser, pays the taxes. Idem.

Under the act of 1835, which gives to the actual resident, having a connected title in law or equity, and who has paid taxes for seven years, a title to the land thus occupied, the law is otherwise; such settler will not be required to prove that any of the prerequisites of the law have been complied with; such title, residence and payment of taxes, is superior to all others. Idem.

Process for the collection of taxes, under the revenue laws, need not run in the name of the people. Scarritt v. Chapman, 11 Ill. 443; Curry v. Hinman, 11 Ill. 420.

Under the revenue law of 1839, the party who claims title may attack the regularity of the proceedings under the tax sale, by showing that no taxes are due upon the land, no matter by whom paid, and that such party, or those under whom he claimed, had title to the land at the time of the sale. Idem, 420.

Possession and claim of ownership, is title, within the meaning of the law. Idem.

When the presumption arising from the auditor's deed, that land had been listed as required by the act of 1829, has been rebutted, the party claiming under such deed, must show affirmatively that the law in relation to such listing has been complied with. Tobbetts v. Job et al., 11 Ill. 453; Schuyler v. Hull, 11 Ill. 462.

Under the act of 1829, a sale of lands without listing, was unauthorized, and no title passed by such sale. Graves v. Bruen, 11 Ill. 431.

A purchaser at a tax sale, who has an interest as heir in the lands sold, or one in whose name the land is listed for taxation, or one who is in possession, claiming title at the time of the sale, acquires no new title by his purchase. Choteau v. Jones, 11 Ill. 322; Voris v. Thomas, 12 Ill. 442.

A mortgagor, by purchasing the lands mortgaged by him, acquires no title. Frye v. Bank of Illinois et al., 11 Ill. 367; Voris v. Thomas, 12 Ill. 442.

Listing lands in one class does not authorize the auditor to charge them in another. Tobbetts v. Job, 11 Ill. 453.

A judgment for taxes is good, if it contains the substance of the form required by the statute. Chesnut v. Marsh, 12 Ill. 173.

Such judgment cannot be impeached in a collateral proceeding for irregularity. Idem.

A judgment for taxes need not show the name of the patentee, the present owner, nor the county in which the land lies. Spellman v. Curtenius, 12 Ill. 409.

The south-west and south-east quarter of section 9, township 8 north, range 8 east, is only one tract of land. Idem.

In a collector's report, it is sufficient to state the amount of costs due on each tract, at the foot of the report, and in a collateral proceeding, the amount of costs need not be correctly stated in such report; it might be cause for reversing it on error or appeal. Idem. Merritt et al. v. Thompson, 13 Ill. 716.

An acre of land off the east side of the south-west and south-east quarters of section 9, 8 north, 8 east, is an acre off the east side of the south-east quarter, and not off from both tracts. Spellman v. Curtenius, 12 Ill. 409.

This acre must be cut off by a north and south line. Idem.

When land has been laid out into town or city lots, it is still necessary that the party contesting a tax deed must show that there are no taxes due upon the land. Idem.

A collector of taxes under a town ordinance must show affirmatively that his proceedings were regular. Allen v. Scott, 13 Ill. 80.

In ejectment under a tax title, a variance between the judgment and precept may be taken advantage of on trial. Pitkin v. Yaw, 13 Ill. 251.

Where the judgment is for ninety-nine cents, and the precept recites a judgment for one dollar and twenty-five cents, the variance is fatal. Idem.

An application to amend a precept during the trial of an action of ejectment, will not be entertained. Pitkin v. Yaw, 13 Ill. 251.

When a tax judgment is against eight lots, and the sheriff's deed, offered in evidence, recites a judgment against two lots, the deed will be excluded. Idem.

A sheriff's deed on a tax sale, executed after the commencement of an ejectment suit, is no evidence of title. Idem.

It does not necessarily follow that a tenant in possession is bound to pay taxes. Blakeley v. Bestor, 13 Ill. 708.

Descriptions in tax deeds are to be construed the same as in other deeds. Idem.

"Twenty feet on Main street, commencing forty feet from alley, undivided half lot six in block seven in the town of Peoria," means twenty feet wide, extending back from Main street the depth of the lot. Idem.

A sheriff's deed, founded on a valid judgment and precept upon a sale for the taxes of 1842, is a prima facie title, the presumption being that the requisitions of the statute were complied with; and the burden of proof is upon the party contesting the tax title. Manly et al. v. Gibson, 14 Ill. 136.

Under the revenue act of 1839, sales are void, if not made on the second Monday succeeding the commencement of the term of the court in which judgment is rendered. Polk v. Hill et al., 15 Ill. 130; Hope v. Sawyer, 14 Ill. 254.

But this objection cannot be taken unless the party contesting the title shows first that the taxes are paid, and that he is the owner of the land. Idem.

One in possession of land under a contract which is listed in his name, is liable for the taxes. Glancy v. Elliott, 14 Ill. 456.

In a suit for taxes, a general judgment for costs may be entered, and the sale may be made for the amount of the tax and legal costs. If the collector sells for more costs than are due by law, the sale would be void for want of authority. Merritt et al. v. Thompson, 13 Ill. 716.

Where the law prescribes a definite period in which an assessment must be made and returned, if the same is returned after that time, a tax title acquired under it is void. And the defect cannot be cured by subsequent legislation. Marsh v. Chesnut, 14 Ill. 223; Billings v. Detton, 15 Ill. 218.

A precept under which land was sold under the law of 1839, contained a copy of the judgment on the report of the collector, which contained a description of the lands and lots ordered to be sold, with the taxes and costs due thereon; Held, that the sale was good although the sheriff was not furnished with a copy of the collector's report. Manly et al. v. Gibson, 14 Ill. 136.

A judgment for taxes rendered on a day prior to the time mentioned in the collector's notice, is void. Pickett v. Hartsack, 15 Ill. 279.

So also, when the collector does not substantially comply with the statute. Idem.

The constitution requires notice of sales to be given to owners of land by publication in the nearest newspaper to the county. This must be determined by comparing the distances between the places of publication and the county line. Weer v. Hahn, 15 Ill. 298.

Under the act of 1839, infants may redeem lands sold for taxes without filing any affidavit with the clerk, showing their right to redeem. Chapin v. Curtenius, 15 Ill. 427.

A collector may make his report before the sitting of the court to which it is to be made. Jackson v. Cummings, 15 Ill. 449.

A difference of a quarter of a cent between the description in the deed and judgment, or other proceedings on a tax sale, will not vitiate the sale. Idem.

If the name of the patentee or owner is not returned by the assessor, the court will presume it was unknown. Idem.

A certificate of publication of notice of tax sale, stating that "the foregoing was duly published in the Peoria Democratic Press," following the tax list, raises the presumption that the Peoria Democratic Press is a newspaper. Idem.

Tax titles will be sustained where in the proceedings such letters and characters as clearly convey their meaning, are used; as "S" for dollar, "Tx." for tax, &c. Idem.

County taxes are a lien on land, and take precedence of judgments. Dennis et al. v. Maynard et al., 15 Ill. 477.

An act to amend an act exempting certain articles from execution; approved January 23, 1845.

An act requiring county orders to be countersigned by county treasurers; approved January 23, 1845.

(4.) SEC. IV. In addition to the several acts hereinbefore enumerated, all acts and parts of acts, passed previous to the present session of the General Assembly, the subjects whereof are revised and re-enacted in the Revised Statutes, as well as all other acts and parts of acts, the provisions of which are repugnant to the provisions therein contained, are hereby repealed; subject, however, to the provisions, limitations and restrictions in this chapter contained.

(5.) SEC. V. All laws of a general and public nature passed at the present session of the General Assembly, the subjects whereof are not revised or incorporated in the several chapters composing the Revised Statutes, shall be published and bound in the volume of Revised Statutes.

(6.) SEC. VI. Such acts and parts of acts of a general and public nature, passed previous to the present session of the General Assembly, as are neither repealed nor incorporated and made part of the Revised Statutes, and which are necessary to preserve the meaning of, and perfect the laws enacted, shall be published and bound in the volume of Revised Statutes.

(7.) SEC. VII. There shall be published in the manner hereinafter provided, an edition of ten thousand copies of the Revised Statutes.

(8.) SEC. VIII. The declaration of independence; the articles of confederation; the constitution of the United States, with its amendments; the constitution of this State; the ordinance of July 13, 1787; the ordinance of the convention of this State, adopted August 26, 1818, shall be published with the Revised Statutes.

(9.) SEC. IX. The chapters composing the Revised Statutes, shall be published in numerical order, alphabetically arranged, under proper heads and titles, with complete and full index to the whole; and at the head of each chapter, there shall be brief notes of the contents of each clause or section in numerical order.

(10.) SEC. X. The person heretofore appointed to revise the laws of this State, is hereby appointed and required to superintend the publication of the Revised Statutes, arrange the order of publication, prepare the notes and index, examine and correct the proof sheets, and cause all clerical and typographical errors to be corrected, so far as he may discover the same.

(11.) SEC. XI. The edition of the Revised Statutes, hereby authorized to be published, shall be printed on paper equal in quality to that used in the fourth volume of Scammon's Reports; on new type of size and quality to be approved by the superintendent, and shall be published in one volume of royal octavo size, bound in full law binding, equal in style, finish and durability to the binding of the fourth volume of Scammon's Reports, and appropriately lettered on the back in gilt lettering, "REVISED STATUTES," "ILLINOIS," "1845."

(12.) SEC. XII. It shall be the duty of the superintendent to contract for the paper to be used in printing the Revised Statutes, of the quality in the preceding section specified, and at the lowest possible price; and on the delivery of such paper, he shall present his certificate, approved by the governor, to the auditor, who shall thereupon issue his warrant upon the treasurer, in favor of the proper person, for the amount.

(13.) SEC. XIII. In preparing the work for publication, errors which may have occurred in the numbering of the several chapters and sections, or in reference thereto, and which remain in the enrolled chapters, may be corrected and the proper numbers and references inserted; and words inserted or omitted by clerical mistake, may be omitted or supplied without brackets.

(14.) SEC. XIV. It shall be the duty of the secretary of State, to cause to be copied, the several chapters composing the Revised Statutes, and all other laws passed at the present session of the General Assembly, which are required to be published with the Revised Statutes, and to furnish the same to the superintendent in such order and at such times as he may require.

(15.) SEC. XV. It shall be the duty of the superintendent, to furnish the public printer, within ten days after the adjournment of the General Assembly, with copy sufficient for the commencement of the work, and continue to furnish such copy as rapidly as the same shall be needed.

(16.) SEC. XVI. The public printer shall, immediately on the receipt of such copy, proceed with the work, and as the forms are printed, deliver the sheets, well pressed and in good order, to the binder; the printing to be completed and the whole delivered to the binder before the first day of July next: Provided, That if there be delay in procuring the paper for said work, the time fixed for the completion of the printing, may be extended, not to exceed twenty days.

(17.) SEC. XVII. The binder shall bind the volumes as by law required, and deliver to the secretary of State, within twenty days after the sheets of the last form are delivered to him, one thousand copies; within twenty days, thereafter, one thousand copies; by the tenth of September next, two thousand copies; and the balance by the twenty-fifth day of December next: Provided, That if the printer shall fail to deliver the last form of printed sheets, at the time and in the manner required, the binder shall have additional time, equal to the time so lost, in which to deliver the work to the secretary of State.

(18.) SEC. XVIII. For any delay or failure on the part of the printer or binder, they shall be subject to the provisions and forfeitures prescribed in chapter eighty-four of the Revised Statutes.

(19.) SEC. XIX. The copies of the Revised Statutes and of the laws passed at the present session of the General Assembly, which are required to be furnished by the secretary of State to the superintendent, shall be certified by the secretary of State to be true copies of the originals; and the certificate of the superintendent, that the printed chapters and acts contained in the volume of Revised Statutes are correctly published from such certified copies, with the exception of such corrections of clerical errors and mistakes, as are authorized in this chapter to be made, shall be deemed in all courts and places a sufficient authentication of the several chapters and acts contained in the work so published.

(20.) SEC. XX. When the printer and binder shall have completed their respective portions of the work according to law, their accounts therefor shall be audited and paid as in other cases.

(21.) SEC. XXI. The Revised Statutes shall be distributed to the officers and persons entitled thereto, in the same manner as is provided by law for the distribution of the ordinary laws of the General Assembly.

(22.) SEC. XXII. Whenever the provisions of any law passed at the present session and published with the chapters composing the Revised Statutes, without being incorporated in the same, shall contravene, or be inconsistent with the provisions of such chapters, the provisions of such law shall prevail.

(23.) SEC. XXIII. If the provisions of different chapters of the Revised Statutes conflict with or contravene each other, the provisions of each chapter shall prevail as to all matters and questions growing out of the subject matter of such chapter.

(24.) SEC. XXIV. If conflicting provisions be found in different sections of the same chapter, the provisions of the section which is last in numerical order, shall prevail, unless such construction be inconsistent with the meaning of such chapter.

(25.) SEC. XXV. The term "court" as used in the Revised Statutes, shall, in all necessary cases, be deemed to refer as well to probate justices of the peace, justices of the peace, and tribunals established by law in cities or incorporated towns, as to courts of record.

(26.) SEC. XXVI. No act, or part of an act, repealed by another act of the General Assembly, shall be deemed to be revived by the repeal of such repealing act.

(27.) SEC. XXVII. Whenever, in the Revised Statutes or any other statute, words importing the singular number only, are used, such words shall be deemed to extend to several persons, matters or things, and words importing the plural number only, such words shall in like manner be deemed to extend to one person, matter or thing, as well as to several persons, matters or things.

(28.) SEC. XXVIII. When any party or person is described or referred to by words importing the masculine gender, females as well as males shall be deemed to be included.

(29.) SEC. XXIX. The word "person" or "persons," as well as all words referring to or importing persons, shall be deemed to extend to and include bodies politic and corporate, as well as individuals.

(30.) SEC. XXX. Whenever the term "heretofore," occurs in any chapter or statute, it shall be construed to mean any time previous to the day on which such chapter or statute takes effect, and the term "hereafter" shall be construed to mean the time after the chapter or statute containing such term shall take effect.

(31.) SEC. XXXI. The words "insane person," or the words "inane," shall be construed to include every idiot, non-compos, lunatic or distracted person.

(32.) SEC. XXXII. The word "month" shall be construed to mean a calendar month, and the word "year" a calendar year unless otherwise expressed.

(33.) SEC. XXXIII. The word "oath" shall be deemed to include an affirmation, and the word "sworn" shall be construed to include the word "affirmed."

(34.) SEC. XXXIV. The word "State," when applied to different parts of the United States, may be construed to include the District of Columbia, and the several territories; and the words "United States" may be construed to include the said District and territories.

(35.) SEC. XXXV. The term "laws now in force," whenever it occurs in the Revised Statutes, shall be construed to mean, the statutes and laws in force immediately previous to the final passage of the chapter containing such term.

(36.) SEC. XXXVI. The rules of construction prescribed in the preceding sections, shall apply in all cases, unless it be otherwise specially provided, or unless there be something in the subject or context repugnant to such construction; and all general provisions, terms, phrases and expressions used in any statute, shall be liberally construed, in order that the true intent and meaning of the General Assembly may be fully carried out.

(37.) SEC. XXXVII. The Revised Statutes shall take effect and go into operation as laws, on the tenth day of September next, and not before; and all acts and parts of acts, consolidated or included in the Revised Statutes or therein repealed, shall continue and be in full force until said day, as fully and completely as though the Revised Statutes had not passed: Provided. That the provisions of this section shall not extend to or suspend the operation of section one, sections from five to twenty inclusive, sections thirty-five and forty of this chapter, but such sections shall take effect from and after the adjournment of the General Assembly.

(38.) SEC. XXXVIII. The repeal of any act or acts by the provisions of this chapter, shall not affect any act or thing done, nor any right accruing, accrued or established, or any suit or proceeding had in any civil case, prior to the time when the Revised Statutes shall go into effect; but the proceedings in every case, when necessary, shall be conformed to the Revised Statutes.

(39.) SEC. XXXIX. No crime or offense committed, and no penalty or forfeiture incurred, previous to the time when such repeal shall take effect, shall be affected by such repeal; except that when any punishment, penalty or forfeiture shall have been mitigated by the provisions of the Revised Statutes, such provisions may be extended to and applied to any judgment to be pronounced after such repeal.

(40.) SEC. XL. No suit or prosecution pending at the time of such repeal, for any offense committed, or for the recovery of any penalty or forfeiture incurred under any of the acts in this chapter repealed, shall be affected by such repeal, except that the proceedings in such suit or prosecution shall be conformed, when necessary, to the Revised Statutes.

(41.) SEC. XLI. No law heretofore existing, and herein repealed, which provided for the limitation of actions and the prevention of vexatious suits; or for the barring of any right, remedy, suit, plaint, prosecution, recovery, redemption or other proceeding; or for the discharge of any penalty or forfeiture; or for the confirming of any rights to real estate or any interest thereon, or to any other property, matter, thing or right of action, by reason of the lapse of a time certain, in any such law expressed, shall be so construed as to hinder or obstruct the operation of such law in any case in which the same has begun to operate, but for the purpose of saving and continuing all rights and remedies, forfeitures and disabilities, the term of which has commenced to run, such laws shall be deemed in full force until the expiration of the time in such law limited.

(42.) SEC. XLII. The following acts, passed at the present session of the General Assembly, shall be published as chapters of the Revised Statutes, under their appropriate titles, omitting the enacting clause, title and signatures of the speakers of the two Houses, but retaining the date of their approval.

An act to establish and maintain common schools; approved February 26, 1845.

An act regulating the assessment and collection of the public revenue; approved March 3, 1845.

An Act in relation to the Revised Statutes.

[Approved Feb. 26, 1845. App. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 591.]

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 474.]

(1.) SECTION I. Whenever an execution or writ of attachment shall be levied by any sheriff or coroner upon any personal property, and such property shall be claimed by any person or persons, other than the defendant in such execution or attachment, by giving to the sheriff or coroner notice in writing, of his, her or their claim and intention to prosecute the same, it shall be the duty of such sheriff or coroner, forthwith to summon a jury of twelve respectable householders of the county, to meet at a place to be designated by him, before the day appointed for the sale of such property; and then and there to proceed to inquire, by the oath of said jury, whether the right of such property be in such claimant or not.

(2.) SEC. II. It shall be the duty of such sheriff or coroner to notify the plaintiff in the execution or attachment of such claim, and the time and place of trial; and on the day appointed, the sheriff or coroner shall swear the jury, and such witnesses as may be produced by either party, or may postpone the trial such reasonable time, on the application of either party, as he shall think proper, for the purpose of procuring testimony.

(3.) SEC. III. In all cases of the trial of the right of property before any sheriff or coroner, it shall be the duty of such sheriff or coroner to subpoena such witnesses as shall be required by either party to such trial, to attend at the time and place at which such trial shall be held.

(4.) SEC. IV. In all cases where a witness shall be so subpoenaed and shall fail to attend at such trial conformably thereto, and in all cases where a juror shall fail to attend the same, when subpoenaed by such sheriff or coroner, such sheriff or coroner shall have power to compel their attendance, in the same manner as may be done in the trial of causes before justices of the peace, and in the circuit courts of this State.

(5.) SEC. V. And any fine which such sheriff or coroner may impose for such contempts, may be collected in the manner provided for the collection of costs by the seventh section of this chapter.

(6.) SEC. VI. After the jury shall have agreed on their verdict, the sheriff or coroner shall reduce the same to writing, and it shall be signed by all the jurors, and the sheriff or coroner shall thereupon restore the property, if found to belong to the person or persons claiming, or shall proceed on such execution or attachment, if the property shall not be found to be in the claimant in the same manner as if no claim had been made.

(7.) SEC. VII. The sheriff or coroner shall make up a bill of all the costs accruing on such trial, according to the provisions of law, regulating the fees of officers for similar services, and annex the same to the verdict of the jury; and shall have power to collect the same from the claimant of such property, if the verdict be against him, or from the plaintiff or plaintiffs in the execution, if such verdict be for the claimant, in the same manner that bills of fees in other cases are authorized by law to be collected.

(8.) SEC. VIII. In case either party shall think himself or herself aggrieved by the verdict of the jury, he or she may appeal to the circuit court, in which case the party appealing shall give bond, with sufficient security, to prosecute such appeal without delay, and to pay all costs that have accrued or may accrue on such appeal, if judgment be given against him in the circuit court; which bond shall be in a sum sufficient to cover all costs, and be payable to the opposite party; and the sheriff or coroner shall thereupon deliver to the clerk of the circuit court the bond aforesaid, and all the papers relating to such trial, and the clerk shall enter said appeal on his docket, and the court shall proceed to try the right to such property, in the same manner as is before directed in this chapter; and in all such cases, judgment shall be given against the party failing, for all costs, and the clerk shall issue execution for the same.

(9.) SEC. IX. In all cases where any personal property shall be taken by virtue of an execution or attachment, issued by any justice of the peace, which shall be claimed by any person or persons other than the defendant in such execution or attachment, and such claimant shall give notice in writing of his or their claim and intention to prosecute the same, it shall be the duty of the constable to notify the plaintiff in execution or attachment of such claim, and the time and place of trial; and if the justice who issued such execution or attachment reside in another county, be absent from the county, or unable to attend to such trial, it shall be the duty of the constable serving such execution or attachment, to notify the plaintiff in execution that he will attend before some other justice of the peace of the county, (naming him,) and shall also designate some day and hour for the trial of the right of said property, of which time and place the claimant shall also have notice.

(10.) SEC. X. The same proceedings shall be had before the constable serving such execution or attachment, together with the justice before whom the trial of the right of property may be had, as are in this chapter provided for the trial of the right of property before sheriffs and coroners; but the justice shall issue all process necessary in such trials. He shall also administer the oaths to the jury and witnesses, and retain the papers relating to the proceedings; and in case the property shall appear to belong to the claimant, the justice shall enter judgment against the plaintiff in execution or attachment, for the costs that may have accrued on such suit; and on failure of the plaintiff to pay the same, the justice may issue execution therefor; but in all cases where it shall appear that the property claimed belongs to the defendant in execution, the justice shall enter judgment against the claimant of the property for the amount of costs that shall have accrued, and issue execution therefor, as in other cases, and in case of an appeal, shall take the bond and transmit the same, with the other papers, to the clerk as aforesaid.

(11.) SEC. XI. It shall be the duty of any justice of the peace, other than the one issuing the execution or attachment under which a levy has been made, when notified by any constable, of any person or persons claiming property levied upon as hereinbefore provided, to enter such case on his docket, and to proceed in all cases, to have the right of such property tried as if the execution had been issued by him.

(12.) SEC. XII. In no case of the trial of the right of property under this chapter, shall the defendant in execution be a competent witness, and all appeals from the judgment on the trial of the right of property, shall be demanded on the day of such trial, and bond entered into before the clerk of the circuit court within five days from such trial; and in all cases of the trial of the right of property before a justice of the peace, either party may take the case into the circuit court by writ of certiorari, as in other trials before justices of the peace: Provided, That in all cases of said appeals, the praying thereof shall be a supersedeas, and stay all further proceedings until the expiration of five days.

(13.) SEC. XIII. In all cases when the plaintiff in the execution neither resides in the county where judgment was rendered, nor in the county in which such trial of the right of property is had, it shall not be necessary for the constable to give said plaintiff notice; but the trial shall be conducted in the same manner as if actual notice had been given; and in case the property shall be found to be the property of the claimant, the plaintiff in the execution shall be bound for all costs that may have accrued.

(14.) SEC. XIV. The verdict of the jury in all cases under this chapter, shall be a complete indemnity to the sheriff or other officer, in proceeding to sell or restore any such property according to the verdict; and in case of an appeal, the sheriff or other officer shall retain such property, unless the party claiming, or the defendant in the execution shall enter into a bond, with sufficient security, for the delivery of such property to the sheriff or other officer, if the judgment of the court shall be against the claimant.

(15.) SEC. XV. In trials of the right of property taken on execution, attachment or other process, by constables, the number of jurors shall be six instead of twelve, unless all the parties to the trial shall agree upon a larger number, not exceeding twelve; in which case, the number agreed on shall constitute the jury: Provided, That either party shall have the right to require twelve jurors, upon advancing the additional costs and fees accruing in consequence of increasing the number over six; such additional costs and fees not being in any event chargeable against the other party.

An Act to amend Chapter XCI. of the Revised Laws, entitled "Right of Property."

[Approved Feb. 13, 1847. Laws, 1847, p. 84.]

(17.) SEC. II. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

DECISIONS. The defendant in execution, is a competent witness for the claimant in a trial of the right of property. Clifton v. Bogardus, 1 S. 32.

The claimant of property taken on execution is not required by the statute to state in his notice on whose execution the levy is made; it will be sufficient to claim the property, state his intention to prosecute his claim, and forbid the sale. All objections in the nature of a plea in abatement, should be made at first, and it will be too late to make them on the appeal. The appeal must be taken on the trial, and the bond executed at the same time. A bond filed the day after the trial, is too late. If the appellee appear on the trial before the circuit court, he waives thereby all irregularity in taking the appeal. Pearce et al. v. Swan, 1 S. 266.

As between the parties thereto, and their privies, a judgment in a trial of the right of property is evidence and is conclusive. Arenz v. Reihle et al., 1 S. 340.

A landlord who has distrained on the goods of his tenant, which are afterwards taken in execution, may claim the same and have a trial of the right of property therein. Grimsley et al. v. Klein, 1 S. 343.

A motion to dismiss an appeal from a verdict in a trial of the right of property, is addressed to the discretion of the court, and its decision thereon cannot be assigned for error. The bond on such appeal may be executed by an attorney in fact. At the trial of the right of property levied on by attachment, the writ of attachment and the return thereof are admissible in evidence. Shelden v. Reihle et al., 1 S. 519.

On the trial of the right to property levied on by execution, the claimant cannot object to the validity of the execution. On such trial in the circuit court, the jury need not sign the verdict; that is required only on the trial before a ministerial officer. Harrison v. Singleton, 2 S. 21.

On appeal, taken by the claimant from the verdict against him, in the trial of the right of property, the affidavit of the sheriff that after the appeal he had sold the property in controversy, with the assent of the claimant, and held the proceeds subject to his order, was held sufficient ground for dismissing the appeal. Morgan v. Griffin, 1 G. 565.

The proviso of the 3rd section of the act of Jan. 30, 1835, which amends the act regulating the mode of trying the right of property, in force June 1, 1827, and excludes the defendant in execution from being a witness, is confined exclusively to the original and amendatory acts, and cannot be extended to any other statute. Miller v. Dobson, 1 G. 572.

A verdict against the claimant, in the trial of the right of property, does not establish the right to the property in the defendant in execution. Cassell v. Williams, 12 Ill. 387.

The only question, on the trial of the right of property, is, does the property belong to the claimant, and this he must show affirmatively. Marshall v. Cunningham, 13 Ill. 20.

When a justice of the peace has been notified by the constable that property levied on is claimed, and that the time and place of trial has been named, he may proceed with the trial and render judgment on the verdict. The giving of the notices is the duty of the constable, for which he is responsible. Ice et al. v. McLain, 14 Ill. 62.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 477.]

(1.) SECTION I. In all cases where a public road, canal or other public work shall have been heretofore authorized, or which shall hereafter be authorized by law, to be laid out or constructed in this State, either by the authority of the United States or this State, and the same is required to pass over the land belonging to any company, corporation or individual, and the owner or owners shall object thereto, and cannot agree with the commissioner, superintendent or other person or persons authorized to lay or construct the same, on the amount of damages which such owner or owners may claim, it shall be lawful for such commissioner, superintendent or other authorized person or persons, to apply to some justice of the peace of the county where the same may occur, who shall cause three householders to appear before him; and the householders so summoned, after being sworn, faithfully and impartially to examine the ground which shall be pointed out to them by the commissioner, superintendent or other authorized person or persons, shall assess the damages which they shall believe such owner or owners will sustain, over and above the additional value which such land will derive from the construction of such road, canal or other public work, and make two written reports, signed by at least a majority of them, one of which they shall deliver to the commissioner, superintendent or other persons requesting the view, and the other to the justice of the peace; after which, it shall be lawful for the road, canal or other public work, to pass over the land of such company, corporation, individual or persons, doing as little damage as the nature of the case will permit: Provided, That the amount of the damages so assessed, and the costs of the view, be first paid, either to the claimant or claimants, or to the justice of the peace, to whom the application and return shall have been made.

(2.) SEC. II. If the damages assessed, are authorized by law to be paid out of the treasury, it shall be the duty of the commissioner, superintendent or other authorized person or persons having charge of such work, to transmit to the auditor of public accounts, a copy of the assessment made by the householders, together with a statement of the costs of the view; and it shall be the duty of the auditor to issue his warrant upon the treasury for the payment of the amount. And if the damages are authorized to be paid out of the county treasury, the person or persons having charge of such work, shall transmit to the county commissioners' court, a copy of the assessment made by the householders, with a statement of the costs of the view, and if approved by the court, they shall order the same to be paid out of the county treasury: Provided, however, In all cases arising under the provisions of this chapter, the costs of the view of the householders shall be paid by the applicant requesting the same: Provided, also, That nothing in this chapter, or in the several chapters relating to State roads, shall be so construed as to authorize the payment of any such damages out of the State treasury; and in no case shall any money be paid out of the State treasury for any damages as aforesaid, without a special provision of law for such purpose.

(3.) SEC. III. Whenever it shall be deemed necessary, for the construction of any road, canal or other public work, to procure from the land of any company, corporation or individual, timber, stone or sand, and such company, corporation or individual shall object thereto, and in case the person authorized to construct such work, shall not agree with the owner of the land, on the price, it shall be lawful for such person authorized to construct such work, to apply to a justice of the peace of the county, who shall cause three householders of the neighborhood to be summoned and sworn, as provided in the first section of this chapter; and it shall be the duty of the three householders to go on the ground and assess the damages which they believe the owner will sustain, and make two written reports thereof, signed by at least a majority of them, stating the quantity and description of the articles and value thereof, and give one copy thereof to the applicant for the view, and the other they shall return to the justice of the peace; after which assessment and report, and payment of the amount to the claimant or justice, with the costs of view, it shall be lawful to take the materials so required, from the land of the owner, doing as little damage as possible to the owner of the land.

(4.) SEC. IV. In all cases arising under the provisions of this chapter, if the householders shall report it to be their opinion that no damages would be sustained by the owner of the land by the passage of any such road, canal or other public work, over and above the advantages which such land would derive from its construction, nothing more shall be paid than the costs of the view; and in all cases arising under this chapter, either party may appeal to the circuit court of the county, within the same time, and under the same rules and regulations, as are or shall be prescribed by law for taking appeals from the judgments of justices of the peace; and the circuit court shall proceed upon such appeal as in other cases of appeals from the judgment of justices of the peace, and render such judgment therein as shall be consistent with law and justice.

(5.) SEC. V. Any person who shall remove or pull down any part of any fence, barricade or wooden structure, placed across any public road or other public work, for the purpose of preventing travel thereon, whilst the same shall be constructing or undergoing repairs under the authority of this State or of the United States, and thereby the grading, embanking, paving or other work shall be injured or subjected thereto, shall pay to the undertaker of the work, five dollars for each offense, recoverable with costs, before any justice of the peace of the county: Provided, however, That no such penalty shall be recoverable, unless it shall be made to appear that the undertaker of the work shall have caused a written or printed notice to all persons, to be affixed in a conspicuous place at such fence, barricade or wooden structure, forbidding the same to be removed or pulled down, or travel on the grading, paving, embankment or other work: Provided, also, That if the said works be on any road where the United States' mail shall at the time be carried, the aforesaid penalty shall not be recoverable against the carrier, should he deem it necessary to expedite him in the passage of the mail.

(6.) SEC. VI. In all cases where a jury of freeholders or other citizens are or may be appointed, under the authority of any town or city in this State, to inquire into and to take into consideration the benefits as well as the injury which may accrue, and estimate and assess the damages which would be sustained, by reason of the opening, extending or widening of any street, lane, alley or road, the owner or owners of any real estate proposed to be taken for the purpose aforesaid, or any person aggrieved by the apportionment and assessment for the purpose of making payment to the person or persons whose property shall be taken for said purpose, may appeal to the circuit court of the county within the same time and under the same regulations and rules as are or shall be provided by law for taking appeals from the judgment of justices of the peace; and the circuit court shall proceed upon such appeal as in other cases of appeals from the judgment of justices of the peace, and render such judgment therein as shall be consistent with law and justice.

An Act to amend the Law condemning Right of Way for purposes of Internal Improvement.

[Approved June 22, 1852. Laws, 1852, p. 148.]

(7.) SEC. I. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly, That when any public road, railroad, plank road, turnpike road, canal or other public work, shall have been located by any officer or agent of the State, or of any county, or any person or corporation vested with power to take and apply private property in the construction or use of such road, canal or other work, or for any purpose connected with the same, such as constructing bridges, dams, locks, embankments, excavations, spoil-banks, turn-outs, depots, engine houses, shops, turn-tables, boat yards, wharfs or docks, and the right or title to property required for any such uses or purposes cannot be obtained by purchase, a petition shall be filed in the clerk's office of the circuit court of each county through which the location aforesaid is made, setting forth, by reference, the authority to construct the work, and the right to take and apply private property, and if the right of way only is desired, describing by its numbers, or other appropriate description, each lot or parcel of land over or across which such right is desired; or if property is required for all or any of the other purposes herein specified, stating such purpose, and describing the property so required; and in either or both cases, stating the names of all persons interested, as owners or otherwise, in the property to be affected, if known, or if not known, stating that fact, and requesting such court to cause to be ascertained the compensation to be made to each owner of or person interested in property required as aforesaid, and upon payment thereof, to require a conveyance or release of the same, or that by an order or orders of court the right and title be invested in the State, county, corporation or other person in whose name or behalf the petition is filed, to be applied and used for the purposes stated in the petition.

(8.) SEC. II. Upon the filing of the petition aforesaid, and giving the persons interested in the property required reasonable notice thereof, and of the time and place of making the application herein provided for, the petitioner in person, or by attorney, may apply to the judge of said court, or to the judge of the county court, or either of the associate justices of the last named court, to appoint commissioners to fix the compensation to be made to the parties interested as aforesaid, for the right of way over or across land, and for land required for any of the other purposes herein expressed, as well as to assess the damages which may result from the construction or use of such road, canal or other contemplated work. Upon the hearing of which application, and each of the parties notified as aforesaid, as well as those not notified, who may appear, the said judge or associate justices shall select or appoint three disinterested freeholders of the county commissioners to fix compensation and assess damages, according to the prayer of the petition, and also fix the time and place of their first meeting. And upon notices given as aforesaid, from time to time, or the appearance of parties without notice, the same, or other commissioners shall be appointed to act with reference to parties, as they are notified or appear as aforesaid, until action shall be had with reference to all the parties and matters named in the petition: Provided, That reasonable notice of the time and place of making application for the appointment of commissioners shall be five days, and one day in addition for every twenty miles' travel, from the residence of the party to the place of making application.

(9.) SEC. III. Notices of the filing petitions and making applications for the appointment of commissioners, in respect to lands owned in whole or in part by infants, shall be served on the guardian; or if they have no guardian, on the infants and persons with whom they reside; and with respect to lands owned as aforesaid by idiots, lunatics or distracted persons, on the conservator, if they have any, if not, then on the person under whose care or charge they may be found; and with respect to lands owned by femes covert, on the husbands as well as the owner; and notices to non-residents of the county, and persons whose names are unknown, shall be published in some public newspaper published in the county, if any, or if not, in the nearest paper to such county, for three weeks in succession before the day of making the application aforesaid. And notices so served or published, shall be sufficient to authorize the appointment and action of the commissioners as herein provided for: Provided, If such railroad or other public work shall be located on land the property of the State, the right of way, not exceeding one hundred feet in width, is hereby granted to such company, corporation or individual.

(10.) SEC. IV. Commissioners may be appointed in term time by the circuit court, or in vacation by the judges or justices aforesaid, upon the service or publication of notice being proved by affidavits, to be filed and constitute a part of the record of the proceedings. Upon applications for appointment in vacation, copies of the petition, filed as aforesaid, shall be used, and the order of the judge or justice shall be indorsed thereon, and the same delivered to the commissioners, to guide them in their action, and show the extent of their authority.

(11.) SEC. V. Commissioners appointed as aforesaid shall be sworn before some officer having power to administer oaths, "to faithfully and impartially execute the duties required of them, according to their best judgment and understanding, and to make all their estimates and assessments according to law." And upon being sworn as aforesaid, they shall meet at the time and place fixed by the court, or judge or justices aforesaid, and proceed without delay, upon view and inspection of the premises, as well as upon hearing the allegations and testimony of the parties interested, to fix the compensation to be made to each party or owner of lands to be taken and used as the way on which the road, canal or other work shall be constructed and pass, also for lands taken and used for any of the other purposes specified in this act; and also estimate and assess the damages sustained by any person or persons, by reason of the construction and use of the work specified in the petition, taking into consideration and estimating the benefits and advantages to the parties resulting from the construction and use of the road, canal or other improvement: Provided, The said commissioners shall not estimate any benefits or advantages which may accrue to lands affected in common with adjoining lands, on which such road, canal or other work does not pass.

(12.) SEC. VI. The commissioners shall, from time to time, as they make decisions with reference to lands embraced in their appointment, make reports in writing, stating separately the compensation to be paid for the right of way over or upon each lot of land, the compensation to be paid for each lot of land required for any other purpose, and the damage allowed to each owner or party, by reason of the construction and use of the improvement or work as aforesaid. A copy of each report so made shall be delivered to each of the parties interested, if requested, and the original, with a copy of the order of appointment, shall be filed with the clerk of the court in which the proceeding is had.

(13.) SEC. VII. Upon the making and filing of any report as aforesaid, any party interested may appeal from the decision of the commissioners to the circuit court of the county, as hereinafter provided; but if no appeal is taken, the decisions, estimates and assessments as reported, shall be conclusive upon the parties, and the right and title of that part of each lot or parcel of land required as aforesaid, in respect to which no compensation is allowed or damages assessed, shall vest in the State, county, corporation or person in whose behalf the proceeding is had, with the right to enter upon and use and apply the same according to the prayer of the petition and right of the case, and the right and title to that part of each tract of land required, in respect to which compensation is allowed or damages assessed, shall vest in the State, county, corporation or person petitioning as aforesaid, upon the payment of the compensation and damages so fixed or assessed, with the right to enter upon and use and apply the same for the purposes stated in the petition.

(14.) SEC. VIII. Payments of compensation and damages, estimated and assessed as aforesaid, may be made, first to parties laboring under no disability who are entitled to the land; second, to guardians of infants, husbands or trustees of femes covert; third, to conservators of insane persons; and a receipt for such payments shall operate as a confirmation of the action of the commissioners, and shall estop the parties in interest from all further claims or proceeding in the premises. Payments to parties residing in the State, but not in the county, including infants who have no guardian, and insane persons who have no conservator, shall be made by depositing the money with the clerk of the court in which the proceeding is had; and payments to parties residing out of the State, and persons whose names are unknown, shall be made by depositing the money in the treasury of the proper county where the land lies; and the receipt of parties entitled to money deposited as aforesaid, shall operate in like manner as receipts for money paid to parties as herein provided: Provided, That if any person shall refuse to receive money when tendered, payment may, in such case, be made by depositing the amount with the county treasurer aforesaid.

(15.) SEC. IX. Parties desiring to appeal from decisions, estimates, and assessments, or either, of commissioners, shall, within ten days after being notified of the filing of the report with the clerk, execute and file an appeal bond with said clerk, payable to the people of the State, for the use of all parties interested in the condition; in which bond the action or proceeding appealed from shall be recited, with conditions, in case the appeal is taken in behalf of the petitioner, for the due and speedy prosecution of the appeal, and that he or they will pay whatever may be required by any decision, order or judgment; and in case the appeal is taken by any other party, with condition that the appeal shall be prosecuted without delay; and in case the decision, estimate or assessment, as the case may be, shall be affirmed or not increased, that the appellant will pay the costs of the appeal and of the subsequent proceedings therein, if adjudged so to do by the court. A bond executed and filed by responsible securities, without the name or signature of the party appealing, shall be obligatory and sufficient; and it shall not be necessary to insert any penalty in any such bond, but the party or parties executing the same shall be liable, upon breach, to pay the full amount which any party interested in the condition is or may be entitled to in the premises.

(16.) SEC. X. Appeals may be taken and prosecuted by husbands or trustees of femes covert, guardians of infants, and conservators of insane persons; and in cases where infants have no guardian, and insane persons no conservator, appeals may be taken by the friends of such parties.

(17.) SEC. XI. Notices to parties of the filing reports of commissioners shall be given as is required in respect to applications for the appointment of commissioners, and notices of appeals shall be given by the service of summons, as in cases of appeals from judgment of justices of the peace: Provided, That non-residents of the State, and persons whose names are unknown, may be notified by publishing notice as is required in respect to proceedings in chancery against non-residents.

(18.) SEC. XII. The entering upon, taking possession of, and applying property, with reference to which commissioners have reported as aforesaid, shall not be hindered, prevented or delayed by the prosecution of any appeal, provided the corporation or person interested in the work, or any responsible person in their behalf, will execute and file a bond with the clerk of the court in which the appeal is pending, binding the persons executing the same to pay whatever amount may be required by the order or judgment of the court in said appeal cause, and also comply with or conform to any rule or order that the court may make in relation to the matter in controversy.

(19.) SEC. XIII. Appeals prosecuted under the provisions of this act shall be docketed by the clerk next after the people's causes, and shall be tried without delay, as soon as reached on the docket, unless continued for good cause, or by consent.

(20.) SEC. XIV. Appeals shall bring before the court the questions decided or reported on by the commissioners in respect to the parties to the appeal, and unless the parties otherwise agree, the said questions shall be submitted to and tried by a jury as other appeal cases; the jury to swear

“well and truly to try the cause, and in fixing compensation or assessing damages, they will be governed by the provisions of the law under which the trial is had.” The jury shall find and state the amount, if any thing, which shall be paid as compensation for right of way; the amount, if any thing, to be paid for lands required for any other purpose; and the amount, if any thing, assessed or allowed as damages, making the verdict conform to the questions and facts in the case. Verdicts may be rendered in writing or stated orally in court, and the court shall in all cases require the verdict to be recorded in such form as to express truly and fully the finding of the jury.

(21.) SEC. XV. Upon verdicts rendered by juries, judgment shall be entered, declaring that upon the payment of compensation and damages, or either, as the case may be, that the right and title to the same for which the compensation is to be made, or on account of which damages are allowed, shall vest in the State, county, corporation or person petitioning as aforesaid, with the right to enter upon, use and apply the same for the purposes stated in the petition; or if the verdict is that no compensation shall be made in money, or damages be allowed in the premises, the like judgment shall be entered; and verdicts and judgments entered as aforesaid shall be final and conclusive between the parties.

(22.) SEC. XVI. Payments of judgments entered upon verdicts may be made, and to have the like force and effect as provided for in section eight hereof, or payments may be made in reference to either party.

(23.) SEC. XVII. In appeal cases, courts shall permit amendments to papers, records, bonds, and the execution of new bonds, whenever necessary to a fair trial and final determination of the questions involved. Courts shall also have power to make any and all rules and orders necessary to notify parties of the proceeding, and to issue all process necessary to the execution of orders and judgments as they may be entered.

(24.) SEC. XVIII. The costs of all proceedings under this act, except such as arise or grow out of appeals, shall be paid by the petitioners, and costs of appeals shall be paid as the court may direct. Any two of the three commissioners may act, and execute any or all of the duties required. They shall have power to swear or affirm witnesses who may be brought before them, also to issue summons for witnesses, and by compulsory process compel their attendance. They shall also have power to adjourn from day to day, or from one day to any succeeding day, not exceeding five, until they shall have determined and reported upon all the cases embraced in their appointment; and two dollars per day shall be paid to each for his services.

(25.) SEC. XIX. All corporations heretofore created by special charter of incorporation or under the general law, where the termini have been fixed by the legislature, and none others, may avail themselves of this act.

(26.) SEC. XX. Estimates of compensation and assessments of damages, under the provisions of this act, shall be made with reference to the land or property affected, and payable to the real person entitled to the same, whether a party to the proceeding or not.

(27.) SEC. XXI. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to amend an Act entitled "An Act to amend the Law condemning the Right of Way for purposes of Internal Improvement," approved June 22, 1852.

[Approved Feb. 12, 1853. Laws, 1853, p. 201.]

(28.) SEC. I. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly, That when any canal, railroad, turnpike road, or other work of internal improvement, authorized to be constructed by any law of this State, with power, by law, to condemn land for road-way or other purposes connected with such work of internal improvement, shall in its route pass over or be located upon section sixteen (16,) in any township not organized, such company shall have power to condemn so much of said section for the purposes set forth in their petition, whether for road-way, track, depots, stations or other purpose as may be necessary, not exceeding for road-way and track, two hundred feet in width, and for depots, stations, &c., not exceeding ten acres; and notice of the application for the appointment of commissioners to fix compensation and assess damages, shall be sufficient, if served upon the school commissioner of the county in which such section is situated, in the manner prescribed by the act to which this is an amendment; and the damages assessed or compensation allowed, shall be paid into the school fund of the proper county, for the use of the inhabitants of the township in which such sixteenth section may be situated, and to be paid over to the treasurer of the same, when such township may be organized.

(29.) SEC. II. This act to be in force and take effect from and after its passage.

PRIOR LAWS. An act concerning the right of way, and for other purposes; in force May 2, 1833. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 534.
An act to amend an act concerning the right of way; approved Feb. 12, 1839. Laws, 1839, p. 118.

DECISIONS. Under the act concerning the right of way, in force May 2, 1833, in ascertaining the damage done the claimant, the benefit that will result from the construction, and not the location of the road, may be inquired into. The State v. Evans, 2 S. 208.

So much of the 92nd chapter of Revised Statutes of 1845, entitled "RIGHT OF WAY," as relates to State and county roads, is repealed by the 38th section of the 93rd chapter, entitled "ROADS." County of Sangamon v. Brown et al., 13 Ill. 207.

In estimating damages under the 92nd chapter, Revised Statutes, 1845, the rule is to consider all benefits and injuries which are appreciable. The statute of June 22, 1852, establishes a different rule, and excludes benefits and advantages common to other adjoining lands. Alton and Sangamon R. R. Co. v. Carpenter, 14 Ill. 190.

ROADS.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 479.]

(1.) SECTION I. Whenever any persons traveling with any carriages, shall meet on any turnpike road or public highway in this State, the persons so meeting shall seasonably turn their carriages to the right of the centre of the road, so as to permit each carriage to pass without interfering or interrupting, under the penalty of five dollars for every neglect or offense, to be recovered by the party injured: Provided, This section shall not be construed to apply to any case, unless some injury to persons or property shall occur by the driver of the carriage or wagon refusing to turn to the right of the beaten track; nor shall it be construed to extend to a case where it is impracticable, from the nature of the ground, for the driver of the carriage or wagon to turn to the right of the beaten track.

(2.) SEC. II. No person, owning any carriage, running or traveling upon any road in this State, for the conveyance of passengers, shall employ or continue in employment, any person to drive such carriage who is addicted to drunkenness, or the excessive use of spirituous liquors; and if any such owner shall violate the provisions of this section, after he shall have had notice and reasonable proof that such driver is addicted to drunkenness, he shall forfeit at the rate of five dollars per day, for all the time during which he shall thereafter have kept any such driver in his employment, to be sued for by any person, and collected in any court having competent jurisdiction. The penalty, when recovered, shall be for the use of the poor of such county, except that the court in which the recovery shall be had, may allow a portion of said penalty, not exceeding twenty-five dollars, to be retained by such complainant as a compensation for his services and expenses.

(3.) SEC. III. If any driver, whilst actually employed in driving any such carriage, shall be guilty of intoxication to such a degree as to endanger the safety of the passengers in the carriage, it shall be the duty of the owner of such carriage, on receiving written notice of the fact, signed by one of said passengers, and certified by him on oath, forthwith to discharge such driver from his employment; and every such owner who shall retain or have in his employ, within three months after the receipt of such notice, any driver who shall have been so intoxicated, shall forfeit at the rate of five dollars per day for the time during which he shall keep any such driver in his employment after receiving such notice, to be sued for and applied as directed in the last preceding section.

(4.) SEC. IV. No person driving any carriage upon any turnpike road or public highway within this State, with or without passengers therein, shall run his horses or carriage, or permit the same to run, upon any occasion, or for any purpose whatever; and every person who shall offend against the provisions of this section, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof, shall be fined not exceeding one hundred dollars, or imprisoned not exceeding sixty days, at the discretion of the court.

(5.) SEC. V. It shall not be lawful for the driver of any carriage used for the purpose of conveying passengers for hire, to leave the horses attached thereto, while passengers remain therein, without first making such horses fast with a sufficient halter, rope or chain, or by placing the lines in the hands of some other person, so as to prevent their running; and if any such driver shall offend against the provisions of this section, he shall forfeit for the use of the poor, the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by action to be commenced within six months; and unless the amount of such recovery be paid forthwith, execution shall be immediately issued therefor.

(6.) SEC. VI. The owners of every carriage running upon any turnpike road or public highway for the conveyance of passengers, shall be liable jointly and severally, to the party injured, in all cases for all injuries and damages done by any person in the employment of such owners as a driver, while driving such carriage, to any person, or to the property of any person; and that, whenever the act occasioning such injury or damage be willful, negligent or otherwise, in the same manner as such driver would be liable. Any driver of any mail stage coach, or any other vehicle for the conveyance of passengers, willfully offending against the provisions of this chapter, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, on conviction thereof, shall be imprisoned, not exceeding four months, or fined not exceeding three hundred dollars.

(7.) SEC. VII. The term "carriage," as used in this chapter, shall be construed to include stage coaches, wagons, carts, sleighs, sleds, and every other carriage or vehicle used for the transportation of passengers and goods, or either of them.

(8.) SEC. VIII. Nothing contained in this chapter shall interfere with or affect any law concerning hackney coaches or carriages in any of the cities of this State, nor interfere with nor affect the laws or ordinances of any such city for the licensing or regulating such coaches or carriages. Justices of the peace shall have jurisdiction in all cases arising under this chapter, where the penalty does not exceed one hundred dollars.

(9.) SEC. IX. All roads within this State, which have been laid out in pursuance of any law of this State, or of the late territory of Illinois, and which have not been vacated in pursuance of law, are hereby declared to be public highways.

(10.) SEC. X. The county commissioners' courts of the several counties in this State, shall have, and are hereby vested with general superintendance over the public roads within their respective counties; and are hereby authorized to cause new roads to be located and made, and to alter or vacate public roads within their respective counties, in the manner hereinafter provided and pointed out.

(11.) SEC. XI. The county commissioners' court of each county shall, at their March term, or as soon thereafter as may be, in each and every year, lay out and divide their respective counties into such road districts as they shall deem convenient and proper, defining accurately the boundaries of said districts; and they shall appoint one supervisor in each district, who shall serve one year, and continue in office until a successor shall be appointed.

(12.) SEC. XII. It shall be the duty of the clerk of the county commissioners' court in each county, to make out and deliver to the sheriff, written notices to all the supervisors as aforesaid, within ten days after such appointment has been made, informing them of their said appointment, and describing the bounds of their respective districts, and the roads therein; and the said sheriff shall immediately deliver the said notices to the persons to whom the same shall be directed, respectively; and if any supervisor shall refuse to accept his said appointment, the sheriff shall return the said notice to the clerk who issued the same, noting such refusal on the back thereof. But if the said supervisor shall agree to accept the same, such supervisor shall, within fifteen days thereafter, return to the clerk of the county commissioners' court, a list of the names of all persons residing within his road district, liable to be taxed for road purposes; and the said sheriff shall notify the said clerk of such acceptance; and the said sheriff shall, in all cases, make return of acceptance or refusal within twenty days after the delivery to him of the notice aforesaid. For any failure on the part of the clerk to make out and deliver to the sheriff any one of the notices required by this section, he shall be fined in the sum of ten dollars; and the sheriff shall incur the same penalty for a failure to deliver any one of said notices in the manner and within the periods herein prescribed: Provided, That supervisors shall not be required to make such return, unless the county commissioners' courts shall have levied a tax, according to the provisions of this chapter.

(13.) SEC. XIII. When any person shall refuse to accept the appointment of supervisor, he shall be fined five dollars, to be appropriated to road purposes: Provided, That the commissioners' court may excuse any supervisor from the payment of said fine, upon being satisfied that such person ought not to have been appointed. The commissioners' court shall have power, at any time, to remove from office any supervisor who shall fail or refuse to perform his duty; and all vacancies shall be filled at the term of the court at which any removal shall be made or vacancy occur.

(14.) SEC. XIV. It shall be the duty of each supervisor to cause all the public roads within his district to be kept well cleared, smooth, and in good repair—causing all stumps to be cut low, so as to afford at all times a free and safe passage to wagons and other carriages along such roads; to cause bridges and causeways to be made wherever the same shall be necessary, and to keep the same in repair; and to cause to be erected and kept in repair, at the forks or crossing place of every public road, a post and guide-boards, with plain inscriptions thereon, in letters and figures, giving the direction and distance to the most noted places to which said roads may lead.

(15.) SEC. XV. Whenever any public road shall be obstructed by fallen timber, or in any other manner, and when any bridge or causeway shall be destroyed, or become impassable or dangerous to travelers, it shall be the duty of the supervisor to cause such obstruction to be removed, and to have such bridge or causeways rebuilt or repaired; and for that purpose he shall call out the persons bound to labor on the road in his district, or as many of them as may be necessary; but if the persons bound to perform such labor in his district, shall have previously performed the number of days required by this chapter, or if the labor due from such persons shall not be sufficient, he shall then proceed to hire as many laborers or teams as may be necessary to remove such obstruction or repair such damages: Provided, The cost shall not exceed ten dollars; and if the cost of such work shall be estimated by said supervisor to exceed ten dollars, then he shall report such obstruction or damage to any two or more of the county commissioners, whose duty it shall be, immediately, to cause such obstruction to be removed, or such bridge or causeway to be rebuilt or repaired, as the case may be, either by ordering the supervisor to hire laborers and teams for that purpose, or by making a contract with some fit person or persons, as they may deem best; and all moneys required to carry any of the provisions of this section into effect, shall be paid out of the county treasury, on the order of the county commissioners' court.

(16.) SEC. XVI. If any person shall obstruct any public road, by falling a tree or trees across the same, by encroaching upon or fencing up the same, or by placing any other obstruction therein, he shall forfeit for any such offense, a sum not exceeding ten dollars, and a sum not exceeding three dollars for every day he shall suffer such obstruction to remain, after he shall have been ordered to remove the same by any supervisor, county commissioner or justice of the peace; and if any person shall purposely destroy or injure any bridge or causeway, or remove any of the timber or plank thereof, or destroy or deface any guide-board, post or mile-stone, on a public road, or dig any drain or ditch across a public road, such person, so offending, shall be indicted or sued before a justice of the peace, and on conviction, shall be fined in any sum not less than five dollars, nor more than one hundred dollars, except bridges, which shall be double the value thereof; and for burning a bridge, to be punished agreeable to the criminal code: Provided, however, That this section shall not be construed to extend to any person who shall lawfully cut down any timber for rails, fire wood or other purposes, and who shall immediately remove the same out of the road; nor to any person through whose land a road shall run, who shall dig a ditch or drain across such road, and shall keep the same in good repair.

(17.) SEC. XVII. No new road shall be opened by order of the county commissioners' court, unless the same shall be applied for by at least thirty-five voters, residing within five miles of the road proposed to be laid out or altered, except in counties which shall not have more than three hundred voters, when only fifteen shall be required. Such applicants shall deposit in the hands of the clerk of the county commissioners' court, a sufficient sum of money to pay the viewing. If their report be in favor of establishing the road, the money so deposited shall be returned to the persons who deposited the same; but if the report be unfavorable, the expenses of the view shall be paid out of the money so deposited; and every person applying for such new road, shall contribute one day's labor, in addition to the number of days required by this chapter, towards making such road. The clerk of the county commissioners' court shall furnish each supervisor through whose road district such new road shall pass, with a list of the persons who petitioned for the same; and any such petitioner who shall not reside within some district through which such new road shall pass, shall be required to perform the day's labor herein required of him, under the direction of the supervisor of the nearest road district; and for failing to do so, after being duly notified, he shall be fined in the sum of one dollar.

(18.) SEC. XVIII. When a new road shall be applied for, as aforesaid, the county commissioners' court shall, if in their opinion the public good and convenience require it, appoint three suitable persons to view the ground proposed for the same; and if, after such view, the viewers shall believe the road applied for to be necessary, taking into consideration the expense of constructing the same, and its utility to the public, they shall proceed to locate and establish the same, on the nearest and most eligible route from point to point given, having due regard to private property; causing the same to be surveyed, designating its course through prairies and improved land, by fixing stakes in the ground, or by plowing two furrows, at the distance apart of the full width of the road, and through the timbered land by marking the trees; and shall make report thereof to the next county commissioners' court; but after the view, if they deem such road unnecessary or improper to be made, they shall report their opinion to that effect to the next term of said court.

(19.) SEC. XIX. Whenever it shall be represented to the county commissioners' court, by a petition of thirty-five voters, that a public road established by said court, or any part thereof, is useless or burthensome, the said court, upon a sufficient sum of money being deposited with the clerk to pay the expenses of a review, (such money to be returned, if the road be declared useless,) shall appoint three suitable persons to review the same, who shall report to the said court at the next term after such appointment, whether such road be useless and burthensome, together with their reasons for such opinion; and the county commissioners may then order such road to be vacated, if, in their opinion and discretion, they shall deem such order proper: Provided, That no petition praying for the establishment or vacation of a public road shall be received by the said court, unless the said petitioners or some of them, shall have given twenty days' public notice of such application, by a written notice, posted up in the most public place in each road district through which the road or proposed road shall pass, and a like notice, particularizing the route and important points, on the door of the court-house, and of the county clerk's office, should it be kept in a separate building.

(20.) SEC. XX. Whenever a new road shall be located, the county commissioners shall immediately cause the supervisors of each district through which such road shall pass, to be notified of such location; and it shall be the duty of the said supervisors to make such roads within their respective districts, and keep the same in repair, so far as the labor of the persons bound to work on said road shall enable him; and if such labor be insufficient, the county commissioners shall cause the same to be cut out and opened at the expense of the county, whenever, in their opinion, the funds of the county will justify such expense; and after being so opened, the same shall be kept in repair by the supervisor, as in other cases.

(21.) SEC. XXI. Any person or persons desirous of having a cart road laid out, for his or their convenience, from the dwelling or plantation of such person or persons to any public road, or from one public road to another, or from one lot of land to another, shall present a petition to the county commissioners' court of the proper county, setting forth the reasons for desiring such road, and describing the points from and to which said road or cart-way is desired to pass; and the court shall, upon a sufficient sum of money being deposited to pay for viewing such road, appoint three freeholders to view the same: Provided, That twenty days' notice shall be given of the intention to present such petition, to each person residing in the county through whose land such cart-way is desired to pass; and also, by posting up a notice thereof on the door of the court-house, and clerk's office of the county, if not kept in the court-house, for the same period of twenty days; and the viewers, when appointed, shall examine the route proposed for such road, and shall examine any other route which they may deem proper; and if they shall be of opinion that a cart-way is necessary and proper, from and to the points named in the petition, they shall lay out the same in such manner as to produce the least inconvenience to the parties through whose land the same shall pass, and shall make a written report to the court, describing the route of the road, and the numbers of the lots of land through which the same shall pass, and naming the owners thereof, if known; which report shall be examined by the court, and on hearing the objections, if any, and if the court shall be of opinion that the road is necessary and right, an order shall be made establishing the same, not exceeding thirty feet wide: Provided, That no such road shall be allowed to pass through any orchard, garden, door or barn-yard: And Provided, also, That if any owner of land shall object to the opening such road, the same shall not be opened by the person or persons desiring the same, until the person or persons objecting shall be paid all the damages to be sustained by the opening thereof; and in case the parties cannot agree on the amount of damages, the same shall be ascertained and assessed as hereinafter provided; and the damages being paid on final decision, the person or persons, applying therefor, their heirs and assigns, shall have the right to open said road, and shall have the right of way upon the same forever thereafter.

(22.) SEC. XXII. The county commissioners' court of each county in this State, at their March term, annually, shall fix and enter upon the records of their court, a certain number of days that each able-bodied man, between the age of twenty-one and fifty years, shall labor upon some public road within the county during the year: Provided, That in no case shall said court be authorized to fix the number of days at less than one, or to exceed five days, as a requisition in labor. The clerk of said court shall append the number of days fixed as aforesaid, to the notice of each supervisor appointed in said county.

(23.) SEC. XXIII. The county commissioners' courts of the several counties in this State, in levying a tax, not exceeding fifty cents on every one hundred dollars' worth of taxable property in their counties respectively, for county purposes, which they are authorized by law to levy, may, at the time of fixing upon the amount of tax to be assessed and collected for county purposes, in their discretion, set apart any amount of the tax so levied for county purposes, not exceeding one-half of said levy, for road purposes; and a column in the tax book shall designate the amount of road tax due from each person, to be collected.

(24.) SEC. XXIV. The clerk of the commissioners' court, immediately on the return of the assessor's book, shall make out a list of the names of all individuals owing road tax, in each road district in the county, with the amount of tax due therefrom, ascertaining the residence of, and the road district to which each person properly belongs; which lists shall be handed to the sheriff, and by him delivered to the respective supervisors. And any clerk or sheriff who shall fail or neglect to perform the duty required in this section, within the time given to each, as specified in the twelfth section of this chapter, in serving notices on supervisors, shall be fined in the same sums as stated in said section.

(25.) SEC. XXV. It shall be the duty of each supervisor to call on all able-bodied male persons over twenty-one and under fifty years of age, in his district, to perform the number of days' labor due for the year, giving such person at least three days' notice of the time when, and the place where the work is required, and stating what description of tools to bring; which notice shall be given by the supervisor in person, verbally, or by a written or printed notice, or by some person appointed by him to warn in the hands; in which latter case the notice shall be written or printed, and signed by the supervisor. The supervisor shall observe the hour appointed to meet, that each individual do appear at the time, with the tool directed to be brought; and when on the road, that each person shall work industriously and diligently, doing at least eight hours' faithful labor in each day, at such work and in such manner as shall be directed by the supervisor. Any person neglecting or failing to attend and do the work due on the roads, after being notified as above stated, by himself, or a substitute equally able as himself, shall pay for each day one dollar. Should any person be idle, not work diligently, be turbulent, interrupt other hands or disobey the supervisors, power is hereby given, and it shall be the duty of the supervisor to discharge said hand from the road; and for each day's labor which may then be due from such person, he shall be bound to pay one dollar and fifty cents.

(26.) SEC. XXVI. The tax list being placed in the hands of the supervisor, he shall notify each person residing in said supervisor's district, of the amount due, and that the same may be discharged in labor; and shall thereupon request payment in money or labor, first notifying the individual of the time and place to attend and work the same out at a rate to be fixed by the county commissioners' court, but not exceeding one dollar per day, bringing with him such tools as may be directed by the supervisor, the labor to be performed by the principal or a substitute equally able, working industriously at least eight hours each day; and may, for any of the causes in the foregoing section, idleness, turbulence or disobedience, be discharged from the road by the supervisor, and the balance due shall be collected, with twenty-five per cent. advance.

(27.) SEC. XXVII. It shall be the duty of supervisors to sue in the name of the county commissioners, in their official capacity, for all labor and taxes which shall be due from each person residing in their respective districts, and remain unpaid after notice shall have been given, and a failure to settle the same as provided in the foregoing sections; and having collected the same, shall, without delay, disburse the money to the best advantage, on public roads in the district to which such labor or tax properly belongs. In all cases, the supervisor shall be a competent witness in suits brought as above stated; and an appeal may be taken to the circuit court by either party, as in other cases of appeal from justices of the peace.

(28.) SEC. XXVIII. Every supervisor shall endeavor to collect all road and labor tax, and close the work by the twenty-fifth of December, annually. And they are absolutely bound to return to the clerk of the county commissioners' court the tax list, by the first of January, marking carefully and truly the amount paid on said road tax list, how much in work, and the amount in money, by each individual named, and shall give a receipt to each individual, if requested. The clerk and collector shall give credit on the general tax list, to each person, for the amount paid, and the balance due shall be collected by the proper officer out of the goods and chattels, lands and tenements of the person owing, in the same manner as other revenue for the State and county shall be collected. All moneys collected as above, after deducting the per cent. for collecting and costs paid out, to be allowed by the commissioners' court, shall be set apart in the treasury of the county as a road fund, to be disbursed by order of the commissioners' court, in the erection of bridges, and improvement of such public roads in the county as they may deem most advantageous to the public; and in no case, shall the court appropriate or divert any portion of said road fund to any other purpose than the construction of roads and road purposes: Provided, always, That fines and forfeitures incurred under the provisions of this chapter, shall be applied to the improvement of the public roads within the bounds of such road district wherein such fines and penalties may have been incurred.

(29.) SEC. XXIX. Supervisors are hereby authorized to hire teams to do the necessary hauling, plowing and scraping, to contract for materials for building bridges, causeways, erecting guide-boards, for making and furnishing road scrapers, and repairing roads in discharge of labor and road tax due, and so far as funds shall come into possession, procuring said teams, materials, implements and work, on the best possible terms.

(30.) SEC. XXX. All power, jurisdiction and control, is hereby given to the county commissioners' courts of the several counties, of and concerning State roads, roads located directly by the State; and the same shall be opened, improved and kept in repair as other roads in the counties, subject to alteration, change and relocation, as hereinafter pointed out.

(31.) SEC. XXXI. When any person or persons desire a change or relocation of any State road now located, notice of such intended application shall be given by setting up advertisements in writing, at least one in each road district through which said road shall pass, and on the courthouse door, twenty days previous to the sitting of the court to which application shall be made; and on petition of a majority of the qualified voters of each road district through which said road shall pass, and a majority of the voters living immediately in the vicinity of such road, the court shall appoint three viewers to examine and make the necessary relocation; they shall carefully view the road as located, and the ground for the proposed route, and being of opinion that the public good requires an alteration, in view of obtaining a more suitable place to erect a bridge over a stream, wind a hill, avoid a swamp, expensive work, or where the present road greatly damages an individual, and can be varied without material damage to the public; in such cases, alterations may be made; and a majority of said viewers being of that opinion, they shall cause a survey and relocation to be made, returning to the commissioners' court a plat, with the courses and distances of the road as established. But if they consider an alteration not necessary, they shall so report, and the court may confirm and accept the report, or take such further action thereon as to them may seem right. In like manner, any State road now established, which may be considered useless or burdensome, on notice, petition, view and report to that effect, as required in this section in case of an alteration, may be annulled and vacated.

(32.) SEC. XXXII. When it shall become necessary to have a State or county road, now located and established, altered, relocated or vacated at a county line, or a new road laid out, the same being petitioned for, and notice given, as required in the preceding section, the same shall be agreed on by viewers from each county, to be appointed by the counties immediately interested; and no road shall be altered at a county line or elsewhere, unless a majority of the viewers appointed, agree on such change or alteration: Provided, That no application shall be acted upon, or viewers appointed, as contemplated in the preceding sections, unless the petitioners deposit money sufficient to pay the viewers in case an unfavorable report be made, to be refunded should the road be located, altered or vacated, as petitioned for. And the petitioners, in case a new road shall be established, or a change in the location of a road, shall contribute one day's work on the same or some other road in the county, as required in the seventeenth section of this chapter. In case of a disagreement in the location or alteration of any road crossing a county line, by the county authorities, either county may appeal to the circuit court, who shall hear and determine the case, grant a review, appoint viewers, and make such order therein as shall seem right in the establishment of the road in dispute.

(33.) SEC. XXXIII. All roads shall be surveyed, and a plat, with the courses and distances thereof, returned with the report of the viewers to the commissioners' court, which shall be recorded and filed. The commissioners' court, on the return of the report and plat, shall determine and establish on record, the width of the road, making the main leading roads four rods wide, and none less than thirty feet.

(34.) SEC. XXXIV. In the location and alteration of all roads, it shall be the duty of viewers to make the same as direct as the ground and circumstances will allow, particularly the main leading roads. Previous to entering upon their duties, they shall be sworn before some judge of a court or justice of the peace of the State, that they will faithfully, impartially, and to the best of their judgment, discharge the duties incumbent on them as road viewers under the law and appointment of the court.

(35.) SEC. XXXV. At the March term of the commissioners' court, annually, each supervisor shall make a report, showing the whole number of days' work that has been done in his district during the year; by whom done; the amount of money by him received; from whom; for road tax or otherwise, due on roads; the amount paid out by him in constructing roads, with the vouchers accompanying; at which term he shall make a settlement with the court, and if a balance should appear in his hands, the same shall be disbursed in the district, or added to the general road fund, as the court shall order. Supervisors may appoint one or more persons to warn in the hands, and make an allowance out of the labor or tax due from such person. No allowance shall be made to any supervisor for services, out of the county treasury, except for sums required by the fifteenth section of this chapter; but he shall be wholly exempt from doing military duty in time of peace, and from serving on grand and petit juries while acting as supervisor; and shall have power and authority to appoint one or more deputies, suitable persons, to oversee laborers and direct the work, the supervisor being responsible.

(36.) SEC. XXXVI. Road viewers shall be allowed one dollar, and surveyors two dollars, for each and every day necessarily employed; and chain and axe-men, seventy-five cents per day.

(37.) SEC. XXXVII. The supervisor, for the purpose of building or repairing any bridge or causeway, by order of the county commissioners' court, is hereby authorized to enter upon the nearest unimproved land, and to cut and haul away timber, or to quarry and haul rock, gravel, sand or earth, which may be necessary for that purpose: Provided, He shall not take away timber already cut, or any rock or gravel already quarried for another purpose, without leave from the owner or his agent: Provided, also, That unless the owner, or his or her agent, shall first consent to the cutting of timber, or the quarrying of stone, or the taking of gravel, sand or earth, the supervisor shall call upon two discreet householders to value the materials about to be used. If the owner of the materials or his agent shall see proper, he may choose two other discreet householders, to act with such as may be chosen by the supervisor, and if they cannot agree, the four shall choose a fifth, as umpire; and the five, or a majority of them, shall make out their award under their hands and seals, and transmit it to the clerk of the county commissioners' court, who shall file and preserve the same; which award shall be final and conclusive, of the amount of damages sustained by such person; and the amount so awarded shall be paid to the owner of the materials or his or her agent, out of the county treasury; and the supervisor shall be authorized and warranted in taking such materials as soon as the award shall be made.

(38.) SEC. XXXVIII. In all cases where a public road shall have been heretofore authorized by law to be laid out or constructed in this State, either by State or county authority, and the same is required to pass over the land belonging to any company, corporation or individual, and the owner or owners shall object thereto, and cannot agree with the commissioner, superintendent or supervisor, authorized to construct the same, on the amount of damage which such owner or owners may claim, it shall be lawful for such commissioner, superintendent or supervisor, to apply to some justice of the peace of the county where the same may occur, who shall cause three householders to appear before him, and the householders so summoned, after being sworn, faithfully and impartially to examine the ground which shall be pointed out to them by the commissioner, superintendent or supervisor, shall assess the damages which they shall believe such owner or owners will sustain, over and above the additional value which such lands will derive from the construction of such road, and make two written reports signed by at least a majority of them; one of which they shall give to the commissioner, superintendent or supervisor requesting the view, and the other to the opposite party; which award or assessment of damages shall, as well where the amount shall be agreed upon by the parties without applying to a justice of the peace, be laid before the county commissioners' court for consideration, who shall examine the matter, and should they decide the amount of damages is not unreasonable, or more than should be given, and that the opening and improving the road is called for by the public interest, and the finances of the county will justify, they, in that case, will approve and accept the award, and order the money to be paid; and the same being paid, the commissioner, superintendent or supervisor, shall proceed to open and construct said road; which proceedings being recorded in the commissioners' court, the right of way shall be thereby secured: Provided, That the corporation, company, owner or owners of the land, shall have the right to appeal from the decision of the commissioners' court to the circuit court, and the case shall be acted upon in such manner as the court may determine, with a view to justice and the establishment of the road, who shall make such order therein as may seem right and just, which decision shall be final. The provisions of this section shall extend to a cart-way, as contemplated in the twenty-first section of this chapter viewers appointed to be sworn, report to be made, the damages to be paid by the individuals desiring the cart-way, to be confirmed by the commissioners' court; and either party may appeal to the circuit court, where the case being fully heard, such judgment or order shall be made thereon as the court shall deem right, and which shall be a final decision.

(39.) SEC. XXXIX. Supervisors are hereby authorized to bring suits before any justice of the peace of the county, to recover any and all sums due for road labor, road tax, fines and forfeitures imposed by this chapter, which are intended to come into the hands of such supervisors for road purposes, and to collect, disburse and account for the same; suing in the name of the county commissioners, in their official capacity.

(40.) SEC. XL. Any supervisor who neglects to keep the roads in his district in good repair, agreeably to the provisions of this chapter, or fails to perform any other duty herein required, shall be liable to indictment, and on conviction thereof, shall be fined in a sum not less than five dollars, and not exceeding fifty dollars, to be expended on some road within the district of said supervisor.

(41.) SEC. XLI. The clerk of the commissioners' court in each county shall, at each term of the circuit court, make out and furnish the grand jury with a list of the names of all supervisors in the county, with the date at which they were appointed.

(42.) SEC. XLII. Sheriffs, and clerks of the county commissioners' courts, shall be allowed a fair and reasonable compensation for discharging the duties required of them by this chapter, to be paid out of the county treasury, on the allowance and order of the county commissioners' courts respectively.

An Act to amend an Act entitled "An Act concerning Public Roads," approved February 20, 1841.
[Approved Feb. 28, 1845. App. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 591.]

of the several counties in this State, at their March term, annually, shall fix and cause to be entered upon the records of their courts, a certain number of days, not exceeding two nor less than one, that each and every able-bodied man, between the ages of twenty-one and fifty years, shall labor upon some public road within the county, during the year; and it shall be the duty of the clerk of said court to append the number of days fixed as aforesaid, to the notice of each supervisor appointed in said county.

(44.) SEC. II. The county commissioners' court of each and every county, in addition to the work required in the preceding section, may, at their March term, annually, assess a road tax of not more than twenty cents, on each hundred dollars' worth of taxable property, real and personal, or either, in their counties; and a column in the tax book shall designate the amount of such road tax due from each person, from whom the same is to be collected: Provided, That said court, in counties where the same is deemed necessary, may assess such road tax for the year eighteen hundred and forty-five, at their June session.

(45.) SEC. III. The clerk of the commissioners' court, immediately on the return of the assessor's book, shall make out a list of the names of all persons owing road tax, in each road district in the county, with the amount of tax due from each person, ascertaining the road district to which such person properly belongs; which list shall be, by said clerk, handed to the sheriff, and by him delivered to the respective supervisors; and any clerk or sheriff who shall fail or neglect to perform the duties required in this section, within the time given to each, as specified in the fourth section of the act to which this is an amendment, for serving notices on supervisors, shall be liable to the penalties stated in said section.

(46.) SEC. IV. The tax list being placed in the hands of the supervisor, he shall notify each person residing in said supervisor's district, of the amount due, and that the same may be discharged in labor on the road, and shall thereupon request payment in money or labor, first notifying such person of the time and place to attend and work the same out at the rate of seventy-five cents per day, bringing with him such tools as may be directed by the supervisor; the labor to be performed by the principal or a substitute equally able, working at least eight hours each day; and if such person shall spend the time in idleness, be turbulent, or disobey the supervisor, he shall be discharged from the road, and the balance due shall be collected, with twenty-five per cent. advance: Provided, All money collected by supervisors for road purposes, shall be disbursed on some road within their district.

(47.) SEC. V. When any person or persons desire a change or relocation of any State or county road now located, or hereafter to be located, and the whole distance proposed to be changed does not exceed three miles, the petitioners applying for the same shall deposit with the county commissioners' clerk a sum of money sufficient to pay for viewing and surveying said road; and on the return of such report, the clerk shall pay for the same with the money before deposited, whether the report be favorable or unfavorable to the change or relocation.

(48.) SEC. VI. In all cases where a petition is presented to the county commissioners' court, praying for a change, alteration, location or vacation of any county road, as provided for in the act to which this is an amendment, if there shall be remonstrances presented against granting the same, it shall be the duty of the said court to give due consideration both to the petition and remonstrance, and grant or refuse the prayer of such petitioners, as in their discretion shall be just and proper.

(49.) SEC. VII. Supervisors, for each and every day necessarily employed over and above their road tax, due for road purposes, shall be allowed seventy-five cents per day for each and every day necessarily employed to carry out the provisions of this act, or the act to which this is an amendment; said money to be paid out of the county treasury, on settlement, under oath, with the county commissioners' court: Provided, No supervisor shall be allowed pay for a day's work, when he works with less than ten hands, unless said supervisor's district does not contain as many.

(50.) SEC. VIII. Sections fourteen, sixteen, eighteen and nineteen, of an act concerning public roads, approved February 20, 1841, together with all other parts of said act, as well as of an act to authorize county commissioners' courts to assess taxes for road purposes, approved March 4, 1843, are hereby repealed. This act to take effect and be in force from and after the first day of June next.

(51.) SEC. IX. In all cases where supervisors, under the provisions of this act, fail or refuse to comply with the law in relation to supervisors, suits may be commenced against them before justices of the peace of their counties, who shall have jurisdiction in all cases when the fines or forfeitures do not exceed one hundred dollars.

An Act making certain Fords a part of Public Roads.

[Approved Feb. 26, 1845. App. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 593.]

(53.) SEC. II. When the said ford shall be not more than two and a half feet in depth of water, it shall be the duty of the overseers of the said road, on either side of the said stream, to keep the said ford, and the roads and banks leading thereto, in good order for carriages to pass the same.

(54.) SEC. III. If any person or persons shall build any dam across such stream, thereby raising the water of such ford (unless the same be built for some useful purpose,) or shall place or cause to be placed in such ford, any logs, brush, rock or other obstructions whatever, he, she or they so offending shall pay a fine of twenty dollars for every such offense, to be recovered before any justice of the peace in the county or counties where such ford may be, at the suit of any person who may see cause to sue for the same; and shall, moreover, pay double damages to any person who shall be injured by such obstruction.

An Act to improve the Roads in the Illinois Bottom.

(55.) SEC. I. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly, That persons immediately interested in any roads leading to any ferry, warehouse or landing on the Illinois river, that pass through low, wet or inundated land, that require more than the ordinary or legal road labor to keep them in repair, are hereby authorized to form themselves into associations for the purpose of opening, grading, bridging and keeping in repair such roads.

(56.) SEC. II. In order to form such associations, a meeting may be held at such time and place as any three of the citizens interested may agree; said three citizens to give notice of the time, place and object of the said meeting by posting up written notices of the same in three of the most public places on the road they wish to improve.

(57.) SEC. III. When the citizens are convened in public meeting, as provided for in the second section of this act, they shall organize by appointing one of their number chairman, and another secretary; they shall then determine by vote whether they will form themselves into a society or not; if a majority voting shall agree to form such society, they shall then agree upon a name by which the society shall be called and known, and elect, by ballot, a president and three directors, to be styled and known as the "President and directors of the — road society," who shall hold their offices for two years from their election, and until their successors are elected and enter on the duties of their offices. The secretary shall keep a correct record of the proceedings of the meeting, and cause a certified copy of the same to be filed by him, and recorded in the recorder's office in the county or counties in which the road is situated; which record shall be taken and deemed in all cases sufficient evidence of the existence of such society. At all succeeding elections of president and directors, the president shall give ten days' notice of the same, and the president and directors in office shall cause the same to be conducted in all respects as is provided by this act for the election of the first officers of the society.

(58.) SEC. IV. The president and directors of the society shall have power to locate or relocate State or county roads between the bluffs or highlands and the river: Provided, Such location shall not materially increase the length or distance of said road. When such location is made, the president shall certify the same, setting forth in said certificate the distance, the commencement and termination of said road, together with such other remarks as shall serve to identify the location of the road; which certificate shall be filed in the office of the county commissioners' clerk.

(59.) SEC. V. The president shall call annual meetings of the society in the month of May, at which meetings the society shall determine by vote the number of days' labor each member of the society shall be required to expend on the road that year, or the amount of money each member of the society shall contribute for the improvement of the road that year, to be paid to the president at such time as the society shall determine. The president shall give notice of such meeting by posting up written notice of the same in three of the most public places in the vicinity of said road, setting forth the time, place and object of said meeting.

(60.) SEC. VI. All moneys, labor or other valuable thing subscribed, donated or given for the improvement of any road coming within the provisions of this act, shall be appropriated by the president and trustees of said road for the sole purpose of opening, grading, bridging or macadamizing said road, or for making such other improvement on said road as the society shall direct, and for no other purpose.

(61.) SEC. VII. All persons owning ferries on the Illinois river, and who pay into the treasury of any county in this State any amount of money for the privilege of keeping said ferry, shall be permitted, and they are hereby authorized, to pay the amount of money now required by law or that may hereafter be required to be paid for said privilege, to the president and directors of the road leading to said ferry, and by them appropriated as other money for the improvement of said road; the receipt of the president of the society having charge of the road, to whom the money was paid, shall be a sufficient voucher to secure to the owner of said ferry, paying the money as aforesaid, license to keep such ferry as is now or may hereafter be provided by law.

(62.) SEC. VIII. When there is no society formed to improve a road leading to a ferry, as provided in this act, the money paid by the owner or owners of such ferry for license, to the county commissioners' court, shall be paid by the order of said court to the supervisor having charge of the road leading to said ferry, and shall be expended by him in improving that part of said road situated in the Illinois bottom.

(63.) SEC. IX. Any person being a member of any society organized under the provisions of this act, and who shall have paid annually the sum of five dollars or more, or who shall have expended annually five days' labor, under the direction of the president and trustees, shall not be liable to do road labor in any county in the State; any person paying ten dollars or working ten days, annually, shall be exempt from road labor or road tax in the county in which he may reside; the receipt of the president for money paid, or his certificate for labor performed, shall be sufficient evidence of the money paid or the performance of labor.

(64.) SEC. X. All taxes imposed or assessed upon any ferry license, for any ferry across the Illinois river, shall be and the same is hereby appropriated to making and keeping in repair the roads and bridges across the Illinois bottom, leading to or from said ferry; which said tax may be discharged in labor under the direction of the supervisor of the district in which said road may be located, and to no other purpose whatever, any thing in any law to the contrary notwithstanding.

(65.) SEC. XI. The road leading from the bluffs westward through Moore's Lane, in Scott county, to where it opens upon the prairie in the Illinois bottom, and thence on as direct a route as the nature of the ground will admit, to Mechanics' Ferry, upon the Illinois river, be and the same is hereby established as a State road, to be opened and kept in repair as other State roads.

An Act to amend the several Acts relating to Public Roads.

[Approved Feb. 17, 1847. Laws, 1847, p. 111.]

and cause to be entered upon the records of their courts, a certain number of days, not exceeding five nor less than two, that each and every able-bodied man, between the ages of twenty-one and fifty years, (men of color not excepted,) shall labor upon some public road within the county, during the year; and it shall be the duty of the clerk of said court to certify the number of days fixed, as aforesaid, in the notice to each supervisor appointed in said county.

(67.) SEC. II. If the county commissioners' court of any county shall deem it expedient, a road tax may be assessed and collected in said county, not exceeding twenty cents on each hundred dollars' worth of taxable property, real and personal, as contemplated in the second section of the act passed in relation to public roads, approved February 28, 1845.

(68.) SEC. III. It shall be the duty of the county commissioners' court, upon the presentation of a petition for the location or relocation of a road, to inquire into the manner in which the same was gotten up, if signed by individuals through whose lands the same may pass, as far as practicable, and require proof, and be satisfied that the notice required by law of such intended application had been given, in view that the owners of lands which may be damaged shall have notice thereof.

(69.) SEC. IV. Viewers, in locating a road, shall ascertain, as far as practicable, where damages will be claimed, and report the names of the individuals claiming to the commissioners' court, at the time of making their report; and it shall be incumbent on the owners of property, by themselves or agents, to inform the court at the term at which the road viewers shall report, of such their claims for damages; and no damages shall be allowed unless claim be made to the court as aforesaid, or to the supervisor, commissioner or superintendent appointed to open the road, as now provided by law. After a road shall be opened, and no claim for damages being set up, the State or county shall not be liable for any damages whatever.

(70.) SEC. V. It shall be the duty of supervisors to take good care of plows, road scrapers and other implements belonging to the county, in their charge, and not to lend the same unless to the supervisor to aid him in constructing public roads. Any person who shall violate the provisions of this section, shall forfeit and pay a fine of not less than three nor more than ten dollars.

(71.) SEC. VI. Each and every supervisor shall call out his hands, and do a fair proportion, at least a moiety, of the labor due, in the spring of the year, in putting the roads and bridges in good repair, and grading the same where most needed.

(72.) SEC. VII. If any person shall impair any public road by plowing, or turning a current of water so as to saturate or wash the same, he shall forfeit and pay a fine, for the first offense five dollars, and for a second offense ten dollars, and at that rate for every additional offense; which fines shall be collected either before a justice of the peace, or by indictment in the circuit court, as now provided by law.

(73.) SEC. VIII. Where any city or town has or may become incorporated under a special law, or under a general law authorizing citizens to become incorporated, no requisition in labor or money from the citizens thereof, on property within said corporation, shall be required to improve roads in the county different from the grant in the charter, but they shall be required to work and pay a tax to improve the streets and roads, and such improvements as shall be specified in the charter, or within the limits of the incorporation, so long as the charter or incorporation shall remain in full force. In all towns and villages not incorporated, the citizens thereof shall contribute in labor, and by a tax, when assessed by the county commissioners' court of the county, in improving the streets of the town or village, and the public roads of the road district, including the same under the supervisor.

(74.) SEC. IX. In constructing bridges, where they are not covered, the supervisor shall secure the same by placing on the margins of the plank heavy hewed timber, or by erecting substantial hand rails, so as to prevent damage by wagons running off, or otherwise.

(75.) SEC. X. Any person owning lands in an adjoining or detached county in the State, other than the one in which he resides, may work out his road tax in person, or by an able and good substitute, under any one supervisor in such county where the lands lie, voluntarily attending when a supervisor shall be working on roads; which privilege is hereby granted to non-residents to work out their road taxes under any supervisor in the county where the lands are situated, and the supervisor shall give to such person a receipt for the same, and shall make return thereof to the county commissioners' court, on settlement of his accounts: Provided, That it shall not be incumbent on any supervisor to notify such person out of his district.

(76.) SEC. XI. Sections fourteen, sixteen, eighteen and nineteen, of chapter ninety-three, in the Revised Laws of last session, (in the act of February 20, 1841,) approved March 3, 1845, are hereby re-enacted, and declared to be in full force, except the first section, and so much of the eighth section as this act changes.

(77.) SEC. XII. Immediately on the passage of this act, it shall be the duty of the public printer to publish the same, and transmit a copy or number, by mail, to the clerk of the commissioners' court of each county in the State, to be laid before the courts at the March term, one thousand eight hundred and forty-seven, to enable them to act thereon.

Sections One and Nineteen of an Act to amend Chapter XCIII of the Revised Statutes, and to locate certain Roads.

(79.) SEC. XIX. That the county courts of the several counties of this State shall have the supervision and control of all roads and public highways within their respective counties, whether such county be organized under or by virtue of the "township organization law" or otherwise, and shall be governed by the several laws of this State relating to roads and public highways previous to and at the time of such organization; and all laws and parts of laws coming within the purview of this act, or inconsistent therewith, be and the same are hereby repealed.

An Act to amend the General Road Law, and for other Purposes.

[Approved Feb. 17, 1851. Laws, 1851, p. 184.]

(81.) SEC. II. That hereafter supervisors shall be allowed the sum of one dollar per day, for each and every day in which they are necessarily employed in the discharge of their duties, over and above the time consumed in working out their own tax.

(82.) SEC. III. The secretary of State is hereby required to cause a reprint, in pamphlet form, of all the general laws in relation to public roads, and the duties of supervisors, now in force, to be distributed at the same time and in the same manner as is provided for the distributing the laws and journals of the present session. The number of such pamphlets shall be three thousand, to be distributed to the counties in proportion to population: Provided, That such reprint shall not include any law the object and effect of which is merely to establish State roads.

An Act to amend Chapter XCIII of the Revised Statutes, entitled "Roads."

[Approved June 22, 1852. Laws, 1852, p. 176.]

(84.) SEC. II. All suits, actions and proceedings necessary to be had upon any right or cause of action, for failures to perform road labor, or pay road taxes, or to enforce any contract or promise, in reference to the opening or repairing public roads, shall be had in the corporate name of the county wherein the right of action accrued: Provided, That no suit shall be dismissed on account of informality in the name of the plaintiff; but the court may, on application, permit the record to be so amended as to place the name of the proper plaintiff on the record.

(85.) SEC. III. So much of the act to which this is an amendment as conflicts herewith, is hereby repealed.

(86.) SEC. IV. This act to be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to amend an Act entitled "An Act to amend Chapter XCIII of the Revised Statutes, and to locate certain Roads."

[Approved Feb. 12, 1853. Laws, 1853, p. 176.]

of all roads and public highways in counties which have adopted township organization, be and the same is hereby repealed.

(88.) SEC. II. This act shall be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to amend the several Acts passed at the last regular Session of the General Assembly in regard to the Location of State Roads.

[Approved March 1, 1854. Laws, 1854, p. 10.]

(90.) SEC. II. That in all cases where commissioners have been appointed at the last session of the legislature to review and locate State roads, and any or all of said commissioners have removed, died or refuse to act, then the county court or board of supervisors of the county in which said commissioners were required to be sworn, may appoint commissioners to fill said vacancies, and said commissioners shall have power to perform all the duties by the acts to which this is an amendment.

(91.) SEC. III. This act to take effect and be in force from and after the passage thereof.

An act concerning public roads; in force March 1, 1841. Laws, 1841, p. 232.

DECISIONS. An act of the General Assembly regulating road labor from each male inhabitant between the ages of 21 and 50 years, is constitutional. Sawyer v. The City of Alton, 3 S. 127.

The fact that a road is used by the public as a highway, and recognized and kept in repair as such by the county commissioners and supervisors, raises the legal presumption that such road is a public highway; but this presumption may be rebutted. The 7th section of the act of Feb. 3, 1835, concerning public roads, and the 2nd section of the act of Jan. 18, 1836, amendatory thereof, confer upon county commissioners' courts, a general superintending and discretionary power over public roads and bridges. Eyman et al. v. People, 1 G. 4.

By the 30th section of the act of Feb. 20, 1841, concerning public roads, the owner of land has an appeal to the circuit court, from the decision of the county commissioners' court, on the report of the householders assessing his damages. Hutchins v. County Commissioners, 1 G. 345.

County commissioners have exclusive jurisdiction over roads in their counties. Record evidence of the establishment of a road is not necessary to prove it a public highway; and if such evidence be produced, all the previous steps required by the statute need not be shown to have been taken. Opening and laying out roads are not the exercise of judicial powers. Parol evidence is admissible to show where a road is located. Nealy v. Brown et al., 1 G. 10.

In proceedings for obstructing a road, under the road law of 1841, record evidence of the steps preliminary to the location, is not necessary. A road is, in law, considered established and opened when the county commissioners' court has approved the report of the viewers and the location. One may not obstruct a public road for the shortest time, and in estimating damages therefor, the jury may count fractions of a day. A claim for damages for the location of a public road, must be expressly made, and in season. A supervisor is a competent witness against a person for the obstruction of a public road, and may institute a suit therefor, under the law of 1841, before a justice of the peace. Penalties, under the road law of 1841, are not repealed by the Revised Statutes of 1845. Ferris v. Ward et al., 4 G. 499.

That portion of the 92nd chapter of Rev. Laws, 1845, entitled "RIGHT OF WAY," which relates to State and county roads, is repealed by the 38th section of 93rd chapter, Rev. Laws, 1845, entitled "ROADS." The latter statute limits the right of appeal to the owner of the land where the road is located. An appeal lies from a decision of the county court to the circuit court; upon trial of which, the regularity and validity of the proceedings establishing the road, may be inquired into. If the county court had jurisdiction, and proceeded regularly, the only question in the circuit court is the amount of damages; and after the damages are assessed in the circuit court, the county court may vacate the order establishing the road. No appeal is given to the owner, till after the county court directs the road to be opened, nor can land be appropriated for a road till such order is made. No appeal lies from the decision of the county court refusing to open and construct a road. Tenants in common may join in an appeal, but not those having different interests. A county is liable for costs if the appellant is successful. The owner, on appeal, must prove affirmatively his title to the land, and that he will sustain damages by the construction of the road. The owner must object to the location of the road, and claim damages, in the first instance, and the damages assessed must be paid by the county, before the road can be made. County of Sangamon v. Brown et al., 13 Ill. 207.

Commissioners to assess damages for the opening of a road, have no authority to make an agreement with the owner in relation thereto, and such an agreement, unexecuted, may be revoked. Kimball v. Yates et al., 14 Ill. 464.

In a collateral proceeding, the minutes, files and other proofs, showing the proceedings of the county commissioners' court, may be examined to ascertain whether a road was legally laid out and established. Parol proof of the existence of a highway, showing that it was traveled, recognized and worked as such, may raise the presumption of dedication. When a report is signed by two of three viewers of a road, the third will be presumed to have been present and consulting, till the contrary is shown. Louk v. Woods, 15 Ill. 256.

Where an order establishing a road is introduced in evidence, it is unnecessary to show that the previous legal steps were taken, the presumption being that the preliminary proceedings were regular. The act of March 3, 1835, did not require a survey of the road to be made and filed, but that its course should be designated by stakes, &c., and such marks, and not the report of the viewers, determine the locality of the road. Dumoss et al. v. Francis, 15 Ill. 543.

RAIL ROADS.

An Act to provide for a General System of Railroad Incorporations.

[Approved Nov. 5, 1849. Laws, 1849, (2nd Sess.) p. 15.]

(95.) SEC. II. Such articles of association shall not be filed in the office of the secretary of State until ten per cent. on the amount of the stock subscribed thereto shall have been actually and in good faith paid, in cash, to the directors named in such articles, nor until there is indorsed thereon, or annexed thereto, an affidavit, made by at least three of the directors named in such articles, that the amount of stock required by the first section has been subscribed, and that ten per cent. on the amount has actually been paid in.

(96.) SEC. III. A copy of any articles of association filed in pursuance of this act, with a copy of the affidavit aforesaid indorsed thereon, or annexed thereto, and certified to be a copy by the secretary of this State, or his deputy, shall, in all courts and places, be presumptive evidence of the incorporation of such company, and of the facts therein stated.

(97.) SEC. IV. When the certificate shall have been filed as aforesaid, the persons who shall have signed and acknowledged the same, and their successors, shall be a body politic and corporate, by the name stated in such certificate, and shall be capable of suing and being sued, and may have a common seal, and may make and alter the same at pleasure, and be capable in law of purchasing, holding and conveying any real estate and personal property whatever, necessary for the construction of such road, and for the erection of all necessary buildings, yards and appurtenances for the use of the same.

(98.) SEC. V. The commissioners for opening books of subscription, named in the act of incorporation, shall, from time to time, after the company shall be incorporated, open books of subscription to the capital stock of the company, in such places and after giving such notice as a majority of them shall direct; which books of subscription shall be kept open until all the capital stock shall be subscribed, if the corporation shall so long exist, and in case a greater amount of stock shall be subscribed than the whole capital of said company, the commissioners shall distribute such capital stock as equally as possible among the subscribers; but no share thereof shall be divided in making such distribution, nor shall a greater number of shares be allotted to any subscriber than such subscriber shall have subscribed for.

(99.) SEC. VI. As soon as practicable after such capital stock shall have been subscribed and distributed as aforesaid, the commissioners to receive subscriptions thereto shall appoint a time and place for the meeting of the stockholders to choose directors; such meeting to be held in one of the counties in or through which such railroad is proposed to be constructed, and notice thereof shall be given by said commissioners, by public notice to be published not less than twenty days previous thereto, in the State paper, and a newspaper published in each county through which the said road shall be intended to run, in which a newspaper shall be published. Thirteen directors shall be chosen at such meeting, by ballot, and by a majority of the votes of the stockholders, being present in person or by proxy, and every such stockholder being so present at such election, or at any subsequent election of directors, shall be entitled to give one vote for every share of stock which he shall have owned for the thirty days next preceding such election; but no stockholder shall vote at any such election upon any stock, except such as he shall have owned for such thirty days. No person shall be a director unless he shall be a stockholder, owning stock absolutely and in his own right, and qualified to vote for directors at the election at which he shall be chosen; and at least seven of the directors shall, at the time of their election, be residents of the counties in or through which the route of such railroads shall run. The directors shall be directors for one year, and until others are elected in their places.

(100.) SEC. VII. The commissioners named in the last preceding section shall be inspectors of the first election of directors, shall openly count the votes and declare the result, and shall, within ten days thereafter, file a certificate thereof, subscribed by them or a majority of them, in the office of the secretary of State, and in the office of the clerk of each county, or with the clerk of the county commissioners' court, as the case may be, of each county in or through which such railroad shall be proposed to be constructed, and shall also deliver to the treasurer of such company all moneys [received] by such commissioners on subscriptions to such capital stock, and all books and papers in their possession relative to such subscriptions. All subsequent elections shall be held at such time and place in one of these counties through which such railroad shall pass, as shall be directed by the by-laws of the company.

(101.) SEC. VIII. A general meeting of the stockholders of any corporation formed under this act shall be holden annually, at the time and place appointed for the election of directors, and a meeting may be called at any time during the interval between such annual meetings, by the directors or by the stockholders owning not less than one-fourth of the stock, by giving thirty days' public notice of the time and place of the meeting, in the State paper, and a newspaper published in each county through which the said road shall be run or be intended to run, in which a newspaper shall be published; and when any such meeting is called by the stockholders, the particular object of such call shall be stated, and if at any such meeting thus called, a majority in value of the stockholders are not represented in person or by proxy, such meeting shall be adjourned from day to day, not exceeding three days, without transacting any business, and if, within said three days, stockholders having a majority of the stock do not attend such meeting, then the said meeting shall be dissolved.

(102.) SEC. IX. At the regular meeting of the stockholders of any corporation, it shall be the duty of the president and directors in office for the preceding year to exhibit a clear and distinct statement of the affairs of the said company, and at any meeting of the stockholders a majority of those present in person or by proxy may require similar statements from the directors, whose duty it shall be to furnish them when thus required; and at all general meetings of the stockholders, a majority in value of the stockholders in said company may fix the rate of interest which shall be paid by the company, for loans for the construction of said road and its appendages, may remove any president or any director of said company and elect others in their stead: Provided, Notice of such intended removal has been given, as required by the last preceding section.

(103.) SEC. X. In case it shall happen at any time that an election of directors shall not be made on the day designated by the by-laws of the company, when it ought to have been made, the company for that reason shall not be dissolved, if within ninety days thereafter they shall hold an election for directors in such manner as shall be provided by the by-laws of the company. There shall be a president of the company, who shall be chosen by and from the directors, and also such subordinate officers as the company, by its by-laws, may designate, who may be elected or appointed, and required to give such security for the faithful performance of the duties of their office as the company, by its by-laws, may require.

(104.) SEC. XI. It shall be lawful for the directors to call in and demand from the stockholders, respectively, all sums of money by them subscribed, at such time and in such payments or installments as the directors shall deem proper, under the penalty of forfeiting the shares of stock subscribed for, and all previous payments made thereon, if payments shall not be made by the stockholders within sixty days after personal demand, or notice requiring such payment shall have been made in each county through which said road shall be laid out in which a newspaper shall be published.

(105.) SEC. XII. The directors of such company shall have power to make by-laws for the management and disposition of stock, property and business affairs of such company, not inconsistent with the laws of this State, and prescribing the duties of officers, artificers and servants that may be employed, for the appointment of all officers for carrying on all the business within the object and purposes of such company.

(106.) SEC. XIII. The stock of such company shall be deemed personal estate, and shall be transferable in the manner prescribed by the by-laws of the company, but no shares shall be transferable till all previous calls thereon shall have been fully paid in, or the said shares shall have been forfeited for the non-payment of calls thereon; and it shall not be lawful for such company to use any of their funds in the purchase of any stock in their own or in any other corporation.

(107.) SEC. XIV. All the stockholders of any such company that shall be hereafter incorporated under this act, shall be severally individually liable to the creditors of such company to an amount equal to the amount of stock held by them, respectively, for all debts and contracts made by such company, until the whole amount of capital stock fixed and limited by the company in manner aforesaid shall have been paid in, and a certificate thereof shall have been made and recorded, as prescribed in the following section; and shall be jointly and severally liable for all debts that may be due and owing to all their laborers, servants and apprentices, for services performed for such corporation, but not be liable to an action therefor before an execution shall be returned satisfied in whole or in part against the corporation, and then the amount due on said execution shall be the amount recoverable, with costs, against said stockholders.

(108.) SEC. XV. The president and a majority of the directors, within thirty days after the payment of the last installment of the capital stock, so fixed and limited by the company, shall make a certificate, stating the amount of the capital stock so fixed and paid in; which certificate shall be signed by the president and a majority of the directors, and sworn to by the president and secretary, and they shall, within the said thirty days, file and record the same in the office of the secretary of State.

(109.) SEC. XVI. If the directors of any such company shall declare and pay any dividend when the company is insolvent, or any dividend the payment of which would render it insolvent, they shall be jointly and severally liable for all the debts of the company then existing, and for all that shall thereafter be contracted so long as they shall respectively remain in office: Provided, That if any of the directors shall be absent at the time of making the dividend, or shall object thereto, and shall, within thirty days thereafter, or after their return, if absent, file a certificate of their absence or objection with the clerk of the company, and with the clerk of the county, or with the clerk of the county commissioners' court of the county in which the principal office of said company is located, they shall be exempt from the said liability.

(110.) SEC. XVII. If any certificate, or report made, or public notice given by the officers of any such company, in pursuance of the provisions of this act, shall be false in any material representation, all the officers who shall have signed the same shall be jointly and severally liable for all the debts of the company contracted while they are stockholders or officers thereof.

(111.) SEC. XVIII. No person holding stock in any such company, as executor, administrator, guardian or trustee, and no person holding such stock as collateral security, shall be personally subject to any liability as stockholder of such company; but the person pledging the stock shall be considered as holding the same, and shall be liable as a stockholder accordingly; and the estates and funds in the hands of such executor, administrator, guardian or trustee, shall be liable in like manner and to the same extent as the testator or intestate, or the ward or persons interested in such trust fund would have been if he had been living and competent to act, and held the same stock in his own name.

(112.) SEC. XIX. Every such administrator, executor, guardian or trustee, shall represent the shares of stock in his hands at all meetings of the company, and may vote accordingly as a stockholder.

(113.) SEC. XX. Every such company, before proceeding to construct a part of their road through any county named in their certificate of association, shall make a map and profile of the route intended to be adopted by such company; which shall be certified by a majority of the directors, and filed in the office of the county clerk of such county, or with the clerk of the county commissioners' court of such county, for the inspection and examination of all parties interested therein.

(114.) SEC. XXI. Every such corporation shall possess the general powers, and be subject to the general liabilities and restrictions expressed in the special powers following, that is to say:

1st. To cause such examination and surveys for the proposed railroad to be made as may be necessary to the selection of the most advantageous route for the railroad, and for such purpose, by their officers, agents and servants, to enter upon lands or waters of any person, but subject to responsibility for all damages which they shall do thereto.

2nd. To receive, hold and take such voluntary grants and donations of real estate and other property, as shall be made to it, to aid in the construction, maintenance and accommodation of such railroad; but the real estate thus received by voluntary grants shall be held and used for the purposes of such grants only.

3rd. To purchase, and by voluntary grants and donations receive and take, and by its officers, engineers and surveyors and agents, enter upon and take possession of, and hold and use all such land and real estate and other property as may be necessary for the construction and maintenance of its railroad and stations, depots and other accommodations necessary to accomplish the object for which the corporation is created; but not until the compensation to be made therefor, as agreed upon by the parties, or ascertained as hereinafter prescribed, be paid to the owner or owners thereof, or deposited as hereinafter directed, unless the consent of such owner be given to enter into possession.

4th. To lay out its road, not exceeding six rods wide, and to construct the same, and for the purpose of cuttings, embankments, and procuring stone and gravel, may take as much more land within the limits of its charter, in the manner provided hereinafter, as may be necessary for the proper construction and security of the road.

5th. To construct their road upon or across any stream of water, water course, road, highway, railroad or canal, which the route of its road shall intersect; but the corporation shall restore the stream or water course, road or highway thus intersected, to its former state, or in a sufficient manner not to have impaired its usefulness.

6th. To cross, intersect, join and unite its railroad with any other railroad before constructed, at any point on its route, and upon the grounds of such other railroad company, with the necessary turn-outs, sidings and switches, and other conveniences, in furtherance of the objects of its connections; and every company whose railroad is or shall be hereafter intersected by any new railroad, shall unite with the owners of such new railroad in forming such intersections and connections, and grant the facilities aforesaid; and if the two corporations cannot agree upon the amount of compensation to be made therefor, or the points or manner of such crossings and connections, the same shall be ascertained and determined by commissioners to be appointed by the court, as is provided hereinafter in respect to the taking of lands.

7th. To purchase lands or take them, may change the line of its road whenever a majority of the directors shall so determine, as is hereinafter provided, but no such change shall vary the original route of such road to exceed one mile laterally.

8th. To take, transport, carry and convey persons and property on their railroad, by the force and power of steam, of animals, or any mechanical powers, or by any combinations of them, and receive tolls or compensation therefor.

9th. To erect and maintain all necessary and convenient buildings, stations, depots and fixtures, and machinery for the accommodation and use of their passengers, freight and business, and obtain and hold the lands necessary therefor.

10th. To regulate the time and manner in which passengers and property shall be transported, and the tolls and compensation to be paid therefor; but such compensation for any passenger and his ordinary baggage shall not exceed three cents a mile, unless by special act of the legislature, and shall be subject to alteration as hereinafter provided.

11th. To borrow money, to be applied to the construction of their railroad and fixtures, and purchase of engines and cars, at such rates of interest as is hereinafter provided.

(115.) SEC. XXII. Any number of persons, not less than thirteen, intending to organize a corporation under the provisions of this act, and every company that may hereafter organize under this act, may present a petition to the legislature, stating the place from and to which they propose to construct their road, and its location and route, with reasonable certainty, or that they intend to run the said road on the most direct and eligible route between the points of terminus, and praying the legislature to determine whether the construction of the said proposed road will be of sufficient public use to justify the taking of private property for the construction of the same. And if the legislature shall determine and decide by law that such proposed road will be of sufficient public utility to justify the taking of private property for constructing and maintaining said road, under the provisions of this act, then such company, when organized, may enter upon, take possession of and use all such lands, real estate, as may be required for the construction and maintenance of their railroad, and the convenient accommodations appertaining to the same; making compensation, in the manner hereinafter provided, for all lands, real estate, thus taken possession of and used, except such as may be voluntarily given to or purchased at an agreed price by the said corporation. Whenever the said corporation shall not have acquired by gift or purchase, any land, real estate, so required as aforesaid, or which may be affected by any operation connected by such construction and maintenance, the said corporation may present to the circuit court of the district where said lands or real estate shall lie, a petition, signed by its attorney or agent, describing with convenient accuracy and certainty, by map or otherwise, the lands or real estate so required to be taken or affected as aforesaid, setting forth the name and residence of each owner or other person interested therein as owner, lessee or incumbrancer, as far as known to such attorney or agent, or appearing of record, and praying the appointment of commissioners, to ascertain the compensation to be made to such owners and persons interested, for the taking or injuriously affecting such land or real estate as aforesaid. The court shall have satisfactory evidence that notice of an intended application, and the time and place thereof, for the appointment of commissioners of appraisal between said corporation and the owners and persons interested in such lands and real estate, had been given at least ten days previously, to such owners personally, or to some person of suitable age, at their residence or on the premises; or by the publication thereof in a newspaper printed in the county in which such lands or real estate may lie, such publication to be allowed only in respect to owners who shall appear by affidavit to have no residence in the county, known to such agent or attorney, whereat such notice could be delivered as aforesaid. The court may adjourn the proceedings from time to time; shall direct any future notice thereof to be given that may seem proper; shall have proofs and allegations of all parties interested, touching the regularity of the proceedings; and shall, by an entry in its minutes, appoint five competent and disinterested persons commissioners to ascertain such compensation as aforesaid, specifying in such entry a time and place for the first meeting of such commissioners. The said commissioners, before entering upon the duties of their office, shall take the oath required by the laws and constitution of this State, and any one of them may administer oaths to witnesses produced before them; and may adjourn, and may hold meetings for that purpose. Whenever they shall meet to hear proofs and allegations, unless by appointment of the court or pursuant to adjournment, they shall cause reasonable previous notice of such meetings to be given to the said owners or parties interested, or their attorney or agent, and may each of them issue subpoenas and compel witnesses to appear and testify; they shall hear the proofs and allegations of the parties, and any three or more of them, after reviewing the premises, shall, without fear, favor or partiality, ascertain and certify the compensation proper to be made to said owners and parties interested, for the lands or real estate to be taken, as well as all damages accruing to the owner of the lands and real estate aforesaid, taken in consequence of the condemnation of the same, or injuriously affected as aforesaid, making such deduction or allowance for real benefit or advantages which such owners or parties interested may derive from the construction of said road, and may in their discretion assess a separate reasonable sum in favor of such owner and parties interested, or of any person appointed by the court to appear as attorney for them, for costs, expenses and reasonable counsel fees. They, or a majority of them, shall make subscribe and file with the clerk of the county, or with the clerk of the county commissioners' court, in which such lands or real estate shall lie, a certificate of their said ascertainment and assessment, in which such lands or real estate shall be described by map or otherwise, with convenient accuracy and certainty. The court, upon such certificate and due proof that such compensation and separate sums, if any be certified, have been paid to the parties entitled to the same, or have been deposited to the credit of such parties in the State treasury, or other place for that purpose approved by the court, shall make and cause to be entered in its minutes, a rule describing such lands or real estate, in manner aforesaid, such ascertainment of compensation, with the mode of making it, and such payment or deposit of the same compensation as aforesaid; a certified copy of which rule shall be recorded and indexed in the proper recorder's office, in like manner and with the like effect as if it were a deed of conveyance from the said owners and parties interested to the said corporation. Upon the entry of such rule, the said corporation shall become seized in fee of all the lands and real estate described in said rule, as required to be taken as aforesaid, during the continuance of the corporation, by this or any subsequent act, and may take possession of and hold and use the same for the purposes of said road, and shall thereupon be discharged from all claim for any damages by reason of any matter specified in said petition, certificate or rule of said court. If, at any time after an attempted or actual ascertainment of compensation under this or any other act, or any purchase by or donation to said corporation, of any lands for the purposes aforesaid, it shall appear that the title acquired thereby to all or any part of such lands for the use of said road, or if said corporation shall fail or be deemed defective, the said corporation may proceed anew to perfect such title, by procuring an ascertainment of the compensation proper to be made to any person or persons who have title, claim or interest in or lien upon such lands, and by making payment thereof in the manner hereinafter provided, as near as may be; and at any stage of such new proceedings, or of any proceedings under this act, the court may, by a rule in that behalf made, authorize the said corporation, if already in possession, and if not in possession, to take possession of and use such premises during the pendency and until the final conclusion of such proceedings, and may stay all actions and proceedings against such corporation on account thereof: Provided, Such corporation shall pay a sufficient sum into court, or give approved security to pay the compensation in that behalf, when ascertained; and in every case where possession shall be so authorized, it shall be lawful for the owners to conduct the proceedings to a conclusion, if the same shall be delayed by the company. The said commissioners shall be entitled to receive from said corporation, a compensation not exceeding two dollars for each day actually employed by them in the discharge of their duties. Such compensation to be taxed and allowed by the court. If any commissioner so appointed shall die, be unable or fail to serve, the court may appoint another in his place, on reasonable notice of the application, to be approved by the court. The proceedings hereby authorized may be had in the circuit court in a county where the lands lie, and all motions to the circuit court shall be made at a general or special term thereof, in said county. The said commissioners shall file the said certificate in the county where the lands to be affected may lie, or in any adjacent county, and any clerk may transfer the same and the proceedings connected therewith, to the clerk of the county in which the lands to be affected may lie, or of any county adjacent thereto, whenever such commissioner or clerk shall be so required by said corporation, its agent or attorney. And the legislature hereby reserves [the right] to itself to indicate the routes and termini of said roads, and the same shall not be constructed or commenced without the expressed sanction of the legislature of this State, by a law to be passed hereafter.

(116.) SEC. XXIII. In case any infant, idiot, or insane person, or any unknown owner or owners, not personally notified to appear, and who shall not appear after such notice, on the appointment of commissioners, shall be interested in any such lands, real estate and property, the court shall appoint some proper person to appear before the said commissioners and act as attorney for and in behalf of such infant, idiot, insane person, unknown owner, or non-appearing owner, not personally served with notice.

(117.) SEC. XXIV. If at any time after the location of the track of said road, in whole or in part, and the filing of the map thereof, it shall appear to the directors of said company that the line in some parts thereof may be improved, it shall be lawful for the said directors, from time to time, to alter the line, and cause a new map to be filed in the office where the map showing the first location is or shall be filed, and may thereupon proceed to take possession of the lands embraced in such new location that may be required for the construction and maintenance of said road on such new line, and the convenient accommodations appertaining to the same, either by agreement with the owner or owners, or by such proceedings, as near as may be, as are authorized under the preceding section of this act, and use the same in place of the line for which the new is substituted. Nothing in this act contained shall authorize the said company to make a location of their track within any city without the consent of the common council of said city.

(118.) SEC. XXV. Whenever the track of said railroad shall cross a road or highway, such road or highway may be carried under or over the track, as may be found most expedient; and in cases where an embankment or cutting shall make a change in the line of such road or highway desirable, with a view to a more easy ascent or descent, the said company may take such additional lands for the construction of such road or highway, or such new line, as may be deemed requisite by said directors. Unless the lands so taken shall be purchased or voluntarily given for the purposes aforesaid, compensation therefor shall be ascertained in the manner in this act provided, as nearly as may be, and duly made by said corporation to the owners and persons interested in such lands; the same, when so taken or compensation made, to become part of such intersecting road or highway, in such manner and by such tenure as the adjacent parts of the same highway may be held for highway purposes.

(119.) SEC. XXVI. If any such corporation shall, for its purpose aforesaid, require any land belonging to the people of this State, or to any of the counties or towns, the General Assembly of the State and the county or town officers, respectively, having charge of such lands, may grant such lands to such corporations for a compensation, which shall be agreed upon between them; and if they shall not agree upon a sale and price, the same may be taken by the corporation as is before provided in respect to other cases.

(120.) SEC. XXVII. Every conductor, baggage-master, engineer, brakeman or other servant of any such railroad corporation, employed on a passenger train, or at stations for passengers, shall wear upon his hat or cap a badge, which shall indicate his office, and the initial letters of the style of the corporation by which he is employed. No conductor or collector without such badge, shall demand or be entitled to receive from any passenger any fare, toll or ticket, or exercise any of the powers of his office; and no other of said officers or servants, without such badge, shall have any authority to meddle or interfere with any passenger, his baggage or property.

(121.) SEC. XXVIII. Every such corporation shall make an annual report to the secretary of this State, of the operations of the year ending on the first day of January; which report shall be verified by the oaths of the treasurer, and the acting superintendent of operations, and filed in his office by the twentieth day of January, in each year, and shall state—

- 1st. The capital stock and the amount actually paid in;
- 2nd. The amount expended for the purchase of lands for the construction of the road, for buildings, and for engines and for cars, respectively;
- 3rd. The amount and nature of its indebtedness, and the amounts due the corporation;
- 4th. The amount received for the transportation of passengers, of property, of the mails, and from other sources;
- 5th. The amount of freight, specifying the quantity in tons, of the products of the forests, of animals, of vegetable food, other agricultural products, manufactures, merchandise, and other articles;
- 6th. The amount paid for repairs, engines, cars, buildings and salaries;
- 7th. The number and amount of dividends, and when paid;
- 8th. The number of engine houses and shops, of engines and cars, and their character;
- 9th. The number of miles run by passenger, freight and other trains, respectively;
- 10th. The number of men employed, and their occupation;
- 11th. The number of persons injured in life or limb, and the causes of such injury;
- 12th. Whether any accidents have arisen from carelessness or negligence of any person in the employment of the corporation, and whether such person is retained in the service of the corporation.

(122.) SEC. XXIX. Any such corporation which shall neglect to make such report, shall be liable to a penalty of two hundred and fifty dollars, to be sued for in the name of the people of this State.

(123.) SEC. XXX. The property belonging to any company organized under the provisions of this act, shall be listed by the resident secretary or other proper officer, with the auditor of State, which shall be subject to the same rate of taxation as other similar property of individuals, and the revenue arising therefrom shall be paid into the State treasury, until the entire extinction of the internal improvement debt of the State, after which the said property shall be subject to taxation, and the revenue arising therefrom paid as in the case of all other property in the State. The revenue derived under this section to be applied to the payment of the public debt of the State.

(124.) XXXI. The State shall have a lien upon all railroads of said corporations, and their appurtenances and stock therein, for all penalties, taxes and dues which may accrue to the State from said corporations; which lien of the State shall take precedence of all demands, judgments or decrees against said corporation; and the citizens of this State shall have a lien upon all personal property of said corporation to the amount of one hundred dollars, originally contracted within this State; which, after said lien of the State, shall take precedence of all other debts, demands, judgments or decrees, liens or mortgages, against said corporation.

(125.) SEC. XXXII. The legislature may, when any such railroad shall be opened for use, from time to time, alter or reduce the rates of toll, fare, freight, or other profits upon such road; but the same shall not, without the consent of the corporation, be so reduced as to produce with said profits less than fifteen per cent. per annum on the capital actually paid in; nor, unless on an examination of the amounts received and expended to be made by the secretary of State, he shall ascertain that the net income divided by the company from all sources for the year then last past shall have exceeded an annual income of fifteen per cent. upon the capital of the corporation actually paid in.

(126.) SEC. XXXIII. Any such corporation shall, when applied to by the postmaster general, convey the mail of the United States on their road or roads, respectively; and in case such corporation shall not agree as to rates of transportation thereof, and as to time, rate of speed, manner and condition of carrying the same, it shall be lawful for the governor of this State to appoint three commissioners, who, or a majority of them, after fifteen days' notice, in writing, of the time and place of meeting to the corporation, shall determine and fix the prices, times and condition aforesaid, but such prices shall not be less for carrying said mails in the regular passenger trains than the amount which such corporation would receive as freight on a like weight of merchandise transported in their merchandise trains, and a fair compensation for the post-office car. And in case the postmaster general shall require the mail to be carried at other hours, and at a higher speed than the passenger trains be run at, the corporation shall furnish an extra train for the mail, and be allowed an extra compensation for the expenses and wear and tear thereof, and for the services to be fixed aforesaid.

(127.) SEC. XXXIV. If any passenger shall refuse to pay his fare or toll, it shall be lawful for the conductor of the train and the servants of the corporation to put him out of the cars at any usual stopping place the conductor shall select.

(128.) SEC. XXXV. Every such corporation shall start and run their cars for the transportation of passengers and property, at regular times to be fixed by public notice, and shall furnish sufficient accommodations for the transportation of all such passengers and property as shall, within a reasonable time previous thereto, offer or be offered for transportation at the place of starting and the junctions of other railroads, and at sidings and stopping places established for receiving and discharging way passengers and freight, and shall take, transport and discharge such passengers and property at, from and to such places, on the due payment of tolls, freight or fare legally authorized therefor.

(129.) SEC. XXXVI. In case of the refusal by such corporation, or their agents, to take and transport any passengers or property, or to deliver the same or either of them at the regular or appointed time, such corporation shall pay to the party aggrieved all damages which shall be sustained thereby, with costs of suit.

(130.) SEC. XXXVII. In forming a passenger train, baggage or freight or merchandise or lumber cars shall not be placed in rear of passenger cars, and if they or any of them shall be so placed and any accident shall happen to life or limb, the officer or agent who so directed or knowingly suffered such arrangement, and the conductor or engineer of the train, shall each and all be held guilty of intentionally causing the injury, and be punished accordingly.

(131.) SEC. XXXVIII. A bell of at least thirty pounds weight, or a steam whistle, shall be placed on each locomotive engine, and shall be rung or whistled, at the distance of at least eighty rods from the place where the said road shall cross any other road or street, and be kept ringing or whistling until it shall have crossed said road or street, under a penalty of fifty dollars for every neglect, to be paid by the corporation owning the railroad, one-half thereof to go to the informer, and the other half to the State, and also be liable for all damages which shall be sustained by any person by reason of such neglect.

(132.) SEC. XXXIX. Every such corporation shall cause boards to be placed, well supported by posts or otherwise, and constantly maintained across each public road or street, where the same is crossed by the railroad on the same level. Said boards shall be elevated, so as not to obstruct the travel, and to be easily seen by travelers; and on each side of said boards shall be painted in capital letters, of at least the size of nine inches each, the words "Railroad crossing—look out for the cars while the bell rings or the whistle sounds." But this section shall not apply to streets in cities or villages, unless the corporation be required to put up such boards, by the officers having charge of such streets.

(133.) SEC. XL. If any person shall, while in charge of a locomotive engine running upon the railroad of any such corporation, or while acting as the conductor of any car or train of cars on any such railroad, be intoxicated, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

(134.) SEC. XLI. If any person shall willfully do, or cause to be done, any act or acts whereby any building, construction or work of any such corporation, or any engines, machine or structures, or any matter or thing appertaining to the same, shall be stopped, obstructed, impaired, weakened, injured or destroyed, the person or persons offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall forfeit and pay to the said corporation, treble the amount of damages sustained by means of such offense.

(135.) SEC. XLII. All penalties imposed by this act may be sued for by the district attorney, and in the name of the people of the State of Illinois; and if such penalty be for a sum not exceeding one hundred dollars, then such suit may be brought before a justice of the peace.

(136.) SEC. XLIII. Every such corporation shall, within a reasonable time after the road shall be located, cause to be made,

1st. A map and profile thereof, and of the land taken or obtained for the use thereof, and file the same in the office of the secretary of State; and also like maps of the parts thereof located in different counties, and file the same in the office for recording deeds in the county in which said parts of said road shall lie, there to remain as of record forever; and struct the railroad, and the grades and curves.

(137.) SEC. XLIV. If any such corporation shall not, within five years after its incorporation, begin the construction of its road and expend thereon ten per cent. on the amount of its capital, and finish the road and put it in full operation in ten years thereafter, its act of incorporation shall become void.

(138.) SEC. XLV. All existing railroad corporations within this State shall respectively have and possess all the powers and privileges, and be subject to all the duties and liabilities and provisions contained in this act, so far as they shall be applicable to their present conditions, and not inconsistent with their several charters, and all railroad companies that are now constructing their roads, may acquire title to lands necessary for that purpose under the provisions of this act.

(139.) SEC. XLVI. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act supplemental to an Act entitled "An Act to provide for a General System of Railroad Incorporations."

[Approved Nov. 6, 1849. Laws, 1849, (2nd Sess.) p. 28.]

(141.) SEC. II. That for the payment of said stock, the judges of the county court of the county or the common council of the city making such subscription or purchase, are hereby authorized to borrow money at a rate not exceeding ten per cent. per annum, and to pledge the faith of the county or city for the annual payment of the interest, and the ultimate redemption of the principal; or if the said judges or common council should deem it most advisable, they are hereby authorized to pay for such subscription or purchase, in bonds of the city or county, making such subscription to be drawn for that purchase, in sums not less than fifty dollars, bearing interest not exceeding ten per centum per annum: Provided, That no bond shall be paid out at a rate less than par value.

(142.) SEC. III. The railroad companies already organized or incorporated, or hereafter to be organized or incorporated under the laws of this State, are hereby authorized to receive the bonds of any county or city becoming subscribers to the capital stock of such company, at par, and in lieu of cash, and to issue their bonds, bearing interest not exceeding ten per centum per annum for any moneys by them borrowed for the construction of their railroad and fixtures, or for the purchase of engines and cars, and for such purpose may dispose of any bonds by them received as aforesaid.

issued, by any county or city under the provisions of this act, whereby any debt shall be created by said judges of the county court of any county, or by the common council of any city, to pay any such subscription, unless a majority of the qualified voters of such county or city (taking as a standard the number of votes thrown at the last general election previous to the vote had upon the question of subscription under this act for county officers,) shall vote for the same; and the judges of the county court of any county, or the common council of any city, desiring to take stock as aforesaid, shall give at least thirty days' notice, in the same manner as notices are given for election of State or county officers in said counties, requiring said electors of said counties or said cities to vote upon the day named in such notices, at their usual place of voting, for or against the subscription for said capital stock which they may propose to make, and said notices shall specify the company in which stock is proposed to be subscribed, the amount which it is proposed to take, and the time which the bonds proposed to be issued are to run, and the interest which said bonds are to bear; or in case it is proposed to borrow money to pay such subscription, then the notices shall state the terms upon which such loan is to be effected; and the opinion of the electors shall be expressed upon their ballots "for subscription," or "against subscription," and counted and returned by the judges and clerks of elections as in other cases; and if a majority of the voters of said county or city, assuming the standard aforesaid, shall be in favor of the same, such authorized subscription or purchase, or any part thereof, shall then be made by said judges or common council. In case any election had under this act, is held upon a day of general election, then the number of votes thrown at such general election for county officers shall be the standard of the number of qualified voters as aforesaid. No bonds shall be issued under the provisions of this act by any county or city, excepting for the amounts required to be paid at the time of subscription, and for the amounts of and at the time when assessments upon all the stockholders of said company shall be regularly assessed and made payable.

(144.) SEC. V. This act shall take effect from and after its passage.

An Act to amend an Act entitled "An Act supplemental to an Act entitled 'An Act to provide for a General System of Railroad Incorporations,'" approved Nov. 6, 1849.

[Approved Feb. 15, 1851. Laws, 1851, p. 109.]

(146.) SEC. II. This act to take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Sections Five and Sixteen of an Act to incorporate the Wabash Valley Railroad Company, and to regulate the Capital Stock of other Railroads.

[Approved June 22, 1852. Laws, 1852, p. 187.]

(147.) SEC. V. The capital stock of said company shall be five hundred thousand dollars, which said capital stock of this or any other organized railroad company, may, by order of their several boards of directors, be increased, when deemed necessary, to any amount not exceeding the actual bona fide estimated cost of constructing and equipping their respective roads, and subscription to the increased capital stock may be made, from time to time, as may be ordered and directed by the board of directors of such companies, respectively; which stock shall be divided into shares of fifty dollars each, which shall be deemed personal property, and may be issued, certified, transferred and registered in such manner and at such places as may be ordered and provided by the board of directors, who shall have power to require the payment of stock subscribed in the manner and at the time and in such sums as they may direct; and on the refusal or neglect on the part of stockholders, or any of them, to make payment on the requisition of the board of directors, the share of such delinquent may, after thirty days' public notice, be sold at public auction under such rules as the directors may adopt, the surplus money, if any remains after deducting the payments due, with the interest and necessary cost of sale, to be paid to the delinquent stockholder. The board of directors, hereinafter named and approved, shall cause books to be opened for subscription to the capital stock of said company, at such times and places and in such manner as they shall direct: Provided, That as soon as seventy-five thousand dollars of bona fide subscription shall be made to said capital stock, and five per cent. thereon paid, it shall be lawful for said company to commence the construction of said road.

(148.) SEC. XVI. Said company is hereby authorized, from time to time, to borrow such sum or sums of money as may be necessary for completing and finishing or operating their said railroad, and to issue and dispose of their bonds, in denominations of not less than five hundred dollars, at such rate of interest, not exceeding seven per cent. per annum, and at such discount as may be thought for the benefit of the company. This section shall apply to all railroad incorporations in the State which desire to avail themselves of its provisions, and for any amount so borrowed, and to mortgage their corporate property and franchises, or convey the same, by deed of trust, to secure the payment of any debt contracted by said company for the purposes aforesaid; and the directors of said company may confer on any bondholder of any bond issued for money borrowed as aforesaid, the right to convert the principal due or owing thereon into stock of said company, at any time, not exceeding ten years from the date of the bond, under such regulations as the directors of said company may see fit to adopt.

An Act to amend an Act entitled "An act to provide for a General System of Railroad Incorporations."

[Approved Feb. 12, 1853. Laws, 1853, p. 222.]

(149.) SEC. I. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly, That all railroad companies incorporated, or which may be hereafter incorporated under the authority of this State, the lines or routes of which railroads may connect with or cross each other, shall have power to make contracts or arrangements with each other for the use of each others' engines, machinery or cars, as also for the mutual transportation of material, merchandise and passengers upon and along the lines of each others' roads, upon such terms as may be mutually agreed upon between any such corporations.

An Act to enable Railroad Companies and Plank Road Companies to consolidate their Stock.

(151.) SEC. II. Such consolidation may take place whenever the said companies shall respectively agree upon the terms and conditions of the same; and the said companies, when so consolidated, shall be authorized to agree upon the name or names of such consolidated company, and by such name or names the said consolidated company shall be a body corporate and politic, shall have a common seal or seals, and by such name or names shall be respectively contracted with and make contracts, shall sue and be sued, implead and be impleaded with, and shall have all the powers, franchises and immunities which the said respective companies shall have, by virtue of their respective charters, before such consolidation passed within the State of Illinois: Provided, That each consolidated company shall file for record, in the office of the secretary of State, a copy of their said articles of consolidation, evidenced by the signature of the presiding officer of each of the said companies, and the corporate seal thereof.

(152.) SEC. III. The corporation or corporations formed by virtue of the provisions, of this act shall have power to increase their capital stock to any amount required by resolution of their respective boards of directors, not exceeding the amount of the cost of the roads and works constructed and equipped by them; to borrow money and fix the rate of interest therefor; to issue bonds and the same to sell at such price as they may deem expedient, such sales being hereby authorized and confirmed; and to make any other contracts authorized by the by-laws of the said corporation or corporations, within the purview of their said charters.

(153.) SEC. IV. Such corporation or corporations, when so formed, shall have the same power to consolidate with other companies when their lines connect, upon such terms as may be agreed upon by them respectively.

(154.) SEC. V. No company in this State shall be authorized under the provisions of this act to consolidate with any company beyond the limits of this State, until the termini of such company in this State shall first have been fixed by the laws of this State at the boundary line thereof.

(155.) SEC. VI. This act shall not be so construed as to authorize any plank road not having power to build a railroad, to consolidate with any railroad so as to lay a railroad upon any plank road track, until the termini of such railroad shall have been expressly fixed by law, nor shall any plank road so consolidate with any railroad unless authorized by law to lay a railroad track.

(156.) SEC. VII. All proceedings for the purpose of consolidation as above provided, shall be fixed and regulated by the by-laws of the respective companies desiring such consolidation: Provided, That such consolidation shall not take place until the terms of such consolidation shall have been approved by a majority of the stockholders in interest, in person or by proxy, at an annual or called meeting, of which due notice shall be given, by publication or in writing, to all stockholders interested, or the same be approved by the written consent of a majority of the stockholders in interest, filed in the office of their company.

(157.) SEC. VIII. When it shall be necessary for the construction of any railroad to cross the track of any other railroad, stream of water, water-course, road or highway, which it may intersect or cross by reason of such extension, into or through any adjoining State, or by reason of its consolidation with any other road or roads, company or companies, as provided in this act, it shall be lawful for said company to construct their road across or over the same by such track or tracks, bridge or bridges, viaduct or viaducts, as may be necessary to the convenience of the extension or consolidation of said road: Provided, Said company shall restore the railroad, stream of water, water-course, road or highway thus intersected or crossed, to its former state, or in a sufficient manner not materially to interfere with its usefulness.

(158.) SEC. IX. This act shall take effect from and after its passage.

An Act to facilitate the Construction of Railroads.

[Approved March 1, 1854. Laws, 1854, p. 11.]

(160.) SEC. II. That this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

An Act to provide for the Burial of the Dead occurring on Railroads, and in or by Vehicles carrying Passengers.

[Approved Feb. 15, 1855. Laws, 1855, p. 170.]

(162.) SEC. II. In like manner shall every railroad company running cars within this State be liable for all the expense of the coroner and his inquest, and the burial of all persons who may die on the cars, or who may be killed by collision or other accident occurring to such cars, or otherwise; and any coroner, city, town or person, who shall take charge of and decently inter any such body or corpse, or cause an inquest to be held over such corpse, shall have cause of action against such company before any court having competent jurisdiction.

(163.) SEC. III. The same liability in every respect shall attach to all steamboats, propeller boats, vessels or stages, which are engaged in whole or part in the conveyance of passengers for hire.

(164.) SEC. IV. This act shall be a public act, and shall take effect from and after its passage.

An Act to regulate the Duties and Liabilities of Railroad Companies.

[Approved Feb. 14, 1855. Laws, 1855, p. 173.]

No railroad corporation shall be required to fence the sides of its roads, except when such fence is necessary to prevent horses, cattle, sheep and hogs from getting on to the track of the railroad from the lands adjoining the same, nor shall they be required to construct said fences on the sides of their railroads where the same runs through uninclosed lands lying at a greater distance than five miles from any settlement. Nor shall the said companies be required to erect and maintain said fences through lands where the proprietors of said lands have already erected fences, or agreed with said companies so to do.

(166.) SEC. II. But it shall be the duty of every owner of land adjoining any railroad, who has received a specific sum as compensation for fencing along the line of land taken for the purpose of said railroad, and has agreed to build and maintain a lawful fence on the line of said road, to build and maintain such fence: and it shall also be the duty of every owner of land adjoining every railroad, who has received compensation for building and maintaining a lawful fence on the line of said road, by way of damages, in the condemnation of land taken for the purposes of said road under the laws of this State, to build and maintain such fence; and if said owner, his heirs or assigns, shall not build said fence within six months after he has been notified to do so by the said railroad corporation, or shall neglect to maintain said fences, if built, said corporations shall build and thereafter maintain such fence, and may maintain a civil action against the person so neglecting to build or maintain said fence, to recover the expense thereof; and such railroad corporation shall not be liable to such owner or owners, their heirs and assigns, for any damages which shall be done by the agents or engines, locomotives or cars of any such corporation, to any cattle, horses, sheep or hogs of said owner or owners, their heirs, assigns or lessees, coming upon said road, by reason or on account of the failure of such owner or owners, their heirs or assigns, to construct or maintain said fences.

(167.) SEC. III. If any person shall ride, lead or drive any horse or other animal upon such road and within such fences and guards, other than at farm or road crossings, without the consent of the corporation, or who shall pull down, tear down or otherwise render insufficient to exclude stock, any part of said fencing, he shall be liable to a penalty of not less than ten or more than one hundred dollars, to be recovered in action of debt before any court having jurisdiction in such cases, in the name of the company or corporation owning such road, and for its use, and also shall pay all damages which shall be sustained thereby to the party aggrieved.

An Act to enable Railroad Companies to enter into operative Contracts, and to borrow Money.

[Approved Feb. 12, 1855. Private Laws, 1855, p. 304.]

(169.) SEC. II. All railroad companies incorporated or organized, or which may be incorporated or organized as aforesaid, shall have the right of connecting with each other and with the railroads of other States, on such terms as shall be mutually agreed upon by the companies interested in such connection.

(170.) SEC. III. Every railroad company incorporated or organized, or which may hereafter be incorporated or organized under the authority of the laws of this State, shall have power to borrow such sums of money, from time to time, as may, in the opinion of the directors, or a majority of them, be necessary for constructing, completing or operating their railroad, or for aiding in the construction, or operating any connecting railroad, whether within or without this State, and may issue and dispose of their bonds or obligations for any amount so borrowed, and may mortgage all or any portion of their property and franchises, to secure the payment of any debt contracted by the company for the purpose aforesaid; and such company may sell their bonds or obligations, either within or without the State, at such rates and prices as the directors of the company, or a majority of them, may sanction and determine, and said sales shall be as valid and obligatory upon the company for the full amount of the bonds or obligations sold, as if such bonds or obligations were sold at par value; and all such bonds and obligations may be made convertible into stock at such times and upon such terms as the directors may determine.

DECISIONS. Companies organized under the general railroad law of Nov. 5, 1849, cannot condemn lands for obtaining a right of way, until the General Assembly shall have passed a law approving the route and termini of the proposed roads. Gillwater v. Miss. & Atlantic R. R. Co., 13 Ill. 1.

The General Assembly may enact general laws, to regulate corporations in the exercise of their franchises, in such manner as to provide for the public safety. Such a law, requiring a bell to be rung, or whistle sounded, on a railroad engine, when about to cross another road, is binding on railroad corporations created before the passage of such general law; and the omission of such signal is prima facie negligence. Railroad corporations are not liable for all damages which may occur where the signal is not given, until proof that the damages were caused by omitting to give the signal. In the exercise of privileges, a railroad corporation is subject to the general police laws of the State, like an individual. Galena & Chicago U. R. R. Co. v. Loomis, 13 Ill. 548.

CHAPTER XCIV.

SALTPETER CAVES.

SECTION

1. Saltpeter caves to be inclosed so as to exclude stock.

SECTION

2. Persons working caves without inclosing them, fined fifty dollars, and liable for all damages.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 490.]

SECTION I. All persons working saltpeter caves in this State, for the purpose of manufacturing saltpeter, shall, previous to commencing the manufacture of saltpeter, inclose such caves with a good and lawful fence, and keep the same at all times in good repair, so as prevent cattle and other stock from gaining access thereto.

Sec. II. All persons working saltpeter caves in this State, and not first complying with the preceding section, may be fined in any sum not exceeding fifty dollars, to be recovered before any justice of the peace of the county in which the offense may be committed, upon complaint made by any person, in the name of the county commissioners' court of such county, one-half to the person suing therefor, the other to the county commissioners' court of the county; and shall also be liable for all damage which individuals may sustain by reason of their stock gaining access to saltpeter caves or manufactories.

PRIOR LAWS. An act to provide for the inclosing and guarding saltpeter caves in this State; in force June 1, 1835. Laws, 1835, p. 151.

6. Commissions to be countersigned, sealed, and register thereof kept by secretary.
7. Laws, &c., to be deposited in secretary's office.
8. Books, bills, &c., in possession of either house of the General Assembly, to be deposited in secretary's office on their adjournment.

SECTION

9. Duty of secretary and treasurer to preserve from waste, the State-house and public property in Springfield.
10. Geological specimens, &c., to be preserved by the secretary of State.
11. To keep catalogues, &c., of geological specimens.
12. To file and preserve letters and statements concerning specimens; to report to the legislature.
13. Secretary of State authorized to subscribe for and purchase certain works
14. Which he is to preserve and bind, and place in State library.
15. May continue subscriptions.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 491.]

(1.) SECTION I. The secretary of State shall be keeper of the seal of the State; he shall reside and keep his office at the seat of government; shall keep a fair register of all the official acts of the governor; and when required, shall lay the same, and all papers, minutes and vouchers relative thereto, before either house of the General Assembly.

(2.) SEC. II. It shall be the duty of the secretary of State to procure the necessary furniture, presses for the safe deposit of the archives of his office, and the necessary books and stationery, and fuel for use therein. It shall be his duty to purchase all articles necessary for the use of the members of the General Assembly, and the officers of the same, which he shall charge to the State in his own name, taking, in all cases, a receipt from the person of whom the same shall be purchased; and all expenditures under this section shall be certified by the governor to the auditor of public accounts, who shall issue his warrant upon the State treasurer for the amount of the same.

(3.) SEC. III. As often as the windows and doors of the State-house shall need repairs, or the furniture thereof to be replenished or repaired, the said secretary shall have the same done, which shall be allowed and paid for as above; and he shall permit the firewood which may remain on hand, at the end of the General Assembly, to be used for the public offices.

(4.) SEC. IV. At the close of every session of the General Assembly, the secretary of State shall cause all the tables, chairs, desks and other furniture of the two houses of the General Assembly, to be placed in secure rooms and locked therein; and he shall not permit any part of the said furniture to be used during the recess of the General Assembly for any purpose whatever.

(5.) SEC. V. The secretary of State shall, when required by any person or persons so to do, make out copies of all laws, acts, resolutions or other records appertaining to his said office, and shall attach thereto his certificate, under the seal of this State, and for which he shall be entitled to such fees and compensation as now are or hereafter may be allowed by law.

(6.) SEC. VI. All commissions required by law to be issued by the governor, shall be countersigned by the secretary of State, who shall also affix the State seal thereto. He shall also make a register of such commission, specifying the person to whom given or granted, the office conferred, with the date and tenor of such commission, in a book to be provided and kept for that purpose.

(7.) SEC. VII. All public acts, laws and resolutions that have been or shall be passed by the General Assembly of this State, shall be carefully deposited in the office of secretary of State; and the secretary of State is hereby charged with the safe-keeping of said office, and all laws, acts, resolutions and records deposited or which shall hereafter be deposited therein.

(8.) SEC. VIII. The secretary of the senate and clerk of the house of representatives, at the close of each session of the General Assembly, shall deliver to the secretary of State, all books, bills, documents and papers in the possession of either branch of the General Assembly, correctly labelled, folded and classed, according to the subject matter of such documents respectively; and the secretary of State is hereby required to file the same in his office.

(9.) SEC. IX. It shall be the duty of the secretary of State and treasurer, to take charge of and safely preserve from waste, the houses, lots, grounds and appurtenances, situated within the city of Springfield, and belonging to the State of Illinois.

(10.) SEC. X. It shall be the duty of the secretary of State, to receive and safely preserve, in some convenient and proper place in the State-house, all such geological and mineralogical specimens, ancient remains, Indian and other antiquities, as may be presented or sent to him.

(11.) SEC. XI. It shall also be the duty of the secretary of State, to make and preserve, in the library room of the State-house, or in the room where said specimens shall be kept, a catalogue, specifying therein from what place, from whom and when the same was received, with such additional memoranda as he shall deem important and proper.

(12.) SEC. XII. It shall be the duty of the secretary of State to file away and preserve in his office, all letters and written statements accompanying said specimens, and such treatises on scientific subjects as shall be furnished to him; and at each session of the General Assembly, he shall report thereto, giving a general account of the specimens received and the information obtained.

An Act to authorize the Secretary of State to subscribe for certain Periodical Works.

[Approved Feb. 21, 1845. App. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 594.]

(14.) SEC. II. It shall be the duty of the secretary of State, to receive and preserve the said works, and have them bound in the same form that the remaining numbers are bound, and place them in the State library, subject to the care of the librarian.

(15.) SEC. III. The secretary of the State is authorized to continue said subscriptions, until otherwise directed by law.

PRIOR LAWS. An act defining and regulating the duties of the secretary of State; in force March 1, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 87.

An act defining and regulating the duties and term of service of the secretary of State; in force Feb. 14, 1831. Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 567.

An act providing stationery and fire wood for the use of the General Assembly; in force Jan. 6, 1825. Laws, 1825, p. 59; Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 590.

An act requiring the secretary of State and State treasurer to take charge of the public buildings, and for other purposes; in force Feb. 26, 1841. Laws, 1841, p. 302.

An act to authorize and direct the secretary of State to receive and preserve geological specimens, and for other purposes; in force March 4, 1843. Laws, 1843, p. 154.

DECISIONS. The secretary of State may rightfully refuse to countersign and seal a commission which the governor has no legal power to issue. The People ex rel. v. Forquer, Breese, 68.

The office of secretary of State is not limited in its duration by the constitution, and it remains unlimited, till the General Assembly shall by law fix the time of its duration. The governor, therefore, cannot remove the secretary at his pleasure, but only when a vacancy occurs. Field v. The People, 2 S. 79.

CHAPTER XCVII.

SECURITIES.

SECTION

1. One person bound as security for another, who is about to abscond or become insolvent, may notify creditor to bring suit, if right of action has accrued; if creditor fail to bring suit or take measures to recover of principal in a reasonable time, securities to be released from liability.
2. Heirs and other legal representatives; same rights and liabilities pertain to them as to principals.
3. What securities not affected by this chapter.
4. Rights and remedies of creditor against principal debtor not impaired hereby.

SECTION

5. Securities, who have paid debt for principal, may have summary remedy for its recovery.
6. Obligations of joint securities to creditor, and to each other, defined.
7. Security shall not confess judgment so as to distress principal, provided principal will give him collateral security.
8. How bail may proceed against principal, after having suffered judgment.

[Approved March 3, 1845. Rev. Stat. 1845, p. 493.]

SECTION. I. When any person or persons shall hereafter become bound as security or securities by bond, bill or note, for the payment of money or other property, and shall apprehend that his or their principal debtor or debtors, is or are likely to become insolvent, or to migrate from this State, without previously discharging such bond, bill or note, so that it will be impossible or extremely difficult for such security or securities, after being compelled to pay the money or other property due by such bond, bill or note, to recover the same back from such principal debtor or debtors, it shall or may be lawful for such security or securities, in every such case, provided an action shall have accrued on such bond, bill or note, to require, by notice in writing, of his, her or their creditor or creditors, or his, her or their assignee, forthwith to put the bond, bill or note by which he, she or they may be bound as security or securities as aforesaid, in suit; and unless such creditor or creditors, or assignee, so required to put such bond, bill or note in suit, shall, in a reasonable time, commence action on such bond, bill or note, and proceed with due diligence in the ordinary course of law, to recover a judgment for and by execution to make the amount due by such bond, bill or note, the creditor or creditors, or assignee, so failing to comply with the requisitions of such security or securities, shall thereby forfeit the right which he or they otherwise have to demand and receive of such security or securities the amount which may be due by such bond, bill or note.

SEC. II. Any security or securities, or in case of his, her or their death, then his, her or their heirs, executors or administrators, may, in like manner, and for the same cause, make such requisitions of the executors or administrators, or assignee of the creditor or creditors of such security or securities, as is hereinbefore enacted may be made by a security or securities of his or their creditor or creditors; and in case of failure of the executors or administrators so to proceed, such requisition as aforesaid being duly made, the security or securities, his or their executors or administrators making the same, shall have the same relief that is hereinbefore provided for a security or securities, when his or their creditors shall be guilty of a similar failure.

SEC. III. Nothing contained in this chapter shall be so construed as to affect bonds, collateral conditions, or the bonds which may be entered into by guardians, executors, administrators or public officers.

SEC. IV. The rights and remedies of any creditor or creditors, against any principal debtor or debtors, shall be in nowise affected by this chapter, anything herein to the contrary, or seeming to the contrary notwithstanding.

SEC. V. In all cases where judgment hath been or shall hereafter be entered up in any of the courts of record within this State, against any person or persons as security or securities, their heirs, executors or administrators, upon any note, bill, bond or obligation, and the amount of such judgment, or any part thereof, hath been discharged by such security or securities, his, her or their heirs, executors or administrators, it shall be lawful for such security or securities, his, her or their heirs, executors or administrators, to obtain judgment by motion, against such principal obligor or obligors, his, her or their heirs, executors or administrators, in any court where such judgment may be entered up against such security or securities, his, her or their heirs, executors or administrators.

SEC. VI. Where the principal obligor or obligors have, or shall hereafter become insolvent, and there have been or shall be two or more securities jointly bound with the said principal obligor or obligors in any bond, bill, note or other obligation, for the payment of money or other things, and judgment hath been or hereafter shall be obtained against one or more securities, it shall and may be lawful for the court before whom such judgment was or shall be obtained, upon the motion of the party or parties against whom such judgment hath been entered up as securities, as aforesaid, to grant judgment and award execution against all and every of the obligors and their legal representatives, for their and each of their respective shares and proportions of the said debt, with the damages and costs of the former suit.

SEC. VII. No security or securities, his, her or their heirs, executors or administrators, shall be suffered to confess judgment, or suffer judgment to go by default, so as to distress his, her or their principal or principals, if such principal or principals will enter him, her or themselves, as defendant or defendants to the suit, and tender to the said security or securities, his, her or their heirs, executors or administrators, other good and sufficient collateral security, to be approved of by the court before whom the suit shall be depending.

SEC. VIII. In all cases where judgment hath been or hereafter shall be entered up in any of the courts of record in this State, against any person, as appearance or special bail for the appearance of another, to defend any suit depending in such court, and the amount of such judgment, or any part thereof, hath been paid or discharged by such bail, his, her or their heirs, executors or administrators, it shall and may be lawful for such bail, his, her or their heirs, executors or administrators, to obtain judgment by motion, against the person or persons for whose appearance they were bound, his, her or their heirs, executors or administrators, for the full amount of what may have been paid by said bail, his, her or their heirs, executors or administrators, together with interest and cost, in any court where judgment may have been entered up against such appearance or special bail: Provided, always, That no judgment shall be obtained by motion in any of the cases aforesaid, unless the party or parties against whom the same is prayed, shall have ten days' previous notice thereof.

See post, under title "WILLS," "An act respecting executors, administrators, guardians and their securities," approved Feb. 12, 1853.

PRIOR LAWS. An act providing for the relief of securities in a summary way, in certain cases; approved March 24, 1819. Laws, 1819, p. 243; Rev. Laws, 1833, p. 570.

[Approved Feb. 15, 1855. Laws, 1855, p. 51.]

SECTION I. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly, That at the election to be held on Tuesday after the first Monday of November, A. D. 1856, and biennially thereafter, there shall be elected, by the legal voters of this State, a State superintendent of public instruction, who shall hold his office for two years, and until his successor is duly elected and qualified.

SEC. II. Before entering upon his duties, he shall take and subscribe the usual oath of office, and shall also execute a bond in the penalty of twenty-five thousand dollars, payable to the State of Illinois, with sureties to be approved by the governor, conditioned for the prompt discharge of his duties as superintendent of public instruction, and for the faithful application and disposition, according to law, of all school moneys that may come into his hands by virtue of his office; said bond and oath shall be deposited with the secretary of State, and an action may be maintained thereon by the State, at any time, for a breach of the conditions thereof.

SEC. III. It shall be his duty to keep an office at the seat of government of this State, and to file all papers, reports and public documents transmitted to him by the school officers of the several counties, each year separately, and to keep and preserve all other public documents, books and papers relative to schools coming into his hands as State superintendent, and to hold the same in readiness to be exhibited to the governor, or to any committee of either house of the General Assembly, and shall keep a fair record of all matters pertaining to the business of his office.

SEC. IV. He shall, without delay, pay over all sums of money which may come into his hands by virtue of his office, to the officer or persons entitled to receive the same, in such manner as may be prescribed by law.

SEC. V. He shall counsel and advise, in such manner as he may deem most advisable, with experienced and practical school teachers, as to the best manner of conducting common schools, and as to the most approved text books, maps, charts, apparatus, &c., to be used in common schools.

SEC. VI. Said superintendent shall have the supervision of all the common and public schools in the State, and shall be the general adviser and assistant of school commissioners in the State; he shall, from time to time, as he shall deem for the interest of schools, address circular letters to said commissioners, giving advice as to the best manner of conducting schools, constructing school-houses, furnishing the same, and procuring competent teachers; he shall recommend the best approved text-books, maps, charts and apparatus, and uniformity in the use of the same, as well as in the manner of conducting schools throughout the State.

SEC. VII. He shall visit every county in the State at least once during his term of office, confer freely with the school officers as to the manner of conducting schools, and shall deliver a public lecture to the teachers and people of each county on the subject of education, if deemed practicable, and perform generally such duties as may tend to advance the interest of education.

SEC. VIII. Said State superintendent shall, before the fifteenth day of December of every year preceding that in which shall be holden a regular session of the General Assembly, report to the governor the condition of schools in the several counties of the State; the whole number of schools which have been taught in each county in each of the preceding years, commencing on the first Monday of October; what part of said number have been taught by males exclusively; what part by females exclusively; what part of said whole number have been taught by males and females at the same time, and what part by males and females at different periods; the number of scholars in attendance at said schools; the number of white persons in each county under twenty-one years of age; the amount of township and county fund; the amount of the interest of the State or common school fund, and of the interest of the township and of the county fund annually paid out; the amount raised by an ad valorem tax; the whole amount annually expended for schools; the number of school-houses, their kind and condition; the number of townships and parts of townships in each county; the number and description of books and apparatus purchased for the use of schools and school libraries under the provisions of this act, the prices paid for the same, and total amount purchased, and what quantity and how distributed; and the number and condition of the libraries; together with such other information and suggestions as he may deem important in relation to the school laws, schools, and the means of promoting education throughout the State; which report shall be laid before the General Assembly at each regular session.

SEC. IX. The said State superintendent of public instruction shall make such rules and regulations as he may think necessary and expedient to carry into full effect the provisions of this act, and of all the laws which now are or may hereafter be in force for establishing and maintaining schools in this State; and the said superintendent shall have power, and it shall be his duty, to explain and interpret and determine to all school commissioners, directors, township and other school officers, the true intent and meaning of this act, and their several duties enjoined thereby, and his decision shall be final, unless otherwise directed by the legislature, or reversed by a court of competent jurisdiction.

SEC. X. The said State superintendent shall have power to direct and cause the school commissioner of any county, director or board of trustees, or township treasurer of any township, or other school officer, to withhold from any officer, or township, or teacher, any part of the common school, or township, or other school fund, until such officer, township or teacher, shall have complied with all the provisions of this act relating to his, her or their duties, and such rules and regulations as the State superintendent may prescribe, not inconsistent with this act; and the State superintendent may forbid the payment of any part of the common school, township, county or other school fund, to any district in which the school or schools have not been kept according to law, or in which no school has been kept for six months during the year next preceding the demand for payment.

SEC. XI. And the said State superintendent shall receive annually the sum of fifteen hundred dollars, to be paid quarterly, as a salary for the services required under the provisions of this act, or any other law that may be passed, and also for all necessary contingent expenses, for books, postage and stationery pertaining to his office, to be audited and paid by the State, as the salaries and contingent expenses of other officers are paid.

SEC. XII. On the Tuesday next after the first Monday in November next, and on the Tuesday next after the first Monday in November every two years thereafter, there shall be elected, by the qualified voters of each and every county in this State, a school commissioner, who shall execute the duties herein required. He shall, before entering upon his duties, take an oath for the faithful discharge of his duties. He shall, before entering upon his duties, execute a bond, payable to the State of Illinois, with two or more responsible freeholders as security, to be approved by the county court, in a penalty of not less than twelve thousand dollars, to be increased at the discretion of said court, in proportion to his responsibilities, conditioned that he will faithfully perform all the duties of school commissioner of said county, according to the laws which are or may be in force; by which bond the obligors shall be bound jointly and severally, and upon which an action or actions may be maintained by the board of trustees of the proper township, for the use of any township or fund injured by any breach thereof; and joint action may be had for two or more funds.

SEC. XIII. The bond required in the foregoing section shall be in the following form, viz.:

"STATE OF ILLINOIS, }
County, } ss.

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, That we, A. B., C. D. and E. F., are held and firmly bound jointly and severally, unto the people of the State of Illinois, in the penal sum of — dollars, to the payment of which, we bind ourselves, our heirs, executors and administrators, firmly by these presents. In witness whereof we have hereunto set our hands and seals, this — day of —, 18—.

The condition of the above obligation is such, that if the above bounden A. B., school commissioner of the county aforesaid, shall faithfully discharge all the duties of said office according to the laws which now are or may hereafter be in force, and shall deliver over to his successor in office all moneys, books, papers and property in his hands as such school commissioner, then this obligation to be void; otherwise to remain in full force and virtue.

A — B — [SEAL.]
C — D — [SEAL.]
E — F — [SEAL.]"

Which bond shall be filed in the office of the county court.

SEC. XV. The said commissioner shall be liable to removal by the county court for any palpable violation of law, or omission of duty; and if a majority of said court shall at any time be satisfied that his bond is insufficient, it shall be his duty, on notice, to execute a new bond, to be payable, conditioned and approved as the first bond; the execution of which shall not affect the old bond, or the liability of the security thereon; and when the office of school commissioner shall become vacant by death, resignation or otherwise, the county court or board of supervisors shall fill the same by appointment for the unexpired term, and the person so appointed shall hold his office until his successor shall be qualified.

SEC. XV. The said commissioner shall provide three well-bound books, to be known and designated by the letters A, B, C, for the following purposes: In book A he shall record at length all petitions presented to him for the sale of common school lands, and the plats and certificates of valuation made by or under the direction of the trustees of schools, and the affidavits in relation to the same. In book B he shall keep an account of all sales of common school lands; which account shall contain the date of sale, name of purchaser, description of lands sold, and the sum sold for. In book C he shall keep a regular account of all moneys received for lands sold, or otherwise, and loaned or paid out; the person of whom received, and on what account, and showing whether it is principal or interest; the person to whom loaned, the time for which the loan was made, the rate of interest, the names of the securities when personal security is taken, or if real estate is taken as security, a description of said real estate, and if paid out, to whom, when and on what account, and the amount paid out; the list of sales, and the accounts of each township fund to be kept separate. Said books shall be paid for out of the county treasury of the counties in which they are used.

SEC. XVI. Whenever the bond of the township treasurer, approved by the board of trustees of schools, as required by law, shall be delivered by the trustees of schools, or either of them, to the school commissioner, he shall receive and file the same with the papers of his office. He shall then, on demand, deliver to said township treasurer, who shall receipt therefor, all moneys in his hands belonging to said township; also, all bonds, mortgages, notes and securities of every description, for money or property due or to become due the township, and all papers of every description belonging or in anywise pertaining to the rights or interests of said township; and the receipt of said treasurer to the school commissioner shall be carefully preserved, and shall be evidence of the facts therein stated, as well in favor of the school commissioner as against the township treasurer.

SEC. XVII. Upon the receipt of the amount due upon the auditor's warrant, as provided in section sixty-eight hereof, the school commissioner shall apportion said amount, (except the amount allowed said commissioner, as provided for in section seventy-four hereof,) to the several townships and fractional townships in his county, according to the number of white children under twenty-one years of age, returned to him, (as provided for in section thirty-seven hereof,) and in which townships or parts of townships schools have been kept in accordance with the provisions of this act, and with the instructions of the State and county superintendents, and shall pay over the distributive share belonging to each township and fractional township, as aforesaid, to the respective township treasurers, or other authorized persons, annually. When there is a county fund in the hands of any school commissioner, it shall be loaned, and the interest applied as provided in this section with respect to the interest on the State fund.

SEC. XVII. The school commissioner shall, also, on or before the second Monday of November before each regular session of the General Assembly, or annually, if so required to do by the State superintendent, communicate to said State superintendent all such information and statistics upon the subject of schools in the county as the said State superintendent is bound to embody in his report to the governor, (as provided for in section eight hereof,) and such other information as the State superintendent shall require; and the said school commissioner shall also communicate the aforesaid information and statistics to the county convention of his county, at its biennial meetings, and at such other meetings as said convention may require.

SEC. XIX. The school commissioner, upon his removal or resignation, or at the expiration of his term of service, (or in case of his death, his representatives,) shall deliver over to his successor in office, on demand, all moneys, books, papers and personal property belonging to the office, or subject to the control or disposition of the school commissioner.

SEC. XX. The school commissioner may loan any money, not interest, belonging to the county fund, or to any township fund, before the same is called for according to law, by the township treasurer, at the same rate of interest, upon the same security and for the same length of time, as is provided by this act in relation to the township treasurers; and notes and mortgages taken in the name of the "school commissioner" of the proper county, shall be, and all loans heretofore made in the name of "school commissioners," are hereby declared to be as valid as if taken in the name of "trustees of schools" of the proper township, and suits may be brought in the name of "school commissioners," on all notes and mortgages heretofore or hereafter made payable to school commissioners.

SEC. XXI. It shall be the duty of the school commissioner to visit, as often as practicable, the several schools of his county, and to note the common method of instruction and branches taught, and give such directions in the art of teaching, and the method thereof, in each school, as to him, together with the directors, shall be deemed expedient and necessary, so that each school shall be equal to the grade for which it was established, and that there may be, as far as practicable, uniformity in the course of studies in the schools of the several grades respectively, and shall carry out the advice and instructions of the State superintendent.

SEC. XXII. In all cases where the township board of trustees of any township shall fail to prepare and forward, or cause to be prepared and forwarded, to the school commissioner, the information and statistics required of them in section thirty-seven (37) of this act, it shall be the duty of said school commissioner to employ a competent person to take the enumeration, and furnish said statistical statement, as far as practicable, to the commissioner; and said person so employed shall have free access to the books and papers of said township, to enable him to make such statement; and the township treasurer, or other officer or person in whose custody such books and papers may be, shall permit said person to examine such books and papers, at such times and places as such person may desire, for the purposes aforesaid; and the said school commissioner shall allow and pay to the person so employed by him, for the services, such amount as he may judge reasonable, out of any money which is or may come into said commissioner's hands, apportioned as the share of or belonging to such township; and the said school commissioner shall proceed to recover and collect the amount so allowed or paid for such services, in a civil action before any justice of the peace in the county, or before any court having jurisdiction, in the name of the State of Illinois, of and against the trustees of schools of said township, in their individual capacity; and in such suit or suits the said school commissioner and township treasurer shall be competent witnesses; and the money so recovered, when collected, shall be paid over to the school commissioner, for the benefit of said township, to replace the money taken as aforesaid.

SEC. XXIII. When any real estate shall have been taken for debts due to any school fund, the title to which real estate has become vested in any school commissioner, or trustees of schools, for the use of the inhabitants of two or more townships, the school commissioner may resell such real estate for the benefit of said townships, under the provisions of this act regulating the sale of the common school lands; and the said commissioner is hereby authorized to execute conveyances to purchasers; and said commissioner shall be entitled to retain the same per centage on the amount of such sale, out of the assets thereof, as he is entitled to for selling common school lands.

SEC. XXIV. Each congressional township, as surveyed and laid off by authority of the United States, is hereby established a township for school purposes. The business of the township shall be done by three trustees, to be elected by the legal voters of the township; and the said township, upon the election of trustees as aforesaid, as hereinafter provided for, shall be a body corporate and politic, by the name and style of "Trustees of schools, of township _____, range _____," according to the number. The said corporation shall have perpetual existence, and shall have power to sue and be sued, to plead and be impleaded, in all courts and places where judicial proceedings are had. Said trustees of schools shall continue in office two years, and until others are elected and enter upon the duties of their office.

SEC. XXV. No person shall be eligible to the office of trustee of schools, unless he shall be twenty-one years of age and a resident of the township.

SEC. XXVI. The election of trustees of schools shall be on the second Monday of January, biennially, but in townships where such election has not been heretofore had, or where there are no trustees of schools, the election of trustees of schools may be holden on any Monday; notice being given as hereinafter in this section required. The first election shall be ordered, if in townships already incorporated, by the trustees of schools of the township, the township treasurer giving notice of the time and place, by posting up notices of the same at least ten days previous to the day of election, at or in the school-house, or in the most public place in every school district in the township. If there are no trustees of schools in a township, the clerk of the county court shall cause the notice to be given as aforesaid. For all subsequent elections, the like notices shall be given by the trustees of schools, through the township treasurer: Provided, That if, upon any day appointed as aforesaid, for election aforesaid, the said trustees of schools, or judges, shall be of opinion that, on account of the small attendance of voters, the public good requires it, or if the voters present, or a majority of them, shall desire it, they shall postpone said election until the next Monday, and at the same place and hour; at which meeting the voters shall proceed as if it were not a postponed or adjourned meeting: Provided, also, That if notice shall not have been given as above required, then and in that case said election may be ordered as aforesaid, and holden on the first Monday in February, or any other Monday; notice thereof being given as aforesaid.

SEC. XXVII. Two of the trustees of schools of incorporated townships, if present, shall act as judges, and one as clerk of said election. If said trustees shall fail to attend, or refuse to act when present, and in townships unincorporated, the qualified voters present shall choose from amongst themselves three judges and a clerk to open and conduct said election.

SEC. XXVIII. The time and manner of opening, conducting and closing said election, and the several liabilities appertaining to the judges and clerks, and to the voters separately and collectively, and the manner of contesting said elections, shall be the same as prescribed by the general election laws of this State, defining the manner of electing magistrates and constables, so far as applicable, subject to the provisions of this act: Provided, The judges may close said election at four o'clock, P. M.

SEC. XXIX. No person shall vote at said election unless he possesses the qualification of a voter at a general election. In case of a tie at such election, it shall be determined by lot, on the day of election, by the judges thereof.

SEC. XXX. When a vacancy or vacancies shall occur in the board of trustees of schools, the remaining trustee or trustees shall order an election to fill such vacancy, upon any Monday; notice to be given as required in section twenty-six hereof.

SEC. XXXI. Upon the election of trustees of schools, the judges of the election shall cause the poll-book of said election to be delivered to the school commissioner of the county, with a certificate thereon, showing the election of said trustees, and names of the persons elected; which poll-book, with the certificate, shall be filed by said commissioner, and shall be evidence of such election.

SEC. XXXII. The said trustees of schools, elected as aforesaid, shall be successors to the trustees of school lands appointed by the county commissioners' court, and of trustees of schools elected in townships under the provisions of "An act making provisions for organizing and maintaining common schools," approved February 26, 1841, and of "An act to establish and maintain common schools," approved March 1, 1847. All rights of property, and rights and causes of action, existing or vested in the trustees of school lands, or trustees of schools appointed or elected as aforesaid, for the use of the inhabitants of the township, or any part of them, shall vest in the trustees of schools as successors, in as full and complete a manner as was vested in the school commissioner, the trustees of school lands, or the trustees of schools appointed and elected as aforesaid.

SEC. XXXIII. It shall be the duty of the township board of trustees to hold regular semi-annual sessions on the first Mondays of April and October in each year, and they may meet at such other times and at such other places as they may think proper; and the president of the board, or any two members thereof, may call a special meeting of the board; and at all meetings of the board, two of its members shall constitute a quorum to transact any business. Said board shall organize by appointing one of their number president, and some person who shall not be a director or member of the board, township treasurer, who shall be ex officio clerk of the board. The said president and township treasurer shall hold their respective offices during the term for which that board of trustees by which they are appointed shall have been elected, and until their successors are appointed, and until their newly appointed treasurer has given bond as required by this act; either of said officers, however, for good cause, may be removed by the board. It shall be the duty of the president, when present, to preside at the meetings of the board; and it shall be the duty of the clerk to be present at all meetings of the board, and to record in a book to be provided for the purpose, all their official proceedings, which shall be a public record, open to the inspection of any person interested therein; and all said proceedings, when recorded, shall be signed by the president and clerk. If the president or clerk shall be absent, or refuse to perform any of the duties of his office at any meeting of the board, a president or clerk pro tempore may be appointed.

SEC. XXXIV. Trustees of schools shall prepare, or cause to be prepared, a map of their township as often as may be necessary, on which shall be designated districts, to be styled district No. —, in township No. —, which they may alter or change at any regular session; which map shall be certified by the president and clerk of the board, and filed with and recorded by the county clerk, in a book to be kept for that purpose, to be paid for out of the county treasury.

SEC. XXXV. At each of their half-yearly meetings, on the first Monday of April and October, the trustees of schools shall proceed to ascertain the amount of State, county and township funds liable to distribution, to wit: the interest actually on hand from the State and county school fund, and such of the interest, rents, issues and profits arising from the township lands and funds as have accrued and become due since their last regular half-yearly meeting, except the two per cent. and the three per cent., which the school commissioner is allowed to retain. The said trustees shall immediately thereupon proceed to distribute the aggregate amount of State, county and township funds thus ascertained to be liable to distribution, as follows: First, to the township treasurer, the two per cent. allowed him; second, for the payment of the books of the township treasurer, if anything be due for that purpose; third, for the payment of any reasonable charges for dividing common school lands, and making plats, &c., as provided for in this act; fourth, the balance they shall apportion on the several schedules certified and returned from each school in the township according to law, in proportion to the number of days certified on such schedules respectively to have been taught since the last regular return day fixed by the act or trustees for the return of schedules; and the township treasurer shall, as soon as practicable, pay out the money so apportioned to the several persons to whom it shall be distributed. The said trustees of schools shall also make such orders, not contrary to law, for the collection of the funds due as in their discretion shall be most for the interest of the funds. They shall also, at their said half-yearly meetings, ascertain the amount of tax money, if any, the treasurer has in hands belonging to any school district being wholly or partly in his township; and they shall see that the treasurer charges himself in his cash book, in a separate column, in favor of the proper district, with the amount they shall find to be in his hands belonging to such district; and the amount so ascertained to be in the hands of the treasurer, shall be paid out as in this section directed. The trustees of schools shall also examine the certificate of the district directors to which such tax fund belongs, and they shall thereupon direct the treasurer, by orders upon him, to pay the tax money aforesaid to the several persons who may appear to be entitled to it according to said certificate.

SEC. XXXVI. Whenever it may be desirable to establish a school composed of pupils, residents of two or more districts, or two or more townships, it shall be the duty of the respective boards of education of each of such townships, to transfer such number of the pupils residing in such townships as the boards may deem proper, to the school so established in the township in which the school-house is or may be located; but the enumeration of scholars shall be taken in each of such townships as if no such transfer had been made; and such school, when so composed, shall be supported from the school funds of the respective townships in which the pupils composing such school shall reside, and from which they shall have been transferred; and the board of that township in which the school-house where such school is kept is located, shall have the control and management of such school; and the boards of each of such townships so connected for school purposes, shall each pay its respective share of the entire expenses, of every kind, incurred in the establishment and support of such school, to be computed in proportion to the number of pupils residing in each of such townships composing such school; and each board of the townships from which pupils are transferred, shall draw an order on the township treasurer, signed by its president, in favor of the township treasurer whose board shall have the control and management of such school, as the case may be, for the amount of its share of the entire expenses aforesaid of such school; and the board of the township having the control and management, as aforesaid, of such school, shall pay out of its treasury the whole amount required for the establishment and maintenance of such schools, in the same manner as provided in this act for the establishment and maintenance of other schools: Provided, however, By agreement of the several boards interested therein, said school may be placed under the control and management of such persons as may be determined by a majority of said boards.

SEC. XXXVII. The board of trustees of each township in this State shall prepare, or cause to be prepared, by the township treasurer, the clerk of the board, or other person, and forwarded to the school commissioners of the county in which the township lies, on or before the second Monday of October, preceding each regular session of the General Assembly of this State, and at such other times as may be required by the school commissioner, or by the State superintendent of public instruction, a statement, exhibiting the condition of schools in their respective townships for the preceding biennial period, giving separately each year, commencing on the first Monday of October, and ending on the last of September, which statement shall be as follows:

1st. The whole number of schools which have been taught in each year; what part of said number have been taught by males exclusively; what part have been taught by females exclusively; what part of said whole number have been taught by males and females at the same time; and what part by males and females at different periods.

2nd. The whole number of scholars in attendance at all the schools, giving the number of males and females separately.

3rd. The number of male and female teachers, giving each separately; the highest, lowest and average monthly compensation paid to male and female teachers, giving each item separately.

4th. The number of persons under twenty-one years of age.

5th. The amount of the principal of the township fund; the amount of the interest on the township fund paid into the township treasury; the amount of State or common school fund received by the township treasurer; the amount raised by ad valorem tax, and the amount of such tax received into the township treasury; and the amount of all other funds received into the township treasury.

6th. The amount paid for teachers' wages; the amount paid for school-house lots; the amount paid for building, repairing, purchasing, renting and furnishing school-houses; the amount paid for school apparatus, for books and other incidental expenses for the use of school libraries; the amount paid as compensation to township officers and others.

7th. The whole amount and a full account of the receipts and expenditures for school purposes.

8th. The number of books of each kind used in the schools, and the years in which each book was purchased, together with such other statistics and information in regard to schools as the State superintendent or school commissioner may require.

SEC. XXXVIII. In all cases where a township is or shall be divided by a county line or lines, the board of trustees of such township shall make, or cause to be made, separate enumerations of male and female white persons of the ages as directed in the fourth specification of the foregoing section thirty-seven (37) of this act, designating separately the number residing in each of the counties in which such township may lie, and forward each respective number to the proper school commissioner of each of said counties; and in like manner, as far as practicable, all other statistics and information enumerated and required to be reported in the aforesaid section thirty-seven, shall be separately reported to the several school commissioners; and all such parts of said statistical information as are not susceptible of division, and are impracticable to be reported separately, shall be reported to the school commissioner of the county in which the sixteenth section of such township is situated.

SEC. XXXIX. At each semi-annual meeting, and at such other meetings as they may think proper, the said township board shall examine all books, notes, mortgages, securities, papers, moneys and effects of the corporation, and the accounts and vouchers of the township treasurer, or other township school officer, and shall make such order thereon for their security, preservation, collection, correction of errors, if any, and for their proper management, as may seem to said board necessary.

SEC. XL. The board of trustees of each township in the State may receive any gift, grant, donation or demise, made for the use of any school or schools, or library, or other school purposes within their jurisdiction; and they shall be and are hereby invested, in their corporate capacity, with the title, care and custody of all school-houses, school-house sites, school libraries, apparatus or other property belonging to any school district as now organized, or which may be within the limits of their jurisdiction, with full power to control the same in such manner as they may think will promote the interest of schools and the cause of education; and when, in the opinion of the school directors, the school-house site has become unnecessary, or unsuitable or inconvenient for a school, said board may sell and convey the same in the name of said board; and such conveyance shall be executed by the president and clerk of said board, and the avails shall be paid over to the township treasurer for the benefit of schools; and all conveyances of real estate which may be made to said board shall be made to said board in their corporate name, and to their successors in office; and said board may purchase and hold such real estate and personal property as may be necessary for the establishment and support of schools.

SEC. XLI. The township board shall cause all moneys for the use of the township to be paid over to the township treasurer. They shall have power, also, to remove the township treasurer at any time, for any failure or refusal to execute or comply with any order or requisitions of said board, legally made, or any other improper conduct in the discharge of his duty as treasurer, or at any time they may deem such removal expedient. They shall also have power, for any failure or refusal as aforesaid, to sue him upon his bond, as provided in section fifty-eight hereof.

SEC. XLII. The township trustees are hereby vested with general power and authority to purchase real estate, if in their opinion the interests of the township fund will be promoted thereby, in satisfaction of any judgment or decree wherein the said board or school commissioner are plaintiffs or complainants; and the title of such real estate so purchased shall vest in said board, for the use of the inhabitants of said township, for school purposes; and all purchases of land heretofore made by school commissioners, or trustees of school lands, or trustees of schools, for the use of any fund or township for the use of schools, are hereby declared valid. The said board are hereby vested with general power and authority to make all settlements with persons indebted to them in their official capacity; or receive deeds of real estate in compromise; and to cancel, in such manner as they may think proper, notes, bonds, mortgages, judgments and decrees, existing, or that may hereafter exist, for the benefit of the township, when the interest of said township, or the fund concerned, shall, in their opinion, require it, and their action shall be valid. Said board of education are hereby authorized to lease or sell, at public auction, any land that may come into their possession, in such manner and on such terms as they shall deem for the interest of the township: Provided, That in all cases of sale of land, as provided in this section, the sale shall be made at the same place, and notice given of it in the same manner, as is provided in this act for the sale of the sixteenth section.

SEC. XLIII. It shall be the duty of the legal voters within each school district to meet at the school-house, or other convenient place in the district, on the first Monday of October next, or as soon thereafter as the township may be laid off into districts, and on the first Monday of October biennially thereafter, and elect three persons within the district, to be styled school directors, who shall continue in office for the term of two years, and until their successors are elected. But the first election may be held on any Monday, notice being given by the township treasurer, according to the provisions of this act. The legal voters, when assembled, shall choose three of their number to act as judges, and one as clerk, at such election. In case of a tie of said election for school directors, it shall be determined by lot on the day of the election, by the judges thereof.

SEC. XLIV. A majority of said directors shall constitute a quorum to do business; and the board, when convened, shall have power to purchase libraries for the district, to be paid for out of the tax funds of the district. They shall establish a sufficient number of common schools for the education of every individual person over the age of five and under twenty-one years, in their respective districts; and shall make the necessary provision for continuing such schools in operation for at least six months in each year, and longer, if practicable. They shall cause suitable lots of ground to be procured, and suitable buildings to be erected, purchased or rented for school-houses, shall supply the same with furniture and fuel, and make all other provisions relative to schools which they may deem proper. They shall exercise a general supervision over the schools of their respective districts, and shall, by one or more of their number, visit every school in the district at least once a month, and shall cause the result of such visit to be entered on the records of the board. They shall have the appointment of all the teachers of the schools in the district, shall fix the amount of teachers' salaries or compensation, and may dismiss them at any time for incompetency, cruelty, negligence or immorality; shall direct what branches of learning shall be taught in each school, and may suspend or expel from the schools, all pupils found guilty, on full examination and hearing, of refractory or incorrigibly bad conduct. Said school directors are hereby authorized to receive and hold, by their name of school directors, for the use of schools in the district, any book purchased for or donated to the district library; and the same shall be kept and controlled and loaned to the inhabitants of the district, under twenty-one years of age, according to rules prescribed by said directors. But the librarian shall in no case receive any compensation out of the common school or township fund for his services as librarian.

SEC. XLV. If judgment shall be obtained against any township board of trustees or school directors, the party entitled to the benefit of such judgment may have execution therefor, as follows, to wit: It shall be lawful for the court in which such judgment shall be obtained, or to which such judgment shall be removed, by transcript or appeal from a justice of the peace, or other court, to issue thence a writ, commanding the directors, trustees and treasurer of such township to cause the amount thereof, with interest and costs, to be paid to the party entitled to the benefit of said judgment, out of any moneys, unappropriated, of said township; or if there be no such moneys, out of the first moneys applicable to the payment of the kind of services or indebtedness for which such judgment shall be obtained, as provided in section sixty-four of this act, which shall be received for the use of such township; and to enforce obedience to such writ by attachment, or by mandamus, requiring such board to levy a tax for the payment of said judgment; and all legal process, as well as writs to enforce payment of a judgment, shall be served either on the president or the clerk of the board.

SEC. XLVI. The school commissioner shall, either by himself or any person or persons whom he shall appoint, examine such person or persons proposing to teach a common school in the county, in relation to his or her qualification to teach orthography, reading in English, penmanship, arithmetic, English grammar, modern geography, and the history of the United States; and if he or they shall be satisfied that such person sustains a good moral character, and is qualified properly to teach all the aforesaid branches, he or they shall give such person a certificate of qualification; which certificate shall be good and valid in said county for two years from the date thereof, and said certificate may be renewed, at its expiration, by indorsement thereon by the said commissioner or examiners. The said certificate to the teacher may be in the following form, viz.:

The undersigned having examined _____, Illinois, _____, 18____, and being satisfied that _____ sustains a good moral character, hereby certify that _____ is qualified properly to teach the following branches, viz.: orthography, reading in English, penmanship, arithmetic, English grammar, modern geography and the history of the United States; which certificate is good and valid in said county for two years from the date hereof, renewable at the option of the school commissioner or of any two members of the board of examiners, by his or their indorsement thereon.
Given under _____ hands, at the date aforesaid.

A _____ B _____, School Commissioner.
C _____ D _____, } Examiners."
E _____ F _____, }

Provided, That each and every school or schools, of whatever grade, established or authorized to be established under the provisions of this act, shall be a school or schools for the purpose of teaching various branches of an English education; and no part of the common school fund, township fund, or of any other school fund, shall be paid out or appropriated for the establishing, conducting or the supporting in any manner of any other character or class of school or schools, as aforesaid designated: Provided, That nothing therein contained shall prevent the teaching a foreign language in a common school as aforesaid.

SEC. XLVII. It shall be the duty of the school commissioner to fix upon the time of holding meetings for the examination of teachers, in such places in their respective counties, as will, in their opinion, best accommodate the greatest number of candidates for examination, notice of all such meetings having been published in some newspaper of general circulation; and all teachers who do not attend at the appointed time for said examination, shall pay to the school commissioner, one dollar for their certificate.

SEC. XLVIII. No teacher shall be entitled to any portion of the common school or township fund, or other public fund, or be employed to teach any school under the control of any board of education of any township in this State, who shall not, before his employment, exhibit to said board, or to a committee of said board, a certificate of qualification obtained under the provisions of this act; nor shall any teacher be paid any portion of the school or public fund aforesaid, unless he shall have kept and furnished schedules as herein directed.

SEC. XLIX. Teachers shall make schedules of the names of all scholars under twenty-one years of age, attending their schools, in the form prescribed by this act; and when scholars reside in two or more districts, townships or counties, separate schedules shall be kept for each district, township or county; and the absence or presence of every scholar shall be set down under the proper date, and opposite the name, on every day that the school is open; and the absence of the scholar shall be signified by a blank—the presence by a mark. The schedule to be made and returned by the teacher shall be, as near as circumstances will permit, in the following form, viz.:

A Schedule of a Common School, kept by A. B., at _____, in District number _____, in township sixteen north, range five east of the third principal meridian, in the County of _____, in the State of Illinois.

And said teacher shall add up and set down the whole number of days' attendance of each scholar, and add up said whole numbers, and make out the grand total number of days' attendance, as in the form above prescribed, and shall attach thereto his certificate, which shall be in the following form, viz.:

"I certify that the foregoing schedule of scholars attending my school, as therein named, and residing as specified in said schedule, to the best of my knowledge and belief, is correct; and that it was a school for the purpose of teaching various branches of an English education.
A. B., Teacher."

Teachers shall also include in said schedule, or furnish a separate report, containing the name of each scholar, and the name of each book used by each scholar, and the year in which each book was purchased: Provided, Said schedule shall not include any book reported in a former schedule. When the teacher shall have completed his or her schedule or schedules, as above required, he or she shall deliver it to some one of the directors or to a committee of at least two members of said board appointed for the purpose; and it shall be the duty of said director, in connection with some other director of the board, or of said committee, to carefully examine such schedule or schedules, and after correcting all errors, and if they shall find such schedule to have been kept according to law, they shall certify to the same, as near as practicable, in the following form, viz.:

County, } ss.

WE, the undersigned, directors of the board of education in township number —, range number —, in the county aforesaid, certify that we have examined the foregoing schedule, and find the same to be correct, and that the school was conducted according to law. That there is now due to said C. D., teacher, as per contract, the sum of — dollars and — cents, and that the said teacher has a legal certificate of good moral character and of qualification to teach a common school, (or of such a grade as the case may be.)

Witness our hands, this — day of —, A. D. 18—.

A. B., } Directors of
C. D., } Board of Education."

Which schedule or schedules, certified as aforesaid, by at least two directors of the board of education, shall be filed by said directors with the township treasurer; and until such schedule and report, as aforesaid, shall have been filed as aforesaid, it shall not be lawful for said treasurer to pay said teacher, or for the board of education, or any two members thereof, to draw an order in favor of said teacher, as provided in section sixty-nine hereof.

Sec. L. School directors shall certify no schedule that reaches back to a time more than six months from the time fixed by law for the regular return and presentation of schedules to the school directors. Schedules made and certified as aforesaid shall, at least two days before the first Saturdays of April and October, be delivered by the directors to the township treasurer.

Sec. LI. The township treasurer appointed by the board of trustees, as provided in section thirty-three of this act, shall, before entering upon his duties, execute a bond, with two or more freeholders, who shall not be members of the board of education, as securities, payable to the board of the township for which he is appointed treasurer, with a sufficient penalty to cover all liabilities which may be incurred, conditioned faithfully to perform all the duties of township treasurer, in township —, range —, in — county, according to law. The security shall be approved by at least a majority of the board of education, and shall be delivered by one of the directors to the school commissioner of the proper county. And in all cases where such treasurer aforesaid is to have the custody of all bonds, notes, mortgages, moneys and effects denominated principal, and belonging to the township for which he is appointed treasurer, the penalty of said treasurer's bond shall be twice the amount of said bonds, notes, mortgages, moneys and effects. And every township treasurer appointed subsequent to the first, as herein provided, shall execute bond, with security, as is required of the first treasurer.

Sec. LII. The bond required in the foregoing section shall be in the following form, viz.:

"STATE OF ILLINOIS, }
County, } ss.

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, That we, A. B., C. D. and E. F., are held and firmly bound, jointly and severally, unto the board of —, in said county, in the penal sum of — dollars, for the payment of which we bind ourselves, our heirs, executors and administrators firmly by these presents.

In witness whereof, we have hereunto set our hands and seals this — day of —, A. D. 18—.

The condition of the above obligation is such, that if the above bounden A. B., township treasurer of township —, range —, in the county aforesaid, shall faithfully discharge all the duties of said office according to the laws which now are or may hereafter be in force, and shall deliver to his successor in office all moneys, books, papers, securities and property in his hands as such township treasurer, then this obligation to be void, otherwise to remain in full force and virtue.

Approved and accepted by G. H., }
I. J., } Directors of
K. L., } Board of Education."

A — B —. [SEAL.]
C — D —. [SEAL.]
E — F —. [SEAL.]

Sec. LIII. Every township treasurer shall provide himself with two well-bound books, the one to be called a cash book, the other a loan book. He shall charge himself in the cash book with all moneys received, stating the charge, when, from whom and on what account received; and credit himself with all moneys paid or loaned, the amount loaned, the date of the loan, the rate of interest, the time when payable, the name of the securities, or if real estate be taken, a description of the same. He shall also enter in separate accounts, moneys received and moneys paid out, charging the first to debit account, and crediting the latter as follows, to wit: 1st. The principal of the township fund, when paid in and when paid out; 2nd. The interest of the township fund, when received and when paid out; 3rd. The common school fund and other funds, when received from the school commissioner, and when paid out; 4th. The taxes received from the county collector, distinguishing between that for general school purposes and that levied for the purpose of prolonging schools, as provided in section seventy-four of this act; 5th. Donations received; 6th. Moneys coming from all other sources; and in all cases entering the date when received and when paid out; and he shall also arrange and keep his books and accounts in such other manner as may be directed by the State or county superintendent, or the board of trustees. He shall also provide a book, to be called a journal, in which he shall record fully and at length the acts and proceedings of the board, their orders, by-laws and resolutions; which book shall be at all times subject to the inspection of said board, or other persons authorized by this act, or of any committee appointed by the inhabitants of the township to examine the same. And he shall also provide a book to be called a record, in which he shall enter a brief description of all notes or bonds belonging to the township, and upon the opposite page he shall note down when paid, or any remarks to show where and in what condition it is, as in the following form, viz.:

Makers' Names.	Date of Note.	When due.	Amount.	Remarks.
A. B., C. D., E. F.	January 1, 1839.	January 1, 1845.	$90 00	January 6, 1848, handed to I. J. Esq., for collection, (or January 6, 1847, paid.)

Sec. LIV. The township treasurers shall loan, upon the following conditions, all moneys which shall come to their hands by virtue of their office, except such as may be subject to distribution according to section — hereof. The rate of interest shall be ten per centum per annum, payable half yearly in advance. The time for which loans shall be made shall not be less than six months nor more than five years. For all sums not exceeding one hundred dollars, loaned for not more than one year, two responsible securities shall be given; for all sums over one hundred dollars and for all loans for more than one year, security shall be given by mortgage on real estate, unincumbered, in value double the amount loaned, with a condition that in case additional security shall at any time be required, the same shall be given to the satisfaction of the board of trustees for the time being. Notes, bonds, mortgages and other securities taken for money or other property, due or to become due to the board of trustees for the township, shall be payable to the said board by their corporate name; and in such name, suits, actions and complaints, and every description of legal proceedings, may be had for the recovery of money, the breach of contracts, and for every legal liability which may at any time arise or exist, or upon which a right of action shall accrue to the use of this corporation: Provided, however, That notes, bonds, mortgages and other securities in which the name of the school commissioner, or of the trustees of schools, are inserted, shall be valid to all intents and purposes; and suit shall be brought in the name of the board of trustees as aforesaid. The wife of the mortgagor, (if he has one,) shall join in the mortgage given to secure the payment of money loaned by virtue of the provisions of this act.

SEC. LV. Mortgages to secure the payment of money loaned under the provisions of this act, may be in the following form, viz.:

"I, A. B., of the county of _____, and State of _____, do hereby grant, convey and transfer to the board of trustees of township _____, range _____, in the county of _____, and State of Illinois, for the use of the inhabitants of said township, the following described real estate, to wit: (Here insert the premises.) Which real estate I declare to be in mortgage for the payment of $____, loaned to me, and for the payment of all interest that may accrue thereon, to be computed at the rate of _____ per cent. per annum, until paid. And I hereby covenant to pay the said sum of money in _____ years from the date hereof, and to pay interest on the same at the rate aforesaid, half-yearly in advance. I further covenant that I have a good and valid title to said estate, and that the same is free from all incumbrance; and that I will pay all taxes and assessments which may be levied on said estate; and that I will give any additional security that may at any time be required by said board of education; and if said estate be sold to pay said debt, or any part thereof, or for any failure or refusal to comply with or perform the conditions or covenants herein contained, I will deliver immediate possession of the premises. And in consideration of the premises, C., wife of said A. B., doth hereby release to the said board all her right and title of dower in the aforegranted premises, for the purposes aforesaid.

In testimony whereof, we have hereunto set our hands and seals, this _____ day of _____, 18____,
 A_____ B_____. [SEAL.]
 C_____ B_____. [SEAL.]"

Which mortgage shall be acknowledged and recorded as is required by law for other conveyances of real estate, the mortgagor paying the expenses of acknowledgment and recording, and fifty cents as a fee to the township treasurer.

SEC. LVI. Upon the breach of any condition or stipulation contained in said mortgage, an action may be maintained and damages recovered as upon other covenants; but mortgages made in any other form to secure payment as aforesaid, shall be valid as if no form had been prescribed. In estimating the value of real estate mortgaged to secure the payment of money loaned under the provisions of this law, the value of improvements liable to be destroyed shall not be included.

SEC. LVII. In all cases where the board of trustees shall require additional security for the payment of money loaned, and such security shall not be given, the township treasurer shall cause suit to be instituted for the recovery of the same, and all interest thereon to the date of judgment: Provided, That proof be made of the said requisition. In the payment of debts by executors and administrators, those due the common school or township fund shall have a preference over all other debts, except funeral and other expenses attending the last sickness, not including the physician's bill. And it shall be the duty of the township treasurer to attend at the office of the probate justice upon the proper day, as other creditors, and have any debts due as aforesaid, probated and classed, to be paid as aforesaid.

SEC. LVIII. If default be made in the payment of interest due upon money loaned [by] any school commissioner or county treasurer, or in the payment of the principal, interest at the rate of twelve per cent. per annum shall be charged upon the principal and interest from the day of default, which shall be included in the assessment of damages, or in the judgment in suit or action brought upon the obligation to enforce payment thereof; and interest as aforesaid, may be recovered in action brought to recover interest only. And the said township treasurers are hereby empowered to bring appropriate actions, in the name of the board of trustees, for the recovery of the half-yearly interest, when due and unpaid, without suing for the principal, in whatever form secured, and justices of the peace shall have jurisdiction in such cases of all sums under one hundred dollars.

SEC. LIX. All suits brought, or actions instituted under the provisions of this act, may be brought in the name of the "Board of trustees of township _____, range _____," except as is provided for action qui tam in this act, or in favor of school commissioners. The township treasurer shall demand, receive and safely keep, according to law, all moneys, books and papers of every description, belonging to his township. He shall keep the township fund loaned at interest; and if on the first Monday of April in any year, there shall be any interest or other funds on hand which shall not be required for distribution, such amount not required as aforesaid, shall forever be considered as principal in the funds to which it belongs, and loaned as such.

SEC. LX. On the first Mondays of April and October, of every year, the township treasurer shall lay before the board of trustees a statement, showing the amount of interest, rents, issues and profits that have accrued or become due since their last regular half-yearly meeting, on the township lands and township funds, and also the amount of State and county fund interest on hand. He shall also lay before the said trustees all books, notes, bonds, mortgages, and all other evidence of indebtedness belonging to the township, for the examination of the trustees, and shall make such other statement as the board may require, touching the duties of his office.

SEC. LXI. For any failure or refusal to perform all the duties required of township treasurer by law, he shall be liable to the board of trustees upon his bond, to be recovered by action of debt by said board, in their corporate name, for the use of the proper township, before any court having jurisdiction of the amount of damages claimed; but if said treasurer, in any such failure or refusal, acted under and in conformity to a requisition or order of said board, or a majority of them, entered upon their journal and subscribed by their president and clerk, then and in that case the members of said board aforesaid, or those of them voting for said requisition or order as aforesaid, and not the treasurer, shall be liable, jointly and severally, to the inhabitants of the township, to be recovered by action of assumpsit, in the official name of the school commissioner, for the use of the proper township.

SEC. LXII. When a township treasurer shall resign, or be removed, and at the expiration of his term of office, he shall pay over to his successor in office all money on hand, and deliver over all books, notes, bonds, mortgages, and all other securities for money, and all papers and documents of every description, in which the corporation may have any interest whatever; and in case of the death of the township treasurer, his securities and legal representatives shall be bound to comply with the requisitions of this section. And for any failure to comply with the requisitions of this section, he shall be liable to a penalty of not less than ten, nor more than one hundred dollars, at the discretion of the court before which judgment may be obtained; and the obtaining or payment of said judgment shall in nowise discharge or diminish the obligation of his official bond.

SEC. LXIII. All bonds, notes, mortgages, and other evidence of indebtedness, moneys and effects, in the hands of any school commissioner, trustee of schools, township treasurer, or other officer or person, and belonging to any county or township, and which have heretofore accrued, or may hereafter accrue from the sale of the sixteenth [section,] or of the common school lands of any township or county, or for the sale of any real estate or other property taken for any debt, or on any judgment, due to the principal of any county or township fund, and all surplus interest and other funds which have been or shall hereafter be carried to and made part of the principal of any township or county funds, by any law which has heretofore been or may hereafter be enacted, in the hand of any county, township, or other officer or person, and belonging to any county or township, and all sums arising from the loaning or reloading of the principal of any township or county fund, are hereby declared to be, and shall forever hereafter constitute the principal of the township or county fund, to whichever it may respectively belong, and no part thereof shall ever be distributed or expended for any purpose whatever, except the interest, rents and profits thereof, but shall be loaned out, and held to use, rent or profit, as herein, heretofore, or may hereafter be, provided by law.

SEC. LXIV. So much of the school moneys coming into the hands of the township treasurer, which has been or may be derived from the State tax. State fund, or common school fund of the State, or from any township tax funds levied for the purpose of continuing the terms of schools, after the State funds have been exhausted, as provided in section sixty-nine (69) hereof, shall be applied only to the payment of teachers, in the respective townships to which such fund belongs, and all be drawn from the treasury for no other purpose whatever; and all other school funds, paid into the township treasury, arising from taxation, or from other sources, and the interest of the township fund, not otherwise specifically directed to be applied by this act, shall be applied and expended, under the direction and at the discretion of the board of directors of the district to which such funds belong, in procuring school-house sites, and improving the same, in building, repairing and furnishing school-houses, in the payment of compensation to township treasurers, and other school purposes, as such board are authorized to make under the provisions of this act: Provided, however, That nothing herein shall be so construed as to prevent the application of said school funds to the payment of teachers, when necessary, in the opinion of said board, so to apply them, or any part thereof.

SEC. LXV. All moneys and school funds, liable to distribution, not being principal, paid into the township treasury, or coming into the hands of the township treasurer, shall be paid out only on the order of the proper board, signed by their president and clerk; and for all payments made, receipts shall be taken and filed; and in all such orders shall be stated the purpose for which or on what account drawn; and all such orders may be in the following form, to wit:

"The treasurer of township number —, range number —, in — county, will pay to — or bearer, — dollars and — cents, on his contract for repairing Sulphur Spring school-house, (or otherwise, as the case may be.)

By order of the board of — said township.
C. D., Clerk."

A. B., President.

Which, together with the receipt of the person to whom paid, shall be filed in the office of the township treasurer: Provided, however, The township treasurer may pay to any teacher his wages, on such teacher presenting a certificate of the amount due him, and an order for the same, by any two members of the board of directors, and on said teacher filing with said treasurer a true copy of his certificate of qualification, certified by the said two members to be such as is required by law; which certificate and order as aforesaid shall be appended to the aforesaid true copy of said teacher's qualification; which certificate and order may be in the following form, viz.:

"We, the undersigned directors of —, in township —, range number —, in the county of —, hereby certify the foregoing to be a true copy of A. B., teacher's certificate of qualification, and is such as is required by law, to qualify (him or her) to teach in the school which (he or she) has taught; and we further certify that the amount due said A. B. is — dollars and — cents, which amount the treasurer of said township is hereby required to pay.

Given under our hands — this — day of —, 18—.

A. B., }
C. D., } Directors.

To E. D., Township Treasurer, T.— R.—."

Which, on payment being made, the treasurer shall file in his office, together with said teacher's receipt for the amount paid. But no order shall be drawn, or paid, in favor of any teacher, until his or her schedule shall have been completed and filed, as provided in section forty-nine of this act, nor until he or she shall have complied with all his or her duties as prescribed by law.

SEC. LXVI. The common school fund of this State shall consist of such sum as will be produced by the annual levy and assessment of two mills upon each dollar's valuation of all the taxable property in the State, and there is hereby levied and assessed annually, in addition to the revenue for State purposes, the said two mills upon each dollar's valuation of all the taxable property in the State, to be collected and paid into the State treasury as other revenue is collected and paid; and the amount due from the State, according to a statement and settlement of the account between the State and that fund, under the provisions of an act entitled "An act to provide for the distribution and application of the interest on the school, college and seminary fund," approved on the seventh of February, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-five, and of all funds which have been or may be received by the State from the United States, for the use and support of common schools, and also of the money added to the common school fund which was received from the United States under an act of Congress providing for a distribution of the surplus revenue of the United States, and which was invested in bank stock, by authority of the State, and of the amount added to the school fund under an act requiring the three per cent. fund to be invested in State bonds: Provided, That in cases where heretofore, the State taxes have not been collected in any county, such county shall not be entitled to a distribution of the college, seminary and school fund, for the period of time that no such taxes have been collected, and that the portion of the fund aforesaid shall in such cases be distributed without regard to such county.

SEC. LXVII. The State shall pay an interest of six per cent. per annum upon the amount of the aforesaid common school fund, except on so much thereof as may be realized from the levy of the tax directed to be levied under the provisions of this act, which shall be paid annually, and applied to the support of common schools, as herein provided. The State shall also pay, as aforesaid, and at the same time, an interest of six per centum per annum upon the amount due the college and seminary fund; which interest shall be loaned to the common school fund, and known in this law and applied in all cases as interest on the common school fund as aforesaid.

SEC. LXVIII. On the first Monday in January, in each and every year next after taking the census of the State, the auditor of public accounts shall, under the supervision of the commissioners of the school fund of the State, ascertain the number of white children in each county in the State, under twenty-one years of age, and shall thereupon make a dividend to each county, of two-thirds the sum from the tax levied and collected under the provisions of the sixty-sixth section of this act; and the interest due on the school, college and seminary fund, in proportion to the number of white children in each county under the age aforesaid, and of the remaining one-third, in proportion to the number of townships and parts of townships in each county, and issue his warrant to the school commissioner of each county upon the collector thereof. And upon presentation of said warrant by the school commissioner to the collector of his county, said collector shall pay over to the school commissioner the amount of said warrant out of the first specie funds which may be collected by him, and not otherwise appropriated by law, taking said commissioner's receipt therefor; and on settlement with the auditor, said collector shall be credited with the amount specified in said receipt, in the same manner as if it had been paid into the treasury. Dividends shall be made as aforesaid, according to the proportions ascertained to be due to each county annually thereafter, until another census shall have been taken, and then dividends shall be made and continued as aforesaid, according to the last census: Provided, That if any collector shall fail or refuse to pay, in gold or silver, the amount of the aforesaid warrant, or any part thereof, by the first day of March, annually, or so soon thereafter as it may be presented, it shall be competent for the school commissioner to proceed against said collector and his securities, in an action of debt, in the county court; which court is hereby vested with full power and authority to hear and determine all such suits, render judgment and issue execution, or said suit may be brought in any court having jurisdiction; and the said collector shall pay twelve per centum, to be assessed as damages upon the amount due, and which shall be included in the judgment obtained against him.

SEC. LXIX. At each meeting in October, or at any subsequent meeting thereafter, before the first day of May, annually, each township board of trustees in this State shall determine, by estimate, as nearly as practicable, the entire amount of money necessary to be expended in the township, to keep in good condition and operation a sufficient number of free schools for the accommodation of all the children in said township during the ensuing year, over and above the available means arising from the township fund, or from other sources, and applicable to general school purposes, and also such additional amount as the board may think necessary for the exclusive purpose of supplying any deficiency in the fund for the payment of teachers, and for the purpose of extending the terms of schools after the State or common school fund shall have been exhausted; and shall determine, as nearly as practicable, what rate per cent. on the one hundred dollars' valuation of all the taxable property in the township, each of said amounts separately, will require to be levied; each of which rates so estimated and required to be levied, together with a list of the names of all the resident tax-payers of the township, the said board shall make known, by certificate in writing, signed by the president and clerk of the board, to the clerk of the county court of the county, on or before the first Monday of July next thereafter, in each year; which certificate may be in the following form, viz.:

"We, the undersigned, president and clerk of the board of trustees of township No. —, range No. —, in the county of —, and State of Illinois, do hereby certify that said board have estimated and required to be levied for the year 18—, the rate of —, for general school purposes, and the rate of —, for paying teachers and extending terms of schools, on each one hundred dollars' valuation of taxable property in said township.

Given under our hands, this — day of —, 18—.

A— B—, President.

C— D—, Clerk."

SEC. LXX. For the purpose of erecting school-houses, or purchasing school-house sites, or for the repairing and improving the same, for procuring furniture, fuel and district libraries, the board of directors of any district shall be authorized to have levied and collected a tax annually on all the property in their district, by furnishing a certificate similar to the one required by the provisions of this section, from trustees of schools.

SEC. LXXI. According to the rate or rates certified as aforesaid, the said county clerk, when making out the tax books for the collector, shall compute each taxable person's tax in said township, or that part of the township in the county, or in any district, taking as a basis the total amount of taxable property returned by the county assessor for that year, lying and being in said township, part of township or district, whether belonging to residents or non-residents, and also each and every tract of land assessed by the assessor, which lies, or the largest part of which lies, in said township or part of township or district. The said county clerk shall cause each person's tax so computed to be set upon the tax book, to be delivered to the county collector for that year, in a separate column, against each tax-payer's name, or parcel of taxable property, as it appears in said collector's books, to be collected in the same manner, and at the same time, as State and county taxes are collected. The computation of each person's tax, and the levy made by the clerk as aforesaid, shall be final and conclusive: Provided, The rate shall be uniform, and shall not exceed the rate certified by the township board of trustees or directors; and the said county clerk, before delivering the tax books to the collector, shall make out and deliver, on demand, to each township treasurer, or other authorized person, of the respective townships, or part of townships, in the county, a certificate of the amount due his township, of said tax so levied and placed upon the tax books; and on or before the first day of April next, after the delivery of the tax books containing the computation and levy of said taxes aforesaid, or so soon thereafter as the township treasurer, or other authorized person, shall present the said certificate of the amount of said tax, and make a demand therefor, the said county collector shall pay to said township treasurer, or other authorized person, the full amount of said tax, so certified by the county clerk, retaining from said amount only two per centum, as his fees for collection, taking of the township treasurer, or other authorized person, his receipt therefor, which receipt shall be evidence, as well in favor of the collector as against the township treasurer, or other authorized person for him; and said treasurer, or other authorized person for him, shall enter the same in separate accounts, in his cash book, distinguishing between that part of said account for general school purposes, and that for paying teachers and extending the terms of schools, and pay the same out as provided for by this act.

SEC. LXXII. If any collector shall fail to pay the amount of said tax, or any part thereof, as required in the aforesaid section, it shall be competent for the township treasurer, or other authorized person, to proceed against such collector and his securities in an action of debt in the county court; which court is hereby vested with full power and authority to hear and determine all such suits, render judgments and issue execution; or said suit may be brought in any other court having jurisdiction; and the said collector, so in default, shall pay twelve per centum upon the amount due, to be assessed as damages, which shall be included in the judgment rendered against him: Provided, No collector shall be liable for such part of said tax as he shall be able to make appear he could not have collected by law, until he may be able to so collect such amount.

SEC. LXXIII. When a township is or shall hereafter be situated in two or more counties, the certificate of the rate of taxation, required in the sixty-eighth (68) [section] of this act, shall be returned to the clerks of the county court of each of such counties, furnishing to each clerk the names of the resident tax-payers of that part of such township which lies in his county, and each of said clerks shall proceed in all respects, as regards the taxable residents and taxable property of that part of such township situated in his county, as required by the seventy-first section of this act, and for the purpose of enabling the trustees of townships or school directors, to make the estimate of taxes required as provided in section seventy-one, the county clerk of each county shall furnish to the clerk of each of said boards, the total amount of valuation of the taxable property of each township, part of township, or district respectively, as returned by the assessor of the previous year; and to enable the clerk of the county court to perform this duty for the first estimates of the boards, as aforesaid, the clerks of said boards, respectively, shall furnish to said county clerk a list of all the names of the resident tax payers of the previous year in said township or part of township or district, in the county, and thereafter said list of names shall be furnished as provided in section sixty-nine of this act. For the purpose of erecting school-houses, or purchasing school-house sites, or for repairing and improving the same, it shall be lawful for the board of directors of any district to borrow money at a rate of interest not exceeding ten per cent. per annum, and issue bonds therefor in sums not less than one hundred dollars; which bonds shall be executed by the president and clerk of said board: Provided, That the total indebtedness incurred by any district under this section, shall not at any time exceed one per centum of the assessed value of the real and personal property of said district.

SEC. LXXIV. School commissioners shall be allowed to retain, out of the township funds of the township for which the services may be rendered, three per cent. upon the amount of sales of school lands, and upon the real estate taken for debt, for their services in making such sales, including such other services connected therewith as are required by the provisions of this act, and two per cent. they may retain upon the amount of all sums distributed, paid or loaned out by them for the support of schools; and for visiting schools, they shall be allowed to retain two dollars per day, for any number of days not exceeding fifty during any year, which account shall be certified and sworn to by the commissioner of each county.

SEC. LXXV. Township treasurers shall be allowed to retain two per cent. upon all sums paid out, or loaned by them: Provided, however, The boards of trustees may reduce said compensation; and said boards shall, and it is hereby made their duty, to make a reasonable allowance to said treasurers for their services performed as clerks of said boards, to be paid out of the township funds. School commissioners, trustees of schools, school directors and all other school officers, shall be exempted from working on the roads, serving on juries and military duty.

SEC. LXXVI. If any school commissioner, trustee of schools, township treasurer, director, or any other person entrusted with the care, control, management or disposition of any school, college, seminary or township fund, for the use of any county, township, district or school, shall convert any such funds, or any portion thereof, to his own use, he shall be liable to indictment, and, upon conviction, shall be fined in not less than double the amount of money converted, and imprisoned in the county jail not less than one nor more than twelve months, at the discretion of the court.

SEC. LXXVII. Trustees of schools shall be liable, jointly and severally, for the sufficiency of securities taken from township treasurers; and in case of judgment against said treasurers and their securities, for or on account of any default of any such treasurer, on which the money shall not be made for want of sufficient property whereon to levy execution, actions on the case may be maintained against said trustees, jointly or severally, and the amount not collected on said judgment shall be recovered with costs: Provided, That if said trustees can show, satisfactorily, that the security taken from the treasurer, as aforesaid, was at the time of said taking, good and sufficient, they shall not be liable as aforesaid.

SEC. LXXVIII. The real estate of school commissioners, of township treasurers, and all other school officers, and of the securities of each of them, shall be bound for the satisfaction and payment of all claims and demands against said commissioners and treasurers, and other officers, as such, from the date of issuing process against them, in actions or suits brought to recover such claims or demands, until satisfaction thereof be obtained; and no sale or alienation of real estate by any commissioner, treasurer or other officer, or security aforesaid, shall defeat the lien created by this section, but all and singular such real estate held, owned or claimed as aforesaid, shall be liable to be sold in satisfaction of any judgment which may be obtained in such actions or suits.

SEC. LXXIX. Trustees of schools, school directors, or either of them, failing or refusing to make returns of children in their township or district, according to the provisions of this act, or if either of them shall knowingly make a false return, the party so offending shall be liable to a penalty of not less than ten dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, to be recovered by action of assumpsit, before any justice of the peace of the county, which penalty, when collected, shall be added to the township fund; and if any school commissioner, director or trustee, or either of them, or other officer whose duty it is, shall negligently or willfully fail or refuse to make, furnish or communicate the statistics and information, or shall fail to discharge the duties enjoined upon them or either of them, at the time and in the manner required by the provisions of sections eighteen and thirty-seven of this act, such delinquent or party offending, shall be liable to a fine of twenty-five dollars, to be recovered before any justice of the peace, on information in the name of the people of the State of Illinois, and when collected, shall be paid to the school commissioner of the proper county for the use of schools.

SEC. LXXX. School commissioners, trustees of schools, directors and township treasurers, or either of them, and any other officer having charge of school funds or property, shall be responsible for all losses sustained by any county, township or school fund, by reason of any failure on his or their part to perform the duties required of him or them by this act, or by any rule or regulation authorized to be made by this act; and each and every of the officers aforesaid shall be liable for any such loss sustained as aforesaid, and the amount thereof may be recovered, in a civil action, before any court having jurisdiction thereof, at the suit of the State of Illinois, for the use of the county, township or fund injured; and the amount, when collected, shall be paid to the proper officer, for the benefit of said county, township or fund injured.

SEC. LXXXI. No justice of the peace, probate justice, constable, clerk of any court, or sheriff, shall charge any costs, in any suit where any agent of any school fund, suing for the recovery of the same, or any interest due thereon, is plaintiff, and shall be, from any cause, unsuccessful in such suit. School commissioners appointed heretofore, shall continue in office until superseded according to the provisions of this act, and their duties, responsibilities and powers shall be governed by the provisions herein named. Trustees of school lands heretofore appointed, and trustees of schools heretofore elected, shall also continue to discharge the duties of their office until trustees of schools are elected under the provisions of this act. Townships heretofore incorporated shall, without any further action or proceeding, be considered as incorporated under the provisions of this act, and the trustees and other officers shall continue to discharge their duties till superseded by appointment or election under this law; and all school directors and officers heretofore appointed shall continue in office until superseded by the election as provided in this act, and shall be governed by the provisions of the laws heretofore in force, unless otherwise directed by this act. Leases of school lands shall remain valid and be executed according to the laws under which they were made. Common school lands valued and offered for sale and, remaining unsold shall be sold upon terms prescribed by this act. All taxes levied and contracts made under the laws hereby repealed, shall remain valid, and all rights, remedies, defenses, and causes of action existing, or which may hereafter exist or arise, under or by virtue of said repealed laws, shall continue and remain valid, and shall be enforced, notwithstanding the repeal of said laws, unless canceled according to the provisions of this act.

SEC. LXXXII. This act shall not be so construed as to repeal or change, in any respect, any special acts in relation to schools, in cities or incorporated towns, except that it shall be the duty of the several boards of education, or other officers, of any city or incorporated town, having in charge schools under the provisions of any of the said special acts, or of any ordinance of any city or incorporated town, on or before the second Monday of October preceding each regular session of the General Assembly of this State, or annually, if required so to do by the State superintendent, to make out and render a statement of all such statistics and other information in regard to schools, and the enumeration of children, or white persons, as are required to be communicated by township boards of trustees or directors, under the provisions of the thirty-seventh (37) section of this act, or so much thereof as may be applicable to said city or incorporated town, to the school commissioner of the county where such city or incorporated town is situated, or of the county in which the larger part of such city or town is situated; nor shall it be lawful for the county school commissioner, or any other officer or person, to pay over any portion of the common school fund, to any local treasurer, school agent, clerk, board of education, or other officer, or person, of any township, city, or incorporated town, unless a report of the number of children, or white persons, and other statistics relative to schools, and a statement of such other information as is required of the boards of trustees or directors as aforesaid, and of other school officers and teachers under the provisions of this act, shall have been filed, at the time or times aforesaid, specified in this section, with the school commissioner of the proper county as aforesaid.

SEC. LXXXIII. In townships in which there shall be persons of color, the board of education shall allow such persons a portion of the school fund, equal to the amount of taxes collected for school purposes from such persons of color in their respective townships.

SEC. LXXXIV. Section number sixteen in every township granted to the State by the United States for the use of schools, and such sections and parts of sections as have been or may be granted as aforesaid, in lieu of all or part of section number sixteen, and also of the lands which have been or may be selected and granted as aforesaid, for the use of schools, to the inhabitants of fractional townships in which there is no section number sixteen, or where such section shall not contain the proper proportion for the use of schools in such fractional township, shall be held as common school lands; and the provisions of this act referring to common school lands shall be deemed to apply to the lands aforesaid.

SEC. LXXXV. All the business of such townships, so far as relates to common school lands, shall be transacted in that county which contains all or a greater portion of said lands. If any person shall, without being duly authorized, cut, fell, box, bore, destroy or carry away any tree, sapling or log standing or being upon any school lands, such person shall forfeit and pay for every tree, sapling or log so felled, boxed, bored, destroyed or carried away, the sum of eight dollars; which penalty shall be recovered, with costs of suit, by an action of debt or assumpsit, before any justice of the peace having jurisdiction of the amount claimed, or in the county or circuit court, either in the corporate name of the board of trustees of the township to which the land belongs, or by action of qui tam, in the name of any person who will first sue for the same; one half for the use of the
